mon wealth, which is to determine controuerſies according to the law, and ỹ true meaning thereof: where in queſtion of the ſenſe of the law, the lawe makers mind is to be diſcuſſed by his wordes, and the circumſtances and occaſions of making the law. So the meaning of the ſcriptures, is to be taken onely out of the ſcriptures, ſo ſayth Clemens: You ought not to ſeeke a ſtrange and foren ſenſe without the ſcriptures, that you may confirme it by any meanes by the ſcriptures: but the ſenſe of trueth you muſt take out of the ſcriptures themſelues Diſt. 37. cap. Relatum. And that this is not ſo hard a matter to doe, S. Auguſtine teſtifieth, who ſayth, that nothing is almoſt gathered out of any obſcure places of ſcripture, which is not found in other places to be vttered moſt plainely. And therefore the ſcripture hath auctoritie to determine all controuerſies of religion, though not ſpeaking as men vpon ỹ bench (for which cauſe ſome of you haue blaſphemed the ſcriptures to be a dumbe iudge) yet the ſcripture ſpeaketh ſufficiently, to enforme the conſcience of euery man, that is deſirous to heare the trueth, and ſeeke the reſolution thereof out of the ſcriptures. Wherefore S. Paul doubteth not to ſay, when he had cited many teſtimonies of ſcripture, we know that what things the law ſayth, it ſpeaketh to them that are vnder the lawe, Rom 3. 19. The ſcriptures therefore in their kind, are capable of ſpeach, and ſo of iudgement and iudiciall power: and the trueth and determination thereof, are as euident and particuler, as is neceſſarie for any times or perſons, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle. The whole ſcripture inſpired of God, is profitable to teach, to reproue, to exhort, to rebuke, that the man of God may be perfect and prepared to all good workes. 2. Tim. 3. 16. yet the miniſterie of man is neceſſarie by Gods ordinance, not of auctoritie aboue the ſcriptures, but ſubiect vnto them. The controuerſie therefore is not like as you make it, in a caſe of lawe, whether the iudge or the euidence be of greater auctoritie: but whether the iudge or the law be of greater auctoritie. Where euery wiſe man will graunt that the law is of greater auctoritie, where vnto the iudge is to obey, and according to which to giue his ſentence, or els by the lawe his erroneous ſentence is to be reuerſed. With ſuch proud hypocrites haue we to doe, as will be iudges of the ſcriptures themſelues, and not ſubmit their iudgement to be tryed by the ſcriptures, whom no wiſe common wealth would tolerate, both becauſe they arrogate iudgement without commiſſion, and though they giue ſentence againſt all iuſtice, yet by no law they will haue their iudgement to be examined.

Rhem. 5. 6. Added nothing.) The Goſpel and preaching of S. Paul was wholy of God, and therefore though it were put to the Churches probation, as gold is to the touch-ſtone: yet being found in all points pure, nothing could be altered or amended therein by the Apoſtles. Euen ſo the Scriptures which are indede wholy of the Holy Ghoſts enditing, being put to the Churches triall, are found, proued, and teſtified vnto the world to be ſuch, and not made true, altered, or amended by the ſame. Without which atteſtation of the Church, the holy Scriptures in them ſelues were alwayes true before: but not ſo knowen to be, to all Chriſtians, nor they ſo bound to take them. And that is the meaning of the famous ſentence of S. Auguſtine cont. epiſt. fund. c. 5. which troubleth the heretikes ſo much. I woulde not beleeue the Goſpel (ſaith he) vnleſſe the auctoritie of the Church moued me.

The Scriptures alwayes true in them ſelues, are to knowen to be by the Church.

Fulke. 5. The Goſpel and preaching of Paul, was not put to ỹ Churches probation (as you ſurmiſe) but if it had been, this verſe proueth plainely, that the Church added no auctoritie to his Goſpel and preaching. No more doth it to the ſcriptures, which it receiueth & acknowledgeth to be true. And although the auctoritie of ỹ Church doe moue men, which neuer heard of ỹ ſcriptures, to giue credite vnto them: yet are men bound to take them for trueth, although the Church did not moue them, nor teſtifie of the ſcriptures, that they are the trueth. For men are bound to beleeue the word of God, becauſe it is the worde of God, and not becauſe it is approued of men to be the word of God. As Adam, Noe, and Abraham did beleeue the worde of God, and were bound to beleeue it, when there was no Church that could moue them to it. The Apoſtles beleeued the Goſpel of our Sauiour Chriſt, before he wrought any miracle, becauſe it was teſtified by the ſcriptures, Ioh. 1. 45. And Chriſt himſelfe preached, ſaying: Repent and beleeue the Goſpel, whē there was no Church, whoſe auctoritie could make men to beleeue: yet were the Apoſtles bound to beleeue in Chriſt, and the Iewes to beleeue the Goſpel, becauſe it was the word of God. The ſcriptures therefore being the word of God, are of full and ſufficient auctoritie of themſelues, and the ſpirit of God which ſpeaketh in them, is of ſufficient auctoritie to procure credite vnto them, euen without the teſtimonie of men, and doth procure the Church it ſelfe to acknowledge them to be the true and vndoubted word of God. And as the whole Church is bound to beleeue them, for the ſpirit of trueth that ſpeaketh in them, ſo is euery particuler perſon and people bound to beleeue them, and take them for ỹ trueth, although they neuer heard ỹ the Church doth approue them. Neuertheleſſe, the teſtimonie of the Church in reſpect of mens infirmitie of iudgement, is requiſite to induce men to giue credit to ỹ ſcriptures, & is a good confirmation of mens faith, not as ỹ auctoritie of men, but as ỹ auctoritie of Gods ſpirit in men, conſenting vnto ỹ trueth, & framing ỹ obediēce of men vnto ỹ trueth. Therefore ỹ ſaying of S. Auguſtine maketh nothing againſt vs, nor troubleth vs one whit. For firſt Auguſtine ſpeaketh not of himſelfe, at ſuch time as he was a Chriſtian, but putting ỹ caſe he were an infidel yet to be conuerted: as it is plain both by ỹ words going immediatly before, and by the whole diſcourſe. Secondly he ſayth not, vnles the auctoritie of ỹ Church moued me, as though nothing els ſhould moue him, but the Churches auctoritie: for his word is not Moueret, but Commoueret. But his ſaying is to this effect. I for my part would not beleeue the Goſpel, vnleſſe the auctoritie of the Church, with other things did moue me, or did alſo moue me. But when the queſtion was betweene him and the Donatiſtes, where ỹ Church was, on his ſide or on theirs, then he ſeeth not to that vnlearned petition of principle, (which yet is the whole bulwarke of papiſtrie) that the Catholike Church was on his ſide, but requireth the matter to be diſcuſſed, by the auctoritie of ỹ ſcriptures. Let vs not heare (ſayth he) this ſay I, and this ſayeſt thou, but let vs heare, Thus ſaith the Lord. There are the brokes of the Lord, vnto whoſe auctoritie we do both conſent, both beleeue, both ſerue. There let vs ſeeke the Church, there let vs diſcuſſe our cauſe. De vnitate Ec. cap. 3. and in the ſame chapter. I will not haue the holy Church to be demonſtrated or ſhewed forth by humane documents, but by diuine oracles. Againe, Therefore let vs ſeeke her in the holy Scriptures.

Auctoritie of the Scriptures.

Rhem. 6. 7. To Peter of the circumciſion.) We may not thinke, as the Heretikes deceitfully teache, that the charge of the Apoſtles was ſo diſtincted, that none could preach or exerciſe iuriſdiction, but in thoſe ſeuerall places or towards thoſe peoples or prouinces onely, whereunto by Gods appointment or their owne lot or election, they were ſpecially deſigned. For, euery Apoſtle might by Chriſtes commiſſion (Mat. 28. Goe, and teach al nations) vſe all ſpirituall function through the whole worlde.

The Apoſtles commiſſion general through the world, and yet peculiar to certaine prouinces.

yet for the more particular regard and care of prouinces, and for peace and order sake, some were appointed to one countrie, and some to another: as, of the other Apostles, we see in the Ecclesiastical histories, and for S. Peter and S. Paul, it is plaine by this place and other, that to them as to the two cheefe and most renowmed Apostles, the Church of all nations was giuen, as deuided into two parties, that is, Iewes and Gentiles, the first and principall being S. Peters lot, that herein also he might resemble our Sauiour, who was sent namely *to the lost sheepe of Israel, and was properly * the minister of the circumcision: the second being S. Pauls, whom Christ chose specially to preach to the Gentiles: Not so for all that, that either he was limited to the Gentiles onely, (whom the Actes of the Apostles report in euery place, first to haue entred into the Synagogues and preached Christ to the Iewes, as he wrote also to the Hebrues, and euer had speciall regarde and honour to them,) or Peter so bound to the Iewes onely, that he could not meddle with the Gentiles: seeing he was * the man chosen of God, by whom the Gentiles should first beleeue, who first baptized them, and first gaue order concerning them. Therefore the treacherie of Caluin is intolerable, that vpon this distinction of the Apostles charge, would haue the simple suppose, that S. Peter could not be Bishop of Rome (so might he barre S. Iohn from Ephesus also) nor deale among the Gentiles, as a thing against Gods ordinance and the appointment betweene him and S. Paul: as though thereby the one had bound him selfe to the other, not to preach or meddle within his fellowes compasse. And which is further most seditious, he exhorteth all men to keepe fast the foresaid compact, and rather to haue respect to S. Pauls Apostleship, then to S. Peters: as though the preaching, authoritie, and Apostleship of both were not alike true, and all of one holy Spirit, whether they preached to Iewes or Gentiles, as both did preach vnto both peoples, as is already proued, and at length, partly by the dayly decay of the Iewish state and their incredulitie, and partly for that in Christianitie the distinction of Iewe and Gentile ceased after a season: both went to the chiefe citie of the Gentiles, and there founded the Church common to the Hebrues and all nations, Peter first, and Paul afterward. And therefore Tertullian saith, de præscript nu. 14. O happie Church, to which ỹ Apostles powred out all doctrine with their blood. Where Peter suffereth like to our Lords passion, where Paul is crowned with Iohn (Baptists) death.

Iewes & Gentiles specially committed to the two principal Apostles. Mat. 15. Rom. 15. Neither Peter onely of the Iewes, nor Paul Apostle of the Gentiles onely. Caluins foolish reason ỹ Peter was not B. of Rome and his derogation frõ Peters Apostlesthip. The Church founded at Rome by S. Peter and S. Paul.

Act. 10. & 11. 2. Caluin. 4. c. 6. sect. 15. Instit.

Fulke. 6. First you slander vs (as you doe commonly) to teach that the Apostles charge was so distinct, that none couldc preach &c. but in their seuerall places, which by Gods appointment or their lot, for more particuler regard of peace and orders sake, were limited to euery one. For contrariwyse we teach, that euery one of the Apostles had as large and generall auctoritie as the other, and that any of the Apostles by their commission, might lawfully haue preached and exercised his Apostleship and iurisdiction at Rome, as well as Peter and Paul. But after this distinction was made by God for causes before mentioned, it was not lawfull for the Apostles to leaue or forsake their speciall charges, and to intrude themselues one into an others limites, which would haue bredde the contrary enormities to those causes, for which their charges were distincted: namely, neglect of some prouinces, dissension, and confusion. Therefore it was not lawfull for Peter, to whom by God was committed the chiefe Apostlesthip of the circumcision, to forsake this charge, and to take vpon him the chiefe Apostlesthip of the Gentiles. And certeine it is, that Peter did neuer consent to breake that order, which was here taken by him and the rest of the Apostles, and Paul. Therefore though he came to Rome, and preached at Rome, and dyed at Rome: yet was he the chiefe Apostle of the circumcition still, and Paul the chiefe Apostle of the vncircumcision or Gentiles. And therefore the Pope might more probably haue conueyed his title of supremacie from Paul, then from Peter. And although the papistes woulde nowe seeme craftely to deriue his auctoritie from both, yet holding their owne principles, that is vnpossible. For if Peter were not chiefe Apostle of the Church of the Gentiles (as the text is plaine that he was not) his successor, admitting he had Peters whole auctoritie, (which none that is a wise man will graunt) cannot haue chiefe auctoritie ouer the Church of the Gentiles, because Paul was beheaded at Rome. For if there must be but one head, and that was Peter, (as the papistes affirme) then can the Pope deriue none auctoritie from Paul. But let vs see howe cleanly you can conuey the matter. First you say, it is plaine by this place, that to S. Peter and S. Paul, as to the two cheefe and most renowmed Apostles, the Church of all nations, that is, of the Iewes and Gentiles was giuen. I will not stand vpon your termes, for in trueth the Apostles were rather giuen to the Churches, then the Churches to them, Eph. 4. You speake of them as though they were two great benefices, or Bishoprickes. But we agree (which perhaps is your meaning) that they were made chiefe Apostles, the one ouer the Church of the Iewes, the other ouer the Church of the Gentiles. Secondly you say, the first and principal was S. Peters lot: we graunt this also in principalitie, and preeminence of order. Prouided alwayes, that Christ is as properly the light and saluation of ỹ Gentiles, as he is the glory of his people Israel, and that he was the minister of circumcision for the trueth of God, to confirme the promises of the fathers, that the Gentiles might glorifie God for his mercie &c. And therefore S. Pauls lot (the prerogatiue of eldership excepted) was no lesse, but much more glorious then S. Peters. But he was not so limited to the Gentiles onely, but that he might preach to the Iewes also, and so might Peter to the Gentiles, as eyther did. Whether S. Paul did write to the Hebrues, diuerse old Doctors doubt: and whether S. Peter was the first ỹ preached to the Gentiles, I haue somewhat said vpon Act. 15. Certaine it is, ỹ Paul at his first cõuersion, was sent immediatly to the Gentiles Act. 26. 17. Gal. 1. 6. Yet this distinction remaineth firme, Peter was chiefe of the Church of the Iewes, and Paul was chiefe of ỹ Church of ỹ Gentiles. And therefore it is no treacherie, but a necessarie conclusiõ of Caluine, ỹ Peter could not be chiefe of the Church of ỹ Gentiles, except he went against Gods ordinance, & the appointment made betweene him & Paul. That he might not preache at Rome, nor deale among ỹ Gentiles, Caluin doth not say, but ỹ he might not so deale among ỹ Gentiles, or occupy any such seate at Rome, whereby he should take vpõ him to be ỹ chiefe Apostle of the Gentiles, which prerogatiue by Gods ordinance, & his owne appointment, was decreed vnto Paul. You say, So he might barre S. Iohn from Ephesus also. I answere, what place so euer S. Iohn had at Ephesus, as I doubt not but he had an higher place, then the Bishop of that Church: so I will be bold vpon the auctoritie of this text to affirme, that he was neither aboue Peter in Apostleship of the circumcision, nor aboue Paul in the Apostleship of the Gentiles. But it is perilous sedition in Caluine, to exhort all men to keepe fast the foresaid compact. Why so I pray you, was it not grounded vpon the ordinance of the holy Ghost? and testified vnto vs in the scriptures? Is it sedition to keepe the ordinance of ỹ holy Ghost? Or cannot your Popedome stand vnles this cõpact decreed by ỹ holy ghost be brokẽ? No verily, therfore you crie seditiõ as Athalia, whẽ she was to be deposed frõ her vsurped tyranny, cried treasõ, sedition. But it is belike a worse matter, ỹ Caluin exhorteth al men rather to haue respect to S. Pauls Apoſtleſhip, then to S. Peters, as though the preaching auctoritie and Apoſtleſhip of both were not alike true, and all of one holy ſpirit, whether they preached to Iewes or Gentiles. In deede if Caluine ſhould make a difference of trueth or ſpirit in the Apoſtles preaching, and the auctoritie of their doctrine, you might worthily charge him with more then ſedition, euen with hereſie & blaſphemie. But theſe be his wordes, by which he ſhall cleere himſelfe of all crimes, and make his impudent accuſers, if not aſhamed, yet worthy to be baffulled of al honeſt mindes, that loue trueth and plaine dealing. I doe not greatly regard whether Peter were Biſhop of Rome, ſeeing Paul doth teſtifie, that the Apoſtleſhip of Peter doth pertayne peculiarly vnto the Iewes, and that his Apoſtleſhip pertayneth to vs. Therefore that this ſocietie which they betweene themſelues couenanted, may be ratified with vs, yea rather that the ordinance of the holy Ghoſt may be conſted ferme with vs: it is conuenient that we ſhould haue reſpect to the Apoſtleſhip of Paul rather then of Peter: for ſo the holy Ghoſt diuided the Prouinces betweene them, that he appointed Peter to the Iewes, and Paul to vs. Now therefore let the Papiſtes ſeeke their primacie els where, then in the word of God, where it is not found to be graunted. By theſe wordes it is manifeſt, that Caluine maketh no difference betweene the trueth of the Apoſtles doctrine, or the auctoritie of the holy ſpirite, by which they preached both to Iewes and Gentiles, but wil haue vs that are Gentiles to keepe ſtedfaſt the difference of primacie, and diſtinction of prouinces, which the holy Ghoſt hath made, and to acknowledge Paul to be the chiefe Apoſtle of the Gentiles, and not Peter. Seeing therefore it is certeyne, that Paul was once the chiefe Apoſtle of the Gentiles by Gods appointment, Peter had not chiefe auctoritie ouer all the Church by Chriſtes ſaying: Thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will build my Church &c. But let vs ſee how you will conueie this primacie ouer the Church of the Gentiles from Paul to Peter. Firſt, you are not able to ſhew, that Paul was by the holy Ghoſt depriued of it, by whom he was inueſted in it. Secondly, you cannot ſhew that he did voluntarily reſigne it, and yet if you could, his reſignation were not yet good in lawe, except it were approued by Chriſt, of whom he had his inſtitution in it. Let vs ſee then what poore euidence you haue to bring it from Paul to Peter. You ſay, partly by the daily decay of the Iewiſh ſtate, and their incredulitie, and partly for that in Chriſtianitie the diſtinction of Iewe and Gentile ceaſed after a ſeaſon, they went both to the chiefe citie of the Gentiles, and there founded the Church common to the Hebrewes, and all nations. Firſt, this decay of the Iewiſh ſtate, was not ſo long as Peter and Paul liued together, and ſpecially it was not before Paul came to Rome: for at ſuch time as Paul was apprehended at Ieruſalem, from whence he was ſhortly after caryed to Rome, the Iewiſh ſtate was not decayed, as is manifeſt by the words of Iames to Paul, Act. 21.20. Thou ſeeſt (brother) how many ten thouſands there are of the Iewes that haue beleeued, & are all zealous of the lawe. This text doth alſo proue, that the diſtinction of Iewes and Gentiles did not ceaſe at the ſame time, therefore there is no reaſon why Peter in that reſpect, ſhould found a Church common to both the Churches at Rome. Therefore theſe cauſes of S. Peters forſaking his charge and Apoſtleſhip ouer ỹ Iewes, are falſe and forged, and ſo much the more apparantly, in that you confeſſe, that Peter founded the Church at Rome before Paul. And if the ſtories be true that write of his firſt comming, and ſitting there 25. yeeres: he founded the Church there, before this ordinance and compact was made, therefore vpon no ſuch pretenſed cauſe. And yet if all the Iewes had been dead, or reuolted from Chriſtian religion, it was not lawfull for him being left of the one Church, to vſurpe primacie in the Church of the Gentiles, which was committed to an other, except you could ſhewe by what newe commiſſion he was tranſlated into that primacie, and Paul deprined of it. The Church of Rome in deede was happy, that both the Apoſtles powred out their whole doctrine there, & confirmed the ſame with their blood: ſo was it happy that Iohn preached there in the dayes of Domitian, when they both were dead, yet thereby the Citie of Rome gayned not the ſupreme auctoritie ouer the Church, as the Emperour had ouer the world. And no man that is not mad will graunt, that S. Iohn being at Rome after that Peter was dead, was vnder the iuriſdiction of Linus, Clemens, Cletus or Anacletus, or whoſoeuer was Biſhop there in that time, for the ſtories doe not agree: but Iohn continued his Apoſtleſhip, and the auctoritie thereof ſo long as he liued, which was greater then any Biſhop that ſucceeded the Apoſtles, as it is plaine by the order of dignitie and degrees of the Church, ſet downe by the Apoſtle S. Paul 1. Cor. 12.28. Where as by your vaine ſuppoſition of the Popes ſupremacie, Clemens, or ſome other Biſhop of Rome after S. Peter, was ſuperiour vnto S. Iohn. And as that aſſe, which counterfeited the Epiſtles of Clemens to Iames the Apoſtle ſuppoſeth, giuing him charge alſo of ſuch weightie matters, namely of ſhaking the clothes of the Lordes table, out of the holy veſtrie, and of keeping the Sacrament from myſe doung, and rottenneſſe Epi. 2. ad Iacob. that euery wiſe man which readeth him, may thinke the auctor of the Epiſtle, was more worthy to haue his eares nayled to the pillorie, then to take vpon him to teach one of the three pillars of the Church, who had learned of Chriſt himſelfe, and had ſo long gouerned the Church of Ieruſalem before Clemens was a Chriſtian. Finally, Rome was not the chiefe citie of the Chriſtian Gētiles by Gods election, as Ieruſalem was of the Iewes, but by tyrannie and vniuſt oppreſſion of other nations, as Babylon was ſometimes in the Eaſt. Rome.

Peters prerogatiue.

Rhem. 7. 9. Gaue the right hands of ſocietie.) There is and alwayes ought to be a common fellowſhip and fraternitie of al Paſtors and Preachers of the Church. Into which ſocietie whoſoeuer entreth not, but ſtandeth in Schiſme and ſeparation from Peter and the cheefe Apoſtolike Paſtors, what pretenſe ſo euer he hath, or whereſo euer he chalengeth auctoritie, hee is a Wolfe, and no true Paſtor. Which vnion and communion together was ſo neceſſarie euen in S. Pauls caſe, that notwithſtanding his ſpeciall calling of God, yet the Holy Ghoſt cauſed him to goe vp to his elder Apoſtles, to bee receiued into their fellowſhip or brotherhode. for it is to be noted, that S S. Peter, Iames, and Iohn were not ſent to S. Paul, to ioyne with him or to be tryed for their doctrine and calling, by him: but contrariwiſe he was ſent to them as to the cheefe and knowen ordinarie Apoſtles. They therefore gaue Paul their handes, that is to ſay, tooke him into their ſocietie, and not he them. And S. Hieromes rule concerning this, ſhall be found true to the worldes ende, ſpeaking of S. Peter ſucceſſor: He that gathereth not with thee, ſcattereth. Epiſt. 57. And in an other place for the ſame cauſe he calleth Rome, auriſſimum Communionis portum, the moſt ſafe and ſure hauen of communion or ſocietie. Ep. 16. cap. 3. And whereas the hereſikes by this alſo would proue that Peter had no preeminence aboue Paul being his fellow Apoſtle, it is ridiculous. As though all of one fellowſhip or brotherhod be alwayes equall, or as though there were not order and gouernement, ſuperioritie and inferioritie, in euery ſocietie well appointed. And they might perceiue by this whole paſſage, that Peter was the ſpeciall and in more ſingular ſort, the Apoſtle of the Iewes, though Iames and Iohn were alſo: as S. Paul

All Catholike preachers and Paſtors muſt commonicate with Peter and his ſucceſſors.

The Hereſikes ridiculous argumentagainſt Peters preeminence.

S.Paul is alſo cal̃ed in more ſingular ſort the Apoſtle and doctor of the Gentiles then S.Barnabas, and yet they were both alike taken here into this ſocietie, as they were both at once and alike ſegregated into this miniſterie, and ordered together Act. 13. It is a poore reaſon then to ſay or thinke, S.Peter not to be aboue S.Barnabas neither, becauſe of this ſocietie and fellowſhip vnto which he was receiued together with S.Paul.

Fulke 7. All Catholike paſtors muſt communicate not onely with Peter, but alſo with euery one of the true Apoſtles of Chriſt in all neceſſarie points of faith and doctrine, or els they be no ſhepheards but wolues. They muſt alſo communicate with all the lawfull ſucceſſors of the Apoſtles, as well as with Peters ſucceſſours: Succeſſors I meane in faith and doctrine, not in place onely. And in this vnion and communion was S.Paul 17. yeeres (as Hierom noted) before hee came vp at this time to Hieruſalem, vnleſſe you wil ſay he was all that 17. yeeres no Paſtor but a wolfe. He came not therefore now firſt to be ioyned vnto them, not to be tried for his doctrine and calling, but by this brotherly meeting to ſtoppe the mouthes of ſlanderers, & to confirme the faith of the weake in his doctrine, that it was agreeable to the doctrine of all the Apoſtles. That S.Paul was ſent to them, and not they to him, it was both in reſpect of their Senioritie, and for that they were the greater nomber there remayning at that time at Hieruſalem, not that they were his ſuperiors, or better knowen to the Gentiles to be ordinary Apoſtles. And the giuing of handes of fellowſhip, was a mutual acceptation of the one and the other, and no ſigne of ſuperioritie in them aboue Paul. Neither was this the firſt time that they tooke him into their fellowſhip, but long before, namely when he came firſt to Hieruſalem, Acts 9. 27. And in the contents of that Chapter you confeſſe as much your ſelues, which now it ſeemeth you haue forgotten. S.Hieroms rule is not of euery one that ſitteth in Peters Chaire, which is not a ſucceſſour of S.Peters doctrine. For S.Hierom (as I haue often ſaid) would not haue gathered with Liberius, whom he confeſſeth to haue ſubſcribed to hereſie, nor with Marcellinus ſacrificing to idoles, nor with Honorius condemned for hereſie in the Councel of Conſtantinople the 6. nor with other heretical biſhops of Rome. Neither doth he for that cauſe call Rome the moſt ſure hauen of Communion, abſolutely, but ſaith, That certaine Prieſts of Alexandria, and their Pope or biſhop Athanaſius, and on: Peter declining the perſecution of the Arian hereſie, fled to Rome as vnto the moſt ſure hauen of their Cõmunion. Becauſe in no Church (with whom they had fellowſhip) they could be ſo ſafe from the perſecution of the Arians at that time, as at Rome, while Rome was vnder Conſtans a Catholike Emperour, and Iulius a Catholike biſhop gouerned the Church there. But ſoone after when Conſtantius obteined the Empire of the Citie of Rome, and Liberius by him was firſt baniſhed and after reſtored, and Felix baniſhed at that time (as Damaſus writeth) There was exceeding great perſecution of the Clergie at Rome, ſo that many Prieſtes and Clearkes were ſlaine within the Church, and that for ſixe yeeres while Liberius reigned with the Arians, there could no Catholike Prieſt or Clearke be ſuffered to enter either into the Church, or into the common Bathes. If Athanaſius at that time had come to Rome, hee ſhould not haue found ſo ſure an hauen there, as he did before. For neither was Rome then of his communion, when the Emperour, the Biſhop, and ſuch as occupied the place of the Cleargie were Arians, neither was any place of his communion (for that ſeaſon) a more dangerous rocke to his ſafetie and the reſt that were with him, then Rome. Therefore this ſaying of Hierom is both falſly and vnlearnedly peruerted from his true meaning, to ſet vp your Idole of Rome. But you nore a ridiculous argument of the heretikes, that would proue Peter to haue no preeminence aboue Paul, being his fellow Apoſtle. You would be glad we had none other Arguments: although we doe not argue of the fellowſhip onely, which yet argueth an equalitie in auctoritie, though there were other preeminences of Peter and of Paul: yet had Peter no auctoritie ouer Paul, nor Paul ouer Peter. No nor ouer Barnabas, for then he would haue ouer ruled him in the caſe of their contention, that made them to part companie, Act. 15. And Barnabas would haue obeyed. But all Primacie and preeminence doth not argue ſuperioritie in power and auctoritie. And Chryſoſtome vpon this place ſaith, Now he hath ſhewed himſelfe equal in honour with the reſt, he compareth not himſelfe with the reſt, but with the higheſt, declaring that eche of them had obteined equall dignitie. S.Ambroſe ſaith, He nameth onely Peter, and compareth him with himſelfe, becauſe Peter receiued the Primacie to found the Church, and he alſo in equall maner or meaſure was elected to haue the primacie, in founding the Churches of the Gentiles, yet ſo, that Peter might preach to the Gentiles if cauſe were, and Paul to the Iewes. For it is found that eche did both, but yet full auctoritie is knowen to be giuen to Peter in preaching among the Iewes, and the auctoritie of Paul is founde perfect in preaching among the Gentiles, whereupon in faith and truth he calleth himſelfe the Maſter of the Gentiles. And after a few wordes vpon the very words of this verſe, he ſaith, He ſaith that the gift which he receiued of God, to be worthy to haue the primacie in preaching to the Gentiles, as Peter had in preaching to the Circumciſion, was approued euen by thoſe Apoſtles) which were moſt enoble among the reſt, whom for their ſtedfaſtneſs he calleth Pillars, which were alwayes with our Lord in ſecret matters, and were worthy to ſee his glory in the Mount. And as he giueth fellowes to Peter, (notable men among the Apoſtles, ſo alſo he aduoweth Barnabas to himſelfe, which by diuine iudgement was ioyned to him, yet he challengeth the grace of primacie graunted by God to himſelfe alone, like as it was graunted to Peter alone among the Apoſtles, ſo that the Apoſtles of the Circumciſion did giue the right hands to the Apoſtles of the Gentiles, to declare the concord of their ſocietie, that either of both knowing that they had obteined the ſpirit of perfection of the Lorde in diſpenſation of the Goſpell, might ſhew that in nothing they had neede the one of the other. Oecumenius vpon this place ſaith, Conſider now how he maketh himſelfe equall to Peter, for this was neeſfull, that he might be thought worthy of credite among the Galathians. Primaſius ſaith in the perſon of Paul, Neuilli, &c. I am not inferiour to him, for we are both ordeined of one into one Miniſtery, that I ſhould preach to the Gentiles, as Peter to the Iewes. Theſe ancient fathers teſtifie for vs, of the equalitie of the two principal Apoſtles Peter and Paul.

Peters preeminence.

Rhem. 8. 11. I reſiſted him.) Wicked Porphyrie (as Hierom writeth) charged S.Paul of enuie and malepart boldnes, and S. Peter of errour. Præm. Comment. in Galat. Euen ſo the like impious ſonnes of Cham, for this, and for other things, gladly charge S.Peter, as though he had committed the greateſt crimes in the world, for it is the propertie of Heretikes and ill men, to be glad to ſee the Saincts reprehended and their faultes diſcouered, as we may learne in the writings of S.Auguſtine againſt Fauſtus the Manichee, who gathered out all the actes of the holy Patriarches, that might ſeeme to the people to be worthy of blame. Whom the ſaid holy Doctor defendeth at large againſt him as both he, & before him S.Cyprian, finde here vpon this Apoſtles reprehenſion, much matter of praiſing both their vertues: S.Paules great Zeale, and S.Peters wonderful humilitie: that the one one in the cauſe of God would not ſpare his Superior, and that the other, in that excellent dignitie, would not take it in il part, not by allegation of his Supremacie diſdaine or refuſe to be cõtrouled by his iunior, which of the two they count the greater grace and more to be imitated. For neither Peter (ſaith S. Cyprian) whom our Lord choſe the firſt and vpon whom he built the Church, when Paul diſputed with him of circumciſion, chalenged inſolently or arrogantly tooke any thing to him ſelf, ſaying that he had the Primacie, and therfore the later Diſciples ought rather to obey him. ep. 71. ad Quintum. 2. And S. Auguſtine ep. 19. 1. 2. in fine. That (ſaith he) which was done of Paul profitably by the libertie of charitie, the ſame Peter tooke in good part by holy and benigne godlines of humilitie, and ſo he gaue vnto poſteritie a more rare and holy example, if at any time perhaps they did amiſs, to be content to be corrected of their iuniors, then Paul, for to be bold and confident: yea the inferiors to reſiſt their betters for defending the truth of the Goſpel, brotherly charitie alwaies preſerued. By which notable ſpeaches of the doctors we may alſo ſee, how friuolouſly the Heretikes argue hereupon, that S. Peter could not be Superior, to S. Paul, being ſo reprehended of him: whereas the Fathers make it an example to the Superiors, to beare with humilitie the correption or controulement euen of their inferiors. Namely by this example S. Auguſtine (li. 2. de bapt. c. 1.) excellently declareth, that the B. Martyr S. Cyprian, who walked auery touching the rebaptizing of them that were chriſtened of Heretikes, could not, nor would not haue been offended to be admoniſhed & reformed in that point by his felowes or inferiors, much leſſe by a whole Councel. We haue learned, ſaith he, that Peter the Apoſtle, in whom the Primacie of the Apoſtles by excellẽt grace is ſo preeminent, when he did otherwiſe concerning circumciſion then the truth required, was corrected of Paul the later Apoſtle. I thinke (without any reproch vnto him) Cyprian the Biſhop may be compared to Peter the Apoſtle. howbeit I ought rather to feare leſt I be iniurious to Peter. for who knoweth not that the principalitie of Apoſtleſhip is to be preferred before any dignitie of Biſhop whatſoeuer? but if the grace of the Chaires or Sees differ, yet the glorie of the Martyrs is one. And who is ſo dull that can not ſee, that the inferior, though not by office and iuriſdiction, yet by the Law of brotherly loue and fraternal correption, may reprehend his ſuperior? Did euer any man wonder that a good Prieſt or any vertuous perſon ſhould tel the Pope, or any other great Prelate or greateſt Prince in earth, their faultes? Popes may be reprehended, and are iuſtly admoniſhed of their faultes, and ought to take it in good part, & ſo they do and euer haue done, when it commeth of zeale and loue, as of S. Paul, Irenæus, Cyprian, Hierom, Auguſtine, Bernard: but of Simon Magus, Nouatus, Iulian, Wicleffe, Luther, Caluin, Beza, that do it of malice, and raile on Liſe at their vertues then their vices, of ſuch (I ſay) Gods Prelates muſt not be taught nor corrected, though they muſt patiently take it, as our Sauiour did the like reproches of the malitious Iewes, and as Dauid did the maledictiõ of Semei. 2. Reg. 16.

It proueth nothing againſt Peters ſuperioritie, that he was reprehended.

The ſuperior may be reprehended or admonished of the inferior.

Heretikes reprehenſion of Catholike Biſheps is rather railing.

Fulke 8. With wicked Porphyrie and Fauſtus the Manichee we haue nothing to doe, neither doe we gladly charge Peter (as you do falſly ſlander vs) any further then ỹ Scripture chargeth him to the glory of God. But to the matter in controuerſie, (you ſay) we argue againſt the ſuperioritie of S. Peter, becauſe he was reprehended by S. Paul: which is falſe, for vpon the onely reprehending of him we doe not ſo argue. But the fathers (you ſay) make it an example to the ſuperiors, to beare with humilitie the correption and controllement of their inferiors. As Cyprian Ep. 71. Verely the example may extend euen to ſuperiors, to beare a iuſt reprehenſion of their inferiors. But Cyprian doth not ſo gather: for he ſaith that Peter did not challenge or take vpon him any thing as ſuperior to Paul, which he could not haue done, but in time and ſenioritie only. And further he ſaith, that Peter hereby giueth vs a document of concord and patience, that we ſhould not ſtubbernly loue our owne things, but ſuch things as are ſuggeſted vnto vs, ſometimes by our brethren and companions profitably and wholſomly (if they be true and lawfull,) we ſhould compt them our owne. That you tranſlate in S. Auguſtine, The inferiors to reſiſt their betters, his wordes are, Minores maioribus, The yõger to reſiſt the elder, As he ſaith before, Poſterioribus corrigi quam Paulo, To be corrected of their iuniors, then Paul. So that his wordes argue no ſuperioritie of Peter, but in time and Senioritie. No more doe they in the other place, where Paul is called the later Apoſtle, that is, Iunior in time, yet might be (as he was) equal in auctoritie, as Cyprian ſaith, All the Apoſtles were with Peter, de ſimplicitate Prelatorum. That ſuperiors may in ſome ſort be reprehended of their inferiors, it is no queſtion. But where you ſay, The Pope may be reproued, and ought to take it in good part as it proceedeth of zeale, & loue, and patiently, whence ſoeuer it come: I will ſet downe what is found in your Canon lawe, that men may ſee how well you agree, and conſider whether the Pope will be ordered by that, rather then by your ſentence. Part. 1. diſt. 4. Cap. Si Papa, Thus we reade: If the Pope be found negligent of his owne and his brethrens ſaluation, vnprofitable and remiſſe in his workes, and alſo holding his peace of goodneſſe, which doeth more hurt him and all men: neuertheleſſe hee leadeth with him innumerable people by heapes to the chiefe ſtaue of hell, with whome he ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes for euer: No mortall man doeth here preſume to reproue his faultes, becauſe he himſelfe being to iudge all men, is to be iudged of no man, except hee be found erring from the faith. And in the Extrauagant, De conceſſion. Prebend. Titul. 4. cap. 2. ad apoſtolatus, in the gloſſe, Where is ſhewed, that the Pope may doe that which to all other is forbidden, it is written. Nec eſt qui audeat, &c. Neither is there any that may be bold to ſay, My Lord, or, Syr why doe you ſo? And in the Margent, No man may be bold to ſay to the Pope, Domine cur ita facis, Syr, why doe you ſo?

Slander. Peters error. Superioritie of Peter.

Rhem. 9. 11. Reprehenſible.) The Heretikes hereof againe inferre, that Peter then did erre in faith, and therfore the Popes may faile therin alſo. To which we anſwer, that howſoeuer other Popes may erre in their priuate teachings or writings, whereof we haue treated before in the Annotation vpõ theſe words, That thy faith faile not: it is certaine that S. Peter did not here faile in faith, nor erre in doctrine or knowledge. for it was conuerſationis non prædicationis vitiũ, as Tertullian ſaith. de præſcript. nu. 7. It was a default in conuerſation, life, or regiment, which may be cõmitted of any man, be he neuer ſo holy, & not in doctrine. S. Auguſtine & whoſoeuer make moſt of it, thinke no otherwiſe of it. But S. Hierom & many other holy fathers deeme it to haue been no fault at al, nor any other thing then S. Paul himſelf did vpõ the like occaſiõ: & that this whole combat was a ſet thing agreed vpõ betweene them. It is a ſchole point much debated betwixt S. Hierom & S. Auguſtine ep. 9. 11. 19 apud Auguſt.

S. Peters error was not in faith, but in conuerſation or behauiour. Luc. 22. 32. * See S. Chryſ. Theophyl. &c.

Fulke 9. S. Paul teſtifieth, it was an error againſt ỹ trueth of the Goſpel, therfore not a default in life & conuerſation only. It was an errot of ignorance, not in fact onely, for he did not counterfet & for any worldly reſpect, but becauſe he was vntruly perſwaded that it was not only lawful, but alſo expedient for him ſo to doe. Whereby Barnabas alſo was brought to be partaker of their ſimulation, till they both were corrected & better inſtructed by S. Paul. Eraſmus in his Epiſtle to the Cardinal of Loraine, ſet before his tranſlation of Chryſoſtome vpon this

Epiſtle

Epiſtle ſaith: That S. Auguſtine chargeth S. Peter with ſuperſtitious ſimulation, yea with a peruerſe deſire of laying the burthen of the Lawe, vpon the ſhoulders of the Gentiles. And that the articles of your good Maſters (the diuines of Paris,) doe attribute vnto Peter error in faith. Therefore not Proteſtants onely, but Papiſts alſo doe inferre of this place, that Peter erred in faith: It were good for you therefore to decide the queſtion among your ſelues, before you take the matter ſo whotly againſt vs.

CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. By their owne converſion as the firſt, 6 and by the example of Abraham, and promiſe made to him, he ſheweth that the way to obtaine the benediction, is to ſeeke vnto God by faith in Chriſt. 10 Seing alſo that the Law curſeth euery one that hath not euermore kept the Lawe. 15 And, that the Law was not giuen to alter Gods teſtament, 19 but to conuince the Iewes of ſinne, 23 and ſo to be their pædagogue or leader vnto Chriſt, 25 and then to ceaſe.

Fulke 1. S. Paul ſaith not, That the Lawe doeth ceaſe after we be brought to Chriſt, but that we are not now vnder the Lawe, as vnder a Scholemaſter.

O Senſles Galatians, who hath ‡ bewitched you, not to obey the truth, before whoſe eies IESVS Chriſt was proſcribed, being crucified among you?

2 This only I would learne of you, By the workes of the Law, did you receiue the Spirit, or by the hearing of the faith?

3 Are you ſo fooliſh, that whereas you began with the ſpirit, now you will be conſummate with the fleſh?

4 Haue you ſuffered ſo great things without cauſe? if yet without cauſe.

5 He therefore that giueth you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you: by the workes of the Law, or by the hearing of the faith doeth he it?

Gen.15,6. Ro.4,3. 6 As, Abraham beleeued God, and it was reputed to him vnto iuſtice.

7 Know ye therfore that they that are ‡ of faith, the ſame are the children of Abraham.

8 And the Scripture foreſeing that God iuſtifieth the Gentiles by faith, ſhewed vnto Gen.12,3. Abraham before, That in thee ſhall al nations be bleſſed.

9 Therfore they that are of faith, ſhal be bleſſed with the faithful Abraham.

10 For whoſoeuer are of the workes of Deu.27,26. the Lawe, are vnder curſe. For it is written: ‖Curſed be euery one that abideth not in al things that be writtē in the booke of the Law to do them.

11 But that in the Law no man is iuſtified with God, it is manifeſt, becauſe The iuſt Abac 2. Ro.1. ‖ liueth by faith.

12 But the Law is not by fairh: but, He Leu.18. that doeth thoſe things ſhal liue in them.

13 Chriſt hath redeemed vs from the curſe of the Lawe, being made a curſe for vs Deu.21. (becauſe it is written, Curſed is euery one that hangeth on a tree)

14 That on the Gentiles the bleſsing of Abraham might be made in Chriſt IESVS: that we may receiue the promiſſe of the Spirite by faith.

The Epiſtle vpon the 13. Sunday after Pentecoſt. 15 Brethren (I ſpeake according to man) yet a mans teſtament being confirmed no man

O Fooliſh Galathians, who hath bewitched you, that ye ſhoulde not obey the trueth: to whom Ieſus Chriſt was before deſcribed before the eyes, and among you crucified?

2 This onely would I learne of you, whether ye receiued the ſpirit by the deedes of the lawe, or by the hearing of the faith?

3 Are ye ſuch fooles, that after ye haue begunne in the ſpirite, ye woulde nowe ende in the fleſh?

4 Haue ye ſuffered ſo great things in vaine? If it be yet in vaine.

5 He therefore that miniſtreth to you the ſpirite, and worketh myracles among you, doeth hee it through the deedes of the Lawe, or by hearing of the faith?

6 Euen as Abraham beleeued God, and it was † aſcribed to him for righteouſnes.* Gen.15.6. rom.4.3. iames 2.23.

7 Knowe ye therefore, that they which are of faith, the ſame are the children of Abraham. † Or, imputed.

8 For the Scripture ſeeing aforehande that God would iuſtifie the Heathen through faith, ſhewed beforehand glad tidings vnto Abraham, ſaying, In thee ſhall all nations be bleſſed.* Gen.21.3. cccl.44.20.

9 So then, they which be of faith, are bleſſed with the faithfull Abraham.

10 *For as many as are of the deedes of the Law, are vnder the curſe: for it is written, Curſed is euery one that continueth not in all things which are written in the booke of the Lawe, to doe them. Deut. 27,26.

11 *But that no man is iuſtified by the Law in the ſight of God, it is euident: * for the iuſt ſhall liue by faith.* Abac.2.4. rom.1.17.

13 *Chriſt hath redeemed vs from the curſe of the law, being made a curſe for vs: For it is written, Curſed is euery one that hangeth on tree: Deut. 21.23.

15 *Brethren, I ſpeake after the maner of men, though it be but a mans teſtament, yet if it be Heb.9.17. alowed, man deſpiſeth, or further diſpoſeth.

16 To Abraham were the promiſes ſaid, and to his ſeede. He ſaith not, And to ſeedes, as in many: but as in one, And to thy ſeede, which is Chriſt. Gen. 22, 18.

17 And this I ſay, the teſtament being cõfirmed of God, the Law which was made after foure hundred and thirtie yeres, maketh not void to fruſtrate the promiſe.

18 For if the inheritance be of the Law, now not of promiſe. But God gaue it to Abraham by promiſe.

19 Why was the Law then? It was put for tranſgreſsions, vntil the ſeed came to whom he had promiſed: ordeined by Angels in the hand of a mediatour.

20 And a mediatour is not of one: but God is one.

21 Was the Law then againſt the promiſes of God? God forbid. For if there had been a Law giuen that could iuſtifie, vndoubtedly iuſtice ſhould be of the Law.

22 But the Scripture * hath concluded al things vnder ſinne: that the promiſe by the faith of IESVS Chriſt might be giuen to them that beleeue. Ro. 3, 9. 11, 32.

23 But before the faith came, vnder the Lawe we were kept ſhut vp, vnto that faith which was to be reuealed.

24 Therfore ỹ Law was our Pedagogue in Chriſt: that we may be iuſtified by faith.

25 But when the faith came, now we are not vnder a pędagogue.

26 For you are al the children of God by faith in Chriſt IESVS.

27 For as many of you as are baptized in Chriſt, ‖ haue put on Chriſt.

28 There is not Iewe nor Greeke, there is not bond nor free, there is not male nor femal. For al you are one in Chriſt IESVS.

29 And if you be Chriſts, then are you the ſeed of Abrahã, heires according to promiſe.

alowed, no man reiecteth it, or addeth thereto.

*16 To Abraham and his ſeed were the promiſes made. He ſaith not, To the ſeedes, as of many: but, To thy ſeed, as of one, which is Chriſt. Gen. 13.

17 This I ſay, that the lawe which began afterward beyond foure hundred and thirtie yeres, doeth not diſanul the teſtament that was confirmed afore of God vnto Chriſtward, to make the promiſe of none effect.

18 For if the inheritance be of the lawe, then not nowe of promiſe. But God gaue the inheritance vnto Abraham by promiſe.

19 Wherefore then ſerueth the law? It †was † The Lawe. added becauſe of tranſgreſſions, til the ſeed ſhould come to whom the promiſe was made: and it was ordeined by angels in the hand of a mediatour.

20 A mediatour is not a mediatour of one, but God is one.

21 Is the lawe then againſt the promiſe of God? God forbid. For if there had bene a lawe giuen which could haue giuen life, then no doubt righteouſnes ſhould haue bene by the lawe.

*22 But the Scripture hath concluded all vnder ſinne, that the promiſe by the faith of Ieſus Chriſt ſhould be giuen vnto them that beleeue. Rom. 3. 4.

23 But before faith came, we were kept vnder the law, and were ſhut vp vnto the faith which ſhould afterward be reuealed.

*24 * Wherefore the lawe was our ſchoolemaſter vnto Chriſt, that wee ſhould be iuſtified by faith.* Rom. 10. 4.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer vnder a ſchoolemaſter.

26 For ye are all the children of God by faith in Chriſt Ieſus.

*27 * For † all ye that are baptized, haue put on Chriſt.* Rom. 6. 3.

† Some reade, All ye that are baptized into Chriſt, haue put on Chriſt.

28 There is no Iewe, neither Greeke, there is neither bonde, nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Chriſt Ieſus.

29 If ye be Chriſtes, then are ye Abrahams ſeede, and heires according to the promiſe.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 2. 1. Bewitched you.) For any people or perſon to forſake the faith of their firſt Apoſtles and Converſion, at the voice of a few nouellaries, ſeemeth to wiſe men a very bewitching and ſenſles brutiſhnes. Such is the caſe of our poore Countrie, Germanie, and others.

Fulke 2. If any people or perſon haue bene rightly inſtructed by the Apoſtles of Chriſt, it is ſenſeleſſe brutiſhnes to forſake their faith which they firſt receiued. But if any people or perſon haue bene at the firſt peruerted, rather then conuerted by falſe apoſtles and heretikes vnto hereſie, as many haue bene, both people and perſons, it is wiſdome to forſake their faith, which is either wholy falſe, or corrupt in any part, and to learne the trueth of the Apoſtles of Chriſt, as they haue ſet downe in their writings. So haue Englande and Germanie done. First faith and inſtruction.

Rhem. 3. 7. Of faith, the ſame.) This faith whereby Abraham was iuſtified, and his children the Gentiles beleeuing in Chriſt, implieth al Chriſtian vertues, of which the firſt is faith, the ground and foundation of al the reſt, and therefore here and elſwhere often named of the Apoſtle.

Fulke 3. The true iuſtifying faith is the roote of all vertues, and they doe doubtleſſe folow it, but they goe neither before it, nor with it to iuſtification, therefore be not included in faith, but folow faith. Iuſtifying faith.

ANNO-

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 4. 10. Curſed be.) By this place the Heretikes would proue that no man is iuſt truely before God, al being guiltie of damnation and Gods curſe, becauſe they keepe not euery iote of the Law, where in deede the Apoſtle meaneth not ſuch as offend venially (as it is plaine by the place of Deuteronomie whence he reciteth this text) but onely ſuch as commit great and damnable crimes, and ſo by greuous and mortal tranſgreſſions wholy breake Gods preceptes, and thereby incurre the curſe of the Law, from which the ſaid Law could not deliuer them of it ſelfe, nor by any other meanes, but by the faith and grace of CHRIST IESVS.

Notwithſtanding venial ſinnes, men are truely iuſt, and may keepe the commandements.

Fulke. 4. The Apoſtle knew not your diſtinction of venial ſinnes, and the text of the Law doth vtterly ouerthrow it, which is general of all tranſgreſſions of the Law, great or ſmall. Neither can any be gathered, by the place of Deuteronomie, as you moſt impudently affirme, hauing nothing but a bold a lye, to oppoſe againſt ſo manifeſt lyght of trueth. For after Moſes hath reherſed the particular curſes, againſt a great nomber of heynous crymes, he concludeth with this generall curſe againſt al tranſgreſſions of the Law, whatſoeuer. And howe ſhoulde the Apoſtle proue his purpoſe, that whoſoeuer are of the workes of the Law, are vnder the curſe, by thus text of Deuteronomie, if onely ſuch as commit great and heynous crymes, were ſubiect to this curſe. For there are many Turkes, that commit not thoſe heynous crymes, that are expreſſed in the particular curſes. Therefore whoſoeuer keepeth not euery iote of the Law, is guiltie of Gods curſe, by this ſentence. And this is the iudgement of all the ancient fathers vpon this text.

Sinnes venial and mortall.

All ſinnes accurſed.

Chryſoſtome ſayth. That no man is iuſtifyed by the lawe, it is cleere. For all haue ſinned, and are ſubiect to the curſe, here is no exception of ſuch as ſinne venially. Theodoret ſayth. The lawe commandeth that all thinges be fulfilled, which are ſayd in it, & thoſe which by any meanes tranſgreſſe it, ſubmitteth vnto curſes, S. Ambroſe ſayth. This is written in Deuteronomie, becauſe if a man ſhould omit any thing of the Law, he ſhould be accompted accurſed, and the commandementes were ſo great, that it is impoſſible, they ſhould be kept. S. Hierom ſayth. That no man can fulfill the lawe and doe all thinges that are commanded, the Apoſtle iuſtifyeth elſwhere. For that which was impoſſible of the law, in that it was made weake by the fleſhe, God ſending his ſonne in the ſimilitude of ſinfull fleſh, condemned ſinne of ſinne, in the fleſh, which if it be true, it may be obiected vnto vs: Then Moſes and Eſaie, and the reſt of the Prophetes, which were vnder the workes of the lawe, are vnder the curſe, which thing he will not be afrayde to confeſſe, which hath redde the Apoſtle ſaying: That Chriſt hath redeemed vs from the curſe of the lawe being made a curſe for vs, and to anſwere, that euery one of the Saincts for his time, was made a curſe to the people. Primaſius ſayth. Becauſe the cuſtome of ſinning, hath ſo preuayled, that no man doth keepe the law, and therefore not vndeſeruedly are ſubiect to the curſe, which afterward he expoundeth that euery man doth incurre whoſoeuer ſhall not keepe all the commandements of the law vnto the ende, Oecumenius ſaith. Becauſe no man fulfilleth the lawe, they are all curſed, as they which haue departed from the lawe, and taken the curſe vnto themſelues. The ſame in effect, hath Theophylact. Of which ſayinges, you ſee it is manyfeſtlie inferred, as alſo of the playne text, that no man by workes is truely iuſt, before God, all being guiltie of damnation & Gods curſe, and iuſtified onely by Chriſt through faith.

None keepeth the law perfectly.

Rhem. 5. 11. Liueth by faith.) It is neither the Heretikes ſpecial preſumption and confidence, nor the faith of Diuels, nor ſayth without workes which is dead in him ſelfe as S. Iames ſayth, that can giue life to the iuſt, for that which is dead, can not be the cauſe of life, but it is the Catholike fayth, as S. Auguſtine writeth, which worketh by charitie (according to the Apoſtles owne explication of this whole paſſage) by which the iuſt liueth. Li. 3. c. 5. cont. duas ep. Pelag. See the Annotations vpon the ſame wordes. Rom. 1.

Not only faith

Fulke. 5. It is a liuely fayth, and a faith working by charitie, whereby the iuſt liueth, yet he liueth not by workes but by fayth. See Rom. 1. ſect. 8.

Faith and workes.

27. Haue put on Chriſt.) Here the aduerſaries might haue ſeene, if they were not blinded by contentious ſtriuing againſt Gods Church, that when Iuſtification is attributed to faith without mention of good workes or other Chriſtian vertues and Sacraments, it is not meant to exclude any of the ſame from the working of iuſtice or ſaluation, for here we learne that by the Sacrament of Baptiſme alſo we put on Chriſt, which is to put on faith, hope, charitie, and all Chriſtian iuſtice. By the ſame we proue alſo that the ſacraments of the new law giue grace, for that the receiuers thereof put on Chriſt. And the Aduerſaries euaſion, that it is faith which worketh in the Sacrament, and not the Sacrament it ſelf, is plainely falſe: Baptiſme giuing grace and faith is falſe to the infant that had none before.

Rhem. 6. Baptiſme giueth grace and iuſtification not faith only.

Iuſtification by faith.

Fulke. 6. Iuſtification is manifeſtly aſcribed to fayth without workes, whereby all workes are excluded, and not only not mentioned, in the act of iuſtification, yet not excluded from folowing fayth, to declare that we are iuſtified. And in this place the Apoſtle reaſoneth, from the ſigne to the thing ſignified, to proue that by faith in Chriſt, we are the Children of God, becauſe baptiſme repreſenting our putting one of Chriſt as a garment, to couer our vnworthines, is a ſeale of iuſtification by faith, to all that are baptized, as circumciſion was to all that were circumciſed, and namely to Abraham, who was iuſtified before he was circumciſed, and that to declare, that circumciſition was no cauſe, but a teſtimony of his iuſtification. As alſo Cornelius, and they that were with him, had there hearts puryfied by fayth, and receiued the holy ghoſt, before they were baptized. Whereby god teſtified, that baptiſme geueth not grace of the worke wrough, but is a ſeale of grace and iuſtice of fayth, and regeneration by gods ſpirit. And where you ſay, that baptiſme geueth faith to the infant, that had none before, you may aſwell ſay, that it giueth faith to many that haue none after. But how are you able to proue, that baptiſme giueth faith to an infant when faith commeth by hearing (Rom. 8.) which infants cannot doe. And if you meane of ſome other kinde of fayth, then that which commeth by hearing, how ſay you that baptiſme giueth faith to the infant that had none before when before you baptize him, you examin him whether he beleue all the articles of fayth, and the infant by his Godfathers anſwereth. Credo, I do beleue. Whether contentious arguing againſt Gods Church, hath made you forgetful of your doctrine, and forme of miniſtring the ſacrament of baptiſme, let all indifferent men iudge.

22 For it is written that * Abraham had two ſonnes: one of the bond-woman, and one of the free-woman.

23 But he that of the bond-woman, was borne according to the fleſh: and he that of the free-woman, by the promiſe.

24 Which things are ſaid ‖ by an allegorie. For theſe are the two teſtamentes. The one from mount Sina, gendring vnto bondage: which is Agar, 28 *But brethren, we are * after Iſahac the children of the promiſe.*

29 But as then he that was borne after the fleſh, perſecuted him that was borne after the ſpirit: euen ſo is it now.

30 *Neuertheleſſe, what ſaieth the Scripture? * Put away the bondwoman and her ſonne: for the ſonne of the bondwoman ſhall in no wiſe be heire with the ſonne of the free woman.* Gen.21.10.

31 So then brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, but of the free.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1.

3. Seruing.) There can be no external worſhip of God nor aſſociation of men in religion, either true or falſe, without the vſe of corporal things or elements. The Heathen ſo vſed the creatures of elements that they ſerued them as their goddes. The Iewes, of whom the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh, ſerued not the creatures them ſelues which they occupyed in their ceremonies, but they ſerued the onely true God vnder the elements: that is to ſay, being ſeruilely clogged, yoked, kept occupyed & in awe, with innumerable fleſhly, groſſe, & comberſom offices about creatures. The Chriſtian neither ſerue elements, as the one, nor be kept in ſeruile thraldom therby, as the other: but occupye only a few exceeding eaſie, ſweete, ſemely, & ſignificatiue, for an agreable exerciſe both of body and minde. Whereof S. Auguſtine ſayth thus, li. 3. c. 9. de doct. Chriſt. Some few for many, moſt eaſie to be done, moſt honorable for ſignification, and moſt cleane & pure to be obſerued & kept, hath our Lord him ſelf and the Apoſtolical diſcipline deliuered. And li. de ver. relig. c. 17. Of the wiſdom of God it ſelf mans nature being taken, wherby we were called into libertie, a few Sacraments moſt holſom were appointed & inſtituted, which might contein ỹ ſociety of chriſtian people, ỹ is, of the free multitude vnder one God. And again cont. Fauſt.

External worſhip of God by vſe of creatures neceſſarie: and how the Heathen Iewes, & Chriſtians differ in the ſame. The vſe of external elements in the Sacraments.

Fauſt li.19 c.13. The Sacraments are changed, they are made eaſier, fewer, holſommer, happier. the ſame he hath in the 118 epiſtle c.1 and many other places beſides. By which you may ſee, it is not al one to vſe elements, viſible Sacraments or ceremonies, and to ſerue them as the Pagans do: or to ſerue vnder them as the Iewes did, where with the Heretikes calumnioufly charge the Chriſtians. And as touching the ſmall number, facilitie efficacie and ſignification, wherein the ſaid holy father putteth the ſpecial difference: who ſeeth not that for ſo many bodie ſacrifices, we haue but one: for Sacraments wel neere infinite, but ſeuen: all ſo eaſie, ſo full of grace, ſo ſignificant, as can be poſſible, as of euery one in their ſeuteal places is proued. Our ſacraments few & eaſie in reſpect of the Iewes.

Fulke. 1. The Papiſts in like maner, as the heathen and Iewes, ſerue vnder the elements of the world, and ſerue thoſe that by nature are no Gods: As the Iewes, they not onely obſerue daies and times, but alſo are clogged with an infinite nomber of ceremonial obſeruations, as of hallowed fyer, water, bread, aſhes, oyle, waxe, flowers, branches, garments, cley, ſpittle, ſalte, incenſe, balme, chalices, paxes, pixes, alters, corporals, ſuperalters, alter-clothes, ringes, ſwordes, crownes, miters, belles, churches and churchyardes, with many more then I can reherſe, vnder which, they are more ſlauiſhly (then the Iewes vnder the law,) yoked and occupyed, with innumerable fleſhly, groſſe, and comberſom offices about them. Secondly, as the Gentils, they ſerue them that by nature are no Gods, not only Angels & Saincts, & the counterfect reliques of them, but ydols of the. Where you can not eſcape, by your vaine and vnlearned diſtinction, of Latria and Dulia, for the Apoſtle vſeth the worde ἐδουλεύσατε, you haue ſerued, the that are no Gods by nature, ſhewing that al religious ſeruice or Dulia of ſuch as by nature are no Gods, is heatheniſh Idolatry or ſeruice abhominable. Therefore the ſayings of S. Auguſtine, perteyne nothing vnto you. And where you ſay, for ſo many ſacrifices of the Iewes, you haue but one, meaning your ſacrifice of the maſſe, to omitte that you haue no auctoritie of Gods worde for that one, what compt you thoſe oblations of candels, and other things to your images of Chriſt, and Sainctes? haue you any groſſe conceipt, that they haue neede or vſe of ſuch thinges? or are they ſacrifices and oblations, to honor God and the Saincts with them, as the heathens vſed many like? I omitte, that your Canoniſtes, do holde, that tythes are ſtill offered to God, as oblations, euen as they were in the Ieuiſh law. Reliqu. de decimis Therefore you haue more ſacrifices then one. Ceremonies ſuperſtitious & ſuperſtitious.

Rhem. 2. Here, let the good Readers take heede of a double deceite vſed by the Aduerſaries about S. Auguſtines places alleaged, firſt, in that they ſay he made but two Sacraments, which is vntrue ſor, although treating of the difference betweene the Ieuiſh Sacraments and ours, he namely giueth example in Baptiſme and the Euchariſt (as ſometimes alſo for example he nameth but one) yet he hath no word nor ſigne at al that there ſhould be no more, but contrarywiſe in the foreſaid epiſtle 118 he inſinuateth, that beſide thoſe two, there be other of the ſame ſort in the Scriptures. Yea, with water and bread, which be the elements of the two foreſaid Sacramentes, he expreſſly nameth oile alſo (li.2. cont. lit. Petil. c.104.) the elements or matter of the Sacramentes of confirmation: which in the ſame place he maketh to be a Sacrament as Baptiſme is. So doth he affirme of the Sacrament of Orders li.1. de bapt. c.1. and alſo of Matrimonie li. de bono coniug. c.24. of Penance likewiſe, he ſpeaketh as of Baptiſme, which he calleth Reconciliation, li.1. de adult. coniug. c.28. Laſtly, by the booke de viſitatione infirmorum in S. Auguſtine, li.2. c.4. by Proſper de prædictionibus p.2. c.29. S. Innocentius ad Eugubinum to 1. Conc. ep. ad Eugub. c.8. S. Cyrill li.2. in Leuiticum, and S. Chryſoſtom li.3. de Sacerdotio, * Extreme vnction is proued to be a Sacraments. It is falſe then that the Heretikes affirme of S. Auguſtine, by whoſe doctrine it is plaine, that though the elements or Sacramentes of the new law be but few and very few in compariſon of thoſe in the old Law, yet there be no fewer then ſeuen ſpecified by him. Which number of ſeuen the holy Councels of Florence and Trent do expreſſly define to haue bene inſtituted by Chriſt, againſt theſe late Heretikes. See more of theſe Sacramentes in their places. Act.8.1. *Tim.*4.1020. *Ia.*5. Epheſ.5. S. Auguſtine falſely alleaged of the Heretikes for two Sacraments onely. Ep.118 c.1. & in pſ.103. cic.2 The other Sacraments proued out of S. Auguſtine. * Aug. ſer.215. de tẽp. & de reſtaur. Cath. conuerſa.

Fulke. 2. We vſe no deceipt about S. Auguſtines places, but conclude plainly vpon his owne wordes, Ep.118. where he ſayth, that our Lord Ieſus Hath ioyned together the ſocietie of the newe people, with Sacramentes, in number the feweſt, in obſeruation the eaſieſt, in ſignification the moſt excellent, ſuch as is Baptiſme conſecrated in the name of the Trinitie, and the communication of his body and blood, and if any other be conteyned in the canonicall ſcripture. Of theſe wordes we gather that S. Auguſtine knew but two ſacraments of this kind. Firſt becauſe he ſayth they are feweſt in nomber, for two is the laſt nomber. Secondly becauſe he ſayth, he hath ioyned or bound together, the ſocietie of the new people, by theſe, for theſe are ſufficient for that purpoſe, & neceſſary for al men that liue to yeres of diſcretion, to receiue if they can. So are not matrimony & ordination, & therfore not to be nombred w theſe. Repẽtance, although it be neceſſary for al, yet hath it no outward element, which is neceſſary to make a ſacrament. Confirmation w oile hath no teſtimony in ỹ ſcriptures, nor extreme oile to be a perpetual ſacrament or ſeale of ſpiritual grace, which was vſed only for a temporal ſacrament of bodily healing Ia.5. Therefore by S. Auguſtines ſaying, there are but two ſacramẽts, in that ſenſe, that baptiſme & the Lords ſupper are called ſacraments. But you reply, ỹ he inſinuateth, that there be other beſide theſe two, of the ſame ſort in the ſcriptures. I aunſwere he doth not inſinuate any ſuch thing, but teſtifieth, that theſe two only he found in ỹ ſcriptures. Yet not willing to ſtriue, if any man can find Quid aliud, any other ſacrament in the Scriptures, whereas if he had knowen fiue beſide theſe two ſacraments, in ſuch ſort as they are, he would haue ſaid, and the reſt, or the other fiue, which are conteined in the ſcriptures, but now he ſayth (if any one other) not acknowledging him ſelfe any other, but if any other may be found in the ſcriptures, he thinketh it is not paſt one. But contra Pet. lib. 2. c.104. he nameth oyle alſo. I graunt, but there he ſpeaketh of the oyle & anoynting that was vſed in baptiſme, which of the Donatiſts was called the ſacrament of Chriſme, by Auguſtine in the kind of viſible ſignes holy, as baptiſme it ſelfe: & not of another ſacrament of confirmation, which els where, he affirmeth to be nothing but prayer with impoſition of handes. De bap. contr. Don. lib.3. cap.16. In pſal.103. he ſayth. The gift of the ſacraments in baptiſme, in the euchariſt, in the reſt of the holy ſacramẽts what is the gift. In which words, he acknowledgeth more holy ſacraments, but not in ſuch ſort, as baptiſme & the euchariſt are. In the ſame Pſalme, where he ſaith, the ſacraments are hid from the Pagans, he nameth onely the Sacrament of baptiſme and the ſacrament of the euchariſt. Slander The nomber of Sacraments Matrimony and ordination were not ſo hidden from them. Therefore though he name Matrimony, orders, chriſme, or any other thing ſacramentes, as he doth many other thinges beſide, it followeth not, that they are ſacraments as baptiſme & the euchariſt. But as for penance, he calleth it not a ſacrament but only he ſaith.

The

The ſame cauſe is of reconciliation, which is of Baptiſme, if perhaps daunger of ending his lyfe doe preuent the penitent. For our mother the church ought not to be willing, that euen they ſhould depart out of this life, without the pledge of their peace: meaning the Sacrament of the communion, which is the pledge of their reconciliation. Now where you quote the booke De viſitatione infirmorum, for extreme vnction, Eraſmus telleth you, It is the ſpeach of a brabler, neither learned nor eloquent, and moſt impudently intituled to Auguſtine. Of the ſame mould be Serm.215. De tempore, and the treatiſe De rectitud.Cath.Conuerſ. Yet doeth not the auctor call extreme vnction a Sacrament, but promiſeth health of body, as well as of ſoule by it. Proſper ſpeaketh not of extreme vnction, but alluding to the widow, which gaue part of her meale and oyle to Helias ſayth, So the ſoule is ſatiſfied with her Lord departing in bodie, leauing him thus chaſtiſeth, keepeth the fayth of mariage bed with chaſt loue, being defended with the ſacrament of meale, and the vnction of oyle, ſurely waiting for the acceptable reigne, when her Lord ſhall ſay vnto her: O good ſeruaunt, &c. which wordes if you could haue conſtrued aright, I marueile how you ſhould haue applied to extreme vnction. But belike you would haue tranſlated, Corpore abſcedente Domino, the body departing to the Lord, whereas it is manifeſt to him that obſerueth the diſcourſe of Proſper, he meaneth to ſhew how the ſoule is a widow: namely by the Lordes departure in body, beſide, that the Latine tongue will abide no ſuch conſtruction, as you would make, and the reſt that followeth, doth not agree to him that is a dying and departing out of the world. Therefore eyther by the myſterie of meale, and the vnction of oyle, he meaneth the ſpirituall foode of the ſoule, or if he meane by the one, the Sacramẽt of the bread of life, by the other he meaneth ỹ oile vſed in baptiſme, yet calleth he it not a Sacrament, but diſtinguiſheth it from a Sacrament. Innocentius by his anſwer to the biſhop of Eugubium, ſheweth, that this ceremonie of vnction in ſickneſſe, was not vniuerſally receiued, nor thought neceſſary, neither was it well knowen of whom it ſhould be miniſtred. Therfore Innocentius of that place of S. Iames ſaieth, That it might be vnderſtood of the fayr: Iſfull that are ſicke, which may be anoynted with the holy oyle of Chriſme, which beyng ones made by the biſhop, it is lawfull not onely for Prieſts, but alſo for all Chriſtians, to vſe it in anoynting, in their or their friends neceſſitie. But this ſeemeth to be ſuperfluouſly added, that you ſhould doubt, that to be lawfull to a Biſhop, which without doubt is lawfull to Prieſtes. For it is therefore ſayd of Prieſtes, becauſe the Biſhops beyng hindered by other buſineſſe, cannot goe to all ſicke perſons. But if the biſhop can, and thinke it meete to viſite any man, he may both bleſſe him, and touch him with Chriſme without any doubting, ſeeing it pertaineth to him to make the Chriſme. But vpon penitents it cannot be powred, becauſe it is a kind of Sacrament. Firſt we ſee, that by the biſhop of Romes iudgement, not onely the biſhop or prieſt, but euery Chriſtian may miniſter this ceremonie of vnction, contrary to your new doctrine, whereby you make it proper onely to prieſts. Secondly, he doeth not affirme, that it is neceſſary for all Chriſtians before they die in extremitie of ſickneſſe, but may bee vſed of the faythfull that are ſicke, though not extremely: For in extremitie of ſickeneſſe, euen penitents are admitted to the Sacrament of the communion. Thirdly, where he ſayth, it is a kind of Sacrament, he meaneth by Sacrament, a holy ceremonie of the Church, except you will make an eight Sacrament of that leuen which cap. 5. he ſayth, being made by the biſhop, was ſent on the Lordes day, to the Prieſts of euery Church within the citie of Rome, which I thinke (ſaith he) ought not to be done in the out pariſhes, becauſe the Sacraments are not to be caried farre of. You ſee he calleth a conſecrated leuen, which they ſent about at that time for a ſigne of their fellowſhip, a Sacrament. Therefore Innocentius (though a biſhop of Rome) is no patrone of your Sacrament of extreme vnction, as you meane and hold it to be a Sacrament. Cyrillus or Origen ſpeaketh not a word of the Sacrament of extreme vnction, but ſayth, This text of Iames is fulfilled in the ſtonith hard and laborious kind of remiſſion of ſinnes by repentaunce, when the ſinner waſheth his bed with teares, and teares are made bread vnto him, day and night, when he is not aſhamed to declare his ſinne, vnto the Lordes prieſt, and to ſeeke medicine, according to him that ſayeth, I ſayd I will pronounce againſt my ſelfe myne vniuſtice, and thou haſt remitted the impietie of my heart. In whom alſo that is fulfilled which the Apoſtle Iames ſaieth: If any man bee ſicke or weake, &c. You ſee he meaneth onely of prayers made by the prieſtes, to obtaine remiſſion of ſinnes for him that is a publike penitent. Chryſoſtome alſo gathereth out of it, the Prieſtes duetie, to pray for the people, and power to remitte ſinnes, but the Sacrament of extreme vnction, hee doeth not mention, nor yet the ceremonie of anoynting with oyle. As for the yeſterday councels of Florens and Trent, came too late to make Sacraments fifteene hundreth yeres after Chriſt. That Auguſtine extendeth the name of Sacrament, to more then ſeuen, I haue ſhewed in Math.1 ſect.2.

Rhem.3. The other forgerie of the Aduerſaries concerning the elements or ceremonies, is, that S. Auguſtine (epiſt.119. cap.19.) ſhould affirme, that the Church and Chriſtian people in his dayes (whereupon they inferre that it is ſo much more now) were ſo loden with obſeruation of vnprofitable ceremonies, that they were in as great ſeruilitie and ſubiection to ſuch things as the Iewes. He ſaith ſo in deed of ſome particular preſumptions, inuentions, and vſages of certaine perſons, as that ſome made it a heinous matter to touch the ground with their bare feete within their own Octaues, and ſuch like vanities, whereby ſome ſimple folkes might be infected, which this holy Doctor ſpecially miſliked, and wiſheth ſuch things (as they may without ſcandall) to be taken away. But that he wrote or meant ſo of any ceremonie that the Church vſeth, eyther appoynted by Scripture or Councell, or cuſtome of the Catholike Church, himſelfe denieth it in expreſſe termes in the ſame place, and in ſundry other: where he alloweth all the holy ceremonies done in the miniſtration of the Sacraments and elſwhere. Whereby it is cleere, that the Churches moſt comely orders and ſignificant rites pertaine not to the yoke of the olde lawe, much leſſe to the ſuperſtition of Gentilitie, as Heretikes affirme: but to the ſweete yoke of Chriſt and light burden of his law, to order, decencie, and inſtruction of the faythfull, in al libertie, loue, fayth, grace and ſpirit.

S. Auguſtine falſly alleaged againſt the ceremonies of the Church.

Fulke. 3. You ſay, we forge that S. Auguſtine ſhould ſay, that the Church and Chriſtians in his dayes, were loden with obſeruation of vnprofitable ceremonies, that they were in as great ſeruilitie to ſuch things, as the Iewes. Whether wee forge this, let his owne words teſtifie: That which is inſtituted beſide cuſtome, that it ſhould be as it were an obſeruation of a Sacrament, I cannot allow, although I dare not freely diſallow many ſuch things, for auoyding offence of certaine, either holy or troubleſome perſons. But this grieueth me very much, many moſt wholeſome precepts that are in the holy Scriptures, are leſſe regarded, and all things are ſo full of many preſumptions, that he is more grieuouſly reproued which with in his eſtates hath touched the earth with his leare ſoote, then he which hath buried his minde in drunkennesſe. Therefore all ſuch things as are neyther conteyned in the auctoritie of holy Scriptures, nor found to haue bene decreed in the Councels of Biſhops, nor are confirmed by the cuſtome of the whole Church, but are varied innumerably after the diuers maners of diuers places, ſo that ſcarſe or neuer there can be found out the cauſes which men in the inſtitution of them followed, when they may conueniently, I thinke without all doubt, they are to be cut of. For although neither this can be found, how they be againſt the fayth, yet they oppreſſe with ſeruile burthens the religion it ſelfe, which the mercy of God, would haue to be free in moſt few and moſt manifeſt celebrations of Sacraments, ſo that the condition of the Iewes, is more tollerable, who although they acknowledged not the time of their libertie, yet they are ſubiect to the burthens of the law, not to the preſumption of men. Doth not Auguſtine ſay, as much as you report vs to ſay, and more alſo? And may we not iuſtly inferre that the ſtate of the Papiſts is much worſe now, wherein are infinite vayne ceremonies, beſide the vile opinion of merite by vſing ſuch things? But let vs ſee how you would ſhift of the matter, you ſay, He ſpeaketh of ſome particular preſumptions and vſage of certaine perſons, but he ſaith, All things are full of ſo many preſumptions, and that the multitude of them though they were not directly againſt the fayth, did oppreſſe religion it ſelfe with ſeruile burthens, what ſay you to that: they are contrary the freedome which the mercy of God hath giuen to religion. The ſtate of the Iewes is more tollerable, being ſubiect to ceremonies of Gods inſtitution, then of Chriſtians, ſubiect to humane preſumptiõs. Some of thé were obſerued as Sacraments, which were none: There was more grieuous punishment for tranſgreſſing mans ordinances (as among papiſts for eating fleſh on good Friday, thé for ſwearing or being drunke on the Lords day) then for breach of Gods commandements. To all theſe things you ſay nothing. But he neither writ nor meant (you ſay) of any ceremonie either appointed by Scripture, Councell or cuſtome of the Catholike Church. It is true. But are all popiſh ceremonies ſuch? if all ſuch were remoued (according as Auguſt. iudgeth they ought to be) which you obſerue, neither appointed by the holy ſcriptures nor decreed in councels general (for prouincial councels neuer had auctoritie to ordeine ceremonies, but for their owne prouinces) nor are confirmed by the cuſtome of the whole Church, I ſay, if all ſuch popiſh ceremonies, were taken away, you ſhould leaue a very ſmal number behind. You ſay, S. Auguſtine in other places, alloweth all the holy ceremonies done in the miniſtration of the Sacraments, and elſe where. You muſt tel vs where, and what ceremonies he doth allow, and we ſhal ſhape you an anſwer. In the meane time his iudgement vttered in this place, doth condemne the multitude of your popiſh rites to be ſeruile burthens, worſe then the Iewes, and ſo you ſerue vnder the elements of the world, worſe then euer the Iewes did.

Rhem. 4. 9 Weake and poore.) Whether he meane of the creatures which the Gentils ſerued (as it may ſeeme by the wordes before of ſeruing ſtrange gods) ſo the elements were moſt baſe and beggerly: or of the Iudaical ceremonies and ſacraments (as moſt expound it) euen ſo alſo their elements were weake and poore in themſelues, not giuing life, ſaluation and remiſſion of ſinnes, nor being inſtruments or veſſels of grace, as the 7 Sacraments of the new law be.

Fulke. 4. You muſt firſt prooue your number of ſeuen Sacraments, before you can make ſo many inſtruments of grace. Another point is to prooue, That Sacraments are veſſels of grace, as though the fauour of God were caried in them. Inſtruments or ſeales to confirme our fayth in the grace of God, we acknowledge them to be. Thirdly, if none but Sacraments are exempt from being the weake and beggerly elements of the world, what is all other popiſh trash of holy bread, holy water, ſalt, ſpittle, fire, waxe, bowes, &c? Sacraments.

Rhem. 5. 10 You obſerue dayes.) That which S. Paul ſpeaketh againſt the Idolatrical obſeruation of dayes, moneths, and times, dedicated by the Heathen to their falſe gods, and to wicked men or ſpirites, as to Iupiter, Mercurie, Ianus, Iuno, Diana, and ſuch like, or againſt the ſuperſtitious differences of dayes, fatall, fortunate or diſmal, and other obſeruations of times for good lucke or ill lucke in mans actions, gathered either by particular fanſie, or popular obſeruation, or curious and vnlawfull artes, or (laſtly) of the Iudaical feſtiuities that were then ended and abrogated, vnto which notwithſtanding certaine Chriſtian Iewes would haue reduced the Galatians againſt the Apoſtles doctrine: al that (I ſay) do the Heretikes of our time falſly and deceitfully interprete againſt the Chriſtian holydaies, and the ſanctification and neceſſary keeping of the ſame. Which is not only contrary to the Fathers expoſition, but againſt the very Scriptures, and the practiſe of the Apoſtles and the whole Church. Aug. cont Adimant. c. 16. Ep. 118. c. 7. And the antiquitie of the feaſts of Chriſtes Natiuitie, Epiphanie, and Aſcenſion is ſuch, that they can be referred to no other origine, but the apoſtles inſtitution: who* (as S. Clement teſtifieth l. 8. conſt. Apoſt. c. 39.) gaue order for celebrating their fellow Apoſtles, S. Steuens, and other Martyrs dayes after their death: and much more no doubt did they giue order for Chriſtes feſtiuities. According to which, the Church hath kept not only his, but S. Steuens and the B. Innocents, euen on the ſame dayes they be now ſolemnly kept, and his B. mother's, & other Saincts, (as the Aduerſaries themſelues confeſſe) about 1300. yeres, as appeareth in the barbarous combates betweene Weſt halues the Lutheran, & Caluin, & by the writings betwixt the Turrians & Proteſtants.

Wherein we cannot but wonder at the new Church of England, that (though againſt the pure Caluiniſts will and doctrine) keepe other Saincts and Apoſtles dayes of their death, and yet haue aboliſhed this ſpeciall feaſt of our Ladies departure, which they might keepe, ſithnough they beleeued not her Aſſumption in body (whereof yet S. Denys giueth ſo great teſtimonie) beyng aſſured ſhe is departed at the leaſt: except they either hate her, or thinke her worthy of leſſe remembrance then any other Saincts, "her ſelfe proſpering the contrary of al Catholike generations, that they ſhould bleſſe her. And in deed the Aſſumption is her proper day, as alſo, the feaſt of her Natiuitie: the other of the Purification and the Annunciation, which they keepe in England, being not ſo peculiar to her, but belonging rather to Chriſtes Preſentation in the Temple, and his Conception. Fulke.5. When your obſeruation of dayes is as ſul of ſuperſtition & idolatry,as thoſe of the Gentiles or Iewes,we do not falſly or deceiptfully interpret the Apoſtles ſaying, againſt your popiſh obſeruation of holydayes, which here alſo you affirme to be neceſſary.For that the Lordes day,teſtified in the ſcriptures ought to be kept, and that other dayes alſo may be kept by the Churches ordinaunce for the aſſembly of Chriſtians to the exerciſe of religion,we acknowledge. But that any are neceſſary more then be of the holy ghoſtes appoynting in the Scriptures,we deny. S.Auguſtine contra Adimant. ſpeaking of the obſeruation of the Lordes day,Eaſter,and other chriſtian feſtiuities of dayes,ſayth: Becauſe we vnderſtand whereto they appertaine, we obſerue not the times, but thoſe things that are ſignified by thoſe times. Where is then the holy time of Lent, the good and holy time of this or that feaſt? S.Hierom likewiſe vpon this text,defending the Chriſtian ſolemnities from Iudaiſme,ſayeth: Leaſt the vnordered and vnappointed gathering together of the people, ſhould diminiſh the faith of Chriſt,for this cauſe certayne dayes are appointed,that we ſhould all meete together in one place. Not that this day in which we come together,is Celebrior, more noble or holy, but that on what day ſo euer we muſt come together, greater ioy might ariſe by feſte one of an other. You ſee Hierome maketh none other end of obſeruing ſuch dayes then we doe,denying the celebritie, much more the ſanctification of ſuch dayes. Touching the antiquitie of the feaſtes of the Natiuitie, Epiphanie and Aſcention of Chriſt,there is no credite to be giuen to that baſtard booke of Clemens conſtitutions, although we acknowledge thoſe feſtiuities haue bene obſerued of ancient time, whereof ſee the notes. We acknowledge it was a very auncient cuſtome of the Church, to celebrate the memory of Martyrs,as the Church of Smyrna doth write in their epiſtle.Euſeb.li 4.*c.*12. For the remembrance of them that haue fought before vs, and for the exerciſe and preparation of them that ſhall fight hereafter. But your popiſh maner of celebratiõ is nothing like,eyther in the forme or the end, for you kepe your holydays,as the Iewes did the feaſt of the Calfe. Wherof it is written,*The people ſate downe to eate & drinke,and roſe vp agayne to play.*In your Churches you ſolemnize them with idolatrous worſhipping of the creatures, and their images:out of the churches with banketing,reuelling and idleneſſe. So that the people by your feſtiuities of Martyrs,are not taught what true martyrdome is,nor prepared to ſuffer for Chriſt,but rather to become epicures,whoſe belly is their God,and glory in their ſhame,when they ſee the ſolemnities of Saincts kept with all worldly pompe, and ſhew of pleaſant things in the Church,and all carnall delights abroad. Popiſh holy dayes.

Concerning the aſſumption of the virgin Mary and her feſtiuities, I haue anſwered ſufficiently, Act.1.ſect. 7. In abrogating and reteining of feaſtes,our Church hath vſed that libertie which Chriſtians haue in obſeruation of dayes. But your vrging of a feaſt of her departure,as a thing neceſſary, declareth that you doe ſeruilely like Iewes,and not freely as Chriſtians obſerue dayes and times.You gather of our not obſeruing of her Aſſumption,that either we hate her,or els thinke her worthy of leſſe remembraunce, then any other Sainct: As though we were bound to ſhew our loue toward her, by keeping a feſtiuall day, or as though there were none other way to keepe the remembraunce of her then by holydayes. Our Sauiour Chriſt hath taught vs to keepe the remembrance of Mary Magdalene by preaching the Goſpell. Math.26.13. And we are well aſſured,that we cannot teſtifie our loue vnto her better,nor honor her more,then in aſcribing all honour of our redemption and ſaluation,to her ſonne our Lord Ieſus Chriſt. But it is a waighty argument why we ſhould haue one holyday more for her,then we haue,becauſe ſhe prophecieth the contrary of all Catholike generations that they ſhould bleſſe her. If there be no way to bleſſe her,or to celebrate her bleſſedneſſe, but by ſome new found Lady day,then her prophecie fayled of the effect, for many hundred yeeres after ſhe vttered the ſame.For the ſayth ωακαριοῦσιν με πασαι αἱ γενεαὶ ἀπο τοῦ νῦν cuen frõ this preſent time hence forward all generatiõs ſhal cal me bleſſed.At leſt the feaſt of her natiuitie ſhould haue bene kept holy then preſently,& ſo forth during her life.But Durand teſtifieth,*That this feaſt of old time was not celebrated,vntil a certaine religious man,for many yeres together, heard the angels at this night,ſolemnizing it in heauen,to whom when he enquired the cauſe,it was reuealed,that the angels did reioyce, becauſe the bleſſed virgin was borne at that night,which the apoſtolike Pope did approue to be authentical,& commanded the feaſt to be celebrated,that in ſolemnizing it,we might be conformable to the court of heauen.*Alſo in the ſecond leſſon read in your church in the feaſt of her natiuitie,it is ſayd,That after other her more ancient ſolemnities,the deuotion of the faithful was not content til it had added this preſent ſolemnitie of her natiuitie. By this text you ſee,this feaſt is none of the ancient feaſts, & alſo that the other ſolemnities of her purification & annunciation are her feſtiuities alſo.But ſeeing this feaſt was but of late inſtituted, & her aſſumption was not heard of in the Church for many hundred yeres after her death,all catholike generatiõs bleſſed her otherwiſe,then by keping theſe holydais,or els her prophecie could not be true.By Cyprian *ep.*34.we learn how the anciẽt feaſts of martyrs were celebrated.We offer ſacrifice for the (ſaith he)*as you remẽber,ſo often as we celebrate the paſſions & daies of the martyrs by yeerely cõmemoration.*Theſe ſacrifices were praiſe & thankſgiuing to God,ỹ commemoratiõ for exãple to men.

To conclude, we learne by many teſtimonies of the auncient fathers, how Chriſtian ſolemnities may bee kept, that they be not Iewiſh or heathenish obſeruations, as when they are free from ſuperſtition, idolatry, or opinion of holineſſe in the times, and when they be kept freely as things indifferent, wherein the church may vſe her libertie, to appoynt or abrogate what is beſt for edification, and not be ſeruilely bound to keepe them of neceſſitie, as you deſend that they are. The ſaying of S. Auguſtine contra Faust. lib. 20. cap. 21, If you had ſet it downe at large, and rightly tranſlated it, would not haue made ſo great ſhew for you, as you imagine. The Chriſtian people (ſaieth he) doth celebrate together the memories of the Martyrs, with religious ſolemnitie, both to ſtirre them vp to imitation, and that they may be adioyned to their merites, and helped with their prayers: yet ſo that we ſet vp aultars to none of the martyrs, but to the God of the martyrs himſelfe. For which of the prelates ſtanding in the places of ther holy bodies, ſayd at any time, we offer to thee O Peter, or O Paule, or O Cyprian? but that which is offered, is offered to God which hath crowned the martyrs, at ther memories whom he hath crowned: that by admonition of the very places, greater affection may ariſe, to kindle loue both toward them whom we may follow, and him by whoſe aide we may bee able to follow them. Therefore we worſhip the martyrs with that worſhip of loue and ſocietie, wherewith holy men of God are worſhipped alſo in this life, whoſe heart we perceiue to be ready to ſuch ſuffering, for the trueth of the Goſpell.

Now let all indifferent men iudge, whether you worſhip the ſaincts departed on their feſtiual daies, as they did in S. Auguſtines time, whether with the ſame kind of worſhip wherewith godly men liuing may bee worſhipped, with the onely difference of greater deuotion, and more ſecurely, becauſe they are paſt all daunger, which alſo he addeth. That you tranſlate of partaking their merites, S. Auguſtine meaneth of beyng ioyned to them in woorthineſſe, by imitation of their vertues, not by communication of merites. For the word merite oftentimes he vſeth for the dignitie or worthineſſe of any perſon, and he ſaieth not Communicet meritis, but Conſocietur meritis: which ſignifieth not communication of merites, but aſſociation or adioyning, or to be made fellow in merites. Chriſt doth communicate his merites to vs, and we are partakers of his merites. But he doth not conſociate vs to his merites, which were to make vs fellowes in merites with him. That he ſaieth of ſainctes departed praying for vs, becauſe we finde it not in Scripture, we leaue it in doubt. But ſeeyng prayer is a ſacrifice due onely to God, as the ſacrifice of prayſe, (which in the ſame chapter he confeſſeth to bee a part of the worſhip due onely to God, out of the fiftie Pſalme) we may conclude out of his wordes, that our prayers are not to bee offered to ſainctes, although ſome ſeede of that ſuperſtition was ſowed in his time.

Reading of the Scriptures according to the time of the yeere.

Deuiding of the Scripture to be read at certaine times, is a thing indifferent, and hath bene diuerſly vſed. And although ſome more contentiouſly then aduiſedly, haue inueighed againſt ſuch diuiſion as the Church of England vſeth, yet they meant not thereby to bring in helliſh horror, and all diſorder. For thoſe churches, which vſing their libertie, keepe no ſuch diuiſion of reading, yet haue all things done decently, and according to an order.

Rhem. 7. 24 By an allegorie.) Here we learne that the holy Scriptures haue beſide the litteral ſenſe, a deeper ſpirituall & more principall meaning: which is not only to be taken of the holy wordes, but of the very facts and perſons reported: both the ſpeaches and the actions being ſignificatiue ouer and aboue the letter. Which pregnancie of manifold ſenſes if S. Paul had not ſignified himſelfe in certaine places, the Heretikes had bene leſſe wicked and preſumptuous in condemning the holy fathers allegorical expoſitions almoſt wholy: who now ſhew themſelues to be mere brutiſh and carnal men, hauing no ſenſe nor feeling of the profunditie of the Scriptures, which our holy fathers the Doctors of Gods Church ſaw.

The Scriptures haue an allegoricall ſenſe beſide the litteral.

Fulke. 7. We learne that Abrahams houſe being the Church, was a figure or paterne of the Church to come, and that all notable mutations therein doe prefigure or ſet forth, the like in the whole Church that followed. But we doe not learne to draw the Scriptures from the ſenſe of the wordes which you call the literall ſenſe, to any allegoricall interpretation, which is fayned and counterfected in mans brayne, and hath no ground of the ſpirit of God, whereby Origen fell into hereſies, and diuers ancient fathers, handled not the Scriptures according to the ſenſe of the holy ghoſt. But that the Apoſtle in this place vſing the terme of allegory, meaneth no ſuch deſcanting vpon the Scripture, as you call a deeper and ſpirituall, and more principall meaning, diuers of the ancient fathers alſo doe beare witneſſe. Firſt Chryſoſtome vpon this place ſaieth: A figure he calleth improperly an allegory. But this is the meaning of that he ſaieth. This hiſtory declareth not onely that which appeareth, but alſo ſetteth foorth higher matters. Theodoret vpon this place ſayth: The diuine Apoſtle hath ſayd theſe things are ſayd by allegory, meaning that they are otherwiſe vnderſtood, for he hath not taken away the ſtory, but teacheth what things are prefigured in the ſtory.

Allegoricall interpretations.

S. Ambroſe ſaith: Iſaack was borne to be a figure of Chriſt. Therefore he ſaith theſe thinges are ſaid by allegorie, becauſe the perſons of Iſmael and Iſaack by one thing ſignifie another. Photius ſaith: They are ſpoken allegorically, that is, the nativities of theſe two ſonnes were figures of two teſtaments. Theſe prefigurations differ much from allegoricall interpretation. And if we ſhould admit that the apoſtle, who was certeine of the ſenſe of the Holy ghoſt, did make an allegoricall interpretation, yet is it not lawfull for euery man which hath no ſuch aſſurance to make allegories of the holy ſcripture, where he hath no ground of the words to yeeld any ſuch ſenſe. Neither is it ſufficient, that nothing but truth be gathred out of them, which is els where plainly ſet forth: for it is not lawfull to conclude euery truth out of any text of ſcripture, where the Holy ghoſt meaneth not to teach any ſuch matter. How vaine a thing therfore thoſe allegories are, the varietie of them gathered by diuers men out of the ſame text, doth declare, ſeeing they haue no foundation in the word, but only in the braine of the inuenter. And it is as eaſie a matter to interpret Virgils Aeneades, or Ouids Metamorphoſis allegoricallie as the ſcriptures, and to applie all things in them to truth and ſpirituall vnderſtanding. Which if it be an abuſe of the prophane writings of thoſe Poets, to draw their ſayings to a farre other meaning then euer they had, how much more is it in like maner an abuſe of the holy ſayings of the Prophets, of Chriſt, and his Apoſtles?

Rhem. 31 Freedom.) *He meaneth the libertie and diſcharge from the old ceremonies, ſacraments, and the whole bondage of the Law, and from the ſeruitude of ſinne, and the Diuel, to ſuch as obey him: but not libertie to do what euery man liſt, or to be vnder no obedience of ſpiritual or temporal lawes and gouernors: not a licence neuer to pray, faſt, keepe holy day or worke-day, but when and how it ſeemeth beſt to euery mans phantaſie. 16 Then

The Epiſtle vpon the 14 Sunday after Pentecoſt.

16 And I ſay, walke in the ſpirit, and the luſtes of the fleſh you ſhal not accompliſh.

17 For the fleſh luſteth againſt the ſpirit: and the ſpirit againſt the fleſh. for theſe are aduerſaries one to an other: ‡that not what things ſoeuer ‖ you wil, theſe you doe.

18 But if you be ledde by the ſpirit, you are not vnder the Law.

19 And the workes of the fleſh be manifeſt, which are, fornication, vncleannes, impudicitie, lecherie,

20 Seruing of Idols, witch-craftes, enmities, contentions, emulations, angers, brawles, diſſenſions, ſectes, 21 Enuies, murders, ebrieties, commeſſations, and ſuch like. which I foretel you, as I haue foretold you, that they which doe ᶜ ſuch things, ſhal not obteine the kingdom of God.

22 But the fruite of the Spirit is, Charitie, ioy, peace, patience, benignitie, goodnes, longanimitie, 23 Mildnes, faith, modeſtie, continencie, chaſtitie. Againſt ſuch there is no law.

24 And they that be Chriſts, haue crucified their fleſh with the vices and concupiſcences.

The Epiſtle vpon the 15 Sunday after Pentecoſt.

25 If we liue in the ſpirit, in the ſpirit alſo let vs walke.

26 Let vs not be made deſirous of vaine glorie, prouoking one an other, enuying one an other.

*16 * Then I ſay, walke in the ſpirit, and ‖ ye ſhall not fulfill the luſts of the fleſh.* ‖ Or, fulfill ye not. Rom. 13.14.

17 For the fleſh luſteth contrary to the ſpirit, and the ſpirit contrary to the fleſh: theſe are contrary one to the other, ſo that ye cannot doe what ye would. 1.pet.2.12.

18 But if you be led of the ſpirit, then are you not vnder the law.

19 The deeds of the fleſh are manifeſt, which are theſe, adulterie, fornication, vncleanneſſe, wantonneſſe,

20 Worſhipping of images, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, ſtrife, ſeditions, ſects, 21 Enuyings, murders, drunkenneſſe, gluttonies, and ſuch like, of the which I tell you before, as I haue tolde you in time paſt, that euen they which doe ſuch things, ſhall not inherite the kingdome of God.

22 But the fruite of the ſpirit is loue, ioy, peace, long ſuffering, gentleneſſe, goodneſſe, faith, 23 Meekeneſſe, temperance: againſt ſuch there is no law.

24 They truly that are Chriſtes, haue crucified the fleſh, with the affections and luſts.

25 If we liue in the ſpirit, let vs alſo walke in the ſpirit.

26 Let vs not be deſirous of vaine glorie, prouoking one another, enuying one another.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 1. 17. That not what thigs.) Here men thinke (ſaith S. Auguſtine) the Apoſtle deuiſeth that we haue free libertie of wil: not vnderſtanding that this is ſaid to them, if they wil not hold faſt the grace of faith conceiued, by which only they can walke in the ſpirit, and not accompliſh the concupiſcences of the fleſh. in c.5.Gal.

Fulke. 1. Euen by this ſaying you may ſee he denyeth the will of man to be free from thraldome of ſinne, before it be enlarged by grace: yet is it alwayes free from conſtreint or compulſion. Theſe men therefore are they that ſay when they haue committed any heinous crimes: I am vnwilling to doe it, I am conſtreined, I am compelled, I am ouercome. I doe that I will not, as the Apoſtle ſaith, &c. Bede ex Auguſt. ſer. De verbis Apoſtoli vpon this text. So he ſaith: There be men vnthankefull to grace, which aſcribe much to poore and wounded nature. It is true, man when he was created, receiued great ſtrength of free will, but by ſinning he loſt it. De verb. Apoſtol. ſer. 2. Beſide this the text is plaine againſt the freedome of our will captiue vnto ſinne. Freewil.

Rhem. 2. 21. ᶜ Such things.) S. Auguſtine ſheweth hereby that not only infidelitie is a damnable ſinne.

Fulke. 2. All other ſinnes follow of infidelitie, as vertues doe of faith. And all ſinnes of their owne nature are damnable, euen thoſe that are committed by them that haue faith: yet if they haue true faith, there is no condemnation to them that are in Chriſt, which walke not after the fleſh, but after the ſpirit, that is, which are they in whom ſinne doth not reigne, not they that are void of ſinne, as Auguſtine doth interpret. All ſinne is damnable of it ſelfe.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 3. 6. Faith. This is the faith working by charitie, which S. Paul meaneth els where, when he ſaith that faith doth iuſtifie. And note wel that by thoſe termes circumciſion and prepuce not auailable to iuſtification, it is plaine that in other places he meaneth the workes of Circumciſion and Prepuce (that is, of the Iewes and the Gentils) without faith, which auaile not, but faith working by charitie: as who ſhould ſay, faith and good workes, not workes without faith.

Againe note here, that if the Proteſtants who pretend conference of places to be the beſt or only way to explicate hard ſpeaches of the holy Scriptures, had followed but their owne rule, this one text would haue interpreted and cleared vnto them al other whereby iuſtice and ſaluation might ſeeme to be attributed to faith alone: the Apoſtle here ſo expreſly ſetting downe, the faith which he commendeth ſo much before, not to be alone, but with charitie: not to be idle, but to be working by Charitie: as S. Auguſtine noteth. de fid. & op. c. 14. Further the good Reader muſt obſerue, that whereas the Proteſtants ſome of them confeſſe, that Charitie and good workes be ioyned and requiſite alſo, and that they exclude them not, but commend them highly, yet ſo that the ſaid Charitie or good workes are no part of our iuſtice or any cauſe of iuſtification, Iuſtification by faith only, diſproued by conference of Scriptures. How the Proteſtants admit charitie and good works to iuſtification ſtification, but as fruites and effects of faith onely, which they ſay doth all, yea though the other be preſent: this falſe gloſe alſo is reproued euidently by this place, which teacheth vs cleane contrarie: to witte, that faith hath her whole actiuitie and operation toward iuſtice and ſaluation, of charitie, and not contrariwiſe: without which it can not haue any act meritorious or agreable to God for our ſaluation. for which cauſe S. Auguſtine ſaith, li. 15 de Trin. c. 18. Fidem non facit vtilem niſi charitas. nothing maketh faith profitable but charitie. But the Heretikes anſwer, that where the Apoſtle ſaith, faith worketh by charitie, he maketh charitie to be the inſtrument only of faith in wel working, and therfore the inferior cauſe at the leaſt. but this alſo is eaſily refuted by the Apoſtles plaine teſtimonie, affirming that charitie is the greater vertue, & that if a man had all faith and lacked charitie, he were worth nothing. And againe,* that Charitie is the perfection and accompliſhment of the Law (as faith is not) which can not agree to the inſtrumental or inferior cauſe. And therfore when it is ſaid that faith worketh by charitie, it is not as by an inſtrument, but as the body worketh by the ſoul, the matter by the forme, without which they haue no actiuitie. Whereupon the Schooles call Charitie, the firme or life of faith, that is to ſay, the force, actiuitie, and operatiue qualitie thereof, in reſpect of merite and iuſtice. Which S. Iames doth plainely inſinuate, when he maketh faith without Charitie, to be as a dead corps without ſoul or life, and therfore without profitable operation.* c. 2. v. 26.

Charitie is more principal then faith in iuſtification

1 Cor. 13. Rom. 13. 1. Tim. 1.

How faith worketh by charitie.

Fulke. 3. In the margent you promiſe vs that iuſtification by faith onely is diſprooued by conference of ſcriptures. Firſt you ſay it is a working faith that doth iuſtifie, and we neuer ſaid otherwiſe. Secondly, you ſay the works of circumciſion and prepuce that is of Iewes and Gentiles, without faith auaile not: we ſay as much, but yet faith iuſtifieth without the works of Iewes or Gentiles, ergo only faith doth iuſtifie. But faith which worketh by charitie, not which is idle or dead. This is (ſay you) as who ſhould ſay, faith and good workes, not workes without faith. But we anſwer, whoſoeuer ſhould ſo ſay, ſhould ſay contrary to the apoſtle, which ſaith a man is iuſtified by faith without works, and therfore not by works and faith, but by faith only, without the merit of works. For onely faith excludeth nothing but the merit of works. This conference therefore doth nothing derogate from the truth of iuſtification by faith only, for we neuer meant any other faith but a true, a liuely, a working faith, wherby only a man is iuſtified. Therfore S. Ambroſe ſaith vpon this text: Neither vncircumciſion auaileth any thing, nor circumciſion, but only faith in loue is needfull vnto iuſtification. And Auguſtine De fide & operibus reaſoneth manifeſtly againſt them that thought to be iuſtified by a dead faith, which is void of good works. For euen in the ſame place he ſaith of good works: Sequuntur iuſtificatum non præcedunt iuſtificandum, They follow him that is iuſtified, they go not before him that is to be iuſtified. Wherupon it followeth inuincibly, that they be no cauſe of iuſtification, for the cauſe goeth before the effect: but they be the effect of iuſtification, which foloweth it as the cauſe. But againſt this (you ſay) it is proued by this place, that faith hath her whole actiuitie and operation toward iuſtice and ſaluation, of charitie, and not contrariwiſe: without which it cannot haue any act meritorious, or agreeable to God for our ſaluation. For act meritorious it needeth not, ſeeing we are not iuſtified by the merit of faith, but by the merit of Chriſt apprehended by faith. And it is moſt agreeable to God, who iuſtifieth the vngodly freely, and ſaueth by his grace, to iuſtifie vs by the only inſtrument of faith: whereby the whole glorie of our ſaluation is aſcribed to grace, as the Apoſtle ſaith: By grace you are ſaued, not of works. Eph. 2. Charitie by which faith worketh therfore, declareth faith to be liuing and not dead, as the fruite declareth the tree to be liuing and a good tree, but thereof it followeth not that faith hath no effect peculiar to her, in which charitie doth not concurre, though it be not ſeparated from faith. And your ſelues acknowledge the firſt iuſtification (which we acknowledge to be the onely iuſtification before God to ſaluation) to be of meere grace without works, therfore by faith onely, where is then the actiuitie of charitie whereof you ſpeake? And that which S. Auguſtine ſaith in the place cited, is of bare knowledge, ſuch as is in deuils, not of iuſtification. For it followeth immediatly: Faith may be without charitie, but it can not profit. Therfore the apoſtle Paule ſaith: In Chriſt Ieſus neither circumciſion nor vncircumciſion auaileth any thing, but faith which worketh by loue: So diſtinguiſhing it from that faith by which deuils doe beleeue and tremble. You ſee plainely of what faith he ſpeaketh, which is not profitable, being void of charitie. And where you feare leſt we will make charitie the inſtrument onely of faith in well working and ſo the inferior cauſe, we make not charitie a dead inſtrument, but the firſt effect of faith next our iuſtification, whereof proceedeth all obedience of loue to our neighbor. That the apoſtle ſaith charitie is the greater, it is in reſpect of larger cõtinuance, not in reſpect of iuſtification. That which he ſaith of all faith without charitie, he meaneth of faith by which miracles may be done, not of iuſtifying faith. That charitie is the perfection of the law, it is true: but no man hath perfect charitie, therefore no man performeth the law. And where you ſay faith is not the perfection of the law, S. Auguſtine ſaith, faith obteineth that which the law commandeth. De natura & gratia. cap. 16. Againe it may be rightly ſaid, that all the commandements of God pertaine to faith onely, if not a dead faith be vnderſtood, but that liuing faith which worketh by loue. De fide & operibus. cap. 22. But faith (you ſay) worketh by charitie, as the body by the ſoule, the matter by the forme. This is an vnproper working, for the matter is paſſible, and the forme actiue, the ſoule rather worketh by the body, then the body by the ſoule. But that charitie is the forme or life of faith, you ſay S. Iames doth plainely inſinuate, when he maketh faith without charitie to be as a dead corps without life. I anſwer, S. Iames by that example ſheweth, that a dead and fruitleſſe faith is nothing worth: and that as by actions of life, a body is knowen to liue: ſo by works, which is an act or effect of faith, faith is knowen to be liuing and not dead. But that charitie is the forme or life of faith, you cannot proue out of his words, or the whole diſcourſe of that chapter.

Iuſtification by faith only.

Rhem. 4. 13. Libertie an occaſion.) They abuſe the libertie of the Goſpel to the aduantage of their fleſh, that vnder pretenſe thereof, ſhake of their obedience to the lawes of men, to the decrees of the Church and Councels, that wil liue and beleeue as they liſt, and not be taught by their Superiors, but fornicate with euery Seſt-maiſter that teacheth pleaſant and licentious things: and al this vnder pretence of ſpirit, libertie and freedom of the Goſpel. Such muſt learne that al hereſies, ſchiſmes, and rebellions againſt the Church and their lawful Prelates, be counted here among the workes of the fleſh. See S. Auguſtine de fid. & op. c. 24. 25.

True libertie, not carnal and fleſhly.

Fulke. 4. Carnall libertie is doubtleſſe condemned, but S. Auguſtine doth not charge them with carnall libertie, which refuſe to be taught by ſuch ſuperiours, as will not teach them out of the word of God: for ſuch be ſect maiſters,

What is carnall libertie.

maiſters, and no lawfull ſuperiors. But while you ſeeme to reſtraine all men from licentiouſneſſe, you would haue libertie to teach what you liſt, and to enforce men to receiue it, or els charge them with fleſhly and carnall libertie.

CHAP. VI.

If any do ſinne, the reſt that do the workes of the Holy Ghoſt, muſt not therfore take pride in them ſelues, but rather make humilitie of it, partly by fearing their owne fall, partly by looking ſtraitly to their owne workes. 6 He exhorteth earneſtly to good workes, aſſuring them that they ſhal reape more other then here they ſow. 11 With his owne hand he writeth, telling them, the true cauſe why thoſe falſe Apoſtles preach circumciſion, to be only to pleaſe the Iewes: 17 and a plaine argument that he preacheth it not, ſo be this, that he is perſecuted of the Iewes.

BRETHREN, and if a man be preoccupated in any fault, you that are ſpiritual, inſtruct ſuch an one in the ſpirit of lenitie, conſidering thine owne ſelf, leſt thou alſo be tempted.

2 Beare ye one an others burdens: and ſo you ſhal fulfil the law of Chriſt.

3 For if any man eſteeme him ſelf to be ſomething, whereas he is nothing, he ſeduceth him ſelf.

4 But let euery one proue his owne worke, and ſo in himſelf only ſhal he haue the glorie, and not in an other.

5 For euery one ſhal beare his owne burden.

1.Cor.9,7. 6 And let * him that is catechized in the word, communicate to him that catechizeth him, in al his goods.

7 Be not deceiued, God is not mocked.

8 For what things a man ſhal ſow, thoſe alſo ſhal he reape. For he that ſoweth in his fleſh, of the fleſh alſo ſhal reape corruption. but he that ſoweth in the ſpirit, of the ſpirit ſhal reape life euerlaſting.

2.Theſ.3,13 9 And * doing good, let vs not faile. For in due time we ſhal ‡ reape not failing.

10 Therfore whiles we haue time, let vs worke good to al, but ‖ eſpecially to the domeſticals of the faith.

11 See with what maner of letters I haue written to you with mine owne hand.

12 Whoſoeuer wil pleaſe in the fleſh, they force you to be circumciſed, only that they may not ſuffer the perſecution of the croſſe of Chriſt.

23 For neither they that are circumciſed, do keepe the Law: but they wil haue you to be circumciſed, that they may glorie in your fleſh.

The Epiſtle for S. Francis. Octob. 4. 14 But ‡ God forbid that I ſhould glorie, ſauing in the croſſe of our Lord IESVS Chriſt: by whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world.

15 For in Chriſt IESVS neither circumciſion auaileth ought, not prepuce, but ‖ a new creature.

16 And whoſoeuer ſhal folow this rule, peace

BRethren, if a man be preuented in any fault, ye which are ſpirituall, reſtore ſuch a one in the ſpirit of meekneſſe, conſidering thy ſelfe, leaſt thou alſo be tempted.

2 Beare ye one anothers burden, and ſo fulfill the law of Chriſt.

3 For if any man ſeeme to himſelfe that he is ſomewhat, when he is nothing, the ſame deceiueth himſelfe in his owne fantaſie.

4 But let euery man proue his owne worke: and then ſhall he haue reioycing onely in his owne ſelfe, and not in another.

*5 * For euery man ſhall beare his owne burden.* 1.Cor.3.8.

6 Let him that is taught in the word, minifter vnto him that teacheth him, in all good things.

7 Be not deceiued, God is not mocked: for whatſoeuer a man ſoweth, that ſhall he alſo reape.

8 For he that ſoweth in his fleſh, ſhall of the fleſh reape corruption: but he that ſoweth into the ſpirit, ſhall of the ſpirit reape life euerlaſting.

9 Let vs not be wearie in well doing: for in due ſeaſon we ſhall reape, if we faint not.

10 While we haue therefore time, let vs doe good vnto all men, ſpecially vnto them which are of the houſhold of faith.

11 Ye ſee how large a letter I haue written vnto you with mine owne hand.

12 As many as deſire with outward appearance to pleaſe ‖ carnally, the ſame conſtraine you to be circumciſed: onely leſt they ſhould ſuffer perſecution for the croſſe of Chriſt. ‖ Or, in the fleſh.

13 For they themſelues which are circumciſed, keepe not the law: but deſire to haue you circumciſed, that they might glory in your fleſh.

14 God forbid that I ſhould glory, but in the croſſe of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt: wherby the world is crucified vnto me, and I vnto the world.

15 For in Chriſt Ieſu neither circumciſion auaileth any thing, nor vncircumciſion, but a new creature.

16 And as many as walke according to this rule, peace vpon them, and mercie, and vpon the Israël of God.

17 From hencefurth let no man be troublesome to me. for I beare the markes of our Lord IESVS in my body.

18 The grace of our Lord IESVS Christ be with your spirit brethren. Amen.

rule, peace be on them, and mercie, and vpon the Israel that is of God.

17 From henceforth let no man put me to busines: for I beare in my body the markes of the Lord Iesus.

18 Brethren, the grace of our Lorde Iesus Christ be with your spirite, Amen.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 1. 9. Reape not.) The workes of mercie be the seede of life euerlasting, and the proper cause thereof, and not faith only.

Fulke 1. Faith, by which only we are iustified, is the roote, whereon those seedes doe grow, which by Gods merciful promise, not by the merite of the workes, are made the seede of eternall life.

Rhem. 2. 14. God forbid.) Christ (saith S. Augustine) chose a kinde of death, to hang on the Crosse and to fixe or fasten the same crosse in the foreheads of the faithful, that the Christian may say, God forbid that I should glorie saving in the crosse of our Lord IESVS CHRIST. Expos. in Euang. Io. tract. 43.

Fulke 2. You falsefie S. Augustine. For his word is in cordibus, not in frontibus, he hath fastened his crosse in the hearts of the faithfull. For they only can say, God forbid that I should glorie but in the crosse of Christ, in whose hearts the crosse of Christ is fastned by faith, which can not be fastened on mens foreheads, and many haue it signed in their foreheads, that haue it not fastned in their hearts by faith. The crosse of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 3. 6. Communicate.) The great duety and respect that we ought to haue to such as preach or teach vs the Cath. faith, and not in regard one iy of their paines taken with vs, and wel-deseruing of vs by their doctrine: but that we may be partakers of their merites, we ought specially to do good to such, or (as the Apostle speaketh) communicate with them in al our temporal goods, that we may be partakers of their spiritual. See S. Augustine li. 2. Euang. quæst q 8. Duetie to our spiritual teachers.

Fulke 3. The forme of wordes which S. Augustine vseth, doth declare, that he taketh not merite in that sense you speake of. He would not say, they shall giue into your bosome, but because they shall merite to receiue an heauenly reward, by the merites of them to whom they shall giue but a cuppe of colde water. He sayth not, other men shall bestowe part of their merites vnto them, but they shall merite by other mens merites, that is, God shall reward them by occasion of them, to whom they shall giue a cup of colde water. For admit he be an Hypocrite, to whome almes is bestowed in the name of a Disciple, or a iust man, or a Prophet, shall not the giuer in faith and simplicitie, haue as great a reward, as if he were a true Prophet, iust man, or Disciple? yes verely. Therefore the reward dependeth not in participation of other mens merites, but only vpon Gods promise. What Augustine thought of merites, he hath best expressed in those bookes, which he wrote against the Pelagians, where he sheweth plentifully, that we are saued by grace, without merites, and of the reward of good workes, he sayth often, that God crowneth vs, because he crowneth in vs his giftes, not our merites. In Ps. 69. & Ps. 70. Con. 2. Communicating of merites.

Rhem. 10. Especially.) In giuing almes, though we may do wel in helping al that are in necessitie, as farre as we can, yet we are more bound to succour Christians, then Iewes or Infidels: & Catholikes, then Heretikes. See S. Hierom q. 1. ad Hedibiam. In almes whom to preferre.

Rhem. 4. 15. A new creature.) Note wel that the Apostle calleth that here a new creature, which in the last chapter he termed, faith working by charitie, and (1. Cor. 7, 19.) the obseruation of the commaundements of God. Whereby we may learne that vnder the name of faith is conteined the whole reformation of our soul. s and our new creation in good workes, and also that Christian iustice is a very qualitie, condition and state of vertue and grace resident in vs, and not a phantastical apprehension of Christes iustice only imputed to vs. Lastly, that the faith which iustifieth, ioyned with the other vertues, is properly the formal cause, and not the efficient or instrumental cause of iustification, that is to say, those vertues put together, being the effect of Gods grace, be our new creature and our iustice in Christ. Iustice an inherent qualitie in vs. Faith with the other vertues is the formal cause of iustification.

Fulke 4. You might as well say, note here, that whatsoeuer S. Paule hath written in this whole Epistle, of iustification by faith without the workes of the Lawe, he ouerthroweth it all in the ende and conclusion. But we must confesse, that in the 5. Chapter, he speaketh of faith, as the cause of our iustification, here of workes and obedience, the fruites of faith, and end of our iustification. For none of your conclusions can be gathered out of the text, in any lawfull forme of argument. There is in deede in the iustified, a new creature of iustice inherent, but they are thereby declared iust, not made iust. But where you deny faith to be the instrumentall cause of our iustification, you goe against the doctrine of your owne Doctors. For Thomas Aquinas confesseth, that we are iustified by faith instrumentally, or as by an instrumentall cause. And what can apprehend or receiue the grace and mercie of God, by which we are saued, but faith, the roote and beginning of all vertues? To denye faith therefore to be the instrument of our iustification, is to deny that we haue receiued the grace of iustification. And seing God iustifieth ỹ vngodly man, that beleeueth in him, Ro. 4. 5. no vertue inherent can be of the forme or essence of iustification. For an vngodly man hath no vertue inherent in him, and good workes are not the forme, but the end of our iustification, Eph. 2, 9. 10. Neither doth faith it selfe merite iustification, but God reputeth faith without merite of workes, vnto iustice, Rom. 4 And that faith doth not merite in the cause of iustification, S. Augustine proueth effectually Ep. 106. and ad Simpl. lib. 1. Qu. 2. The formal cause of our iustification therefore, is the promise of the Gosell, which is the seede of immortalitie, Eph. 2, 20. 1. Pet. 1, 23. and the materiall cause is the iustice of Christ, imputed through faith, 2. Co. 5, 21. 1. Cor. 1, 30. Faith and workes.

5 Who hath predeſtinated vs vnto the adoptiõ of ſonnes, by IESVS Chriſt, vnto him ſelf: according to the purpoſe of his wil:

6 Vnto the praiſe of the glorie of his grace, wherein he hath [c] gratified vs in his beloued ſonne.

7 In whom we haue redemption by his bloud (the remiſsion of ſinnes) according to the riches of his grace.

8 Which hath ſuperabounded in vs in al wiſedom and prudence,

9 That he might make knowen vnto vs ſ ſacramẽt of his wil, according to his good pleaſure, which he purpoſed in him ſelf,

10 In the diſpenſation of the fulnes of times, to [c] perfit al things in Chriſt, that are in heauen and in earth, in him.

11 In whom we alſo are called by lot: predeſtinate according to the purpoſe of him that worketh al things, according to the counſel of his wil:

12 That we may be vnto the praiſe of his glorie, which before haue hoped in Chriſt:

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 4. In his sight.) We learne here that by Gods grace men be holy and immaculate, not onely in the sight of men, nor by imputation, but truely and before God: contrary to the doctrine of the Caluinistes.

Fulke 1. To be holy and immaculate by imputation of Christes iustice, is to be truely holy and immaculate before God. For otherwise, no man is immaculate in this life, by iustice inherent in him selfe. Iustice imputed is true iustice.

Rhem. 2. 13. Signed with the.) Some referre this to the grace of Baptisme: but to many learned it seemeth that the Apostle alludeth to the giuing of the Holy Ghost in the Sacrament of Confirmation, by signing the baptized with the signe of the Crosse and holy Chrisme. For that was the vse in the Apostles time, as els where we haue prooued. Annot Act.8.

Fulke 2. All the auncient Interpretors, Chrysostome, Ambrose, Theodoret, Augustine apud Bedam, Primasius, Hierom, Oecumenius, Theophylactus, interprete it of the holy Ghost, that is, giuen to euery one of the children of God, and not one of them, either of Baptisme, Confirmation, Crossing, or Chrisming. And it is manifest, that the Apostle speaketh of that sealing, which is the vndoubted pledge of our saluation, which is no outward Sacrament or ceremonie, without the inward seale of the spirite of God. These learned men that you speake of therefore, be your maisters of the new learning, for the ancient learning had no such interpretation. New interpretations.

Rhem. 3. 23. Fulnes of.) Christ is not ful, whole, and perfect without the Church no more then the head without the body.

Fulke 3. Christ is full and perfect in him selfe, but as by his gracious dispensation he is the head of his Church, he is not full or perfect, without his body.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 4. 21. Al Principalitie.) The Fathers vpon this, and other places of the old and new Testament, where they finde the orders of holy Angels or spirites named, agree that there be nine orders of them. Of which some be here counted and called, as we see: in the Epistle to the Colossians, the order of Thrones is specified, which maketh fiue: to which if we adde these foure, Cherubim, Seraphim, Angels, and Archangels, which are commonly named in holy write, in al there be nine. S. Denys cœl. Hier. c.7.8.9. & Ec. Hier. c.1. S Athanas. li. de Communi essent. in fine. Gregor. Moral. li. 32. c. 18. Nine orders of Angels. *Therefore good Reader, make no accompt of * Caluins and others infidelitie, which blasphemously blame and condemne the holy Doctors diligence in this point, of curiositie and impietie. The whole endeuour of these heretikes is, to bring al into doubt, and to* Cal. vpon this place.

corrupt euery Article of our Religion.

Fulke 4. Caluines wordes are theſe: As of the diuerſitie of the names, we gather, that there be diuerſe orders: ſo to enquire of them ouer ſubtilly, and to define their number, and to appoint their degrees, is a paine not only of fooliſh curioſitie, but alſo of vngodly and dangerous raſhnes. Caluine meaneth to enquire, define, or appoint more ſubtilly, then the word of God hath reuealed, is both vaine curioſitie, and impious temeritie. What infidelitie or blaſphemie is conteined in this ſaying! If the diligence of the holy Doctors, haue concluded any thing certenly out of the word of God, Caluine ſpeaketh not one word againſt them. Caluine neuer purpoſed, or endeuored, to bring any article of religion in doubt: but would haue all articles of religion grounded vpon the worde of God, that they might be vndoubted. Slanders.

Rhem. 5. Apoc. 19. 1. Pet. 2, 25. 22. Head.) It maketh a high proofe among the Proteſtants, that no man can be head of the Church, becauſe it is a calling and dignitie proper to Chriſt. But in truth by as good reaſon there ſhould be no king nor Lord, becauſe He is king and Lord, neither ſhould there be Biſhop or Paſtor, becauſe he is the Biſhop & Paſtor of our ſoules: nor Pontifex nor Apoſtle, for by theſe titles S. Paul termeth him Heb. 3: none ſhould be piller, foundation, rocke, light, or maiſter of the Church or truth, becauſe Chriſt is properly al theſe. And yet our new doctors (though they be exceeding ſeditious and would for the aduantage of their ſect be gladly ridde of kings and al other Superiors temporal, if they feared not the ſword more then God, and would finde as good Scriptures to be deliuered of them, as they now find to diſcharge them ſelues of obedience to Popes:) yet (I ſay) they wil not deny, al the former titles and dignities (notwithſtanding Chriſtes ſouereine right in the ſame) to be giuen and communicated to the Princes and Magiſtrates of the earth both ſpirituall and temporal, though Chriſt in a more diuine, ample, abſolute, excellent, and tranſcendent ſort, haue al theſe things attributed or appropriated to him ſelf. So then, though he be the head of the Church, and the onely head in ſuch ſouereine and principal manner, as no earthly man or mere creature euer is or can be, and is ioined to the Church in a more excellent ſort of coniunction, then any king is to his ſubiects or Countrie, or any Pope or Prelate to the Church whereof he is gouernour, euen ſo farre that it is called his body Myſtical: life, motion, ſpirit, grace iſſuing downe from him to it and the members of the ſame, as from the head to the natural body, though in this ſort (we ſay) no man can be head but Chriſt, nor the Church be body to any but to Chriſt: yet the Pope may be the miniſterial head, that is to ſay, the cheefe Gouernour, Paſtor, and Prelate of the ſame, and may be his Vicar or Vicegerent in the regiment of that part which is in earth. as S. Hierom calleth Damaſus the Pope, Summum Sacerdotem, the cheefe & higheſt Prieſt: and the Apoſtle ſaith of this miniſterial head, The head can not ſay to the feete, you are not neceſſarie for me. For therein alſo is a great difference betweene Chriſt and euery mortal Prelate, that (as the Apoſtle here ſaith) he is head of the whole Church, meaning of the triumphant (and of al Angels alſo though in another ſort) no leſſe then of the Church militant. So Peter was not, nor any Pope, nor any man can be. where you muſt obſerue, that for this ſouereine preeminence of Chriſt in this caſe, the Church is not called the body myſtical of any Gouernour, Peter, Paul, or what Prelate or Pope ſo euer. As Chriſt is king, and yet men are kings alſo: ſo Chriſt is head of the Church, and yet man may be head thereof alſo. Chriſt is head of his Church in a far more excellent ſort, then any man can be. Hiero ep. 123. 1. Cor. 12, 21.

Fulke 5. That which is proper to Chriſt, is not communicable to any creature: to be head of his body, is proper to Chriſt: therfore it agreeth not to any creature, to be head of Chriſts bodye, which is his Church, in that ſenſe that Chriſt is head therof. Neither is any man, king, Lord, Biſhop, Paſtor, Pontifex, Apoſtle, piller, foundation, rocke, light, or maſter of the Church, or truth, as Chriſt is properly all theſe. For that which is proper to Chriſt, is not common to any other. Earthly kings, & earthly Lords, be ſo Kings & Lords, as they be his ſubiects, & ſeruants, Lieutenants, & Deputies, ſo I ſay of Biſhops & Paſtors. The high Prieſts office he hath him ſelfe, without any Deputie, & executeth it in his owne perſon, in that he offred him ſelf the only ſacrifice of our redemption once for all, & being entred into the holieſt place, appeareth in the preſence of God for vs, to make perpetuall interceſſion for vs. Heb. 9, 24. &c. As he was immediate Apoſtle from God his father, ſo he hath giuen and ſent Apoſtles from him ſelf. The Apoſtles are pillers & foundations, rockes or ſtones, but yet ſo, that Chriſt is the onely corner ſtone, onely maine foundation, & ſtedfaſt rocke, that beareth vp the whole building. Chriſt is the only true light, which lightneth euery man that commeth vnto this world: & Iohn Baptiſt, though a light, yet was not that light, nor any Apoſtle, or other meſſenger, which is but as a candle, or a ſtarre taking his light of the Sunne. Chriſt is the only maſter of the Church, and truth, forbidding vs to call or acknowledge, any other maſter or author of truth, though he haue many Vſhers vnder him, that teach the Church in that truth, which they haue learned of him. So Chriſt is the only head of the Church, as you confeſſe, in ſuch ſort, as no earthly man, or meere creature can be. Now it may be doubted, whether you take the Pope, to be a meere creature, becauſe ſome of your Canoniſts haue ſayd vnto him, Nec Deus es, nec homo, quaſi neuter es inter vtrumq. Thou art neither God, nor man, thou art as it were a Neuter betweene both. As alſo, that ſome of you haue called him Dominus Deus noſter Papa, Our Lord God the Pope, And ſome haue denied that he is a man, as the See of Peter is ſubiect vnto him Clemens in Ioannio in gloſſ. Extrauag. de verb. ſigni, Cap. cum inter, in gloſſa 2 dis. Paris. 1513. Decret. ſext. de electione. Fundamenta. in gloſſ. But to take you at the beſt, becauſe you ſay, no Pope is ſo head of ỹ Church, as Chriſt is the head of his myſtical body, It remaineth, that if you wil haue him head any way, you muſt ſhew by whō he is ſo conſtituted, & made head, as S Paul ſayth, that Chriſt is by God. The Pope you ſay, is miniſterial head of the Church, & yet you ſay, the Church can be body to none, but vnto Chriſt, wherof it followeth, that none can properly be head of the Church, but Chriſt. For euery head is head of ſome body, and no body but a monſter hath two heads. For though euery king may be called head of the Church of his dominion, which is a body diſtinct from the whole Church, as euery ſeueral pariſh is, & the Gouernour therof may in ſome ſenſe be called head therof, yet of the whole Church, being one body cōſiſting of all the members, there can be but one head, that is Chriſt. You anſwer, he is head, but of that part onely, which is on earth. Then is he not head of the Catholike & vniuerſal Church, by your owne confeſſion, neither hath he any thing to doe in Purgatory. But that he is head of the militant Church, what proofe haue you out of the Scriptures? You anſwer, the Apoſtle ſayd of this miniſterial head, The head can not ſay to the feet, you are not neceſſary for me. You durſt not for ſhame note thus much vpon that text, leſt your very ſpecial friends ſhould note your impudency, yea you haue noted vpon the 15 verſe, that Chriſt is the head of that ſpiritual body, which is reſembled to our natural body. Therfore this is but a voluntary, new, & abſurd expoſition, contrary to the manifeſt meaning of the Apoſtle. If you Chriſt the onely head of the whole Church will ſay,our principall head may iuſtly ſay,he hath no neede of his feete or loweſt members, it is vtterly falſe: for as he is head of his myſticall body, he cannot ſpare any one of his loweſt members, but euery one is required to his perfection and fulneſſe, as you haue noted your ſelfe vpon this verſe. When ſcripture faileth, you flee to Hieromes auctoritie,who maketh nothing for you, in calling Damaſus higheſt prieſt,ſeeing he confeſſeth els where,that the poore Biſhop of Eugubium,is of the ſame worthines and prieſthod,which the great Biſhop of Rome,and that all Biſhops are alike, the Apoſtles ſucceſſors, Epi.Euagrio. Wherefore ſeeing you conclude,that the Church is not called the myſticall body of the Pope,it is lawful for vs to inferre,that the Pope is not head of the myſticall body of Chriſt,but onely Chriſt himſelfe.

CHAP. II.

This iuſtification of meere grace by faith onely, without workes, is that, by which we are ſaued, as the text is plaine, and all the auncient fathers conſent for this newe deuiſe of the firſt and ſecond iuſtification, was vnknowen to them. 10 To the intent that nowe vnto the rulers and powers in heauenly things might be knowen by the Church, the very manifolde wiſedome of God,

11 According to the eternall purpoſe which he wrought in Chriſt Ieſus our Lord:

13 Wherefore I deſire that ye faint not for my tribulations for you, which is your glorie.

14 For this cauſe I bowe my knees vnto the father of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, 15 Of whom all the familie in heauen and earth is named.

16 That he woulde graunt you according to the riches of his glorie, to be ſtrengthened with might by his ſpirite in the inner man, 19 And to know the loue of Chriſt, which excelleth all knowledge, that ye might be filled with all fulneſſe of God.

20 Vnto him that is able to doe exceeding abundantly aboue all that we aske or thinke, according to the power that worketh in vs,

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 3. 5. One faith.) As rebellion is the bane of ciuil Commonwealths and kingdoms, and peace and concord the preſeruation of the ſame: ſo is Schiſme, diuiſion, and diuerſitie of faiths or fellowſhips in the ſeruice of God, the calamitie of the Church: and peace, vnitie, vniformitie, the ſpecial bleſſing of God therein, and in the Church aboue al Commonwealths, becauſe it is in al pointes a Monarchie tending euery way to vnitie. but one God, but one Chriſt, but one Church, but one hope, one faith, one baptiſme, one head, one body. Whereof S. Cyprian li. de vnit. Ec. nu. 3. ſaith thus: One Church the holy Ghoſt in the perſon of our Lord deſigneth and ſaith, One is my doue. This vnitie of the Church he that holdeth not, doth he thinke he holdeth the faith? He that withſtandeth and reſiſteth the Church, he that forſaketh Peters chaire vpon which the Church was built, doth he truſt that he is in the Church? When the bleſſed Apoſtle S. Paul alſo ſheweth this Sacrament of vnitie, ſaying, One body and one ſpirit &c. Which vnitie we Biſhops ſpecially that rule in the Church, ought to hold faſt and maintaine, that we may proue the Biſhoply function alſo it ſelfe to be one and vndiuided, &c. And againe, There is one God, and one Chriſt, and one Church, and one Chaire, by our Lordes voice founded vpon Peter. An other altar to be ſette vp, or a new Prieſthod to be made, beſides one altar, & one Prieſthod, is impoſſible. Whoſoeuer gathereth els where, ſcattereth. It is adulterous, it is impious, it is ſacrilegious, whatſoeuer is inſtituted by mans furie to the breach of Gods diuine diſpoſition. Get ye far from the contagion of ſuch men, and flee from their ſpeaches as a canker and peſtilence, our Lord hauing præmoniſhed and warned before hand, They are blind, leaders of the blind, &c. Whereby we learne that this vnitie of the Church commended ſo much vnto vs, conſiſteth in the mutual fellowſhip of al Biſhops with the See of Peter. S. Hilarie alſo (li. ad Conſtantium Auguſtum) thus applieth this ſame place of the Apoſtle againſt the Arians, as we may do againſt the Caluiniſts. Perilous and miſerable it is, ſaith he, that there are now ſo many faithes as willes, and ſo many doctrines as maners, whiles either faithes are ſo written as we wil, or as we wil, ſo are vnderſtood: and whereas according to one God, and one Lord, and one Baptiſme, there is alſo one faith, we fall away from that which is the onely faith, and whiles moe faithes be made, they beginne to come to that, that there is none at al.

Vnitie of the Cath. Church.

Ep. 40. Schiſme deteſtable.

Among heretikes as many faithes as willes.

Fulke 3. In the former ſaying of S. Cyprian: theſe wordes, He that forſaketh Peters chaire, vpon which the Church was built, are none of Cyprians wordes in the ancient bookes of Cyprian written and printed, but lately foyſted in by Pamelius. Likewiſe in the ſecond teſtimonie, where Cyprian hath ſuper Petram, vpon the rocke, Pamelius hath turned it into Petrum, vpon Peter. Such patcherie will ſerue well, to make Poperie ſeeme ancient among the ignorant, but it is groſſe paltrie in the iudgement of all that be wiſe and learned. Therefore your concluſion, that the vnitie of the Church conſiſteth in felowſhip with Peters Chaire, is builded vpon meere forgery and foyſting. And if thoſe ſayings were true, we might as truely ſay, that the Pope holdeth not Peters Chaire, that holdeth not Peters faith. The ſaying of Hilary maketh nothing againſt Caluine, nor them that conſent in doctrine with him, which acknowledge but one faith as one God.

Falſifying of the olde doctors.

Rhem. 4. 11. Some Apoſtles.) Many functions that were euen in the Apoſtles time, are not here named: which muſt be noted againſt the Aduerſaries that cal here for Popes, as though the names of Biſhops, Prieſts, or Deacons were not as wel laſt out as Popes: whom yet they can not deny to haue been in vſe in S. Paules daies. And therfore they haue no more reaſon, out of this place to diſpute againſt the Pope, then againſt the reſt of the Eccleſiaſtical functions. Neither is it neceſſarie to reduce ſuch as be not ſpecified here, to theſe here named: though in deede both other Biſhops and Prelates and ſpecially Popes may be conteined vnder the names of Apoſtles, Doctors, and Paſtors. Certes the roome and dignitie of the Pope is a very continual Apoſtleſhip, and S. Bernard calleth it Apoſtolatum. Bernard. ad Eugen. li. 1. c. 4. & c. 6. in fine.

The heretikes ſolith negatiue argument againſt ‡ Pope, anſwered.

The Popes office is called an Apoſtleſhip.

Fulke. 4. The Apoſtle nameth al functions neceſſary for the planting and continuance of doctrine, and the vnitie of the Church in the trueth, among which the Pope is none, therfore he hath no function for certeintie & vnitie of trueth, as is pretended. The functions perteyning to the external gouernment of the Church are not here named, but onely ſuch as perteine vnto doctrine, where the Apoſtle ſhould haue left out the principall of all, if the Popes ſupremacie were ſo neceſſary for continuance of vnitie in trueth, as you affirme. The functions of Biſhops, elders and deacons, (as they reſpect the external gouernment and policie of the Church,) are els where named generally and particularly: but in reſpect of the office of teaching, they are conteined vnder paſtours and teachers: But the Pope who is neither ſent of Chriſt, neither teacheth nor feedeth, how ſhould he be an Apoſtle, paſtour or teacher? But for his feeding and teaching you wil not greatly ſtriue: for his Apoſtleſhip you can finde nothing in the Scripture, nor in the auncient fathers for a thouſand yeres after Chriſt, and therefore it beganne belike in Bernards time, who as he being caried away with the errour of his age, aſcribeth too much to the biſhop of Rome, ſo he ment not to make him an Apoſtle, as thoſe that were ſent immediatly of Chriſt, and not of men nor by men: of whom S. Paul ſpeaketh in this place: who had alſo an office diſtinct from all other. Therefore ſeeing the Pope hath neither ſending from Chriſt, nor executeth the office of an Apoſtle, we may ſay to him as Tertullian ſaid to Marcion the heretike: If thou be a Prophet, foreſhewe ſometime. If thou be an Apoſtle, preach euery where. If thou be an Apoſtolike man, agree in doctrine with the Apoſtles.

The Pope not neceſſary for vnitie and certaintie of trueth.

Rhem. 5. 13. Vntil we meete.) The Church of God ſhal neuer lacke theſe ſpiritual functions, or ſuch as be anſwerable to them, according to the time and ſtate of the Church, til the worldes end. Whereby you may proue, the Catholike Church, that is to ſay, that viſible compaſſe of Chriſtians which hath euer had, and by good records can proue they haue had a continual ordinarie ſucceſſion of Biſhops, Paſtors, and Doctors, to be the onely true Church: and theſe other good fellowes that for many worldes or ages together can not ſhew that they had any one Biſhop, or ordinarie yea or extraordinarie officer for them and their ſect, to be an adulterous Heretical generation. And this place of the Apoſtle aſſuring to the true Church a perpetual viſible continuance of Paſtors and Apoſtles or their ſucceſſors, warranted the holy fathers to trie al Heretikes by the moſt famous ſucceſſion of the Popes of Rome. So did S. Irenæus, li. 3. c. 3. Tertullian, in præſcript. Optatus, li. 2. cont. Parm. S. Auguſtine, in pſ. cont. part. Donat. & cont. ep. Manich. c. 4. et ep. 165. Fulke 5. The Church of Christ hath neuer wanted pastors and teachers, for her continuance in the trueth of the doctrine of saluation, nor euer shall want them. Wherefore that Church which can proue by the holy Scriptures, that she holdeth the doctrine of the Gospel conteined in the same, neede not be carefull to knowe the names of the persons, and of the places where such pastors and teachers haue liued. But the doctrine proued to be true, doeth argue that it hath alwayes had such continuance and succession, as God promiseth to true doctrine. Contrarywise, the succession of persons and places, proueth not the continuance of trueth. And therfore you make a foolish and vnlearned Argument, when you say: The Catholike Church, that is to say, that visible company of Christians, which hath euer had, and by good record can proue they euer haue had, a continual ordinary succession of Bishops, pastors and doctors, is the only true Church. For first, it shall not be graunted vnto you, that the Catholike Church is alwayes a visible companie as you meane visible, to be alwayes in sight, euen of ỹ wicked world. Secondly, the Popish Church hath no succession from the Apostles, for many hundreth yeres after Christ. For they can not be said to succeede them, whose doctrine they renounce. Thirdly, that succession which they shew is not of pastors and teachers, but of wolues and other dombe dogs, or teachers of lies and fables. Fourthly, if it were graunted that they haue succession, which haue continuance of the names of Bishops, &c. in such places as the Apostles haue taught, without consent in doctrine with them: The Greeke Churches & other Churches of the East, (all which they accompt, & some are in deede heretikes) haue as ordinarie succession, and as good records to shew from the Apostles, & euen frō Peter, as you haue of your Popes from Peter. If this succession proue not them to be the true Church, no more doth it proue you. If trueth of doctrine be necessary to proue a true Church, the Scriptures are sufficient to proue a true Church, ỹ lawfull succession also. Where you say, for many ages, we can not shew that we haue had any one bishop, it is false: for all the true bishops of the Primitiue Church for sixe hundreth yeres and more after Christ, in all necessary points of doctrine agree with vs, and therefore were ancestours of our Church. In the later times also (for euery age we can name diuers pastors and teachers,) euen in the most darke times, and vnder the greatest tyrannie of Antichrist: by whome the true doctrine and Church of God haue bene continued, (though obscurely as the Moone in the wane or eclipse) euen vntil our dayes. In which God hauing openly reuealed the wickednes of Antichrist, the Church of Christ is againe restored into the light and sight of the world, and dayly preuaileth against the blind broode of Antichrist. The succession of the bishops of Rome, and other pastors and teachers from the Apostles, was alledged by the ancient fathers against those heretikes which taught new doctrine, which neither the Apostles nor their successors heard of in the Church, before the seuerall arising of those heretikes. But seeing the Papists are neuer able to proue, that we dissent in doctrine from the word of God, nor from the most ancient fathers of the Primitiue Church, (as we proue that they doe) the Argument of succession vsed by the ancient fathers, maketh directly against them, and nothing in the world against vs. One example shall serue in stead of many. Gregory bishop of Rome testifieth, that none of his predecessors did euer vse that prophane name of singularitie, to be vniuersall Bishop, (which yet his successors haue vsurped) therefore haue declared that they were the very Antichrists according to Gregories prophecie, and auctours of a newe heresie neuer before receiued in the Church for sixe hundreth yeres after Christ. Gregor. lib. 4. Ep. 32. & 36.

Succession in the Church.

Rhem. 6. 14. With euery winde.) The spirital vse of the spirituall Gouernours is, to keepe vs in vnitie and constancie of the Catholike faith, that we be not caried away with the blast or wind of euery heresie. Which is a very proper note of sectes and new doctrines that trouble the infirme watchings of the Church, by certaine seasons of diuerse ages: as sometime the Arians, then the Macedonians, other time the Nestorians, then the Lutherans, Caluinists, and such like: who at diuers times in diuers places haue blowen diuers blastes of false doctrine.

Heretical sectes carie away the inconstant only.

Fulke 6. The Pastours and teachers doe not preserue vnitie in trueth, but by teaching the word of trueth, which seeing Luther and Caluine in all points necessary to saluation did teach, they are not to be nombred among heretikes, but in stead of their names, the Papists being placed, will make your note sound and Catholike.

CHAP. V.

He continueth his exhortation to good life, 5 assuring them against all deceites, that no committer of mortall sinne shall be saued: considering that for such sinne it is that the Heathen shall be damned: 8 and that Christians must rather be the light of the world. 22 Then he commeth in particular and exhorteth husbands and wiues to do their dueties one towards the other, by the example of Christ and his obedient and beloued spouse the Church.

Fulke. 2. This note is false & foolish. For euen in the first translation that was printed. Math.16. the Marginal note is this: vpon this rocke that is sayth S. Augustine, vpon the confession which thou hast made, knowledging me to be Christ the sonne of the liuing God, I wil build my congregation or Church. By which it is manifest, that the translater vnderstood congregation which expresseth the greeke worde better then Church, to be al one with Church. And he rather vsed the worde Congregation, then Church, to auoide ambiguitie, because this worde Church, is commonly taken for the house of the assembly of Christians, and that the people might know, that the church, is a gathering together of all the members into one body, which in the name of Church, doth not appeare. But after the people were taught, to distinguish of the word Church, and to vnderstand it for the mystical body of Christ, the later translations vsed that terme: not that the other was any corruption, or the later any correction, but to declare, that both is one. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 23. Sauiour of his body.) None hath saluation or benefite by Christ, that is not of his body the Church. And what Church that is, S. Augustine expresseth in these wordes. The Catholike Church onely is the body of Christ, whereof he is head, out of this body the holy Ghost quickeneth no man. And a litle after, He that wil haue the Spirit, let him beware he remaine not out of the CHVRCH, let him beware he enter not into it feinedly. August ep.50. ad Bonifacium comitem in fine.

No saluation out of the cath. Church.

Rhem.3. 24. Subiect to Christ.) The CHVRCH is alwaies subiect to Christ, that is, not onely vnder him, but euer obedient to his wordes and commandement. Which is an euident and inuincible demonstration that she neuer rebelleth against Christ, neuer falleth from him by error, Idolatrie, or false worship, as the Heretikes nowe, and the Donatistes of olde did teach.

The CHVRCH neuer erreth.

Fulke. 3. A lewde slander, for we neuer taught, that the Catholike church can fall from Christ, by error, idolatry, or false worship, although great multitudes, & particular Churches, (such as the church of Rome is,) may fal from him: and the best church may erre, yet not so, that she can fall from him. And if it be a note of the true church, (as you say) to be alwaies obedient to Christs words, and commandements. It is certayne the church of Rome, cannot be the true Church of Christ, which so long hath disobeyed the worde and commandement of Christ, in so many things. Namely in worshipping of images, in maintaining traditions of men contrary to his worde, in robbing the people of the one halfe of the sacrament, in forbidding the people to search the scriptures, in forbidding meates and mariage, in vsing an vnknowen tongue in common praiers and ministring sacraments, in vsurping a sacrificing priesthood, in peruerting the vse of his supper vnto a sacrifice propitiatory, which is contumelious to his death: and in many other.

Irenæus expound li.5. in principio) to be his members: * to be so ioyned vnto him as the body and members of the same flesh, bone, & substance to the head, to be loued and cherished of him as wife of husband, yea to be his wife and most deere spouse, taken and formed (as S. Augustine often sayth) out of his owne side vpon the Crosse, as Eue our first father Adams spouse was made of his ribbe.* In Psal.126. & in Psal.127. & tract.9. in Ioan. & tract.120. In respect of which great dignitie and excellencie, the same holy father affirmeth the CHVRCH to be the principal creature, and therefore named in the Creede next after the Holy Ghost, and he proueth against the Macedonians, the Holy Ghost to be God, because he is named before the Church in the confession, fession of our faith. Of which incomparable excellencie of the Church, so beloued of Christ and so inseparably ioyned in mariage with him, if the Heretikes of our time had any sense or consideration, they would neuer thinke their contemptible company or congregation to be the glorious spouse of our Lord, nor teach that the Church may erre, that is to say, may be diuorced from her spouse for Idolatrie, superstition, Heresie, or other abominations: Whereupon one of these absurdities would ensue, that either Christ may sometimes be without a Church and spouse in earth (as he was all the while there were no Caluinistes, if their Church be the spouse of Christ) or els if the Catholike Church onely is and hath bene his wife, and the same hath such errors as the Heretikes falsely pretend, that his wife so deere and so praised here, is notwithstanding a very whoore. Which horrible absurdities proue and conuince to any man of common sense, both that the Catholike Church alwaies is, and that is teacheth truth alwaies, and to honour God truely and sincerely alwaies: whatsoeuer the adulterous generation of Heretikes thinke or blaspheme.

The Church is the principall creature.

The Church can not erre.

Absurdities that solow, if the Church may erre.

Fulke. 4. The manifold dignitie of the Church (God be praised) we know, and do acknowledge better then you. And how contemptible soeuer our congregation seeme to be in the eyes of the prowde whore of Babilon: we know, it is the glorious spouse of Christ, not clothed in golde, purple, perles, precious stones, as the strompet of Rome Apo. 17. but which the spirituall lyght of the sunne with a crowne of 12. starres hauing the moone vnder her feete &c. Apoc. 12. Neither do we teach, as you impudently doe slander vs, that the Church may erre, that is to say, may be diuorced from her spouse for Idolatry, superstition, heresie or other abhominations. But that company which is fallen into Idolatry, heresie & grosse abhominations (as the Romish rable) is fallen from Christ to Antichrist. But the true heauenly Ierusalem, which is the mother of vs all, although while she is a stranger, on the earth she hath her imperfections and spottes, that she may euer acknowledge, by whose grace she standeth, and therefore in some points may erre, and be deceiued, by infirmitie of her members, who are all and euery one, subiect both to error and sinne whyle they liue in this pilgrimage: Yet is she, & euery true member of her body, preserued by speciall grace of Christ her spouse, that she cannot fall cleane away from him, into any damnable error, idolatry, or abhomination. Wherby neyther of both your surmised absurdities, doth follow, that eyther Christ may be without a spouse or Church on earth, neyther may the Catholike church haue such errors, that remaining his wife, she should be notwithstanding a very whore. The church of Iuda, in the time of the raigne of diuers Kinges, did offer sacrifices in the high places, yet onely to the Lord, which was an error, but not so great that it made a diuorce of the church from Christ, or that it made the church of Iuda, a very whore 2. Reg. 12. & cap. 14. & 15. &c. Therefore the Catholike Church, alwaies is and hath bene, and teacheth al truth necessary to saluation, therefore to honor God truely and sincerly, as touching the substance of Gods honor, though in the exterior forme and maner thereof, and some other opinions, not being of the necessitie of saluation, she may be some time deceiued. The feast of the paschall Lambe, which was one of the principall sacrifices and sacramentes of the church of Israell, perteyning to the worship of God, was not kept so precisely according to the worde of God, and the institution thereof, from the daies of the Iudges, in the time of al the best kinges, as it was in the 18. yere of the raygne of Iosias 2. Reg. 23. 22. Likewise the feast of tabernacles, had not bene so solemnely kept, from the daies of Iosue, as it was after the captiuitie Nehem. 8. 18. By which it is manifest, that the church in the meane time, erred some what from the true external forme of Gods worship, yet not in the substance thereof, & therefore continued still the spouse of Christ, and onely true church of God.

The Church may erre and yet be the spouse of Christ.

Rhem. 5. 32. This is a great Sacrament.) Mariage a great Sacrament of Christ and his Church prefigured in the first parentes. Adam (saith S. Augustine tract. 15. in Io.) who was a forme or figure of him that was to come, yea rather God in him, gaue vs a great token of a sacrament. For both he deserued sleeping to take a wife, and of his ribbe his wife was made vnto him: because of Christ sleeping on the Crosse the Church was to be made out of his side, In an other place he maketh Matrimony a Sacrament of Christ and his Church: in that, that as the maryed man must forsake father and mother, & cleaue vnto his wife, so Christ as it were left his father, exinanting himselfe by his incarnation, and left the Synagogue his mother, and ioyned him selfe to the Church Li. 12. c. 8. cont. Faustum. In diuers other places he maketh it also a Sacrament, specially in that it is an inseperable band betwixt two, and that can neuer be dissolued but by death: signifying Christs perpetuall and indissoluble coniunction with the Church his one onely spouse de Gen. ad lit. li. 9. c. 7. Cont. Pelag. de pec. orig. li. 2. c. 34. De bid. et op. c. 7. MATRIMONY a sacrament.

Who would haue thought such mysteries and Sacraments to be in Mariage, that the ioyning of man and wife together should represent so great a mysterie, if the Apostle himselfe, and after him this holy father and others, had not noted it? or who can maruaile that the holy Church taketh this to be a Sacrament, and to giue grace of sanctification to the parties maried, that they may liue together in mutual fidelitie, bring vp their children in faith and feare of God, and possesse their vessel (as the Apostle speaketh) in sanctification and honour, and not in passion of lust and ignominie, as the Heathen do which know not God, & as our brutish new Masters seeme to do that cõmend mariage aboue al thinges so farre as it feedeth their concupiscences, but for grace, Sacrament, mysterie, or sanctification thereby, they care no more then the Heathen or brute beastes do? And thus we gather that matrimony is a Sacrament, and not of the Greeke worde Mysterie onely, as Caluin falsely saith, nor of the Latin word Sacrament, both which we know haue of their nature a more general signification, and that in the Scriptures also: but whereas these names are here giuen to Matrimony by the Apostle, and are not giuen in the Scriptures to Baptisme and the Eucharist, let them tell vs why they also applye these wordes from their generall signification to signifie specially and peculiarly those two Sacramentes neuer so named expresly in Scripture, and do not likewise folow the Catholike Church in calling matrimonie by the same name, which is here so called of the Apostle, specially whereas the signification in it, is as great as in any other of the Sacraments, and rather greater.

Fulke. 5. The Apostle sayth, the spirituall coniunction of Christ and his Church, is a great mysterie, as Chrysostome, Theodoret, and Hieron do vnderstand it: but admit it be so as Augustine and some other of the ancient fathers take it that matrimony is a great mysterie, of the coniunction of Christ & his church, yet it followeth not, that matrimony is a Sacrament, as baptisme and the Lords supper be called sacraments, or that it is a sacrament of the newe teſtament,ſeeing matrimony was inſtituted in paradiſe, before the fall of man. But where you ſay,we haue none, but a fleſhely eſtimation of mariage, and that we acknowledge no grace,myſterie,or ſanctification thereby, more then brute beaſtes, it is a vile and malicious ſlander. For we acknowledge matrimonie, to be an holy and pure inſtitution of God, honorable in all men, yea euen in the miniſters of his worde and Sacraments,according to the expreſſe doctrine of the holy ghoſt, and neceſſary for ſome men, and that God giueth grace and ſainctfication thereby, to his faithfull, to liue in holynes and purenes, from filthy pollution of the fleſh. And as for myſterie, we acknowledge,not one, but many myſteries in matrimony: as Hierom,and Nazianzene,(as Hieron,witneſſeth) did acknowledge. Yet ſeeing the whole diſpenſation of our ſaluation, is teſtified by the Sacraments of our regeneration,and of our ſpirituall noriſhment, whereby we are aſſured,that we are both borne of God and fedde by him to be his children for euer: we know no more viſible ſignes,of thoſe inuiſible graces, inſtituted by our ſauiour Chriſt in the new teſtament,but baptiſme and the Lords ſupper. But you that make ſo great a ſacrament of matrimonie, what grace, myſterie,and ſanctification you acknowledge thereby, you declare by your antichriſtian prohibiting of ſo gratious and holy inſtitution,to them to whom the diſpenſation of the holy worde and myſteries of God is committed. Yea euen to them, for whom, in reſpect of there infirmitie it is neceſſary, and that contrary to the doctrine of the holy ghoſt,who alloweth a Biſhop,Prieſt,and Deacon to the husband of one wife.Notwithſtanding: you profeſſe with blaſphemous mouthes,that the ſacred order of Prieſthoode is profaned,yee you ſay profaned and made meere laycall, and popular, by mariage. Theſe be the wordes of Gregory Martyn,who did ſet them forth by conſent of your whole trayterous and hereticall ſeminary of Rhems in the 15. Chapter,ſect.11. of his lewde booke intituled A diſcouery &c. And where as you complaine that Caluin doth falſelye ſay, that you gather matrimony to be a ſacrament of the greeke or latin words onely,which is Myſterie or Sacrament,which you know, to haue of there nature,a more generall ſignification. Your owne argumentes doe vereſie his ſaying: for you can find no more of it,but that it is an holy and great myſterie. Yet is not euery holy and great myſterie, a ſacrament of the new Teſtament, as Baptiſme and the Euchariſt are. The maiſter of the ſentence confeſſeth,that the ſacrament of matrimony, was inſtituted before ſinne lib. 4. diſt. 26. therefore it is no ſacrament of the newe Teſtament. And what other argument hath Peter Lumbarde,the maiſter of your diuinitie,to proue that matrimonie is a Sacrament, but onely the name of Sacramentum, vſed in this place? But we muſt tell you,why we call Baptiſme and the Lords ſupper,which are neuer ſo named expreſſely in the ſcripture,by the name of myſteries: or ſacramentes. You would haue it thought,onely vpon the Popiſh churches auctority. But we haue the auctoritie of the worde of God, expreſſely,beſide the teſtimonie of the Church,calling thoſe holy ſeales, by thoſe names. S. Paule calleth the miniſters of Chriſt the diſpenſers of the myſteries of God 1. Cor. 4. 1. Therefore theſe holy ſeales,being a ſpecial charge of there diſpenſation,are in ſcripture expreſſely called myſteries,which is the greeke of ſacraments: ſauing that the worde Sacramentum in latin,hath ſome other ſignifications,that the greeke worde myſtery hath not. But why do we not call matrimony by the ſame name? Verely in greeke or latin we make no doubt, to cal matrimony ſo. But ſeeing the Engliſh word Sacrament by vſe of Engliſh ſpeach, is reſtreyned,and taken onely for outwarde ſeales of Gods grace vnto our ſaluation, we forbeare to call matrimony ſo,commonly,although for names and termes,ſo the ſimple might keepe the difference and diſtinction of things,we make no great accompt,to vſe them or leaue them.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHA. VI.

Rhem. 1. 14. Clothed with) If a man could not be truely iuſt or haue iuſtice in him ſelfe, how could he be clothed with iuſtice?

Fulke. 1. A man may be clothed with the iuſtice of Chriſt, which is without him, & be partaker thereof by faith, thorough the cõmunication of Gods ſpirit. And the terme of clothing doth import a matter without the body, rather then within. Yet the Apoſtle not ſo curious in termes, & reſpecting the workes of iuſtice that are outward ſpeaketh in deede of an inward vertue of iuſtice, which is in the regenerate by Gods grace, & whereby they are truely iuſt, but not perfectly, in Gods ſight, and therefore are not iuſtified therby, to abide his iudgment, but by the onely iuſtice of Chriſt imputed to them by faith, which is moſt perfect iuſtice, and able to endure the ſeuerity of Gods iudgement.

Fulke. 2. And we haue noted vpon the like texts many times & now we ſay, that faith voyd of good works, is a dead faith, and an vnprofitable faith, a diueliſh fayth, and not auailable to iuſtification or ſaluation, yet by a true liuely Chriſtian fayth onely that worketh by loue, we are iuſtified vnto ſaluation.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

HOW S. Paul was called by a viſion into Macedonia, we read Act.16. and how he came to Philippi being the firſt citie thereof, and of his preaching, myracles, and ſuffering there. And againe, Act.19. Paul purpoſed in the ſpirit, when he had paſſed through Macedonia and Achaia, to goe to Hieruſalem, ſaying: After I haue been there, I muſt ſee Rome alſo. Which purpoſe he executed Act.20. taking his leaue at Epheſus. And being afterward come into Achaia, he had counſel to returne through Macedonia, and ſo at length from Philippi he began his nauigation toward Hieruſalem, & from Hieruſalem being caried priſoner to Rome (Act. 28.) he wrote from thence this Epiſtle to the Philippians: or rather in his ſecond apprehenſion, about 10 yeres after the firſt.

*In it he confirmeth them (as he did * the Epheſians alſo about the ſame time) againſt the temptation that they might haue in hearing that he were executed, wherefore he firſt ſaith:* And I wil haue you know brethren, that the things about me, are come to the more furtherance of the Goſpel: ſo that my bands were made manifeſt in Chriſt in al the Court &c. Secondly he ſignifieth that his deſire is, to be diſſolued and to be with Chriſt. but yet (leaſt they ſhould be diſcomforted) that he hopeth to come agayne to them. Whereof notwithſtanding, that he hath yet no certaintie, he ſignifieth in ſaying: I hope to ſend Timothee vnto you, immediatly as I ſhal ſee the things that concern me. Thirdly therefore he prepareth them againſt the worſt, ſaying: I hope to come agayne to you: but and if I be immolated vpon the ſacrifice and ſeruice of your fayth, I reioyce & congratulate with you al, and the ſelfe ſame thing do you alſo reioyce and congratulate with me.

Eph.3. Phil.1.v.12. 23.26. Phil.2.v.23. 24.17.

Moreouer he partly warneth them (as he had done before) of thoſe Iudaical Falſe-apoſtles who preached circumciſion and Moyſes law to the Chriſtian Gentils: partly he exhorteth them to ſuffer perſecution, to liue well, and ſpecially to humble themſelues one to another, rather then by any pride to breake the peace and vnitie of the Church. Phil.3.

THE EPISTLE OF PAVL TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

CHAP. I.

Hauing ſignified that he vſeth to thanke God for their vertue, 9 and alſo to pray for their encreaſe: 12 he certifieth them (for their confirmation and comfort) what good was come through his trouble at Rome, 24 and that he doubteth not (though he rather deſire martyrdome) but to come agayne vnto them, 27 exhorting them to liue as they ought to doe, 28 and namely not to ſhrinke for perſecution.

PAVL and Timothee the ſeruants of IESVS Chriſt: to al the Saincts in Chriſt IESVS that are at Philippi, with the ‖Biſhops & Deacons.

2 Grace to you and peace from God our father, and our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

3 I giue thanks to my God in al memorie of you

4 (Alwayes in al my prayers for al you, with ioy making petition)

5 For your communicating in the Goſpel of Chriſt from the firſt day vntil now.

The Epiſtle vpon the 22. Sonday after Pentecoſt.

6 Truſting this ſame thing, that he which hath begun in you a good worke, wil perfit it vnto the day of Chriſt IESVS.

7 As it is reaſon for me, this to thinke for al you, for that I haue you in hart, and in my bandes, and in the defence, and the confirmation of the Goſpel, al you to be partakers of my ioy.

8 For

The tranſlation of the Church of England.

PAVL and Timotheus the ſeruaunts of Ieſus Chriſt, to all the Saincles in Chriſt Ieſus, which are at Philippi, with the Biſhops and Deacons:

2 Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from our Lord Ieſus Chriſt.

*3 I thanke my God with all remembraunce of you: 2.Theſ.1.3.

4 (Alwayes in all my prayers for all you, making prayer with gladneſſe:)

5 For your felowſhip in the Goſpel, from the firſt day vntill now:

6 Being perſwaded of the ſame thing, that hee which hath begun a good worke in you, will performe it vntill the day of Ieſus Chriſt:

7 As it becommeth me to iudge this of you all, becauſe I haue you in my heart, and in my bondes, in the defence and confirmation of the Goſpel, you al being partakers of my grace.

8 For God is my witnes, how I couet you al in the bowels of IESVS Chriſt.

9 And this I pray, that your charitie may more and more abound in knowledge and in al vnderſtanding:

10 That you may approoue the better things, that you may be ſincere and without offence vnto the day of Chriſt, 11 Repleniſhed with the fruite of iuſtice by IESVS Chriſt, vnto the glory and prayſe of God.

12 And I will haue you know brethren, that the things about me are come to the more furtherance of the Goſpel:

13 So that my bandes were made manifeſt in Chriſt in al the court, and in al the reſt, 14 That many of our brethren in our Lord, hauing confidence in my bands, were bold more aboundantly without feare to ſpeake the word of God.

15 Some in deed euen for enuy & contention: but ſome alſo for good wil preach Chriſt.

16 Some of charitie: knowing that I am ſet vnto the defenſe of the Goſpel.

17 And ſome of contentiō preach Chriſt not ſincerely: ſuppoſing that they raiſe affliction to my hands.

18 But what? So that by al meanes, whether by occaſion or by truth, Chriſt be preached: in this alſo I reioice, yea & wil reioice.

19 For I know that this ſhall fall out to me vnto ſaluation by your prayer & the ſubminiſtration of the Spirit of IESVS Chriſt, 20 According to my expectation and hope, becauſe in nothing ſhal I be confounded, but in al confidence as alwayes, now alſo ſhall Chriſt be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For vnto me, to liue is Chriſt: and to die is gaine.

22 And if to liue in the fleſh, this vnto me be the fruite of the worke, & what I ſhal chooſe I know not.

23 And I am ſtraitened of the two: hauing deſire to be diſſolued and to be with Chriſt, a thing much more better.

[a] more neceſſarie. But to abide in the fleſh, [a] neceſſarie for you.

24 And truſting this, I know that I ſhall abide and continue with you all, vnto your furtherance and ioy of the fayth:

25 That your gratulation may abound in Chriſt IESVS in me, by my comming agayne to you.

Eph.4,1. 26 Only *conuerſe ye worthy of the Goſpel

8 For God is my record how greatly I long after you in all, in the bowels of Ieſus Chriſt.

9 And this I pray that your loue may abound yet more and more in knowledge, and in all vnderſtanding:

10 That ye may diſcerne things that differ: that ye may be pure and without offence till the day of Chriſt:

11 Being filled with the fruites of righteouſneſſe, which are by Ieſus Chriſt, vnto the glory and prayſe of God.

12 But I would ye ſhould vnderſtand brethrē, that the things which came vnto me, haue come rather vnto the furtherance of the Goſpel.

13 So that my bonds in Chriſt are manifeſt thorowout all the iudgement hall, and in all other places.

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, being incouraged through my bonds, dare more plentifully ſpeake the word without feare.

15 Some preach Chriſt of enuie and ſtrife, and ſome of good will:

16 The one preach Chriſt of ſtrife, not ſincerely, ſuppoſing to adde more affliction to my bondes:

17 But the others of loue, knowing that I am ſet to the defence of the Goſpel.

18 What then? ſo that Chriſt be preached a-ny maner of way, whether it be by pretence, or by trueth, I ioy therein, and will ioy.

19 For I know that this ſhall turne to my ſaluation through your prayer and miniſtring of the ſpirit of Ieſus Chriſt, 20 According to my earneſt expectation & my hope, that in nothing I ſhalbe aſhamed: but that with all boldneſſe, as alwayes, ſo nowe alſo Chriſt ſhall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For Chriſt is to me life, and death is to me aduantage.

22 But whether to liue in the fleſh, this bee the fruit of my labour, and what I ſhall chuſe, I wote not.

23 For I am in a ſtraite betwixt two, hauing a deſire to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is much farre better.

24 Neuertheleſſe, to abide in the †fleſhe, is more needful for you. †Or, body.

25 And this I am ſure of, that I ſhall abide and continue with you all, for your furtherance and ioy of faith:

26 That your reioycing may be the more abundant in Ieſus Chriſt for me, by my comming to you againe.

27 Onely let your converſation * be as it becommeth Eph.4.1. coloſ.1.10. 1.theſ.2.12.

ſpel of Chriſt: that whether when I come & ſee you, or els be abſent, I may heare of you ỹ you ſtand in one Spirite, of one mind labouring together to the faith of the Goſpel.

27 And in nothing be ye terrified of the aduerſaries, which to them is [b]cauſe of perdition: but to you of ſaluation, and this is of God:

28 For to you [c]it is giuen for Chriſt, not only that you beleeue in him, but alſo that you ſuffer for him, 29 Hauing the ſame combat like as you haue ſeene in me, & now [d]haue heard of me.

commeth the Goſpel of Chriſt, that whether I come and ſee you, or els be abſent, I may yet heare of your matters, that ye continue in one ſpirite, in one ſoule, holding together in defence of the faith of the Goſpel.

28 And in nothing fearing your aduerſaries, which is to them a token of perdition: but to you of ſaluation, and that of God.

29 For vnto you it is giuen for †Chriſt, not only this, to beleeue in him: but alſo this, to ſuffer for his ſake, †Or, Chriſtes cauſe.

30 Hauing the ſame fight which ye ſaw in me, and now heare in me.

Rhem. 1. 2 Biſhops and Deacons.) Wickeffe and other Heretikes would procure by this that Prieſts are not here named, and for that there could not be many Biſhops of this one towne, that there is no difference betwixt a biſhop and a Prieſt, which was the old hereſie of Aërius, of which matter, [a] in other places: for this preſent it is ynough to know that in the apoſtles time there were not obſerued alwayes proper diſtinct names of either function, as they were quickly afterward, though they were alwayes diuers degrees and diſtinct functions. See S. 4 Looke not euery man on his owne things, but euery man alſo on the things of others.

12 Therfore my deereſt (as you haue alwayes obeyed) not as in the preſence of me onely, but much more now in my abſence, ‖ with feare & trẽbling worke your ſaluatiõ.

13 For it is God that ‖ worketh in you both to wil and to accompliſh, according to his good will.

14 And do ye al things without murmurings and ſtaggerings:

15 That you may be without blame, and the ſimple children of God, without reprehenſion in the middes of a crooked and peruerſe generation, among whom you ſhine as lightes in the world:

‡ Such as haue by their preaching gained any to Chriſt, ſhal ioy and glory therein exceedingly at the day of our Lord.

16 Conteining the word of life ‡ to my glory in the day of Chriſt, becauſe I haue not run in vayne, nor in vayne laboured.

17 But and if I be ‡ immolated, vpon the ‖ ſacrifice and ſeruice of your fayth, I reioyce and congratulate with you all.

‡ Paſtors ought to be ſo zelous of the ſaluation of their flocke, that with S. Paul they ſhould offer themſelues to death for the ſame.

18 And the ſelfe ſame thing doe you alſo reioyce, and congratulate with me.

19 And I hope in our Lord IESVS to ſend Timothee vnto you quickly, that I alſo may be of good comfort, whẽ I know the things pertaining to you.

20 For I haue no man ſo of one minde that with ſincere affection is careful for you.

‡ Many forſake their teachers when they ſee them in bands and priſon for their faith, becauſe moſt mẽ preferre the world before Chriſts glory.

21 For ‡ al ſeeke the things that are their own: not the things that are IESVS Chriſts.

22 And know ye an experiment of him, that as a ſonne the father, ſo hath he ſerued with me in the Goſpel.

23 This man therfore I hope to ſend vnto you, immediatly as I ſhall ſee the things that concerne me.

24 And I truſt in our Lord that my ſelfe alſo ſhal come to you quickly.

25 But I haue thought it neceſſarie to ſend to you Epaphroditus my brother & coadiutor and fellow ſouldiar, but your apoſtle and miniſter of my neceſſitie.

26 Becauſe in deede he had a deſire toward you al: and was penſife, for that you had heard that he was ſicke.

27 For in deed he was ſicke euẽ to death: but God had mercy on him: and not onely on him, but on me alſo, leſt I ſhould haue ſorow vpon ſorow.

28 Therfore I ſent him the more ſpedily:

10 That in the name of Ieſus euery knee ſhould bow, of things in heauen, and things in earth, and things vnder the earth:

*11 And that euery tongue ſhould confeſſe that the Lord is Ieſus Chriſt, to the glory of God the father. Eſa.45.23. rom.14.11. iohn 13.13. 1.cor.8.6.

12 Wherefore, my dearely beloued, as yee haue alwayes obeyed, not as in my preſence onely, but nowe much more in my abſence, worke out your owne ſaluation with feare and trembling.

13 For it is God which worketh in you, both to will and to doe, of good will.

14 Do all things without murmuring & diſputing:

15 That ye may be blameleſſe and pure, the ſonnes of God, without rebuke in the middes of a crooked and peruerſe nation, among whom ſhine ye as lightes in the world,

16 Holding faſt the word of life, to my reioycing in the day of Chriſt, that I haue not run in vayne, neither laboured in vaine.

17 Yea, and though I be offered vp vpon the ſacrifice and ſeruice of your fayth, I reioyce, and reioyce with you all.

18 For the ſame cauſe alſo do ye reioice, and reioyce with me.

*19 But I truſt in the Lord Ieſus, to ſend Timotheus ſhortly vnto you, that I alſo may bee of good comfort, when I know your ſtate. Acts 16.1.

20 For I haue no man like minded, who will naturally care for your ſtate.

*21 For all ſeeke their owne, not the things which are Ieſus Chriſtes. 1.Cor.10.24

22 Ye know the proofe of him, that as a ſonne with the father, hee hath ſerued with me in the Goſpel.

23 Him therefore I hope to ſend, as ſoone as I know my ſtate.

24 But I truſt in the Lord, that I alſo my ſelfe ſhall come ſhortly.

25 But I ſuppoſed it neceſſary, to ſend to you Epaphroditus my brother and companion in labour, and felow ſouldier, but your Apoſtle, and the miniſter of my need.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heauineſſe, becauſe that ye had heard that he had bene ſicke.

27 And no doubt hee was ſicke nigh vnto death, but God had mercy on him: and not on him onely, but on me alſo: leaſt I ſhould haue ſorow vpon ſorow.

28 I ſent him therefore the more diligently, that that ſeeing him, you may reioyce againe, & I may be without ſorow.

29 Receiue him therfore with al ioy in our Lord: and ſuch intreate with honour.

30 Becauſe for the worke of Chriſt, he came to the point of death: yelding his life, that he might fulfil that which on your part wanted toward my ſeruice.

that when ye ſee him againe, ye may reioyce, and that I may be the leſſe ſorowfull.

29 Receiue him therfore in the Lord with all gladneſſe, and make much of ſuch:

30 Becauſe for the worke of Chriſt hee was nigh vnto death, not regarding his life, to fulfill your lacke of ſeruice toward me.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. 9. For the which.) Caluin doth ſo abhorre the name of merite in Chriſtian men toward their owne ſaluation, that he wickedly and vnlearnedly denieth Chriſt him ſelf to haue deſerued or merited any thing for him ſelf: though theſe wordes (which he ſhamefully writheth from the proper and plaine ſenſe, to ſignifie a ſequele and not a cauſe of his exaltation) and diuers other in holy writ, proue that he merited for himſelf according to al learned mens iudgement. As Apoc. 5. The lambe that was ſlaine, is worthie to receiue power and Diuinitie. And Heb. 2, We ſee IESVS for the paſſion of death, crowned with glorie and honour. See S. Auguſtine vpon theſe wordes of the Pſalme 109. propterea exaltabit caput. Caluins blaſphemie againſt Chriſts owne merits.

Fulke. 1. Caluin, as zealous of the glory of God, to whom only our ſaluation is to be aſcribed, abhorreth the name of merit in any man toward his owne ſaluation, but not in that reſpect, but for other good cauſes denieth that Chriſt did merit any thing for himſelfe by his death, but altogether for vs. His reaſons are theſe. firſt this opinion that Chriſt did merit for himſelfe, obſcureth the grace of Chriſt, while men imagine that he came for any other cauſe then for our ſaluation: & that he had greater reſpect of himſelfe then of vs, which is contrary to the whole ſcope of ſcripture, which teacheth that he gaue himſelfe for vs, not to merit for himſelfe. Secondly, of this opinion it followeth, that a man may merit diuine honor, & the throne of God himſelfe, which is blaſphemous: therefore Chriſt hath this exaltation, as due vnto his diuine nature, as he ſaith in his prayer, Iohn. 17. 5. Gloriſie me O father, with that glory, which I had with thee before the world was made, and not merited by his paſſion. And the exaltation which the apoſtle ſpeaketh of in this text, is that which God challengeth as proper to himſelfe. Eſ. 45. 22. Therfore it is the glory due to our ſauiour Chriſtes diuinitie, and not merited by his ſuffering in his humanitie. But this you ſay is contrary to all learned mens iudgement, and Caluin vnlearnedly denyeth it. As though onely Papiſts were all learned men, and whatſoeuer ſauoureth not of their ſlauer, were vnlearnedly ſpoken. By which the vntollerable pride of this Antichriſtian generation is diſcouered, that whereas they are for the moſt part, but Semidocti, ſcarſe halfe learned in compariſon of ſound learned men in deed, and who ſo is, or euer was the beſt learned among them, may finde many peeres among vs for learning: yet euery brabler amongſt them will bragge of all learning and all learned men, and all is vnlearned or vnlearnedly vttered, that they in their proud & ſcorneſull conceits, will not allow for learning. And that we may haue a taſte of their great learning, they allege for proofe that Chriſt did merit, that ſaying. Apoc. 5. The lambe that was ſlaine, is worthy to receiue power and diuinity: ſo that by popiſh learning, and learned concluſion of papiſts, it followeth that the lambe of God obteined his diuinity by merit, and not by nature, which learning were very good for that ancient learned heretike Arius. But Heb. 2. we read alſo, that we ſee Ieſus for the paſſion of death crowned with glory and honor. But the true conſtruction of the text is, we ſee Ieſus which by the paſſion of death was made a little leſſe then the angels, crowned with glory and honor. Therefore he that was in the forme of God and thought it no robbery to be equall with God, gained no honor and glory in this exaltation, but receiued that which for euer was due to his eternall & diuine nature, though he did for a time humble himſelfe in his humanity, and became obedient to the moſt ſhamefull and curſed death of the croſſe. S. Auguſtine in the place you quote, ſaith neuer a word to proue that Chriſt merited either his diuinity or diuine honor by his death, but only reciteth this text. where the coniunction ſignifieth not a cauſe, but a conſequence, as Caluin both truely and learnedly doth affirme. Merit of Chriſt.

Rhem. 2. 10. Name of IESVS.) By the like wickednes they charge the faithful people for capping or kneeling when they heare the name of IESVS. as though they worſhipped not our Lord God therin, but the ſyllables or letters or other material elements whereof the word written or ſpoken conſiſteth, and al this, by ſophiſtications to draw the people from due honour and deuotion toward CHRIST IESVS, which is Satans drift by putting ſcruples into poore ſimple mens mindes about his Sacraments, his Saincts, his croſſe, his name, his image, and ſuch like, to aboliſh al true religion out of the world, and to make them plaine Atheiſts. But the Church knoweth Satans cogitations, and therfore by the Scriptures and reaſon, warranteth and teacheth al her children to do reuerence when ſo euer IESVS is named. becauſe Catholikes do not honour theſe things nor count them holy, for their matter, colour, ſound, and ſyllables, but for the reſpect and relation they haue to our Sauiour, bringing vs to the remembrance and apprehenſion of Chriſt, by ſight, hearing, or vſe of the ſame ſignes, els why make we not reuerence at the name of Ieſus the ſonne of Sirach, as wel as of IESVS CHRIST? And it is a pitieful caſe to ſee theſe prophane ſubtelties of Heretikes to take place in religion, which were ridiculous in al other trade of life. When we heare our Prince or Soueraine named, we may without theſe ſcruples doe obeiſance, but towardes Chriſt it muſt be ſuperſtitious. The Proteſtãs will haue no reuerẽce done at the name of IESVS. How Catholikes honour the name of IESVS, and other things pertaining to him.

Fulke. 2. Firſt it is certeine that the bowing of the knee at the ſound of the name of Ieſus, as it is vſed in popery, is not commanded nor propheried in this place. But it perteineth to the ſubiection of al creatures to the iudgement of Chriſt, when not onely Turks and Iewes, which now yeeld no honour to Ieſus, but euen the diuels themſelues ſhall be conſtreined to acknowledge that he is their iudge. Secondly, the capping or kneeling at the name of Ieſus, is of it ſelfe an indifferent thing, & therfore may be vſed ſuperſtitiouſly as in popery, where the people ſtoope at the ſound of the name when it is read, not vnderſtanding either what it meaneth, or what is read concerning him. Alſo in ſitting and not veiling at the name of Chriſt, Emanuel, God the father, the ſonne, and the Holy ghoſt, and bowing only at the name of Ieſus. It may be vſed alſo well, when the minde is free from ſuperſtition, in ſigne of reuerence to his maieſtie, and as in a matter wherein Chriſtian libertie ought to haue place. And due reuerence may be yelded to our ſauiour, without any ſuch outward ceremony of capping or kneeling. But popiſh worſhipping of the ſacrament, as God of the ſaincts with religious worſhip Superſtition.

and ſeruice of Chriſtes image and croſſe, euen with Latria which you call worſhip due to God. Theſe worſhippings which are meere heathenish and idolatrous, are vnfitly compared with bowing at the name of Ieſus. And yet you complaine, that to remoue ſuch impietie, is to aboliſh all true religion out of the world, & to make men plaine Atheiſts. The ſame was the complaint of the Pagans againſt the Chriſtians. But to worſhip God only, according to the preſcript of his holy word, is true religion, and to teach men to worſhip contrary therunto, it maketh men either idolaters, or altogether Atheiſts. And where you ſay, the Popiſh church doth not honor thoſe things, nor count them holy, for their matter, colour, ſound &c. but for reſpect, & relation they haue to our ſauior &c. It is too ſhort a cloake to couer your idolatry. For the ſame was the perſuaſion of the Iſraelites in their golden calfe, which they did not honor for the matter, colour, faſhion, but for the relation it had to God that brought them out of the land of Egypt. Exod. 32.4.5. The like had the Iſraelites of Ieroboams calues. 1. Reg. 12.20. And S. Auguſtine telleth that the Gentils in his time, had the like excuſe for their idolatry. I worſhip not that ſtone or that image which is without ſenſe, for your Prophet could not know that is hath eyes and ſeeth not, and I be ignorant that this image hath no ſoule, nor ſeeth with his eyes, nor heareth with his eares. Therfore I doe not worſhip that: but I adore that I ſee, & ſerue him whom I ſee not, who is that? the inuiſible diuine power which is preſident of that image. After this manner, while they giue a reaſon of their images, they ſeeme eloquent to them ſelues, becauſe they worſhip not idols, and worſhip diuels. They anſwer, we worſhip not euill ſpirits, but the angels (as you call them) doe we worſhip euen the powers or vertues of the great God, & miniſters of the great God I would you would worſhip them, you ſhould eaſily learne of them not to worſhip them. In Pſ. 96. Therfore it is not ſufficient to ſay, ſuch things bring vs to the remembrance and apprehenſion of Chriſt, by ſight, hearing, and vſe of the ſame ſignes. For we muſt doe in religion and Gods ſeruice, not that ſeemeth good to vs, but that only which he commandeth. Deut. 4.2 c. 12.32. For otherwiſe, by ſuch reſpects and relations, remembrances and apprehenſions, all idolatry and falſe worſhipping may be defended.

False worſhipping.

Worſhipping of images.

Rhem. 3. 12. With feare and trembling.) Againſt the vaine preſumption of Heretikes that make men ſecure of their predeſtination and ſalnation, he willeth the Philippians to worke their ſaluation with feare & trembling, according to that other Scripture, Bleſſed is the man that alwaies is fearful. Prouerb. 28, v. 14.

Vaine ſecuritie of ſaluation.

Fulke. 3. We teach no vaine preſumption to make men ſecure of their predeſtination and ſaluation, but we proteſt that the elect are predeſtinate vnto good works, which if they doe not bring forth after they be called, they cannot be ſaued, neither are they predeſtinated to life eternall. And yet we teach men to beleeue aſſuredly, that God will performe his promiſe made vnto all that truely beleeue in him, that they ſhalbe ſaued. And this confidence doth well agree with the feare of God, and in deed, can be in none but in them that feare and loue God.

Rhem. 4. 13. Worketh in you) Of this thus ſaith S. Auguſtine, Not becauſe the Apoſtle ſaith, it is God that worketh in you both to wil and worke, muſt we thinke he taketh away our free will. For if it were ſo, then would he not a litle before haue willed them to worke their owne ſaluation with feare and trembling. For when they be commaunded to worke, their free wil is called vpon: but, with trembling and feare, is added, leſt by attributing their wel working to them ſelues, they might be proud of their good deeds as though they were of them ſelues, Auguſt. de gratia & lib. arbit. c. 9.

S. Auguſtine anſwereth the obiection againſt free will.

Fulke. 4. S. Auguſtine teacheth plentifully, that mans free wil is ſeruile, captiue, loſt, vntill by grace it begin ne to be inlarged and reſtored: yet is mans will free from conſtraint, and ſo meaneth S. Auguſtine whenſoeuer he acknowledgeth man to haue free will. And in this place very plainely he ſheweth that men haue no power of will to worke well by their will, but only of God who worketh in them.

Freewill.

Rhem. 17. The ſacrifice.) The obedience of faith and martyrdome be ſo acceptable actes to God, when they be voluntarily referred to his honour, that by a metaphore they be called ſacrifice and pleaſant hoſtes to God.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. 11. If by any meanes.) If S. Paul ceaſed not to labour ſtill, as though he were not ſure to come to the marke without continual endeuour: what ſecuritie may we poore ſinners haue of Heretikes perſuaſions and promiſes of ſecuritie and ſaluation by onely faith?

S. Paule

Fulke. 1. S. Paule was sure to come to the marke, yet doth he not cease to labour, neither doe we promise any other securitie of saluation by onely faith, but vnto those that labour in their calling, and be fruitfull of good workes. Slander. Certeintie of saluation.

Rhem. 2. 17. Of me brethren.) It is a goodly thing when the Pastor may so say to his flocke. Neither is it any derogation to Christ, that the people should imitate their Apostles life and doctrine, and other holy men, S. Augustine, S. Benedict, S. Dominike, S. Francis.

Fulke. 2. It is a great derogation to Christ, when people shall follow the religion of Augustine, the religion of Benedict, the religion of Dominike, the religion of Francis, and one shall say that I am of Augustine, I of Dominike, I of Francis, and I of Iesus. 1.Cor.1. Sects.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 3. 9. My iustice.) Diuers Lutherans in their translations do shamefully mangle this sentence by transposing the wordes, and false pointing of the partes thereof, to make it heare this sense, that the Apostle would haue no iustice of his owne, but onely that iustice which is in Christ. Which is a false and heretical sense of the wordes, and not meant by S. Paul: who calleth that a mans owne iustice, which he chalengeth by the workes of the Law or nature without the grace of Christ: & that Gods iustice (as S. Augustine expoundeth this place) not which is in God, or by which God is iust, but that which is in men from God and by his gift. li.3 cont.2 ep. Pelag.c.7.de Sp.& lit.c.9. The obiection against inherent iustice, answered. Magdeburg. cent 1. li.2 c.4. pag.222.

Fulke. 3. You misreport S. Augustine, for although he say the iustice of God is so called, not whereby he is iust, but wherewith he maketh vs iust, or which is of God, he saith not that this iustice wherewith we are iustified by faith, is in man. But contrariwise he saith expresly, it is the iustice of God, not our iustice, in him, not in vs. De vet bis apostoli serm.6. Again: Christ was made sinne, that we might be made iustice, not our iustice but Gods iustice, neither in vs, but in him, as he declared sinne not to be his, but ours, not placed in him, but in vs, by the similitude of sinfull flesh, in which he was crucified. Euchir.c.41. See more the consent of the ancient fathers. 2.Cor.5.sect.4. Iustice inherent.

Rhem. 4. 12. Not that now.) No man in this life can attaine to absolute perfectnes either of iustice or of that knowledge which shal be in heauen: but yet there is also an other perfectnes, such as according to this state a man may reach vnto, which in respect of the perfection in glorie, is small, but in respect of other lesser degrees of mans iustice and knowledge in this life, may be called perfection. And in this sense the Apostle in the next sentence calleth himself and others perfect, though in respect of the absolute perfectnes in heauen, he saith here, he is not yet perfect nor hath yet attained thereunto. Double perfection: here, and in the life to come.

Fulke. 4. That perfection which the apostle ascribeth to himselfe and others in this life, is of knowledge, not of iustice. For although all knowledge that men can attaine vnto in this life, is vnperfect in respect of the knowledge we shall haue after this life: yet it may well be called perfect, when it is of all that God hath reuealed in his word. So it cannot be said of that iustice which is in vs, in any respect. For although Sodome was called iust in respect of Ierusalem, yet no man can say that Sodome was perfect in iustice, because Ierusalem was more vniust. None perfectlie iust.

Rhem. 3. 15. Otherwise minded.) When Catholike men now a daies charge Heretikes with their horrible diuisions, dissensions, combates, contentions, and diuersities among them selues, as the Catholikes of al other ages did chalenge their Aduersaries most truely and iustly for the same, (both because where the Spirit of God is not, nor any order or obedience to Superiors, there can be no peace nor vnitie, and specially for that it is, as S. Augustine saith (li de agone Christ. c.:9.) the iust iudgement of God that they which seke nothing els but to diuide the Church of Christ, should them selues be miserably diuided among them selues) therfore (I say) when men charge the Protestants with these things, they flee for their defence to this, that the old Fathers were not al of one iudgement in euery point of religion: that S. Cyprian stood against others, that S. Augustine and S. Hierom wrote earnestly in a certaine matter one against an other, that our Dominicans and Franciscans, our Thomists and Scotists be not al of one opinion in diuers matters, and therfore diuisions and contentions should not be so preiudicial to the Zuinglians and Lutherans, as men make it. Thus they defend them selues: but ridiculously and against the rule of S. Paul here, acknowledging that in this imperfection of mens science in this life, euery one cannot be free from al error, or thinke the same that an other thinketh: whereupon may rise differences of vnderstanding, opinion, and iudgement, in certaine hard matters which God hath not reuealed or the Church determined, and therfore that such diuersitie is tolerable and agreable to our humane condition and the state of the way that we be in: alwaies prouided, that the controuersie be such and in such things, as be not against the set knowen rule of faith, as he here speaketh, and such as breake not mutual societie, fellowship, and communion in praier, seruice, Sacraments, and other offices of life and religion. for such diuisions and differences come neuer but of Schisme or Heresie, and such are among the Heretikes, not onely in respect of vs Catholikes, but among them selues: as they know that be acquainted with the writings of Luther against Zuinglius, or Westphalus against Caluin, or the Puritanes against the Protestants, not only charging one an other with Heresie, Idolatrie, Superstition, and Atheisme, but also condemning eche others ceremonies or maner of administrations, til it come to excommunication, and ban shment, yea sometimes burning one of an other. Thus did not S. Cyprian, S. Augustine, S. Hierom, the Dominicans, Franciscans, Thomists, Scotists, who al agree in one rule of faith, al of one communion, al most deere one to an other in the same, al (thankes be to God) come to one holy Masse, and receiue the same Sacraments, and obey one head through out al the world. S. Augustine li. 2 de bapt. c. 5. shal make vp this matter with this notable sentence: We are men (saith he) and therfore to thinke somewhat otherwise then the thing is, is an humane tentation: but by louing our owne sentence too much, or by enuying our betters, to procede vnto the sacrilege of diuiding the mutual societie and of making schisme or heresie, is diuelish presumption: in nothing to haue other opinion then the truth is, that is Angelical perfection. And a litle after, If you be any other wise minded, this God wil reueale: but to them only (saith he) that walke in the way of peace, and that stray aside into no diuision or separation. Which saying would God al our deere coueurie men would marke, and come into the Church, where onely, God reuealeth truth. The difference betweene the disagreing of ancient fathers or other Catholikes, & the Heretikes dissensions among them selues. The spiteful writings of Heretikes, one Sect against an other. A notable place of S. Augustine.

Fulke. 5. We defend not our dissentions, but confesse that it is altogether a fault, that there is any dissention among vs: yet we truely say, that notwithstanding our dissensions, we agree in the principall articles of faith necessarie to saluation, as the Church in the Apostles time, and other Catholike fathers did, notwithstanding Dissensions.

ding their diſſention. And as you ſay, the Papiſtes doe, notwithſtanding the diſſentions betweene your Dominicanes and Franciſcanes, Thomiſtes and Scotiſtes, Canoniſtes and Diuines. You acknowledge therefore, that there may be diſſentions, but with a double prouiſo. Firſt that the controuerſies be ſuch, and in ſuch things, as be not againſt the ſet knowne rule of faith: ſuch is the difference betweene Luther and Zuinglius, Weſtphalus and Caluine. They both acknowledge the eating of Chriſtes fleſh, to be neceſſary, but after what manner it is preſent to be eaten in the Sacrament by faith, they differ. They that contend about ceremonies, and externall forme of gouernment in the Church, doe fully agree in all pointes of the doctrine of faith, neceſſary to ſaluation. Theſe contentions therefore for theſe matters, are not vnlike, the one of them, to the diſſention betweene S. Cyprian and Cornelius, the Biſhops of Africa and of the Eaſt taking part with Cyprian, and other of the Weſt with Cornelius, which was about the rebaptizing of them, that had been baptiſed by Heretikes: The other to the contention of Victor Biſhop of Rome, againſt the Biſhops of the Eaſt, about the celebration of Eaſter, or of Epiphanius and Chryſoſtom about gouernement and diſcipline of the Church. Your ſecond prouiſo is, that the controuerſie be ſuch, as breake not the mutual ſocietie, fellowſhip, and communion in praier, ſeruice, Sacraments, and other offices of life and religion. So you ſay, it is not in our controuerſies, for one chargeth an other with hereſie, Idolatrie, &c. and alſo condemneth others ceremonies, maner of adminiſtration, till it come to excommunication, and baniſhment. Yea ſometimes burning one of an other. In deede ſuch moderation as you ſpeake of, ought to be kept in all ſuch differences, but it hath not alwaies been ſo, among them that were true Catholikes, neither among Papiſtes themſelues. And although the contentions among vs, haue bene more bitterly purſued then was meete, eſpecially of Luther and his part, yet thoſe with whom we agree, haue kept and alwaies doe, for the moſt part keepe, that moderation and Chriſtian loue, which ought to be obſerued in ſuch caſes, according to the Apoſtles rule, in this text. And that any haue proceeded to burning one of an other, for theſe differences you are not able to proue by one example. For there hath none Slanders. been burned, but for ſuch hereſies, as you your ſelues would confeſſe to be worthy of death, as Arians, Anabaptiſtes, Libertines, and ſuch like. But that this moderation hath not been kept betweene the auncient Fathers in their controuerſies, it is manifeſt by the example of Victor, who did excommunicate all the Biſhops of the Eaſt, which were not of his opinion. And they more moderate then he, commaunded him to be quiet, and keepe peace, Euſeb. lib. 5. c. 25. Stephanus alſo Biſhop of Rome, excommunicated Cyprian and the Biſhops of Africa, yea Cyprian, (though he were more charitable then Stephanus,) ſpared not angerly to inueigh againſt Stephanus, Auguſt. cont. Donat. lib. 5. cap. 23. & 25.

It is reported that Epiphanius and Chryſoſtome, were ſo bitter in their contention, that the one did banne the other, Hiſt. Tripart. lib. 10. cap. 12. But all theſe were but ſport & play, in compariſon of the cruell hatred betweene the Guelphes & Gibelines, betweene the Popes, & Popes themſelues, when there were two or three at once. What excommunications, condemnations of hereſie, Idolatrie, Atheiſme, what cruell murthering, by burning, drowning, ſacking, mangling one of the others bodies, when they came within their clawes, not ſparing their dead carcaſes for rancor and hatred againſt their perſons: your owne ſtories are full of the examples, paſſing all that is read in prophane ſtories, of the barbarous Scythians, or other Heathenish nations. What burned the Dominicke Friers of Berna, but hatred of the Franciſcanes? For counterfeiting of viſions, and miracles, was not ſo deintie a matter among Friers in that time, but that (as Tullie writeth, of the Romiſh ſouthſayers,) a man might haue marueiled, if ſo often as they met, they laughed not one vpon an other, to remember, how with their feined monſters, they mocked the world. Your contentions therfore, haue been greater then ours, of greater matters, as of the head of your Church, which you ſay is neceſſary for the preſeruation of the whole body, and more cruelly purſued then euer any hath been among vs: although ſome haue greatly broken the bondes of charitie, and fallen into open ſchiſme, as there hath been alwaies ſuch in the beſt times.

6 Be careful for nothing: but in al things let your petitions be manifeſt vnto God, in praier & ſupplication, with giuing of thankes.

7 And the peace of God which paſſeth all vnderſtanding, ſhall keepe your heartes & minds through Chriſt Ieſus.

8 Furthermore, brethren, whatſoeuer things are true, whatſoeuer things are honeſt, whatſoeuer things are iuſt, whatſoeuer things are pure, whatſoeuer things pertaine to loue, whatſoeuer things are of honeſt report: if there be any vertue, and if there be † any praiſe, thinke on theſe things:

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 2. 3. Clement, and the.) This Clement was afterward the 4 Pope of Rome from S. Peter, as S. Hierom writeth according to the common ſuppotation.

Fulke 2. Hierom confeſſeth, that ſome of the Latines ſay, he was next to Peter, whereby Linus and Anacletus are excluded. Damaſus maketh Clemens the next ſucceſſor of Peter. Linus and Cletus but Peters ſuffraganes, while he liued him ſelfe, and placeth Anacletus after Clemens, whom Hierom placeth before. Irenæus placeth next to Peter Linus, Anacletus, Clemens, and next to Clemens, Euariſtus. Tertullian ſaith, Clemens was next after Peter, and ordeined by him. Optatus and Auguſtine ſay, Linus ſucceeded to Peter, Clemens to Linus, Anacletus to Clemens, and to Anacletus Euariſtus. Epiphanius maketh Peter and Paule both Biſhops of Rome, then Linus, Cletus, Clemens, Euariſtus. By this diuerſitie you ſee, what certeintie there is of the ſucceſſion from Peter, whereof the Papiſtes make ſuch bragges. Succeſſion.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 3. 1. My ioy.) He calleth them his ioy and crowne, for that he expected the crowne of euerlaſting life as a reward of his labours towardes them. Whereby we may learne alſo, that beſides the eſſential glorie which ſhal be in the viſion and fruition of God, there is other manifold felicitie incident in reſpect of creatures. The reward of Preachers.

Fulke 3. S. Paule looked for the reward of his labours of Gods grace, and not of the merite of his labours.

Rhem. 4. 3. Sincere companion.) The Engliſh Bibles with one conſent interpret the Greeke wordes, faithful yokefellow, perhaps to ſignifie (as ſome would haue it) that the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh to his wife: but they muſt vnderſtand that their Maiſters Caluin and Beza miſlike that expoſition, and al the Greeke fathers almoſt much more reiect it, and it is againſt S. Paules owne wordes ſpeaking to the vnmaried, That it is good for them to remaine ſo, euen as him ſelf did. 1. Cor. 7, 8. Whereby it is euident he had no wife, and therfore meaneth here ſome other his coadiutor and fellow-labourer in the Goſpel. Suſpitious tranſlation. S. Chryſ. Theodor. Oecum. Theophyl. S. Paul had no wife.

Fulke 4. The word yokefellow, is as preciſely agreeable to the Greeke, as can be. And Clemens Alexandrinus hereof gathereth, that S. Paule had a wife, which he left by her conſent, at Philippi. Yet we acknowledge it cannot be proued by this text. Why then ſhould our tranſlation be ſuſpicious, when it is as conſonant to the originall, as is poſſible? Cauilling.

Rhem. 18. Acceptable.) How acceptable almes are before God, we ſee here: namely when it is giuen for religion to deuout perſons for a recompenſe of ſpiritual benefites. For ſo it putteth on the condition of an oblation or ſacrifice offered to God, and is moſt acceptable and ſweete in his ſight. Almes giuen religiouſly.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO THE COLOSSIANS.

Rhem. 1. THE Epiſtle to the Coloſſians is not only in ſenſe, but almoſt in wordes alſo, al one with the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, and was ſent alſo by the ſame meſſenger Tychicus. c. 4. v. 7. And in it he maketh like mention of his bandes and ſufferings. c. 1. v. 24. and c. 4. v. 3, 18. And therfore no doubt it was written at Rome at the ſame time, to wit, in his laſt apprehenſion, yet before he knew of his martyrdom.

This difference there is, that he had him ſelf preached to the Epheſians, but with the Coloſſians he had neuer bene, as he ſignifieth c. 2. v. 1. Therfore although in matters of exhortation he be here briefer then to the Epheſians, yet in matters of doctrine he is larger. And generally he aſſureth them, that to be the truth, which their Apoſtle Epaphras had taught them, but namely he gineth them warning both of the Iudaical falſe-apoſtles, who ſought to corrupt them with ſome ceremonies of Moyſes law: and alſo of the Platonike Philoſophers, who reiected Chriſt (who is in deede the head of the Church and Mediator to bring vs to God) and in ſteed of him, brought in certaine Angels, as more excellent then he, whom they termed, Minores dij, teaching the people to ſacrifice vnto them (calling that, humilitie) that they might bring them to the great God. With which falſehod the hereſie of Simon Magus a long time deceiued many, as we reade in Epiph. her. 21.

Againſt ſuch therefore S. Paul telleth the Coloſſians, that Chriſt is the Creator of al the Angels, God in perſon, the head of the Church, the principal in al reſpects: that he is the Redeemer, Mediator, and Pacifier betweene God and men, and therefore by him we muſt goe to God, ſo that whether we pray our ſelues, or deſire any other in earth or in heauen to pray for vs, al muſt be done (as the Cath. Church in euery Collect doth) Per Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum, that is, through Chriſt our Lord, or, per Do. noſtrum Ieſum Chriſtum filium tuum, qui tecum viuit & regnat, &c. Whereby the Church profeſſeth continually againſt ſuch ſeductions, both the Mediatorſhip, and the Godhead of Chriſt.

Fulke 1. Seeing S. Paule paſſed twiſe through Phrygia, where this citie of the Coloſſians ſtoode Act. 16, 6. and 18, 23. It is not vnlike, that he planted the Church there. And that he had been there, it ſeemeth by his Epiſtle to Philemon, inſcribed alſo to Archippus the miniſter of the Church of Coloſſa, as it is manifeſt in the laſt chapter of this Epiſtle. But hereof I will not contend. Neither is Epaphras any where in the Scripture, called an Apoſtle, although it is not vnlike, he was an Euangeliſt, and of ſome is thought to be the ſame that is called alſo Epaphroditus. The falſe apoſtles called the interceſſion of Angels humilitie, as you doe in effect, when you ſay, that men muſt not preſume to come to God or Chriſt, but as they come to an earthly Prince by Mediatours or Interceſſors. Neither doth S. Paule teach them, that it is lawfull to deſire any other in heauen, to pray for them, with per Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum in the ende, as you vſe in the Popiſh Church, but contrariwiſe, he teacheth, that there is no Mediator of interceſſion in heauen, but only Chriſt. But how well you obſerue your concluſion, per Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum, I haue declared In Ioan. 16. ſect. 3. Chriſt our only Mediator.

CHAP. I.

Saying, that he thanketh God for their excellent faith and charitie, and continually praieth for their encreaſe, he doeth withal giue witnes to the preaching of their Apoſtle Epaphras, and extolleth the grace of God in bringing them to Chriſt, who is cheefe aboue al, and peacemaker by his bloud. This is the Goſpel not of Epaphras alone, but of the vniuerſal Church, and of Paul himſelf who alſo ſuffereth for it.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem.1. 6. In the whole world.) He ſheweth that the Church and Chriſts Goſpel ſhould dayly grow and be ſpred at length through the whole world, which can not ſtand with the Heretikes opinion of the decay thereof ſo quickely after Chriſtes time, nor agree by any meanes to their obſcure conuenticles. See S. Auguſt. ep.80 in fine.

Fulke.1. We hold no opinion that the Church euer did, or ſhall euer decay, though many haue fallen from it, and the meetings of the Chriſtians, were as obſcure in times of perſecution before Cōſtantine, as they haue been ſince Slander.

ſince the tyrannie of Antichriſt vſurped the temple of God. Neither ſayth Auguſtine any thing to the contrary, Ep. 80. But in Pſal. 10. he ſayth expreſly, that the Church is oftentimes obſcure, as the moone in the wane or eclipſe.

Rhem. 2. 10. All good worke.) Many things requiſite, and diuers things acceptable to God beſide faith.

Fulke. 2. We ſay as much, yet nothing that is in vs iuſtifieth, but faith.

Rhem. 3. 12. Worthy vnto the.) We are not onely by acceptation or imputation partakers of Chriſtes benefites, but are by his grace made worthy thereof, and deſerue our ſaluation condignely.

Fulke. 3. Howe can you conclude out of the text, that we are made worthy otherwiſe then by acceptation and imputation of Chriſtes iuſtice? Yea what can be more contrary to the text, then that you ſay, we deſerue our ſaluation condignely, when he ſayth expreſly, wee haue it through redemption of Chriſt, and remiſſion of our ſinnes by him, who hath reconciled all things to him, by the blood of his croſſe. Chryſoſtome vpon this text ſayth, Hom. 2. in ep. ad Col. Such are thoſe things that are giuen, that he hath not onely giuen them, but alſo hath made vs able to take them. Againe. No man ſheweth ſuch a conuerſation of life, that he may be worthie of the kingdome: but this gift is altogether of God. Therefore he ſaith, when we haue done al things, ſay we are vnprofitable ſeruants. Theodoret ſaith. We praiſe the mercifull God, which whereas we were vnworthy, hath made vs partakers of the light of the ſainctes.

Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 4. 24. Doe accompliſh that wanteth.) As Chriſt the head and his body make one perſon myſticall and one full Chriſt, the Church being therefore his plenitude, fulneſſe, or complement Epheſ. 1: ſo the paſſions of the head and the afflictions of the body and members make one complete maſſe of paſſions. With ſuch difference for all that, betweene the one ſort and the other, as the preeminence of the head (and ſpecially ſuch a head) aboue the body, requireth and giueth. And not onely thoſe paſſions which he ſuffered in him ſelfe, which were fully ended in his death, and were in them ſelues fully ſufficient for the redemption of the world and remiſſion of all ſinnes, but all thoſe which his body and members ſuffer, are his alſo, and of him they receiue the condition, qualitie, and force to be meritorious and ſatisfactorie. for though there be no inſufficiencie in the actions or paſſions of Chriſt the head, yet his wiſedome, will and iuſtice requireth and ordaineth, " that his body and members ſhould be fellowes of his paſſions, as they looke to be fellowes of his glorie: that ſo ſuffering with him and by his example, they may applie to them ſelues and others the generall medicine of Chriſtes merites and ſatisfactions, as it is effectually alſo applied to vs by Sacraments, Sacrifice, and other wayes alſo: the one ſort being no more iniurious to Chriſtes death then the other, notwithſtanding the vaine clamours of the Proteſtants, that would vnder pretence of Chriſtes paſſion, take away the valure of all good deedes. Hereupon it is plaine now, that this accompliſhment of the wants of Chriſtes paſſions, which the Apoſtle and other Sainctes make vp in the fleſh, is not meant but of the penall and ſatisfactorie workes of Chriſt in his members, euery good man adding continually (and ſpecially Martyrs) ſomewhat to accompliſh the full meaſure thereof: and theſe be the plenitude of his paſſions and ſatisfactions, as the Church is the plenitude of his perſon: and therefore theſe alſo through the communion of Sainctes and the ſocietie that is not onely betweene the head and the body, but alſo betweene one member and an other, are not onely ſatisfactorie and many wayes profitable for the ſufferers them ſelues, but alſo for other their fellow-members in Chriſt. for though one member can not merite for an other properly, yet may one beare the burden and diſcharge the debt of an other, both by the Lawe of God and nature. and it was a ridiculous Hereſie of Wicleffe to deny the ſame. Yea (as we ſay here) the paſſions of Sainctes are alwayes ſuffered for the common good of the whole body, and ſometimes withall by the ſufferers ſpeciall intention they are applicable to ſpeciall perſons one or many: as here the Apoſtle ioyneth in his paſſions for the Coloſſians, in an other place his afflictions be for the ſaluation of the Corinthians, ſometimes he wiſheth to be Anathema, that is according to Origens expoſition (in lib. nu. hom. 10. & 24.) a ſacrifice for the Iewes, and he often ſpeaketh of his death as of a libation, hoſt, or offring, as the fathers doe of all Martyrs paſſions. All which dedicated and ſanctified in Chriſtes blood and ſacrifice, make the plenitude of his paſſion, and haue a forcible crie, interceſſion, and ſatisfaction for the Church and the particular neceſſities thereof. In which, as ſome doe abound in good workes and ſatisfactions (as S. Paul, who reckeneth vp his afflictions and glorieth in them 2. Cor. 11: and Iob, who auaunceth himſelf that his penalties farre ſurmounted his ſinnes: and our Ladie much more, who neuer ſinned, and yet ſuffered ſo great dolours) ſo other ſome doe want, and are to be holpen by the abundance of their fellow-members.

There is no wat in Chriſtes paſſions which he ſuffered in him ſelfe as head: but there is want in thoſe paſſions of Chriſt which hee dayly ſuffereth in his body the Church, and the members thereof.

Howe Chriſtes merites are applied to vs with out any iniurie to his death.

The workes of one may ſatiſfie for an other.

Rom. 8, 17. Leo. ſer. 19. de paſſo. 2. Cor. 1, 6. Rom. 9, 3. Phil. 2. 2. Tim. 4. Iob 6.

Which entercourſe of ſpirituall offices and the recompenſe of the wants of one part by the ſtore of the other, is the ground of the olde libels of Indulgence whereof is treated before out of S. Cyprian (See the Annotations 2. Cor. 2. v. 10.) and of all indulgences and pardons, which the Church dayly diſpenſeth with great iuſtice and mercie, by their hands in whom Chriſt hath put the word of our reconcilement, to whom he hath committed the keies to keepe and vſe, his ſheepe to feede, his myſteries and all his goodes to diſpenſe, his power to binde and looſe, his commiſſion to remitte and retaine, and the ſtewardſhip of his familie to giue euery one their meate and ſuſtenance in due ſeaſon.

The ground of Indulgences or pardons.

Fulke. 4. Chriſt ſuffereth in his members, by which ſuffering they are made conformable vnto Chriſt their head: and through their patience, helpe to confirme the faith one of an other. So the Apoſtles ſuffering was for the glorie of God, and the confirmation of the Church in faith of the Goſpel which he had taught. But that the ſufferings of any man are meritorious or ſatisfactorie, eyther for him ſelfe, or others, it is horrible blaſphemie againſt the merite and ſatisfaction of Chriſtes death, which wanteth nothing in himſelfe to merite and ſatisfie for all his members. S. Paul Rom 8. 17. whom you quote, ſpeaketh of conformitie vnto Chriſt by ſufferings, not of merite or ſatisfaction. Nor yet Leo ſer. 19. De Paſſione. Wherefore this blaſphemie of merites and ſatisfaction by ſuffering, ſtandeth vpon your owne credite, without any teſtimonie of Scriptures and Doctors. The Sacraments are appointed by Chriſt, to confirme our faith in the merites of Chriſt, not to applie the merites of Chriſt by them vnto vs, as by the worke wrought. Which opinion alſo, is iniurious to the paſſion of Chriſt: and therefore you ſhall neuer ſtoppe our clamours againſt it, and againſt the merite and ſatisfaction of mens ſufferings, except you can doe it by the word of God. And whereas you ſay, that vnder pretence of Chriſtes paſſion, we take away the valure of all good workes, it is falſe. For we acknowledge, that by the merite of his paſſion, our workes are accepted and rewarded, though wee ioyne them not in valure with the workes of Chriſt, to merite or ſatisfie for ſinne. Therefore, hauing brought no maner of proofe before, but but your bare worde, you make an impudent concluſion thereof, that it is plaine, that the ſufferings of Chriſts members, are ſatisfactorie both for the ſufferers, and for others. Let vs heare then howe you anſwere the obiectiõs, that are brought againſt your blaſphemous beggerly principle. For you ſay, though one member can not merite for an other properly, yet one may beare the burthen, and diſcharge the debt of an other. To take your graunt, if one by his ſuffering cannot merite for an other, then ones ſuffering is not meritorious for an other in deede, neither properly nor improperly, though you ſeeme to include a ſophiſticall diſtinction in that worde properly. But howe vnproperly may he merite by bearing an others burthen? For who will graunt, that one can beare the burthen, or pay the debt of an other mans ſinnes? ſeeing the Scripture ſayth, the ſoule that ſinneth, euen that ſhall die. Eze. 18. 20. And euery one ſhall beare his owne burthen, Gal. 6. 5. No man can redeeme his brother, or giue a price to God for him, Pſal. 49. 8. You ſee therefore howe agreeable it is to the Lawe of God, and nature, that one man ſhould beare an others burthen, and ſatisfie to God for his ſinnes: though one of charitie may beare an others burthen, and helpe him in this life. And howe ridiculous Wickleffe was to denie the ſame: but the olde prouerbe is found true, a foole laugheth, when there is nothing to be laughed at. But you riſe vpon vs luſtely, and ſay. We ſee heere, that paſſions of the Sainctes are alwayes ſuffered for the common good of the whole body. What then? Ergo they be meritorious and ſatisfactorie for the whole Church. This concluſion is not more worthy of laughing, then hiſſing. And ſometime by the ſpeciall intention of the ſufferer, they are applicable to ſpeciall perſons one or many. What then? Ergo they be meritorious and ſatisfactorie: what aſſe euer brayed ſuch concluſions? But S. Paul wiſheth to be Anathema for the Iewes, that is, a ſacrifice, according to Origen, and he ſpeaketh of his death as of a libation, hoſt or offering, ſo doe the fathers of the paſſions of Martyrs. What of this? Ergo S. Pauls death might haue been a ſacrifice propitiatorie for the Iewes, and ſo it was, at leaſt for others meritorious, and ſatisfactorie for their ſinnes? Yea being dedicated and ſanctified in Chriſtes blood, they haue a forcible crie, interceſſion, and ſatisfaction for the Church, and the particuler neceſſities of the ſame. Verily you muſt make newe logike, and create new reaſon, before theſe concluſions can folow of your antecedent or premiſſes. Yet you goe forward with them, and ſay, that ſome doe abound in ſuch ſatisfactions, to the helpe of them that lacke them. Firſt S. Paul, which reckoneth vp his afflictions, and glorieth in them 2. Cor. 11. In deede he ſayth, he will glorie in his infirmities, in which the grace of God worketh moſt effectually: but of merite and ſatisfaction, not a worde, nor a ſillable. The ſecond example is of Iob, who auoucheth (as you ſay) that his penaltie farre exceeded his ſinnes. But that is falſe: for although he vttered ſome times wordes of impatience, yet in that 6. Chapter he hath no ſuch ſaying: but according to your corrupt tranſlation. Whereas ỹ trueth is, he complaineth ỹ his ſorowes were greater, then he could expreſſe, not greater then his ſinnes had deſerued. For although he might iuſtly defend his innocencie againſt his friendes, which charged him with hypocriſie, yet when he commeth into the preſence of God, he layeth his hand on his mouth, and will not excuſe himſelfe: yea he confeſſeth, that he is not able to anſwere to one of a thouſand, that God might lay to his charge Iob. 9. 2. 3. 39. 37. Your third example is our Lady which neuer ſinned, yet ſuffered ſo great dolours. While you pretend to honour her, you doe moſt horrible iniurie, both to Chriſt, and her. For if ſhe neuer ſinned, howe can the Scripture be true. All haue ſinned, and are deſtitute of the glory of God. Rom. 3. 23. And if ſhe neuer ſinned, howe can ſhe reioyce in God her Sauiour? Howe can ſhe be one of Chriſtes people, who was called Ieſus, becauſe he ſhoulde ſaue his people from their ſinnes? Math. 1. This therefore being the ground of your indulgences, is moſt miſerable and blaſphemous beggerie, whereof I haue written more at large vpon 2. Cor. 2. Nowe that wee haue ſeene, you haue nothing out of the auncient fathers for you: let vs ſee what there is in them againſt you. Firſt Chryſoſtome vpon this text, hom. 4. ſayth. You are not reconciled to God by vs, but by Chriſt, although we doe theſe things. S. Ambroſe ſayth. He confeſſeth that he reioyceth in tribulations which he ſuffered, becauſe he ſeeth their profite in the faith of the beleeuers. Againe. He declared in the beginning, how great, and how infinite the omnipotencie of Chriſt is, that he might teach, that their hope is to be repoſed onely in him. Theodoret ſayth. He knew that life was procured by his ſuffering: for he ſaid, he fulfilled thoſe afflictions of Chriſt, which are wanting, as he which fulfilled that which was remayning, and ſuſteyned afflictions for them. And this was that which remayned, that he might preach to the Gentiles, and ſhew the liberall procurer of health vnto them. Finally, there is not one of the auncient fathers, that gathereth any merite or ſatisfaction of mens ſufferings out of this text.

CHAP. II.

He is carefull for them, though he were neuer with them: that they reſt in the wonderfull wiſedome which is in Chriſtian religion, and be not caried away either with Philoſophie, to leaue Chriſt and to ſacrifice to Angels or with Iudaiſme to receiue any ceremonies of Moyſes lawe.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. 8. By Philoſophie.) Philoſophie and al humane ſcience, ſo long as they be ſubiect and obedient to Chriſt (as they be in the Schooles of Chriſtian Catholike men) be not forbidden, but are greatly commended and be very profitable in the Church of God. Otherwiſe where ſecular learning is made the rule of religion and commaundeth faith, there it is pernicious & the cauſe of al hereſie and infidelitie. for the which, S. Hierom and before him Tertullian cal Philoſophers, the Patriarkes of Hereſikes, and declare that al the old hereſies roſe only by to much admiring of prophane Philoſophie. Hiero. ad Cteſiph. cont. Pelag. c. 1. Tertul. de præſcr. & cont. Hermog. & cont. Marcio. li. 5. And ſo do theſe new ſectes no doubt in many things. for, other arguments haue they none againſt the preſence of Chriſt in the B. Sacrament but ſuch as they borow of Ariſtotle and his like, concerning quantitie, accidents, place, poſition, dimenſions, ſenſes, ſight, taſt, and other ſtraites of reaſon, to which they bring Chriſtes myſteries. Al Philoſophical arguments therfore againſt any article of our faith be here condemned as deceitfull, and are called alſo here, the tradition of men, and the elements of the world. The better to reſiſt which fallacies and traditions of Heathen men, the Schoole learning is neceſſarie, which keepeth Philoſophie in awe, and order of faith, and vſeth the ſame to withſtand the Philoſophical and ſophiſtical deceites of the Heretikes and Heathen. So the great Philoſophers S. Denys, S. Auguſtine, Clemens Alexandrinus, Iuſtine, Lactantius and the reſt, vſed the ſame to the great honour of God and benefite of the Church. So came S. Cyprian, S. Ambroſe, S. Hierom, and the Greeke fathers, furniſhed with al ſecular learning vnto the ſtudie of Diuinitie, whereof ſee S. Hierom ep. 84. ad Magnum Oratorem.

Fulke 1. Where you ſay, we haue none other Arguments againſt the carnal preſence of Chriſt in the Sacrament, it is falſe. For we haue many Arguments both out of the Scriptures, and alſo out of the ancient fathers. Neither haue we any Arguments out of Philoſophie, but ſuch as are grounded vpon the holy Scriptures, which teach the perfect humanitie of Chriſt, and all eſſential properties of a true and naturall body.

Rhem. 2. 16. In meate.) The Proteſtants wilfully or ignorantly applie al theſe kindes of forbearing meates, to the Chriſtian faſtes: but it is by the circumſtance of the text plaine (as S. Auguſtine alſo teacheth) that the Iudaical obſeruation and diſtinction of certaine cleane and vncleane meates is forbidden to the Coloſſians, who were in danger to be ſeduced by certaine Iewes, vnder pretence of holines to keepe the Law touching meates and feſtiuities and other like, which the Apoſtle ſheweth were onely ſhadowes of things to come: which things are come, and therfore the ſaid ſhadowes to ceaſe. Where he nameth the Sabboths and feaſtes of the new moone, that no man needs to doubt but that he ſpeaketh only of the Iewiſh daies and kindes of faſtes and feaſtes, and not of Chriſtian holidaies or faſting daies at all.

Fulke 2. When Popiſh choice of meates and dayes is more ſuperſtitious & burdenous, then the Iudaical difference of meates and dayes, we doe rightly apply this and ſuch like places againſt them. Not againſt Chriſtian faſtes or feaſts, ſuch as yours are not: For your abſtinence from fleſh is no faſt, but a ſuperſtitious change of meates according to the tradition of men, vpon a vaine pretence, that fleſh was curſed of God and not filh, as Durand confeſſeth lib. 6. cap. de ieiunijs. The Apoſtles doctrine therefore being generall, is not onely againſt the Iewes, but againſt any ſuperſtition that is like vnto theirs. Of your feaſtes Iudaically and ſeruilly obſerued, I haue written in Gal. 4. Sect. 5.

Popiſh faſtes.

Rhem. 3. 18. Religion of Angels.) By the like falſe application of this text as of the other before, the Heretikes abuſe it againſt the inuocation or honour of Angels vſed in the Catholike Church, where the Apoſtle noteth the wicked doctrine of Simon Magus and others (See S. Chryſ. ho. 7. in hunc locum, and Epiph. hær. 21.) who taught, Angels to be our mediators and not Chriſt, non tenens caput, not holding the head, as the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh, and preſcribed ſacrifices to be offered vnto them, meaning indifferently as wel the il Angels as the good. Which doctrine the ſaid Heretike had of Plato, who taught, that ſpirites (which he calleth dæmones) were to be honoured as mediators next to God. Againſt which S. Auguſtine diſputeth li. 8. 9. & 10. de ciuit. as he condemneth alſo the ſame vndue worſhip li. 10. Confeſſ. cap. 42. S. Hierom (q. 10. ad Algaſiam) expounded this alſo of il ſpirites or diuels, whom he proueth (out of S. Stevens ſermon Act 7) that the Iewes did worſhip, auouching that they ſerue them ſtil, ſo many of them and ſo often as they obſerue the Law. Of which idolatrie alſo to Angels Theodoret ſpeaketh vpon this place, declaring that the Iewes defended their ſuperſtition towards Angels by thas, that the Law was giuen by them, deceitfully at once inducing the Coloſſians, both to keep the Law, and to honouring of the Angels as the giuers of the ſame. Whereby diuers of the faithful were ſo ſeduced, that they forſooke Chriſt and his Church and ſeruice, and committed idolatrie to the ſaid Angels. Paul calleth abſtaining from meates after the Iewiſh or heretical maner, the doctrine of Diuels: *whereof ſee more in the annotation vpon that place. Haimo a godly auncient writer, vpon this place, ſaith further, that ſome Philoſophers of the Gentils and ſome of the Iewes alſo taught, that there were foure Angels Preſidents of the foure elements of mans body, & that in feined hypocriſie (which the Apoſtle here calleth humilitie) they pretended to worſhip by ſacrifice the ſaid Angels. Theophylacte expoundeth this feined humilitie, of certaine Heretikes, that pretending the mediatorſhip to be a derogation to Chriſts maieſtie, worſhipped Angels as the only mediators. Al which we ſet downe with more diligence, that the Heretikes may be aſhamed to abuſe this place againſt the due reuerence and reſpect or praiers made to the holy Angels. fore abuſe this place againſt your ſuperſtitious honouring and inuocating of Angels. S. Auguſtine ſaith, If you would right ly worſhip the Angels, you ſhould learne of them not to worſhip them. In Pſ.96. The ſame father among hereſies, reciteth a ſect called Angelici, which were inclined to the worſhip of Angels ad Quodvult Deum. Her. 39. Epiphanius among other wicked opinions and doings, noteth the Caianes for inuocation of Angels. *Her.*38. Of building temples in the honour of Angels, S. Auguſtine ſaith: *If we ſhould make a temple of timber and ſtones, to any holy and moſt excellent Angel, ſhould we not be accurſed from the trueth of Chriſt, and from the Church of God, becauſe we ſhould giue that ſeruice to a creature which is due only to God? Contra Maximin. lib.*1. Tract. 11. What is it then for Papiſts to builde and hallow Churches vnto the honour of S. Michael, and S. Gabriel? But the Scriptures (you ſay) record ſo often, that the Angels do offer our prayers vp to God, and to haue bene lawfully reuerenced of the Patriarkes as Gods Miniſters. The proofe of this is conteined in 4. Quotations. The firſt, Ioſue 5.14. where Ioſue falleth downe and worſhippeth no Angel, but the Lord God himſelfe, our Sauiour Chriſt, the Prince of the Lords armie (that is of all Angels) appearing to him in the ſhape of a man, as it is plaine by the text. The next is *Tob.*12.12. which is no Canonical Scripture, nor agreeable vnto it: for the Scripture alwayes maketh Chriſt our onely Mediatour, by whom our prayers and all other ſpiritual ſacrifices are offered to God. 1. *Pet.*2.5. *Heb.*13.15. The third text. *Gen.*48.16. The Angel which deliuered me, &c. By whom Iacob meaneth the Angel of the Couenant, which is Chriſt, & no creature, *Mal.*3.1. For no creature but God himſelf deliuered him from al euil. And S. Paul calleth the Angel which led the people of Iſrael, Chriſt. 1 *Cor.*10.9. And although he ſhould meane the miniſtery of an Angel, yet his praier is to God, & not to the Angel, that he would protect thoſe children by his Angel, as he had done Iacob himſelfe. The laſt. 1. *Tim.*5.21. where the Apoſtle doth charge Timothie in the preſence of God, & of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, and the elect Angels, to obſerue theſe things. Out of which words, I cannot imagine how you would gather your concluſion, that Saincts do offer our prayers, & haue bene reuerenced of the Patriarks. S. Paul calleth God and our Sauiour Chriſt, and his holy Angels to be witneſſes of this his weightie charge. And Moſes calleth heauen and earth to witnes that he hath ſet before them life and death. *Deut.*30.19. May we hereof conclude, that heauen and earth did offer his prayers, or that he did yeld any religious worſhip to heauen and earth? As for due reuerence which is of loue, not of ſeruice, there is no doubt but all the Saincts of God doe yeeld vnto them. And ſo ſaith S. Auguſtine of the Angels: *We honour them with charitie, not with ſeruice. Neither do we build temples vnto them: for they wil not be ſo honoured of vs, becauſe they know that we whom we are good, are the temples of the highſt God. Therefore it is rightly written, that a man was forbiddenly an Angel to worſhip him, & bidden to worſhip God only, vnder whom he alſo was a fellow ſeruant with him. De vera relig.*55. The texts are euident. Apoc. c.19.10. & 22.8. Where ỹ Angel denieth to be worſhipped of S. Iohn, who was not ſo ignorant to worſhip him as God, but thought ſome religious worſhip was due to him, as to a meſſenger of God. But that Angels may be prayed vnto, and can helpe and heare vs, you ſend vs firſt to *Hierom in cap.*10. Daniel, where is neuer a word to proue that Angels may be prayed vnto. Only Hierom (beſide the text and beſide the trueth) ſaith in the perſon of the Angel, that he did offer Daniels prayers: but that he was to be prayed vnto, there is no word. That the Angels may know our prayers when it pleaſeth God, & be miniſters of his helpe vnto vs, it is no queſtion. We acknowledge they are appointed for our gard and defence, according to Gods pleaſure. The Angel in that Chapter of Daniel, was ready at the firſt prayers of Daniel, but the Prince of Perſia withſtoode him 21. dayes. Whereby he declareth, that his meſſage was delayed for that time, & for what benefite of the Church. Where, leſt you ſhould build too much vpon S. Hieroms auctoritie for offering of our prayers by the Angel, He vnderſtandeth the Prince of Perſia to be an Angel, and ſo maketh a reſiſtance of one Angel againſt another, which is a groſſe abſurditie. Your next proofe is out of S. Ambroſe *in Pſ.*118. *ſer.*1. Where there is no word to proue, that Angels may be prayed vnto. Only he ſheweth, that Angels are preſent in all places to be witneſſes of our actions, and to protect and defend Gods children as it pleaſeth him to ſend them. The third is S. Auguſtine *De ciuit. lib.*10. *c.*12. Where he ſaith, that God doth none otherwiſe heare them that call vpon him, then he ſeeth that they wil call vpon him. For euen when his Angels doe heare, he heareth them, as in a true temple not made with hands. His meaning is (as it is plaine by the diſcourſe of the Chapter) that God hath no neede of the miniſtery of Angels, to haue our prayers preſented to him by them: but when they doe heare our prayers made to him, he in the Angels themſelues heareth them. Wherefore here is nothing to proue, that we may pray to Angels, becauſe the Angels ſometimes heare vs pray to God. The laſt is *Bede in Cant. lib.*4. *c.*14. Where there is no word of praying to Angels, nor of any reuerence giuen to them. Onely he ſaith, out of Appolonius, that the miniſteries of Angels do neuer decline from their power and office, but alwayes remaine as high as Palme trees. And out of Iulianus he ſaith, The companies of his Saincts both of men and of Angels, doe ſerue his Godhead, and doe celebrate the honour of the King with continuall praiſe. I will conclude therefore with S. Auguſtines exhortation, agreeable to this text, *Let Religion therefore binde vs to one Almighty God, becauſe betweene our minde whereby we vnderſtand him to be our Father and the trueth, (that is that inward light by which we vnderſtand him,) there is no creature ſet betweene. De vera Relig.*55. And Theodoret vpon this text, ſaying that it was decreed in the Councel Laodicea, that men ſhould not pray vnto the Angels. And further ſaith, that vnto his time they had in diuers places of Phrygia, (as a remnant of this ancient ſuperſtition) Churches or Oratories of S. Michael.

Rhem. 19. Not holding the head.) Becauſe he hath much a do with ſuch falſe preachers as taught the people to preferre the Angels which gaue the Law, or other what ſoeuer, before Chriſt: in this Epiſtle, and to the Epheſians, he often affirmeth Chriſt to be our head, yea and to be exalted far aboue al creatures, Angels, Poteſtats, Principalities, or what ſoeuer.

Rhem. 4. 20. Why do you.) A marueilous impudent tranſlation of theſe words in the English Bible thus. Why are you burdened with traditions? Whereas the Greeke hath not that ſignification: but to make the name of Tradition odious, here they put it of purpoſe, not being in the Greeke: and in other places where Traditions are commended (1. Cor. 11. and 2. Theſ. 2.) and where the Greeke is ſo moſt ſtrictly (two ſyllables) there they tranſlate it, Inſtructions, ordinances, &c. Deſperate Hereticall tranſlation.

Fulke. 4. A marueilous manner to make ſuch an outcry of our tranſlation, which is agreeable to ỹ ſenſe of the Apoſtle, though we cannot expreſſe it in one word. But we do it (you ſay) to make ỹ name of tradition odious. And be not the Slander. Cauilling.

the traditions and decrees of men odious? Which the Apoſtle verſe 22. calleth the precepts and doctrines of men, as Chriſt doth the traditions of the Iewes, Matth. 15. But where traditions are commended (you ſay) the word which flatly ſignifieth traditions, we tranſlate inſtructions, ordinances. I anſwere, the Greeke word will beare our tranſlation, and we doe auoyde the terme of traditions, to diſtinguiſh the ordinances and doctrine deliuered by the Apoſtles, from the traditions of men which our Sauiour Chriſt condemneth, Matth. 15. Traditions of men.

Rhem. 5. 21. Touch not.) *The Heretikes (as before and alwaies) very vainly alleage this againſt the Catholike faſting: when it is moſt cleere that the Apoſtle reprehendeth the foreſaid falſe teachers that thought to make the Chriſtians ſubiect to the obſeruation of the ceremonies of the old Law, of not eating hogges, conies, hares fleſh, and ſuch like, not to touch a dead corps nor any place where a woman in her flowres had ſitten, and other infinite doctrines of touching, faſting, waſhing, eating, and the reſt, either commaunded to the old people by God, or (as many things were) voluntarily taken vp by them ſelues, ſomes more cleane againſt Gods ordinance, and often friuolous and ſuperſtitious. Which ſort as Chriſt in the Goſpel, ſo here S. Paul calleth the precepts and doctrines of men, and ſuperſtition, and (as the Greeke word ſignifieth) * voluntarie worſhip, that is inuented by Heretikes of their owne head without the warrant of Chriſt in the Scriptures, or the holy Ghoſt in the Church, or any lawful authoritie of ſuch whom Chriſt commaundeth vs to obey. Againſt ſuch Sect-Maiſters therfore as would haue yoked the faithful againe with the Iewiſh or Heretical faſtes of Simon Magus and the like, S. Paul ſpeaketh, and not of the Churches faſtes or doctrines.* Scripture abuſed againſt the Churches faſtes.

Fulke 5. This maketh not againſt your prohibitions of touching of meates and handling of Chalices and ſuch like: Why ſo? Becauſe you be no heretikes. Nay, but becauſe you haue ſuch precepts & doctrines of men, contrary to Scriptures: you declare your ſelues to be as great heretikes as theſe men, againſt whome the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, and to hold either the ſame or the like hereſies. You ſay, ſuperſtition or voluntary worſhip is that, which is inuented by heretikes of their owne head, without the warrant of Chriſt in the Scriptures. Herein we agree with you, & ſuch is al Popiſh ſuperſtition. But you come in with an Or, that it hath the warrant of the holy Ghoſt in the Church: Verely the Church hath no auctoritie of the holy Ghoſt, to decree contrary to the Scriptures, to make Religion in touching and taſting, which the Scripture ſaith to be free. Neither are we cõmanded to obey any man, but ſo farre forth as his doctrine and decrees are warrantable by the holy Scriptures. For neither the Church nor any perſon therein, hath power to command or forbid the vſe of any creature for Religions ſake. But if any company of men doe take vpon them to ſet vp a new Religion or worſhip, in whole or in part, which hath not the warrant of Chriſt in the Scriptures, we ſee by this place it is alſo contrary to the Scriptures, therefore that company ſhew themſelues not to be of the Church of Chriſt, but of Antichriſt, and he that commaundeth the contrary to this text, vſurpeth Gods auctoritie as Antichriſt, hauing no commiſſion from God, or our Sauiour Chriſt. Popiſh heretikes. Vſe of creatures.

Rhem. 6. 23. Hauing a ſhew.) *Againe the Heretikes of our time obiect, that theſe foreſaid falſe teachers pretended holines, wiſdom, and chaſtiſement of their bodies (for ſo S. Paul ſaith) by forbidding certaine meates according to the Iewes obſeruation, euen as the Catholikes do. It is true they did ſo, and ſo do moſt vices imitate vertues, for if chaſtiſing of mens bodies and repreſſing their concupiſcences and luſtes were not godly, and if abſtinence from ſome meates were not laudably and profitably vſed in the Church for the ſame purpoſe, no Heretikes (to induce the aboliſhed obſeruations and differences of meates of the Iewes, or the condemnation of certaine meates and creatures as abominable according to others) would haue falſely pretended the chaſtiſement of their fleſh, or made other ſhew of wiſedom and pietie, to ſound their vnlawful Heretical or Iudaical ſuperſtition concerning the ſame. The Catholike Church and her children, by the example of Chriſt, S. Iohn Baptiſt, the Apoſtles & other bleſſed men, do that lawfully, godly, religiouſly, and ſincerely in deede to the end aforeſaid, which theſe falſe Apoſtles only pretended to do. So * S. Paul did chaſtiſe his body in deede, by watching, faſting, and many other afflictions, and that was lawful and was true wiſedom and pietie in deede. The foreſaid Heretikes not ſo, but to induce the Coloſsians to Iudaiſme and other abominable errors, did but pretend theſe things in hypocriſie.* The hypocriticall abſtinence of old Heretikes, maketh nothing againſt true and ſincere faſting, but commendeth it.

* 1. Cor. 9, 27. 2. Cor. 11, 27.

Fulke. 6. It hath bene often ſaid, your abſtinence from fleſh and eating of fiſh, with drinking of wine, and eating of al maner of fruits and ſpices, is no Chriſtian faſt: but an hypocritical counterfecting. Secondly, your abſtinence from fleſh and allowing fiſh, for more holines, (becauſe the waters were not curſed, when all fleſh was curſed,) is the very doctrine of diuels. Thirdly, your very faſting and puniſhing of your carkaſſes, not for chaſtiſement to bring them in ſubiection to the ſpirit, but by your arrogant opinion of merite, to preferre ſuch bodily exerciſes euen before faith of the heart, and true contrition of the ſoule, and other fruites of Gods ſpirit, is as vile hypocriſie and hereſie, as euer was in any ancient heretikes. And therefore you can neuer ſhift your ſelues from the condemnation of this text, except you leaue your wicked hereſies. Popiſh faſting.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. 24. Retribution of. Retribution or reward for good workes: ἀνταπόδοσις, which ſignifieth rendering one for another.

Fulke. 1. Retribution of the heauenly inheritance, is not the wages merited by good and faythfull ſeruice done to men, as vnto God, but it is the rewarde promiſed, and freely giuen, to Gods children, of his meere grace and mercie, by which they are made his children, and ſo haue intereſt vnto his inheritance: and yet it is truely and duely rendred, becauſe it is promiſed:

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 2. 3. Auarice which is the ſeruice of Idols.) Here is a maruelous impudent and foliſh corruption in the vulgar Engliſh Bible printed the yere 1577 and (as it ſeemeth) moſt auctoriſed. Where for their error againſt the Images of Chriſt and his Saincts, and to make image and idol al one: the tranſlator, for that which the Apoſtle ſayth in Greeke, Couetouſnes is idolatrie, maketh him to ſay in Engliſh, Couetouſnes is worſhipping of images, as alſo Ephe.5,4. he tranſlateth thus, The couetous perſon is a worſhipper of images: for that which the Apoſtle ſayth, The couetous man is an idolater, meaning ſpiritual idolatrie, becauſe he maketh money his God. In which ſenſe to call this ſpiritual idolatrie, worſhipping of images, is ſo ridiculous, and muſt needes proceede of blinde hereſie. Heretical and fooliſh tranſlation.

Fulke. 2. A marueilous inpudent and fooliſh corruption, to make image and idol all one. A great corruption I promiſe you to expreſſe a greeke word, by a latin or Engliſh word. For that εἴδωλον ſignifieth an image, not onely all the new Dictionaries do teſtify, but alſo the ancient greeke Lexicons of Heſychius, and Phauorinus, and ſo is the word vſed by Plato, Homer, and al other ancient writers. But if there be ſo great difference, betwne idols & images, why do you tranſlate out of your latin, which is Seruitus ſimulachrorum, the ſeruice of images, contrary to your latin, calling it the ſeruice of idols? If you will ſtande in argument with vs, that Simulachrum ſignifieth the ſame, that εἴδωλον doth in greeke & not that εἰκὼν: firſt the vſe of al learned auctors in the latin tongue, is againſt you, and namly Tullie, the father of Latin eloquens, which oftentimes vſeth the worde Simulachrum, for the ſame that is otherwiſe called Imago, or Effigies. One or two examples, I wil bring for many, Pro Archia, he ſayth Statuæ & imagines non animorum ſimulachra ſunt ſed corporum. Standing images, and other images, are not ſimilitudes or images of the minde, but of the bodies. Againſt Verres, he nameth Effigies ſimulachrumque Mithridatis. The ſhape & image of Mithridrates. Lactantius an eloquent Chriſtian, calleth men, viuentia dei ſimulachra, the liuing images of God: where you muſt tranſlate, the liuing idols of God: if this your tranſlation be true. Perionius a popiſh fryer in Dionyſius, de celeſt. Hierar. lib.1.c.1. for the greeke word εἰκὼν tranſlateth Simulachra, which if you ſhould vnderſtand for an idol, woulde make a madde meaning of Dionyſius. But of this worde Simulachrum, and of our tranſlation, I haue anſwered more at large in my defence againſt Greg. Martyn cap.1.ſect.5. & cap.3. through out al the ſections. Why ſpiritual idolatry, may not be called ſpiritual worſhipping of images, I greatly marueyle, though it ſeeme to you neuer ſo ridiculous. For there is ſpiritual worſhip, as well as bodily and ſpirituall images as well as bodily images, though you laugh till your ſplene ake. But yours is the blinde hereſie, which worſhippeth them that haue eyes and ſee not, and by the iudgement of God and the propheres execration, are become like vnto thoſe whom you worſhip, that is hauing eyes and ſee not, for who is ſo blinde, as he that will not ſee? Images and Idols.

Rhem. 3. 9 Doing on the new.) By this and the whole diſcourſe of this chapter conteining an exhortation to good life, and to put on the habite of the newe man with all vertues: we may ſee, our iuſtice in Chriſt to be a very qualitie and forme inherent in our ſoul, adorning the ſame, and not an imputation onely of Chriſtes righteouſnes, or a hiding onely of our ſinnes & wickednes, which the Heretikes falſely affirme to remaine in vs after baptiſme and alwaies during life. See S. Auguſtine, de pec. mer. & remiſſ. li.2.c.7. & cont. Iulian li.6.c.7. Iuſtice an inherent qualitie in vs.

Fulke. 3. We know there is in the regenerate, a qualitie inherent of iuſtice inchoated and vnperfect, by which we are not iuſtified before God, but onely by the iuſtice of Chriſt imputed to vs through fayth: whereby our ſinnes are hidde, and couered from the ſight of Gods iuſtice. Yet ſo, that they are forgiuen and remoued from vs, as farre as the Eaſt is from the weſt: and not remaine ſtill in vs (as you falſely ſay, we affirme) after baptiſme, although corruption of our nature which is of originall ſinne, doth remaine in vs during our natural life. And our renouation is begunne in regeneration, not perfected vntill after this life. And that doth Auguſtine expreſſely affirme, In the firſt place, whether you ſende vs. For not from that houre, in which euery man was baptized, all his olde infirmitie is conſumed, but renouation beginneth of the remiſſion of all ſinnes. The ſame argument he holdeth, againſt Iulianus the Pelagian as appereth by theſe his wordes. Although in baptiſme be performed full remiſſion of ſinnes, yet there hath remayned where in we might profit to a better wreſtling, to be watchfully and continually exerciſed, againſt the troopes of euill deſires, rebelling within vs, for which it is ſayd, euen to them that are baptized, Mortifie your members which are vpon earth &c. Iuſtice inherent. THE ARGVMENT OF THE FIRST EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO THE THESSALONIANS.

HOW S. Paul with Silas (or Siluanus) and Timothee according to a viſion calling him out of Aſia into Macedonia, came to Philippi being the firſt citie thereof, we read Act. 16. And howe againe from Philippi, after ſcourging and impriſoning there, he came to Theſſalonica being the head citie of that countrie, we reade Act. 17. where after 3 weekes preaching, the Iewes ſtirred the citie againſt them, and purſued them alſo to Berea: ſo that Paul was conueied from thence to Athens, where he expected the comming of Silas and Timothee from the forſaid Berea in Macedonia, but receiued them (as we haue Act. 18.) at Corinth in Achaia.

Hauing therefore left the Theſſalonians in ſuch perſecution, and being carefull to know how they did in it, he was deſirous to returne vnto them, as he ſignifieth in the 2 chapter of this Epiſtle v. 17. (But as he there addeth) Satan hindered vs, th refore tarying him ſelfe at Athens, he ſendeth Timothee vnto them, at whoſe returne vnderſtanding their conſtancie, he is much comforted, as he declareth c. 3. So then they are all three together at the writing of this Epiſtle, as alſo we haue in the title of it: Paul and Siluanus and Timothee to the Church of the Theſſalonians. And therefore it ſeemeth to haue bene written at Corinth, not at Athens: becauſe after the ſending of Timothee to Theſſalonica, they meete not at Athens againe, but at Corinth.

The firſt three chapters of it are, to confirme and comfort them againſt the tentations of thoſe perſecutions. The other two are of exhortation, to liue according to his precepts, namely in ſanctification of their bodies, and not in fornication: to loue one another: to comfort one an other about their frendes departed, with the doctrine of the Reſurrection, and with continuall preparation to die: the laitie to obey, and the Clergie to be diligent in euery point of their office.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem.* 2. 6. Folowers of vs.) S. Paul is bold to commend them for imitation of him, yea and to ioyne himſelfe in that point with Chriſt, to be their paterne to walke after. Where without curioſitie he nameth himſelfe firſt, and our Lord afterward, becauſe he was a more neere and ready obiect then Chriſt, who was not nor could not be followed but through the preaching and converſation of the Apoſtle, who was in their ſight or hearing. And this imitation of ſome holy man or other, hath made ſo many Religious men of diuers orders and rules, all tending to the better imitation of Chriſt our Lord. See the like wordes of the Apoſtle, 1. Cor. 11. 1, and Philippi. 3, 17.

Religious perſons imitation of diuers holy men is the imitatiō of Chriſt himſelfe.

Fulke.* 2. S. Paul requireth, that men be no otherwiſe folowers of him, then he is of Chriſt. 1. Cor. 11. 1. But by folowing him learne to follow Chriſt. Neither doth he ſet vp for this purpoſe, a new order, rule or religion of Paulianes a you do of Franciſcanes, Dominicanes &c. but exhorteth al Chriſtians together, to this kinde of imitations, where as your ſectes and new religions, do make diuiſions among Chriſtians. Againe howe can ſuch diuerſitie of ſectes among you, bring men to the imitation of Chriſt, which was but one? wherefore your Popiſh religions, haue a vayne pretence to folow Chriſt by folowing a mans rule, when they leaue the rule of Chriſt, which is expreſſed in his holy word, and is commen to all Chriſtians.

CHAP. II.

He calleth euen them ſelues to witnes, that his preaching vnto them was as he ſaid, in moſt commendable maner. 13 And againe on the other ſide he thanketh God for their maner of receiuing it: that is, with al ioy, notwithſtanding the perſecution of their owne citizens.

FOr your ſelues know, brethren, our entrance, vnto you, that it was not vaine:

2 But ᶜ hauing ſuffred before and * been abuſed with contumelies (as you know) at Philippi, we had confidence in our God, to ſpeake vnto you the Goſpel of God in much carefulnes.

3 For our exhortation was not of error, nor of vncleanneſſe, nor in deceite:

4 But as we were approued of God that the Goſpel ſhould be committed to vs, ſo we ſpeake: not as pleaſing men, but God, who proueth our hearts.

5 For neither haue we been at any time in the word of adulation, as you know: nor in occaſion of auarice, God is witnes:

6 Nor ſeeking glorie of men, neither of you, nor of others.

7 Wheras we might haue been a burden to you, as the Apoſtles of Chriſt? but we became

FOr ye your ſelues, brethren, knowe our entrance in vnto you, that it was not in vaine.

*2 * But euen after that wee had ſuffered before, and were ſhamefully entreated as yee knowe at Philippi, we were bolde in our God, to ſpeake vnto you the Goſpell of God, in much ſtriuing.* Act. 16. 22.

3 For our exhortation was not of deceite, neither of vnclеanneſſe, neither in guile:

4 But as we were alowed of God to be put in credite with the Goſpell, euen ſo we ſpeake, not as pleaſing men, but God, which tryeth our hearts.

5 For neither at any time vſed we flattering wordes, as ye know, neither cloke of couetouſneſſe, God is record.

8 So hauing a deſire to you, we would gladly deliuer vnto you not only the Goſpel of God, but alſo our owne ſoules: becauſe you are become moſt deere vnto vs.

Act.20,34. 1.Cor.4,12. 2.Theſ.3,8. 9 For you are mindful, brethren, of* our labour and toile, day and night working, leſt we ſhould charge any of you, we preached among you the Goſpel of God.

10 You are witneſſes & God, how holily and iuſtly and without blame, we haue bene to you that did beleeue.

11 As you know in what maner we deſiring and comforting you, haue adiured euery one of you (as a father his children) that you would walke woorthie of God, who hath called you into his kingdome and glory.

12 Therefore we alſo giue thankes to God without intermiſſion: becauſe that whē you had receiued of vs the word of the hearing of God, you receiued it not as the word of men, but (as it is deede) ‖ the worde of God, who worketh in you that haue beleeued.

13 For you, brethren, are become folowers of the Churches of God that be in Iewrie, in Chriſt IESVS: for you alſo haue ſuffered the ſame things of your owne lineage, as they alſo of the Iewes,

14 Who both killed our Lord IESVS, and the Prophets, and haue perſecuted vs, and pleaſe not God, and are aduerſaries to all men, 15 Prohibiting vs to ſpeake to the Gentils that they may be ſaued, to make vp their ſinnes alwaies. for the wrath of God is come vpon them euen to the end.

c Impeaſiti- dem. 16 But we, brethren, c depriued of you for a ſhort time, in ſight, not in hart: haue haſtened the more aboundantly to ſee your face with much deſire.

17 For we would haue come to you, I Paul certes, once and againe: but Satan hath hindered vs.

among you, euen as a nurſe cheriſheth her children.

8 So, being tenderly affected toward you, our good will was to haue deals vnto you, not the Goſpel of God only, but alſo our owne ſoules: becauſe ye were deare vnto vs.

*9 For ye remember, brethren, our labour and trauaile: for we labouring night and day, becauſe we would not be chargeable vnto any of you, preached vnto you the Goſpel of God. Acts 20. 34. 2.Theſ.3.8.

10 Ye are witneſſes, and God alſo, how holily, and iuſtly, and vnblameably, we behaued our ſelues among you that beleeue.

11 And yee know how that as a father his children, ſo we haue exhorted, comforted, & beſought euery one of you,

*12 That yee would walke woorthy of God, who hath called you vnto his kingdome and glory. Eph.4.1.

13 For this cauſe thanke we God alſo without ceaſſing, becauſe when ye had receiued the word of God which ye heard of vs, ye receiued it not as the word of men (but as it is in deed) the word of God, which effectuouſly worketh alſo in you that beleeue.

14 For ye, brethren, became followers of the Churches of God, which in Iurie are in Chriſt Ieſus: for yee alſo haue ſuffered like things of your countreymen, as they haue of the Iewes:

15 Who both killed the Lord Ieſus, and their owne prophetes, and haue perſecuted vs: and God they pleaſe not, and are contrary to all men:

16 And hinder vs to ſpeake to the Gentiles, that they might be ſaued, to fulfill their ſinnes alway. For the wrath of God is come on them to the vttermoſt.

*17 For aſmuch, brethren, as we are kept from you for a ſhort ſeaſon, in perſon, not in heart, we enforced the more to ſee you perſonally with great deſire. Rom.1.11.

18 And therefore we would haue come vnto you (euen I Paul) once and againe: but Satan hindered vs.

19 For what is our hope, or ioy, or crowne of reioycing? Are not ye it in the preſence of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt at his comming?

20 Yea, ye are our glory and ioy.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem.1. 18 Are not you before.) If the Apoſtle without iniurie to God, in right good ſenſe call his ſcholers the Theſſalonians, his hope, ioy, glory: why blaſpheme the Proteſtants the Cath. Church and her children for terming our B. Ladie or other S. inuocati, their hope, for the ſpecial confidence they haue in their prayers?

Fulke.1. A poore ſhift of deſcant to excuſe your blaſphemous confidence in the merite of creatures. S. Paul calleth the Theſſalonians his hope,ioy,and crowne,&c.becauſe he hopeth to haue ioy and reward for his labour,beſtowed in their conuerſion,according to the promiſe of God. Shew the like promiſe if you can, for ſaluation to be obtained by the merites of Saincts prayers, or els you cannot without blaſphemie, in any ſenſe, call creatures your hope,and much leſſe haue ſpeciall confidence in their prayers. Agayne,the Apoſtle ſpeaketh this,in reſpect of his loue toward them, therefore Theodoret ſayth: Becauſe he likened himſelfe to a mother which cherſheth her children,he alſo imitateth the wordes of mothers, which are wont to call their yong children, their hope, their ioy,and ſuch like. Chryſoſtome ſayeth: Doe you not acknowledge theſe to be the wordes of women, which being inflamed with loue, ſpeake after this maner to their yong children? Ambroſe ſayth: The perfection of the ſcholers,is the ioy & crowne of the maſter. Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 2. 12 The word of God.) The Aduerſaries will haue no word of God but that which is written and conteined in the Scripture: but here they might learne that all Paules preaching before he wrote to them, was the very word of God. They might alſo learne that whatſoeuer the lawfull Apoſtles,Paſtors and Prieſts of Gods Church preach in the vnitie of the ſame Church,is to be taken for Gods owne word,and ought not to be reputed of them for doctrines of men or Phariſaical traditions,as they falſly call canons,precepts,and decrees of holy Church. Not onely the written word is the word of God.

Fulke. 2. Since God cauſed the Scripture firſt to be written,there is no doctrine to be counted the word of God,but that which is contained in the Scriptures. And ſo were all the preachings of S. Paul contained in the Scriptures of the lawe and the Prophets,before he did put any word of them in writing,as he teſtifieth: Act.26.22. And whatſoeuer the lawfull Apoſtles,Paſtours and Prieſts of God doe preach in the vnitie of the Church, is no otherwiſe to be taken for Gods owne word, but as it is conſonant and agreeable vnto the holy Scriptures, and for the ſubſtaunce of doctrine,contained in them. Elſe are they no better then the doctrines and traditions of men. Sufficiencie of the Scripture.

CHAP. III.

Becauſe he could not come himſelfe as he deſired,he ſent Timothee. 6 At whoſe returne now vnderſtanding that they ſtand ſtill ſtedfaſt, notwithſtanding all thoſe perſecutions,he reioyceth exceedingly: 10 praying that he may ſee them againe, 12 and for their increaſe in charitie.

FOr the which cauſe forbearing no longer, it pleaſed vs to remaine at Athens, alone.

2 And we ſent Timothee our brother, & the miniſter of God in the Goſpel of Chriſt, to confirme you and exhort you for your faith,

3 That no man be moued in theſe tribulations, for your ſelues know, that we are appointed to this.

4 For euen when we were with you, we foretold you that we ſhould ſuffer tribulations,as alſo it is come to paſſe,& you know.

4 For verily when we were with you, we told you before,that we ſhould ſuffer tribulation: euen as it came to paſſe,and as ye know.

5 For this cauſe when I could no longer forbeare,I ſent him to know your faith,leaſt by ſome meanes the tempter had tempted you,and our labour had bene vaine.

6 But now lately when Timotheus came from you vnto vs, and brought vs good tidings of your fayth and charitie,and how that ye haue good remembrance of vs alwayes,deſiring greatly to ſee vs,as we alſo to ſee you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were comforted ouer you, in all our aduerſitie and neceſſitie,becauſe of your fayth:

Rhem. 1. 10 See your face.) Though letters or epiſtles in abſence giue great comfort and confirmation in fayth, yet it is preaching in preſence by which the faith of Chriſt and true religion is alwayes both begun and accompliſhed.

Fulke. 1. Though publike preaching in preſence, be the principall and ordinary meanes to plant fayth, and to accompliſh it, yet ſometimes God ſupplieth the want of ſuch preaching by reading of the holy Scriptures, and other bookes conſonant vnto them, and by priuate teaching. He exhorteth them to liue as he taught them: and namely to abſteine from al fornication, 9 to loue one an other, 11 to meddle onely with their owne matters, 12 to behaue themſelues wel toward the Infidels. 13 Touching their frends departed, he comforteth them, ſhewing that they ſhall meete againe at the Reſurrection, and be with Chriſt for euer.

3 For this is the will of God, your ſanctification: that you abſtaine from fornication,

9 But concerning the charitie of the ᶜfraternitie, we haue no need to write to you:

But proue.) Though we may not extinguiſh the ſpirit, nor contemne the prophets, yet we muſt beware we be not deceiued by geuing to light credite to euery one that vaunteth himſelf of the ſpirit, as Arch-heretikes euer did. we muſt trie them by the doctrine of the Apoſtles and the Spirit of the Catholike Church, which can not beguile vs. Not rashly to credite euery spirit.

Fulke. 2. The ſpirit of the true Catholike church, is the ſpirit whereby the ſcriptures were inſpired. Therefore by the ſcriptures we ſhall trie whether they boaſt truely of the ſpirit. For all heretikes challenge the Catholike church as well as the ſpirit, but by the ſcriptures they are confounded. Therfore S. Ambroſe ſaith vpon this text: What things ſoeuer doe agree to the ſayings of the apoſtles, and of our Lord himſelf, thoſe things are to be accompted well ſaid, or bleſſed, and to be retained, but from thoſe things which are ſeene to be contrary to faith we muſt abſteine. Heretikes.

Rhem. 1. THE ſecond to the Theſſalonians hath in the title as the firſt: Paul and Siluanus and Timothee, &c. And therfore it ſeemeth to haue bene written in the ſame place, to witte, at Corinth, where they remained * a yere and ſixe moneths, & ſtraight vpon their anſwer to the firſt epiſtle. *Act. 18. v. 11.

Firſt he thanketh God for their increaſe, and perſeuerance (comforting them againe in thoſe perſecutions) and praieth for their accompliſhment. Secondly he aſſureth them, that the day of Iudgement is not at hand, putting them in remembrance what he told them thereof by word of mouth, when he was preſent (as therfore he biddeth them afterward * to hold his Traditions vnwritten, no leſſe then the written,) to witte, that all theſe perſecutions and hereſies, raiſed then, and afterward againſt the Catholike Church, were but the myſterie of Antichriſt, and not Antichriſt himſelf. but that there ſhould come at length a plaine Apoſtaſie, and therin (the whole fore-running myſterie being once perfitly wrought) ſhould follow the reuelation of Antichriſt himſelf in perſon (as after all the myſteries of the old Teſtament, Chriſt IESVS our Lord came himſelf in the fulneſs of time.) And then at length after all this, the day of Iudgement and ſecond comming of Chriſt ſhal be at hand, and not before, whatſoeuer pretenſe of viſion, or of ſome ſpeach of mine (ſaith S. Paul) any make to ſeduce you withal, or of my former epiſtle, or any other. For which cauſe alſo, in the end of this epiſtle, he biddeth them to know his hand, which is a ſigne in euery epiſtle. * c. 2. v. 15.

Laſtly he requeſteth their praiers, and requireth them to keepe his commaundements and Traditions, namely that the poore which are able, get their owne liuing with working, as he alſo gaue them example, though he were not bound thereto.

Fulke. 1. S. Paule ſpeaketh of no vnwritten traditions. For theſe that he ſpeaketh of, though they were not written in his Epiſtles to the Theſſalonians, yet they were written in other Epiſtles, or in the Goſpels, or at leaſt in the law and the prophets. As that commandement or tradition which he mentioneth c. 3. that the poore ought to labour for their liuing if they be able to worke: is the commandement of God, Thou ſhalt not ſteale: for they that eat not their owne bread doe ſteale their liuing. Vnwritten traditions.

Fulke. 1. The apoſtle doth neuer aſſure men to merit the kingdome of God by conſtancie in perſecution, but only to looke for it aſſuredly vpon the certeinty of Gods promiſes, which are grounded vpon his grace and mercy in Chriſt, not vpon our merit. Merit.

The Tranſlation of the Church of England.

Paule and Siluanus, and Timotheus, vnto the Church of the Theſſalonians, in God our father, and the Lord Ieſus Chriſt:
2 Grace vnto you and peace from frō God our Father & our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

3 We ought to giue thankes alwaies to God for you brethren, ſo as meet is, becauſe your faith increaſeth excedingly, & the charitie of euery one of you aboundeth towards eche other:

4 So that we our ſelues alſo glorie in you in the churches of God, for your patience, & faith in al your perſecutions and tribulations, which you ſuſtaine

5 For an example of the iuſt iudgement of God, that ‡ you may be [c] counted worthie of the kingdom of God, for the which alſo you ſuffer.

6 If yet it be iuſt with God to repay tribulation, to them that vexe you:

7 And to you that are vexed, reſt with vs in the reuelation of our Lord IESVS from heauen with the Angels of his power,

8 In flame of fire, giuing reuenge to them that know not God, and that obey not the Goſpel of our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

9 Who ſhal ſuffer eternal paines in deſtruction, from the face of our Lord & from the glorie of his power:

10 When he ſhal come to be ‡ glorified in his ſainctes, & to be made maruelous in al thē that haue beleeued, becauſe our teſtimonie concerning you was credited in that day.

11 Wherin alſo we pray alwaies for you, that our God [c] make you worthie of his vocation, and accompliſh al the good pleaſure of his goodneſſe and the worke of faith in power, from God our father, and the Lord Ieſus Chriſt.

12 That the name of our Lord IESVS Chriſt may be glorified in you, and you in him, according to the grace of our God, and of our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

*3 We are bound to thanke God alwaies for you brethren, as it is meete, becauſe that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charitie of euery one of you towardes another aboundeth: 1.Theſſ.1.2.

4 So that we our ſelues reioyce in you in the Churches of God, for your patience and faith in all your perſecutions and tribulations that ye ſuffer.

5 Which is a token of the righteous iudgement of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdome of God, for which ye alſo ſuffer.

6 For it is a righteous thing with God, to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you:

7 And to you which are troubled, reſt with vs, in the reuelation of the Lord Ieſus from heauen, with the angels of his power,

8 In flaming fier, rendring vengeance vnto them that know not God, and that obey not the Goſpell of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt.

9 Which ſhalbe puniſhed with euerlaſting damnation from the preſence of the Lord and from the glory of his power:

10 When he ſhall come to be glorified in his ſaincts, and to be made marueilous in all them that beleeue (becauſe our teſtimonie toward you was beleeued) in that day.

11 Wherefore alſo we pray alwaies for you, that our God would ‖make you worthy of the calling, and fulfill all good pleaſure of goodneſſe in the worke of faith in power:

‖Or rather, vouchſafe you or count you.

12 That the name of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Ieſus Chriſt.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem.1. 5. You may be.) Note that by conſtant and patient ſuffering of afflictions for Chriſt men are made worthie (ſo the Greeke ſignifieth, as the Aduerſaries them ſelues tranſlate v.11.) of the crowne or kingdom of heauen, and ſo do merite and deſerue the ſame. See Anno. Luc. 20. 35. And the Apoſtle here ſaith that it is Gods iuſtice no leſſe to repay glorie to the afflicted, then to render puniſhments to them that afflict, becauſe of their contrarie deſerts or merits.

Fulke. 1. The Greeke word ſignifieth to be compted worthy, which is of Gods free acceptation by grace, and not of the merit of our conſtancie. And wheras you ſay, we haue ſo tranſlated it our ſelues, I confeſſe it is an imperfection in our tranſlations, for it ſhould be, that our God would vouchſafe you, or count you worthie, as in this place. But becauſe the making worthy is referred to God, our tranſlators were not ſo carefull of the terme, ſeeing it might be vnderſtood, that God by his grace maketh vs worthy in his accompt. Neuertheleſſe, howſoeuer our tranſlators haue gone awry in that verſ. 11, you haue falſly tranſlated your owne Latine text, which is dignetur, that our God would vouchſafe or accept as worthy. For you are neuer able to proue that dignari ſignifieth to make worthy, as you haue wilfully corrupted the text, to make it ſerue your hereſie. And wheras the apoſtle ſaith further, it is Gods iuſtice to repay glory to the afflicted, it is not for the merits of the affliction, but for the performance of his promiſe. Mark.

Rhem.2. 10. Glorified in his ſainctes.) Chriſt ſhal be glorified in his Saincts, that is, by the great and inſpeakable honour and exaltation of them he ſhal be honoured, as now he is: the honour which the Church doth to them, not diminiſhing Chriſts glorie (as the Aduerſaries fooliſhly pretend) but exceedingly augmenting the ſame.

Fulke. 2. A wiſe compariſon, to ſhew that Chriſt is glorified, where he is ſpoiled of the glory of his office of Mediator and Aduocate, which by you is communicated to ſaincts. And when his ſaincts are worſhipped like idols with ſuperſtition after your owne inuention, and not according to the holy ſcriptures.

CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. He requireth them, in no caſe to thinke that Domeſday is at hand, 3 repeating vnto them, that there muſt before come firſt a reuolt, ſecondly the reuelation alſo of Antichriſt him ſelf in perſon, and that Antichriſt ſhal not permit any God to be worſhipped but only him ſelf: that alſo with his lying wonders he ſhal winne to him the incredulous Iewes. But Chriſt ſhal come then immediatly in maieſtie, and deſtroy him and his. 13 Therfore he thanketh God for the faith of the Theſſalonians, 15 and biddeth them ſticke to his Traditions both written and vnwritten, and praieth God to confirme them.

Fulke. 1. There is nothing in this chapter to proue that Antichriſt ſhall not permit any God to be worſhipped but only himſelfe. The Apoſtle ſaith no more but that he ſhall exalt himſelfe aboue all that is called God or worſhipped, which he ſhall doe vnder colour and pretene of the ſeruice of God and Chriſt, els could he neuer preuaile to deceiue any Chriſtians. Neither is there any thing to proue that he ſhall deceiue the incredulous Iewes only or principally, but rather thoſe that profeſſe Chriſtian religion in word, which they doe not beleeue in heart. Neither is it ſaid, or can it be proued, that Chriſt ſhall come immediatly after the reuelation of Antichriſt, but contrariwiſe it is ſaid, that Chriſt ſhall conſume him with the ſpirit of his mouth, (which is his holy word) and vtterly aboliſh him with his glorious preſence. Finally, he biddeth them not ſticke to any traditions of doctrine not written in the ſcripture, but to ſuch as he had deliuered both by preaching and writing, who preached no doctrine but that which is, and then was conteined in the holie ſcriptures. Traditions vnwritten.

The Epiſtle in the Ember Saturday of Aduent.

AND we deſire you, bretheen, by the comming of our Lord IESVS Chriſt, and of our congregation into him:

2 That you be not eaſily moued from your ſenſe, nor be terrified, neither by ſpirit, nor by word, nor by epiſtle as ſent by vs, ‖ as though the day of our Lord were at hand.

3 Let no mã ſeduce you by any meanes, for vnleſſe there come ᶜ a reuolt firſt, & ‖ the man of ſinne be reuealed, the ſonne of perdition, ᶜ Diſceſſio.

4 Which is an aduerſarie and is ‖ extolled ‡aboue al that is called God, or that is worſhipped, ſo that he ſitteth ‖ in the temple of God, ſhewing him ſelf as though he were God.

5 Remember you not, that when I was yet with you, I told you theſe things?

6 And now ‖ what letteth, you know: that he may be reuealed in his time.

7 (For now the myſterie of iniquitie worketh: only that he which now holdeth, doe hold, vntil he be taken out of the way.)

8 And then that wicked one ſhal be reuealed, whom our Lord IESVS ſhal kil with the ſpirit of his mouth: and ſhal deſtroy with the manifeſtation of his aduent, him,

Eſa.11.4.

9 Whoſe comming is according to the operation of Satan, ‖ in al power, and lying ſignes and wonders,

10 And in al ſeducing of iniquitie to them that periſh, for that they haue not receiued the charitie of the truth that they might be ſaued.

11 Therfore ‡God wil ſend them the operation of errour, to beleeue lying:

12 That al may be iudged which haue not beleeued the truth, but haue conſented to iniquitie.

13 But we ought to giue thankes to God alwaies for you, brethren, beloued of God, that

WE beſeech you, brethren, by the comming of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, and by our aſſembling vnto him,

2 That ye be not ſuddenly moued from your minde, nor be troubled, neither by ſpirit, nor by word, nor yet by letter, as from vs, as though the day of Chriſt were at hand.

*3 * Let no man deceiue you by any meanes,* Ephe.5.6. for the Lord ſhal not come, except there come a falling away firſt, and that that man of ſinne be reuealed, the ſonne of perdition.

4 Which is an aduerſarie, and is exalted aboue all that is called God, or that is worſhipped: ſo that he as God ſitteth in the temple of God, ſhewing himſelfe that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I tolde you theſe things?

6 And now ye know what withholdeth, that he might be reuealed in his time.

7 For the myſterie of iniquitie doth already worke, onely he which now letteth will let, vntill he be taken out of the way.

*8 And then ſhall that wicked be reuealed whom the Lord ſhall conſume with the ſpirit of his mouth', and ſhall deſtroy with the brightneſſe of his comming: Eſa.11.4.

9 Euen him whoſe comming is after the working of Satan, in all power and ſignes, & wonders of lying,

10 And in all deceiueableneſſe of vnrighteouſneſſe, in them that periſh: becauſe they receiued not the loue of the truth, that they might be ſaued.

11 And therefore God ſhall ſend them ſtrong delu&ion, that they ſhould beleeue lies:

12 That all they might be damned which beleeued not the truth, but had pleaſure in vnrighteouſneſſe.

13 But we are bound to giue thankes alway to God for you, brethren, beloued of the Lord becauſe that he hath choſen you firſt-fruites vnto ſaluation, in ſanctification of ſpirit and faith of the truth:

14 Into the which alſo he hath called you by our Goſpel, vnto the purchaſing of the glorie of our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

15 Therefore brethren ſtand: and hold [c] the ‖ traditions which you haue learned, whether it be by word, or by our Epiſtle.

16 And our Lord IESVS Chriſt him ſelf, and God and our father which hath loued vs, and hath giuen eternal conſolation, and good hope in grace, 17 [c] Exhort your hartes, and confirme you in euery good worke and worde.

cauſe that God hath from the beginning choſen you to ſaluation, in ſanctifying of the ſpirit, and in faith of the trueth.

14 Whereunto he called you by our Goſpell, to the obtaining of the glorie of the Lorde Ieſus Chriſt.

15 Therefore brethren, ſtand faſt, and holde the ordinances which ye haue bene taught, whether it were by our preaching, or by our Epiſtle.

16 Our Lorde Ieſus Chriſt, and God of our Father which hath loued vs, and hath giuen vs euerlaſting conſolation, and good hope in grace, 17 Comfort your hartes, and ſtabliſh you in all good ſaying and doing.

c This word of exhorting implieth in it comfort and conſolation: as 2. Cor. 1. v. 4. & 6.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 2. 4. Aboue al that is.) How then can the Pope be Antichriſt, as the Heretikes fondly blaſpheme, who is ſo far from being exalted aboue God, that he praieth moſt humbly not onely to Chriſt, but alſo to his B. mother and al his Saincts.

Fulke 2. As an hypocrite he prayeth to Chriſt and Saincts: yet in his blaſphemous doctrine and decrees, he exalteth him ſelfe aboue all that is called God, or worſhipped. Euen ſo he calleth him ſelfe ſeruant of ſeruants, yet maketh ſlaues of all kings that will ſubmit them ſelues vnder his tyranny, making them to kiſſe his feete, and to hold his ſtirrope, and when he rideth in Pontificalibus, to waite vpon him as his Vaſſals, treading vpon the Emperours necke, depoſing of Emperours and Kings at his pleaſure.

Rhem. 3. 11. God wil ſend them.) Deus mittet (ſayth S. Aug. li. 20. de Ciu. c. 19.) quia Deus Diabolum facere iſta permittet. God wil ſend, becauſe God wil permit the Diuel to do theſe things. Whereby we may take a general rule that Gods action or working in ſuch things is his permiſſion. See Annot. Ro. 1, 24.

Fulke 3. Gods action in ſuch things, is not onely a permiſſion, but a iuſt iudgement and execution of the ſame, againſt the reprobate which deſerue it. And ſo be S. Auguſtines wordes. The Apoſtle doubted not to adde, and ſay: Therefore God ſhall ſende vnto them the efficacie of errour, that they may beleeue a lie. For God ſhall ſende, becauſe he ſhall by his iuſt iudgement permit the diuell to doe theſe things, although he doe them of an vniuſt and malignant purpoſe. That all may be iudged (ſayth he) which haue not beleeued the trueth, but haue conſented to iniquitie. Therefore being firſt iudged, they ſhall be ſeduced, and being ſeduced, they ſhall be iudged, but being iudged, they ſhall be ſeduced by thoſe iudgements of God, which are ſecretly iuſt, and iuſtly ſecrete, by which he neuer ceaſed to iudge, ſince the beginning of ſinne of the reaſonable creature. But being ſeduced, they ſhall be iudged in the laſt and manifeſt iudgement by Ieſus Chriſt, which ſhall iudge the iuſt moſt iuſtly, who him ſelfe was iudged moſt vniuſtly. By this it appeareth, how honeſtly you deale with the Doctors, to conclude your pleaſure out of their wordes, contrarye to their meaning.

God no emil auctor, but a iuſt puniſher of ſinne.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 2. As though the day.) The curioſitie of man ſed by Satans deceites, hath ſought to know and to giue out to the world ſuch things as God wil not impart to him, nor be neceſſary or profitable for him to know: ſo ſure, that both in the Apoſtles daies and often afterward, ſome haue fained reuelations, ſome falſely gathered out of the Scriptures, ſome preſumed to calculate and coniecte by the ſtarres, and giuen furth to the world a certaine time of Chriſtes coming to iudgement. Al which ſeducers be here noted in the perſon of ſome that were about to deceiue the Theſſalonians therein. And S. Auguſtine (in his 80. Epiſtle ad Hyſichium) proueth that no man can be aſſured by the Scriptures of the day, yere, or age, that the end of the world or the ſecond aduent ſhal be.

The day of iudgement vncertaine, and to be left to Gods ſecretes.

Rhem. 4. 3. Vnles there come a reuolt firſt.) Though we can not be aſſured of the moment, houre, or any certaine time of our Lordes comming, yet he warranteth vs that it wil not be before certaine things be fulfilled, which muſt come to paſſe by the courſe of Gods prouidence and permiſſion before which, are diuers, whereof in other places of Scriptures we be forewarned. Here he warneth vs of two ſpecially, of a reuolt, defection or an apoſtaſie, and of the comming or reuelation of Antichriſt. Which two pertaine in effect both to one, either depending of the other, and ſhal fal (as it may be thought) neere together, and therefore S. Auguſtine maketh them but one thing.

Two ſpecial ſignes before the later day: a generall apoſtaſie, and the comming of Antichriſt.

This apoſtaſie or reuolt, by the iudgement in maner of al auncient writers, is the general forſaking and fal of the Romane empire. So Tertullian li. de reſur. carnis. S. Hierom q. 11. ad Algaſiam. S. Chryſoſtom ho. 4. and S. Ambroſe vpon this place, S. Auguſtine De Ciuit. Dei li. 20. c. 19. Al which fathers and the reſt * Caluin preſumptuouſly condemneth of errour and follie herein, for that their expoſition agreeth not with his and his fellowes blaſphemous fiction that the Pope ſhould be Antichriſt. To eſtabliſh which falſe impietie, they interprete this reuolt or apoſtaſie to be a general reuolt of the viſible Church from God, whoſe houſe or building (they ſay) was ſodenly deſtroied, and lay many yeres ruined, and ruled onely by Satan and Antichriſt. So ſaith the foreſaid Arch-heretike here, though for the aduantage of his defence and as the matter elſwhere requireth, he ſeemeth (as al their faſhion is) to ſpeake in other places quite contrarie: but with ſuch colour and colluſion of wordes, that neither other men nor him ſelfe can tel what he would haue or ſay. And his fathers Wickleffe and Luther, his fellowes and followers Illyricus, Beza, and the reſt, are (for the time of the Churches falling from Chriſt) ſo various among them ſelues, and ſo contrary to him, that is is horrible to ſee their confuſion, and a pitieful caſe that any reaſonable man wil folow ſuch companions to euident perdition.

* Caluin. in hunc locum.

The heretikes interpretation of this apoſtaſie, and their condemning of the fathers.

Falke 4. S.Auguſtine did read refuga, which ſignifieth a reuolter, which error of his tranſlation, cauſed him to thinke the defection and the reuelation of Antichriſt, to be all one: although the defection perteine to the reuelation of Antichriſt, as you ſay rightly. But this apoſtaſie (ſay you) by the iudgement in a maner of all auncient writers, is the generall forſaking and fall of the Romane Empire. In deede moſt of the ancient Fathers did iudge, that the Romane Empire ſhould firſt be decaied, before Antichriſt were reuealed, and that agreeth moſt aptly with the reuelation of the Pope to be Antichriſt, who was not reuealed, before the See of the Empire was remoued from the citie of Rome, wherby it ceaſed to be the Empire of Rome, and alſo was decaied and deuided into many partes, as Tertullian ſayth: who ſhal be taken away but the Romane ſtate? whoſe departing being diſperſed into ten kings, ſhall bring in Antichriſt: By ten, according to the cuſtom of the Scripture, are ment many. And ſo was there many kingdoms made of the Romane Empire, before the Pope openly vſurped Antichriſtian tyranny. Yet not all the ancient Fathers, nor all whom you cite, doe ſo vnderſtand this reuolt. For Chryſoſtom vpon this text, Hom. 3. ſayth, what is that he calleth here defection? He calleth Antichriſt him ſelfe the defection, as he which ſhould deſtroy and cary away very many. In ſo much (ſayth he) that if it were poſſible, euen the elect ſhould be offended. You ſee Chryſoſtom calleth Antichriſt the defection, in reſpect of the great multitude that he ſhall carry away from Chriſt. That you quote Hom. 4. is vpon an other text, of him that ſhal be taken away, namely, the Romane Empire, agreeing with that which Tertullian ſaid. S. Hierom in deed ſayth, the defection to be from the Romane Empire, and ſo doth S. Ambroſe. But S. Auguſtine (as I ſayd before) reading in ſteed of apoſtaſie or defection, refuga, which is an Apoſtata or reuolter, doth expound it of Antichriſt him ſelf, ſaying: He calleth him a reuolter, namely, from the Lord God: which if it may be rightly ſaid of all the vngodly, how much more of him? That which he ſaith after, of taking away the Romane Empire, perteineth to the 7. verſe. Theodoret alſo vpon this place, ſaith: The defection he calleth Antichriſt him ſelfe, giuing him a name of the thing it ſelfe. For his endeuour is to bring from the trueth, and to cauſe men to reuolt. Primaſius hath diuers interpretations. The firſt is, The departing (ſayth he) is a forſaking of the trueth. Oecumenius ſayth: He calleth the defection Antichriſt him ſelfe, becauſe he ſhall ſeperate many from Chriſt, or els he ſayth, the apoſtaſie or defection is a ſeperation from God. The ſame in effect hath Theophylact. Therefore you ſee, diuerſe of the auncient Fathers vnderſtand this reuolt to be from Chriſt, from God, from the trueth. Then was it no ſuch preſumption in Caluine, to refuſe the one ſort, whome without contempt he calleth learned and wittie, and to receiue the other, whom he iudged to interprete more agreeably to the trueth. For whereas you ſay, he refuſeth ỹ other, becauſe their expoſition agreeth not with his blaſphemous fiction, that the Pope ſhould be Antichriſt: In deede, that his opinion, is blaſphemous againſt your Lord God the Pope, but againſt the God of heauen, and his Sonne Ieſus Chriſt, it is not, nor any fiction, but a true interpretation. And although the word Apoſtaſie, doe rather ſignifie a defection from Chriſt, then from the Romane Empire, yet euen that defection from the Romane Empire, agreeth as fitly as is poſſible, with this expoſition, that the Pope is Antichriſt. For the Pope was not openly reuealed to be Antichriſt, before the Romane Empire was forſaken, and deuided into many kingdomes, all ſubiect to the Pope. This apoſtaſie therefore is rightly interpreted, to be a wicked reuolting from God, of the greateſt multitude of men: and is called of Caluine a certaine generall defection of the viſible Church, which being hardly builded, was by the tyrannie and ſubtiltie of Antichriſt ouerthrowen, as an houſe with a ſodeine tempeſt, and lay long in the ruines. Yet the ſpirituall houſe of Chriſt, the Church of his elect, euen among thoſe ruines, were merueilouſly preſerued by his grace, and neuer periſhed out of the world. Which (as Caluin doth oftentimes affirme) ſo is it not contrary to the generall apoſtaſie or defection, here ſpoken of. For this reuolt is but of hypocrites, which falſely profeſſed the trueth, and in their life and doctrine denied the power thereof, who ſeeme to be the Church, and are not. Neither doeth Caluine, Wickleffe, or Luther, &c. vſe any colluſion of wordes, to hide the matter, but plainely ſpeake, that you may vnderſtand them if you liſt, when they ſay: The true Church of Chriſt is perpetuall, & yet there was a certaine generall apoſtaſie of the viſible Church, that is, of the greateſt multitude of men which ſeemed to be the Church by outward profeſſion, but wanting faith, was not the true Church of Chriſt, & therfore being ſeduced with error, reuolted vnto Antichriſt. That you ſpeake of their varietie and contrarietie in this matter, is but a fitte of your ordinarie railing without reaſon, or argument to proue your ſaying.

Antichriſt.

Apoſtaſie.

Rhem. 5. But concerning this errour and falſhod of the Churches defection or reuolt, it is refuted ſufficiently by S. Auguſtine againſt the Donatiſtes in many places. Where he proueth that the Church ſhal not faile to the worldes end, no not in the time of Antichriſt: affirming them to deny Chriſt, and to robbe him of his glorie and inheritance bought with his blood, which teach that the Church may faile or periſh. Li de vnit. Hierom refuſeth the ſame wicked Hereſie in the * Luciferians, prouing againſt them, that they make God ſubiect to the Diuel, and a peore miſerable Chriſt, that imagine the Church his body may either periſh or be driuen to any corner of the world. both of them anſwer to the Heretikes arguments grounded on Scriptures falſely vnderſtood, which were to long here to rehearſe. It is ynough for the Chriſtian reader to know, that it is an old deceite and excuſe of al Heretikes and Schiſmatikes, for defence of their forſaking Gods Church, that the Church is periſhed, or remaineth hidden, or in them ſelues onely and in thoſe places where they and their ſolowers dwel: to know alſo, that this is reproued by the holy Doctors of the Primitiue Church, and that it is againſt Chriſtes honour, power, prouidence, and promis.*

There can be no apoſtaſie of the viſible Churche from God.

* Dialog. adu. Luciferi. c. 6.

Falke 5. We hold no defection or reuolt of the true Church, but of that which ſeemed to be the church and was not, while it had nothing of Chriſtianitie, but an outward profeſſion in name and ceremonies. For we acknowledge that the true Church, though obſcure, and as it were driuen into the wildernes by the tyranny of Antichriſt, yet ſtill continued diſperſed ouer the world, to be the glorious ſpouſe of Chriſt, no leſſe in his accompt when it was perſecuted, then when it enioyed peace and tranquilitie. Neither doth S. Auguſtine refute this opinion, but the hereſie of the Donatiſtes, which ſayd, that the Church was periſhed out of all the world, except onely from Africa where they were. Which opinion of theirs, your popiſh hereſy reſembleth, affirming that ỹ Church is periſhed out of all the world, except Europa only, where your Pope doth ſitte and beare rule. Contrariwiſe, we hold with S. Auguſtine, that God hath the Church of his elect, in all parts of the world, whereſoeuer the ſubſtance of Chriſtian faith vnto ſaluation is truely taught, though it be not free from all ſpot of errours, or whereſoeuer there are but two or three gathered together in Chriſtes name, though it be in Rome, vnder the moſt cruell perſecution of Antichriſt. Finally, we acknowledge with S. Auguſtine, that the true Church ſhall not faile to the worldes ende: that it did not faile in the tyme of Antichriſt, nor was driuen into any corner of the world: but was, is, and ſhall be alwayes diſperſed in many nations. Yea this apoſtaſie of many, which ſeemed to be members of the Church, is acknowledged by S. Auguſtine him ſelfe, and many other ancient Fathers, as I haue ſhewed in the ſection next before. And euen in theſe places that you quote, De vnitate Eccleſiæ, where he confuteth the Donatiſtes, that ſayd, the Church was periſhed out of all the world, and remained only in Africa, he acknowledgeth the paucitie of the godly, in reſpect of the wicked, Cap. 12. ſaying: We doe not ſo ſay, that the Church is ſpred ouer the whole world, that onely good men are in the Sacraments of the Church, and not alſo euill men, and thoſe alſo many more, that in compariſon of them, the good are but fewe, whereas by them ſelues they make a great number, and Cap. 13. The ſaying of Chriſt, ſhall the Sonne of man finde faith? which the Donatiſtes wreſted to proue the Apoſtaſie of the whole world, he confeſſeth to be meant of the great aboundance of the wicked, and fewnes of the good, becauſe iniquitie ſhall abound, and charitie ſhall waxe colde. Likewiſe De Ciuitate Lib. 20. Cap. 8. where he ſayth, that the Church which is predeſtinated and elected before the conſtitution of the world, ſhall not be ſeduced when the Diuell is looſed. In which time of Antichriſt, he ſayth alſo, it is to be beleeued, that there ſhall not want at that time, either they which may fall from the Church, or which may come to the Church. Againe he ſayth, that as firſt the Church was multiplied of all nations, according to the Prophecies: So it is to be confeſſed, that the charitie of many doth waxe cold, when iniquitie aboundeth, alſo that many ſhall giue place to the vniuerſall and greateſt perſecutions, and ſubtilties of the deuill, when he ſhall be looſed. In the reſt of the places quoted, there is nothing els, but that the Church hath not periſhed out of all the world, and remained in Africa alone, that Chriſtians ſhall continue to the ende of the world, that the Church of Chriſt which is Chriſtes inheritance, ſhall neuer haue an ende. All which may well ſtand with the Apoſtaſie or generall defection of the viſible Church, or that which ſeemed to be the Church, here prophecied, from the faith of Chriſt. S. Hierom againſt the Luciferians, ſayth: that Chriſt ſhould be to poore, if either he had no Church, or if he had his Church only in Sardinia. If Sathan poſſeſſe Britaine, Fraunce, the Eaſt, the people of India, the barbarous nations, and the whole world at once, how are the trophees of the Croſſe, brought to a corner of all the earth? Forſooth the mightie aduerſarie hath graunted to Chriſt, Spaine, and the Celtiberians, which are pale coloured men, and diſdained to poſſeſſe the prouince of the Aethiopians. This he ſayd againſt thoſe Heretikes, which ſayd: all the world was the diuels, and of the Church was made a ſtewes. This maketh nothing againſt vs, which certeinly beleeue the Catholike Church, though we ſee it not with our bodily eyes, nor limit it to any one place, or any few places. But that the Church ſhould neuer be hidden, nor the true members driuen into corners, to auoid the perſecution of Antichriſt: nor that there ſhould be no reuolt of the viſible Church, from the faith of Chriſt to the fables of Antichriſt, you can neuer proue out of this ſaying.

The true Church ſhall neuer periſh, yet ſhall be hidden.

Rhem. 6. If the Aduerſaries had ſaid that this reuolt which the Apoſtle foretelleth ſhal come before the worldes end, is meant of great numbers of Heretikes and Apoſtataes reuolting from the Church, they had ſaid truth of them ſelues and ſuch others, whom S. Iohn calleth Antichriſtes. And it is very like (be it ſpoken vnder the correction of Gods Church and all learned Catholikes) that this great defection or reuolt ſhal not be onely from the Romane empire, but ſpecially from the Romane Church, and withal from moſt points of Chriſtian religion. not that the Catholike Chriſtians, either in the time of Antichriſt or before, ſhal refuſe to obey the ſame, but for that mere to the time of Antichriſt and the conſummation of the world, there is like to be a great reuolt of kingdoms, peoples, and Prouinces from the open external obedience and communion thereof. Which reuolt hauing been begunne and continued by Heretikes of diuers ages, reſiſting and hating the Seate of Peter (which they called Cathedram peſtilentiæ, the chaire of peſtilence, * in S. Auguſtines daies) becauſe it is Chriſtes fort erected againſt Hel gates and al Heretikes, and being now wonderfully increaſed by theſe of our daies the ne xt precurſors of Antichriſt as it may ſeeme, ſhal be fully atchieued a litle before the end of the world by Antichriſt him ſelf. though euen then alſo, when for the fiue daies of Antichriſtes reigne the external ſtate of the Romane Church and publike entercourſe of the faithfull with the ſame may ceaſe, yet the due honour and obedience of the Chriſtians toward it, and communion in part with it, and practiſe thereof in ſecrete, and open confeſſing thereof if occaſion require, ſhal not ceaſe, no more then it doth now in the Chriſtians of Cypres and other places where open entercourſe is forbidden.

1. To. 2. v. 18. It is very like, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of a great apoſtaſie from the See of Rome, and from moſt articles of the Catho. faith.

Li. 2. cont. li. Petil. c. 51.

Fulke 6. So great is your deſire to charge vs with this Apoſtaſie, that you ouerthrow all that you ſayd before, denying the reuolt of the viſible Church. For ſo you may be compted the true Church, and we the Heretikes and Antichriſtes, you are content to graunt, that the great reuolt of kingdomes, people, and prouinces from the Church, ſhall be fully atchieued by Antichriſt, which is that generall defection and ruine of the viſible Church, which we ſpeake of, notwithſtanding that true Chriſtians, when publike entercourſe of the faithfull with the Church ſhall ceaſe, ſhall yet continue in obedience of the Church. So that for the point of Apoſtaſie or defection, we are agreed. Let vs ſee then whether this Apoſtaſie may ſo agree to you, as it can not be applied to vs. Which if it may be, then out of doubt you are the Church of Antichriſt, and not we. Apoſtaſie.

To decide this controuerſie, who is better then S. Paule, who here prophecieth of the Apoſtaſie? The ſame Apoſtle 1. Tim. 4. giueth ſuch euident notes of this Apoſtaſie, as agree properly vnto you, but not in any wiſe come neere vnto vs. For after he had ſet forth that great myſterie of religion or pietie, conſiſting in the doctrine of Chriſt, which is, God ſhewed in the fleſh, iuſtified in the ſpirite, ſeene of the Angels, preached among the Gentiles, beleeued in the world, and taken vp in glory, which ſhould alwayes remaine in the true Church, which is the piller & ground of truth: he addeth, that the ſpirite ſpeaketh not obſcurely, but euidently & plainly, that in the later time, ſome ſhall reuolt from the faith, placing the chiefe religion and pietie in abſtinence from mariage and meates, and therefore forbidding both, ſpeaking lies in hypocriſie, but attending to ſpirits of error and doctrines of deuils. By which place, being an euident reuelation of Gods ſpirite, it is manifeſt, that this reuolt from true religion, is diſcerned by hypocriticall abſtinence and forbidding of mariage and meates, which you cannot deny to be done of you, to ſome men at all times, and to all men at ſome times, as you will haue the times and perſons to be compted more holy and religious, that obſerue your prohibitions. Theſe therefore being giuen as euident notes, to know who be they that reuolt from the faith, from the Church, and from Chriſt, being found in you, doe argue inuincibly, that you are the defection, you are the apoſtaſie, you are the reuolters, and not we, in whom no ſuch thing can be proued. But by the way, you would bring vs into great enuie, for calling Peters chaire, the chaire of peſtilence, as the Donatiſtes did. It is ſhame to lie vpon the Deuill, for the Donatiſtes did not ſo call Peters chaire onely, but all the Apoſtolike chaires in the world. And therefore S. Auguſtine anſwereth: If all men throughout the world, were ſuch as thou doeſt muſt falſely charge them, what hath the chaire of the Church of Rome done vnto thee, in which Peter ſate, and in which at this day Anaſtaſius doth ſitte? or of the Church of Ieruſalem in which Iames ſate, and in which Iohn now ſitteth, with whom we are knitte in the Catholike vnitie, and from whom you haue with wicked rage, ſeperated your ſelues? Why doeſt thou call the Apoſtolike chaire, the chaire of peſtilence? If for the men, whom thou thinkeſt to ſpeake the lawe, and not to doe it, did our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, for the Phariſees of whom he ſayd, they ſay and doe not, any iniurie to the chaire in which they ſate? By this place it appeareth, that the Donatiſtes bare not malice onely againſt the chaire of Peter, but againſt all other Apoſtolike chaires, when they could not deny, but that they which ſate in them taught the doctrine of the Apoſtles. By which it appeareth alſo, who ſit in the Apoſtolike chaires, namely, they that teach the doctrine of the Apoſtles, as the Pharizees ſitting in the chaire of Moſes. Not they that either ſleepe where the Apoſtles ſometime taught, and much leſſe they, that teach things contrary to the doctrine of the Apoſtles.

Peters chaire.

Rhem. 7. This is certaine and wonderful in al wiſe mens eies, and muſt needes be of Gods prouidence, and a ſingular prerogatiue, that this Seate of Peter ſtandeth, when al other Apoſtolike Sees be gone: that it ſtood there for certaine ages together with the ſecular ſeate of the Empire: that the Popes ſtood without wealth, power, or humane defenſe, the Emperours knowing, witting, and ſeeking to deſtroy them, and putting to the ſword aboue thirtie of them one after an other, yea and being as much afraid of them as if they had been æmuli imperij, Competitors of their Empire, as S. Cyprian teſteth (epiſt. 52. ad Antonianum num. 3.) of S. Cornelius Pope in his daies, and Decius then Emperour: againe, that the Emperours afterward yelded vp the citie vnto them, continuing for al that in the Emperial dignitie ſtil: that the ſucceſſors of thoſe that perſecuted them, laid downe their crownes before their Seate and ſepulcres, honouring the very memories and Reliques of the poore men whom their predeceſſors killed: that now wel neere theſe 1600 yeres this Seate ſtandeth, as at the beginning in continual miſerie, ſo now of long time for the moſt part in proſperitie, without al mutation in effect, as no other kingdom or State in the world hath done, euery one of them in the ſaid ſpace being manifoldly altered. It ſtandeth (we ſay) al this while (to vſe S. Auguſtines wordes de vtil. cred. c. 17.) Fruſtra circumlatrantibus hæreticis, the Heretikes in vayne barking about it, not the firſt Heathen Emperours, not the Gothes and Vandals, not the Turke, not any ſackes or maſſakers by Alaricus, Genſericus, Attila, Borbon, and others, not the emulation of ſecular Princes, were they Kings or Emperours, not the Popes owne diuiſions among them ſelues and manifold difficulties and dangers in their elections, not the great vices which haue been noted in ſome of their perſons, not al theſe nor any other endeuour of ſcandal could yet preuaile againſt the See of Rome, nor is euer like to preuaile til the end of the world draw neere, at which time this reuolt (here ſpoken of by the Apoſtle) may be in ſuch ſort as is ſayd before, and more ſhal be ſayd in the Annotations next following.

The wonderful prouidence of God in preſeruing the See of Rome more then al other ſtates, notwithſtanding manifold dangers & ſcandals.

Fulke 7. Firſt, you affirme falſely, that Peters See ſtandeth ſtill at Rome, when all other Apoſtolike Sees be gone. For euen to this day, the See of Antioche ſtandeth, and hath a Patriarke. Likewiſe the See of Alexandria, which Gregorie doubteth not to call S. Peters See. Alſo the See of S. Andrew at Conſtantinople, hath neuer lacked Succeſſours, euen vnto this day. There is ſtill a See and Church at Epheſus, continued euer ſince the Apoſtles, Paule and Iohn. What ſhould I ſpeake of the Churches of India, and Aethiopia, planted by the Apoſtles, and continued by ſucceſſion of Biſhops, euen vntill this daye? That the firſt Biſhops of Rome, were true ſucceſſors of the Apoſtle, in teaching the ſubſtance of Chriſtian faith truely, and ſuffering martyrdome for the ſame, it is no commendation of them which ſucceeded in place after, being in life and doctrine contrary vnto the ſame. Where you ſay, ỹ heathen Emperors were as fraid of them, as if they had been competitors of ỹ Empire, it is falſe, neither doth Cyprian ſo ſay. But that the tyrant did more patiently heare of a Competitor of the Empire, to be ſet vp againſt him, then of a Prieſt of God to be appointed, after he had ſlaine his Predeceſſor: his malice therefore was greater, though his feare were none at all. Or as Pammelius doth read and vnderſtand it. Cornelius did more patiently tolerate the Prince that was then his enemy, then Nouatianus the prieſt that was his enemie or Competitor. That the Emperours did yeeld vp the citie of Rome to the Pope, it can not be proued by any lawfull records, but that the Pope vſurped dominion of the citie, after the Emperours had loſt the poſſeſſion of Italy, the ſtories doe teſtifie. And albeit, the Emperours as well of Greece, as of Germany, reteined the name and title of the Emperours of Rome, yet were they not in deed Emperours of Rome, when they poſſeſſed not the citie of Rome, and therefore were more truly called the Emperours of Conſtantinople, the Emperours of Almaine, then of Rome where neither of them both had dominion or obedience. So the tyrannie of the Pope, came in place of the Romane Empire. That the Chriſtians honoured the memories of the Apoſtles, whom the Heathen tyrants had ſlaine, it pertaineth nothing to the dignitie of the Pope, that holdeth not the Apoſtles doctrine and humilitie: but that the later Kings and Emperours, which were become the hornes of the beaſt, ſubmitted their crownes and ſcepters not onely to ſuch Idols, as the Pope made of Martyrs, but alſo to the very feete of that ſinnefull man, it declareth him plainly, to be the ſucceſſor, neither of Chriſt, nor of Peter, nor of the holy Martyres the Biſhops of Rome, but to be the king of pride, that exalteth him ſelfe aboue all Princes, that are ſet vp by Gods ordinance, and ſo aboue God him ſelfe. That the Popedome hath continued eight or nine hundreth yeeres, in worldly pompe and dignitie, it agreeth alſo with the prophecies of the tyrannie of Antichriſt, whereas the Church of Chriſt doeth more floriſh in ſpirituall glorie, though it be in aduerſitie, then in proſperitie and worldly dignitie. Where as you challenge 1600. yeeres of continuance, you muſt ſtrike of almoſt 700. yeeres of that accompt. For Gregorie that more then then 600.yeeres after Chriſt, prophecied conſtantly of the reuelation of Antichriſt to be at hand teſtifieth, that none of his predeceſſours vſurped that prophane, proude, ſacrilegious, and Antichriſtian name of vniuerſall Biſhop, whereby Antichriſt beganne openly to be reuealed. lib.4.Epiſt.30.& 38.&c. And it was more then 300.yeeres after, that Satan being let looſe(Apocalyps 20.)the efficacie of error did throughly preuaile, to the aduancement of Antichriſt in his higheſt pride and wickedneſſe, when Siluеſter the 2. by the deuill himſelfe, was ſet vp in that ſeate of Antichriſt Anno Chriſti 1000. as is teſtified by ſtories euen of Papiſtes them ſelues, Benno Cardinalis, Petrus Præmonſt. Platina, Hermanus Shedel &c. That which S.Auguſtine ſaith of ſtanding ſure notwithſtanding the barking of Heretikes about it, is the Catholike Church, and not the See of Rome: and yet all former hereſies haue made a way for the kingdome of Antichriſt. The firſt heathen Emperours could not preuaile againſt the Church of Chriſt, and therefore the Church of Rome continued in their greateſt perſecutions: but the Gothes, Vandales, Turkes, Alaricus, Genſericus, Attila, and other that waſted the Romane Empire, prepared an entrance to the reuelation of Antichriſt, who as(Chryſoſtome and other auncient writers ſayth)inuaded the Romane Empire, after it was ouerthrowen and layd waſte, by theſe barbarous enemies. As for other Kings and Princes, that liued ſince the manifeſtation of Antichriſt, haue ſerued as vaſſals to mainteyne his vſurped tyrannie, howſoeuer they had emulation amongſt them ſelues: yea their mutuall warres and diuiſions haue greatly augmented his tyrannicall dominion. And although the pride, crueltie, filthineſſe, and al other vices of the Popes, haue been greater and more notorious, then of any heathen tyrants: yet their tyranny by the iuſt iudgement of God, for the puniſhment of the cõtemners of his Goſpel, hath continued to this day. And to put you in more comfort, Antichriſt ſhal in ſome ſort continue, euen vntil the comming of our Sauiour Chriſt to iudgement. And hereof it is, that ſome of you haue been bold to affirme, that although ỹ See of Rome ſhould be vtterly ouerthrowen(as you haue iuſt cauſe to feare in the accompliſhment of the prophecies of the vtter deſtruction of the whore of Babylon)yet the Pope ſhalbe Biſhop of Rome, and Peters ſucceſſor, though he remoue his ſeate to Calecut. Where if he forget to bring his triple crowne with him, he may borow ỹ which the idol of ỹ deuil there worſhipped doth weare, not much differing in faſhion frõ his.

Rhem. 8. 3. The man of ſinne.) There were many euen in the Apoſtles time (as we ſee by the 4.Chapter of S.Johns firſt Epiſtle and in the writings of the auncients fathers) that were forerunners of Antichriſt, and for impugning Chriſts trueth and Church were called antichriſts, whether they did it by force and open perſecution, as Nero and others either heathen or hereticall Emperors did, or by falſe teaching and other deceites, as the Heretikes of all ages. in which common and vulgar acceptiõ S.Hierom ſaith, al belonged to Antichriſt that were not of the communion of Damaſus then Pope of Rome. Hiero.ep.57. ad Damaſ. and in an other place, all that haue new names after the peculiar calling of Heretikes, as Arians, Donatiſtes(and as we ſay now, Caluiniſts, Zuinglians, &c.)all ſuch(ſaith he)be Antichriſtes. Dial.cont.Lucifer.c.9. Yea thoſe Later of our time much more then any of the former, for diuers cauſes which ſhall afterward be ſet downe. The Heathen Emperours were many, Turkes be many, Heretikes haue been and now are many, therefore they cannot be that one great Antichriſt which here is ſpoken of, and which by the article alwayes added in the Greeke, is ſignified to be one ſpeciall and ſingular man: as his peculiar and direct oppoſition to Chriſtes perſon in the 5.chapter of S.Johns Goſpell v.43: the inſinuation of the particular ſticke and tribe whereof he ſhould be borne, to wit, of the Iewes(for of them he ſhall be receiued as their Meſſias Io.5.v.43.)and of the tribe of Dan. Iren.li.5.Hieron.com.in c.11. Many Antichriſts, as forerunners of the great Antichriſt.

The great Antichriſt ſhall be one ſpeciall and notorious man.

ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας.
ὁ ἄνθρωπος τῆς ἁμαρτίας.
ὁ ἀντικείμενος. Gen.49.17.

Fulke.8. The Scripture calleth not forren perſecutors Antichriſtes, though they be enemies of Chriſt, but ſuch as went out from vs being none of vs 1.Ioh.2.19.as all heretikes and falſe teachers: yet not euery heretike is that great Antichriſt, but he which aboue all other, doth moſt impugne Chriſt, and preuaile moſt, to the ſeducing of the wicked vnto their deſtruction. And this great Antichriſt, to diſcharge the Pope of being the ſame, you affirme to be one ſpeciall and ſingular man, and not one ſtate, kingdome, and ſucceſſion of men therein, as the Papacie is, whereby the tyrannie of Antichriſt is vpholden and continued, euen vntil the comming of Chriſt. Let vs ſee then vpon what ground this your affirmation ſtandeth, which being ouerthrowen, we ſhall plainely proue out of the ſcriptures, that the great Antichriſt is not one ſingular man, but a whole ſtate or kingdome of men, continuing vnder one head by ſucceſſion, whereunto alſo we will ioyne ỹ teſtimonie of the moſt auncient and beſt approued writers of the primitiue Church. Firſt you ſay, the heathen Emperors, Turkes, and Heretikes were many, therefore they could not be this one great Antichriſt. Although for Heathens & Turks, your concluſion is true, yet it followeth not of your argument, which taketh that for proofe, which is the whole matter in queſtion. The heathen perſecutors & Turkes, are altogether without ỹ Church: Antichriſt muſt ſit in the viſible Church of God. Other heretikes(as you confeſſe)are but limmes & members of ỹ body of impietie, whereof the great Antichriſt is the head or chiefe. But it is a maine reaſon, that by the article alwayes added in Greeke, is ſignified one ſpeciall and ſingular man. But this is ſo falſe, ỹ yong children, which haue ſcarſe taſted of the Greeke tongue, are able to diſproue it by infinite examples. Your next reaſon is, the direct and peculiar oppoſition of Antichriſt vnto Chriſts perſon. Ioh.5.43. and that he ſhalbe receiued of the Iewes as their Meſſias: but no ſuch thing can be proued of that text, as I haue ſhewed in the proper place. Thirdly, the tribe of Dan, from whence he ſhalbe borne. Gen.49.17. but ỹ is a weake coniecture, and cannot be proued out of ỹ text. For helpe therefore you alledge ỹ teſtimonies of ỹ fathers. Firſt Irenæus li.5. who coniectureth out of Hieremie 8.16. ỹ Antichriſt ſhould come from the tribe of Dan, where the Prophet ſpeaketh of the comming of Nebuchadnezer, by the Citie called Dan, as euen S. Hierome doeth expound the place. An other coniecture is, that the tribe of Dan is not numbred in the Apocalyps, with them that are ſaued Apocalyps 7. The cauſe is manifeſt, for that the tribe of Leui, ſupplieth the twelfth place, which in the accompt of the Church was not to be omitted. But hereof wee may not inferre, that none of the tribe of Dan were ſaued, and much leſſe, that Antichriſt ſhoulde be borne of this tribe. Irenæus therefore doeth not ground vpon this coniecture, but ſheweth immediatly howe wee are to iudge both of his, and other auncient Fathers coniectures, concerning Antichriſt, namely, as the euent ſhall approue them. Therefore (ſaith he) it is more certeyne, and without danger, to tarie vntill the fulfilling of the prophecie, then to ſuſpect and gueſſe of any names. Next to Irenæus you place Hierome in Daniel 11. who ſayeth not, that Antichriſt ſhoulde be of the tribe of Dan, but that Chriſtian interpreters, did expound that place of Daniel of Antichriſt, which is to ariſe of a ſmall nation, that is, of the people of the Iewes, and ſhall be ſo baſe and contemptible, that Princely honour ſhall not be giuen vnto him, but by craft and ſubtiltie, he ſhall obteyne principalitie, ſo that the armes of the warlike people of Rome, ſhall be ouercome and broken by him. And this he ſhall doe, becauſe he ſhall counterfeit, that hee is the captaine or chiefe of the couenant, that is, of the Lawe and teſtament of God. There is nothing in this ſaying, which may not be applied to the Pope who (as all that profeſſe Chriſtianitie) proceeded firſt from the Iewes, after by craft and hypocriſie, ſubuerted the Romane Empire, and inuaded the tyrannie. For Hierome ſayeth not, that Antichriſt ſhall be borne of the tribe of Dan, or be a Iewe by nation, but that he is to ariſe of the contemptible nation of the Iewes. S. Auguſtine ſayeth no more, but that it was thoughr, Antichriſt ſhould ariſe of the tribe of Dan. Therefore this ſurmiſe hath no grounde in the Scriptures, and but a faint coniecture of the auncient Fathers. The note of Antichriſtes name, Apocalyps the 13. 18. being the number of the beaſt, doeth plainely proue, that Antichriſt is no ſingular man: for the beaſt ſignifieth by all interpreters, in a maner, the Romane Empire, in which Antichriſt ſucceedeth the Heathen, and Heretieall perſecutours. And the number of his name is conteyned in λατινος. The Latine man, not onely becauſe hee ſitteth at Rome, the chiefe Citie of the Latine Empire, but becauſe his tyrannie is chiefe in the Latine Church, and enforceth the publike exerciſe of Religion to bee in Latine: yea generally hee hath brought all ciuill contractes of buying and ſelling into the Latine tongne. And thus was thought very like to bee the name of Antichriſt by Irenæus, almoſt 1400. yeeres agoe: for among other names that hee mentioneth, hee ſayeth. Sed & Lateinos, &c. But euen the name Lateinos hath the number of 666. And it is very like to bee the true name: for that which is moſt truely a kingdome, hath that name: for they are Latines which nowe reigne. You ſee plainely by the iudgement of Irenæus, that it is not neceſſarie to vnderſtand this text, or any in the Scripture ſo, that Antichriſt muſt bee one ſingular man, but rather one kingdome, of which euery King or chiefe Ruler, is Antichriſt. The time of his reuelation, is not appointed ſo neere the worldes ende, but the time of his deſtruction by the comming of Chriſt: his reigne is not called ſhort, but in compariſon of the large and eternall reigne of Chriſt, as the time of the comming of Chriſt to iudgement, is accompted ſhort in Gods iudgement, to whom a thouſand yeeres, are as one day, and one day as a thouſand yeeres. Finally, by his feyned miracles, or any figure of him in the Scripture, it cannot be prooued, that he is a ſingular man. Nowe therefore, let vs ſee out of the Scriptures, howe it can be prooued, that Antichriſt is not one ſingular perſon. Firſt moſt euidently out of this text, where it is ſaide, that the man of ſinne ſhall be reuealed, whereby it may be rightly gathered (as S. Iohn alſo plainely ſayeth) that Antichriſt was euen then, but he was not reuealed, or openly ſhewed, but cloſely caried about in many of his members. So S. Paul ſayeth, verſe 7. The myſterie of iniquitie doeth euen nowe worke, and ſhall not be vtterly deſtroyed, before the ſecond comming of Chriſt. Seeing therefore it is impoſſible, that one man coulde haue continuance, from the Apoſtles time, to the day of iudgement, it is manifeſt, that Antichriſt is no one ſingular man, but a continuall ſucceſſion of Heretikes, firſt ſecretly, and after openly, aduancing themſelues againſt Chriſt, and God his father. Hereto agree the moſt cleere teſtimonies of S. Iohn, 1. Iohn 2. 22. Who is a liar, but he that denyeth that Ieſus is Chriſt, the ſame is Antichriſt which denieth the Father and the Sonne. Euery one that denieth the Sonne hath not the Father. This note as it doeth agree to all Heretikes, ſo principally to the Pope, who denyeth the offices of Chriſt, as other Heretikes had denied his perſon. Againe 1. Iohn 4. 3. Euery ſpirite which confeſſeth not Ieſus Chriſt come in the fleſh, is not of God, and the ſame is the ſpirit of Antichriſt, which you haue heard that he commeth, and nowe he is in the worlde. Alſo 2. Iohn verſe 7. There are many deceiuers entred into the worlde, which confeſſe not Ieſus Chriſt, that he is come in the fleſh, the ſame is ὁ πλάνος καὶ ὁ ἀντίχριστος, the deceiuer, and the Antichriſt. Marke that many deceiuers, are the deceiuer, and the Antichriſt with the Greeke article. Againe 1. Iohn 2. 18. Litle children, this is the laſt time, and as you haue heard, that ὁ ἀντίχριστος, the Antichriſt commeth, euen nowe there are many Antichriſtes. Therefore Antichriſt is not one, but many, and his comming not deferred, vntill within the three yeeres and an halfe, of the ende of the worlde, as the Papiſtes by groſſe vnderſtanding of the myſticall time, deſcribed in the Apocalyps woulde haue it: but he was come in myſterie, and ſecretly, euen in the Apoſtles time, and that myſterie, by the malice and ſubtilie of Satan, which is the ſpirite of Antichriſt, ceaſed not to worke, vntill the open and plaine reuelation of his pride, was publikely profeſſed in the papacie. Nowe for the opinion of the auncient fathers, you heard before, that Irenæus thought it very like to be true, of a whole kingdome of Latines: and therefore it was not proper to one ſingular man. Hierome in the place by you quoted, acknowledging, that all that were not of the communion of Damaſus, which profeſſed the diuinitie of Chriſt, belonged to Antichriſt, doeth plainely auouche, that Antichriſt was in his time no ſingular man, but the body of all Heretikes, the the enemies of Chriſt, whoſe head was not yet reuealed. So in the other place, they that haue newe names, after any man the auctor of their doctrine, as Arrianes, Donatiſtes, Papiſtes, be Antichriſtes. As for Caluiniſtes, Zuinglians &c. be but names of reproche, inuented as the like were by your predeceſſeurs ỹ old Heretikes, Athanaſians, Alexandrians, Ioannites, and ſuch like: but of this matter more in the next Section.

And

Rhem. 9. And this is the moſt common ſentence alſo of all auncient fathers. Only Heretikes make no doubt but Antichriſt is a whole order or ſucceſſion of men, which they hold againſt the former euident Scriptures and reaſons, onely to eſtabliſh their fooliſh and wicked paradoxe, that Chriſtes chiefe Miniſter is Antichriſt, yea the whole order. Wherein Beza ſpecially pricketh ſo high, that he maketh Antichriſt (euen this great Antichriſt) to haue been in S. Pauls dayes, though he was not open to the world. Who is ſhould be (except he meane S. Peter, becauſe he was the firſt of the order of Popes) God knoweth. And ſure it is, except he were Antichriſt, neither the whole order, nor any of the order can be Antichriſt, being all his lawfull ſucceſſours both in dignitie and alſo in trueth of Chriſtes religion. Neither can all the Heretikes aliue proue, that they or any of them vſed any other regiment or iuriſdiction Eccleſiaſticall in the Church, or forced the people to any other faith or worſhip of God, then Peter him ſelfe did preach and plant. Therefore if the reſt be Antichriſt, let Beza boldly ſay that S. Peter was ſo alſo, and that diuers of the auncient Catholike fathers did ſerue and worke (though vnwares) towards the ſetting vp of the great Antichriſt, for ſo doeth that blaſphemous penne boldly write in his Annotations vpon this place: and an Engliſh printed booke of late comming forth out of the ſame ſchoole, hath theſe wordes: As for Leo and Gregorie Biſhops of Rome, although they were not come to the full pride of Antichriſt, yet the myſterie of iniquitie hauing wrought in that Seate neere fiue or ſixe hundred yeeres before them, and then greatly increaſed, they were deceiued with the long continuance of errour. Thus writeth a malapert ſcholler of that impudent ſchoole, placing the myſterie of Antichriſt as working in the See of Rome euen in S. Peters time, and making theſe two holy fathers great workers and furtherers of the ſame, whereas an other Engliſh Rabbine doubted not at Pauls croſſe to ſpeake of the ſelfe ſame fathers as great Doctors and Patrones of their newe Goſpel, thus: O Gregorie, ô Leo, if we be deceiued, you haue deceiued vs. Whereof we giue the good Chriſtian Reader warning more diligently, to beware of ſuch damnable bookes and Maiſters, carying many vnaduiſed people to perdition.

Beza alſo hee cap. The Caluiniſts place Antichriſt in the See of Rome, in S. Pauls dayes.

Fulke. 9. That it is not the ſentence of Irenæus and Hierom, I haue ſhewed plainely out of their owne wordes: now it remaineth, that we enquire what other auncient fathers thought vpon the matter. S. Auguſtine teſtifyeth, that according to the iudgement of ſome fathers before him, the myſterie of iniquitie, is vnderſtood of euill men and hypocrites, which are in the Church, vntill they come to ſo great a number, as may make a great people for Antichriſt &c. according to the teſtimonie of 1. Iohn 2. whereby Antichriſt by their iudgement can be no ſingular man. Yea ſome vnderſtood (as hee ſayth) not onely the prince himſelfe, but his whole body, that is, the multitude of men perteyning to him together with their Prince to be Antichriſt. De ciuitat. cap. 19. Chryſoſtome vpon this place hom. 3. applying the text of Math. 24. 24. (of many falſe Chriſtes and falſe prophetes, able to deceiue the elect, if it were poſſible) to Antichriſt, ſignifyeth that it is not neceſſarie to take Antichriſt for one ſingular man. Alſo hom. 4. where he ſheweth, that Antichriſt ſhall come in place of the Romane Empire, as the Romane Empire came in place of the Macedonian: the Macedonian of the Perſian: the Perſian of the Median: the Median of the Babylonian: he likewiſe ſignifyeth, that Antichriſt is a kingdome continued by ſucceſſion, as all the reſt were whom he nameth. Primaſius interpreting this text, by Math. 24. 24. declareth, that he thought Antichriſt to be no one ſingular perſon. Tertullian againſt Marcion lib. 5. ſayeth, Who is that man of ſinne, ſonne of perdition? &c. After our opinion, Antichriſt, as the olde and newe prophecies doe teache, as Iohn the Euangeliſt ſayeth, that Antichriſtes are already gone forth into the worlde, ſpirites, foreruunners of Antichriſt. Cyprian epiſt. 76. ſayth, That all the Lordes aduerſaries are Antichriſtes. Ruffinus expoſit. Symboli. applying alſo that text Math. 24. 24. to the comming of Antichriſt declareth, that he thought not Antichriſt to be one ſingular man. Therefore it is not the common ſentence of all the auncient fathers, that Antichriſt ſhould be one ſingular perſon. Seeing therefore it is manifeſt by the Scripture, that Antichriſt is the whole body of Chriſtes enemies, vnto the end of the world, wherein yet there is a principall head to be openly reuealed, why ſhould it be compted a fooliſh paradoxe, that the Pope is Antichriſt? You ſay, becauſe he is Chriſtes chiefe miniſter. A ſound argument, if it were not all that is in controuerſie. But Beza (you ſay) pricketh ſo high, that he maketh this great Antichriſt to haue been in S. Pauls dayes, though he was not open to the world. Verily Beza ſayth none otherwiſe then S. Paul himſelfe, and S. Iohn ſay. But who ſhoulde that be (you ſay) God knoweth, except he meane S. Peter, becauſe he was the firſt of the order of Popes. But Beza expreſſeth his meaning plainely, when hee ſayth, Heretikes and falſe apoſtles, that craftely and cloſely went about to make a defection from Chriſt, and therefore as it is a malitious, ſo a moſt fooliſh and ſenſeles ſurmiſe, that he ſhoulde meane of S. Peter, who was none of the order of theſe Popes, which are nowe Antichriſtes. But you are ſure that except Peter were Antichriſt, neither the whole order, nor any of the order can bee Antichriſt. I ſaide before, you can neuer proue, that Peter was of that order of Popes, that nowe are Antichriſtes: you ſay they are all Peters lawfull ſucceſſors in dignitie, and in trueth of Chriſtes religion. This in deede you ſay But when ſhall it be proued? that Peter euer tooke vpon him to diſpenſe againſt the Lawe of God, to vſurpe auctoritie aboue earthly Princes, to make articles of faith &c. an hundreth like matters that the Popes doe and haue done: whereof all the Papiſtes the lyuinges of Antichriſt aliue and dead, neither could nor can euer proue, that the Apoſtle Peter did or taught any thing like. Where Beza ſayth, that diuerſe of the auncient Catholike fathers vnawares, ſerued toward the ſetting vp of the great Antichriſt, it cannot be denied, when they yeelded ſo much to the vſurped claime of the Biſhops of Rome, who long before the reuelation of Antichriſt (the myſterie of iniquitie working greatly in that See) exalted them ſelues, as Socrates teſtifieth, beyonde the limites of Prieſtood into foren dominion, and yet chalenged a great deale more then they coulde obteyne of the auncient Catholike fathers: and for all that by many degrees leſſe, then the Popes when they openly ſhewed themſelues to be Antichriſtes, did openly take vpon them. But there is be like a great contradiction betweene that which I wrote againſt Sanders rocke, of Gregory and Leo: and ỹ which was vttered by the Biſhop of Sarum at Pauls Croſſe, whereas if any reſonable man wil cõpare both our ſayings, he ſhal find no repugnãcie at all in them. The Biſhop ſpake of thoſe poyntes, wherein Leo and Gregory (which alſo he declared in that ſermon) taught contrary to ỹ Papiſtes, my writing was of their errour concerning Peters greater dignitie, then ỹ holy Scriptures doth allow him. Which error had takẽ roote by long cõtinuãce of time, becauſe ỹ myſterie of iniquitie had wrought in ỹ See of Rome neere 5. or 6. hundred yeres before ỹ time of Leo & Gregory.

This is compted a malepert and impudent part, to place the See of Antichriſt, working in the See of Rome, euen in S. Peters time, and to make theſe two holy Fathers, great workers and furtherers of the ſame. In deede furtherers I make them, as Beza doth many others yet vnawares, while they ſawe not whereunto ỹ myſterie tended, eſpecially the elder. As for the other, when he foreſaw ỹ reuelation of Antichriſt, he hindred it to his power: but I make them not willing and witting workers and furtherers of the myſterie of iniquitie. The chiefe matter is, whether the myſterie of iniquitie did worke in the See of Rome in Peters time. Firſt, ỹ it did worke in Peters time, ỹ text of S. Paul is plaine. That it did worke at Rome, where Antichriſt ſhould be openly ſhewed. S. Iohn is plaine in ỹ Reuelation 17. 9. 18. The auncient fathers, Tertullian, Hierom, Auguſtine &c. (as I haue ſhewed els where) do teſtifie, that Rome is Babylon, the See of Anuchriſt. And many of ỹ old fathers ſuſpected, that Nero was Antichriſt, who was Emperour of Rome in Peters time. Yea the Papiſts themſelues confeſſing, that Peter in his Epiſtle, called Rome Babylon, muſt needes graunt, that Rome is the See of Antichriſt, and that the myſterie of Antichriſt did worke there, euen in S. Peters time, or els why ſhould he call it Babylon? Nowe ỹ this myſterie did worke in the Church of Rome, where Antichriſt was to be openly ſhewed, how can it be denied? ſeeing it did worke in other Churches. If Simon Magus the father of heretikes (as euen Papiſtes doe confeſſe) firſt broched his hereſie at Rome, & there contended with Peter, as it were for ỹ chiefe place of the Church, did not the myſterie of Antichriſt begin in ỹ See of Rome, euen in S. Peters time? Againe, when there were ſchiſmes at Corinth, one ſaying I am of Cephas, I am of Paul &c. might not the like be at Rome? But all this while you will ſay Peters chaire, was free from theſe myſteries of iniquitie. I doe willingly confeſſe, that Peter himſelfe, and many godly Biſhops, were vtter enemies to Antichriſtian pride: and therefore I doe not place the myſterie of iniquitie in the See of Rome preciſely in Peters time, but neere the ſame, which in proceſſe of time, began by litle and litle to ſhew it ſelfe. As when Anicetus contended with Polycarpus, about the celebration of Eaſter, yet with more modeſtie then Victor, which excommunicated the Biſhops of Aſia, becauſe they would not conſent with him in the ſame ceremonie. Cornelius & Stephanus were good men and martyrs: yet by Cyprian a good father and martyr, Firmilianus, and many other Biſhops, they were thought to take to much vpon them, in the queſtion of rebaptiſme, although their cauſe was better. Alſo in admitting the complaints of fugitiue heretikes, that were iudged & excommunicated in Africa. Much more the ambitious titles chalenged by the See of Rome, were milliked and condemned in the Councel of Carthage 3. cap. 26. That the Biſhop of the firſt See, be not called Prince of prieſtes, or high-ſt Prieſt, or any ſuch thing, but onely Biſhop of the firſt See. Whereunto Gratian 1. Diſtinct. 99. addeth, as for vniuerſall, let not the Biſhop of Rome himſelfe be called. After this, appeales were forbidden vnto the See of Rome, vnder paine of excommunication cont. Mileuitanum cap. 22. and conc. Aphric. cap. 92. To heale which wounde, the Biſhops of Rome, Zoſimus, Bonifacius, and Celeſtinus, obtruded to ỹ Biſhops of Aphrica, a forged canon of the Councel of Nice, which by true copies of the Nicen Counceł, ſent from Cyrillus of Alexandria, and Atticus of Conſtantinople, was diſcouered Ep. conc. Aphric. ad Celeſtinum. After this, Leo by his Legates, and his Epiſtles to Martianus and Pulcheria, Ep. 54. and 55. laboured to hinder the decree of the generall Councell of Chalcedon, whereby the Biſhop of Conſtantinople was made equall with the Biſhop of Rome, vnder pretence of defending the priuiledges graunted to the See of Alexandria, and of Antioch, by the Councel of Nice. But notwithſtanding all his practiſe and indeuour, the generall Councell of Chalcedon concluded againſt him, that the Biſhop of Conſtantinople ſhould be his equall in all things. Whereupon Iohn Biſhop of Conſtantinople being lifted vp in pride, was not content to be fellowe with the Biſhop of Rome, but woulde be his ſuperiour: yea would tranſlate the auctoritie of all Biſhops vnto his owne See and perſon, by taking vpon him the title of vniuerſall Biſhop. Which when Gregory Biſhop of Rome perceiued, after he could not preuaile with him by admonition, he declared him openly to be the forerunner of the great Antichriſt: for thus he writeth. Sed in hac eius ſuperbia &c. But in this his pride, what other thing is ſignified? but that the times of Antichriſt are euen now at hand, becauſe he imitateth him which deſpiſing the legions of Angels in equall ioye, aſſayed to breake out in the toppe of ſingularitie ſaying: I will exalt my throne aboue: the ſtarres of heauen &c. Lib. 4. Ep. 34. And againe. Omnia quæ prædicta ſunt facta ſunt &c. All things are done which were foreſhewed. The king of Pride is at hand, and that which is a vile thing to be ſpoken, an armie of prieſtes is prepared for him, becauſe they that were appointed to be chiefe in humilitie, doe ſerue as ſouldiers vnder pride and arrogancie. lib 4. Epi. 38. Thus haue we proued by the holy Scriptures, and the teſtimonies of many auncient fathers, that Antichriſt is no one ſingular man: that Rome is the place appointed for his ſoueraigne ſeate: that the time of his reuelation was at hand 900. yeeres agoe: that he exerciſed his Antichriſtian pride, ſpecially by the Clergie, which are his garde or armie: that the vniuerſall auctoritie which he vſurpeth by the name of vniuerſall Biſhop, is the pride of Lucifer, whereof Antichriſt is king. And theſe three laſt pointes, no Papiſt can denie, except he will affirme, that the Biſhop of Rome erred in ſo great matters of faith, as are the reuelation of Antichriſt, the deſcription of his qualities and inſtrumentes, and the auctoritie of the See of Rome.

Rome the See of Antichriſt

Rhem. 10 4. Extolled. The great Antichriſt which muſt come neere the worldes ende, ſhall aboliſh the publike exerciſe of all other religions true and falſe, and pull downe both the B. Sacrament of the altar, wherein conſiſteth ſpecially the worſhip of the true God, and alſo all Idols of the Gentiles, and ſacrifices of the Iewes, generally all kinde of religious worſhip, ſauing that which muſt be done to him ſelfe alone, which was partly prefigured in ſuch kings as publiſhed that no God nor man but but them ſelues ſhould be prayed vnto for certaine dayes, as Darius and ſuch like. Howe can the Proteſtants then for ſhame and without euident contradiction, auouch the Pope to be Antichriſt, who (as wee ſay) honoureth Chriſt the true God with all his power, or (as they ſay) honoureth Idols, and chalengeth no diuine honour to him ſelfe, much leſſe to himſelfe onely, as Antichriſt ſhal doe? He humbly prayeth to God, & lowly kneeleth downe in euery Church at diuers altars erected to God in the memories of his Sainctes, and prayeth to them. He ſayeth or heareth Maſſe daily with all deuotion, he confeſſeth his ſinnes to a Prieſt as other poore men doe, he adoreth the holy Euchariſt which Chriſt affirmed to be his owne body, the Heretikes call it an Idol (no marueil if they make the Pope his Vicar Antichriſt, when they make Chriſt him ſelfe an Idol) Theſe religious duties doeth the Pope, whereas Antichriſt ſhall worſhip none, nor pray to any, at the leaſt openly.

Antichriſt ſhal ſuffer no worſhip or adoration, but of himſelfe only. therefore the Pope cannot be Antichriſt. Dan. c. 6.

Fulke. 10 That the great Antichriſt came 900. yeeres agoe, you haue heard by the teſtimonie of Gregorie. As for your other other ſurmiſes, that he ſhall aboliſh the publike exerciſe of all other religions true and falſe, ſaying that which must be done to himſelfe, hath no colour of reaſon out of the Scripture, although it be true that Antichriſt maketh accompt of no Religion, yet vnder the colour of Religion and Gods ſeruice, he vſurpeth all honour due to God. So ſaith S. Hierom; that Antichriſt ſhall obteine his Antichriſtian exaltation, by counterfeiting that he is the captaine or chiefe of the couenant that is of the lawe and teſtament of God. In Daniel. cap. 11. Hee ſhal not therefore aboliſh al Religion true or falſe, or ſuffer none to be worſhipped but himſelfe, but by fayning that he is the chiefe of Religion, and captaine of Gods couenant (as the Pope doeth,) hee ſhould by Hieroms iudgement aduance himſelfe aboue all Religion. And therefore although we be not bound to ſeeke a figure of Antichriſt in the blaſphemous decree of Darius, yet the Pope (not for a time but perpetually) decreeth, that none other in effect be acknowledged for God, but himſelfe. Seeing he alone taketh vpon him to diſpence againſt the Lawe of God, which argueth that he arrogateth to himſelfe auctoritie aboue God the lawe maker. For no lawe can be diſpenſed withall, but either by the ſame auctoritie by which it was made, or by a greater. Aboue Chriſt he exalteth himſelf and his prophetical, kingly, and prieſtly office, not only in abrogating his inſtitution of the Supper in both kindes, and many other notorious matters, but alſo in graunting full pardon of all ſinnes, and abſoluing men both from the paine & the fault, which he denieth to haue bene done by Chriſt in the ſacrifice of his death and Paſſion. Yea, he depoſeth Chriſt out of his eternall Prieſthod, by ſetting vp an other ſacrifice and prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech, whereby he proteſteth againſt the ſufficiencie of the ſacrifice and Prieſthod of Chriſt, and alſo maketh euery one of his vile creatures (the Maſſe Prieſtes) ſuperiour to Chriſt God and man, whom they take vpon them to offer to God his father. Whereas Chriſt himſelfe could not haue offered that moſt acceptable ſacrifice of himſelfe, vnleſſe by his diuine and eternal Spirit, he had bene in ſome reſpect better then himſelfe. Againſt the holy Ghoſt he exalteth himſelfe, blaſpheming the Scriptures inſpired by him, to be vnperfect and vnſufficient for the inſtruction of the Church without his traditions and decrees, by pronouncing that to be prophane and forbidding as vnholy, which he hath ſanctified, as maryiage and meats, and giuing ſpecial holineſſe to ſuch creatures as he liſteth. By vſurping the office of the holy Spirit, in applying the merits of Chriſt and the effect of his Paſſion, according to his pleaſure, by his indulgences and pardons, and by ſacraments and ceremonies of his owne inuention. Arrogating in al things the ſpirit of trueth that he cannot erre, exempting himſelfe from all mortall iudgements, though he cary infinite thouſands with him to hell: beſide innumerable other blaſphemings of proude ſpeaches, doctrines and decrees, whereof his lawes and religion are full. And therefore although to blinde the eyes of the ſimple he hath ſome hypocritical title of humilitie to make ſome ſhew of adoring God, in external and ceremonial maner, yet cannot he ſo diſſemble his pride & contempt of God, but many times it breaketh forth into open blaſphemie, as hath bene noted in diuers of them, but that which is notorious in all, and mainteined by all, cannot be hidden. How in his greateſt pompe the Sacrament which he pretendeth to honour as God, is caried before him on an hackney, when he himſelfe is caried on mens ſhoulders. How his throne is ſet aboue the altar. How the Croſſe which muſt be caried on the right hand of Kings ſwords or Sceptors, becauſe diuine honour is due to it (as they ſay) is notwithſtanding layed vnder his feete, how in the Iubily he beateth open the gates of Paradiſe with a golden hammer, with an hundreth more notes of Antichriſtian pride, expreſſed in the Pontificals, and practiſed in their ſolemnities.

The Pope Antichriſt, exalting himſelfe aboue God.

Rhem. 11 4. In the temple.) Moſt auncient writers expound this of the Temple in Hieruſalem, which they thinke Antichriſt ſhal build vp againe, as being of the Iewes ſtocke, and to be acknowledged of that obſtinate people (according to our Sauiours prophecie Io. 5) for their expected and promiſed Meſſias. Iren. li. 5. in fine. Hyppolyt. de conſum. mundi. Cyril. Hieroſ. Catech. 15. Author op. imp ho. 49. in Mat. See S. Hierom in 11. Dan. Grego. li. 31. Moral. c. 11. Not that he ſhall ſuffer them to worſhip God by their old maner of ſacrifices, (al which he wil either aboliſh, or conuert to the onely adoration of himſelf: though at the firſt to apply him ſelfe to the Iewes, he may perhaps be circumciſed and keepe ſome part of the law) for it is here ſaid that he ſhal ſitte in the Temple as God, that is, he ſhal be adored there by ſacrifice and diuine honour, the name and worſhip of the true God wholy defaced. And this they thinke to be the abomination of deſolation foretold by Daniel, mentioned by our Sauiour, prefigured and reſembled by Antiochus and others, that defaced the worſhip of the true God by prophanation of that Temple, ſpecially by abrogating the daily ſacrifice, which was a figure of the only ſacrifice and continual oblation of Chriſtes holy body and bloud in the Church, as the aboliſhing of that, was a figure of the aboliſhing of this, which ſhal be done principally and moſt vniuerſally by Antichriſt him ſelfe (as now in part by his forerunners) through out al Nations and Churches of the world (though then alſo Maſſe may be had in ſecret, as it is now in nations where the ſecular force of ſome Princes prohibiteth it to be ſaid openly.) For although he may haue his principal ſeate & honour in the Temple and citie of Hieruſalem, yet he ſhal rule ouer the whole world, and ſpecially prohibite that principal worſhip inſtituted by Chriſt in his Sacraments, as being the proper Aduerſarie of Chriſtes perſon, name, law, and Church. the prophanation and deſolation of which Church by taking away the ſacrifice of the altar, is the proper abomination of deſolation, and the worke of Antichriſt onely.

In what temple Antichriſt ſhal ſit.

Dan. 9. Mat. 24. 1. Mach. 1.

The abomination of deſolation conſiſteth cheefly in aboliſhing the ſacrifice of the altar.

Fulke 11. Though ſome of the ancient fathers, ſuppoſed that Antichriſt ſhould ſit in the temple of Ieruſalem, yet they had no reaſon out of the worde of God ſo to thinke. For the temple of Salomon being vtterly deſtroyed, though an other like it ſhould be builded according to this ſurmiſe, yet coulde it not be called the temple of God. But the Church of Chriſt is by the Apoſtle called the temple of God. 1. Cor. 3. 16. 17. 2. Cor. 6. Apoc. 3. 12. Wherefore the Apoſtle meaneth, that Antichriſt ſhall ſit in the viſible Church of God, or that which is ſo called and commonly reputed: and there vſurpe diuine auctoritie. That the abomination of deſolation conſiſteth chiefly in aboliſhing the Popiſh Maſſe, it is a vaine preſumption without auctoritie of the Scriptures, or teſtimonie of the auncient fathers. For rather the Maſſe is an abomination that bringeth deſolation, becauſe it ouerthroweth the vertue of the ſacrifice & Prieſthod of Chriſt, in which is the only comfort of all Chriſtian mens conſciences.

Antichriſt ſitting in the Church.

Rhem. 12 S. Auguſtine therfore li. 20. de ciuit. c. 19. and S. Hierom q. 11. ad Algaſiam. do thinke, that this ſitting of Antichriſt in the temple, doth ſignifie his ſitting in the Church of Chriſt, rather then in Salomons temple. Not as though he ſhould be a chiefe member of the Church of Chriſt, or a ſpecial part of his body myſtical, and be Antichriſt and yet withal continuing within the Church of Chriſt, as the Heretikes feine, to make the Pope Antichriſt (whereby they plainely confeſſe and agniſe that the Pope is a member of the Church,& in ipſo ſinu Eccleſiæ, and in the very boſome of the Church, *ſay they:) for that is ridiculous, that al Heretikes whom S.Iohn calleth Antichriſtes as his precurſors, ſhould go out of the Church, and the great Antichriſt him ſelf ſhould be of the Church, and in the Church, and continew in the ſame. and yet to them that make the whole Church to reuolt from God, this is no abſurditie. But the truth is, that this Antichriſtian reuolt here ſpoken of, is from the Catholike Church: and Antichriſt, if he euer were of or in the Church, ſhal be an Apoſtata and a renegate out of the Church, and ſhal vſurpe vpon it by tyranny, and by chalenging worſhip, religion, and gouernment thereof, ſo that him ſelf ſhal be adored in al the Churches of the world which he liſt to leaue ſtanding for his honour. And this is to ſitte in the temple or againſt the Temple of God, as ſome interprete. If any Pope did euer this, or ſhal do, then let the Aduerſaries cal him Antichriſt.

Sect. 1. Neither Antichriſt nor his precurſors are members of the Church.

Fulke 12. Now you confeſſe that by the iudgement of S.Auguſtine and S.Hierom, Antichriſt ſhould ſit in the Church of Chriſt, rather then in the temple of Salomon. Yea, by S.Auguſtine, he ſhould not onely ſit in the Church of God, but take vpon him with his retinue to be the onely Church of God. For thus he writeth, (reporting the opinion of other men whereunto he giueth his aſſent,) Some will haue not onely the Prince or chiefe himſelfe, but his whole body, that is the multitude of men perteyning to him, to be vnderſtood in this place (together with their Prince,) to be Antichriſt. And thinke that it ſhould be ſaid more rightly in Latine, as it is in the Greeke, that he ſhould ſit, not in the temple of God, but as the temple of God, as though he himſelfe were the temple of God, which is the Church. There could nothing be ſaid more properly of the Pope, who boaſteth himſelfe to be head and foundation of the Church, and that there is none other Church of God, but he and his body. Hierom ſaith: He ſhall ſit in the temple of Ieruſalem as ſome thinke, or in the Church, as we more truely iudge. Neither are theſe fathers alone, but other of good credit ioyning with them. Chryſoſtome vpon this text ſaith: that Antichriſt ſhal commaund himſelfe to be worſhipped in ſtead of God, and to be placed in the temple of God, not only at Ieruſalem, but alſo in the Churches. Theodoret ſaith: He calleth the temple of God, the Churches: in which Antichriſt ſhal arrogate vnto himſelfe the chiefe ſtate, endeauouring to ſhew himſelfe as God. Primaſius ſaith, That which is called God, is the Church, That which is worſhipped, is the higheſt God. So that he ſhall ſit in the temple of God, boaſting himſelfe that he is God. That is, that he himſelfe is the Church: which is as if he ſhould ſay, he ſitteth as the temple of God, boaſting that he himſelfe is the temple of God, or he ſitteth as God, boaſting that he is God. This is out of the rules of Ticonius, out of which it is like, that S.Auguſtine alſo tooke his iudgement aforeſaid. Seuerianus apud Oecumenium ſaith vpon this text, He ſpeaketh not of the temple of Ieruſalem, but of the Churches of God. So ſaith Theophylact, Not in the temple which is at Ieruſalem ſpecially, but ſimply in the Churches and in euery temple of God. Thus you ſee by the moſt and beſt approued auctors iudgement, Antichriſt ſhould ſit in the Church of God, But not as though he ſhould be a chiefe member of the Church of Chriſt, or a ſpecial part of his body myſtical, (ſay you.) In deed Antichriſt is no member or part of the Church or myſtical body of Chriſt, yet he ſitteth in the viſible Church, boaſting himſelfe to be the chiefe head thereof, yea as though he and his body were the Church it ſelfe, as Auguſtine & Primaſius teſtifie: he taketh vpon him the chiefe ſeat in the Church, as Theodoret ſaith. Therefore all things agree ſo aptly to the Pope, as the great Antichriſt can be no where elſe found, but in his perſon & place. We doe not therefore make the Pope a member of the Church of Chriſt, but an enemie thereof, vſurping tyrannie aboue the Church, and thereby declaring that he is Antichriſt. And whereas S. Iohn ſaith, that Antichriſt and his precurſors ſhould goe out of the Church, it is true, and ſo is the Pope gone from the doctrine of the Apoſtles, and out of the Church of Chriſt, whereof the Biſhops of Rome his predeceſſors, were ſometimes true members and ſeruants of the Church. But yet thoſe heretikes continued in the outward face of the Church, & profeſſion of Chriſtianitie, though they were neuer true members of the Church and myſtical body of Chriſt. Example of one of theſe Antichriſts we may ſee in the proude prelate Diotrephes, that would not receiue S.Iohn himſelfe, & vſurped tyrannie in the Church, 3.Ioan.v.9. The like is to be ſaid of Cerinthus and other heretikes, that boaſted of the Church of Chriſt & Chriſtianitie, as the Pope doth, yet were enemies of the Church, & no true members thereof. And euen that which you affirme of Antichriſt, is true of the Pope. For he is reuolted frō the catholike Church of Chriſt, and boaſteth ỹ he only and his are the Church, he vſurpeth vpon the Church by tyrannie, & by chalenging worſhip, religion & gouernment thereof: he is adored in al Popiſh churches (where his ſacrilegious decrees are obeied) aboue & againſt the lawes of God, & ſo he ſitteth in the temple, & againſt ỹ temple of God, therfore by your owne deſcription, we may cal him Antichriſt.

Antichriſt & by interpretation.

Rhem.13 And let the good Reader obſerue, that there be two ſpecial cauſes why this great man of ſinne is called Antichriſt. The one is, for impugning Chriſts kingdom in earth, that is to ſay, his ſpirituall regiment which he conſtituted & appointed in his Church, and the forme of gouernment ordained therin, applying al to him ſelf by ſingular tyrannie and vſurpation, in which kinde S. Athanaſius (ep.ad Solit.vit.degentes.) is bold to cal the Emperour Conſtantius being an Arian Heretike, Antichriſt, for making himſelf Principem Epiſcoporum, Prince ouer the biſhops and Preſident of Eccleſiaſtical iudgements, &c. The other cauſe is for impugning Chriſtes Prieſthod, which is only or moſt properly exerciſed in earth by the ſacrifice of the holy Maſſe inſtituted for the cōmemoration of his death, and for the external exhibition of godly honor to the B.Trinitie, which kind of external worſhip by ſacrifice no lawful people of God euer lacked. And by theſe two things you may eaſily perceiue, that the Heretikes of theſe dales do more properly and merely prepare the way to Antichriſt and to extreme diſolation, then euer any before, their ſpecial hereſie, being againſt the ſpiritual Primacie of Popes and Biſhops, and againſt the ſacrifice of the altar, in which two the ſouerainti: of Chriſt in earth conſiſteth.

One againſt Chriſt, why ſo called.

Proteſtants and Caluiniſts the neere forerunners of Antichriſt.

Fulke 13. Both theſe cauſes agree moſt aptly to the Pope: For he impugneth Chriſts kingdom in earth, that is his ſpiritual regiment, which he conſtituted and appointed in his Church, and the forme of gouernment ordeined therein, applying to himſelfe by ſingular tyrannie and vſurpation. Al this and much more Gregory ſaith of him that vſurpeth but the title of vniuerſal biſhop, How much more doth it agree to the Pope, who doth not only make himſelfe Prince of biſhops, and preſident of Eccleſiaſtical iudgements, but taketh away all auctoritie of biſhops, and vſurpeth al vnto himſelfe. Farre frō all Chriſtian mens hearts (ſaith he) be this name of blaſphemie, in which the honour of al prieſts is taken away, while it is proudly chalenged of one man to himſelfe. Lib.4.Ep.32. More of this matter who ſo liſt, may ſee at large in the ſame booke *Ep.*34.36.38. But that which is more properly the ſpirtual kingdome of Chriſt, then the externall forme of gouernment in the Church, the Pope impugneth as I haue ſhewed *Sect.*10. The other cauſe, for impugning Chriſtes Prieſthoode, doeth moſt properly agree to the Pope, as I haue alſo declared Section 10. and ſpecially for ſetting vp and mainteyning that horrible blaſphemie of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, and communicating the Prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech, to all his ſhauelings, which is the ſpeciall and ſingular dignitie of Chriſt alone *Pſ.*110.*Heb.*7. And leſt we ſhould ſeeke further for the blaſphemous exaltation of Antichriſt, behold you are not afraide to ſay, That the ſoueraignitie of Chriſt in earth, conſiſteth onely in theſe two, the Popes primacie, and the ſacrifice of the Maſſe. Whereby you exclude all ſoueraignitie of Chriſt gouerning his Church on earth and euery one of his elect by his holy Spirit, ruling the ſame by his heauenly word, and ſubduing his enemies by his mightie power and prouidence, working effectually in the preaching of the Goſpell and adminiſtration of his Sacraments. Finally, you acknowledge the ſoueraignitie of Chriſt to conſiſt in nothing but in thoſe two, where in his ſoueraignitie is moſt oppugned and blaſphemed. Againe, what blaſphemie it is to ſay, that the Prieſthod of Chriſt is exerciſed only, or moſt properly in earth by the ſacrifice of the Maſſe? As though Chriſt being aſcended into heauen, (after he hath by one ſacrifice of himſelfe once offered, made perfect for euer all thoſe that are ſanctified) doth not only & moſt properly exerciſe his Prieſthod in his owne perſon, which none elſe can exerciſe, becauſe none elſe but he alone is able to ſaue for euer, thoſe that by him come vnto God, alwayes liuing that he may make interceſſion for vs. *Heb.*7.24.25.

*Rhem.*14 6. What letteth.) S. Auguſtine (li.20.c.19.de ciuit.dei.) profeſſeth plainly that he vnderſtandeth not theſe words, nor that that followeth of the myſterie of iniquitie, and leaſt of al that which the Apoſtle addeth, Only that he which holdeth now, do hold &c. Which may humble vs al and ſtay the confident raſhnes of this time, namely of Heretikes, that boldly feine hereof whatſoeuer is agreable to their hereſie and phantaſie. The Apoſtle had told the Theſſalonians before by word of mouth a ſecret point which he would not vtter in writing, and therfore referreth them to his former talke. The myſterie of iniquitie is commonly referred to Heretikes, who worke to the ſame, and do that that Antichriſt ſhal do, but yet not openly, but in couert and vnder the cloke of Chriſtes name, the Scriptures, the word of the Lord, ſhew of holines, &c. Whereas Antichriſt him ſelf ſhal openly attempt and atchieue the foreſaid deſolation, and Satan now ſeruing his turne by Heretikes vnderſtand, ſhal toward the laſt end vtter, reueale, & bring him forth openly, & that is here, to be reueled, that is, to appeare in his owne perſon. Theſe other wordes, Only that he which now holdeth, hold: Some expound of the Emperour, during whoſe continuance in his ſtate, God ſhal not permit Antichriſt to come, meaning that the very Empire ſhalbe wholy deſolate, deſtroied, and taken away before or by his comming: which is more then a defection from the ſame, whereof was ſpoken before: for there ſhal be a reuolt from the Church alſo, but it ſhal not be vtterly deſtroied. Others ſay, that it is an admonition to al faithful, to hold faſt their faith and not to be beguiled by ſuch as vnder the name of Chriſt or Scriptures ſeeke to deceiue them, til they that now pretend religion and the Goſpel, end in a plaine breach, reuolt, and open apoſtaſie by the appearance of Antichriſt, whom al Heretikes ſerue in myſterie, that is, couertly & in the Diuels meaning, though the world ſeeth it not, nor themſelues at the beginning, thought it, as now euery day more and more al men perceiue they tend to plaine Atheiſme and Antichriſtianiſme.

S. Auguſtine humilitie in interpreting the ſcriptures.

The myſterie of iniquitie is the couert working of heretikes toward the manifeſt reuelation of Antichriſt himſelf.

Fulke 14. S. Auguſtine which ſaw not the fulfilling of this prophecie, profeſſeth his ignorance, as Irenæus doth in part: yet moſt of the ancient writers vnderſtand this let, to be the Romane Empire, which ſo long as it ſtoode, Antichriſt could not poſſeſſe the Citie of Rome, which was appointed for the ſeate of his tyrannie, nor vſurpe ſuch dominion as after that was taken away, he challenged. That we faine nothing vpon this text, it is manifeſt, becauſe we affirme nothing but that which the ancient fathers haue ſaid before vs. Although becauſe we ſee all theſe things openly reuciled, which were to them more obſcure, becauſe they were not performed, we note the perſon more boldly, and clearely we pronounce of the fulfilling of this prophecie. That the myſterie of iniquitie is the couert working of heretikes, toward the manifeſtation of Antichriſt himſelfe, we agree with you. Whereas Antichriſt the Pope openly blaſpheneth the Scriptures as vnſufficient: notwithſtanding the inſtitution of Chriſt depriueth the people of the Lordes bloud: though he by his wicked life lead infinite thouſandes of ſoules to hell with him, moſt impudently boaſteth that he is not to be reproued or iudged of any man: braggeth that he cannot erre: that he hath al lawes in the cloſet of his breſt: that he is aboue all lawes: that his wil is in ſtead of reaſon, and ſuch like matters which you cannot denie.

The other wordes (as I ſaid) the auncient fathers for the moſt part doe expound of the Romane Empire, which was vtterly ſubuerted before Antichriſt was in his higheſt exaltation, & now is nothing but a name and ſhadow of an Empire, and long ſince when it was of ſome power, ceaſed to be the Empire of Rome, when Antichriſt had ſet vp his kingdom there, and the Emperour had nothing but a bare name of the Empire of Rome. Yet Theodoret thinketh as Caluine doeth, that this let ſhould be the preaching of the Goſpel ouer all the world, which becauſe it was promiſed by our Sauiour Chriſt, muſt haue bene fulfilled before Antichriſt, or the ende of the world come. Where you conclude, that all men perceiue our doctrine and doings tende to plaine Atheiſme and Antichriſtianiſme, becauſe it is nothing but impudent rayling without any reaſon, I paſſe it ouer as vnworthy any anſwere.

Slander.

*Rhem.*15 9. In al power.) Satan whoſe power to hurt is abridged by Chriſt, ſhal then be let looſe, and ſhal aſſiſt Antichriſt in al manner of ſignes, wonders and falſe miracles, wherely many ſhal be ſeduced, not only Iewes: But al ſuch as be deceiued and caried away by vulgar ſpeach only, of Heretikes that can worke no miracles, much more ſhal folow this man of ſinne doing ſo great wonders. And ſuch both now do folow Heretikes, & thoſe ſhal receiue Antichriſt, that deſerue ſo to be forſaken of God, by their forſaking of the vnitie and happie fellowſhip of Saincts in the Catholike Church, where only is the Charitie of truth, as the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh.

What kinde of men ſhal folow Antichriſt.

Fulke 15. Beſide the ſtrange & wonderous workes of Antichriſt in remouing the Monarchie from Greece to France and then to Germanie, to the vtter ouerthrow of it in both places, with diuers other tranſlations of kingdomes, depoſing of Emperours and Princes, and ſetting vp his vaſſals in many dominions, &c. There was neuer any ſtate of religion of the heathen ſo full of falſe myracles, lying ſignes & wonders, as the religion of Antichriſt: the moſt of them being monſtrous fables, ſome Magical illuſions of deuils, and craftie conueyances of legerdemaine. Of which reportes the Legends, Portuſes, Feſtiuales, Promptuaries, Sermons, and other bookes are ſtuffed ſo full, that nothing almoſt is thought to be ſufficiently proued, that is not confirmed by a nomber of falſe and friuolous miracles: yea they ceaſe not at this day to continue ſome of theſe monſtrous fictions, as of their miraculous hoſtes at Mechline, and of the miraculous bloud of Chriſt at Paris, as good as the bloud of Hailes, which was a confection of honie and ſaffron renued as often as it pleaſed them, of the virgine Maries milke, with with ten thouſand falſe tales of reliques, that are in euery corner of the Popes dominion. Beſide new cures alſo of the reſtoring of Margaret Ieſop to her limmes at the Sacrament of myracles, whom the Bedels of Bridewel if they had had in cure for her whoredom, would haue healed alſo of her lamenes. With the viſion of the black dogge, & other fables reported by Briſtow. As for our doctrine, hauing manifeſt teſtimonie of ỹ holy Scriptures, needeth no confirmation of miracles. Although God himſelfe (for the preſeruation of his Church,) worketh great things, which being done by him, ought to be wonderfull in our eyes. Among which the marueilous preſeruation of our ſoueraigne Lady, againſt ſo many conſpiracies, treaſons, rebellions, murtherings, poyſonings, coniurings, inuaſions, and other diuelish practiſes deuiſed by Antichriſt and his limmes, againſt her perſon, her Realme and kingdome, now theſe thirtie yeres continuing: is as glorious a worke of his mercifull protection, as euer was ſeene in any age: or is recorded in any ſtorie, holy or prophane, yea, I know not whether the like (all circumſtances conſidered) was euer knowen before.

Rhem. 16 15. Traditions.) Not only the things written and ſet downe in the holy Scriptures, but al other truthes and points of religion vttered by word of mouth and deliuered or giuen by the Apoſtles to their ſcholers by tradition, be ſo here approued and els where in the Scripture it ſelf, that the Heretikes purpoſely, guilfully, and of il conſcience (that be like reprehendeth them) refraine in their tranſlations, from the Eccleſiaſtical and moſt vſual word,* Tradition, *euer more when it is taken in good part, though it expreſſe moſt exactly the ſignification of the Greeke word: but when it ſoundeth in their fond phantaſie againſt the traditions of the Church (as in deede in true ſenſe it neuer doth) there they vſe it moſt gladly. Here therfore and * in the like places, that the reader might not ſo eaſily like of Traditions vnwritten, here commended by the Apoſtle, they tranſlate it,* Inſtructions, Conſtitutions, Ordinances, and what they can inuent els, to hide the truth from the ſimple or vnwarie Reader, whoſe tranſlations haue none other end but to beguile ſuch by art and coueiance.

*See S. Denys Areopag. Eccl. Hier. c. 1. Tradition. 1. Cor. 11. 2. Theſ. 3. Heretical tranſlation. Traditions vnwritten.

Fulke 16. Firſt our tranſlations are true and according to the true ſenſe of the word, & of the text. And ſeeing traditions are ſometimes taken in euil part (as you confeſſe) we doe rightly auoyd the ambiguitie, when (as the ſignification of the word doth beare) we tranſlate inſtructions, conſtitutions, or ordinances. And it is as much aduantage, as you can iuſtly require, to haue inſtructions, conſtitutions, ordinances of the Apoſtles, vnwritten, but that vnder the voyce, ſound, and colour of the word, Traditions, you would haue all your fables and inuentions of falſe doctrine, receiued without any examination or trial, whether they came from the Apoſtles or no. Cauilling.

But now let vs ſee whether this text doeth allow any traditions, inſtructions, or ordinances of the Apoſtles, that are no where expreſſed and conteined in the Scriptures. S. Paul willeth them to hold the traditions which they had learned, whether it were by word or by his Epiſtle: Ergo ſay you, not only the things written and ſet downe in the holy Scriptures, but all other points of truth and points of religion vttered by word of mouth, & deliuered by the Apoſtles to their ſcholers by tradition, be here approued. In deed as wel that which the Apoſtles did preach, as that which they did write, is here approued. But how doeth it follow out of this text, that the Apoſtle did preach or deliuer any thing by word of mouth, which is not written and ſet downe in the holy Scriptures? Vnleſſe this be your argument, All was not written in the Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, Ergo, it is no where written or ſet downe in the holy Scriptures. Therefore this text proueth not that the Apoſtles left traditions, neceſſary to be obſerued vnto ſaluation, which are not conteined in the Scriptures. Or that the Scriptures doe not conteine all things neceſſary to be knowen, beleeued, and practiſed vnto ſaluation. Hauing therefore no warrant in the Scriptures for ſuch traditions as are no where written, you bring a whole troupe of the ancient fathers: who if they had bene alwayes attentiue in this point, ſhould not in ſome things haue bene ſo caried away as they were. Yet if their ſayings be wel marked according to their meanings, they ſpeake nothing for the credit of Popiſh traditions, that is articles of doctrine neceſſary to ſaluation, not written or ſet downe in the Scriptures. For ſometimes they call the Scripture it ſelfe by the name of tradition, or els they ſpeake of doctrine conteined in the Scriptures, & able to be proued by them, though not expreſſed in the ſame termes: as Omouſion, the Trinitie, the three perſons, the baptiſme of infants & ſuch like. Or els of ceremonies and rites, which are not neceſſary to be at all times, and in all places the ſame. For many of thoſe externall obſeruations and rites, which they aſcribe to tradition of the Apoſtles, haue bene long ſince aboliſhed and growen out of vſe, & are not obſerued euen in the Popiſh Church: whereas they haue a greater nomber which be of later inuention, which yet they would father vpon the Apoſtles. Laſt of all, thoſe few errors (which the myſterie of iniquitie preuailing, were receiued in their time) d:uers of the auncient fathers aſcribe to tradition, becauſe they had no ground in the Scriptures. Now therefore let vs conſider your teſtimonies for tradition vnwritten, in order. Firſt, you note in the Margent Dionyſe eccle. Hier. c. 1. Who ſpeaketh of the Sacraments and ceremonies of the Church vſed in his time, referreth them partly to the Scriptures, partly to the tradition of Biſhops. Meaning the Sacraments to haue their inſtitution ſet downe in the Scriptures, other ceremonies to haue bene ordeined by the gouernours of the Church, and by them deliuered vnto him. But of doctrine deliuered by the Apoſtles, that is no where written in the Scriptures, and yet is neceſſary to ſaluation, he ſpeaketh not one word. Traditions vnwritten.

Rhem. 17 But S. Chryſoſtome (ho. 4. in 1. Theſ. 2.) and the other Greeke ſcholies or commentaries ſay hereupon, both written and vnwritten precepts the Apoſtles gaue by tradition, and both be worthy of obſeruation. S. Baſil (De Sp. Sancto c. 29. in principio.) thus, I account it Apoſtolike to continew firmely euen in vnwritten traditions. and to proue this, he alleageth this place of S. Paul. In the ſame booke c. 17. he ſaith, If we once goe about to reiect vnwritten cuſtomes as things of no importance, we ſhal, ere we be aware, doe damage to the principall partes of the faith, and bring the preaching of the Goſpel to a naked name. And for example of theſe neceſſarie traditions, hee nameth the ſigne of the Croſſe, praying towardes the Eaſt, the wordes ſpoken at the elenation or ſhewing of the holy Euchariſt, with diuers ceremonies vſed before and after the conſecration, the halowing of the font, the bleſſing of the oile, the anointing of the baptized with the ſame, the three immerſions into the font, the wordes of abrenuntiation and exorciſmes of the partie that is to be baptized &c. What Scripture (ſaith he) taught theſe and ſuch like? none truly, al comming of ſecret and ſilent tradition. wherewith our fathers thought it meete to couer ſuch myſteries. Their authoritie and eſtimation, and examples of ſome peculiar traditions out of the fathers. S. Chryſoſtom. S. Baſil.

Fulke 17. Chryſoſtomes wordes bee theſe: Hereof it is manifeſt, that they deliuered not all by Epiſtle, But many thinges without letters, and the one is of as great credite as the other. Therefore wee thinke the Traditions of the Church alſo to be worthy of credit, It is a tradition inquire no more. It is certaine, that Chryſoſtome ſpeaketh of ſuch traditions, as are not expreſſed in ſo many wordes in the ſcriptures, yet are they conteined in deed in them, or els of thoſe laſt words, it is a tradition &c. it ſhould follow, that we ſhould neuer ſearch the ſcriptures, for any thing, but depend wholy vpon tradition. But that the ſcripture is not onely neceſſary, but alſo conteyneth doctrine ſufficient for our ſaluation, he declareth plentifully, in other places. One example ſhal ſuffice, in 2. Tim. Hom. 9. If we haue neede to learne any thing, or not to know any thing there (in the ſcriptures) we ſhall learne it. If it be needefull to reproue falſhod from thence, we ſhal drawe it. If any thing be lacking vnto vs, that we muſt obtaine, to be corrected or chaſtiſed vnto exhortation or comfort, out of the ſame alſo we do learne it. Theodoretes wordes are theſe, You haue a rule of doctrine, the wordes which we deliuer vnto you, which both being preſent we haue preached vnto you, and being abſent, we haue written vnto you. This greeke father as you ſee, ſo vnderſtandeth this place, that the Apoſtle hath written the ſame thinges, that he preached. Therefore deliuered nothing vnwritten. Hentenius a papiſt tranſlating Oecumenius into latin, euen in the text, for the greeke word παράδοσις rendreth Iuſtitutiones inſtitutions, as ſome of our tranſlations haue. The coment is the very wordes of Chryſoſtome in effect, and haue the ſame meaning. The Apoſtle deliuered ſome thinges both by writing and without writing, and both are worthye to be obſerued. Therefore the tradition of the Church with out writing alſo is to be obſerued He meaneth as Chryſoſtom, that the doctrin of the Church, taken out of the holy ſcriptures, is to be obſerued, though it be not expreſſed in them, in ſuch forme of wordes, as it is deliuered by the Church. So the doctrine of Chriſt and his Apoſtles, was nothing but the doctrine of the holy Scriptures of the olde Teſtament, yet vttered not alwaies in the ſame formes of ſpeach, although the argument, and matter were manyfeſtly conteyned in them.

S. Baſiles place I haue anſwered before. He ſpeaketh partely of ſuch doctrine, as is conteyned in the ſcriptures, though not in the ſame forme of words, as the glorifying of the holy Ghoſt, with the father and the ſonne, which is the matter he defendeth by tradition: partly of ceremonies and rites, which are not neceſſarie to ſaluation. Among which ceremonies, he reherſeth, as an Apoſtolike tradition, a cuſtome that the Chriſtians had of olde tyme, betwene Eaſter and Whitſontide, to pray ſtanding, which long ſince is growne out of vſe, and not obſerued by the Papiſtes them ſelues, no more, then that forme of glorifying the Trinitie, which he ſo earneſtly defendeth. Therefore theſe traditions are not neceſſary. Of the the eleuation of the Euchariſt, he ſpeaketh not, but of ſhewing of the bread of thankes giuing, and the cuppe of bleſſing. Neyther ſpeaketh he of diuerſe ceremonies, vſed before and after conſecration, but of other wordes or formes of prayer not expreſſed in the Goſpell, vſed before and after the miniſtration of the ſacrament, yet doubtles conteyned in the ſcriptures, and agreable to them for the matter. Hallowing the font, he nameth not, but bleſſing of the water of baptiſme. Finally of exorciſmes, he ſpeaketh nothing. But that he acknowledgeth the ſcripture to conteyne all doctrine neceſſary to ſaluation, he expreſſeth his minde ſufficiently in other places. It is a moſt certaine argument of infidelitie, and a moſt certeine ſigne of pride, if any man will reiect any of thoſe thinges that are written, or bring in any thing that is not written, whom our Lord ſayth. My ſheepe here my voice, and a ſtrangers they will not heare: Tract de fide. Againe he ſayth. Of ſuch thinges, as are in vſe with vs, ſome are vnder the commaundements of God preſcribed in the ſcripture, ſome thinges are omitted, concerning thoſe thinges that are written no libertie is giuen vs at all, eyther to doe any thing that is forbidden, or to omit any thing that is commanded, ſeeing the Lord hath one: charged vs and ſayd. Thou ſhalt keepe the worde which I commaund the this day, thou ſhalt not adde to it, nor take away from it &c. but of thoſe thinges that are omitted, the Apoſtle Paul hath ſet forth a rule for vs, All thinges are lawfull for me but all thinges are not expedient. And this is S. Baſiles anſwere to this queſtion, Whether it be lawfull or expedient, that a man permitte vnto him ſelfe to doe or ſay any thinges, which he thinketh to be good, without the teſtimony of the holy ſcriptures Reg. breuius inter. 1. S. Baſil therefore, being rightly vnderſtood, maketh nothing for popiſh traditions that are vrged without ſcripture, as neceſſary to ſaluation

Rhem. 18 S. Hierom (Dialog. cont. Lucif. c. 4. et ep 28 ad Licinium.) reckeneth vp diuers the like like traditions, willing men to attribute to the Apoſtles ſuch cuſtomes as the Church hath receyued in diuers chriſtian countries. S. Hierom. S. Auguſtine eſteemeth the Apoſtolike traditions ſo much, that he plainely affirmeth in ſundry places, not onely the obſeruation of certaine feſtualties, faſtes, ceremonies, and whatſoeuer other ſolemnities vſed in the Catholike Church, to be holy, profitable, and Apoſtolike, though they be not written at al in the ſcriptures: but he often alſo writeth, that many of the articles of our religion and pointes of higheſt importance, are not ſo much to be proued by ſcriptures, as by tradition, namely as touching that in no wiſe we could beleeue that children in their infancie ſhould be baptized, if it were not an Apoſtolical tradition. De Gen. ad lit. li. 10. c. 23. Tradition cauſed him to beleeue that the baptized of heretikes ſhould not be rebaptized, notwithſtanding S. Cyprians authoritie and the manifolde ſcriptures alleaged by him, though they ſeemed neuer ſo pregnant. De bap. li. 2. c. 7. By tradition onely, he and others condemned Heluidius the heretike for denying the perpetual virginitie of our Lady. And without this, be the Scriptures neuer ſo plaine, no Arian, no Macedonian, no Eutychian, no Pelagian, no Zuinglian will yeld. S. Auguſtine. S. Irenæus. We muſt vſe tradition. (ſaith S. Epiphanius hær. 61 Apoſtolicorum.) For the Scripture hath not all thinges: and therefore the Apoſtles deliuered certaine thinges in writing. certaine by tradition, and for that he alleageth this place alſo of S. Paul. And againe hær. 55. Melchiſed. There be boundes ſet downe for the foundation and building vp of our fayth, the tradition of the Apoſtles, and holy Scripures, and ſucceſſion of doctrine, ſo that truth is euery way fenſed.

Fulke. 18 S. Hierom you ſay, reckneth vp diuerſe like traditions, that are neceſſary, as you ſayd the other were, which Baſil mentioneth. In the former place his wordes be theſe, in the perſon of the Luciferian heretike. Knoweſt thou not, that this is the Cuſtome of the Church, that handes are layd afterwardes vpon them, that are baptized, and ſo the holy Ghoſt is called vpon? Thou demaundeſt where it is written? In the actes of the Apoſtles. But if the authoritie of the Scripture did not warrant it, the conſent of the whole worlde in this parte would obteyne the force of a precept. For many other thinges, which are obſerued in the Churches by tradition, haue obteyned the authoritie of a written Law, as in baptiſme, to dippe the head thriſe. Afterwarde, that they which are come forth from baptiſme, would taſte a temper of milke and hony, to ſignifie there infancie. On the Lordes day and throughout euery Penteceſt, neyther to pray on the knees, nor to faſt, and many other thinges are not written, which reaſonable obſeruation, hath challenged.

Of all theſe ceremonies you obſerue onely one, thriſe dypping, and that not of the head onely, but of the whole body. Therefore euerychild may ſee, that theſe ceremonies, with others, were either vntruely aſcribed to the Apoſtles, or if they came from the Apoſtles, they are not neceſſary for vs. If you ſay, the Church hath auctoritie to abrogate, or admitte, traditions of the Apoſtles at her pleaſure, you may ſay as much, of the holy ſcriptures. For we heard before, that traditions vnwritten, were as worthy of credit, as thoſe that are written. But the truth is, theſe ceremonies came not from the Apoſtles, but that men might more eſteeme them, were attributed to the Apoſtles tradition, as Hierom declareth in your ſecond place Ep. ad Licin.

Thou you demaund of the Saboth or ſaterday, whether it is to be faſted, and of the Euchariſt, whether it is to be receyued euery day, which thing the Church of Rome and Spaine are ſaid to obſerue, the moſt eloquent man Hippolytus hath written of them, and diuerſe writers gathering here and there, out of ſundry auctors haue ſet forth there opinions. But I thinke good to admoniſh you briefely of this thing: that eccleſiaſticall traditions (ſpecially ſuch as do not hinder the fayth) are ſo to be obſerued as they haue bene deliuered of our elders. And that the cuſtome of ſome men, is not ouerthrowen with the contrary vſage of other men. And I would we could faſte, at all times, which we reade in the actes of the Apoſtles, that Paul and the beleeuers with him did in the dayes of Penteceſt and on the Lordes day. And yet they are not to be accuſed of Manichees hereſie, ſeeing carnall meate ought not to haue bene preferred before ſpirituall meate. Alſo I would we might alwaies receiue the Euchariſte, without condemnation of our ſelues, and a pricking conſcience, and heare the Pſalmiſt ſaying. Taſt and ſee how ſweete the Lord is, and to ſing with him: my hart hath vttered a good ſaying. I ſay not this becauſe I thinke the Lordes dayes are to be faſted, and that I would doe away the ſolemnitie which is continued, for 60 daies together: but let euery prouince abound in her owne ſenſe, and eſteeme the precepts of there elders, to be Apoſtolike lawes. You ſee by his iudgement, that many ceremonies were accompted Apoſtolike traditions, which were contrary to the very practiſe of the Apoſtles, and that the cuſtome of euery Countrye, was eſteemed as an Apoſtolike lawe. This maketh altogether, againſt your poſition of Apoſtolike traditions beſide the ſcripture, and the ſame to be neceſſary for Chriſtian men in all places and times to obſerue. But that S. Hierom would haue no doctrine, obtruded as neceſſary to ſaluation which is not conteyned in the holy ſcriptures, he ſheweth in diuerſe places, namely in Math. 23. That which hath no auctoritie of the holy ſcriptures, is eaſily condemned, as it is allowed, and in Agg. cap. 1. Such thinges as men finde out and fayne of them ſelues as it were of Apoſtolike tradition without the auctoritie and teſtimonies of the ſcriptures, the ſworde of Gods worde doth ſtrike downe. Next to Hierom, you place S. Auguſtine, who you ſay doth not onely referre many ceremonies, to the Apoſtolike tradition, but alſo he writeth that many articles of our religion and pointes of higheſt importance, are not ſo much to be proued by ſcriptures, as by tradition. That ſome articles are proued both by ſcriptures, and alſo by tradition, it is no hurt, for that onely is a true tradition, that hath the teſtimonie of the ſcripture to warrant it. Nay ſay you: He auoucheth, that in no wiſe we could beleeue, that children in there infancy ſhould be baptized. Verely if he did ſo aduouch, he was in a great error. For we haue as good argumentes out of the ſcriptures, that infants are to be baptized as olde folkes. But you doe impudently belye him, for he hath no ſuch wordes or meaning. For he ſayth. The cuſtome of our mother the Church, in baptizing of the infantes, is not to be deſpiſed, nor by any meanes to be accompted ſuperfluous, neyther to be credited at all, if it were not an Apoſtolike tradition. For euen that age hath a great weyght or teſtimony, which firſt merited to ſhedde bloode for Chriſt.

How proue you, that by Apoſtolike tradition or deliuery, he meaneth heare an vnwritte tradition? He is ſo farre from denying, that this cuſtome hath teſtimony in the ſcripture, that he preſently alledgeth an argument out of the ſcripture to confirme it. They that may ſhedde there blood for Chriſt may be baptized, infantes (as the ſcripture teſtifieth) did ſhedde their blood for Chriſt therefore they may be baptized. And De baptiſmo contra Donat lib. 4. cap. 24. He proueth the baptiſme of infantes, not onely by the cuſtome of the Church obſerued euer ſince the Apoſtles, but alſo by the inſtitution of circumciſion out of the ſcriptures. So likewiſe, that ſuch as were baptized by heretikes, were not to be rebaptized, he proueth by the ſaying of Chriſt Iohn 13. He that is once waſhed, nedeth no more to be waſhed. De bapt. lib. 2. cap. 14 And by example of them that were circumciſed in the tenne tribes, where Ieroboames calues were worſhipped.

Againe he ſayth. That euil men haue baptiſme and doe giue and receiue baptiſme, though they be not changed into better men, we haue proued as I thinke ſufficiently both out of the canonicall ſcriptures, and out of Cyprians owne writings. De bapt lib. 6. cap. 3. Of which it followeth manifeſtly, that ſuch as are baptized by heretikes, are not to be baptized againe. Therefore this point of religion hath ſufficient warrant out of the ſcriptures. Heluidius was not condemned by tradition onely, but becauſe he affirmed a new doctrine, without the teſtimony of the ſcriptures, as S. Hierom ſayth. As we denye not thoſe thinges which are not written, ſo we reiect thoſe things which are not written. That God was borne of a Virgine we beleeue, becauſe we read it, that Mary had matrimoniall company with her husband after her child birth we beleeue it not, becauſe we doe not reade it, Cont Helu. Neyther doth Auguſtine ſpeake any thing, of this condemnation by tradition onely. But you ſay without tradition no heretik will yeld, be the ſcriptures neuer ſo playne. And what heretike was euer ſo gentil, to yeald to tradition, that would not yeld to the ſcriptures? but whether heretikes yeald or no, they may be alwaies confuted by the holy ſcriptures, and ſo haue all heretikes bene alwaies beaten downe, though Sathan which inſpired them with arrogancie and error, wil not ſuffer them to yeald As for Zuinglius whom you name among heretikes, would alwaies yeld to the ſcriptures. Epiphanius in the firſt place Hær. 61 ſpeaketh of the common receiued doctrin of the church, whereunto our interpretations of the ſcriptures ought to be agreable, and not following allegories, or other ſtrang ſenſes. Whereby he declareth that the traditions of which he ſpeaketh, are the ſenſe of the ſcriptures, though they be not the very wordes, as that which he ſayth, to be the Apoſtles tradition: that it is a ſinne, to marry after virginitie decreed, according to this tradition, he ſayth, that text 1. Cor. 7. is to be interpreted, if a virgine Mary ſhe ſinneth not, and therefore to be ſpoken of ſuch virgins, as had not decreed or vowed virginitie. And the tradition he proueth immediatly out of the ſcripture. 1. Tim. 5. 22. of widowes that breake their firſt fayth. In the latter place, Hær. 55. he ioyneth tradition vnto the ſcirpture, both which together, are a good confirmation of truth, that no man be deceiued with newe fables. But that tradition, or continuance of doctrine, which hath no foundation in the ſcriptures is ſufficient to build vpon, he ſayth not.

Rhem. 19 S. Irenæus (li. 3. c. 4.) hath one notable chapter, that in al queſtions we muſt haue recourſe to the traditions of the Apoſtles: teaching vs with al, that the way to trie an Apoſtolical tradition and to bring it to the fountaine, is by the Apoſtolike ſucceſſion of Biſhops, but ſpecially of the Apoſtolike See of Rome: declaring in the ſame place that there be many barbarous people ſimple for learning, but for conſtancie in their fayth moſt wiſe, which neuer had Scriptures, but learned onely by tradition. Tertullian (li. de corona militis nu. 3.) reckeneth vp a great number of Chriſtian obſeruations or cuſtomes (as S. Cyprian in many places doth in maner the ſame) whereof in fine he concludeth, Of ſuch and ſuch if thou require the rule of Scriptures, thou ſhalt finde none. Tradition ſhal be alleaged the author, cuſtome the confirmer, and faith the obſeruer. Origen alſo of this matter writeth in plaine termes, that there be many things done in the Church (which he there nameth) whereof there is no eaſier reaſon to be giuen then tradition from Chriſt and the Apoſtles. ho. 5. in Numer. S. Dionyſius Areopagita referreth the praying and oblation for the dead in the Liturgie or Maſſe, to an Apoſtolicall tradition in fine Ec. Hierach c. 7. parte 3. So doth Tertullian De coron militis. S. Auguſtine De cura pro mortuis c. 1. S. Chryſoſtom ho. 3. in ep. ad Philip. in Moral. S. Damaſcene Ser. de defunctis in initio.

S. Irenæus. Tertullian. S. Cyprian. Origen.

We might adde to al this, that the Scriptures them ſelues, euen al the lookes and partes of the holy Bible, be giuen vs by tradition: els we ſhould not nor could not take them (as they be in deede) for the infallible worde of God, no more then the workes of S. Ignatius, S. Clemens, S. Dionys, and the like. The true ſenſe alſo of the Scriptures (which Catholike haue and heretikes haue not) remaineth ſtill in the Church by tradition. The Creede is an Apoſtolike tradition. Ruffin. in expo. Symb. in principio. Hiero. ep. 61. c. 9. Ambroſ. Ser. 38. Aug. de Symb. ad Catechum. li. 3. c. 1. And what Scriptures haue they to proue that we muſt accept nothing not expreſly written in Scriptures? We haue to the contrary, plaine Scriptures, al the fathers, moſt euident reaſons, that we muſt either beleeue traditions or nothing at al. And they muſt be aſked whether, if they were aſſured that ſuch and ſuch thinges (which be not expreſſed in Scriptures) were taught and deliuered by word of mouth from the Apoſtles, they would beleeue them or not? If they ſay no, then they be impious that wil not truſt the Apoſtles preaching: if they ſay they would, if they were aſſured that the Apoſtles taught it: then to proue vnto them this point, we bring them ſuch as liued in the Apoſtles daies, and the teſtimonies of ſo many fathers before named receiue to thoſe daies, and the whole Churches practiſe and aſſeuration deſcending downe from man to man to our time, which is a ſufficient proofe (at leaſt for a matter of fact) in al reaſonable mens iudgement, ſpecially when it is knowen that S. Ignatius the Apoſtles equal in time, wrote a booke of the Apoſtles traditions, as Euſebius witneſſeth li. 3. Ec. hiſt. c. 30. And Tertullians booke of preſcription againſt Heretikes, is to no other effect but to proue that the Church hath this vantage aboue Heretikes, that ſhe can proue her truth by plaine Apoſtolike tradition, as none of them can euer do.

The Scriptures giuen vs by tradition, and the ſenſe thereof. The Creede an Apoſtolical tradition. An inuincible argument for the credite of Traditions.

Fulke. 19 S. Irenæus, doth firſt confute the heretikes out of the holy ſcriptures, ſaying the Apoſtles firſt preached the Goſpell and afterward by the will of God deliuered it in writing, to be the foundation and piller of our fayth lib 3. c. 1. which doctrine the Church from the Apoſtles had preſerued vnto his time. But when the heretikes (ſayth he) are reproued out of the ſcriptures, they fall to accuſing the ſcriptures them ſelues, as though all is not well in them, and that they be not of ſufficient authoritie, and that the truth can not be founde out of them, by them that know not the tradition. For that was not deliuered by writing, but by worde of mouth, for which cauſe Paul ſaid we ſpeake wiſdome among them that are perfect &c. lib. 3. c. 2. Againſt theſe heretikes therefore, that alledged tradition of the Apoſtles beſide the ſcriptures, to confirme there blaſphemous hereſies, as the papiſtes doe, Irenæus ſheweth, that we can not learne the Apoſtolike tradition, any where but in the Apoſtolike Churches, and namely in the Church of Rome, as the moſt notable, by reaſon of the dominion of that Citie, where the doctrine of the Apoſtles, had bene continued by ſucceſſion of Biſhops, vnto his time. All which Apoſtolike churches, did teach no tradition of the Apoſtles, but that which was conteyned in the holy ſcriptures. And it is moſt clere, in that he ſaith of Polycarpus. This man taught alwaies, thoſe thinges which he had learned of the Apoſtles, and which he deliuered to the Church, and which are onely true. If theſe traditions were onely true, then they were conteined in the ſcriptures, which no true chriſtian will denie, to be true. That he ſayth of barbarous people, which learned the truth onely by tradition, without the ſcripture, he meaneth of ſuch as learned of their paſtors (as many vnlearned men do at this time) who learned of the ſcriptures, not that there was any ſuch ſince Chriſtes time, which neuer had the ſcriptures, either of the old or new Teſtament, and ſo long continued.

Tertullian in deede reckneth vp a number of cuſtomes grounded vpon tradition without the ſcriptures: but they were rites and ceremonies, whereof many are not obſerued by the Papiſts them ſelues. As the temper of milke and hony, giuen to them that were newly baptized: to abſteine from waſhing a whole weeke after. Oblations for the birth day yerely, not to faſt, nor kneele in praier or worſhipping of God on the Lords day: nor betweene Eaſter and Whitſontyde with a great deale more croſſing the forheade, then the Papiſts them ſelues vſe, at euery going out, at euery ſteppe, at euery comming in, at putting on of apparell, at putting on of ſhooes, at waſhing, at tables, at lyghtes, at beddes, at ſeates &c. If all theſe were traditions of the Apoſtles, yet are they not neceſſary: if theſe be not Apoſtolike traditions, what warrant haue we for the other?

But concerning matters neceſſary to be beleeued and obſerued, Tertullian elſe where doeth teſtifie, that the ſcripture conteyneth all ſuch matters. Take away from Heretikes (ſayth he) thoſe thinges which they holde with Ethnikes, that they may flee there queſtions vpon the ſcriptures onely, and they are not able to ſtande. De reſurrect.carn. Againe, We needs no curioſitie after Chriſt Ieſus nor inquiſition after the Goſpell, when we beleue it, we deſire to beleeue nothing els. For this is the firſt thing that we beleue, that there is nothing more, that we ought to beleeue. The thinges whereof Origen ſpeaketh are alſo rites and ceremonies, and yet for the cheefe ſubſtance of them conteyned in the Scriptures, or els haue there reaſon out of them. As for example, the bowing the knees in prayers, hath many teſtimonies in the Scripture, Luke. 22. 41. Act. 9. 40. & 21. 15. Ephe. 3. 14.

The reaſon of praying toward the Eaſt, Baſil taketh out of the Scriptures, which recordeth, that paradiſe was planted in the Eaſt, ſo praying towarde the Eaſt, ſignifieth, that we haue reſpect to returne to our olde countrie. De ſp. S.c. 27. The interrogations and anſwcres vſed in baptiſme, are grounded vpon the doctrine of baptiſme, which is plentifully ſet forth in the Scriptures. Wherefore the ſaying of Origen, maketh nothing for your vnwritten traditions, which haue no ground in the ſcriptures, many of them being cleane contrary to the ſcriptures. But now at length, you are come to an error receyued of ancient time. Whereby many good men while they perceiued not the myſterie of iniquity ſecretely working, were deceiued, the error I meane of praying for the dead, which being firſt begonne of the Montaniſts, (for any thing that we can learne in antiquitie,) and hauing a faire ſhewe of charitie, was after admitted into open practiſe of the Church: and then becauſe it could not be iuſtified by the ſcripture, was defended by tradition. That the Montaniſtes were firſt auctors of it, I ſhew by this reaſon, becauſe Tertullian who was a Montaniſt, is the firſt of all ancient and Authenticall writers, that make mention of it, and that onely in ſuch bookes, as he did wright after he fell into that hereſie. As for oblations for the dead made yerely in the day of mens death, were but thankeſgiuing, as thoſe which were for the daies of mens birth. But yet let vs examine your teſtimonies in order.

Firſt Dionyſe which was not the Areopagite, but of later time, by likelyhood the Biſhop of Alexandra, which ſucceded Origen,, this father you ſay, referreth praier and oblation for the dead in the liturgie or maſſe, to an Apoſtolike tradition in ſin.eccle. Hierarch, cap. 7. part. 3. But that is falſe, for he ſpeaketh not of any prayer or oblation for the dead in the liturgye, neither doth he referre that prayer (for oblation he hath none) whereof he ſpeaketh, to apoſtolike tradition. But becauſe prayer for the dead, was not long before brought in, neyther was it receiued of all men he ſaith. It is neceſſarie for vs to declare, that tradition which we haue receyued of our diuine Maſters, concerning that praier which the Biſhop maketh, for him that is dead. The ſomme of that praier he expreſſed before He prayeth to God, that he will remit vnto him, that is departed all thinges which by humane frailtie and weakenes, he hath tranſgreſſed, and to place him in light, and in the region of the liuing, in the boſome of Abraham, Iſaac and Iacob, in that place which is farre from ſorow, payne, and mourning. Afterward he expoundeth this prayer, not to be a petition of any thing, which is not al ready graunted, but an interpretation and declaration of that which God hath al ready performed, vnto the perſon that is to be buried. For this prayer was not ſayd at the liturgie or celebration of the Lordes ſupper, but at the buryall of the dead. Wherein alſo they vſed an other ceremonie, which was, that the Biſhop and all that were preſent, did ſalute him that was dead, which you may likewiſe referre to Apoſtolike tradition, as diuerſe other ceremonies, which he reporteth to have bene vſed, and yet perhaps were neuer vſed in the Church of Rome, certeine it is, that of long time they haue bene out of vſe. Of Tertullianes oblations, I haue ſpoken before: they were kept yercly, they were kept alſo for the birth of men, but that they were prayers, or vſed at the liturgye, he ſpeaketh no worde. Yet els where he ſpeaketh of praier for the dead, which I will take to haue proceeded from the ſpirit of Montanus, vntil an ancienter head can be brought forth to auouch it. S. Auguſtin De cur. c. 1. ſaith We read in the bookes of Machabes, that ſacrifice was offred for the dead, but although it were no where redde in the olde Scriptures. Yet the auctwritie of the whole Church is not ſmall, which in this part is notable, where in the praiers of the Prieſt, which are offred vnto the Lord God at his aultar, the commendation of the dead, hath his place. Chryſoſtom in 3. ph. more expreſſely ſaith. It was not in vaine decreed by the Apoſtles, that in the celebration of the reuerend Myſteries, a memory ſhould be made of them that are departed &c. Damaſcene of much later time, no meruaile if he follow the ſame error. But ſeeing we proue out of the ſcriptures them ſelues, and euen by teſtimony of the ſame ancient fathers, that the ſcriptures do teach all thinges neceſſary to be beleeued and practiſed, we are not to admit any teſtimonies of men, contrary to the ſcriptures, and contrary to that they them ſelues in other places haue affirmed, agreabl yto the ſcriptures. But further for the credit of tradition, you ſay, you might adde that the ſcriptures them ſelues, be giuen vs by tradition: els we ſhould not, nor could not take them for the infallible worde of God, no more then the workes of S. Ignatius S. Clement &c. Here to I anſwere, the bookes are giuen vs by tradition, but the matter written in theſe bookes, doth iuſtifie the tradition to be true, and the ſpirit alſo of God, which is in the elect. Therefore they take not there credit, and auctoritie, of tradition onely. And we ought to take them as the infallibly word of God, though no tradition did comend them. Yea many thouſandes, that neuer examined by what tradition the bookes were preſerued vnto this time, haue receiued them for the infallible word of God, being taught by the word conteined in them, and the ſpirit of God, bearing witnes to the ſame. Moreouer you ſay the true ſenſe of the ſcriptures (which the Catholikes haue, and Heretikes haue not) remaineth in the Church by tradition. I anſwer, if that ſenſe of the ſcripture, be not proued out of the ſcriptures them ſelues (which in places eaſy, do expound what ſoeuer neceſſary to be knowen is vttered in hard places) it is not the ſenſe of the the ſcriptures, neither ought the Catholike Church, vpon any tradition, to receiue ſuch a ſenſe, as can not be proued out of the ſcriptures. Aug. de Doctrin Chriſt. li. 2. cap. 6. Clemens diſt. 37. cap. Relatum.

Againe you ſay, the Creede is an Apoſtolike tradition, we confeſſe, becauſe the doctrine thereof is grounded vpon the holy ſcriptures. Then you demaund what ſcripture we haue to proue that we muſt accept nothing not expreſly written in ſcripture. Firſt heare is foolish ſophiſtry in this word, expreſly. For we do not holde, that we

muſt accept nothing,but that which is expreſſed in ſuch forme of wordes in the Scriptures, but whatſoeuer is neither expreſſed in playne termes,neither can be neceſſarily concluded out of the Scriptures, we ought not to accept it. And this we prooue by many playne teſtimonies of Scripture,and arguments concluding neceſſarily vpon them. A fewe ſhall ſerue for example, ſeeyng we doe not handle common places, but anſwer to vayne cauillations. Deut.4.2. Deut.12.32. Deut.28.58. Eſa.8.20.Ioan.10.31.2.Tim.3.15.16.17. And where you ſay you haue to the contrary playne Scriptures,it is falſe, for you haue none out of which you can in any lawfull forme of argument,conclude your aſſertion. What your brag is of all the fathers, I haue ſhewed before, as alſo of your euident reaſon,that we muſt beleeue tradition or nothing at all. For our controuerſie is not, whether we muſt beleeue any tradition,but whether we muſt beleeue any tradition that is not conteyned in the Scripture,and by the Scripture prooued to be true. But yet we muſt be asked further: If wee were aſſured that ſuch and ſuch things (which be not expreſſed) in Scriptures, were taught and deliuered by word of mouth from the Apoſtles, whether we would beleeue them or no? I anſwer,if theſe things you ſpeake of, be compted as neceſſary to ſaluation,you might as well aske vs, if the skie ſhall fall,whether we ſhall haue great ſtore of larkes or no.For when we are aſſured that the Apoſtles haue taught all things neceſſary to ſaluation in the Scriptures, how ſhould we be aſſured that they haue omitted any thing,which they taught onely by word of mouth? But if we might be aſſured that they haue taught contrary by word of mouth,to that they haue left in writing, namely, of the ſufficiencie of the ſcripture,to make vs wiſe vnto ſaluation, without impietie, we are already taught in the Scripture,not only not to beleue ſuch preaching,but alſo to hold them and ẏ their doctrine accurſed. But that they haue taught ſuch things you ſay, we may be aſſured.Firſt, by ſuch as liued in the Apoſtles dayes. For my part,I would beleeue none that liued in their dayes,contrary to their owne writings. Secondly, the teſtimonie of ſo many fathers neere their dayes. If the firſt be not ſufficient, much leſſe they that ſucceeded. Thirdly,the whole Churches practiſe and aſſeuration deſcending downe from man to man,to our time, and this for a matter of fact in all reaſonable mans iudgement, you thinke to be a ſufficient proofe. But I thinke it is not reaſon to beleeue any man or all men, againſt the Apoſtles,who haue teſtified the contrary in their writings, ſeeyng their writings are the worde of God. Notwithſtanding, if we ſhould beleeue other men againſt them, in a matter of fact, whereby they ſhould be conuinced to haue taught by word of mouth, contrary to any thing, which they haue taught in their writing,yet they themſelues haue taught vs in their writing,to reiect whatſoeuer they or an angel of heauen might bring to the contrary. But now all your three allegations are falſe, for neither doe you bring any mans teſtimonie that liued in the Apoſtles dayes,nor of them that liued neere their time,auouching any tradition neceſſary to ſaluation,omitted by them,neyther the whole practiſe of the Church from their tyme vnto vs. But you ſay,it is knowen that Ignatius the Apoſtles equall in tyme,wrote a booke of the Apoſtles traditions,as Euſebius witneſſeth,*lib.3.Eccleſiaſt.cap.*30. If it be ſo well knowen as you ſay,that Ignatius wrote ſuch a booke of Apoſtolike traditions,how prooue you,that he wrote of ſuch Apoſtolike traditions as were vttered by word of mouth,and not conteyned in the ſcriptures? And if that were prooued, where is the booke that we might ſee what they were? But in trueth Ignatius did write no ſuch booke,but contrarywiſe did teſtifie that the tradition or doctrine of the Apoſtles was expreſſed in writing. And that is it which Euſebius ſayeth: He exhorted the Church to hold faſt the tradition of the Apoſtles, τὰ ἐκ παραδόσεως καὶ ἐγγράφως ὑπ᾽ ἀποστόλων, διαπεραιτέρω ἐπιμονὴν ἐγνω. Which he teſtifying,that for certaintie it was already conteyned in writing, thought neceſſary to be eſtabliſhed or diligently obſerued.

Tertullians booke of preſcription prooueth that all hereſies are later then the trueth, and that no hereſie can deduce their errours from the Apoſtles,by continuall ſucceſſion as the Church could doe.Of Apoſtolike tradition not taught in the Scriptures,he ſpeaketh not: but of the doctrine of the Apoſtles firſt by them deliuered, and ſo preſerued in the Church. And as he requireth heretikes, to ſhew their offspring from the Apoſtles,you are neuer able to prooue any point of popery. Contrarywiſe,whatſoeuer we teach,ſeeyng we prooue it out of the Scriptures,there is no queſtion to be made,but that it was the tradition of the Apoſtles.

CHAP. III.

He deſireth their prayers, 4 and inculcateth his precepts and traditions, namely of working quietly for their owne liuing, commanding to excommunicate the diſobedient.

Eph.6,18. Col.4,3. FOr the reſt,brethren,pray for vs,that the word of God may haue courſe and be glorified,as alſo with you:

2 And that we may be deliuered from importunate and naughtie men. for al men haue not faith.

3 But our Lord is faithful, who wil confirme and keepe you from euil.

4 And we haue confidence of you in our Lord, that the things which we command, both you doe,and wil doe.

5 And our Lord direct your hartes in the charitie of God,and patience of Chriſt.

*FVrthermore, brethren, * pray ye for vs, that the word of the Lord may haue free paſſage, and be glorified,euen as with you:* Eph.6.19. coloſ.4.3.

2 And that we may be deliuered from diſordered and euill men: For all men haue not fayth.

3 But the Lord is faithfull, which ſhall ſtabliſh you, and keepe you from euil.

4 And we haue confidence in the Lord to youward, that ye both doe,and wil doe the things which we commaund you.

5 And the Lord guide your hearts to the loue of God, and to the pacient waityng for Chriſt.

6 And we denounce vnto you, brethren, in the name of our Lord IESVS Chriſt, that you withdrawe your ſelues from euery brother walking inordinately, and not according to the [c] tradition which they haue receiued of vs.

c Greeke.

7 For your ſelues know how you ought to imitate vs: for we haue not bene vnquiet among you:

8 *Neither haue we eaten bread of any man gratis, but in labour and in toyle night and day working, leſt we ſhould burden any of you.

Act.20. 1.Cor.4. 1.Theſ.2.

9 *Not as though we had not authoritie: but that we might giue our ſelues a paterne vnto you for to imitate vs.

1.Cor.9,6.

10 For alſo when we were with you, this we denounced to you, that if any will not worke, ‖ neither let him eate.

11 For we haue heard of certain among you that walke vnquietly, working nothing, but curiouſly medling.

12 And to them that be ſuch we denoũce & beſeech them in our Lord IESVS Chriſt, that working with ſilence, they eate their owne bread.

13 But you brethren * faint not wel-doing.

Gal.6,9.

14 And if any ‖ obey not our word, ‖ note him by an epiſtle:

15 And doe not company with him, that he may be confounded: and do not eſteeme him as an enemie, but admoniſh him as a brother.

16 And the Lord of peace himſelfe giue you euerlaſting peace in euery place. Our Lord be with you al.

17 The ſalutation, with mine own hand, Paules: which is a ſigne in euery epiſtle. ſo I write.

18 The grace of our Lord IESVS Chriſt be with you al. Amen.

6 We commaund you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, that ye withdraw your ſelues from euery brother that walketh inordinately, and not after the inſtitution which he receiued of vs.

*7 For ye your ſelues know * how yee ought to follow vs: * For we behaued not our ſelues inordinately among you,* 1.Cor.11.1. 1.Theſ.4.11.

*8 * Neither tooke we bread of any man for nought: but wrought with labour and ſweate night and day, becauſe we would not be chargeable to any of you.* Acts 20. 34. 1.Theſ.2.9.

9 Not becauſe we haue not authoritie, but to make our ſelues an enſample vnto you to follow vs.

10 For when we were with you, this we warned you of, that if any would not worke, the ſame ſhould not eate.

11 For we heare that there are ſome which walke among you inordinately, working not at al, but be buſibodies.

12 Them that are ſuch, we commaund, and exhort by our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, that they working in quietneſſe, eate their owne bread.

*13 And ye, * brethren, bee not wearie in well doing.* Galat.6.9.

*14 If any man obey not our doctrine, ſignifie him by an Epiſtle, * and haue no companie with him, that he may be aſhamed.* Matt.18.17. 2.cor.5.9.

15 Yet count him not as an enimie, but warne him as a brother.

16 Now the very Lord of peace, giue you peace alwayes, by all meanes. The Lord be with you all.

17 The ſalutation of mee Paul, with mine owne hand, which is the token in euery Epiſtle. So I write.

18 The grace of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt bee with you all, Amen.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem.2. 10 Neither let them eate.) It is not a general precept or rule, that euery man ſhould liue by his handworke, as the Anabaptiſts argue falſely againſt Gentlemen, and the Caluiniſts apply it peruerſly againſt the vocall life of the Clergie, ſpecially *cially of Monkes and other Religious men. But it is a naturall admonition onely, giuen to ſuch as had not wherewith to liue of their owne, or any right or good cauſe why to challenge their finding of others, & to ſuch as vnder the colour of Chriſtian liberty did paſſe their time idely, curiouſly, vnprofitably and ſcandalouſly, refuſing to doe ſuch workes as were agreeable to their former calling and bringing vp. Such as theſe, were not tolerable, ſpecially then and then, when the Apoſtle and others (that might lawfully haue liued of the altar and their preaching) yet to diſburden their hearers, and for the better aduancement of the Goſpel, wrought for their liuing: *proteſting neuertheleſs continually, that they might haue done otherwiſe, as well as S. Peter and the reſt did, who wrought not, but were found otherwiſe iuſtly and lawfully, as all ſortes of the Clergie preaching or ſeruing the Church and the altar, be and ought to be, * by the law of God and nature. Whoſe ſpirituall labours farre paſſe all bodily trauailes, where the dueties and functions of that vocation be done accordingly: as S. Auguſtine affirmeth of his owne extraordinarie paines incident to the Eccleſiaſticall affaires and regiment: in ſtead of which, if the vſe of the Church and his infirmitie would haue permitted it, he wiſheth he might haue laboured with his handes ſome houres of the day. as ſome of the Clergie did euer voluntarily occupy themſelues in teaching, writing, grauing, painting, ſowing, embrodering, or ſuch like ſeemely and innocent labours.* See S. Hierom epiſt. 114. ſeu præfat. in Iob. and in vit. Hilario.

*See S. Cypr. ep. 66.

The ſpirituall trauailes of the Clergie.

Religious men working with their handes.

And Monkes for the moſt part in the primitiue Church (few of them beyng Prieſtes, and many taken from ſeruile worke and handicrafties, yea often times profeſſed of bondmen, made free by their maiſters to enter into religion) were appoynted by their Superiours to worke certayne houres of the day, to ſupply the lackes of their Monaſteries: as yet the Religious doe (women ſpecially) in many places, which ſtandeth well with their profeſſion. And S. Auguſtine writeth a whole booke (de opere Monachorum tom. 3.) againſt the errour of certaine diſordred Monkes that abuſed theſe wordes, Nolite eſſe ſolliciti, Be not carefull, &c. and Reſpicite volatilia cæli, behold the foules of the aire, &c.) to proue that they ſhould not labour at all, but pray onely and commit their finding to God: not onely ſo excuſing their idleneſſe, but preferring themſelues into holineſſe aboue other there fellowes that did worke, and erroneouſly expounding the ſayd Scriptures for their defence: as they did other Scriptures, to proue they ſhou'd not be ſhauen after the maner of Monkes. Which letting their heads to grow, he much blameth alſo in them. See li. 2. Retract. c. 21. & de op. Monach. c. 31. and S. Hierome ep. 48. c. 3. of Nonnes cutting their heare.

Monkes were ſhauen in the primitiue Church, and Nonnes clipped of their heare.

Where by the way you ſee that the Religious were ſhauen euen in S. Auguſtines time, who reprocheth them for their heare, calling them Crinitos, Hearelings, as the Heretikes now contrarywiſe deride them by the word Raſos, Shauelings. *So that there is a great difference betweene the auncient Fathers and the new Proteſtants. And as for hand labours, as S. Auguſtine in the booke alleaged, would not haue Religious folke to refuſe them, where neceſſitie, bodily ſtrength, and the order of the Church or Monaſteries permit or require them: ſo he expreſſly writeth, that all cannot nor are not bound to to worke, and that whoſoeuer preacheth or miniſtreth the Sacraments to the people or ſerueth the altar (as all Religious men commonly now doe) may chalenge their liuing of them whom they ſerue, and are not bound to worke, * no nor ſuch neither as haue been brought vp before in ſtate of Gentlemen, and haue giuen ouer their landes or goods, and made themſelues poore for Chriſtes ſake. Which is to be noted, becauſe the Heretikes affirme the ſayd Scripture and S. Auguſtine to condemne all ſuch for idle perſons.*

S. Auguſtines opinion concerning Religious mens working or not working. Lib. de op. Monach. c. 21.

Fulke. 2. It is a generall precept, that no man ſhould liue idely, though all men cannot, or need not worke with their handes. The clergie ought alſo to deſerue their liuing by their painefull labour, though it is not neceſſary nor expedient, that they ſhould alwayes worke with their handes. Neither doeth Caluine require any ſuch thing of them that labour in ſtudie and teaching. But againſt the popiſh idle Monkes, Friers, and the reſt of that rable, as alſo againſt idle prieſtes, this text is ſtrong, that if they will not labour, they ſhould not be maintained by the ſweate of other mens browes. Neither is this a naturall admonition onely, but a diuine precept, that euery man ſhould eate his owne bread: for otherwiſe he is a theefe that deuoureth other mens bread. You ſay that ſome of the Clergie did euer voluntarily occupy themſelues in teaching, writing, grauing, painting, planting, ſowing, imbrodering, or ſuch like ſeemely and innocent labours. And for this you quote Hierom præfat. in Iob, and in vit. Hilarionis. In the former place there is no worde of any ſuch matter. But Hierome defending his diligence in correcting the olde tranſlations of the Scripture againſt the enuious, ſayth: They that will, let them haue the olde bookes written either in purple parchments, with gold and ſiluer, burthens rather then bookes, drawen out in letters of an inch long, (as they ſay) ſo they wil ſuffer me & mine, to haue our poore papers & bookes not ſo beautifull as well corrected. In the other place he ſayth, that Hilarion digged the ground with a matteocke, that the labour of his worke, might double the labour of his faſting, and alſo weauing baskets of ruſh-ruſhes, he followed the diſcipline of the Monkes of Aegypte, and the ſentence of the Apoſtle. He that doth not worke, let him not eate. So that of ſuch exerciſes as you ſpeake of, here is no worde. Which I ſay not as though I thought any of thē vnlawful for a miniſter of the Church to exerciſe, either for his recreation, or when he hath leyſure from the neceſſary affaires of his calling: But becauſe you would vnder colour of theſe idle occupations, and ſome of them perniciouſly abuſed, (as in grauing, paynting, imbrodering of things to ſerue idolatrie) excuſe the idleneſſe of many of your Clergie, who when they doe nothing that pertaineth to the office of eccleſiaſticall miniſters, practiſe ſuch matters, to driue away the time onely, as other doe waſte their time in tables, cardes, bowles, or ſuch like paſtimes. But let vs ſee how you excuſe the idleneſſe of your Monkes. The Monkes of the primitiue Church you ſay which laboured: were few Prieſtes. And as few of yours doe exerciſe the office of true miniſters of the true Church, but are idle prieſtes, to ſay maſſe and ſing ſeruice, and fill their panches. The olde Monkes you ſay were taken from ſeruile workes and handy crafties, and often times profeſſed of bondmen. Admit ſome were ſo, your votaries for the moſt part are ſuch, as being apt for no good ſeruice in the Church, or common wealth, are thruſt in by their friends, or els driuen for pouertie, to ſeeke an idle and wealthy life in thoſe dennes which you call cloiſters. Thoſe old Monkes you ſay did worke, as ſome of your Nonnes doe, certaine houres. And what letteth your Monkes to worke, except perhaps their full bellies? S. Auguſtine in deed oppoſe himſelfe againſt the myſterie of iniquitie, working in the idle Monkes of his dayes, and did write ſharpely againſt them: euen ſuch as caried about with them, counterfeict reliques of Martyrs, to keepe themſelues from labour. De oper. Monach. cap. 28. But you haue found a high point in S. Auguſtine, that the religious were ſhauen in his time, becauſe thoſe diſorderly Monkes were called Criniti, as ſhauen Monkes are called ſhauelings. But Crinitus doth not ſignifie him that heare on his head, but him that hath long heare, as you might haue learned out of Virgil calling the Harper, Crinitus Iopas. And S. Auguſtine hath neuer a word of ſhauing, but of polling or clipping the heare ſhort, which he vſeth not as proper to Monkes, but as common to all Chriſtians, and required by the apoſtle, 1. Cor. 11. which thoſe Monkes to elude, did ſay ridiculouſly, that they which had gelded theſelues for the kingdome of heauen, were no men, cap. 32. And that there was no neceſſitie or religion in polling the heare very ſhort: S. Hierome teſtifieth of Hilarion, Capillum ſenex in anno die Paſcæ totondit, he polled his head once a yeere on Eaſter day. Yea it is to be prooued, that ſhauing of heads was auoyded as Heatheniſh ſuperſtition, as S. Hierome ſayth in Ezech. lib. 13. cap. 44. who out of that ſaying of Ezechiel concerning the prieſts. They ſhall neither ſhaue their head, nor ſuffer their heare to grow long, but ſhall poll their heads, ſayth, It is clearely ſhewed, that we ought not to haue ſhauen heads as the prieſts and worſhippers of Iſis and Serapis, nor ſuffer our heare to grow long downe, which is the propertie of riotous perſons, &c.

Slander.

You ſee then how well you defend your ſhauelings by the auncient fathers againſt the new Proteſtants. As for Nonnes cutting their heare. S. Hierome ſpeaketh onely of the virgins and widowes in the monaſteries of AEgypt and Syria, who vſed ſo to doe not for any religion, but becauſe they neither entred into any bathes, nor vſed any oyle on their heads, he ſayth they did it, To auoyd litle beaſts which breed betweene the ſkinne and the heare, and other filthineſſe. They were neither ſo ſuperſtitious, nor yet ſo nice and delicate, as popiſh Nonnes. But that all Monkes are not bound to worke and labour, you proue by S. Auguſtine, that ſuch as preach or miniſter the Sacraments, or ſerue the altar, may chalenge their liuing of them whom they ſerue: and all religious men commonly doe ſo now, you ſay. What ſay you, be all your religious men preachers? no, but they ſerue the altar (you will ſay) becauſe they ſay maſſe. A ſore labour, for which they ſhould bee ſpared: but S. Auguſtine meaneth of them that laboured in the miniſterie of the Goſpell, eyther preaching or miniſtring the Sacraments, or elſe ſtudying to make themſelues fitte for ſuch ſeruice, and ſuch in deede are not bound to labour with their hands, if they may be otherwiſe mainteyned, without iniury and oppreſſion of the poore. But as for them that can doe none other but idole ſeruice, in ſaying maſſe, it was neuer in his meaning to priuiledge them from labour, for all had their howers of prayers and ſinging of Pſalmes appoynted. As for gentlemen that haue giuen landes and goods, there are not many in your cloyſters, to enioy that priuiledge. And yet euen ſuch ought to exerciſe themſelues in ſtudie or ſome other profitable exerciſe, that their bodies are able to endure, for idleneſſe is not allowed in any man. Therefore in vayne you goe about to excuſe the idleneſſe of your popiſh Monkes and Clergie, of whom many neither ſtudy, nor are apt for ſtudy, neither preach nor are able to preach, neyther ſerue the altar in paynefull and profitable labour, but in idle and idolatrous exerciſes.

Rhem.3. 14 Obey not.) Our Paſtours muſt be obeyed, and not onely ſecular Princes. and ſuch as will not be obedient to their ſpirituall gouernours, the Apoſtle (as S. Auguſtine ſayth) giueth order and commaundements that they be corrected by correption or admonition. By degradation, excommunication, and other lawfull kindes of puniſhments. Contr. Donatiſt. poſt collat. cap. 4. 20. Read alſo this holy fathers anſwer to ſuch as ſayd, Let our Prelates commaund vs onely what we ought to doe, and pray for vs that we may doe it: but let them not correct vs. Where he proueth that Prelates muſt not onely commaund and pray, but puniſh alſo if that be not done which is commaunded. Li. de correp. & grat. c. 3.

Eccleſiaſtical cenſures againſt the diſobedient.

Fulke.3. Our obedience to our Paſtors is ſuch as ought not to hinder our dutie to ciuil magiſtrates, nor our obedience to ciuil magiſtrates, our dutie toward our ſpirituall paſtors: and each office hath their proper kind of lawfull correction or puniſhment.

Rhem.4. 14 Note him.) Diſobedient perſons to be excommunicated, and the excommunicated to be ſeparated from the company of other Chriſtians, and the faythfull not to keepe any company or haue converſation with excommunicated perſons, neither to be partaker with them in the faults for which they are excommunicated, nor in any other acte of religion or office of life, except caſes of mere neceſſitie and other preſcribed and permitted by the law: al this is here inſinuated, and that all the Churches cenſures be grounded in Scriptures and the examples of the Apoſtles.

Not to communicate with excommunicate perſons but in certaine caſes.

Fulke.4. This prooueth not that all popiſh cenſures be grounded in the Scriptures and examples of the Apoſtles, but onely ſuch as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of, and the Scripture elſe where alloweth. But that a prieſt vnder colour of eccleſiaſticall cenſure ſhould depriue a prince of his kingdome, and abſolue his ſubiects from the othe of obedience giuen vnto him: it hath no warrant in the word of God, but it is a playne note of Anuchriſtian tyrannie. Agayne, where you haue caſes preſcribed, and appointed by your Canon law, wherein men may partake with them that are excommunicated (other then caſes of mere neceſſitie and ſeuerall dutie) You play faſt and looſe at your pleaſure. As alſo pope Gregory in his laſt bull of diſpenſation, for Papiſts to counterfeict obedience to the Queenes maieſtie, vntil he could find ſome means to diſpatch her of the poſſeſſion of her kingdome, declareth plainly that no conſcience of eccleſiaſtical cenſure, but reſpect of worldly aduauntage, carieth him hether and thether as occaſion mooueth him.

The popes preſumption.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE FIRST EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO TIMOTHEE.

AFTER the Epiſtles to the Churches, now folow his Epiſtles to particular perſons, as to Timothee, to Titus, who were Biſhops: and to Philemon.

Of Timothee we reade Act. 16. how S. Paul in his viſitation tooke him in his traine at Lyſtra, circumciding him before, becauſe of the Iewes. he was then a Diſciple, that is to ſay, a Chriſtian man. Afterward the Apoſtle gaue him holy Orders, and conſecrated him Biſhop, as he teſtifieth in both theſe Epiſtles vnto him. 1 Tim 4. v. 14. and 2 Tim. 1. v. 6.

He writeth therfore vnto him as to a Biſhop, and him ſelf expreſſeth the ſcope of his firſt Epiſtle, ſaying: These things I write to thee, that thou maieſt know how thou oughteſt to conuerſe in the houſe of God, which is the church. 1. Timoth. 3.

And ſo he inſtructeth him (and in him, al Biſhops) how to gouerne both him ſelf, and others, and touching himſelf, to be an example and a ſpectacle to al ſortes, in al vertue, as touching others, to prohibit al ſuch as goe about to preach otherwiſe then the Catholike Church hath receiued, and to inculcate to the people the Catholike faith: to preach vnto yong and old, men and women: to ſeruants, to the riche, to euery ſort conueniently. With what circumſpection to giue orders, and to what perſons: for whom to pray: whom to admit to the vow of widowhod &c.

This Epiſtle was written, as it ſeemeth, after his firſt empriſonment in Rome, when he was diſmiſſed and ſet at libertie. & thereupon it is, that he might ſay here, I hope to come to thee quickly, to wit vnto Epheſus, where * he had deſired him to remaine. although in his viage to Hieruſalem, before his being at Rome, he ſaid at Miletum to the Clergie of Epheſus, vpon probable feare: And now behold I know, that you ſhal no more ſee my face. 1. Timoth. 3. * 1. Tim. 1. Act. 20. v. 25. 38.

Where it was written, it is vncertaine: though it be commonly ſaid, at Laodicia. Which ſeemeth not, becauſe it is like he was neuer there, as may be gathered by the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, writtē at Rome in his laſt trouble, whē he was put to death. Col. 2. v. 1.

12 And I thanke Chriſt Ieſus our Lord, which hath made me ſtrong: for he counted me faithfull, putting me into the miniſterie, 13 Who was before a blaſphemer, and an oppreſſour: But yet I obteined mercy: becauſe I did it ignorantly, in vnbeliefe.

*15 This is a faithfull ſaying, and by all meanes woorthy to be receiued, * that Chriſt Ieſus came into the world to ſaue ſinners, of whom I am chiefe.* Matth.9.13. mark.2.17.

16 Notwithſtanding, for this cauſe was mercie ſhewed vnto me, that in me the firſt, Ieſus Chriſt might ſhew all long ſuffering, to the example of them which ſhould beleeue on him to life euerlaſting.

17 Now vnto the king euerlaſting, incorruptible, inuiſible, vnto God onely wiſe, be honor and glory for euer and euer. Amen.

18 This commandement commit I vnto thee ſonne Timotheus, according to the prophecies which went before vpon thee, that thou in them ſhouldeſt fight a good fight:

19 Hauing faith and good conſcience, which ſome hauing put away, as concerning faith, haue made ſhipwracke.

*20 Of whom is * Hymeneus and Alexander, whom I haue deliuered vnto Satan, that they may learne not to blaſpheme.* 1.Cor.5.5.

MARGINAL NOTES CHAP. I.

Rhem.1. 5. A good conſcience.) S. Auguſtine ſaith, He that liſt to haue the hope of heauen let him looke that he haue a good conſcience, to haue a good conſcience, let him beleeue and worke wel. for that he beleeueth, he hath of faith: that he worketh, he hath of charitie. Præfat. in Pſa.31.

Fulke. 1. That he hath charity, he hath it of faith. It may be right: ſaid (ſaith S. Auguſtine) that all the commandements of God pertaine to faith onely, if not a dead faith, but that liuing faith which worketh by loue be vnderſtood. De fide & oper. cap. 22. A liuing faith.

Rhem. 2. 19. Which certaine repelling.) Euil life and no good conſcience is often the cauſe that men fall to Hereſie from the faith of the Catholike Church. Againe, this plainely reproueth the heretikes falſe doctrine, ſaying, that no man can fall from the faith that he once truely had.

Fulke. 2. They that haue not a good conſcience with faith, may fall from faith, and make ſhipwracke of it, but it is not a liuely faith, whereby a man is iuſtified, but a dead faith, conſiſting only in knowledge of the principles of religion. But they that are iuſtified by a liuely faith, can neuer finally fall from it, becauſe, whom God iuſtifieth, he alſo glorifieth. Rom.8. A dead faith.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 3. 3. Not to teach otherwiſe.) The proper marke of Heretikes and falſe preachers, is, to teach otherwiſe or contrarie to that which they found taught and beleeued generally in the vnitie of the Catholike Church before their time: al doctrine that Teaching otherwiſe then the doctrine that is odde, ſingular, new, differing from that which was firſt planted by the Apoſtles, and deſcended downe from them to al nations and ages following without contradiction, being affiredly erroneous. The Greeke word which the Apoſtle here vſeth, expreſſeth this point ſo effectually, that in one compound terme he giueth vs to wit, that an Heretike is nothing els but an after-teacher, or teacher-otherwiſe. which euen it ſelf alone is the eaſieſt rule euen for the ſimple to diſcerne a falſe Prophet or preacher by, ſpecially when an hereſie firſt beginneth. Luther found al Nations Chriſtian at reſt and peace in one vniforme faith, and al preachers of one voice and doctrine touching the B. Sacrament and other Articles: ſo that what ſo euer he taught againſt that which he found preached and beleeued, muſt needes be another doctrine, a later doctrine, an after-teaching or teaching-otherwiſe, and therfore conſequently muſt needes be falſe. And by this admonition of S. Paul, al Biſhops are warned to take heede of ſuch, and ſpecially to prouide that no ſuch odde teachers ariſe in their dioceſes.

receiued, is a ſpecial marke of Heretikes.

Luthers teaching otherwiſe.

Fulke. 3. The proper marke of heretikes, is to teach otherwiſe then the trueth, or contrary to it. But if the teacher finde men intangled with pernitious errours, though they be in neuer ſo great peace and agreement among themſelues, they be not in the vnity of the Catholike church. He teacheth otherwiſe, that teacheth otherwiſe then he learneth out of the ſcripture, and not he that teacheth otherwiſe, then men be falſly perſuaded. Therefore, ſeeing Luther taught not otherwiſe then the Prophets and Apoſtles, his doctrine was not odde, ſingular, and new, but catholike, ancient, and true. Therefore finding many nations ſeduced by the errors of Antichriſt, he called them backe to the true faith taught by the Apoſtles, from which the Popiſh church had made a manifeſt reuolt and apoſtaſie. Yet were there before him the perſecuted churches of God in diuers nations that held the ſame true faith and religion that he preached to the Papiſts, aſwel in England, as in France, Italie, Germanie, Bohemia, Morauia, &c. who with all the Churches of the Eaſt and North partes of the world, not agreeing with the Romiſh Church, by this wiſe note, muſt heare nothing taught otherwiſe then they are perſuaded they haue receiued from the Apoſtles. But ſo you may haue any vaine ſhew of reaſon to reteine your fauorites in popery, you care not what become of the trueth, and of the Catholike church of Chriſt.

Heretikes.

Ancient faith.

Rhem. 4. 4. To fables.) He ſpeaketh ſpecially of the Iewes after-doctrines and humane conſtitutions repugnant to the lawes of God, whereof Chriſt giueth warning Mt. 23. and in other places, which are conteined in their Cabala and Talmud: generally of al heretical doctrines, which in deede, how ſo euer the ſimple people be beguiled by them, are nothing but fabulous inuentions, as we may ſee in the Valentinians, Manichees, and others of old: by the brethren of leue, Puritans, Anabaptiſtes, and Caluiniſtes of our time. For which cauſe Theodoret entitleth his booke againſt Heretikes, Hæreticarum fabularum, Of Hereticall fables.

Al heretical doctrine is fables.

Fulke. 4. All popiſh fables, no leſſe then Iewiſh fables, being contrary to the lawes of God, are after-doctrines, and humane conſtitutions, conteined in the Popiſh Cabala, that is, tradition, & in the Popiſh Talmud, that is, the canon law or ſchoole diuinity, but not in the holy ſcripture. But the doctrine of them which is grounded vpon the holy ſcriptures, which are the word of trueth, cannot be condemned of fables. Contrariwiſe, popery that is builded vpon ſuch fables, as neuer more fond were inuented to maintaine heathenish ſuperſtition, aboue all other hereſies may be intituled hereticall fables. For the fables of the Valentinians and Maniches, though they were monſtrous lyes, yet they are exceeded by the Popiſh fables of reliques, of ſaincts liues, of purgatory, of feined miracles. Neither any heretikes or ſchiſmatikes of our time, for fabulous inuentions may be compared vnto them.

Popiſh fables.

Rhem. 5. 4. Queſtions.) Let our louing brethren conſider whether theſe contentious and curious queſtionings and diſputes in religion, which theſe vnhappie hereſies haue ingendred, haue brought forth any increaſe of good life, any deuotion, or edification of faith and religion in our daies, and then ſhal they eaſily iudge of the truth of theſe new opinions, and the end that wil folow of theſe innouations. In truth al the world now ſeeth they edifie to Atheiſme and no otherwiſe.

Curious queſtioning in religion.

Fulke. 5. Not all queſtions, but ſuch as perteine not to the edifying of God, which is by faith, are to be auoyded. Thoſe contentions and queſtions which haue beene neceſſarily mooued to builde vp the ruines of the Church in faith, which Antichriſt had made in hereſie and infidelitie (God be prayſed) haue brought foorth great increaſe of good life and true deuotion in them that haue imbraced the faith. The wickednesſe that aboundeth is rather diſcouered by the light in moſt, then increaſed in any by comming of the light. But this is condemnation (ſaith our ſauiour Chriſt) that men loue darkneſſe rather then light, becauſe their workes are euill. Iohn 3.

Queſtions.

Contentions.

Rhem. 6. 5. The end Charitie.) Here againe it appeareth, that Charitie is the cheefe of al vertues, and the end, conſummation, and perfection of al the law and precepts. and yet the Aduerſaries are ſo ford as to preferre faith before it, yea to exclude it from our iuſtification. Such obſtinacie there is in them that haue once in pride and ſtubburnes forſaken the euident truth. Charitie doubtles which is here commended, is iuſtice it ſelf, and the very formal cauſe of our iuſtification, as the workes proceding therof, be the workes of iuſtice. Charitas inchoata (ſaith S. Auguſtine) inchoata iuſtitia: Charitas prouecta, prouecta iuſtitia: Charitas magna, magna iuſtitia: Charitas perfecta, perfecta iuſtitia eſt. Charitie now beginning, is iuſtice beginning: Charitie growen or increaſed, is iuſtice growen or increaſed: great Charitie, is great iuſtice: perfect Charitie, is perfect iuſtice. Li. de nat. & grat. c. 70.

Charitie the very formal cauſe of our iuſtification.

Fulke. 6. We giue to charitie her due commendation, and yet in iuſtification we muſt preferre faith before charity, becauſe we are iuſtified by faith without the works of charitie, which are the works of the law. And whereas it is ſaid, charity is the end and perfection of the law, we doe acknowledge it to be ſo, but this charitie is in no man before faith, by which God iuſtifieth the vngodly man, neither in any iuſtified man is it ſo perfect, that he may be iuſtified therby through the couenant of the law, therfore the only hope of all godly men (ſaith S. Auguſtine) groning vnder this burthen of corruptible fleſh, and in this infirmity of our life, is that we haue a mediator Ieſus Chriſt the righteous, and he is the propitiation for our ſinnes. Ad Boniface. lib. 3. cap. 5. What obſtinate blindneſſe then is in the proud hypocriticall papiſts, to ſeeke their iuſtification in their workes? But charitie you ſay, is iuſtice it ſelfe, and the formall cauſe of our iuſtification. If you meane that iuſtification, by which we are not made iuſt in the ſight of God, but declared to be iuſt before men, whereof S. Iames ſpeaketh, we would not greatly contend with you. But when you make charitie the formall cauſe of our iuſtification before God, which the ſcripture ſaith to be of the vngodly man, whoſe ſinnes are forgiuen, & therefore without works, what obſtinate blindneſſe poſſeſſeth your proud and ſtubburne hearts, that you will not yeeld to ſo great and cleere light of truth? As Auguſtine ſaith. perfect charitie is perfect iuſtice: ſo he ſaith in the ſame place, that no man hath perfect charity in this life. Whereof it followeth, that no man is iuſtified before God by that charity which he hath in this life, for by vnperfect iuſtice we cannot be perfectly iuſtified, but by faith we are perfectly iuſtified by the iuſtice of Chriſt, which of Gods meere grace is giuen vnto vs. Therefore charity, or the workes proceeding therof, are no cauſe of our iuſtification before God through Ieſus Chriſt. For ſince that time (ſaith S. Auguſtine) good works beginne ſince the time we are iuſtified, we are not iuſtified becauſe they went before. Ep. 120. Honorato.

Iuſtification by faith only.

Charitie is not the forme of iuſtification.

Rhem. 7. 7. Deſirous to be Doctors.) It is the proper vice both of Iudaical and of Heretical falſe teachers, to profeſſe knowledge and great skill in the Law and Scriptures, being in deede in the ſight of the learned moſt ignorant of the word of God, not knowing the very principles of diuinitie, euen to the admiration truely of the learned that reade their bookes or heare them preach. Heretikes great boaſters, but vnlearned.

Fulke. 7. Heretikes are often times learned, but neuer rightly learned in the trueth. But boaſters of learning were neuer any heretikes, more then the papiſts, which neither in the ſcriptures, nor in any other good learning (for the moſt part) are halfe ſo well learned as they would be accounted. Whoſe ignorance may ſometime moue admiration, not only to the learned, but euen to them that haue meane vnderſtanding: but their impudencie in lying, ſlandering, forging, falſifying, wreſting, and vaine-collecting, and falſe concluding, paſſeth all admiration in them that with any indifferent eares and eyes read their books, or heare them preach. Papiſts boaſters of learning.

Rhem. 9. The law not made to the iuſt.) By this place & the like, the Libertines of our daies would diſcharge themſelues (whom they count iuſt) from the obedience of lawes. But the Apoſtles meaning is that the iuſt man doth well, not as compelled by law or for feare of puniſhment due to the tranſgreſſors thereof, but of grace and meere loue toward God and al goodnes, moſt willingly, though there were no law to command him. Libertines alledge ſcripture.

Rhem. 8. 22. Deliuered to Satan.) Hymenaeus and Alexander are here excommunicated for falling from their faith and teaching hereſie: an example vnto Biſhops to vſe their ſpiritual power vpon ſuch. In the primitiue Church, corporal affliction ther with the miniſterie of Satan was ioyned to excommunication. Where we ſee alſo the diuels readines to murder them that are caſt out by excommunication, from the fellowſhip of the faithful, and the ſuper eminent power of Biſhops in that caſe. Whereof S. Hierom (ep. 1. ad Heliod. c. 7.) hath theſe memorable wordes: God forbid (ſaith he) I ſhould ſpeake iniſtrouſly of them, who ſucceeding the Apoſtles in degree, make Chriſtes body with their holy mouth, by whom we are made Chriſtians: who hauing the keies of heauen, do after a ſort iudge before the day of iudgement: who in ſobrietie and chaſtitie haue the keeping of the ſpouſe of Chriſt. And a litle after, They may deliuer me vp to Satan, to the deſtruction of my fleſh, that the ſpirit may be ſaued in the day of our Lord Ieſus. And in the old Law whoſoeuer was diſobedient to the Prieſts, was either caſt out of the campe and ſo ſtoned of the people, or laying downe his necke to the ſword, expiated his offenſe by his bloud: but now the diſobedient is cut of with the ſpiritual ſword, or being caſt out of the Church, is torne by the furious mouth of Diuels. So ſaith he. Which wordes would God euery Chriſtian man would weigh. Excommunication of Heretikes and the effect thereof. The Prieſts high authoritie of Excommunication. The terrible effect the reof Fulke. 8. The apoſtles had extraordinary power to afflict the bodies of men that obſtinately oppoſed themſelues againſt the trueth: but it was not ordinary in all them that had power of excommunication in the primitiue church. But notwithſtanding, iuſt excommunication by them that haue lawfull auctoritie, is greatly to be feared. But when Antichriſt ſendeth out his thunderbolts againſt the profeſſors of Gods truth, it is not to be regarded: and experience of theſe thirtie yeeres in England, hath ſhewed that God bleſſeth where the pope curſeth. That which Hierome ſpeaketh of making Chriſtes body with their holy mouth, is of making the ſacrament of Chriſtes body wherwith we are ſpiritually nouriſhed, as alſo he ſaith, that by them we are made Chriſtians, ſpeaking of the miniſtration of the ſacrament of baptiſme which we receiue by them, but are made Chriſtians properly by the working of Gods ſpirit. The Popes excommunication.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. 2. For kings and.) Euen for heathen Kings and Emprours by whom the Church ſuffereth perſecution: much more for al faithful Princes and powers and people both ſpiritual and temporal, for whom as members of Chriſtes body, and therfore ioining in prairer and oblation with the miniſters of the Church, the Prieſtes more properly and particularly offer the holy Sacrifice. See S. Auguſtine de orig. animæ li.1.c.9.

Fulke 1. While you would moſt abſurdly ground your popiſh ſacrifice of the Maſſe, vpon the publike praiers, here preſcribed by the Apoſtle, you ſhall fall into the ſame pecke of troubles, that S. Auguſtine in the place by you quoted, placeth the Pelagian. That for infants which are not baptized, would haue daily oblations, and the ſacrifices of the holy Prieſts continually offred for them. So you, finding in this text, that Heathen kings muſt be commended in theſe praiers, and minding in any caſe to gaine oblation and ſacrifice, whereof the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not, with theſe praiers, are driuen to ſay, that the Prieſtes more properly and particularly offer the holy Sacrifice for Chriſtians, then for Heathen Princes, as though it were offred alſo for them that are not the members of Chriſt, though not ſo properly, nor particularly. But S. Auguſtine ſayth: Ecce aliud, &c. Behold an other gulfe, from whence he ſhould neuer come forth, except he repent that he hath ſayd. For who would offer the body of Chriſt, except it be for them that are the members of Chriſt? Wherefore you muſt either repent that you ſay, of the oblation or holy ſacrifice offred for them in any ſort, or els you muſt take part with the Pelagian againſt S. Auguſtine, which you are ready ynough to doe, but for manners ſake. Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

S. Epiphanius alſo inſinuateth theſe wordes of the Apoſtle to pertaine to the Liturgie or Maſſe, which he thus writeth to Iohn Biſhop of Hieruſalem. tures, which our Proteſtants do ſo prophanely, popularely, and lightly ſkimme ouer, that they can neither ſee nor endure the truth.

Fulke 2. S. Auguſtine profeſſing how hard a matter it is to diſtinguiſh betweene theſe wordes, which the Apoſtle vſeth, endeuoureth to ſhew this diſtinction in that which all, or almoſt all the Church doth frequent, meaning the forme of the celebration of the Lordes Supper. For of the Popiſh maſſe he ſpeaketh no word. And if the Apoſtle had purpoſed in theſe wordes to deſcribe the Maſſe, he hath omitted the chiefe and almoſt onely eſſentiall part thereof, which is the Sacrifice of the naturall body and bloud of Chriſt. Therefore doubtles the the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of the celebration of the Maſſe. And that you may knowe, S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh of the Communion, and not of the Maſſe, his wordes are plaine, which you mangle becauſe they haue no ſhewe for your Maſſe. We may take precationes, (which you call obſecrations) which we make in the celebration of the Sacraments, before that which is on the Lordes Table begimneth to be bleſſed, Orationes, prayers, when that is bleſſed and ſanctified, and broken to be diſtributed, all which petition the whole Church in a maner concludeth with the Lordes prayer. Then diſcurſing a litle vpon the Greeke worde εὐχὴ, he addeth: If more vſually in the Scriptures, a vowe is called ἀχὴ, except the generall name of prayer, that praier is properly to be vnderſtoode, which we make according to a vowe. And all thoſe things are vowed which are offred to God, ſpecially the oblation of the holy altar, in which Sacrament that our greateſt vowe is ſet forth, wherein we vowe that we will abide in Chriſt, and in the fellowſhip of the body of Chriſt, of which thing it is a Sacrament, that we being many, are one bread, one body. Therefore in the ſanctification and preparation of the diſtribution thereof, I thinke the Apoſtle commanded properly, that prayers ſhould be made, (which ſome vnskilfully interpreted adorations,) for that is according to a vowe, which in the Scriptures is moſt commonly called ἀχὴ. But interpellationes, or (as your bookes haue poſtulationes,) are made when the people is bleſſed. For then the Prelates as Aduocates, doe offer vnto the moſt mercifull power, thoſe whom they haue by impoſition of handes vndertaken, which being ended, and ſo worthy a Sacrament receiued, thankes giuing concludeth all things. This is the very order of our Communion, which was the order of the celebration of the Communion in S. Auguſtines time, where no Sacrifice is offered, but of thankes giuing for the death of Chriſt, and of our ſelues to continue alwayes in the vnitie of Chriſtes bodye. As for S. Hierome, hath not reſpect to the celebration of the Lordes Supper, in that he ſayth, but by that forme of prayer which Chriſt taught his Apoſtles, as by other Scriptures, he confuteth the Pelagians. His wordes are theſe: Sic docuit Apoſtolos, vt quotidie in corporis illius ſacrificio credentes, audeant loqui. So he taught his Apoſtles, that beleeuing the Sacrifice of his body, they ſhould be bold daily to ſpeake, Our Father, &c. But according to your fantaſie and falſe interpretation, the Lordes prayer ſhould neuer be ſayde but at Maſſe, which Chriſt taught his Apoſtles, not vpon preſumption of their owne merites, but truſting in the Sacrifice of his death, to vtter dayly.

Epiphanius ſpeaketh of publike prayers, vſed in the Liturgie, but without any reſpect to this text, for any thing that can be gathered of his wordes.

Chryſoſtome ſheweth expreſly, that he meaneth not of the Liturgie, but of morning and euening prayers. The faithfull (ſayeth he) doe knowe it, how euery daye in the morning and in the euening, prayers are powred forth to the Lorde, how obſecrations are made by the Church, for all the worlde, for Kinges, and all that are in authoritie.

S. Ambroſe alſo ſpeaketh generally of the publike prayers of the Church, not referring them to the Liturgie, or celebration of the Lordes Supper.

Proſper ſayth, that this law of prayer is kept, not onely of the Prieſtes, but of all the faithfull throughout the world, without any relation vnto the Liturgie. And ſo doe we vnderſtand the text, principally of publike prayers, and according to them, of all Chriſtian mens priuate prayers. What cauſe you had therefore to challenge ſuch profound ſenſe of the Scriptures vnto the Popiſh Church, and to charge vs with prophane, populer and light ſkimming them ouer, let all indifferent men iudge, by thoſe your quotations of the holy Fathers. That I ſpeake nothing of your dogges eloquence, where you aſcribe vnto the holye Scripture, a certaine prophane, populer, and light ſkimme, which is gathered of vs, how religiouſly, learnedly, and grauely, let wiſe men iudge, and God him ſelfe reuenge.

Rhem. 3. 4. God will no mans perdition, but the ſaluation of al.

Fulke 3. God will haue men of all ſortes to be ſaued, as well kings as ſubiects, but not euery particular man, according to his ſecrete counſell: for then all ſhould be ſaued, and none damned. The iudgements of God, concerning the damnation and reprobation of the wicked, are often ſecrete, but alwayes iuſt. Your diſtinction of Gods conditionall will, doth not ſatisfie the queſtion, nor auoid the difficultie which you would eſcape, that the damnation of men is not to be imputed to God. For no man hath will to accept the generall medicine that God hath prepared, but thoſe whom God vouchſafeth by his grace, to make willing to accept it. And this is the reſolution of S. Auguſtine, in all thoſe places which you quote, after much debating of the queſtion. That the right ſenſe is, that God will haue ſome of all ſortes ſaued, not all of euery ſort, and eſpecially Ench. c. 103. He will haue all men to be ſaued, not that there is not any man whom he will not haue to be ſaued, which would not worke miracles among them, whom he ſayth that they would haue repented, if he had done them: but that we vnderſtande by all men, all kindes of men, by what difference ſoeuer they are diſtributed, kinges, priuate men, noble, ignoble, high, low, learned, vnlearned.

ter, in this ſenſe that S. Paul taketh the word, and in which it is properly and onely attributed to Chriſt. For, to be thus a Mediator, is, * by nature to be truely both God and man, to be that one eternal Prieſt and Redeemer, which by his ſacrifice and death vpon the Croſſe hath reconciled vs to God, and paied his blond as a full and ſufficient ranſom for al our ſinnes, him ſelf without needs of any redemption, neuer ſubiect to poſſibilitie of ſinning: againe, to be the ſingular Aduocat and Patrone of mankind, that by him ſelf alone and by his owne merites procureth al grace and mercie to mankind in the ſight of his Father, none making any interceſſion for him, nor giuing any grace or force to his praiers, but he to al: none aſking or obtaining either grace in this life, or glorie in the next, but by him. In this ſort then (as S. Auguſtine truely ſaith, Conc. ep. Parm. li. 2. c. 8.) neither Peter nor Paul, no nor our B. Lady, nor any creature whatſoeuer, can be our Mediator. The aduerſaries thinke to baſely of Chriſtes mediation, if they imagine this to be his onely prerogatiue, to pray for vs, or that we make the Saincts our Mediators in that ſort as Chriſt is, when we deſire them to pray for vs. which is ſo far inferior to the ſingular mediation of him, that no Catholike euer can or dare thinke or ſpeake ſo baſely vnto him, as to deſire him to pray for vs: but we ſay, Lord haue mercie vpon vs, Chriſt haue mercie vpon vs: and not, Chriſt pray for vs, as we ſay to our Ladie and the reſt. Therfore to inuocate Saincts in that ſort as the Catholike Church doth, can not make them our Mediators as Chriſt is, whom we muſt not inuocate in that ſort. And as wel may we the faithful yet liuing, our Mediators (by the Aduerſaries argiments) when we deſire their praiers, as the departed Saincts.

* Aug. li. 9. de ciu. cap. 15. 1. Pet. 2. 1. How there is but one Mediator, Chriſt: and what it is to be ſuch a Mediator.

Kyrie eleiſon. Chriſte eleiſon. The different maner of praying to Chriſt, and to Saincts.

But now touching the word Mediator, though in that ſingular ſenſe proper to our Sauiour, it agreeth to no mere creature in heauen or earth, yet taken in more large and common ſort by the vſe of Scriptures, doctors, and vulgar ſpeach, not onely the Saincts, but good men liuing, that pray for vs and help vs in the way of ſaluation, may and are rightly cald Mediators. As S. Cyrill li. 12. Theſaur. c. 10. proueth, that Moyſes according to the Scriptures and Ieremie and the Apoſtles and others be Mediators. Read his owne wordes, for they plainely refute al the Aduerſaries cauillations in this caſe. And if the name of * Sauiour and Redeemer be in the Scriptures giuen to men, without derogation to him that is in a more excellent and incomparable maner the onely Sauiour of the world: what can they ſay, why there may not be many Mediators, in an inferior degree to the onely and ſingular Mediator? S. Bernard ſaith, Opus eſt Mediatore ad Mediatorem Chriſtum, nec alter nobis vtilior quam Maria, that is, We haue neede of a Mediator to Chriſt the Mediator, and there is none more for our profite then our Ladie. Bernard. Ser. qui incipit, Signum magnum apparuit &c. poſt Ser. 5. de Aſſump. S. Baſil alſo in the ſame ſenſe, writing to Iulian the Apoſtata, deſireth the mediation of our Ladie, of the Apoſtles, Prophets, and Martyrs, for procuring of Gods mercie and remiſſion of his ſinnes. His wordes are cited in Conc. Nic. 2 act. 4. pag. 110 & 111. Thus did and thus beleeued al the holy fathers, moſt agreably to the Scriptures, and thus muſt al the children of the Church do, be the Aduerſaries neuer ſo importunate and wilfully blinde in theſe matters.

How there be many Mediators, as there be many Sauiours and Redeemers, euen in the Scriptures.

Iud 3. 9. 2 Eſd. 9. 27. Act. 7. 35.

Fulke 4. Here we are noted of too much peuiſhnes and ſpiteſulnes, becauſe we ſay, as the Apoſtle ſayth, that we haue one onely Mediatour Ieſus Chriſt. And with many wordes we are taught, as if we were young children, what a Mediatour is, and how Chriſt is our onely Mediatour, when as in deede there is nothing brought but the common blind diſtinction, that Chriſt is our only Mediatour of redemption, but not of interceſſion. But the Apoſtle ſpeaketh ſo plainly of praier and interceſſion, as that diſtinction can not ſerue, therefore retaining it in deede, but being aſhamed plainly to vſe it, in circumſtance of wordes you bring in nothing els but it. And firſt you tell vs that we vnderſtand not, what it is to be a Mediatour, in that ſenſe S. Paule doth attribute it only to Chriſt. Yes God be thanked, we neede not learne of you. But yet let vs heare what you take vpon you to teach vs. To be thus a Mediatour, is to be God and man, to be that one eternall Prieſt and Redeemer, which by his death hath reconciled vs to God, and paied his blond as a full and ſufficient ranſome for all our ſinnes. Praiſe be to God, we neuer thought otherwiſe of our Sauiour Chriſt, and would God you would alwaies abide by this doctrine. For then you would giue ouer your blaſphemous prieſthood and ſacrifice, your Purgatory, and merites of workes, and truſt only in Ieſus Chriſt, our full and perfect Redeemer. Againe, that he is the ſingular Aduocate and Patrone of mankind, that by him ſelfe alone, and by his owne merites, procureth all grace and mercie to mankind in the ſight of his Father, none making any interceſſion for him, nor giuing any grace or force to his praiers, &c. If you would abide by this confeſſion, or did beleeue as you ſay, you would not make ſo many Aduocats and Patrones of mankind, as you doe: you would not defend this praier of your Popiſh Church. Tuper Thome ſanguinem, &c. By the blond of Thomas, which for thee he did ſpend, make vs Chriſt to climbe whether Thomas did aſcend. Nor a thouſand other, in which you pray by the merites, by the interceſſion, by the helpe of this Sainct, or that Sainct, to be heard, to be holpen, to be ſaued, &c. As in the Maſſe of one Apoſtle. Exaud. Domine, &c. Lord heare thy people, praying with the patronage of thy holy Apoſtle N. that being alwaies defended by thy aide, they may ſerue thee with ſecure deuotion, &c. Beati tui, &c. Lord we rehearſing the ſolemnities of thy bleſſed Apoſtle N. beſeech thee, that by his ayde, we may receiue thy benefites, for whom we offer to thee the ſacrifices of praiſe. In the birth of one Martyr. Adeſto, &c. Lord be preſent at our ſupplications, and by the interceſſion of thy bleſſed Martyr N. beſtow vpon vs gratiouſly thy perpetuall mercie. In the Maſſe of any Confeſſor. Suſcipe, &c. Lord receiue the ſacrifice of the reconciliation and praiſe, which by thy bleſſed Confeſſor N. comming betweene, may bring vs to pardon, and may appoint this action into perpetuall grace. In the Maſſe of S. Rooke, the Poſtcommunion. Lorde we haue receiued thy holie things, remembring the merites of S. Rooke, performe we beſeech thee, that we may both be defended by his faithfull ayde, and alſo profite by his noble example. Of S. Aldelme. O God, which this daye haſt liſted vp thy holye Biſhoppe Aldelme to eternall ioyes, we beſeech thee let thy mercye bring vs thither, by his merites. The concluſion of all theſe Collects, as of many other ſuch, is that whereof you bragge ſo often, per Chriſtum Dominum, &c. By Chriſt our Lorde. So that Chriſt is your Mediatour, Aduocate, and Patrone, with the patronage, and by the ayde of an Apoſtle, by the interceſſion of a Martyr, by the interuention of a Confeſſor, by the remembraunce of the merites, and by the faithfull ayde of Sainct Rooke, by the merites of Sainct Aldelme, and ſuch like. Where you ſaye, That none of you aſketh either grace in this life, or glorye in the next, but by him, the publike prayers of your Antichriſtian Church, reproueth your falſehood: for you aske of Chriſt him ſelfe eternall life, by the bloud of Thomas, beſide many other requeſtes that you make vnto Saincts, without any mediation of Chriſt, as that horrible blaſphemie of yours declareth, to the Virgine Marie, Regina-

trem, Iube natum, Intreate the Father, Commaunde thy ſonne, or that which Bonauenture a Sainct of yours, vttereth in theſe wordes: Iure matris impera filio, By the right of a mother, commaunde thy Sonne, Compell God to be merciſull to ſinners. With infinite like blaſphemies, peruerting the whole Pſalter of Dauid, with Te Deum, Benedictus, Quicunq; vult, Nunc dimittis, all to the honour, or rather to the diſhonour of the Bleſſed Virgine. But the aduerſaries (you ſay) doe thinke too baſely of Chriſtes mediation, if they imagine this to be his onely prerogatiue, to pray for vs. Surely we doe not imagine, but beeing taught by the Scripture both heere and els where, we knowe moſte certainly, that the office of interceſſion pertayneth vnto Chriſt, as part of his mediation. For S. Paule ſpeaking here of interceſſion, ſayth, he is our onely Mediatour, to make our prayers acceptable and effectuall. Likewiſe the Apoſtle to the Hebrewes, ſayth: He liueth alwayes to make interceſſion for vs. Heb. 7, 25. But why ſhoulde you imagine, that we thinke ſo baſely of Chriſtes mediation, when we doe at all tymes, and in all places, acknowledge him to be our onely Mediatour of redemption, ſaluation, interceſſion, and ſtriue for nothing more, then that the whole glorye of our ſaluation, from the beginning to the ende, ſhoulde be aſcribed to him, as to our onely and moſte ſufficient Mediatour? An other argument of like force it is, that we thinke too baſely of Chriſtes mediation, if we imagine, that you make the Sainctes your Mediatours, in that ſorte as Chriſt is, when you deſire them to pray for you. Although we were deceiued in our imagination, of your making of Sainctes Mediatours, yet it followeth not, that we therefore thinke too baſely of the mediation of Chriſt. But that we be not deceiued, nor doe falſely charge you, you ſayd before, that you doe acknowledge Chriſt in ſuch ſort to be our ſingular Aduocate and Patrone, that by him ſelfe alone, and by his owne merites, procureth all grace and mercie, &c. and yet your vſuall prayers taken out of your Portuis, doe crie out againſt you, whereunto I will adde ſome out of your Engliſh Primers, printed in Queene Maries tyme, of like or worſe blaſphemie. Holie Marie mother, moſte pure of Virgines all, mother and daughter of the king celeſtiall. So comfort vs in our deſolation, that by thy prayer and ſpeciall mediation, we enioye the reward of the heauenly reigne. Againe: Holie mother of God, make thy petition that we may deſerue Chriſtes promiſſion. Againe, We beſeech thee of thy pitie, to haue vs in remembrance, and make meanes for vs vnto Chriſt, that we being ſupported through thy helpe, may deſerue to attaine to the kingdome of heauen. Againe, Graunt that through the interceſſion of the Virgine thy mother, we may be deliuered from this preſent heauines, and haue the fruition of eternall gladnes. Againe, The dolorous compaſſion of Gods ſweete mother, bring vs to the bliſſe of Almightie God the Father. But no Catholike you ſay, can or dare thinke or ſpeake ſo baſely vnto Chriſt, to deſire him to pray for vs, but you ſay, Lorde haue mercie vpon vs, Chriſt haue mercie vpon vs, and not Chriſt pray for vs, as you ſay to our Ladie, and the reſt. In deede our Sauiour Chriſt ſayeth: after he hath by his mediation and interceſſion brought vs vnto the fauour of God. In that day you ſhall aske in my name, and I ſay not to you, that I will praye to the Father for you, for the Father him ſelfe loueth you. Ioh. 16, 26. If then the prayer of Chriſt to God his Father be needeles for vs, what vſe is there of the prayers of other creatures? But you woulde haue men thinke, you giue a ſingular prerogatiue to Chriſt, when you deſire him to haue mercie vpon you, as though you did not likewiſe deſire other creatures to haue mercie vpon you. In the Primer afore ſayde, you praye thus: O then meke mother, haue mercie therefore on wretches, for whom thou haddeſt theſe paynes all, ſeeing thy ſonne that nine dayes reſted ſore, and from the peſtilence of death eternall, keepe vs by voyding the feinde infernall, and ioyne vs with them which rewarded be with eternall life, ſeeing the deitie. And in your Latine Portuis. Pura, pudica, pia, miſeris miſerere Maria. Virgo parens natum fac nobis propitiatum. Nos precibus matris ſaluet ſapientia Patris. O Marie pure, chaſte, godlie, haue mercie on vs wretches. Virgine mother, make thy ſonne reconciled vnto vs. Let the wiſedome of the Father ſaue vs by the prayers of the mother. Againe, Virgo Deo digna, precantibus eſto benigna. O Virgine worthy of God, be fauourable to vs that pray. Quæ peperit florem, des nobis floris odorem. She that hath brought forth the flower, let her giue vs the ſauour of the flower. Conſerua famulos Virgo Maria tuos. O Virgine Marie, preſerue thy ſeruants. Sanctæ Mariæ merita nos perducant ad regna cæleſtia. Let the merites of S. Marie bring vs to the kingdome of heauen. By theſe, and many other, it is manifeſt, that howſoeuer you woulde hide your blaſphemous interceſſion of Sainctes, the Popiſh Church doth inuocate Sainctes in ſuch ſorte, as Chriſt onely by your owne confeſſion, is to be inuocated. And if you did but onely deſire the prayers of Sainctes departed, as ſome of the auncient Fathers, about foure or fiue hundred yeeres after Chriſt, being deceiued by the myſterie of iniquitie preparing a waye to Antichriſt, beganne to inuocate them, as we deſire the prayers of the Sainctes yet liuing, the errour were much leſſe, but yet, ſeeing we haue no warrant ſo to doe out of the holye Scriptures, and euen that kinde of inuocation, by conſequence, implieth great abſurdities, you were not to be excuſed. To praye one for another in this life, is a duetie of charitie, commended in the Scripture, which we are bounde to yeelde, and require one for an other, and is nothing iniurious to the mediation of Chriſt. For we doe not ſo deſire the godly liuing to pray for vs, as that by their worthines we are brought into the fauour of God, but as the members of the ſame bodye of Chriſt, we ioyne in mutuall prayers, they for vs, and we for them, as we haue warrant in the holy Scripture. But to praye to Sainctes departed, we haue no warrant, commaundement, promiſe, or approued example. Wherefore ſuch inuocation is at the leaſt ſuperſtition, and will-worſhippe. Beſide, that it is iniurious to the mediation of Chriſt, and the mercie of God, who without any ſuffrage of others, heareth vs him ſelfe, and hath promiſed to graunt all our requeſtes, made in the name of Ieſus Chriſt his Sonne. Ioan. 16, 23. 1. Ioan. 5, 14. Whereupon S. Ambroſe ſayeth: Therefore we are brought into the preſence of kinges by Tribunes, and Counties, becauſe the king is a man, and knoweth not to whome he ought to committe the Common wealth: but to obteyne the ſauour of God, from whome nothing is hidden, (for he knoweth the worthines of all men,) there is no neede of any to entreate for vs, but a deuout minde. For whereſoeuer ſuch an one ſpeaketh vnto God, he will anſwere him. In cap. ad Rom. Cap. 1.

So ſayth Chryſoſtome: There is no neede of any Porter, there is no neede of any Mediatour, there is no neede of any Miniſter, but ſay thou thy ſelfe, Lord haue mercie vpon me, and God will be preſent, while thou art yet ſpeaking, he will ſay, I am come. Ex variis in Matth. locis, Hom. 17. You ſee therefore, that ſuffrages of Sainctes departed, are needles, needeles, and yet you are not content with Suffrages or Prayers, but you aſcribe vnto them all that is proper to Chriſt, euen reconciliation vnto God, as in that blaſphemous prayer in the Engliſh Primer it is manifeſt. Hayle Queene, mother of mercie, our life, our ſweetneſſe, our hope, vnto thee wee doe crie and ſigh, weeping and wailing: Come of therefore our Patronneſſe, caſt vpon vs thy pitifull eyes, and after this our baniſhment, ſhewe to vs the bleſſed fruite of thy wombe. O gate of glory, be for vs a reconciliation vnto the Father, and the Sonne: from the wretched, their faults expell, wipe the ſpottes of ſinnes vncleane &c.

Touching the worde Mediatour, ſo Chriſt may haue ỹ which is proper vnto him, as very God and man, we contend not for the ſound of wordes and ſyllables. S. Cyrill ſayth, that many of the Saincts vſed the miniſterie of mediation: as Paul him ſelfe, Moſes, Ieremie &c. in this life: but in Heauen onely Chriſt is our Mediatour and Aduocate w̃ the Father & our only Sauiour, although men in this life be called ſauiours and redeemers, which be miniſters & inſtruments of Gods ſaluation & redemption. Which offices and miniſteries, except you can prooue by the ſcriptures, to be appointed to the Saincts departed, you ſtriue in vaine for the termes. You haue in deede diſtributed ỹ ſeuerall offices & charges vnto Saincts, and appointed vs ſeueral Patrones for all purpoſes: as Nations, France to S. Denis, England to S. George, Scotland to S. Andrewe. And diſeaſes, Toothe ache to S. Apollonia, the peſtilence to S. Rooke, the ague to S. Petronill. Beaſtes, as hogges to S. Antony, horſes to S. Loye, &c. Degrees of men, and occupations: ſchollers to S. Gregory, ſouldiers to S. Morris, phyſitians to S. Cosmus and Damianus: paynters to S. Luke, ſhoomakers to S. Criſpin and Criſpianus: for fire S. Agatha, for the ſea S. Nicolas, for corne S. Iodocus, for wine S. Vrbane &c. But by what warrant from God, you are not able to ſhewe out of his worde. But becauſe you are not aſhamed to ſay, that S. Cyrill doeth plainely confute all our cauillations againſt the mediation of ſainctes, I will ſet downe his owne wordes. In the ſame Epiſtle he ſayeth: There is one God, and one Mediatour of God and man, euen Ieſus Chriſt, which hath giuen him ſelfe to be a redemption for all. Ieſus Chriſt is the Mediatour of God and men, not onely becauſe he hath reconciled men to God, but alſo becauſe naturally, and ſubſtantially, he is God and man in one perſon. For by this meanes God reconciled our nature to himſelfe: for els howe ſhould Paul haue called Chriſt our one Mediatour? For many of the ſainctes haue vſed the miniſterie of mediation: and Paul him ſelfe crieth out, we deſire you for Chriſt, be ye reconciled to God. Moſes alſo was a mediatour, for he miniſtred vnto the children of Iſrael the Law giuen by God. Alſo bleſſed Ieremie was a mediatour, eſpecially when he cried vnto God. Remember me ſtanding before thee: to ſpeake good things for them. what needs many wordes? Euery one of the Prophets were mediatours, and euery one of the Apoſtles: howe then is Chriſt the onely mediatour of God and men? but that his mediation is newe and vnheard of in any other: but it is not impertinent alſo, breefely to expreſſe the maner, howe he is a mediatour. That which ioyneth together two things, as a meane or middeſt, is of neceſſitie touched of both, and after this maner, diuerſe things are ioyned together by the middeſt. And Chriſt is mediatour of God and man, becauſe in him being one, God and man, are ioyned together.

Are not theſe wordes very pregnant for you, to make ſo great auaunt of them? he proueth that onely Chriſt is a mediatour properly, whereas all the Prophetes and Apoſtles, while they liued, were miniſters of his mediation, and therefore might vnproperly be called mediatours. But if the name of Sauiour and Redeemer, be in the Scriptures giuen to men without derogation vnto Chriſt, you aske what we can ſay, why there may not be many mediatours in an inferiour degree, to the onely and ſingular mediatour. Firſt wee ſay, there is great difference betweene temporall deliuerãce and redemption, in reſpect whereof men are called ſauiours and redeemers in the ſcripture: and the ſpirituall and eternall ſaluation and redemption, which onely Chriſt hath purchaſed vnto vs: and therefore you might as well ſay? Seeing the name of God and Chriſt in the Scriptures is giuen to men, as vnto Princes and Prophetes, why may ye not ſay? that there may bee many Goddes and Chriſtes in an inferiour degree to him, which is onely God and Chriſt, and in the office of the eternall ſaluation and redemption? Secondly wee ſay, that theſe which in the Scripture are called ſauiours and redeemers, are by God appointed for ſuch temporall deliuerance and redemption: ſhewe the like appointment in the ſcriptures of ſainctes departed, to be mediatours of eternall ſaluation and redemption, in an inferiour degree to Chriſt, our onely Mediatour and Aduocate, and wee will ſhake handes with you. But this if you cannot doe, thinke not, but wee haue ynough to ſay, why Chriſt ſhoulde bee our onely Mediatour and Aduocate in Heauen with God his Father, ſo that hee ſhall haue no inferiour mediatours and aduocates vnder him.

To Saint Bernardes auctoritie, who was more then a thouſande yeeres after Chriſt, I oppoſe Saint Ambroſe his auctoritie, which was ſeuen hundred yeere elder then he, who ſayeth in the place before rehearſed. Ad Deum ſuffragatore non eſt opus. We haue no neede of any Suffragator, (much leſſe of a mediatour) vnto God. The place of Baſil is forged and counterfect, as many other are, in that Idolatrous Councell, to mainteyne Idolatrie. And this moſt manifeſtly, becauſe Iulian the Apoſtata, being vtterly reuolted from the faith, was not to bee prayed for: but publike prayers were made by the Church againſt him, and not for him. Theodoret. Hiſt. lib. 3. chap. 9. and 17.

I will conclude with the wordes of Saint Auguſtine, contr. Parm. lib. 2. Chap. 8. If the Apoſtle had ſaide ſo: Theſe thinges haue I written vnto you, that you ſhoulde not ſinne: but if any man ſinne, you haue me a Mediatour with the Father, and I doe by my prayer obteyne pardon for your ſinnes (as Parmenianus in a certaine place, placed the Biſhop a mediatour betweene the people and God) what good and faithfull Chriſtian could abide him? who woulde beholde him as an Apoſtle of Chriſt, and not as Antichriſt? God giue vs grace therefore ſtill to deteſt your Antichriſtian doctrine, and practiſe of many mediatours, and with the Apoſtle Paul in this place, to acknowledge our Sauiour Chriſt to be our onely mediatour with God, both of interceſſion and redemption.

Rhem. 5. 12. I permit not.) In times of licentiouſnes, libertie, & hereſie, women are much giuē to reading, diſputing, chatting, & iangling of the holy Scriptures, yea & to teach alſo if they might be permitted. but S. Paul vtterly forbiddeth it, and the Greeke Doctors vpō this place note ỹ the woman taught but once, ỹ was whē after her reaſoning with Satan ſhe perſuaded her Women great talkers of Scripture, and promoters of hereſie.

her husband to tranſgreſſion, and ſo ſhe vndid all mankind. And in the Eccleſiaſticall writers we finde, that women haue been great promoters of euery ſort of hereſie (whereof ſee a notable diſcourſe in S. Hierome ep. ad Cteſiph. cont. Pelag. cap. 2.) which they would not haue done, if they had according to the Apoſtles rule, followed pietie and good workes, and liued in ſilence and ſubiection to their husbands.

Fulke. 5. Although women are forbidden to teach publikely, yet they ought according to their knowledge to inſtruct their familie priuately: and God hath ſometimes extraordinarily vſed the miniſterie of women, to the conuerting of great nations. Neither doth S. Paul reproue women for talking of the ſcripture, which (ſo it be with modeſtie, ſeemely for the ſexe) is greatly commended by S. Hierome in many vertuous women. Yea he exhorteth Laeta a godly matrone, to ſeaſon the tender tongue of her young daughter with ſweete Pſalmes. Let them ſeeke her (ſaith he) in the iourney of this worlde, among the multitude and frequence of her kinſfolkes, but let them finde her no where elſe, but in the cloſet of the ſcriptures, enquiring of the Prophets and Apoſtles, of her ſpirituall mariage. And as euill women haue been ſometimes promoters of hereſie, ſo haue good women been great promoters of true religion, and haue giuen their life for the teſtimonie of the truth, as conſtantly and redily as men. Wherefore that which is a reproch onely of wicked perſons, ought not to be abuſed vnto the contumely of the whole ſexe. Women.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. A good worke.) Nothing (ſaith S. Auguſtine) in this life, and ſpecially in this time, is eaſier, pleaſanter, or more acceptable to men, then the office of a Biſhop, Prieſt, or Deacon, if the thing be done onely for faſhion ſake & flatteringly: but nothing before God more miſerable, more lamentable, more damnable. Againe, There is nothing in this life, and ſpecially at this time, harder, more laborious, or more dangerous, then the office of a Biſhop, Prieſt, or Deacon: but before God nothing more bleſſed, if they warre in ſuch ſort as our Captaine commandeth. Auguſt. ep. 148. — The great charge, and great merite of Eccleſiaſtical function.

Rhem. 2. 2. A Biſhop.) That which is here ſpoken of a Biſhop (becauſe the wordes Biſhop and Prieſt in the new Teſtament be often taken indifferently for both or either of the twaine, as is noted in an other place) the ſame is meant of euery prieſt alſo: though the qualities here required, ought to be more ſingular in the Biſhop, then in the Prieſt, according to the difference of their degree, dignitie, and callings. — The Apoſtle vnder ỹ name of Biſhop inſtructeth prieſts alſo.

Fulke. 2. Theſe qualities ought to be common to all the miniſters of the word of God and ſacraments, as well to the inferiour prieſtes, as to the higheſt Biſhops: although as euery man is called to higher honour, he ought to endeuour more to excell in vertue.

Rhem. 3. 2. Of one wife.) Certaine Biſhops of Vigilantius ſect (whether vpon falſe conſtruction of this text, or through the filthineſſe of their fleſhly luſt) would take wiue to the Cleargie, except they would be maried firſt, not beleeuing (ſaith S. Hierome aduerſus Vigil. in c. 1.) that any ſingle man liueth chaſtly, ſhewing how holily they liue them ſelues, that ſuſpect ill of euery man, and will not giue the Sacrament (of Order) to the Cleargie, vnleſſe they ſee their wiues haue great bellies, and children walling at their mothers breaſtes. Our Proteſtants though they be of Vigilantius ſect, yet they are ſcarſe come ſo farre, to commaunde euery prieſt to be maried. Neuertheleſſe they miſlike them that will not marrie, ſo much the worſe, and they ſuſpect ill of euery ſingle perſon in the Church, thinking the gift of chaſtitie to be very rare among them, and they do not only make the ſtate of mariage equall to chaſt ſingle life, with the Heretike Iouinian, but they are bold to ſay ſometimes, that the Biſhop or Prieſt may doe his dutie and charge better maried then ſingle: expreſſly againſt S. Paul, who affirmeth that the vnmaried thinke of the things that belong to God, and that the maried be diuerſely diſtracted and intangled with the world. — The heretikes opinion concerning prieſts mariage. 1. Cor. 7.

Fulke. 3. Firſt the text is plaine, that a Biſhop, a Prieſt, or a Deacon, muſt be the husband of one wife: and therefore, if all the men that euer were, or ſhall be, ſhould ſay the contrary, mariage is both lawfull and conuenient for a Biſhop, Elder, or deacon, by the iudgement of the holy Ghoſt. And it was nothing els but the myſterie of iniquitie, working cloſely by the ſubtiltie of Satan that deceiued. S Hierome, and many other auncient godly fathers, in cauſing them to thinke and wright, not ſo honorably of mariage in the Cleargie, as the holy inſtitution thereof, and the allowance of God vnto all degrees of men doth require. We know nothing by Vigilantius, but that as he was auncient, ſo he was as good a Catholike as Hierome, & in ſome points defended the trueth, againſt ſuperſtition, more ſincerely then S. Hierome. For that he did write ſo bitterly againſt him, it was but his priuate affection, who writ alſo as bitterly againſt Ruffinus, and as tauntingly againſt S. Auguſtine, both which were as good Catholikes as he himſelfe. The Church in his time did not condemne Vigilantius, either of hereſie or error, but in ſome things confirmed his iudgement. For vigils, or watches, againſt the abuſe of which he did wright, were ſoone after aboliſhed, and are not reteyned by the Papiſtes them ſelues. But Hierome being in a chafe, becauſe the Biſhop of Barcilona ſuffered Vigilantius to teache in his Church vncontrouled, falleth out alſo with other godly Biſhops that tooke his part, and vpon heare-ſay chargeth them (how truely God knoweth) that they ordeyned no Deacons, except they firſt maried wiues, with further ſurmiſe of their ſuſpition, againſt al vnmaried men. Whereas it is more like, that vnderſtanding this text rightly, they iudged maried men to be as fit as vnmaried men for the holy miniſterie, though it be not neceſſary that all ſhould be maried, or al vnmaried. And the Greeke Church hath of long time obſerued this cuſtome, to ordeyne none before they be maried. But the Proteſtants (you ſay) though they command not euery Prieſt to be maried, yet they miſlike them that will not marrie. This is a lewde ſclander: for without reſpect of being maried, or vnmaried, ſo they liue honeſtly, and teach ſincerely, they are liked and allowed of vs. Secondly you ſay, they ſuſpect ill of euery ſingle perſon in the Church. Verily the ſingle life of popiſh prieſtes was ſo farre from chaſtitie, that there are few pariſhes in England, that cannot bring manifeſt proofe of the incontinence of one popiſh prieſt or other: but that we doe therefore ſuſpect ill of euery ſingle perſon in the Church, you are able to bring no proofe. For we verily perſwade our ſelues, that there be many, both in the miniſterie, and among the people, that leading a ſingle life without vowe, keepe their bodies in chaſtitie and continence, a hundred times better, then many popiſh votaries. That the gift of continencie is rare, the incontinencie of ſo many as vowed chaſtitie among you, and ſo litle performed it, may giue vs iuſt occaſion to thinke ſo. But where you ſay we make ỹ ſtate of mariage equall with ſingle life, it is falſe: for we acknowledge the prerogatiue of virginitie and ſingle life, which the Apoſtle teacheth 1. Cor. 7. But we are bold to ſay alwayes, that the Biſhop or Prieſt, hauing not the gift of continencie, may doe his duetie & charge better maried, then vnmaried, which is not any whit againſt the Apoſtle, but expreſſely with him, who affirmeth that it is better for ſuch to mary then to burne. Otherwiſe the ſingle man hath leſſe cauſe to be diſtracted and intangled with the world in ſome repect, then the maried man: and yet in ſome reſpect a prudent and faithfull wife, may be occaſion, that her husband ſhould be leſſe intangled with worldly matters, then if he were vnmaried. — The mariage of miniſters of the Church. Slander.

Rhem. 4. The Apoſtle then, by this place we nowe treate of, neither commaundeth, nor counſeleth, nor wiſheth, nor woulde haue Biſhops or Prieſts to marrie, or ſuch onely to be receiued as haue beene maried: but, that ſuch an one as hath been married (ſo it were but once, and that to a virgine) may be made Biſhop or Prieſt. which is no more then an inhibition that none hauing been twiſe maried or being bigamus, *ſhould be admitted to that holy Order. And this expoſition onely is agreeable to the practiſe of the whole Church, the definition of auncient Councels, the doctrine of all the fathers without exception, and the Apoſtles tradition. †Who are counted bigami. Leuit. 21.

Fulke. 4. The text of the Apoſtle is plaine, that although he commaund not all to be maryed, yet he alloweth any that is maryed (ſo he haue but one wife, with the other qualities here required) to be ordeyned Biſhop, Elder, or Deacon. Neither ſpeaketh he onely of them that haue been maryed, and their wife perhaps dead, but of them that are preſently maryed: for the verbe is of the preſent temps. A Biſhop muſt be the husband of one wife, and 1. Tit. 6. if any is or be the husband of one wife, therefore not onely ſuch an one, as hath been maryed, but ſuch an one as is maryed, may be a Biſhop or Prieſt. i he Apoſtle therefore verſe 11. of this chapter, giueth order what maner of women their wiues ſhould be, which your vulgar Latine hath corruptly tranſlated Mulieres, and you for a poore aduantage of your hereſie, the women, contrary to the manifeſt circumſtance of the text, and the method of the Apoſtle, who would not ſo abruptly, when he had ſpoken of Biſhops and Deacons, which he will haue to be the husbands of one wife, ſpeake generally of women which perteyne nothing to Biſhops and Deacons, and then returne againe to Deacons. More probably doeth Chryſoſtome, Theodoret, and other, vnderſtand women that were Deaconeſſes, for the helpe of the poore. But where you ſay, it is no more but an inhibition, that none hauing been twiſe maryed, or being Bigamus, ſhould be admitted, it is falſe: for he is the husband of one wife, which hath but one wife at one time, though hee hath been maryed more then once or twiſe, and although his wife were a widowe before he maried her. But this your expoſition onely is (as you ſay) agreeable to the practiſe of the whole Church, the diffinition of auncient Councels, and the doctrine of all the fathers without exception. If this proud bragge were true, as it is falſe, yet the auctoritie of the holy Ghoſt, is to be preferred before all that you name, whoſe wordes cannot without manifeſt violence be reſtreyned to ſuch an expoſition.

Therefore Chryſoſtome expoundeth this text againſt Polygamie, which is the hauing of many wiues at once, ſaying: He ſaith not this as making a lawe, that none without a wife may bee made a Biſhop, but appointing a meaſure of that matter: for it was Lawfull for the Iewes to be ioyned in the ſecond mariage, and to haue two wiues at once. But in his expoſition vpon Titus, you would make vs beleeue, that he forgate what he ſaid here, or in ſo ſhort time changed his expoſition, and agreeth wholy with you, whereas in trueth, if you vnderſtoode him right, he confirmeth that which he ſayeth vpon this text. For he ſpeaketh againſt ſuch laſciuious perſons, as after their wife was departed from them, not lawfully diuorced, maryed an other. For ſuch were not the husbands of one wife: ſeeing the ỹ departed, or was vniuſtly put away, remayned ſtill a lawfull wife. His wordes are theſe. For what cauſe doeth he bring forth euen ſuch kinde of men? He purpoſeth vtterly to ſtoppe the mouthes of Heretikes, which condemne mariage: ſhewing that mariage is without faults, and is ſo precious, that with it any man may be preferred, euen to the holy ſeate of a Biſhoprycke. Alſo with this ſaying he chaſtiſeth vnchaſt perſons, while he ſuffereth them not after their ſecond mariage, to be taken to the gouernement of the Church, and the dignitie of a paſtor: for he which is found not to haue kept his benevolence toward his wife, which is gone from him, howe ſhould he be a very good teacher of the Church? may rather to what crimes ſhall he not dayly be ſubiect? For ye all know, that although by the lawes ſuch ſeconde mariages are permitted, yet that thing is open to many accuſations: therefore hee will haue the Biſhop to giue no occaſion to them that are vnder him. Therefore before all thinges, hee ſetteth downe: if any be without crime, that is, if all his life be voide of reproſe, if no man can reprooue his maners. Finally heare what our Lord ſaith: if the light which is in thee be darkeneſſe, howe great ſhall the darkeneſſe be?

Here it is plaine, that hee ſpeaketh of ſeconde mariage in them, whoſe firſt wife was not dead, but gone away ἀνυδρεύσαν. For he that maryeth after his wife is dead, is not to be charged with laſciuiouſneſſe, nor to be accompted vnchaſt (and much leſſe he that in his firſt mariage taketh a widowe,) nor dayly ſubiect to many crimes, or to any crime in reſpect of his maryage, neither is his life and maners to be reprooued, that liueth chaſtly with his ſecond wife, neither is he to be accompted darkeneſſe, who after his wife is dead, maryeth in the Lord.

Therefore Chryſoſtome ſpeaketh of ſuch ſeconde mariages, as were permitted by the ciuill lawes, after vnlawfull diuorcements, or departures of wiues from their husbands, and not againſt the mariage of them, that after their wife is departed out of this life, doe marie an other in the feare of God, as it is free by Gods ordinance, and willed by S. Paul to the yonger ſort of widowes 1. Timothie 5. For ſuch mariage is not open to any iuſt accuſation.

Therefore Chryſoſtome in both places, is directly contrary to your falſe and enforced expoſition. So is Theodoret vpon this text. The husband of one wife: the preaching then began. And neither the Gentiles did exerciſe virginitie, nor the Iewes did admit it: for they eſteemed the procreation of children to be a bleſſing. Therefore for as much as at that time, they were not eaſily to be founde, which exerciſed continencie, he commaundeth of ſuch as had maried wiues,to ordeine them which had honoured temperancie. And concerning that ſaying, The husband of one wife, I thinke certeine men haue ſaid well. For of olde time both Greekes and Iewes, were wont to be maried with two, three, or more wiues at once. But euen now alſo when the Emperial lawes forbid men to marry two wiues at once, they haue to doe with concubines and harlots. They haue ſaid therefore, that the holy Apoſtle ſaith, That he which dwelleth honeſtly with one only wife, is worthy to be ordeined a biſhop. For (ſay they) he doeth not reiect the ſecond mariage, which hath often commaunded that it ſhould be vſed. For a woman (ſaith he) is bound by the lawe ſo long as her husband liueth, but if her husband be dead, ſhe is free, that ſhe may marry to whom ſhe will, only in the Lord. Againe, I ſay to the vnmaried, and to the widowes, and ioyning both the ſtates together, he maketh one lawe for them. In deede if the vow of continencie haue bene made, the ſecond mariage is not in the power of their will. For if he haue thruſt away his firſt wife, and be ioyned to another, he is worthy to be reprehended, and is iuſtly ſubiect to accuſation. But if force of death hath diſioyned his firſt wife, and (nature urging) hath compelled him to be ioyned to a ſecond wife, his ſecond mariage is proceeded not of his will, but of caſualtie. Theſe things conſidered, I admit their interpretation which haue ſo vnderſtood the place. S. Hierome alſo, no great fauourer of mariage, and inclined to that opinion, that he which hath bene twiſe lawfully maried, ſhould not be ordeined, yet in his Commentarie vpon the Epiſtle to Titus, agreeth not with your expoſition, and declareth that there were many which did interprete theſe words as we doe. His wordes are theſe. As touching that he ſaith: The husband of one wife, we ought to vnderſtand it ſo, that we thinke not that euery one that hath bene but once maried, is better then he that hath bene twiſe maried, but that he may exhort vnto one onely mariage and continencie, which can bring forth his owne example in teaching. For put the caſe, there is one which loſt his wife when he was a very yong man, and being ouercome with the neceſſitie of his fleſh, hath taken the ſecond wife, which within ſhort time after he hath loſt alſo: and after that hath liued continently, and that there is an other man which hath had the vſe of matrimonie, & his wife euen vntill his old age, (as many thinke it a felicitie neuer to haue ceaſed from the worke of the fleſh) which of theſe two ſeemeth to be the better, the more chaſte, the more continent? Verely hee which in his ſecond mariage was vnhappy, and afterward liued chaſtely and holily: and not he which by olde age was ſeparated from embracing his wife. Therefore let him not pleaſe himſelfe which hauing bene but once maried, is choſen: that hee is better then euery one that hath bene twiſe maried. Seeing in him his happines was choſen rather then his will. Some (interpreters) of this place doe giue this ſence: It was of the Iewiſh cuſtome (ſay they) that men had two wiues or more at once, as we reade in the olde lawe of Abraham and Iacob: and this they will haue to be the Apoſtles commaundement in this place: that he which is to be choſen a biſhop, haue not two wiues together at one time. Many (more ſuperſtitiouſly then truely) doe thinke that ſuch are not to be choſen in the Prieſthod, which when they were Gentiles had one wife, and after they had loſt her, (ſince they were baptized in Chriſt) haue maried an other wife, where as if this were to be obſerued, they ſhould rather be kept from the biſhops office, which following before wandring luſt by harlots, haue taken one wife ſince they were regenerated: and it is much more deteſtable to haue committed fornications with many, then to haue bene twiſe maried: for in the one is felicitie of matrimony, in the other laſciuious ſinnes prone to ſinne. Theophylact ſaith vpon this text: Let him be the husband of one wife. He ſpeake this becauſe of the Iewes, for to them was permitted polygamie, that is to ioyne mariage with many together.

By theſe teſtimonies you may ſee, how braſen faced theſe Rhemiſtes are, which are not aſhamed to ſay, that this their expoſition only is the doctrine of all the fathers without exception. Whereas it is euident, that Chryſoſtome, Theodoret, and Theophylact, and by the teſtimonie of Theodoret and Hierom, many other auncient fathers before them, interpreted this text onely againſt Polygamie, or many wiues at once. And there is no doubt, but according to their doctrine that ſo vnderſtoode the Scripture, the Church practiſed in ordeyning them that had bene married more then once, and in allowing them that were ordeined to liue chaſtly with one wife. But S. Ambroſe (you ſay) affirmeth that none may be taken into the Cleargie that haue bene twiſe married. What then? Other doctors were of an other iudgement, as we heard before. And S. Hierom condemneth his opinion plainly of ſuperſtition Ep. 82. Where he thinketh, that ſuch as had bene often married before Baptiſme, were excluded. But he affirmeth that the holy Council of Nice haue taken this order. Yet no ſuch thing appeareth in the Actes of that Councel, and therefore it is like he was deceiued with ſome falſe copie. For it is not vnlike that the Councel of Nice was falſified as well in this point, as in the point of the biſhop of Romes vſurped auctoritie, which was openly diſcouered in the Councel of Affrica. And yet S. Ambroſe alloweth him that hath a wife to be ordeined biſhop or prieſt: As his wordes are plaine, Hee commaundeth that a biſhop be the husband of one wife, yet that he excludeth him that is vnmaried, for this is alone the lawe of the precept, but that with matrimonial chaſtitie, he keepe the grace of his waſhing or baptiſme. Neither is he againe inuited to beget children by the Apoſtles auctoritie, for he ſaid, hauing children, not begetting children. By theſe wordes it appeareth, that S. Ambroſe thought it lawfull, (though not neceſſarie) for a biſhop to be maried, and alſo to beget children: and of the ſame iudgement he is vpon this text. So doeth S. Hierom (although he ſay the Cleargie is made of them that haue bene but once married,) and alledgeth that the text may be expounded onely againſt Polygamie, as in his Commentarie vpon the Epiſtle to Titus, againſt them that refuſed him that was maried before Baptiſme and after. Oceano Alſo com. Ion. lib. 1. He confeſſeth that ſuch maner of men were choſen to be Prieſtes, becauſe there were not ſo many Virgines, as it was neceſſary to haue Prieſtes. And as concerning that opinion, that he which hath had one wife before he was baptized, and an other after, can not be ordeined. He calleth it the hereſie of Cain, and diſputeth earneſtly againſt it, in that Epiſtle to Oceanus, neither doeth S. Auguſtine ſimply allow it: but ſaith, They did vnderſtand the Apoſtle more ſharpely, which thought he was not to be ordeined which had an other wife, being a learner or a Pagane. As for Innocentius, Leo, and Gregory biſhops of Rome, in which See the myſterie of iniquitie wrought more ſtrongly then in other places, (and ſpecially towarde the reuelation of Antichriſt) it is leſſe marueile, if they thought any thing more hardly of mariage. And yet Leo Ep. 87. toucheth not the caſe, nor yet Gregory Lib. 2. Ep. 25. But that ſuch as had bene twiſe maried, or had maried a widow, ſhould not be admitted they both affirme. As for the Booke De Eccleſiaſticis dogmatibus, falſly bearing the name of S. Auguſtine, deſerueth none anſwere: and yet the auctour excludeth them that haue had wiues before Baptiſme, (or one Concubine) which if it were true, S. Auguſtine could neuer haue bene made biſhop, for he confeſſeth that he had two concubines Conf. lib. 6. c. 15. The reaſon that Leo alledgeth out of the Lawe, to proue that he is Bigamus that hath maried a widow (becauſe the high Prieſt was forbidden to marry a widow) is vnſufficient: for that prohibition extended onely to the high Prieſt which was a figure of Chriſt, and perteineth no more vnto the Miniſters of the Church in the new Teſtament, then any other parts of his office, that were peculiar to that ſtate & calling. But that the godly ancient fathers accompted Digamy to be in them that had two wiues at once, and not in them that had bene twiſe maried. Iuſtinus martyr is a good witnes: Who Apol.2. expounding that ſaying of our Sauiour Chriſt, Hee that marieth her that is forſaken committeth adulterie: concludeth, that they which according to mans lawe, δευτερογαμοῦσιν, doe marry two wiues, (by our maſters iudgement) are ſinners. The auncient Councels alſo of Neocæſarea and Laodicea, putting them to open penance, that were Digami, ſeeme to meane of ſuch as were married contrary to Gods Lawe to the ſecond wife, before the firſt was dead, or els it was a groſſe error to puniſh that which was no ſinne, with a whole yeeres or two yeeres open penance.

Rhem. 5. And by theſe few you may ſee how ſhamefully the ſtate of the new heretical Clergie of our time is fallen from the Apoſtolike and al the fathers practiſe and doctrine herein. Who do not onely take men once or twiſe maried before, but (which was neuer heard of before in any perſon or part of the Catholike Church) they marie after they be Biſhops or Prieſts, once, twiſe, and as often as their luſtes require. Whereas it was neuer lawful in Gods Church to marrie after Holy Orders. Neither is there one authentical example thereof in the world. For thoſe of whom Nice Councel ſpeaketh, were maried before, and were but tolerated onely to vſe their wiues: the fathers in the ſame Councel prouiding expreſly at the ſame time, that none from thence forth ſhould marie after they came to holy Orders, and that according to the auncient tradition of the Church. as Socrates and Sozomenus declare in moſt plaine wordes. See Suidas in the word Paphnutius.* And in what countrie ſo euer they haue been permitted to haue carnal dealing euen with their wiues whom they had before, it was not according to the exact rule of the Apoſtles and Churches tradition, by which al that be in holy Orders, ſhould wholy abſtaine, not onely from marying, but S. Epiphanius. euen from their wiues before maried. Whereof thus writeth S. Epiphanius hæreſ.59 cont. Catharos. The holy preaching of God receiueth not, after Chriſt, them that marrie againe after their wiues departure, by reaſon of the great dignitie and honour of Prieſthod. And this the holy Church of God obſerueth with al ſinceritie. Yea ſhe doth not receiue the once maried perſon that yet vſeth his wife and begetteth children: but onely ſuch an one ſhe taketh to be Deacon, Prieſt, Biſhop, or Subdeacon, as abſtaineth from his owne wife, or is a widower, ſpecially where the holy canons be ſincerely kept. But thou wilt ſay vnto me, that in certaine places Prieſts, Deacons, and Subdeacons do yet beget children (belike thus holy father neuer heard of any Biſhop that did ſo, and therfore he leaueth out that order, which he named with the other in the former part of the ſentẽce) but that is not done according to order and rule, but according to mans minde, which by time ſlacketh, and for the great multitude (of Chriſtian people) when they were not found ſufficient for the miniſterie, &c. the reſt of his wordes be goodly for that purpoſe.

The Heretical clergy nothing regardeth the Apoſtles preſcription of one wife.

Vigil.c.1.) that they did liue ſingle in maner through the world, euen in the Eaſt Church alſo. What, ſaith he, ſhal the Churches of the Eaſt do, what they of Aegypt, of the See Apoſtolike: which take to the Clergie, either virgins, or the continent and vnmaried, or ſuch as if they haue wiues, ceaſe to be husbands? And againe he ſaith in Apolog.ad Pammach c.3. (See alſo c.8.) If maried men like not wel of this, let them not be angrie with me, but with the holy Scriptures, with al Biſhops, Prieſts, Deacons, and the whole companie of Prieſts and Leuites, that know they cannot offer ſacrifices if they vſe the act of mariage. S. Auguſtine before his converſion, when he was yet a Manichee, who (as him ſelf reporteth Confeſſ.li.6.c.3) admiring in S. Ambroſe al other his incomparable excellencies, yet counted al his felicities leſſe, becauſe he lacked a woman, without which he thought (in time of his infidelitie) no man could liue. But after his converſion thus he ſaid to God of S. Ambroſe: What hope he had, and againſt the tentations of his excellencie what a fight he felt, or rather what a comfort and ſolace in tribulation, and his ſecrete mouth which was within in his hart, what ſauourie and ſweete ioyes it taſted of thy bread, neither could I coniecture, neither had I tried.

Fulke 5. We depart neither from the Apoſtles doctrine, nor from the iudgement of all the auncient fathers (as the places of Chryſoſtome, Theodoret and Hierom doeth declare,) in vnderſtanding this text, of him that is the husband of one wife at one time, though he haue bene married more then once. And ſeeing the holy Ghoſt doeth not reſtreine marriage from them that are ordeined being ſingle, it were Antichriſtian preſumption and the doctrine of diuels, to forbid that which God hath left to bee free. That you ſay it was neuer lawfull in Gods Church to marrie after Holy orders, and that there is not one Authenticall example thereof in the world, it is a lewde and impudent lye. For to omit ſo many of your Popiſh Church, which by the Popes diſpenſation haue married after Holy orders, the Councel of Ancyra can.9. or.10. alloweth them, that when they are ordeined Deacons, doe profeſſe that they muſt haue wiues to marrie after orders taken, and to continue in the Miniſterie. But of this matter ſee more the Notes vpon S. Matthew the 8. Sect.3. where alſo is handled the iudgement of the Nicen Councel, according to the ſentence of Paphnutius, and the ſaying of Epiphanius. Sauing that you ſay, Epiphanius neuer heard that any biſhop did beget children, as he did of other inferiour degrees, Where I might anſwere you, that vnder the name of Prieſtes, Biſhops are alſo conteined, as you confeſſe ſometimes. And Athanaſius ad Dracontium, affirmeth, That hee knewe many Biſhops wer married, and contrarywiſe Monks made fathers of children, as on the other ſide you may ſee (ſaith hee) Biſhops fathers of children, & Monkes that haue not ſought libertie of generation, and that Clearkes haue drunke wine, and Monkes haue faſted. For ſo it is lawfull and after this maner it ſhall not be prohibited, but let euery man ſtriue in what he will, &c.

Where you ſay Euſebius ſaith, that ſuch as be conſecrated to the holy Miniſtery, ſhould abſteine wholy from their wiues which they had before, it is falſe. His wordes are theſe, According to the lawes of the new Teſtament, begetting of children is not altogether forbidden, although that which is not vnlike to the auncient godly men, is appointed. For the word ſaith, that a Biſhop muſt be the husband of one wife, but alſo it is meete that euen they which are conſecrated and exerciſed about the Miniſtery of God, doe abſtaine from thence foorth, from matrimonial companie. He ſpeaketh therefore of that which he iudged cõuenient, but not neceſſarie. S. Hierom was too much addicted to extol continencie and virginitie, and therefore (otherwiſe then the trueth requireth) he pronounceth of the Apoſtles: yet can he not deny, but many Biſhops and Prieſtes in his time were married, and did alſo vſe the acte of mariage (although they abſtained at ſome times) as appeareth by the former place in his Apologie. For in the other place he ſaith, Biſhops, Prieſtes and Deacons, are choſen either virgines or widowes, vel certe poſt ſacerdotium in æternum iudici, Or at leaſt after Prieſthod for euer chaſte, We may well vnderſtand him, of them that liue chaſtly in marriage. For elſe it would follow, that married men were impudici, vnchaſt and filthy, which crime of reproch of mariage, Hierom in that Apologie laboureth to wipe away from himſelfe. But Socrates lib. 5. cap. 22. Saith that in his time many Biſhops (euen in the time that they were Biſhops) begate children of their lawfull wiues. S. Auguſtine de adulterinis coniugijs, ſaith, That ſome which were conſtrained to be of the Cleargie, did continue continent by Gods helpe to the end: He ſaith not, that they were bound vnto it by the Lawe of God. For of S. Peter, the auctour of thoſe queſtions vnder his name ſaith, It is knowen that he had a wife, and the begetting of children did not hinder him to take the Primacie among the Apoſtles, Quæſtion. ex. vtroq; mixt. Q. 102.

The reſt that you ſay, of our complaining of theſe neceſſities, &c. and thinking there is no life without women, is vaine and ſlanderous. We know Gods giftes are diuers, and that to ſome he giueth the gift of continencie, but not to all. And therefore to whom God giueth not the gift, we ſay it is impoſſible for him to haue it. But if it be a matter ſo eaſie, and the gift in euery mans power that will ſeeke it (as you defend) the more inexcuſable is the Popiſh Cleargie, if they keepe not continencie which alſo they haue vowed or profeſſed, as it is well knowen how ill they kept it in times paſt, and it is to be doubted they would doe little better hereafter, if they were ſettled in ſuch eaſe and wealth, as they haue bene. Slander.

But to proue that it was generally the Churches order from the Apoſtles time, that the Cleargie ſhould abſtaine from mariage, you will vs to ſee. Firſt Tertullian in his firſt booke to his wife, where no ſuch matter is, although as he had at that time embraced the hereſie of Montanus, he ſaith, That ſecond mariages were againſt the diſcipline of the Church, and the preſcript of the Apoſtle, which ſuffereth not them that haue bene twiſe maried to be Biſhops. But the Catholike Church in his time alowed them to be Biſhops, that were twiſe maried, and that doeth Tertullian obiect vnto the Catholikes as a crime, in his booke de Monogamia. Whereby we may ſee, from how good a ſpring that interpretation of this text proceeded, that a Biſhop might not be one that had bene twiſe maried, euen from the filthie ſinke of Montanus the heretike. And yet it is not like, that Tertullian abſtained from his wife, becauſe he vſeth not that for a reaſon, to perſwade her from ſecond mariage, that ſhe had experience by long abſtinence in mariage, that ſhe had ſtrength to refraine from mariage, if ſhe would vſe it. The booke de ſingularitate clericorum, (though it be none of S. Cyprians workes) yet doeth it not ſhew, that it was the generall order of the Church from the Apoſtles, that the Miniſters of the Church ſhould be vnmaried or abſtaine from their wiues, but that ſuch as had promiſed openly to abſtaine from lawfull mariage, ſhould not ſecretly keepe companie with ſtrange women. Therefore he ſaith Num. 4. Why hath he taken a woman to him, which hath deſpiſed to marry a wife. Againe, He hath giuen to me a ſuſpected plee, which hath refuſed a lawfull wife, and taken an vnLawfull woman. The thirde Canon of the Councel of Nice likewiſe, forbiddeth all ſtrange women to dwell with the Miniſters of the Church, but not their owne wiues. The Councel of Neocæſarea c. 1. depoſeth him, that marieth after he is a Prieſt from his dignitie, but if he commit fornication or adulterie, caſteth him out of the Church, & putteth to open penance among lay men. This prouincial conſtitution (though not grounded vpon the word of God) yet declareth that they compted it a breach of mans lawe, for a Prieſt to marrie, and therefore depoſed him from his order, (but no ſinne againſt God,) therefore they neuer diuorced him nor put him to penance, as they did them that committed fornication or adulterie. But that a maryed man might be ordeined and retaine his wife, it appeareth in the ſame Counecl Can. 8. The Councel of Ancyra before that, Can. 10. decreed in theſe wordes. The Deacons (whoſoeuer) at the time of their ordination, proteſted ſaying: they would haue wiues, and that they could not contein, if afterward they come to be maried, let them remaine in the Miniſterie, becauſe the Biſhop hath giuen them licence. But ſo many as held their peace, and receiued impoſition of handes, profeſſing continencie, if after they come to be maried, ought to ceaſſe from the Miniſterie. This Canon doeth ſhew moſt maniſeſtly, that abſtinence from mariage was not exacted of any, but ſuch as would willingly profeſſe it, and that it was lawfull to marrie euen after holy orders taken, contrary to your ſtoute aſſertion. Therefore whatſoeuer was decreed in the later Counecls, can be no preiudice to the ancient trueth, and practiſe of the Church. And ſeeing the Councel of Nice the firſt, allowed the Cleargie to continue with their wiues, you are not able to ſhew a contrary decree more ancient then that vngodly and vnlearned Epiſtle of Siricius biſhop of Rome, to the biſhops of Affrica, In which he would proue, that the Apoſtle (although he ſaid a biſhop muſt be the husband of one wife,) yet would haue him to abſtaine from his wife, becauſe he ſaith elſe where: They that are in the fleſh cannot pleaſe God. According to which decretal Epiſtle, that Councel of Carthage 2. was held, if all be not counterfect, the Epiſtel Reſcript, Councel & all, as there is good cauſe to ſuſpect. The Councels of Toletane 2. and Orleans 3. being of much later time, and neerer to the open reuelation of Antichriſt, it is leſſe marueile if they drew neerer to the prohibition of Mariage, and the Canon 3. of Toledo which you quote, forbiddeth the cohabitation onely of ſtrange women: and in the firſt Canon, theſe Spaniſh biſhops allow maried men to be taken into the Miniſterie, ſo they promiſe to renounce the workes of the fleſh. The Councel of Orleans depoſeth them that abſteine not from their owne wiues, yet leaueth them in the communion of Lay men. And howſoeuer the myſterie of iniquitie wrought ſometimes more cloſſely, ſometimes more openly, yet Gregory the 7. otherwiſe called Hildebrand, placed by the deuil, whom as a Necromancer he ſerued in the Antichriſtian See of Rome about 500. yeeres agoe, was the firſt that by cruel decrees of excommunication, depriued the Miniſters of the Church of their lawfull wiues, and compelled the Cleargie to the vowe of continencie. For vntill his time, and in his time, many of the Prieſtes were married, though by hypocriſie of other Popes and Prelates, they were ſometimes moleſted, yet neuer vtterly prohibited or diuorced from them. But whoſoeuer was auctour of the Clergies ſingle life by prohibition of mariage, it is certaine he learned it of the deuil, as the Apoſtle teſtifieth in the beginning of the next Chapter.

Rhem. 6. 6. Not a Neophyte.) That which is ſpoken here properly and principally of the newly baptized (for ſo the word Neophyte doth ſignifie) the fathers extend alſo to al ſuch as be but newly retired from prophane occupations, ciuil gouernment, warfare, or ſecular ſtudies, of whom good trial muſt be taken before they ought to be preferred to the high dignitie of Biſhop or Prieſt. though for ſome ſpecial prerogatiue and excellencie, it hath in certaine perſons ben otherwiſe, as in S. Ambroſe and ſome other notable men. Tertullian (li. de præſcript.) taxeth Heretikes for their lightnes in admitting euery one without diſcretion to the Cleargie. Their Orders (ſaith he) are raſh, light, inconſtant: now they place Neophytes, then ſecular men, then our Apoſtates, that they may tie them by glorie and preferment, Whom with the truth they can not. No where may a man ſooner proſper and come forward, then in the campe of rebelles, where to be onely, is to deſerue much. therfore one to day a Biſhop, to morow ſomewhat els: to day a Deacon, to morow Lector, that is a Reader: to day a Prieſt, to morow a lay man. for to lay men alſo they enioyne the functions of Prieſtes. And S. Hierom ep. 83. ad Oceanum c. 4. ſaith of ſuch, Yeſterday a Catechumene or newly conuerted, to day a Biſhop: yeſterday in the theatre, to day in the Church: at night in the place of games and mainteries. in the morning at the altar: a while ago a great patrone of ſtageplaiers, now a conſecrator of holy virgins. And in another place, Out of the boſome of Plato and Ariſtophanes they are choſen to a Biſhoprike, whoſe care is, not how to ſucke out the marow of the Scriptures, but how to ſoothe the peoples eares with floriſhing declamations. Dialog. cont. Luciferi. c. 5.

None rathly to be admitted to the Cleargie.

Heretikes admit al ſorts without exception.

Fulke. 6. There was neuer hereſie that hath admitted more vnworthy perſons into their Cleargie, then the hereſie of Papiſtrie hath, not onely into inferiour places, but euen into their biſhops See, and vnto the See of Rome it ſelfe, as their owne hiſtories doe teſtifie of many.

Rhem. 7. 8. Deacons.) Vnder the name of Deacons are here conteined Subdeacons, as before vnder the name of Biſhop, Prieſts alſo were comprehended. for to theſe foure pertaineth the Apoſtles precept and order touching one wife, and touching continencie and chaſtitie, as by the alleaged Councels and fathers (namely by the words of S. Epiphanius) doth appeare. for they onely be in holy Orders, as ſeruing by their proper function about the Altar and the B. Sacrament: in reſpect whereof, the Law of chaſtitie pertaineth to them, and not to the foure inferior Orders of Acolyti, Exorciſtæ, Lectores, and Oſtiarij Who neither by precept nor vow be bound to perpetual chaſtitie, as the others of the holy and high Orders be bound, both by precept and promis or ſolemne aſſent made when they tooke Subdeaconſhip.

Leon. 41. c. 3. Greg. li. 1. ep. 42.

The three holy orders, only bound to chaſtitie.

The 4. inferior orders not bound to chaſtitie.

Al theſe degrees and orders to haue ben euer ſince Chriſtes time in the Church of God, it might be proued by all antiquitie. but for as much as the Apoſtles purpoſe is not here to reckon vp al the Eccleſiaſtical Hierarchie, it needeth not be treated of in this place. But we wish the learned to reade the 3. 4. 5. 6. 7. 8. 9. chapters of the 4. Councel of Carthage, whereat S. Auguſtine was preſent: where they ſhal ſee the expreſſe callings, offices, and maner of ordering or creating al the ſaid ſortes, and ſhal wel perceiue theſe things. 1. to be moſt auncient and venerable. Let them read alſo Euſebius hiſtorie, the 35 Chapter of the 6 booke. where for al theſe orders he reciteth Cornelius epiſtle to Fabius, concerning Nouatus. Likewiſe S. Cyprian in many places, namely ep. 55. nu. 1. where ſee the notes vpon the ſame. S. Hiero. ep. 2. c. 6. Of Subdeacons there is mention in S. Auguſtine. ep. 74. and ep. 20. de epiſtolis 22 in edit. Pariſ. S. Epiph. hær. 59. S. Cyprian ep. 24. S. Ignatius ep. 9. ad Antiochenos, and in the 43 canon of the Apoſtles. Conc. Tolet. 2. can. 1. & 3. Conc. Laodicen can. 21. Epiſt. Epiph. apud Hiero. 60. c. 1.

Al the ſeuen orders auncient, euen from Chriſt and the Apoſtles time.

Fulke 7. S. Paul knew no ſubdeacons, and therefore you cannot comprehend them vnder his rule of Deacons. As for Biſhops and Elders differ not in order, but onely in office of gouernment. In the auncient times there is mention of vnder Deacons, which were aſſigned to ſome inferiour ſeruice in that Miniſterie, for an orderly and quiet diſtribution of thoſe duties, and ſo might be comprehended vnder the name of Deacons. But your ſubdeacons are a diſtinct degree and order from Deacons, nothing intermedling with the ducties and office of Deacons, therefore nothing like the auncient vnder Deacons, but in name onely. As for thoſe other offices which you name Acoluthi, were young men appointed to attend vpon the Biſhop, for their learning to bee inſtructed by his doctrine and example, that afterward they might be meete to be called vnto the ſame office. The Exorciſtes were ſuch as had the gift to caſt out deuils in them that were poſſeſſed and were called Energumeni. The readers were ſuch as were appointed to reade the text of the Scriptures openly in the Church. The doore keepers were aſſigned to keepe the entrie of the Church, that no heathen perſon or excommunicate ſhould enter, but ſuch onely as were admitted either to the hearing of the word, or to the prayers, or to the Sacraments. They had alſo Singers, labourers, confeſſours, diggers or ſextons and Catechiſtes, as it appeareth by Ignatius ad Antioch. Canon Apoſt. 42. Hierom de ſeptem ordinibus. Cyprian Epiſt. 24. Euſeb. lib. 6 cap. 3. So that if you will haue all offices that were in the Primitiue Church, to be ſeuerall orders of the Miniſterie, you muſt haue at the leſt tenne or eleuen orders. That continencie was required by auncient Canons of Subdeacons alſo, you ground much vpon Epiphanius, who confeſſeth that it was not generally obſerued in his time. It ſufficeth vs to haue only thoſe orders & degrees as neceſſarie, which the holy Scripture hath commended. Other variable offices as euery Church ſhall thinke expedient for their gouernment and diſcipline, they may inſtitute or retaine. As for the ridiculous offices that are appointed to theſe Popiſh orders, to carie tapers, cruettes, flieflaps, and to driue dogges out of the Church, it is ſuperfluous to write, the auncient Primitiue Church knewe no ſuch vanities. And where as you ſende the learned to the Councel of Carthage 4. Where you ſay S. Auguſtine was preſent, the learned may iuſtly ſuſpect the credit of that Councel, which is wholy patched out of the Popes decrees. Where Gratian ſaith, that Pope Zoſimus was preſent by his deputies Diſt. 93. c. Diaconi ita, &c. when by the date that is giuen to it, Zoſimus was not yet Pope, but either Siricius or Anaſtaſius.

Subdeacons.

Popiſh orders

Clemens conſt. lib. 8. cap. 15. Lamb. lib. 4. d. 24. Auream ſpeculum Papæ. Iuo. part. 6.

Againe

Againe, many ancient copies of theſe decrees, haue no title of the Councell of Carthage, but of auncient Statutes of the Church. And therefore thoſe decrees, ſeeme to be of a later making then S. Auguſtines time. And yet in thoſe decrees, the prieſt receiueth no power to conſecrate, nor to offer for the quicke and the dead, the Deacon is ordayned to miniſter. The Subdeacon hath a platter, and a cuppe, a cruſe of water and a towel deliuered vnto him, to ſignifie that he is appointed to ſerue the tables, as Act. 6. Not a popiſh patten, chalice, cruet and other toyes for the maſſe. The Acoluth hath a candleſticke and wax candle deliuered, that he may knowe he is bounde to light the candelles of the Church, which came together in time of perſecution in the night ſeaſon. In remembrance whereof, euen in time of peace, they kept the Vigils and night watches, when they lighted waxe candels as S. Hierom ſayth to driue away the darkenes of the night, and not in the day time, as S. Vigilantius obiected, except perhaps ſuperſtitious women, which had more zeale & knowledge, as Hierom ſayd, lighted them in the day time alſo. The Acolouth alſo, had a little cruſe deliuered vnto him, to ſerue wine for the communion. But admit they were then decreed, the popiſh church, hath not for many yeres had any vſe of theſe inferior orders: for a poore Sexten, or a boy, doth moſt commonly execute all thoſe offices, which in thoſe decrees are appointed to Acolytes, Oſtiaries, Readers: yea muſt commonly, they ſupply the office of Deacons and Subdeacons alſo, when maſſe is ſaid. Neither do they ordaine Acolytes to do their office, nor any of the reſt, but as preparatories to Prieſthood. Theſe offices therefore in the church are needles.

Rhem. 8. 15. In the houſe of God.) Al the world being Gods, yet the Church onely is his houſe, the Rector or Ruler whereof at this day. (ſaith S. Ambroſe vpon this place) is Damaſus. Where let our louing brethren note well, how clere a caſe it was then, that the Pope of Rome was not the Gouernour onely of one particular See, but of Chriſtes whole houſe, which is the Vniuerſall Church, whoſe Rector this day is Gregorie the thirteenth.

S. Ambroſe calleth the B. of Rome rector of the whole Church.

Fulke. 8. S. Ambroſe ſayth not, that Damaſus was the ruler of the whole Church or Gouernour of the vniuerſall Church, but a ruler and a gouernour of the church of God, as euery other catholike Biſhop was, and is by S. Paules wordes Act. 20. 18. If you aſke why then doth he name Damaſus alone, rather then any other Biſhop? I anſwere, becauſe the Arianes had greatly ouerronne, not onely the Eaſt churches, bnt alſo the Weſt churches, and the citie of Rome it ſelfe in the time of Liberius and Felix, that were his predeceſſors, and the Catholikes beganne to recouer there ſtrength againe, vnder Damaſus: to diſtinguiſh the Catholike church from the Arrians hereticall companies, whereof there were great troopes ſtill remayning, he nameth Damaſus Biſhop of Rome, a Gouernour of the church of God, being the chiefe Biſhop of Italy, with whom he did communicate. As alſo Hierom againſt the Arrians, profeſſeth that he would ioyne with Damaſus, becauſe he maintained the truth of Chriſtes diuinitie, againſt thoſe heretikes in the Eaſt. Wherefore the ſaying of Ambroſe, doth no more allow Gregory the thirteenth, to be a Catholike Biſhop, then Liberius, Honorius, Vigilius, or any other that were found to be heretikes, much leſſe make him the Gouernor of the vniuerſall church of Chriſt.

The popes auctority.

Rhem. 9. 15. The piller of truth.) This place pincheth al Heretikes wonderfully, and ſo it euer did, and therefore they oppoſe themſelues directly againſt the very letter and confeſſed ſenſe of the ſame, that is, cleane contrary to the Apoſtle, ſome ſaying, the Church to be loſt or hidden: ſome to be falen away from Chriſt theſe many ages: ſome, to be driuen to a corner onely of the world: ſome, that it is become a ſtewes and the ſeate of Antichriſt: laſtly the Proteſtants moſt plainely and directly, that it may and doth erre, and hath ſhamfully erred for many hundred yeres together. And they ſay herein like themſelues, and for the credite of their owne doctrine, which cannot be true in very deede, except the Church erre, euen the Church of Chriſt, which is here called the houſe of the liuing God.

The heretikes ſay directly cõtrary to the Apoſtle, that the Church is not the piller of truth.

But the Church which is the houſe of God, whoſe Rector (ſaith S. Ambroſe) in his time was Damaſus, and now Gregory the thirteenth, and in the Apoſtles time S. Peter, is the piller of truth, the eſtabliſhment of al veritie: therefore it cannot erre. It hath the ſpirit of God to lead is into al truth till the worldes end: therefore it cannot erre. It is builded vpon a rocke, hel gates ſhal not preuaile againſt it: therefore it can not erre. Chriſt is in it til the end of the world, he hath placed in it Apoſtles, Doctors, Paſtors, and Rulers, to the conſummation and full perfection of the whole body, that in the meane time we be not caried about with euery blaſt of doctrine: therefore it can not erre. He hath praied for it, that it be ſanctified in veritie, that the faith of the chiefe Gouernour thereof faile not: it is his houſe, his ſpouſe, his body, his lotte, kingdome and inheritance, giuen him in this world: he loueth it as his owne fleſh, and it cannot be diuorced or ſeperated from him: therefore it can not erre. The new Teſtament, Scriptures, Sacramentes, and ſacrifice can not be changed, being the euerlaſting dowrie of the Church, continued and neuer rightly occupied in any other Church but in this our Catholike Church: therefore it can not erre. And therefore al thoſe poinctes of doctrine, faith, and worſhip, which the Arians, Manichees, Proteſtants, Anabaptiſtes, other old or new Heretikes, vntruely thinke to be errors in the Church, be no errors in deede but themſelues moſt ſhamfully are deceiued, and ſo ſhall be ſtill, til they enter againe into this houſe of God, which is the piller and ground of al truth: that is to ſay, not onely it ſelfe free from al error in faith and religion, but the piller and ſtay to leane vnto in all doubtes of doctrine, and to ſtand vpon againſt al hereſies and errors that ſhal ariſe, without which there can be no certaintie nor ſecuritie. And therefore the holy Apoſtles, and Councels of Nice and Conſtantinople, made it an article of our Creede, to beleeue the CATHOLIKE and APOSTOLIKE CHVRCH Which is, not onely to acknowledge that there is ſuch a Church, as heretikes falſely ſay: but that that which is called the Catholike Church, and knowen ſo to be, and communicateth with the See Apoſtolike, is the Church: and that we muſt beleeue, heare, and obey the ſame, as the touchſtone, piller, and firmament of truth. For, al this is compriſed in that principle, I beleeue the Catholike church. And therefore the Counſel of Nice ſaid, I beleeue in the Church, that is, I beleeue and truſt the ſame in al thinges.

That the church is the piller of truth and can not erre, is proued by many reaſons. Io. 14. 16. Mat. 16. Mat. 28. Eph. 4. Io. 17. Luc. 22. Pſal. 2. Eph. 5.

The meaning of this article, I beleeue the Cath. Church.

Fulke. 9. As this place pincheth al heretikes generally, ſo the Papiſts moſt ſpecially. For ſeeing the Church of God, is the piller and ſtay of truth, and the Romiſh church is not the piller and ſtay of truth, but an enemy thereof, and a bolſterer out of lyes, fables, hereſies, and the doctrine of deuils, it followeth inuincibly, that the Romiſh church, is not the church of God. The minor, hath bene often proued, both by preaching, diſputing and writing, and is ſufficiently declared in this anſwere. But howe I pray you, doth it pinch vs, as you image? You ſay we oppoſe our ſelues directly againſt the very letter and confeſſed ſenſe of the ſame. Howe proue you that? you anſwere, ſome ſay the Church is loſt, or hidden who ſayth the Church is loſt? ſuer I am, none of vs euer ſaid ſo, ſome perhaps haue ſaid, that the true Church hath been hidden from the eyes of the world, and of Antichriſt, that hath perſecuted her. But here of I trow it followeth not (except it be in Rhemiſh Logike) that therefore the Church is not the piller of truth. Secondly you adde, that ſome ſaye the Church is fallen away from Chriſt theſe many ages, and that we become a ſtewes, and the ſeate of Antichriſt. We ſay ſo in deed of the Romiſh Church, yet Chriſt hath, and had his Church and chaſt ſpouſe all this while, which is the piller of truth. Yet againe, you ſay, that ſome of vs ſay, it is driuen to a corner onely of the worlde. But you ſay vntruely, for we beleeue that it is, and all waies was, diſperſed in many nations, although in reſpect of the perſecution, it is ſayd, to be driuen into the wildernelle. Apocalyp. 12. And you acknowledge, when Antichriſt commeth, it ſhal be driuen into corners, and great ſtreights, yet for al that, it was alwaies, and euer ſhalbe, the piller and ſtay of truth.

Laſtly, you charge the Proteſtantes to ſay, that it may and doth erre, and hath ſhamfully erred, for many hundred yeres together, We ſay not that the catholike Church of Chriſt, but the Church of Rome hath ſhamfully and damnably erred, theſe many hundred yeres. We ſay alſo, that the true Church of Chriſt, may erre, and haue ſpottes in doctrine as wel as in conuerſation, yet not in any point neceſſary vnto ſaluation. And for all that be the piller & ſtay of truth, for it is no otherwiſe called the ſtay and piller of truth then it is called the chaſt virgin without ſpot or wrinckle. Eph. 5. 27. Hauing neither perfection of truth, nor of holines in her members in this world, but ſo farre forth as thee is directed by the worde of God, and his holy ſpirit, which miniſtreth alwaies ſufficient truth, to conduct them to the ſtate of perfection, after this life. The Church therefore is the piller & ſtay of truth, becauſe al truth neceſſary to ſaluation, is to be founde no where in the world, but in the Church of God, and this truth is alwaies to be found, in euery Church of God, though it be not alwaies pure, from all contagion of errors. For S. Paul inſtructeth Timothy, howe to behaue him ſelfe in the Church of Epheſus, or any other part of the catholike Church of Chriſt, that it may continue the houſe, or Church of God, whoſe office is to be a piller and ſtay of truth that is learned out of Gods worde. He doth not ſend Timothee to learne of the Church, whereof he was appointed a teacher, but he willeth Timothee, to teach the Church out of the worde of God that it might ſtill continue the piller and ſtay of truth. For if any particular Church, as the church of Rome, contemne the word of God and preſume to decree both without it and againſt it, euen in articles of fayth neceſſary to ſaluation, it ceaſeth to be the church of God and the piller and ſtay of truth, which is become an harlot, a mainteiner of hereſye and falſe doctrine. But let vs heare what maine reaſon, you haue to proue, that the Church can not erre in any thing.

Firſt I denie that the popiſh Church is that, whereof Peter was a gouernour in his time, and Damaſus in the time of S. Ambroſe. That principle you muſt proue, for by begging, you ſhall neuer haue it graunted.

Secondly you ſay, the Church is the piller of truth, ergo it can nor erre. I denie your argument. for Peter was a piller of truth, yet he erred, and was reproued by S. Paul Gal. 2. 11. I haue ſhewed, how it can not erre, and how it may erre, being the piller and ſtay of truth builded vpon the foundation of the Apoſtles and prophetes Ieſus Chriſt being the corner ſtone Ephe. 2. 20. &c.

Thirdly, you ſay, it hath the ſpirit of God to leade it into all truth, to the ende of the worlde: Ergo it can not erre. I denie this argument. Euery one of Gods elect, after they be called, haue the ſpirit of truth by Chriſtes praier Iohn 17. vnto their liues ende, yet they may erre, though not finally to there damnation.

Fourthly, to be briefe, although the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile againſt the Church of Chriſt, to ouerthrowe it, it followeth not, that it cannot erre, for euery true Chriſtian is builded vpon the ſame rocke, which is Chriſt, and the gates of hel ſhall not preuaile, to condempne any true Chriſtian.

Fiftly, he hath placed Apoſtles, Prophetes, Euangeliſtes, Paſtors, and Doctors, to the full conſummation and perfection of the whole body, and euery member, that we be not caryed about &c. Ergo the Church can not erre. You may as well conclude, that no true member of the Church can erre. And certaine it is, that the doctrine of the Apoſtles, Prophetes, and Euangeliſtes, if it be continually taught, by the paſtors and teachers, is ſufficient to preſerue the Church, and euery true member from all error in doctrine. But if they declyne from the rule of the Apoſtles, prophetes, and Euangeliſtes, they erre them ſelues, and deceiue as many as follow them. S. Paul therefore declareth, what an excellent benefit Chriſt hath beſtowed on his Church, and euery true member thereof, he doth not aſſure either the whole Church, or euery member thereof of truth alwaies, if they neglect the benefite: although he doe otherwiſe aſſure his whole body and euery part thereof, neuer to be deceyued finally vnto deſtruction. But ſeeing there be ſome paſtors, and teachers, builders of the Church, that build wodde, haye, and ſtuble vpon the foundation Chriſt, which ſhall be ſaued, although they looſe their combuſtible worke, the Church by ſuch builders, may be brought into error, but holding ſtill the foundation, can neuer be depriued of ſaluation. 1. Cor. 3.

Sixtly, he hath prayed for the Church, that it be ſanctified in the veritie, Ergo it can not erre. The concluſion ſoloweth not: for the Church is ſanctified in the truth, and yet may erre, as it doth ſinne in euery member thereof. And the ſame praier, perteineth to euery one of Gods elect, which may erre, and yet be ſanctified in the truth, not to erre vnto damnation Ioan. 17. 20.

Seuenthly, he hath prayed, that the fayth of the cheefe gouernour thereof faile not. Ergo it can not erre. This is the worſt of all the argumentes, that went before, for there is no parte of it true. Chriſt prayed not for Peter, as cheife gouernour of the Church, but as one of the true members thereof, that his fayth ſhould not faile, which praier he made generally, for euery member of the church, which yet may erre, & ſo did Peter Gal. 2. That ſpecial praier for Peter, was that his fayth ſhould not faile in that greeuous tentation, when he

he was ſifted by Sathan: and cannot be applyed to euery one that is Biſhop, where Peter taught, except you will ſay, that euery one of them muſt deny Chriſt, as Peter did.

Eightly, the Church is Chriſtes houſe, his ſpouſe, his bodye, his lotte, kingdome and inheritance: this is confeſſed, but hereof it followeth no more, that it is free from al error, then that it is free from al ſpott of ſinne while it is a ſtranger on the earth.

Nynthely, he loueth it as his owne fleſh, and it cannot be diuorced or ſeperated from him. Ergo it cannot erre. we may as well conclude, that ſeeing he loueth euery one of his members, as his owne fleſh, for we are euery one, members of his body, of his fleſh, & of his bones, which cannot be ſeperated from him. Eph. 5. 30. Therefore none of his members, can erre, or ſinne. And yet it is certaine, that none of his members, can erre or ſinne vnto eternal damnation, though euery error and ſinne, deſerue damnation.

Laſtly, the new Teſtament, ſcriptures, ſacramentes and ſacrifice, can not be changed, being the euerlaſting dowrye of the Church, continued and neuer rightly occupied in any other Church, but in your Popiſh Church, which you falſely call the Catholike Church, Ergo the Church, and that the popiſh Church, can not erre. As great learning as you woulde be thought to haue, you ſhew it litle, in ſetting the worſt argument in the laſt place. For beſide the inconſequens of the argument, common with all the reſt of his brethren that went before, it conteyneth no leſſe, then three moſt impudent and beggerly petitions of the whole matter in controuerſie.

Firſt, that the new Teſtament, the ſcriptures, ſacramentes and ſacrifice of Chriſt, haue bene euer continued, in the right vſe of them, in the popiſh Church.

Secondly, that no other Church hath rightly occupied them. And thirdly, that the popiſh Church is the Catholike church of Chriſt. But if all theſe three principles were admitted as true, which while heauen and earth ſtandeth ſhall neuer be graunted of vs, nor proued by you, yet the concluſion is falſe. For that the true Catholike church though ſhe haue the right vſe of the new Teſtament, ſcriptures, ſacramentes, and ſacrifice of Chriſt to the ſaluation of all her members, yet ſhe hath not alwaies, ſuch perfection of knowledge, but that ſhe may be deceiued in ſome things.

Your generall concluſion is yet more impudent, that all thoſe pointes of doctrine, faith, and worſhip, that any man thinketh to be errors in the popiſh Church, be no errors, although they be neuer ſo contrary to the new teſtament, which is Gods couenant of remiſſion of ſinnes freely, and iuſtification by grace, and fayth onely, as your doctrines of merites, and ſatisfaction, though they be neuer ſo contrary to the ſcriptures, as the Communion vnder one kinde, worſhipping of Images and other creatures, prohibition of mariage and meates &c. and though they ouerthrow the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death and ſufficiency thereof, by the daily ſacrifice of the maſſe, and the Popes pardones a pœna & culpa &c. But the faythfull knowe, that Church to be the piller and ſtay of truth, which is builded vpon the foundation of the prophetes and the Apoſtles, Ieſus Chriſt being the head corner ſtone, therefore they ſeeke the Church in the holy ſcriptures, which are the monumentes of the prophetes and the Apoſtles, and a perfect teſtimony of Chriſt, and ſo leane to the Church, as the Church leaneth to the ſcripture, and to Chriſt, the onely fonndation thereof. For none other thing did the Apoſtles, and the Nicene councel meane, when they taught vs, to beleeue and confeſſe, the Catholike and Apoſtolike Church of Chriſt. For neyther the Apoſtles, nor the Nicen councel, had auctoritie, to make any articles of fayth, but to teache and declare, thoſe pointes of doctrine that the ſpirit of truth, hath reueeled, to be neceſſary articles of fayth vnto ſaluation. But it ſufficeth not you, that we confeſſe that there is a Catholike Church, whereof euery chriſtian man muſt be a child and member, that he may be ſaued. But further you require, that we acknowledge: that that which is called the Catholike Church, and knowen ſo to be, and communicateth with the See Apoſtolike, is the Church. Heare is as great vncerteintie as before: for all companies of heretikes, call them ſelues the Catholike Church. But howe ſhall they be knowen to be the Catholike Church, and to communicate with the See Apoſtolike, but by there conſent in doctrine with the holy ſcriptures, and writinges of the Apoſtles? The Churches of the Eaſt, call and compt them ſelues the Catholike Church, as much as the Papiſtes, and communicate with the Apoſtolike Sees of Ieruſalem, Antioch, Alexandria, Conſtantinople, Epheſus, where the Apoſtles Peter, Andrew, Iames, and Iohn and Marke the Euangeliſt haue ſitten, and there doctrine in many pointes is more agreable to the writinges of the Apoſtles, and Euangeliſtes, then the Papiſtes, yet the Papiſtes, will not acknowledge them to be the Catholike Church, therefore this rule is no parte of our Creede, at leaſt wiſe, it can not ſufficiently direct vs, to the Catholike Church, which is the article of our fayth. Your ſecond rule: (that we muſt heare, beleeue, and obey the ſame, as the touchſtone, pillar, and firmament of truth) ſo it be rightely vnderſtood, we doe yeld vnto, but this Church is that, which is builded vpon the fundation of the Prophetes and Apoſtles whoſe doctrine is comprehended in the holy ſcriptures, and is therefore called the piller and ſtay of truth, becauſe it teacheth this true doctrine. Therefore what Church is the piller of truth, which wee muſt heare, beleeue, and obey: we muſt knowe onely out of the ſcriptures, and ſo farre acknowledge it to the piller of truth, as it teacheth nothing, but that which is conteyned in the worde of truth, declared in the ſcriptures. And thus the auncient fathers, haue taught vs to knowe the Church. Chryſoſtome opere imperf. in Math. Hom. 24. Auguſtine de vnitate Eccleſiæ c. 3. & 16. Neyther did the Nicene creede ſay, I beleeue in the Catholike Church, otherwiſe then we ſay in the Apoſtles Creede, I beleeue the Catholike Church, whereof ſee more at large. Rom 10. ſect 4.

Rhem. 10 Neyther can the Heretikes eſcape the ſting from the knowen viſible Church, to the hid congregation or company of the Predeſtinate. For that is but a falſe phantaſticall apprehenſion of Wicleffe and his followers. The company of the Predeſtinate maketh not any one Societie among them ſelues, many of them being yet vnborne, and many yet Infidels and heretikes, and therefore be not of the one houſe of God which is here called, the piller of truth. And thoſe of the Predeſtinate that be already of the Church, make not a ſeuerall company from the knowen Catholike church, but are baptized, houſeled, taught, they liue and die in the common Catholike viſible Church, or els they can neyther receiue Sacramentes,

It is the viſible Church that is the piller of truth and can not erre.

nor ſaluation. S.Paul inſtructeth not Timothee howe to teach, preach, correct, and converſe in the inuiſible ſocieties of the Predeſtinate, but in the viſible houſe of God. So that it muſt needes bee the viſible Church which can not erre.

Fulke.10 We ſeeke not to flye from the knowen viſible Church, to the hid congregation of the predeſtinate. For that which is knowne to be the viſible Church of Chriſt, is a parte of the Catholike Church, which we beleeue to the congregation of all the true members of Chriſt: although in the externall ſocietie of the viſible church: there be many, that be not of the church: as S. Iohn ſayth, they went from vs, but they were none of vs. Iohn. 2. 19. What the catholike church is.

Where you denye the congregation of the predeſtinate, to be the catholike Church of Chriſt, you flatly denie an article of our fayth. For S. Auguſtine expounding the articles of the creede ſayth: that the Church is beare to be taken for the whole, and not for that parte onely, which is a ſtranger vpon earth. Encher. ad Laurent. c. 56. and oftentimes in his writings affirmeth, the catholike Church to conſiſt of all the predeſtinate, which are the members of Chriſtes myſticall body, and that no wicked men perteine vnto it, but onely the good, holy, and iuſte. De baptiſm. lib. 6. c. 3. De ciuitat. dei lib. 21. c. 25. In Ioan. Tr. 45. Whereby you may ſee, this is not a new and falſe apprehenſion of Wickleffe, but an old and true iudgement of the catholike Church. But let vs heare what argumentes you haue againſt this apprehenſion. Firſt you ſay, the company of the predeſtinate maketh not any one ſocietie among them ſelues, many of them being yet vnborne, and many yet Infidels and Heretikes, and therefore be not of the one houſe of God, which is here called the piller of truth. If you had ſaid, many are not yet in the viſible Church, which be vnborne or vncalled, we would haue agreed with you, but yet all the elect, be of the catholike Church, which in the time appointed, ſhal be borne and called. For is not that the catholike Church for which Chriſt dyed, that he might ſanctifye it and cleanſe it by the lauer of water in his worde? Eph. 5. 25. 26. Or did he deliuer him ſelfe, onely for that ſocietie of men which then were borne, and called? was it not the ſpouſe of Chriſt, for which he deliuered him ſelfe, and which not many lines before, you affirmed to be the piller of truth, which could not erre? Certaine it is, Chriſt dyed for the company of the predeſtinate, therefore the company of the predeſtinate are the Church and ſpouſe of Chriſt, therefore the houſe of God and the piller of truth, yet moſt properly called the piller of truth in reſpect of that parte, which is a ſtraunger heare vpon the earth.

But thoſe of the predeſtinate (you ſay) that be already of the Church, make not a ſeuerall company, from the knowen catholike Church. Therefore he ſpeaketh of the viſible Church. I anſwere, that thoſe of the predeſtinate, that be already not onely of the Church, but alſo in the viſible Church, are the ſame with the Church militant, which is a part of the catholike Church, and euen that is the piller of truth in this world. I vnderſtand viſible, that which may be ſeene of men, not that which is alwaies in the ſight of the wicked, nor euer in the ſight of euery godly man. You ſay further S. Paul inſtructeth not Timothee, howe to teach, preach, correct, and converſe, in the inuiſible ſocietye of the predeſtinate, but in the viſible houſe of God. I ſay he inſtructeth him, how to behaue him ſelfe in both, not as in two Churches, but in one, ſeeing that the later, is but a parte of the former. For els the predeſtinate, that are yet vnborne and vncalled, ſhould not perteine to his charge. In truth, he teacheth him howe to behaue him ſelfe in the Church of Epheſus, or any other particuler congregation, whereof he ſhoulde haue charge, and not in the catholike church, as it is diſperſed in the whole world. For euery particuler Church is euen as the whole, the piller and ſtay of truth, ſo long as it continueth the true Church of Chriſt. Yet this difference obſerued, that any viſible particuler Church, may ceaſſe to be in this or that place, but the catholike Church, ſhal neuer be remoued out of the world, before the end of the world.

Rhem.11 If any make further queſtion, how it can be that any companie or ſocietie of men (as the Church is) can be void of error in fayth, ſeeing al men may erre: he muſt know that it is not by nature, but by priuiledge of Chriſtes preſence, of the the Holy Ghoſtes aſſiſtance, of our Lordes promiſe and praier. See S. Auguſtine vpon theſe wordes of the 118 Pſalme Conc. 13 Ne auferas de ore meo verbum veritatis vſquequaque. Where he hath goodly ſpeaches of this matter. For the ſame purpoſe alſo theſe wordes of Lactantius are very notable. It is the Catholike Church onely, that keepeth the true worſhip of God, this is the fountaine of truth, this the houſe of faith, this is the Temple of God: whether if any man enter not, or from which if any man go out, he is an aliene and ſtranger from the hope of euerlaſting life and ſaluation. No man muſt by obſtinate contention flatter him ſelfe, for it ſtandeth vpon life and ſaluation &c. S. Cyprian ſayth. The Church neuer departeth from that which ſhe once hath knowen. Ep. 55. ad Cornel. nu. 3. S. Irenæus ſayth. That the Apoſtles haue laid vp in the Church as in a rich treaſurie, al truth. And, that ſhe keepeth with moſt ſincere diligence, the Apoſtles faith and preaching. li. 3. c. 4. & 40. & li. 1. c. 3. It were an infinite thing to recite all that the fathers ſay of this matter, al counting it a moſt pernitious abſurditie to affirme, that the Church of Chriſt may erre in religion. Whence the Church hath this priuiledge neuer to erre. S. Auguſtine. Lactantius. S. Cyprian. S. Irenæus Fulke.11 The preſens of Chriſt by his ſpirit, according to his promiſe and praiers as I haue ſhewed before, preteyneth to euery true member of Chriſtes body, as much as to the whole. Yet euery member may erre of infirmitie though not finally vnto damnation. S. Auguſtine in the place quoted, ſayth nothing to proue that the Church can not erre, but that the worde of truth, which he calleth confeſſion of Chriſt, ſhall neuer faile from the whole church, though many members deny Chriſt, for a time, as Peter did, and afterwarde repent. Not altogether out of the mouth of Peter (ſaith he) in whom was a figure of the Church, the worde of truth was taken away, who although for an houre, he denied Chriſt, being troubled thorough feare, yet by weping, he was reſtored, and by confeſſing was Crowned. The Church may erre.

But theſe wordes of Lactantius, are very notable, and yet they note nothing for your purpoſe, that the Church can not erre in any thing, but in matters neceſſary to eternall life and ſaluation, which wee graunt. Notwithſtanding for as much as all ſinguler companies of heretikes (as he ſayth) thinke them ſelues chiefely chiefely to be Chriſtians, and the Catholike Church. We muſt beware that wee take not a Church falſly called Catholike in ſtead of the true Church.

The note to diſcerne the true Church which Lactantius giueth is obſcure, but if it bee compared with that which hee writeth in the former part of the chapter, that Chriſt and his Embaſſadoures, haue giuen preceptes that are certayne, which wee ought alwayes to keepe, which are their heauenly writings, from which all hereſies haue ſwarued, it may bee better vnderſtoode. Wee muſt know (ſayeth he) that to be the true Catholike Church, in which is the confeſſion and repentaunce, which wholeſomely cureth the ſinnes and woundes wherevnto the frailtie of the fleſhe is ſubiect. His meaning is, that the true Catholike Church teacheth the way of ſaluation by true fayth, and remiſſion of ſinnes according to the Scriptures. De vera ſapientia, lib. 4. cap. 30. Cyprian ſayeth: That they which departed from Chriſt, doe periſhe through their owne faulte, but the Church which beleeueth in Chriſt, and which holdeth that which ſhe hath once knowen, doeth neuer depart from him altogether, and that they are the Church which continue in the houſe of God. Whereby the Reader may ſee, how without ſhame you falſifie S. Cyprian to make a colour for your aſſertion, which Cyprian doth nothing fauour.

Irenæus ſpeaketh of the true doctrine of ſaluation, which the Church in his time did embrace, hauing teſtimonie (as he ſayth) of the Prophetes and Apoſtles, lib. 3. cap. 40. which we confeſſe to be true of the Catholike Church in all ages, yet may the Church erre in matters of leſſe moment, as in his time in the contention about the celebration of Eaſter: in S. Auguſtines time, in giuing the communion to infants, &c. Neither is there any of the auncient fathers that holdeth it a pernicious abſurdtie, to affirme that the Church of Chriſt can erre in any poynt of religion, keeping ſtill the foundation. S. Auguſtine ſayeth expreſſely, the determination of the former generall Councels, (which repreſent the whole Church) may ofentimes be reformed by the later, when by any experiment of things, that is opened, which before was ſhut, and knowen which before was vnknowen. De bapt. cont. Don. lib. 2. cap. 2. Therefore in ſome things euen the whole Church viſible on earth may erre. Neither is there any of the auncient fathers that expound this text, that gather thereof that the Church can not erre.

Chryſoſtome ſayth: The Church is not as that temple of the Iewes, for this conteineth fayth and preaching, for trueth is the piller and ſtay of the Church. By which wordes you ſee, in what ſenſe the Church is the piller of trueth, namely, becauſe the trueth is preached in it, which is the piller and ſtay of the Church it ſelfe. For trueth maketh the Church, the Church maketh not trueth. Theodoret ſayth: He calleth the houſe of God and the Church of thoſe that haue beleeued. And thoſe he called the piller and ſtay of trueth. For being founded on the Rocke, they remayne ſtedfaſt and vnmoueable, and in the thinges themſelues doe preach the trueth of doctrine. The world (ſayth Ambroſe) is in preuarication, troubled with diuers errours. Therefore it is neceſſary that it be ſayd, that there is the houſe of God, and the trueth, where hee is ſeared according to his owne will, while his ſeruauntes profeſſe that of him, which he hath vouchſafed to teache, &c. The Church is therefore the piller and ſtaie of trueth, becauſe it is her duetie to profeſſe the trueth as Chriſt hath taught it, which aſſiſted by his grace, ſhe doeth ſufficiently to the ſaluation of all her children, though not ſo perfectly alwayes, but that in ſome poynte ſhe may bee deceyued.

Rhem. 2. 4 Euery creature.) We ſee plainly by theſe wordes ſuch abſtinence only to be diſallowed as condemneth the creatures of God to be naught by nature and creation.

Fulke. 2. We ſee the creatures of God to be good both by their firſt creation, and alſo after their corruptiō through ſinne, by ſanctification, which is by the word of God which hath giuen the vſe of them vnto vs, and by prayer by which the vſe of them is conſecrated vnto vs. Therefore not onely ſuch abſtinence is deteſted, as condemneth the creatures to be naught by nature or creation, but that alſo which forbiddeth thē to be receiued vpon any hypocriticall ſurmiſe of vnholineſſe, when they be giuen to be receiued with thankſgiuing, being ſanctified by the word of God, and by prayer. Forbidding of meates.

Rhem. 3. 8 Corporal exerciſe.) Some (ſayth S. Chryſoſtome) expound this of faſting, but they are deceiued. for faſting is a ſpirituall exerciſe. See a goodly commentarie of theſe wordes in S. Auguſtine, li. de mor. Eccl. Cath. c. 33.

Fulke. 3. He ſaith that bodily exerciſe (ſaith S. Ambroſe) is profitable to litle. For to faſt and to abſtaine from meates, the authoritie of the Creator remayning, profiteth not much, except pietie be added. Therefore faſting of it ſelfe is not a ſpirituall exerciſe, except it be to the end of pietie, and ſo meaneth Chryſoſtome. S. Auguſtine alſo in the places quoted, ſpeaking of the faſting and abſtinence of godly men in his time, that was without ſuperſtition, or any preiudice to Chriſtian libertie, ſayth: They exerciſe pietie diligently, as for bodily exerciſe as the Apoſtle ſayth, they know to pertaine but to a ſhort time. They placed not religion in abſtinence from mariage and meates, as popiſh Votaries doe. True faſting.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1 Shal depart.) It is the proper deſcription of Heretikes, to forſake their former faith, and to be Apoſtates, as the Greeke

*Greeke word importeth: to giue eare to particular ſpirites of error and deception, rather then to the Spirit of Chriſt in his Church, to folow in hypocriſie and ſhew of vertue the pernicious doctrine of Diuels, who are the ſuggeſters and prompters of all Sects, and are lying ſpirites in the mouthes of all Heretikes and falſe preachers: men that haue put their conſcience to ſilence and made it ſenſles to the holy Churches admonition: the Apoſtle noting once before alſo in this ſame Epiſtle, that Heretikes haue no conſcience, which is the cauſe both of their fall and of their obduration in hereſie. All Heretikes are apoſtataes from the faith. *cap.1.19.

Rhem. 4. 1 Forbidding to marrie.) He ſpeaketh (ſayth S. Chryſoſtome) of the Manichees, Encratites, and Marcioniſts. ho. 12. in 1. Tim. S. Ambroſe vpon this place, addeth to theſe the Patritian: alſo. S. Irenæus lib.1.cap.30. S. Epiphanius hær. 45.26.61.30. S. Hieroms 1.cont.Iouin.cap.1.& ep.50.cap.1. & 3. S. Auguſtine hær.25.40. and generally all antiquitie affirme the ſame both of them, and alſo of the Heretikes called Apoſtolici, Ebionitæ, and the like. Their hereſie about mariage was, that to marrie or to vſe the act of matrimonie, is of Satan, as S. Irenæus witneſſeth, lib.1.cap 22. *and that the diſtinction of male and female, and the creation of man and woman for generation, came of an ill God. They taught their hearers, ſayth S. Auguſtine, that if they did vſe women, they ſhould in any wiſe prouide that they might not conceiue or beare children. Clemens Alexandrinus (li.3.Stromat principio) writeth, that ſuch admit no mariage nor procreation of children, leſt they ſhould bring into the world creatures to ſuffer miſerie and mortalitie. And this is the damnable opinion concerning mariage, noted here by the Apoſtle. The old Hereſies againſt matrimonie. *Aug.hær.46.

Fulke 4. Seeing the ſpirite ſpeaketh ſo euidently of this matter, you labour in vayne to poſt ouer the crime to the old heretikes, who as in their prohibition of mariage, they were forerunners of Antichriſt, ſo there was none of them, to whom this cleere prophecie may ſo properly be applied, as vnto Antichriſt himſelfe, and his neerer members. For thoſe olde heretikes that aſcribed the inſtitution of matrimonie to Sathan, and the creation and procreation of mankind vnto the diuel, ſpake not falſehood in hypocriſie, but in open blaſphemie, and therefore might eaſily be diſcerned and auoyded. But you that vnder pretenſe of holineſſe, religion, chaſtitie, puritie, faſting, prayer, by lawes and decrees forbid mariage and meates to ſome men at all times, and to all men at ſome times, are they of whom the ſpirite ſpeaketh euidently, that they vtter their falſe doctrine in hypocriſie, and therefore had need to be deſcribed by your ſpecial notes, and the Church to bee forewarned of you by this prophecie. For after the Apoſtle hath declared wherein the great myſterie of true religion conſiſteth that is taught and beleeued in the Church of Chriſt: He doth immediately giue euident notes of the myſterie of iniquitie maintained in the falſe Church of Antichriſt, who placeth the higheſt pointes of religion, in prohibition of mariage and meates. In ſo much as they are ſpecially, and in a maner onely, called and counted of you religious, that obey this prohibition of mariage and meates, though they liue no more continently, then the olde Heretikes called Origeniani turpes, Filthie Originiſts, who as Epiphanius teſtifieth of them: Reiected mariage, and yet luſt ceaſed not among them, and defiled their body and mind with Wantones. For ſome of them are in the habite of Monkes that liue ſolitarily, and ſome of the women are in the habite of women that liue ſolitarily, but they are corrupt, perfourming their luſt in their bodies. Agayne, They ſtudy not for chaſtitie, but for fained chaſtitie, and that which hath the name onely of chaſtitie. Agayne, They deſire to be in honour, for the exerciſe of chaſtitie ſuppoſed to be in them. Epiph. hæreſ.63. Such were your Monkes, Friers and Nonnes for the moſt part in England, as was found manifeſtly in the viſitation of their houſes before their ſuppreſſion. And euen the Manichees permitted mariage to their lay men, which they called their hearers, but in no wiſe to their Clergie, which they called their Elects or Choſen men. Aug. de hær. ad Quod vult deum hær.46. Agayne, ſuch as had made the vowe of chaſtitie and were not able to perfourme it, the heretikes called Apoſtolici, would not permit to marrie, which was contrary to the doctrine of the Catholike Church, which as Epiphanius doth teſtifie, iudged ẏ it was better for ſuch to marrie openly, then to burne priuily. Hæreſ 61. Therefore there is no way for you to eſcape the iudgement of the holy ghoſt, by turning the matter ouer to the olde Heretikes, who with as good reaſon might poſt it of from one to an other, the Manichees to the Tacianiſtes, and the Tacianiſtes to the Manichees, as you doe to them. But the markes are ſo euident, as no heretike that forbiddeth mariage or meates, can eſcape cleare, and you that forbid them with colour of more perfection and holines, in hypocriſie, of all other heretikes are moſt properly deſcribed by them. Forbidding of mariage.

Rhem. 5. For the ſecond point conſiſting in the prohibition of meates or vſe of certayne creatures made to be eaten, the ſayd Heretikes or diuers of them (for they were not all of one ſect touching theſe points) taught, that man might not eate certaine ſortes of meates, ſpecially of beaſts and liuing creatures, for that they were made (ſay they) of the euil God, but of the euil. And wine they called the gall of the Prince of darkneſſe, and not to be drunke at all, and the Vine whereof it came, to be of the Diuels creation. And diuers other creatures they condemned as things by nature and creation peſtilent and abominable. Auguſt. hær. Manich.46.& hær.25. Tatian.& toto libro de mor. Manich.to.1. Lo theſe were the Heretikes and their hereſies which S. Paul here propheciech of, that forbid mariage and meates as you haue heard, for which they and their followers were condemned in diuers Councels. The old hereſies about abſtinence from meates.

Fulke 5. Not onely the Manichees, Encratites, Aërians and ſuch like old heretikes, as condemned the eating of fleſh, as vncleane and abhominable, but euen the Papiſts alſo, commaund to abſteine from meates for pietie and religions ſake, which God hath created to be receiued with thankſgiuing. Counting ſuch holineſſe in eating of fiſh, that they are the moſt holy among you that eate no fleſhe, as the Charterhouſe Monkes, counting generally the eating of fiſh or fruites and ſpices, to be an holy faſte at ſuch times, as the taſting of fleſhe or white meates is thought an hainous ſinne, and for this cauſe as Durand teſtifieth, becauſe all fleſh was accurſed, not fiſh in the dayes of Noe, lib.6.cap. De alijs ieiunijs. So that faſting is but pretended in hypocriſie, for a colour that the libertie of Chriſtians, might bee brought into bondage of Antichriſtes law. Wherein how like the popiſh faſtes are vnto the faſtes of the Manichees. S. Auguſtine ſheweth, De moribus Manichæorum, li. 2.cap.13. who compted it a wonderfull prayſe to them, and a holy faſt, that they did not eate fleſh nor drinke wine (as they ſayd) to chaſtiſe themſelues and bridle luſt but of meere hypocriſie, as he ſayth: For I demaund of you (ſayth he) If there be a man (which may well be) ſo ſparing and thriftie that moderating the appetite of his belly and throte, he eateth not twiſe in one day, and when he ſuppeth, he hath ſet before him, a few herbes ſodden, and ſeaſoned with a little bacon, ſo much as is ſufficient, to ſtay his hunger. Likewiſe he quencheth his thirſt, hauing reſpect vnto his Forbidding of meates.

leſh, with two or three draughts of wine vnmingled with water, and this is his daily fare. There is another on the other ſide which taſteth no fleſh nor wine, but at the ninth houre he taſteth gladly exquiſite and ſtrange fruites, varied in many ſeuerall diſhes, ſprinkled with plentie of pepper, and ſupperh in the beginning of the night with like fare, drinketh the ſweete licour of figges or other fruites, as delicate as wine and excelling wine in ſweetneſſe, and drinketh not ſo much as bee thirſteth, but as much as he liſteth and preuideth this fare daily, and enioyeth ſuch a delicate diet of no neceſſitie, but with great pleaſure: which of theſe concerning meat and drinke, doe you iudge to leade his life in greater abſtinence? I ſuppoſe you are not ſo blinde, but that you will preferre him that liueth with a little bacon and wine, before this Gourmander. So much conſtraineth, but your error ſurgeth otherwiſe: For if one of your elect (ſayth he) ſhould but once ſuppe with the former man, of ſparing diet, and ſhould but annoynt his lips with reſtie bacon, or but take the ſauour of it, as a breaker of this faſt or abſtinence, he ſhall be condemned to hell fire. What difference there is then betweene the faſt of the Manichees, and the faſt of the Papiſts, ſauing that the Papiſts more groſſe in hypocriſie, allowed fiſh commonly, & wine, with all delicate confections at all times, euen on their Good Friday faſtes: when to eate one peece of reſtie bacon, hath bene compted a more hainous ſinne then to kill a man.

Rhem.6. Is it not now an intollerable impudencie of the Proteſtantes, who for a ſmall ſimilitude of wordes in the eares of the ſimple, apply this text to the faſtes of the Church, and the chaſtitie of Prieſtes and Religious? As though either by appoynting or vſing ſome dayes of abſtinence from certaine meates, the Church or any Catholike man condemned the ſaid meates. vnles the Rechabites Hierem.35. or the Nazarites, Num 6. or the Niniuites, Ion. 3. or Moyſes Exod.34. or Elias, 3. Reg.19. or holy Anna the widow, Luc.2. or Iohn Baptiſt Mat.3,&9. or Chriſt himſelfe, Mat.4. commending, vſing, and following a preſcript number of faſting dayes, or God himſelfe that in the very beginning in Paradiſe, preſcribed abſtinence from the fruite of one certayne tree, and after appoynted ſo many faſtes in the Law, vnles he therefore condemned his owne creatures, and therefore, thoſe creatures from which they abſtained? No, there be many good and lawful cauſes to forbid ſome, or to abſtaine from ſome meates: as for obedience, as in Paradiſe: for ſignification, as the Iewes: for that they haue bene offered to Idols, as in the Epiſtle to the Corinthians: for chaſtening the body and penance, for health alſo: and only thoſe cauſes are vnlawfull for which the Manichees and other Hereſiles abſtained.

The Catholikes impudently charged with the ſaid old hereſies.

Abſtinence from certaine meates is no condemnation of the meates.

Diuers good cauſes of abſtinence.

Fulke.6. Is it not intollerable impudencie in the Papiſts, that being conuicted by ſo euident a prophecie of the ſpirite, are not aſhamed to ſay, it is but a ſimilitude of wordes? Is faſting, an abſtinence from fleſh? may not a prieſt liue chaſtely in mariage? to whom the holy Ghoſt alloweth one wife, or may they not liue chaſtely out of marriage without prohibition to any, of that which God hath made free for all? But by appoynting dayes of abſtinence from certayne meates (you ſay) your Church doeth not condemne theſe meates, which is nothing els but falſhoode in hypocriſie, for you forbid them for holineſſe, for religions ſake, and therefore condemne them as vncleane, and vnholy, though not by Gods creation, yet by your Antichriſtian prohibition. As for the voluntarie abſtinence of the Rechabites and Nazarites, was no prohibition of Gods creatures, nor other abſtinence then God allowed. The faſte of the Niniuites, Moſes, Elias, Anna, Iohn Baptiſt, and Chriſt, was nothing in the worlde like your popiſh prohibition. For your abſtinence by prohibition from fleſhe, and filling the belly with fiſhe or other delicacies by your permiſſion, is no faſte nor abſtinence for any lawfull cauſe of chaſtiſement of the body, but a meere note of Antichriſtian hypocriſie. Which yet ſheweth it ſelfe more euidently, when you make it as lawfull for Antichriſt to prohibite the vſe of Gods creatures for religion, as it was for God himſelfe in paradiſe, for obedience, or in the lawe for ſignification, to forbid the vſe of his owne creatures. Wherein Antichriſt is exalted aboue God, to forbid that which God hath appoynted to be free. But there are for all thus (ſay you) diuers good cauſes of abſtinence. I graunt, but no cauſe of prohibition for cauſe of religion. For albeit God for obedience in paradiſe, or for ſignification in the olde lawe, commaunded abſtinence from certaine meates, yet when he hath made all meates free in the newe Teſtament, none but Antichriſt either for obedience or ſignification, will prohibite that which God hath permitted. And yet the Popes lawe hath preſumed not onely to prohibite ſome kinde of creatures vnder a falſe pretenee of faſting, but alſo ſuch as were prohibited to the Iewes in the olde lawe, as vncleane, as appeareth by Iuo, part.15.cap.97. & 100. 118. where penaunce is appoynted for eating vncleane beaſtes, or ſuch as died alone, or were torne with beaſtes, or ſtrangled, or touched by vncleane beaſts, or for eating or drinking, that wherein a dog or a cat hath lapped, or wherein a mouſe or a weaſell hath bene drowned, and ſuch like.

Popiſh prohibition of mariage & meats.

Boniface alſo forbade all the ſeruants of God, all hunting and hauking with dogs or hawkes, Iuo. part.13.c. 29. And Gratian diſt.86. in diuers chapters, maketh it a great ſinne to hunt, & the arte of hunting, is compted a vice, cap. Qui venatoribus. In the gloſſe it is declared to be vnlawfull for all men in Lent, &c. Hunting is alſo condemned, becauſe it can not bee without crying, and no Hunter can be an holy man ſo long as hee continueth an huntſman. cap. Eſau & in gloſſ. The abſtinence from meate offered to Idols, is either for offence, or for participation with idolatrie, not for conſcience of the eater, if the other cauſes doe ceaſe. For chaſtiſing of the body, it is lawfull to abſteine, but that is in reſpect of the quantitie or qualitie of the meate, which more prouoketh carnall luſtes, not in prohibition of any kind, as you doe in your faſtes, of all fleſh, yea of that which hath but touched fleſhe, though it be neuer ſo groſſe, (as S. Auguſtine putteth the example of reſtie bacon) and in neuer ſo ſmall a quantitie. When you permit all delicate fiſhes, fruites, wines, ſpices, confections, euen to the filling of the ſtomacke: and that which filleth vp the meaſure of this Antichriſtian note, you doe not onely thus abſtaine, but you prohibite vnder payne of damnation, the eating of ſuch meates, in any quantitie, or of any qualitie. As for abſtinence for health, or for any ciuil reſpect, is nothing to the matter now in hand, when the Apoſtle giueth it as a note of Antichriſtian apoſtaſie, to forbid meate or mariage for religions ſake.

Forbidding certaine perſons to marrie is no condemnation of matrimonie.

Rhem.7. Concerning mariage likewiſe, they may as wel charge God or the Church for forbidding the father to marry the daughter, or the brother the ſiſter, or other prohibited perſons in the Lawe: as well might they charge Chriſt and the Apoſtle for prohibiting the man to marry, during his wiues life: and appointing widowes that ſerue the Church, to liue vnmarried,

and

and not admitting a maried woman as wel as a widow, nor her that hath had mo husbands, as wel as her that hath beene maried but once: as they charge the Church for not admitting maried persons to the altar, and for forcing them and Religious persons to keep their promis of chastitie. No, the holy Church is so farre from condemning wedlocke, that she honoureth it much more then the Protestants, accounting it an holy Sacrament, which they do not, who onely vse it to lust as the Heathen doe, and not to religion.

Catholikes esteeme matrimonie more then the Protestants doe.

Fulke. 7. God the auctour of matrimony hath appointed what degrees of consanguinitie or affinitie are to be auoyded in contracting the same. But therefore may Antichrist forbidde the Ministers of the Church to marrie according to Gods ordinance, which he hath left free for them? Our saiuour Christ forbiddeth not any to marry, but him that is maried already, and not lawfully deuorced. And albeit he had done so, because he was the auctor of marriage, as God, yet it is not lawfull for Antichrist to prohibite whatsoeuer it was lawfull for Christ to forbidde.

The Apostle forbiddeth no widdowes that serue the Church, to marrie, but such as for their yeeres had no neede to marrie, and willingly abstained from marriage that they might serue the Churche. For which seruice a married woman is vnfitte, because she is bound to serue her husband. As for her which had twise or oftener lawfully married, he refuseth not, but onely such an one as had beene vnlawfully coupled to more husbandes then one at once, as departing or being vnlawfully separated from one, and then taking an other. But you by law prohibite married men to serue in the Church, and the ministers of the Church to marrie, whom God alloweth to haue one wife, and inforce them to take the vow of continencie, though they be not able to performe it, and though they be not able to keepe it, yet you condemne their marriage, with the heretikes that called themselues Apostolikes. And it is a meere mockery, that you honour matrimonie more then Protestantes, accompting it an holy sacrament, when you accompt the holy calling of Priesthood to be prophaned by matrimony, which is nothing else but to speake a lie in hypocrisie.

Greg. Mart. cap. 16. sect. 12

Rhem. 8. But it is an olde deceitful practise of Heretikes to charge Catholike men with old condemned heresies. The Eutychiam slaundered the Counsel of Chalcedon and S. Leo to be Nestorians, and to make two persons in Christ, because they said there were two natures. Vigilius li. 5. cont. Eutychen. Arius charged Alexander his Bishop of Sabellianisme, for auouching the vnitie of substance in Trinitie. Socrat. li. 1. c. 3. Iulianus accused S. Augustine of the heresie of Apollinarii. li. 5. cont. Iulian. c. 15. Other Pelagians challenged him for condemning mariage. Retract. li. 2. c. 53. And thus our Protestants bragge not to much of their goodly inuention, Iouinian the old Heretike, their Maister in this point, accused the holy doctors and Catholikes vpon this same place, to be Manichees, and to condemne meates and mariage, as both S. Hierom and S. Augustine doe testifie. And they both answer to the Heretike, that the Church in deede and Catholikes doe abstaine from some for euer, and some for certaine daies, and euery Christian man lightly at the 40 daies of Lent fast: not for that they thinke the meates vncleane, abominable, or of an ill creation, as the Manichees doe: but for punishment of their bodies and taming their concupiscences. Hiero. li. 2. cont. Iouin. c. 11. Aug. cont. Adimantum. c. 14. Li. de mor. Cath. Ec. Hiero. in c. 4. ad Galat. And as for mariage, the said doctors answer, that no Catholike man condemneth it for vnlawful, as the old Heretikes did, but onely preferreth virginitie and continencie before it, as a state in it self more agreable to God and more meete for the Cleargie. See S. Augustine against Faustus the Manichee li. 30. c. 5. 6. and haer. 25. in the name, Apostolici. S. Hierom ep. 50. c. 1. & 3. All this the Catholikes continually tell the Aduersaries, and they can not but see it. Yet by accustomed audacitie and impudencie they beare it out still.

The Protestants obiections answered long ago by S. Hierom and S. Augustine.

Aug. l. 2. c. 5. de nupt. & concupisc.

Fulke. 8. This olde deceitfull practise you forgette not to vse against vs. But we doe iustlie charge you with olde heresies, which you doe holde in deede, not as the heretikes did fallely accuse the Catholikes. You can not denie, as impudent as you are, but that you doe forbidde meates and marriage, which the Church did not in S. Augustines and S. Hieromes dayes. There were that abstained from marriage, and there were that fasted, but there was no law to compell any to the one, or to the other. Theodoret vpon this text saith: He doth not disprayse the single life and continence, but he accuseth them which compell men by making a law to follow it. Therefore these ancient Fathers answere not our obiections, nor yet you by saying, you thinke not that meates are vncleane, or of an ill creation, but you abstaine for punishmens of your bodies, and taming your concupiscences.

Popish continence and abstinence.

So said the Manichees, as S. Augustine testifieth: but he prooueth that they lied, and so doe you. Si parsimoniæ, &c. If you abstaine (saith he) of frugalitie, and to tame lust, with which by such meates and drinkes we are delighted and taken, I heare it, and I allow it: but it is not so, for I demaund of you &c. as before? De moribus Man. lib. 2. c. 13. And as for marriage, you doe not onely preferre virginitie and continencie, as a state more agreeable to God in it selfe, and more meete for the Clergie (which yet the Holy ghost hath not taught you) but you inforce it by law, as necessarie for the Clergie, and condemne matrimonie, as prophaning the sacred order of Priesthood, I vse your blasphemous and deuillish wordes. You condemne the state of marriage, as carnall, wherein no man can please God, approouing that vile decretall vnder the name of Siritius. ep. 4. c. 9. where he saith, that the ministers of the Church must abstaine from matrimony, because they that be in the flesh can not please God. All this and much more we continually tell the Papists, and they cannot but see it, yet their cauterized conscience feeling nothing, they continue in their audacitie and impudencie to beare it out still.

Rhem. 9. 4. With thanks giuing.) By the most auncient custom of the faithful both before Christ and sithence, men vse to blesse their table and meates, by the hand and word of a Priest, if any be present otherwise by such as can conueniently do it. And in mens houses where they haue no other meanes, they should at least blesse Gods gifts & them selues with a Pater noster or the signe of the Crosse: not only to acknowledge from whom they haue their continual sustenance, but also to blesse their meat and sanctifie it. For the Greeke word vsed of S. Paul, by Ecclesiastical vse, when it concerneth meats, signifieth not onely thanks giuing, but blessing or sanctifying the creatures to be receiued, as being al one with ωοσια, and in English we call it grace, not onely that after meate, which is onely thankes to God, but that before meate, which is alwaies a benediction of the the creatures, as it is plaine in the preſcripts and vſual formes of grace. For which cauſe a Prieſt ſhould euer do it rather then a Lay man or any of inferior order in the Clergie. In ſo much that S. Hierom (ep. 85) reprehendeth certaine Deacons whom he ſaw ſay grace or bleſſe the meate and the companie, in the preſence of a Prieſt. Who alſo recordeth (in the life of S. Paul the holy Eremite) the great curteſie and humilitie of him and S. Antonie, yelding one to the other the preeminence of bleſſing their poore dinner. For to bleſſe is a great thing, and a Prieſtly prerogatiue, as the Apoſtle witneſſeth, declaring the preeminence of Melchiſedec in that he bleſſed Abraham. Read the note following.

To bleſſe is a preeminence of the better perſon. Hebr. 7.

Fulke. 9. The creatures in their lawfull vſe to the Chriſtian receiuer, are ſanctified by the word of God, and by prayer. By whom the prayer be pronounced it is not greatly materiall, ſeeing euery one ought to ioyne in conſent with him that vttereth the prayer. Although for order or comlines ſake it is moſt conuenient, that the good-man of the houſe, or any by his appointment, or a miniſter if he be preſent, or the beſt man in the company doe pronounce the prayer in the name of the reſt. But that the meat ſhould be ſanctified, or is ſufficiently bleſſed with the ſigne of the croſſe, it is altogether beſide the booke. For the gifts of God are to be ſanctified by the word of God, and by prayer, not by the ſigne of the croſſe, which is neither the word of God nor prayer. As for bleſſing of the perſon, whereof the prerogatiue is to the greater, is not heere ſpoken of, but only of the ſanctification of meats to the lawfull vſe of Chriſtians.

Bleſſing with the ſigne of the croſſe.

Rhem. 1 5. Sanctified.) All creatures be of Gods creation, none of the Diuel, or of any other cauſe and beginning, as the Manichees blaſphemed: and therfore none are ill, abominable, or vncleane by creation, nature, and condition, but all good and made for mans vſe, though all be not alike holy nor equally ſanctified. God made ſeuen daies, but he ſanctified onely one of them. He made all places, but he ſanctified none but the Temple and ſuch like deputed to his ſeruice, as the Arke, the altar, and the reſt which were by ſacred vſe both holy them ſelues, and gaue alſo holines and ſanctification to things that touched them or were applied vnto them. So our ſauiour ſaith, that the Temple ſanctified the gold, and the altar the gift, & generally all creatures ſeuered from common and profane vſe, to religion and worſhip of God, are made ſacred thereby. So the places & daies of Gods apparition or working ſome ſpecial wonders or benefites toward the people, were holy, as Bethel, Sinai, and others. And much more thoſe times and places of Chriſtes Natiuitie, Paſſion, burial, Reſurrection, Aſcenſion: which is ſo plaine a caſe, that the hil where he was tranſfigured onely, is called therfore by S. Peter, the holy mount.

No creature ill by nature, yet one more ſanctified them an other. Mat. 25. Holy times & places, & euery thing deputed to the ſeruice of God, holy. 2. Pet. 1.

Fulke. 10 All the creatures of God, not only by creation, but alſo by ſanctification by the word of God and prayer, are alike holy in the neceſſary and lawfull vſe of them to true Chriſtians, which be cleane and holy. Yet are there ſome things ſpecially applied to the ſeruice of God, which in that reſpect, in an other kinde are more ſpecially called holy, as the Sabboth day, the Temple, the Arke, the altar, &c. But that ſuch things gaue holineſſe to things that touched them, otherwiſe then according to Gods word they were dedicated to Gods ſeruice, it is falſe. For euen the ſacrifices of the vngodly, which not only touched the altar, but alſo lay vpon it and were offered in it, becauſe they were not offered with ſuch faith as they ſhould be offered by the word of God, were abhominable vnto the Lord, as he teſtifieth often by the Prophets. Therefore that our ſauiour Chriſt ſaith of the Temple and the Altar, ſanctifying the golde and the gift, his meaning is plaine, that the Temple when it is holy, as the principall, and the golde that is offered in it is the acceſſarie: ſo of the altar and the gift. Not that the Temple or altar had power to giue holineſſe to euery thing that touched it. Neither are all creatures to be ſeuered from the common vſe, and conſecrated to the ſeruice of God, but only ſuch as he hath preſcribed and appointed by his holy word, without which, all other ſanctifying or conſecrating of creatures to the vſe of religion, is ſuperſtitious and idolatrous. The places and times of Gods apparition, or working ſome ſpeciall wonders, were holy for that time only of Gods preſence, and not for euer after. For Bethel was not counted holy for euer of the faithfull, but of the ſuperſtitious and the idolatrous Iſraelites, who by the wickedneſſe of Ieroboam were brought to eſteeme it more holy then Ieruſalem, the place which God had choſen. But by the Prophets, Bethel that by Iacob was called the houſe of God, was termed Bethauen, the houſe of wickednеſſe or vanitie. Oſe. 4. 15. So the hill on which Chriſt was transfigured, is called holy in reſpect of the time in which the transfiguration was, not that the holineſſe of the place doth alwayes continue, or that there was any pilgrimage of the faithfull vnto it.

Hallowing of creatures.

Rhem. 11 Theſe therfore be holy memories and monuments of al ſortes ſanctified, beſides that creatures (as we ſee here) be ſanctified alſo by the word of God and prayer, that is to ſay, by benediction and inuocation of our Lordes holy name vpon them, ſpecially by the ſigne of the Creſſe, as S. Chryſoſtom noteth on this place, ho. 12 in 1 ad Tim. by the which the aduerſarie power of Satan vſurping vniuſtly vpon Gods creatures through mans ſinne, and ſeeking deceitfully in or by the ſame to annoy mans body or ſoule, is expelled and the meates purged from him and made holeſom. S. Gregorie (li. 1 Dialog. c. 4.) recordeth that the Diuel entred into a certaine religious woman by eating the herbe lettice vnbleſſed. And S. Auguſtine li. 18 de ciu. Dei c. 18. ſheweth at large, what waits he hath by meates and drinkes and other vſual creatures of God, to annoy men: though his power be much leſſe then it was before Chriſt. but ſtill much deſire he hath on al ſides to moleſt the faithful by abuſing the thinges moſt neere and neceſſarie vnto them, to their hurt both bodily and Ghoſtly. for remedie wherof, this ſanctification which the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of, is very ſouereine, pertaining not only to this common & more vulgar benediction of our meats & drinks, but much more (as the propricie of the Greeke word vſed by the Apoſtle for ſanctification, doth import) to other more exact ſanctifying and higher applying of ſome creatures, and bleſſing them to Chriſtes honour in the Church of God, & to mans ſpiritual and corporal benefites.

Creatures hallowed by the ſigne of the Croſſe. The bleſſing of our meate what a vertue it hath. ἁγιάζεται.

Fulke. 11 Such memories or monuments of holy things haue no holineſſe in them, but may ſtirre vp mens minds to the remembrance of holy things. But ſeeing to the vncleane all things are vncleane, not by creation, but by pollution of ſinne, and the abuſe of Sathan: The Apoſtle ſheweth how all creatures in their lawfull vſe, are ſanctified vnto the cleane, namely by the word of God, who hath generally permitted vnto the faithfull the free vſe of them, and by prayer, by which they are ſpecially ſanctified to the priuate vſe of euery one of the faithfull. The ſigne of the croſſe is ſuperſtitiouſly added by Chryſoſtom, which is omitted by the Apoſtle. And where you are not content with this vulgar and common benediction of our meats and drinks, wherof the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, but will extend the ſame to a more exact ſanctification, and higher applying of ſome creatures, &c beſide the word of God: you declare that you preferre your owne inuentions and ſuperſtitions before before the preſcript commandements and rules of the word of God. For ſanctifying of meats and drinks, according to the doctrine of the Holy ghoſt, was neuer greatly regarded in popery, nor is yet much practiſed among your recuſant papiſts in England. But other toyes which you call ſanctified creatures by the popes holineſſe, and not by the holineſſe of Gods word are highly eſteemed. But the Greeke word, you ſay, doth import ſuch a matter: you would make the ignorant beleeue ſo. But they that know the Greeke tongue as wel as you, are bolde to tell you there is no ſuch matter imported by it. And the text is plaine, that no ſuch thing can be allowed by it. Not onely becauſe the Apoſtle ſpeaketh onely of the common or ordinary vſe of Gods creatures, but alſo becauſe he appointeth two meanes, both neceſſarie to ſanctification, The word of God, & prayer. For if men will preſume of prayer, without the word or God, their prayer is not of faith, and ſo it is ſinne. As alſo if men will preſume of ſanctification by Gods word, and contemne prayer, it can not but be greeuous preſumption and ſinne in them. Therefore ſeeing you can not bring the word of God to approoue that your more exact ſanctifying, and higher applying of creatures, &c. vnder colour whereof you bring in all your execrable holy things, it is at the leaſt ſuperſtition, and vaine worſhipping of God, if it be not blaſphemous vſurping of the honour and office of the Holie ghoſt, to whom it perteineth to ſanctifie, and whatſoeuer is ſanctified in deed, is rightlie and truelie (being dedicated by the miniſterie of man) ſanctified and hallowed by him.

Rhem. 12 For as S. Auguſtine writeth li. 2. de pec. merit. c. 26. beſides this vſual bleſſing of our daily foode, the Catheciumens (that is, ſuch as were taught toward Baptiſme) are ſanctified by the ſigne of the Croſſe, and the bread (ſaith he) which they receiue, though it be not the body of Chriſt, yet is holy, and more holy then the vſual bread of the table. He meaneth a kinde of bread then halowed, ſpecially for ſuch as were not yet admitted to the B. Sacrament: either the ſame, or the like to our holy bread, vſed in the Church of England and France on Sundaies. And it was a common vſe in the primitiue Church to bleſſe loaues, and ſend them for ſacred tokens from one Chriſtian man to an other, and that not among the ſimple and ſuperſtitious (as the Aduerſaries may imagine) but among the beſt, learneſt, and wiſeſt. Such halowed breads did S. Paulinus ſent to S. Auguſtine and Alipius, and they to him againe, calling them bleſſings. Read S. Hierom in the life of Hilarion (poſt medium:) how Princes and learned Biſhops and other of al ſortes came to that holy man for holy bread, panem benedictum. In the primitiue Church the people commonly brought bread to the Prieſts to be halowed. Author. op. imp. ho. 14. in Mt. The 3 Counſel of Carthage c. p. 24. maketh mention of the bleſſing of milke, honie, grapes, and corne. See the 4 Canon of the Apoſtles. And not onely diuers other creatures vſed at certaine times in holy Churches ſeruice, as waxe, fire, palmes, aſhes, but alſo the holy oile, Chriſme, and the water of Baptiſme, that alſo which is the cheefe of al Prieſtly bleſſing of creatures, the bread and wine in the high Sacrifice, be ſanctified, for without ſanctification, yea (as S. Auguſtine affirmeth tract. 118. in Ioan) without the ſigne of the Croſſe, none of theſe things can rightly be done.

Holy bread.

Auguſt. ep. 31. 34. 35. 36.

The ſigne of the croſſe vſed in bleſſing.

Fulke. 12 Hauing nothing out of the word of God, you thinke to cary the matter by the wordes and practiſe of men. But of what weight that is in matters of religion, euen thoſe men vnto whoſe auctoritie you would leane, may ſufficiently inſtruct you. And yet the matter is farre from that you would beare the ignorant in hand. S. Auguſtines wordes of that pretended holy bread, are againſt the Pelagians, which contended, that baptiſme was not neceſſary for the infants of the faithfull, becauſe they are holy: Non minus modi eſt ſanctificatio &c. Sanctification is not after one ſort. For I thinke that the Catiumens, after a certeine maner of theirs, are ſanctified by the ſigne of the croſſe, and prayer of impoſition of handes, and that which they receiue, although it be not the body of Chriſt, yet it is holy, and more holy then thoſe meates with which we are nourriſhed, becauſe it is a ſacrament. And euen thoſe meates wherewith we are nourriſhed to the neceſſary mainteinance of this life, the ſame Apoſtle ſaid to be ſanctified by the word of God and prayer which we make when we are to refreſh our bodies &c. Heere Auſtine ſpeaketh of a ſuppoſed ſanctification, and of a ſuperſtitious kinde of bread, which without any word of God, he calleth a ſacrament, by which you may ſee how largely he vſeth that terme. But what holineſſe was in it, or how it could be holy without the word of God, how can we be aſſured? And yet what kinde of holineſſe it was, he after declareth, namely, ſuch as could not make the receiuers holy if they were not baptiſed. As for popiſh holy bread, it was not, for that is not giuen to them that are not baptiſed, neither is it a ſacrament, therefore it was one of thoſe burthenous ceremonies, and humane preſumptions, of which he complaineth, and wiſheth that they might be taken away. Ep. 118. As for the loaues that were ſent by the ancient fathers, from one to an other, were but tokens of friendſhip and communication, and no ſuch hallowed breades as you fantaſie: for they deſired one an other to make them bleſſinges, by their thankefull acceptation of them. Ep. 34. 35. And they called them bleſſings, not for any conſecration, but according to the phraſe of the ſcripture. 1. Sam. 25. 27. where Abigaile deſired Dauid to take a bleſſing of her hand, that is, a gift or preſent. So 2. Reg. 5. 15. Naaman deſired Eliſeus to take a bleſſing of him, that is, a gift, and no hallowed matter. But there was great concourſe, as Hierom teſtifieth, of al ſortes vnto Hilarion, that they might receiue of him bread or oile that he had bleſſed. This was for the great holineſſe that was ſuppoſed to be of that perſon, not an ordinary ceremony of holy bread, or holy oile. But was he as readie to giue it, as they to deſire it? No verilie. S. Hierom ſaith, he had no minde but of the wilderneſſe. Whereby it appeareth it was rather a ſuperſtition in them to require it, then any vſurpation in him to grant any ſuch thing.

Holy bread.

And therefore Hierome admireth his humilitie, that deſpiſed ſuch honour as was offered vnto him. That in the primitiue Church, the people commonlie brought bread to the prieſtes to be hallowed, it is not prooued by the place you quote: for there the auctour doth not ſpeake of any ſuch vſe, but ſheweth by a ſimilitude, how in the Lords prayer, we call that our bread which we pray to God to giue vs. That is (ſaith he) giue vs that bread which we haue prepared, that while it is giuen of thee, it may be ſanctified. As for example, if a lay man ſhould offer bread to a Prieſt, that the Prieſt ſhould take it, and ſanctifie it, and ſo giue it to him. In that it is bread, it is his that offereth it, but that it is ſanctified, it is the benefit of the Prieſt. Is not a common cuſtome heere ſtronglie prooued, or rather diſprooued? For if there had beene any ſuch common cuſtome as you ſpeake of, he woulde not haue ſaide, Vt puta ſi Laicus. As for example, If a lay man, but as when a lay man offereth bread to a Prieſt, &c.

The

The mention made in the Councell of Carthage, and the canons of the Apoſtles is a condemnation of ſuch ſuperſtition, and a commandement that nothing be offered but bread and wine for the ſacrament, which is of grapes and corne. Wherefore you haue ſmall ſupportation euen of mans auctoritie, as you haue none of Gods word, for hallowing of waxe, fire, palmes, aſhes, &c. when you cānot bring ſo much as a ſhadow of antiquitie for your holy bread. As for the ſanctifying of the water in baptiſme, and the bread & wine in the Lords ſupper, hath the word of God manifeſtly to warrant it, as none of your popiſh trumperie which you call hallowed or bleſſed creatures hath. That which S. Auguſtine ſaith of the ſigne of the croſſe, importeth not any neceſſity therof vnto ſanctification, but ſheweth that it was a ceremony ſo vſuall, that without it nothing was done rite, that is, according to the rite and ceremony, if that ſigne were lacking.

Rhem.13 Can any man now maruel that the Church of God by this warrant of S. Paules word expounded by ſo long practiſe & tradition of the firſt fathers of our religion, doth vſe diuers elements and likeſſe them for mans vſe and the ſeruice of God, expelling by the inuocation of Chriſtes name, the aduerſarie power from them, according to the authoritie giuen by Chriſt, Super omnia dæmonia, ouer al Diuels: and by prayer, which imporeth as the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh, deſire of holy, as it were by the vertue of Chriſt to combat with the Diuel, and ſo to expell him out of Gods creatures, which is done by holy exorciſme, and euer beginneth, Adiutorium noſtrum in nomine Domini, *as we ſee in the bleſſing of holy water and the like ſanctification of elements. Fulke.13 Verily, but that we know the impudency of the whore of Babylon, we would maruell how the Romiſh church without the warrant of Gods word, which the Apoſtle maketh neceſſary vnto ſanctification, durſt attempt ſuch bleſſings and coniurings of creatures as ſhe doth. Yea to aſcribe ſuch power vnto the deuill, ouer them after they be ſanctified by the word of God, that they need any ſuch exorciſmes or bleſſings to driue him away, which is in other termes, and by an other fetch to renue the olde blaſphemy of the Maniches, from which in the beginning you would ſeeme to purge your ſelues. But Chriſt (you ſay) hath giuen auctoritie ouer all deuils. Luc. 9. To whom I pray you? To his Apoſtles, when he ſent them to preach, not to all prieſts, more then the power of working other miracles, which he then gaue to his Apoſtles. And giuing them auctoritie ouer all deuils, did he bidde them coniure the deuill out of water, ſalt, bread, or ſuch like? or rather to caſt out deuils miglucly from them that were poſſeſſed with them, not that all creatures were poſſeſſed by them. Neither doth the Apoſtle ſpeake heere of prayer to expell the deuill out of Gods creatures, but to make the vſe of Gods creatures ſanctified in themſelues by Gods word, holy and ſanctified vnto vs. How you beginne your coniuration of holy water and ſuch like, it skilleth not, ſeeing you haue no word of God to attempt any ſuch matters. And certeine it is, that your exorciſmes are no prayers, but meere coniurations, for thoſe words (Our helpe is in the name of the Lord) are no words of prayer, and your prayers follow the coniurations being as good as they. For you pray that your coniured ſalt and water may be ſaluation of body and ſoule to all that receiue them. Againe you coniure not the deuill out of the creatures, but the creatures themſelues. Exorcizo te creatura ſalis, aquæ, &c. I coniure or command thee, thou creature of ſalt or water, &c. not that the deuill ſhall depart from thee, but that thou be made coniured ſalt to the ſaluation of the beleeuers, and that thou be health of ſoule and body to all that receiue thee: and that from the place where thou art ſprinkled, all fantaſies & wickednes of deuiliſh fraud, and euery vncleane ſpirit being coniured, may flie away & depart. So likewiſe you coniure & charge the water in the name of God, that thou be made coniured water, to driue away all power of the enemy, and that thou maiſt be able to root out, and to pull out the enemy it ſelfe, with all his reuolted angels, &c. who gaue you ſuch authoritie, to lay ſuch a charge, or to beſtow ſuch a power vpon the creatures of God? wilt not thou O God be reuenged of this Antichriſtian blaſphemy? But the practiſe and tradition of the firſt fathers hath ſo expounded S. Paules words, as you ſay.

Popiſh coniuring of water, &c.

You doe well to ſay the practiſe and vnwritten tradition, for none of the fathers that interpret this text, in their writings doe mention any ſuch expoſition. For practiſe therefore, you ſend vs firſt to S. Auguſtine for exorciſmes, and namely of children, who ſaith in deed, that in baptiſme the power of the deuill is exorciſed in children, meaning that they are deliuered from the tyranny of the deuill, whom they doe renounce by the hearts and mouthes of them that beare them, which is nothing to your magicall exorciſmes of children. The booke De dogmatibus, is none of S. Auguſtines, yet he ſpeaketh not onely of exorciſmes, but alſo of exufflations, which you vſe not, to caſt the vncleane ſpirit from them that are to be baptiſed. Although there is great difference betweene the caſting out of the deuill from children, which in ſome ſenſe is truely performed according to the ſcripture. Luc. 11. and the coniuring and hallowing of creatures, which hath no colour in the ſcripture. For holy water to be 1400 yeeres olde, you ſend vs to that counterfet epiſtle of Alexander, which you know to be an impudent forgery, and all the world may know by the date, if there were nothing elſe, which was when Traianus and Helianus were Conſuls the ninth of the Calends of Auguſt, which might as well be Ad Calendas Græcas, or at latter Lammas, for there was neuer any Helianus Conſul with Traianus. The famous ſtory that you ſend vs to ſee in Theodoret, is a miracle wrought by Marcellus biſhop of Apamea, in ſetting the temple of Iupiter a fire, with ſprinkling of water after he had ſigned

it with the Croſſe, and praied, when it would not burne with fire. Which perteineth nothing to your ordinarie ceremonie of holy water, which is coniured after an other ſort, and to an other purpoſe. The other ſtorie in Epiphanius, is alſo of a miracle, in curing a madde man, by caſting water vpon him, in the name of Chriſt, but no holie water, except you will allowe him that is neither Prieſt, nor Clearke, nor Chriſtian man, to make holie water. For that miracle was done by a Iewe, to trie a dreame that he had, before he was baptized.

But when you come to Gregorie, for hallowing of Churches with holie water, you come neerer to your time, and the reuelation of Antichriſt, but then you muſt ſtrike of 500. yeeres of your 1400. for the age of holie water.

Gregorie in deede willeth holie water to be made, and to be ſprinkled in the Idols Temples, aulters to be builded, and reliques to be laied vp, but where is the aſhes ſtrewed in the Church? where be the candels? where is the Sexten counterfeeting the Deuill, and anſwering in a baſe voice within the Church, when the Biſhop coniureth him without? where are a great many more ceremonies preſcribed in your Pontificall, to be vſed in hallowing of Churches? I forbeare you, if you can not tell, for Antichriſt lacked as yet ſome yeeres of his open manifeſtation, and therefore this ceremoniall conſecration, preſcribed by Gregorie, lacked many things that were afterward reuealed by the ſpirite of Antichriſt. But among other things we muſt remember, that Elizæus applied ſalt to the healing and purifying of waters: while you forget that you haue not the ſpirite of Elizæus, to worke miracles. For your water coniured with ſalt, can not heale nor purifie any vnwholſome waters. How the Angell vſed the fiſhes liuer to driue away the Diuell, we leaue it to you to doe the like, if you can. We muſt haue the word of God, and no Apocryphall ſtories, to build our faith vpon. Dauids harpe did nothing, but as it was made to ſound by Dauid, whoſe godly muſicke procured ſome reſt to Saule for the time. S. Auguſtine ſayth not, that a peece of the holye earth ſaued ſuch a mans chamber from infeſtation of Diuels, but that the ſame ceaſed at the praiers of a Prieſt, that offered the ſacrifice of the bodie of Chriſt there, and praied earneſtly that the ſaid vexation might ceaſe. Therefore you take your markes amiſſe for the holie earth. But what madnes is this? of miracles wrought by God, with externall ſignes of his creatures, to eſtabliſh an ordinarie doctrine and ceremonie of hallowing what creatures you will, and to what purpoſe you are diſpoſed? But Chriſt occupied diuerſe ſanctified elements, ſome for the health of the bodie, ſome for grace and remiſſion of ſinnes, and ſome to worke miracles. And why might not he occupie his owne creatures, to ſuch purpoſe as it pleaſed him? But ſhall Antichriſt therefore imitate our Sauiour Chriſt, like an Ape, to occupie the Lordes creatures, and to ſanctifie them without his word, to make his falſe Sacraments of them, and to worke his lying miracles by them? If God ſhewed miracles by the reliques of Saincts, is it lawfull for you to make holie reliques what you liſt? In the ſtorie of Iulianus, the Deuill that was coniured, fledde, when one by chance and cuſtome, made the ſigne of the Croſſe, Ergo the Deuill is perilouſly afraid of the Croſſe. No, no, the Deuill is too craftie and ſtronge, to yeelde to ſo weake a weapon, but when he is diſpoſed to playe with men, that they may be the more eaſily ſeduced by him. In the Actes of the Apoſtles, we reade that the Deuill would not giue place to the name either of Paule, or of Ieſus, pronounced by Coniurers, but plaied the Deuill with them. But you forget your ſelues, or els you alledge the Scripture moſte impudently. For there you note that the Deuill contemned the Exorciſtes. Here you ſay the name of Ieſus, yea and of Paul, putteth them to flight.

Rhem. 14 Furniſh your ſelues with ſuch examples and grounds of Scriptures and antiquitie, and you ſhal contemne the Aduerſaries cauillations and blaſphemies againſt the Churches practiſe in ſuch things, and further alſo finde, theſe ſacred actions and creatures, not only by increaſe of faith, feruor, and deuotion, to purge the impuritie of our ſoules, and procure remiſſion of our daily infirmities, but that the cheefe Miniſters of Chriſtes Church, by their ſouereine authoritie graunted of our Lord, may ioyne vnto the ſame, their bleſſing and remiſſion of our venial ſinnes or ſpiritual dettes: as we ſee in S. Iames, remiſſion of al ſinnes to be annexed to the vnction with holy oile, which to the Catholikes is a Sacrament, but to the Proteſtants was but a temporal ceremonie, and to ſome of them not of Chriſtes inſtitution, but of the Apoſtles onely. In their owne ſenſe therefore they ſhould not marueil that ſuch ſpirituall effectes ſhould proceede of the vſe of ſanctified creatures, whereas venial treſpaſſes be remitted many waies, though mortal ordinarily by the Sacraments onely. S. Gregorie did commonly ſend his benediction and remiſſion of ſinnes, in and with ſuch holy tokens as were ſanctified by his bleſſing and touching of the Apoſtles bodies and Martyrs Relikes, as now his ſucceſſors do in the like hallowed remembrances of religion. See his 7. booke, epiſtle 126: and 9. booke, epiſtle 60. Thus therfore and to the effectes aforeſaid the creatures of God be ſanctified.

Iac. 5.

Remiſſion of venial ſinnes annexed to hallowed creatures.

S. Gregorie.

Fulke 14. If you furniſh your ſelues with ſuch ſtuffe as heere is brought out of the Scriptures, and the practiſe of the auncient Church for holy water, waxe, palmes, aſhes, graines, and ſuch like holy bables: you may eaſily contemne, but you ſhall neuer auoid the force of ſuch arguments, as we bringe againſt your Antichriſtian blaſphemies. But you will further aſſure your beſotted Diſciples, that they ſhall finde theſe actions and creatures, not onely by increaſe of faith, feruor, and deuotion, to purge the impurities of their ſoules, and procure remiſſion of their daille infirmities, but alſo that the Popes and Prelates may ioyne vnto the ſame, their bleſſing and remiſſion of veniall ſinnes, and ſpirituall debtes. I paſſe ouer the abſurditie of this ſaying, where after ſo great matters without the Popes bleſſing ſo ſmall a thing as is remiſſion of veniall ſinnes, (which are waſhed away with a Pater noſter,) is promiſed with the Popes bleſſing added to thoſe creatures. But where learne you, that faith, feruor, and deuotion, is increaſed by theſe meanes? The worde of God acknowledgeth no ſuch meanes, but the diligent hearing of the worde, and the vſe of the Sacraments, with hartie prayers. And where is any ſuch ſouereine auctoritie graunted to the cheefe Miniſters of the Church, to ioyne their bleſſing with remiſſion of ſinnes, to ſuch actions and creatures? But you may faine what you liſt, to vpholde your Antichriſtian kingdome, which yet ſhall fall and be conſumed daily by the worde of the Lorde, doe what you can. But you haue an argument out of S. Iames, that remiſſion of ſinnes was annexed to the vnction of holye oyle, where no ſuch thing is ſayde, although health of bodie is promiſed by the gifte of miracles, to him that was anointed with oile, and remiſſion of ſinnes, at the prayer of the Elders of the Church, not onely of thoſe that you call veniall, but of all his ſinnes, not by any vertue annexed to the oyle, but by promiſe of God, that our prayers are heard, not onely for our ſelues, but alſo for our brethren. For the many waies, whereby veniall ſinnes are remitted, and the onely way whereby mortall ſinnes are forgiuen, it is your owne ſtuffe, & therfore you may diſpoſe of it as you liſt. We know that al ſinnes that are forgiuen to men of yeeres, are forgiuen through faith in the mercy of God reconciled to vs by Chriſt, which faith is confirmed by the ſeales of his holy Sacraments. But where you ſay, that mortal ſinnes are ordinarily remitted, only by the Sacraments, either you forget the Popes pardons of all ſinnes A pœna & culpa, or els you compt the Popes pardon, an extraordinary way of remiſſion.

Gregorie in deede did ſend many ſuperſtitious tokens, if the poſtſcript of that Epiſtle be not counterfeit, but yet not with ſuch groſſe termes of his bleſſing, and remiſſion of ſinnes, as you ſpeake of. In the former place, among other things, he ſendeth a litle key from the body of S. Peter, for his bleſſing, in which is incloſed (ſayth he) the yron of his chaynes, that that which had bound his necke to martyrdome, may looſe your necke from all ſinnes. Here you muſt vnderſtand a praier or a wiſh of Gregory, or els you muſt acknowledge that he ſent remiſſion of all his ſinnes, as well mortall as veniall by this relique, and ſo mortall ſinnes may be remitted without a Sacrament.

In the ſecond place he hath no ſuch matter, but only ſayth to Athilbert king of Kent: I haue ſent you ſmall tokens, which ſhall not be ſmall vnto you, when they be receiued of you, with the bleſſing of S. Peter the Apoſtle. By the bleſſing of S. Peter, he meaneth commendations and praiers from the Biſhop of Rome, as he him ſelfe receiued preſents, with the bleſſing of S. Marke, when he receiued commendations from the Biſhop of Alexandria. How his ſucceſſors that were Antichriſtes openly reuealed, did behaue them ſelues in ſuch matters, it is not to be meruciled.

Rhem. 15 If any man obiect that this vſe of creatures is like coniuration in Necromancie, he muſt know the difference is, that in the Churches ſanctifications and exorciſmes, the Diuel is commaunded, forced, and tormented by Chriſtes word and by praiers: but in the other wicked practiſes, they be pleaſed, honoured, and commaunded withal: and therfore the firſt is godly and according to the Scriptures, but Necromancie abominable and againſt the Scriptures. The difference betweene the Churches exorciſmes and other coniurations.

Fulke 15. Thoſe your exorciſmes be not like coniurations, but very coniurings in deede, and the difference that you make betweene them and other coniurations, is falſe. For in thoſe other coniurations the Deuils be commaunded by the names of God, and word of Chriſt, and by many praiers. Yet are they diueliſh and abhominable abuſings of the holy names and wordes of God, and ſo are yours, ſeeing you haue no more warrant out of the holy Scriptures to coniure, then they haue. Popiſh coniurations.

Rhem. 16 14. The grace.) S. Auguſtine declareth this grace to be the gift of the holy Ghoſt giuen vnto him by receiuing this holy Order, whereby he was made fitte to execute the office to his owne ſaluation and other mens. And note withal, that grace is not onely giuen in or with the Sacraments, by the receiuers faith or deuotion, but by the Sacrament, per impoſitionem, by impoſition of handes. for ſo he ſpeaketh 2. Tim. 1. which is here ſaid, cum impoſitione, with impoſition. Grace giuen in the Sacrament of Orders.

Fulke 16. When you cite S. Auguſtine at large, you deſerue ſmall credite. The gifites of the holy Ghoſt were giuen to them that receiued not holy orders. And it is certaine, that Timothy was fitte for his calling, either by this extraordinary gift, or by his ordinarie ſtudie in the Scriptures, before he was ordeined, or els S. Paules rule had been broken, which he giueth 1. Tim. 3, 2. But that any ſuch grace is giuen by your Sacrament of orders, we can not ſee by experience. For he that was an vnlearned aſſe, before he was made Prieſt, is made no better then Sir Iohn Lacklatine, by his order of Prieſthood. Where you note that grace is giuen, not only in or with the Sacrament, but by the Sacrament, it is vaine, for this grace was commonly giuen without any Sacrament. Seeing all tooke not orders, that receiued the gifites of the holy Ghoſt by impoſition of handes, as it is manifeſt in the Actes of the Apoſtles. Popiſh orders giue no grace.

Rhem. 17 14. With impoſition.) S. Ambroſe vpon this place, implieth in the word Impoſition of handes, al the holy action and ſacred wordes done and ſpoken ouer him when he was made Prieſt. Whereby (ſaith he) he was deſigned to the worke, and receiued authoritie, that he durſt offer ſacrifice in our Lordes ſtcede vnto God. So doth the holy Doctor alſude vnto the wordes that are ſaid now alſo in the Catholike Church to him that is made Prieſt: Accipe poteſtatem offerendi pro viuis & mortuis in nomine Domini. that is, Take or receiue thou authoritie to offer for the liuing and the dead in the name of our Lord. for the which S. Hierom alſo (as is noted before) ſaith, that the ordering of Prieſts is, by impoſition of handes and imprecation of voice. Confecration of Prieſts by impoſition of handes.

In Iſa. c. 58.

Fulke 17. S. Ambroſe ſayth: Impoſition of handes are the myſticall wordes, by which he that is elected, is confirmed vnto the worke, receiuing authoritie, his conſcience bearing witnes, that he may be bold in ſteede of our Lord, to offer ſacrifice to God. But whereas you gather that he doth allude to the wordes, ſpoken in the ordering of your Prieſtes, is a friuolous and fond collection, for he ſheweth before, that this ſacrifice is by preaching and teaching, to offer the people to God. And your ſacrifice he can not meane, who take vpon you not to offer vp Chriſt him ſelfe to his Father, not to offer in the ſteede of Chriſt, as the miniſters of the Goſpell, in ſteede of Chriſt, exhort men to be reconciled to God. 2. Cor. 10. Popiſh Sacrifice.

Rhem. 18 14. Of Prieſthod.) The practiſe of the Church giueth vs the ſenſe of this place, which the auncient Counſel of Carthage doth thus ſet downe. When a Prieſt taketh orders, the Biſhop bleſſing him and holding his hand vpon his head, let al the Prieſts preſent lay alſo their hands on his head by the Biſhops hands, &c. Who ſeeth not now, that holy Orders giuing grace by an external ceremonie and worke, is a Sacrament? So al the old Church counteth it. And S. Auguſtine (cont. ep. Parmen. li. 2. c. 13.) *plainely ſaith that no man doubteth but it is a Sacrament, and leſt any man thinke that he vſeth not the word Sacrament properly and preciſely, he ioyneth it in nature and name with Baptiſme. Againe who ſeeth not by this vſe of impoſition of handes in giuing Orders and other Sacraments, that Chriſt, the Apoſtles, and the Church may borow of the Iewiſh rites, certaine conuenient ceremonies and Sacramentall actions, ſeing this ſame (as * the Heretikes can not deny) was receiued of the maner of Ordeining Aaron and the Prieſts of the old law or other heads of the people?* See Exod 39. Num. 27, 23. Holy Orders Sacrament.

Conc. Carth. 4. c. 3.

Beda in cap. 6. Act.

By

Fulke 18. By any thing that you alledge, we ſee not how it doth giue any grace, & much leſſe ẏ it is a Sacrament. For the grace whereof S. Paule ſpeaketh, was an extraordinarie gift, and followeth not alway impoſition of handes in the ordering of Miniſters. And if it did, yet followeth it not, that impoſition of handes is a Sacrament. For it muſt be an element, and not an externall action onely, that maketh a Sacrament in that ſenſe, We ſay Baptiſme and the Lordes Supper, are Sacraments. Your reaſon to proue, that S. Auguſtine calleth Holie order a Sacrament, as precilely and as properly, as he doth Baptiſme, is inſufficient, becauſe he ioyneth it in name with Baptiſme, for ſo he doth the Catechumens bread mentioned ſect. 12. with the Lordes Supper, yet it followeth not, that he calleth it a Sacrament in the ſame nature, that the Lordes Supper is a Sacrament. That Chriſt and his Apoſtles, by the ſpirite of Chriſt, vſed the ceremonie of impoſition of handes, according to the Lawe, it is no warrant for the Popiſh Church, to borrow the Iewiſh rites, ceremonies, and Sacramentall actions, but it argueth an Antichriſtian ſpirite in her, which preſumeth that ſhe may doe all things that Chriſt and his Apoſtles by his commaundement, did in the Lawe abrogated by Chriſt. But the true Church of Chriſt ſubmitteth her ſelfe to the doctrine of Chriſt, and his Apoſtles in all things, and is content with thoſe ceremonies which Chriſt, and his Apoſtles by his commaundement, haue left vnto her.

Iewiſh ceremonies.

Rhem. 19 16. Saue both thy ſelf.) Though Chriſt be our onely Sauiour, yet the Scriptures forbeare not to ſpeake freely and vulgarly and in a true ſenſe, that man alſo may ſaue him ſelf and others. But the Proteſtants notwithſtanding follow ſuch a captious kind of Diuinitie that if a man ſpeake any ſuch thing of our Lady or any Sainct in heauen, or other meane of procuring ſaluation, they make it a derogation to Chriſtes honour. With ſuch hypocrites haue we now a dayes to do.

Men alſo are called Sauiours without derogation to Chriſt.

Fulke 19. When you can proue any ſuch office to be appointed by Chriſt, vnto the bleſſed Virgine Marie, and the Sainctes in heauen, to procure ſaluation vnto vs, as is by Chriſt committed to the Miniſters of the Goſpell, we will not ſpare to ſay, that the Virgine Marie, and the Sainctes doe ſaue vs, that is, are inſtruments or meanes of our ſaluation, as the Apoſtle ſayth here to Timothy. But if you are not able to proue, ſuch office or charge committed to them, we may ſay, we haue to doe not onely with blaſphemous Hypocrites, but alſo with vnlearned Heretikes, that gather ſo abſurdely out of this text, that the glorie of our ſaluation may be aſcribed to creatures, who haue not ſo much as any miniſterie therein, by Gods appointment.

Sainctes departed giue vs not.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. V.

Rhem.1. 5. Praiers night.) Becauſe of this continual praier which ſtandeth not with coniugal and carnal actes of matrimonie (as the Apoſtle ſignifieth 1.Cor.7,5.) therfore were theſe widowes to liue in the ſtate of perpetual continencie.

Fulke 1. All Chriſtian men and women are commaunded to pray continually, Luc. 18, 1. of which many are maried, therefore continual praier may ſtand with mariage. But S. Paule 1.Cor.7,5. ſpeaketh of ſome ſpecial times, in which more feruent praier with faſting is requiſite. Continuall praier may ſtand with mariage.

Worthie

Rhem. 2. 17. Worthy of double honour.) Double honour and liuelihood due to good Prieſtes.

Fulke. 2. We ſee double honour, but double liuelihood we ſee not in the text. Forget not your owne preferment, and worldly aduancement, howſoeuer you doe.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 3. 3. Widowes in deede.) *S. Ambroſe calleth them widowes and deſolate in deede, that might marie, but to make them ſelues better and more worthie of God, refuſe mariage, which they know to be but once bleſſed, imitating * holy Anne, who in faſting and prayers ſerued God night and day, neuer knowing but one husband. Such profeſſed widowes then are to be honoured and ſuccoured. Neither doth he ſpeake onely of the Churches widowes (of whom ſpecially afterward) but of all that by profeſſion kept their widowhed, exhorting them to paſſe their time in praier and faſting, verſe 5. Which was an honorable and holy ſtate much written of, and commended in the primitiue Church, namely by S. Ambroſe and by S. Auguſtine, who wrote bookes intitled thereof, and make it next to virginitie.* Ambr. de viduis. Auguſt. de bono viduitatis. Ambr. to haue lacum. Luk. c. 2, 17. Widowhod.

Fulke. 3. Theodoret ſayth, he ſpeaketh of the Church widowes from the beginning and ſo forth. They muſt haue oile of the Church (ſaith he) which haue none other helpe or comfort. S. Ambroſe ſayth nothing to the contrary. But that ſecond mariages were not bleſſed in his Church, it was a ſmacke of Montaniſme, wherein lay hid the myſterie of iniquitie: for the ſecond mariage is no leſſe bleſſed of God (if it be in the Lord) then the firſt. And yet the ſtate of widowhod, that liueth continently in prayer and faſting, is honorable, and more free to ſerue God in ſome reſpects, then the ſtate of wedlocke.

Rhem. 8. He hath denied.) Not that by this or by any other deadly ſinne (except incredulitie or doubtfulneſſe in beleefe) they loſe their faith: but that their faftes be not agreable to their faith and to Chriſtian religion, which preſcribeth all ſuch duties.

Rhem. 4. 9. Let a widowe be choſen.) Now he ſpeaketh more particularly and ſpecially of ſuch widowes as were nouriſhed and ſerued by the oblations of the faithfull and the almes of the Church, and did withall ſome neceſſarie ſeruices about women that were to be profeſſed or baptized, for their inſtruction and addreſſing to that and other Sacraments, and alſo about the ſicke and impotent: and withall ſometimes they had charge of the Churches goods or the diſpoſition of them under the Deacons: in reſpect whereof they alſo and the like are called Diaconiſſæ. Euſebius lib. 6. cap. 35. reciteth out of Cornelius Epiſtle, that in the Church of Rome there is one Biſhop, 40. Prieſtes, ſixe Deacons, ſeuen Subdeacons, Acoluthi 42. Exorciſtes, Lectors, and Oſtiarij 52. widowes together with the poore 150. all which God nouriſheth in his Church. See Act. Apoſt. cap. 6. S. Chryſoſtome lib. 3. de Sacerdotio propius finem. S. Epiphanius in hæreſi 79. Collyridianorum. Now then, what manner of women ſhould be taken into the fellowſhip of ſuch as were found of the Church, he further declareth. Widowes called Diaconiſſæ, & their office.

Fulke. 4. That Deaconeſſes were appointed to ſome neceſſarie ſeruice about women that were to be profeſſed, or baptized for their inſtruction, and addreſſing to that and other ſacraments you ſay, but without ſufficient proofe: for that which Epiphanius ſpeaketh, is not neceſſarily to be vnderſtood of Baptiſme, or any other Sacrament.

Rhem. 5. 9. The wife of one husband.) *If you would haue a plaine paterne of Hereticall fraude, corruption, and adulteration of the natiue ſenſe of Gods word, and an inuincible demonſtration that theſe newe Gloſers haue their conſciences ſeared and harts obdurated, willingly peruerting the Scriptures againſt that which they know is the meaning thereof, to the maintenance of their ſectes: marke well their handling of this place about theſe widowes of the Church. S. Paul preſcribeth ſuch onely to be admitted as haue been the wiues of one husband, that is to ſay, once onely maried, not admitting any that hath been twiſe maried. By which wordes the Catholikes proue firſt, that the like thinge * ſed before of Biſhops and Deacons, that they ſhould be the husbands of one wife, muſt needes ſignifie that they cannot be twiſe maried, nor admitted to theſe and the like functions, if they were more then once maried before. Secondly, we proue by this place againſt the Aduerſaries, that the* 1

ſtate of widowhod is more worthie, honorable, decent, and pure in reſpect of the ſeruice of the Church, and more to be preferred of the reuerent thereof, then the ſtate of maried folkes, and that not onely (as the Aduerſaries perhaps may anſwere) for their greater neceſſitie, or more leſure, freedome, or expedition to ſerue, in that they be not combered with husband and houſhold, but in reſpect of their vidual continencie, cheſtitie, and puritie. for els ſuch as were widowes with intention and freedome to marie afterward, might haue been admitted by the Apoſtle, as well as thoſe that were neuer to marie againe. 2

Thirdly, we proue that ſecond mariage not onely after admiſſion to the almes or ſeruice of the Church, but before alſo, is diſagreable and a ſigne of incontinencie or more luſt and fleſhlineſſe then is agreable or comely for any perſon belonging to the Church: and conſequently, that the Apoſtle in the laſt Chapter treating of the holy functions of Biſhops, Prieſtes, Deacons, and of the Churches refuſing generally bigamos or twiſe maried perſons, muſt needes much more meane that no man twiſe maried ſhould be receiued to holy Orders: and further, that as none were admitted to be widowes of the Church, that euer intended to marie againe, ſo none ſhould euer be receiued to miniſter the Sacraments (which is a thing infinitely more, and requireth more puritie, and continencie, then the office or ſtate of the ſaid widowes,) that intended to marie againe. To receiue the body of Chriſt (ſaith S. Herom in Apolog. pro lib. cont. Iouin. epiſt. 50. cap. 6.) is a greater and holier thing then prayer, and therefore Prieſtes that muſt both continually pray and alſo be occupied about the receiuing or miniſtring the holy Sacrament daily, muſt liue continently. 3

Fourthly, we proue that it is not vnlawfull to annexe, by precept or the parties promis, ſingle life or chaſtitie to a whole ſtate or order of the faithfull, becauſe the Apoſtle and the whole Church in his time ioyned to this ſtate of the Churches widowes, perpetuall continencie. Fifthly, we proue hereby that to refuſe and not to accept the twiſe maried, or ſuch as will not liue ſingle, into the ſtate of widowes or holy Orders, is not to condemne or forbid ſeconde mariage, or once and often marying, with the Manichees according to the doctrine of Deuils, as the Proteſtants (and before them the olde condemned Iouinianiſtes) doe blaſpheme the Church. for then did S. Paul allowe and teach doctrine of Deuils, who refuſeth a twiſe maried woman, and bindeth others by their entering into this ſtate, neuer to marie againe: as no doubt he did the Clergie men much more in the third chapter before. Thus lee we Catholikes conferre and conſter the Scriptures, and for this meaning we haue all the doctors without exception. What ſhifts then haue the Heretikes here? for marie and remarie they muſt, let the Scriptures and all the Doctors in the world ſay nay to it. In truth they doe not expound the wordes of God, but flee from the euidence of it, ſome one way and ſome an other. 4 5 Twiſe maried not excluded.

Fulke. 5. If not onely the circumſtance of the text, but alſo the iudgement of auncient fathers interpreting the ſame, doth warrant our handling of this place, what meane theſe hideous out cries of theſe popiſh hypocrites? Saint Paul

Paul(you ſay) preſcribeth ſuch onely to be choſen,as haue beene but once maried. We denie that: for he requireth ſuch as haue beene of honeſt conuerſation, and therefore haue not had two husbands aliue at once: therefore your popiſh concluſions be ſuch, as they are accuſtomed to be, that is, vaine and inconſequent. But let vs examine them in order: Firſt you preſſe, that the like phraſe vſed before of Biſhops and Deacons, that they ſhall be the husbands of one wife, muſt needes ſignifie that they cannot be twiſe maried &c. To this I anſwere: Firſt, the phraſes are not like, for in them he ſayth, him that is the husband of one wife: Here he ſayth, her that hath beene the wife of one husband. Secondly,as he that hath beene twiſe maried, is husband of one wife as well in his ſecond mariage, as in his firſt: ſo ſhe that hath neuer had but one husband at one time, is ſayde to haue beene the wife of one husband.

Secondly you proue, that the ſtate of widowhod is more worthy, honorable, decent and pure, in reſpect of the ſeruice of the Church &c. then of maried folke: but no ſuch thing followeth of the text, but you replie, that els ſuch as were widowes with intention to marie, might haue been admitted, as well as thoſe that were neuer to marie. This is no good conſequent, for thoſe that might haue ſufficient releefe by their mariage, were not to be releeued of the publike almes of ỹ Church,neither were meete for ỹ ſeruice of the Church,which they muſt leaue when they are maried,and attend vpon their husbands. Whereas Prieſtes and Deacons maried, or to be maried, are not in ſubiection to their wiues, as women are to their husbands, therefore may ſerue the Church, which the other coulde not.

Thirdly you proue, that ſecond mariage is diſagreeable,and a ſigne of incontinencie,and more luſt and fleſhlineſſe,then is agreeable or comely for any perſon belonging to the Church: But if the ſecond mariage is not refuſed in widowes, you proue nothing. For although the naturall infirmitie of incontinencie, is declared by often repeating of mariage,yet ſeeing mariage is an holy medicine for ỹ diſeaſe,it hindreth no more once vſed then ofte. S.Hierome alſo ſheweth, ỹ there may be greater cõtinencie ſhewed in ſome ỹ haue been twiſe maried,then in ſome other,that haue beene but once maried,in Tit.1. Therefore the Apoſtle in the third chapter,refuſed not them that had beene twiſe maried, but them that had more wiues at once then one, as I haue proued in that place ſufficiently. Neither doth it follow,that as none were to be admitted widowes,that intended to marie,ſo none ought to be admitted to miniſter the ſacraments, that intendeth to marie. For though it be a greater thing to miniſter the ſacrament,then to ſerue in the place of widowes,yet the reaſon for mariage is farre different. The widowes office could not be executed of them that were vnder their husbands auctoritie,the ſacraments may be miniſtred by maried men. The widowes were not to be choſen vnder threeſcore yeeres of age,when the diſeaſe of incontinencie is healed by nature. The miniſters of the ſacraments, cannot be choſen all of ſuch age, as that infirmitie may be like to haue left them: therefore they are not to be reſtrayned from that remedie, which God hath prouided for them. If receiuing of the body of Chriſt, ſhould hinder the libertie of mariage, (as you gather out of S.Hierome)then in thoſe Churches, where they receiued the body of Chriſt euery day, there ought to haue beene no maried folkes: and that ſuch there were,it is manifeſt by S.Auguſtine, Epi.117. yea the Church of Rome had that cuſtome in his time,and moſt Churches of the Weſt.

Fourthly you proue, that is is not vnlawfull to annexe by precept, or the parties promiſe ſingle life to a whole ſtate or order of the faithfull,becauſe the Apoſtle &c. I anſwere,the Apoſtle requireth not abſtinence from mariage, but of ſuch perſons as had no needе to marie, neither doth he prohibite mariage in any order of the faithfull,but requireth that ſuch be receiued to this ſeruice of the Church, as neither had any neceſſitie to marie, nor by marying,ſhould forſake their charge once taken in hand. Therefore it followeth not hereof,that the Pope,or any other which are farre inferiour to the Apoſtle,hath auctoritie to forbid mariage in any order of the faithfull,which is expreſly contrary to the Apoſtles doctrine,1.Tim.4.

Fifthly you proue, that to refuſe the twiſe maried, or ſuch as will not liue ſingle,is not to condemne ſecond mariages. In this argument you take that which is in controuerſie, that the Apoſtle refuſed the twiſe maried: which if he had done, it had beene ſome miſlike of ſecond mariages, but that he doth not. He refuſeth them that will not liue ſingle, becauſe that ſeruice of women required them, that were not vnder ſubiection of their husbands. And this he doth without any reproch vnto mariage, for he willeth the yonger widowes to marie. But if after mariage repeated holily, and by the Apoſtles counſell, they ſhould be depriued for euer, of the releefe of the Church,and the honour of widowhod: he ſhould both iniuriouſly will them to mary,and ſignifie ſome miſlike or reproch of ſecond mariage, by which they ſhould be made vnworthy of that office in the Church. Therefore it is certaine that the Apoſtle meaneth, of them that had liued honeſtly in mariage, whether they were once or twiſe maried, and haue not had more husbands then one, at one time. Therefore your conference, and your conſtruction ſheweth your ſelues not onely to be great Clearkes, but alſo wonderfull wiſe men, to make ſuch bragges of it,and ſuch outcries againſt vs.

Rhem.6. *And of all other,their extremeſt and moſt ſhamefull ſeruiuerſation is,that the Apoſtle here forbiddeth not the admiſſion of ſuch widowes as haue been twiſe maried, but onely them that haue had two husbands at once. Which was a very vnprobable and extorted expoſition before, concerning Biſhops and Deacons cap.3. and (as S.Hierom ſaith ep.83.)*malo nodo malus cuneus: but here that an exception ſhould be made onely againſt widowes that had had two husbands together (which was a thing neuer lawfull nor neuer heard of) that is a moſt intolerable impudencie, and a conſtruction that neuer came to any wiſe mans cogitation before: and yet theſe their fanſies muſt be Gods worde, and bigamus or bigamia muſt againſt their olde natures and vſe of all writers,be all one with Polygamus and Polygamia. They giue an example of ſuch widowes in women diuorced iuſtly from their husbands in the olde lawe. As though S. Paul here tooke order for the Iewes widowes onely,or that had been ſuch a common caſe among the Iewes alſo,that the Apoſtle needed to take ſo careſull order for it. Finally, they let not to ſay that if the Apoſtle ſhould be vnderſtood to refuſe a widowe twiſe maried at ſundry times, it were vnreaſonable and iniurious to ſecond mariages,which haue no more indecencie or ſigne of incontinencie(ſay they)then the firſt. Thus bold they are with the Apoſtles and all antiquitie.

The Caluinists moſt abſurd expoſition of the Apoſtles wordes.

Their blaſphemie againſt the plaine text.

Fulke.6. Howe true our expoſition of the husband of one wife is, I haue ſhewed by ſufficient reaſons, and as good auctoritie of auncient fathers as S. Hierome is. But here you ſay, it is moſt intollerable impudencie, and a conſtruction

conſtruction that neuer came to any wiſe mans cogitation before, to ſay, that heare is an exception onely againſt ſuch widowes, as haue had two husbands together: why ſo my maſters? becauſe it was a thing neuer lawfull nor heard of. In deede I confeſſe it was neuer lawfull: but it hath beene often heard of, that one woman hath beene maried to a ſecond husband, when her firſt husband was aliue. And I thinke not the contrary, but you may heare of ſome ſuch in Rhemes. And ſuch women becauſe of their infamie, though afterward they repented, and became honeſt women, were vnmeete to be admitted to any office in the Church. Of Polygamie and Bigamie, I haue ſpoken ſufficiently vpon the third chapter, and who of auncient time was called διγαμος, and what is διγαμια. But where you ſay, we giue example of ſuch widowes, as women diuorced iuſtly from their husbands in the old law, You ſclander vs, for we giue example of ſuch as were diuorced vniuſtly, eyther among the Iewes, or among the Gentiles, and not them onely, but ſuch as had forſaken their firſt husband, and were vnlawfully coupled with an other. For many ſuch wicked women, as well as wicked men were conuerted to the faith, and became good Chriſtians: yet for their former infamous life, were not meete for the ſeruice of the Church. When we ſay, it were vnreaſonable and iniurious to ſecond mariages, if the Apoſtle ſhould refuſe widowes that haue liued chaſtly in mariage, though they had beene twyſe maried: we ſpeake no blaſphemie againſt the text, but by thoſe arguments proue, that the text is not againſt ſuch widowes. Neither is there any indecencie, or intemperancie in the ſecond mariage, more then in the firſt, when the ſecond as well as the firſt, is approued by God, to be an honourable and vnpolluted remedie, of the naturall infirmitie of incontinencie. But becauſe you ſay, we are thus bolde with the Apoſtle and all antiquitie, beſide that you called our expoſition a moſt intollerable impudencie, and a conſtruction that neuer came to any wiſe mans cogitation. You ſhall heare what one of good antiquitie, ſober, and wiſe, as any in Rhemes, I dare ſay, writeth of this matter.

Twiſe maried lawfully are not excluded.

Slander.

Theodoret by name, vpon theſe very wordes of the text: Heare of alſo it is manifeſt, that he reiecteth not ſecond mariages, but decreeth, that they liue chaſtely in matrimonie: for he which before hath eſtabliſhed the ſecond maryage by Lawe, hath not here forbidden her which hath beene twiſe maried, to obteyne bodily reliefe. Theophylactus ſayeth vpon this text. He requireth of her Monogamie, that is, that ſhee hath beene coupled to one husband (at once) as a ſigne of honeſtie, chaſtitie, and good maners: for it is no ſigne of diſhoneſtie, vnchaſtneſſe, or ill maners to haue had two husbands lawfully. The other place Chapter 3. hee expoundeth plainely to be meant onely againſt Polygamie, or many wiues at once. Yea S. Ambroſe expounding this text in his booke de viduis ſayth: Neither truely if any woman haue fallen into the ſecond mariage (which the Apoſtolike preceptes doe not condemne) if ſhe be againe looſed from her husband, is kept of from the affect of widowhod, as though ſhee had loſt the fruite of ſhamefaſtneſſe: for euen ſhe, ſhall haue the reuarde of her later vnchaſtitie, but ſhe ſhall be more approued, which hath not tryed the ſecond mariage.

Tertullian in his boode de velandis virginibus, interpreteth widowes vniuirae id eſt nuptae aliquando. Wiues of one husband, that is, ſuch as haue beene maried in times paſt, by which expoſition ſuch as haue beene twiſe maried, may be vnderſtood: and yet when he was a Montaniſt, he was an enemie to ſeconde mariages. By theſe you ſee, that our expoſition is neither vntollerable, nor vnworthy of the cogitation of wiſe men, though the Rhemiſh Doctors fret neuer ſo much againſt it.

Rhem.7. 11. Wanton in Chriſt.) Widowes waxing warme, idle, and wel fedde by the Church, luſt after husbands, as alſo Apoſtate-Prieſts and Superintendents marie, ſpecially after they haue gotten good Eccleſiaſtical liuings. which is to waxe wanton in Chriſt, or againſt Chriſt, γαμειν γαμου. * The Greeke word ſignifieth to caſt of the raines or bridle, that is, the bond or promis of continencie which they had put vpon them.

* κρισιν λαμβανει

Fulke.7. If widowes waxing warme, idle, and well fedde, did luſt after husbands, what doe popiſh Votaries, Prelates and Prieſtes, more warme, more idle, and better fedde then thoſe poore widowes were, luſt after? nothing but chaſtitie? Verily, when they were warme, idle, and well fedde in England, it is well knowen, they luſted not for wiues, but to quenche the fire of their concupiſcence, with all filthineſſe and vncleannеſſe, as their manifold actes beare witneſſe. The Apoſtle ſayth, the yonger ſort of widowes, if they waxe wanton againſt Chriſt, will caſt of the bond or promiſe of continencie, as you expound it. And what thinke you, will the yonger nonnes, monkes, and prieſts doe? will they keepe the promiſe of continencie? no verily, as the effects haue ſhewed. But ſo they doe not marie, what filthineſſe ſo euer they commit, the bond or promiſe of continencie with you, is well ynough kept, being made belike with that condition, Si non caſti, tamen caute. If not chaſtely, yet warely: ye many haue not kept it ſo warily, but that they haue been openly conuicted of incontinencie.

Popiſh chaſtitie.

Rhem.8. 11. They wil.) In the chaſtitie of widowhod or virginitie (ſaith S. Auguſtine) the excellencie of a greater gift is ſought for. Which being once deſired, choſen, and offered to God by vow, it is not onely damnable to enter afterward into mariage, but though it come not actually to mariage, onely to haue the wil to marie is damnable. Aug. li. de bono viduit. cap 9.

The very will to breake the vow of chaſtitie, is damnable.

Fulke.8. They that haue a will to marie, and therefore doe not marie, becauſe they cannot without puniſhment, which ſhould doe better to be maried, then to be burned, that is, go be waſted with ſecret flame of luſt in luſt it ſelfe, whom it repenteth of their profeſſion, and they are weary of it, except they reforme their heart, and by the feare of God againe ouercome luſt, are to be counted for dead women. So writeth Auguſtine of profeſſed virgins. De ſancta virgine. cap. 34.

Better for votaries to marie then to burne.

Rhem.9. 12. Hauing damnation.) It ſignifieth not blame, checke, or reprehenſion of men, as ſome to make the fault ſeeme leſſe, would haue it: but * iudgement or eternal damnation, which is a heauy ſentence. God graunt al maried Prieſts and Religious may conſider their lamentable caſe. What a greeuous ſinne it is, ſee S. Ambroſe ad virginem lapſam cap. 5. & 8.

Fulke.9. Epiphanius diſtinguiſheth iudgement, which is the Apoſtles word, from condemnation, ſpeaking of them that had maried after the vowe of continencie, and ſayth. Better is iudgement, then condemnation: for they which leaſt they ſhould be made aſhamed before men, doe commit fornication priuily, and fulfill their luſt vnder the ſhewe of ſingle life and continence, haue not ſhame before men but before God, which knoweth their ſecretes, and at his comming ſhall conuince all fleſh, as euery one hath ſinned.

Votaries may marie rather then burne.

Therefore it is better to haue one ſinne, and not many, it is better for him that is fallen from his courſe, openly to take a wife to him, according to the law, and to repent a long time from his iniquitie, and ſo againe to be reſtored vnto the Church, as one that hath done ſtill, as one that is fallen and broken, and hath need of binding vp, and not to be daily wounded of the ſecret dartes of that wickednes, which is put into him by the deuill. S. Cyprian ſayth of vowed virgines, that were taken a bed with men, and yet ſaid they were chaſt. If they cannot or will not continue, it is better that they marry, then that they fal into the fire with their pleaſures, at leaſt let them giue no offence to the brethren and ſiſters. ep. 62. The ſame iudgement hath Hierom ad Demetriadem. The name of ſome that boaſt not themſelues well, doth diſhame the holy purpoſe of virgines, and the glory of the heauenly and angelike familie: to whom it muſt be ſaid not only, that either they ſhould marry, if they cannot liue continently, or els they ſhould liue continently, if they will not marry. By this it appeareth, that the auncient fathers although they preferred virginitie, or continencie in them that had vowed the ſame: yet they allowed mariage in them that could not performe their vowe.

Rhem. 10 12. Their firſt faith.) All the auncient fathers that euer wrote commentaries vpon this Epiſtle, Greeke and Latine, as S. Chryſoſtome, Theodoret, Oecumenius, Theophylactus, Primaſius, S. Ambroſe, Vincentius, Haimo, Anſelme, and the reſt: alſo all others that by occaſion vſe this place, as the 4. Councell of Carthage cap. 104. and the 4. of Tol. to cap. 55. S. Athanaſius lib. de virginitate. S. Epiphanius hær. 48. S. Hierom cont. Iouinianum lib. 1. cap. 7. & in cap. 44. Ezech. prope finem. S. Auguſtine in exceeding many places: all theſe expound the Apoſtles wordes of the vowe of Chaſtitie or the faith and promis made to Chriſt to liue continently. What is to breake their firſt faith? faith S. Auguſtine. They vowed, and perfourmed not. in Pſal. 75. prope finem. Againe in an other place, They breake their firſt faith, ſtand not in that which they vowed. lib. de Sancta virgin. cap. 33. Againe he and all the fathers with him in Carthage Councell before named: If any widowes, how yong ſo euer they were left of their husbands deceaſed, haue vowed themſelues to God, left their laical habite, and vnder the teſtimonie of the Biſhop & Church haue appeared in religious weede, and afterward goe any more to ſecular mariage, according to the Apoſtles ſentence they ſhall be damned, becauſe they were ſo bold to make voide the faith or promis of chaſtitie which they vowed to our Lorde. So ſaith he and 215. fathers moe in that Councell.

Breaking of their firſt faith, is by the conſent of all antiquitie, when they breake their vow of chaſtitie.

And this promis of chaſtitie is called, faith, becauſe the fidelitie betwixt maried perſons is ordinarily called of holy writers, faith: and the vowe of chaſtitie made to God, ioyneth him and the perſons ſo vowing, as it were in mariage, ſo ſaith, that if the ſaid perſons breake promis, they are counted and called in the laſt alleaged Councell, Gods adulterers. In the third to the Romanes alſo and often els where, faith is taken for promis or fidelitie. And that it is ſo taken here, the wordes irritum facere (to fruſtrate and make voide) doe proue. for that terme is commonly vſed in matter of vowe, promis, or contract. Gen. 17. Num. 30. This promis is called here prima fides (the firſt faith) in reſpect of the later promis which vow breakers make to them with whom they pretend to marry. So ſaith S. Auguſtine lib. de bono viduit. cap. 8. and 9. and Innocentius 1. Epiſt. 2. cap. 13. tom. 1. Conc. And this is the onely natiue, euident, and agreeable ſenſe to the circumſtances of the letter. And the vaine euaſion of the Heretikes to ſaue the Apoſtate-Monkes, Friers, Nunnes, and Prieſtes from damnation for their pretended mariages, is friuolous: to wit, that firſt faith here ſignifieth the faith of Baptiſme or Chriſtian beleefe, and not the promis or vowe of Chaſtitie. But we aske them if this faith of Baptiſme be broken by mariage or no. For the text is plaine that by intending to marie, they breake their faith, and by breaking their faith they be damned, if they die without repentance. In traeth which way ſo euer they writhe them ſelues to defend their ſacrilege or pretended mariages, they looſe their labour and ſtruggle againſt their owne conſcience and plaine Scripture.

Why this vow is called faith or fidelitie.

Why the firſt faith.

The heretikes expoſition of this firſt faith, impoſſible and againſt the text.

Fulke. 10 Although the moſt of the auncient fathers, doe expound this firſt faith of the vowe or promiſe of continencie, yet no ſuch thing can be proued of the text. For firſt, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of widowes already choſen, but of widowes to be choſen, willing yong widowes not to bee choſen, becauſe there was danger in ſuch, of laſciuiouſneſſe againſt Chriſt, to mary euen to infidels, and to renounce their Chriſtian faith: whereof he giueth example, of ſome that had forſaken Chriſt, and folowed Satan, which were not Deaconeſſes, but other wanton widowes. For this cauſe Tertullian writeth his ſecond booke to his wife, charging her, that if ſhe would needes mary after his death, yet ſhe ſhould not mary vnto an Infidel, as diuers had done.

Vow of continencie.

Secondly, the firſt fayth is improperly called the vowe of continencie, but the faith of Chriſtianitie is rightly called the firſt faith: againſt which expoſition you aske, if the faith of Baptiſme be broken by mariage or no? I anſwere not by mariage, but by mariage againſt Chriſt, by ſo marying, as they renounce Chriſtianitie, and followe Satan: for theſe things the Apoſtle præmiſeth, and not mariage onely, or entendement to mary: and it is but an inforced interpretation of the firſt faith made to Chriſt, to be in reſpect of the ſecond faith giuen to their husbandes. For the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of any faith of continencie made to Chriſt, therefore you proue that to be the firſt faith, by that which is in controuerſie, and ſo you doe nothing but begge the principle.

But admit that the firſt faith, according to the interpretation of the auncient fathers, doeth ſignifie the promiſe of continencie made to God, or the Church, yet by the auctoritie of the ſame fathers, ſuch as haue made a raſhe vowe, which they are not able to perfourme, are willed to mary lawfully, rather then to burne, and liue ſingle incontinently. And therefore which way ſoeuer you take it, mariage of votaries, that can not conteyne, is not prohibited.

Rhem. 11 14. I will the yonger.) *He ſpeaketh of ſuch yong ones as were yet free. For ſuch as had already made vowe, neither could they without damnation marie, were they yong or olde, nor he without ſinne commaund or counſell them to it. Neither (as S. Hierome proueth to * Gerontia, and S. Chryſoſtome vpon this place) doeth he preciſely commaunde or counſell the yong ones that were free, to marie, or abſolutely forbidde them to vowe Chaſtitie: God forbidde, ſay they. But his ſpeache conteyneth onely a wiſe admonition to the frailer ſort, that it were farre better for them not to haue vowed at all, but to haue maried againe, then to haue fallen to aduoutrie and Apoſtaſie after profeſſion. Which is no more but to preferre ſecunde mariage before fornication: and a good warning, that they which are to profeſſe, looke well what they doe. S. Pauls experience of the fall of ſome yong ones to mariage, cauſed him to giue this admonition here: as alſo that before, that none ſhoulde be receiued to the Churches almes vnder threeſcore yeares of age.*

S. Paul meaneth not that widowes profeſſed ſhould marie.

*otherwiſe Agerachia ep. 11

It is better for the frailer ſort ſ are in danger of falling, to marie rather then to vow.

Not

Not forbidding the Church for euer, to accept any vowes of widowes or virgins til that age, as the Heretikes falſly affirme: but ſhewing what was meete for that time and the beginning of Chriſtianitie, when as yet there were no Monaſteries builded, no preſcript rule, no exact order of obedience to Superiors: but the profeſſed (as S. Paul here noteth) roamed and wandered vp and downe idly, as now our profeſſed virgins or Nunnes do not, neither can do. Of whom therfore, where diſciplin is obſerued, there is no cauſe of ſuch danger. Beſides that widowes hauing had the vſe of carnal copulation before, are more dangerouſly tempted, then virgins that are brought vp from their tender age in pietie and haue no experience of ſuch pleaſures. See S. Ambroſe lib. de viduis, proouing by the example of holy Anna, who liued a widow euen from her youth til 80 yeres of age, in faſting and praying night and day, that the Apoſtle doth not here without exception forbid al yong widowes to vow, yea he oftentimes auoucheth that profeſſion in the yonger women much more laudable, glorious, and meritorious. See his booke de viduis in initio.

Yong women may be profeſſed and taken into religion.

Fulke 11. He neither commaundeth nor counſelleth all widowes in generall to marie, but the yong widowes that haue not the gift of continencie, he willeth and commaundeth to marrie. S. Paul ſaith, I will, Nouatus ſaith, I will not (ſaith Theodoret,) in like maner as we may ſay: S. Paul ſaith, I wil that the yonger widowes marrie, the Pope ſaith: I will not that the yonger widowes marrie, but let them hardly take the mantle and the ring, whether they be aſſured of the gift of continencie, or no. The Apoſtle in deede ſpeaketh not of ſuch as were profeſſed, but he forbiddeth expreſly any to be profeſſed (if he ſpeake at all of profeſſion) before 60. yeeres of age, when the heate of luſt is paſt. Therefore where he counſelleth widowes and virgines to continue, he meaneth they ſhould continue ſo, freely without vow, as long as God will giue them grace. But if they haue made a vow already (ſay you) neither they could marie without damnation, nor he commaund or counſell them without ſinne. Thus hold you are with the Apoſtle. As though it were ſinne to breake an vnlawfull vow, when it is ſinne to make ſuch a vow. But to vow that which is not in our power to perfourme, is to make an vnlawfull vow. And ſuch is the vow of continencie, in them that haue not the gift of cõtinencie. Therfore the Apoſtle doth not only preferre ſecond marriage before fornication, but alſo expreſly commaundeth that none be choſen to that office which required an vnmarried woman, but ſuch an one as was threeſcore yeere olde at the leaſt. Therefore the Pope and his Clergie, admitting either widowes or virgins to profeſſe or vow cõtinencie before that age, doe ſinne againſt the expreſſe commaundement of the holy Ghoſt. But this prohibition you are not aſhamed to denie to be perpetuall, affirming that it was onely meete for that time, and the beginning of Chriſtianitie. But the incontinencie of ſuch yong perſons in all times, proueth that it is neceſſarie for euer, which was neceſſarie in his time, to auoyde incontinencie. And therefore your reaſon of the want of Monaſteries, and Monkiſh or Nonniſh rules and orders (which you doe honeſtly confeſſe not to haue bene in the Apoſtles time) cannot reſtraine his precept to that time onely. For the incontinencie of Nonnes and Monkes in cloyſters, and vnder all your rules and orders, hath and doeth daily giue ſufficient proofe, that luſt will not be kept out by the walles of your Monaſteries, nor by the rules and preſcripts of your orders. Therefore, as the experience of ſome yonger widowes that had followed after Satan, was a ſufficient reaſon to cauſe the Apoſtle to refuſe all yong widowes to the office of Deaconeſſes, ſo the experience of ſo many milch Nonnes, and filthie Monks & Friers, teach vs, that no yong perſons are to be admitted to any vow or profeſſion of perpetual continencie. For your other reaſon is vaine, of virgins, that haue not had experience of carnal concupiſcence as widowes haue had, & confuted by infinite examples of vnchaſt Nonnes. Beſide that they are oftentimes more burned, that haue not had that experience (as good writers teſtifie of gelded men) then they that haue quenched that luſt in lawful matrimonie. And thoſe Nonnes that haue not the gift of continencie, are not voyde of experience, although they haue it not in lawfull matrimonie. Yea, the deuil himſelfe helpeth them in their abominable luſtes, as Wierus teſtifieth of open experience in diuers Nonneries in Germanie, & namely of one in the borders of the prouince of Colin, where the deuil in the likeneſſe of a dogge, was ſeene to fall vpon them in the day time in moſt beaſtly maner, about the yeere of our Lord 1558. Alſo in the Nonnerie of Nazareth in Colin, the Nonnes in moſt filthie maner, ſuffered the ſame illuſion oftentimes in the preſence and ſight of many, Anno 1564. De præſtig. Dæmon. lib. 3. cap. 9. & 11. edit. tert. If therefore the example of ſome that were turned after Satan, was thought a ſufficient reaſon to the Apoſtle, to refuſe yong widowes, what doeth ſo many examples of Nonnes, not onely ſpiritually turned after Satan, as the Apoſtle meaneth, but euen in their bodies made the ſlaues of Satan, but cry out againſt the wickednes of Antichriſt, that ſo contumeliouſly reiecteth the Apoſtles precept, and profeſſeth Nonnes and widowes (be they neuer ſo yong) many times againſt their owne conſent, being extorted rather then perſwaded thereto? Therefore as the pure chaſtitie of virgins and widowes, is glorious and worthily praiſed of the auncient fathers, ſo it ought to be free, that it may be of greater commendation and a more noble victorie, and not bound with vowes, neither ought any yong perſon that is not aſſured of the gift of perpetuall continencie, to be admitted to make any ſolemne vow or open profeſſion thereof, by the Apoſtles doctrine.

Rhem. 12 15. After Satan.) We may here learne, that for theſe to marie which are profeſſed, is to turne backe after Satan. For he ſpeaketh of ſuch as were maried contrarie to their vow. And herevpon we call the Religious that marie (as Luther, Bucer, Peter martyr and the reſt) Apoſtates. More we learne, that ſuch yong ones haue no excuſe of their age, or that they be vehemently tempted and burne in their concupiſcences, or that they haue not the gift of Chaſtitie. For notwithſtanding all theſe excuſes, theſe yong profeſſed widowes if they marie, go backward after Satan, and be Apoſtates, and damned, except they repent. For as for the Apoſtles wordes to the Corinthians, It is better to marrie then to burne, We haue before declared out of the fathers, and here we adde, that it pertaineth onely to perſons that be free and haue not vowed to the contrarie. as S. Ambroſe li. ad virg lapſ. c. 5. S. Auguſtine de bono vid. c. 8. and S. Hierom li. 1. cont. Iouin. c. 7. expound it.

To marie after the vow of Chaſtitie, is to goe after Satan.

1. Cor. 7.

The Heretikes of our time thinke there is no remedie for fornication or burning, but mariage, and ſo did S. Auguſtine when he was yet a Manichee. Putabam me miſerum &c. I thought (ſaith he li. 6. Confeſ. c. 11.) that I ſhould be an vnhappie and miſerable man if I ſhould lacke the companie of a woman, and the medicine of thy mercie to heale the ſame infirmitie I thought not vpon, becauſe I had not tried it: and I imagined that continencie was in a mans owne power and libertie, which in my ſelf I did not feele: being ſo fooliſh not to vnderſtand that no man can be continent vnles thou giue it. Verely thou wouldeſt giue it, if with inward mourning I would knocke at thy eares, and with ſound faith would caſt my care vpon thee.

The Heretikes only remedie againſt concupiſcence is mariage.

By al which you may eaſily proue, that chaſtitie is a thing that may lawfully be vowed, that it is not impoſſible to be fulfilled by prayer, faſting, and chaſtiſement of mens concupiſcence, that it is a thing more graceful to God then the condition of married perſons: for els it ſhould not be required either in the Clergie or in the Religious. finally, that it is moſt abominable to perſuade the poore virgins or other profeſſed to ſuch ſacrilegious wedlocke, which S. Auguſtine auoucheth to be worſe then aduoutrie. de bon. vidu. c. 4. 11. Iouinian was the firſt that euer made mariage equal with virginitie or chaſt life, for which he was condemned of hereſie. Aug. in argumento li. de bono Coniugali. De pec. merit. li. 3. c. 7. Li. de hæreſ. hær. 82. He was the firſt that perſuaded profeſſed virgins to marrie, which S. Auguſtine ſaith was ſo clerely and without queſtion wicked, that it could neuer infect any Prieſt, but certaine miſerable Nunnes. Yea for this ſtrange perſuaſion he calleth Iouinian a moſter, ſaueing of him thus Li. 2. Retract. cap. 22. The holy Church that is there (at Rome) moſt faithfully and ſtoutly reſiſted this monſter. S. Hierom calleth the ſaid Heretike and his complices, Chriſtian epicures. li. 2 cont. Iouin. c. 19. See S. Ambroſe ep. 82. ad Vercellenſem epiſcopum in initio. But what would theſe holy doctors haue ſaid, if they had liued in our doleful time, when the Proteſtants go quite away with this wickednes, and call it Gods word?

The vow of chaſtitie lawful, poſſible to be kept, more grateful to God.

Iouinians hereſie in this point, condemned of old, is called of the Proteſtats, Gods word.

Fulke. 12 The Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of any widowes choſen to the Miniſterie of the Church, but of wanton yong widowes which had forſaken Chriſt. For ſuch yong widowes were neuer eligible to that office: S. Paul therefore doeth not make a new lawe vpon occaſion of them that were fallen, but by example of them, ſheweth a reaſon of the lawe of the Church, which refuſed yonger widowes, then of 60. yeeres olde. Therefore he ſaith not, that for Votaries to marrie is to turne after Satan. For ſaith Primaſius, They are turned after Satan, either denying the faith of God, or committing fornication. S. Auguſtine ſaith, By theſe wordes we may vnderſtand, that thoſe whome he would haue to marrie, might better conteine then marrie, but that it is better for them to marrie then to goe after Satan: that is, from that excellent purpoſe of virginitie or widowhood, by looking backe to fall and periſh. And that for ſuch to marie, is not to goe after Satan: he ſheweth that the mariage of ſuch is not to be condemned, but the breach of their purpoſe, which (ſaith he) That the Apoſtle might briefly inſinuate, he would not ſay, that they haue damnation, which marrie after the purpoſe of greater holines, not becauſe they are not condemned, but leſt the marriage it ſelfe in them might be thought to be condemned. De bono viduit. cap. 8. & 9. Therfore for them that are profeſſed, to be maried, is not to be turned after Satan. But if they haue bene raſhly profeſſed, and are not able to perfourme that vow of continencie, it is better to marrie then to burne by the iudgement of Cyprian, Epiphanius, Hierom and Auguſtine, as I haue ſhewed before Sect. 8. 9. Neither doeth the Scripture prouide other remedie againſt fornication or burning, in them that haue not the gift of continencie, but mariage. And S. Auguſtine doeth rightly acknowledge, that continencie is not in a mans owne power or libertie, but onely of the gift of God. But that God will giue that gift to euery one (when our Sauiour Chriſt and the Apoſtle ſaith, it is not graunted to euery one,) you doe not well gather it out of his wordes. For although when the heate of his youth was paſſed ouer incontinently (as he confeſſeth,) he obteined by prayer the gift for the reſt of his time, it followeth not that euery one in the heate of their youth, may haue the gift, if they will pray for it. Neither are men any where exhorted to pray for it, with certaine promiſe that they ſhall obtaine it. Therefore your concluſions doe not follow, That continence may be lawfully vowed, which is not in our power to performe. That it is not impoſſible to be fulfilled of all men by prayer, faſting, & chaſtiſment, when there is no promiſe that all men may obteine it by prayer, faſting, &c. The reaſon that you alleadge for your thirde concluſion, is that which is in controuerſie, and is denied of vs. Yet we denie not, but the condition of the continent, in ſome reſpects is better then of the married. For your fourth concluſion, we perſwade none to marrie that can liue chaſtely out of marriage, but if they can not, we perſwade them with the Apoſtle and the auncient fathers, that it is better for them to marrie then to burne, if they be not able to keepe their raſh and vnlawful vow. You ſlander S. Auguſtine, to ſay, he auoucheth that the marriage of vowed perſons is worſe then aduoutrie: for in neither of both places that you quote, he ſaith ſo. But cap. 4 he ſaith: that by chaſt widowhood not only euils were auoyded (which are adulterie & fornication) but alſo marriage which is good, is extolled. In the cap. 11. after he hath by many reaſons proued the mariage of ſuch to be good, in whom the breach of vow is euil, he concludeth in theſe words: wherefore I cannot ſay, that if women that are fallen from a better purpoſe doe marry, it is no mariage but aduulterie, but I would not doubt to ſay plainely, that the falling and ruine from more holy chaſtitie, is worſe then adulterie. He ſaith not therfore, that the mariage of ſuch is worſe then adulterie, but the breach of vowes & fal from their purpoſe. For he proueth at large cap. 9. 10. 11. that the mariage is good and not to be broken, therefore he ſaith immediatly before: By this inconſiderate opinion, whereby they thinke that the mariages of thoſe women that are fallen from their holy purpoſe are no mariages, ſo ſmal euil commeth, that wiues are ſeparated from their husbands, as though they were adultereſſes, and new wiues, and when by ſeparating of them they will reſtore them to continencie, they make their husbands adulterers, when their owne wiues being aliue, they marrie other women. As for Iouinianus hereſie we haue nothing to do with it, more then Cyprian, Epiphanius, Hierom, Auguſtine, whoſe ſentences are before rehearſed, willing vowed perſons to marry rather then to burne, yet preferring pure continencie before matrimonial chaſtitie, as farre as the Apoſtle doth. Therefore what would theſe holy doctors haue ſaid, if they had liued in theſe times, and ſeene the filthie life of the Popiſh Cleargie? Which yet they defende as pure chaſtitie, and when the earth ſtincketh of their abominations, yet they are not aſhamed to preferre their foule and vnchaſte ſingle life, before holy and chaſte matrimonie.

What it is to goe after Satan.

The gift of continencie not in euery mans power.

Rhem. 13 17. In word and doctrine.) Such Prieſts ſpecially & Prelates are worthy of double, that is, of the more ample honour, that are able to preach and teach, and do take paines therein. Where we may note, that al good Biſhops or Prieſts in theſe daies were not ſo wel able to teach as ſome others, & yet for the miniſterie of the Sacraments, & for wiſedom and gouernement, were not vnmeete to be Biſhops and paſtors. for though it be one high cõmendation in a Prelate, to be able to teach, as the Apoſtle before noted: yet al can not haue the like grace therin, and it is often recompenſed by other ſingular gifts no leſſe neceſſarie. S. Auguſtin: Laboured in word & doctrine, Alipius & Valerius were good Biſhops, & yet had not that gift. Poſſid. in vit. Aug. c. 5. And ſometimes countries require preachers more then other. All which we note, to diſcouer the pride of Heretikes, that condemne ſome of the Catholike Prieſts or Biſhops, pretending that they can not preach as they do, with meretricious and painted eloquence.

Many good & worthie Biſhops haue not the gift of preaching and teaching.

Fulke 13. To defend your vnlearned and vnpreaching Popes, Cardinals, Biſhops, and Prieſts (you ſay) there be many good and worthy Biſhops and Prieſtes that haue not the gift of preaching and teaching, but no ſuch thing can be gathered out of the text: for the Apoſtle hath expreſſely required, and it is the moſt proper qualitie, that he expreſſeth in a Biſhop or a prieſt, that he be apt to teach. 1. Tim. 3. 2. Tit. 1. 9. For al the reſt of the vertues are to be required in euery true Chriſtian man. Therefore he meaneth, that as euery one of them laboureth more in preaching, and teaching, he is ſo much the more to be honoured, or els he meaneth of thoſe elders that S. Ambroſe ſpeaketh of vpon the firſt verſe of this Chapter, that were appointed only for gouernment, and not for teaching, ſuch as are in ſome Churches at this time. But it was neuer allowed that any ſhould be ſuch a Biſhop or (Prieſt as you meane) ordeined to teach, which is not able, or hath not the gift to teach. Therfore the Law being againſt you, you flie to examples of Alypius and Valerius that were good Biſhops, & yet had not the gift to teach. For which you quote Poſſid. in vit. Auguſt. c. 5. where no ſuch thing is to be found: for of Alypius there is no mention. Of Valerius it is ſaid, that becauſe he was a Greeke, and had not ſo good vtterance in the Latine tongue, he was leſſe profitable to edifie by preaching and teaching, and therefore procured Auguſtine to ſupply that his want in his life time, but that he had no gift of teaching at al, it is vtterly falſe. But of Alypius, S. Auguſtine himſelfe teſtifieth, that he was worthy to be a biſhop before he was ordeined. Ep. 8. which he would not haue ſaid, if he had not had the gift of teaching at all. But this you note to couer the ſhame of your Popiſh Prelacie, among whom it is a rare thing to haue a biſhop apt to teach: as Eraſmus ſaid, That onely England in his time had learned Biſhops.

that

Rhem. 14 23. Water.) You ſee how lawful and how holy a thing it is, to faſt from ſome meates or drinkes, either certaine daies, or alwaies, as this B. Biſhop Timothee did: who was hardly induced by the Apoſtle to drinke a litle wine with his water in reſpect of his infirmities. And marke withal, what a calumnious and ſtale cauillation it is, that to abſtaine from certaine meates and drinkes for puniſhment of the body or deuotion, is to condemne Gods creatures. See an homilie of S. Chryſoſtome vpon theſe wordes, n. 5.

Fulke 14. No man doubteth, but it is lawfull (without ſuperſtition for chaſtiſing of a mans bodie) to abſteine from wine, fleſh, fiſh, fruites, ſpices, or other creatures, but to forbid the vſe of them, as though in the very abſtinence there were religion, it is the doctrine of deuils, 1. Tim. 4. Therefore we vſe no calumnious or ſtale cauillation: but you to hide your blaſphemous doctrine, make an impudent and vnlearned alteration of the queſtion in controuerſie betweene vs.

CHAP. VI.

What to teach ſeruants. 3 If any teach againſt the doctrine of the Church obſtinately, he doth it of pride and for lucre. 11 But the Catholike Biſhop muſt folow vertue, hauing his eie alwaies to life euerlaſting and to the comming of Chriſt. 17 What to commaund the riche. 20 Finally, to keepe moſt carefully the Catholike Churches doctrine, without mutation.

who do al change this Depoſitum, that for it onely ſuch men in his daies denied this Epiſtle. But we call for the Depoſitum, and aske them in whoſe hands that truth which they pretend, was laid vp, and how is came down to them. for it can not be Apoſtolicall, vnles it were Depoſitum in ſome Timothees hand, ſo to continue from one Biſhop to an other vntil our time and to the end.

The Proteſtant can ſhew no ſuch depoſitum

Fulke. 3. Timothy had nothing committed to him by vnwritten tradition, but the doctrine conteined in the holy ſcriptures, and the gouernement of the Church according to the ſame. Wherefore you doe but mocke the vnlearned readers, with a latin word, which the Apoſtle vſed not, nor any of the ancient fathers did include any ſuch matter, (as you pretend) there in. S. Ambroſe vſeth the word Commendatum, that which is committed, and ſayth he admoniſheth, that thoſe thinges be kept, which were ſaid before, therefore he ſpeaketh of no vnwritten tradition. Theodoret ſaith, I thinke he calleth the grace of the ſpirit, which he receiued by ordination, the thing that was committed to him. But that was not vnwritten traditions deliuered by hands of men. The reſt vnderſtand it of the Apoſtolike doctrine, committed to him by S. Paule, who preached nothing but the Goſpell, conteined in the holy ſcriptures. Neither doth Vincentius allow any tradition, but that which is contained in the ſcriptures, and inueigheth againſt all new opinions, which haue no grounde in the holy ſcriptures, though the auctors of them do abuſe the ſcriptures, to make a ſhew for their errors. Irenæus alſo doth ſufficiently declare, that the holy ſcriptures are the cheefe treaſure of the Church, when he ſayth the Apoſtles did deliuer the Goſpell which they preached in writing, to be the foundation and piller of our fayth lib. 3. c. 1. Neither was it the word Depoſitum, that cauſed Heretikes in the daies of Clemens, to reiect this epiſtle, but the word, knowledge falſely ſo called, which the Gnoſtikes that bragged of knowledge, could not abide. And of the ſufficiencie of the ſcriptures, he ſayth, They that are ſealed with the holy ſcripture (as I ſaid) ought to eſteeme them, as the beſt ſtorehouſes from whence wiſdom is ſent out, to what parte of life ſoeuer they be turned, and to thinke that this wiſdom is the hauen of health, which is troubled with no waues. Therefore ſo long as it is the olde truth that we teach, and no new doctrine of falſhod, it skilleeth not, though we fetched it 3 or 4 thouſand yere hence, ouer all mens heads, out of Moſes and the Prophetes. And yet we ſhew the continuance of this truth alſo, for the principall pointes of doctrine, in the ancient fathers for many hundred yeres from Chriſt, and in all ages euen in the depth of Antichriſtes darknes, vntill our time. Where as for popery, firſt you are driuen to diſclaime of the auctoritie of the ſcriptures, for many things, and to flie to vnwritten tradition: ſecondly you are neuer able to proue your traditions from hand to hand, from age to age, from Biſhop to Biſhop, whereof you falſely boaſt. But in the primitiue Church, alwaies as you aſcende higher and higher, you will be forſaken of al men (except perhaps of ſome heretikes) long before you come at the Apoſtles.

Traditions vnwritten.

Rhem. 4. 20. Prophane nouelties.) Non dixit antiquitates (ſaith Vincentius Lirinenſis) non dixit vetuſtates, ſed prophanas nouitates. Nam ſi vitanda eſt nouitas, retenda eſt antiquitas: ſi prophana eſt nouitas, ſacrata eſt vetuſtas: that is. He ſaid not. ANTIQVITIES: he ſaid not, AVNCIENTNES: but PROPHANE NOVELTIES, for if noueltie is to be auoided, antiquitie is to be kept: if noueltie be prophane, auncientnes is holy and ſacred. See his whole booke againſt the prophane nouelties of hereſies.

We may not meaſure the newnes or oldnes of wordes and termes of ſpeaking in religion, by holy Scriptures only: as though all thoſe or onely thoſe were new and to be reiected, that are not expreſſly found in holy write: but we muſt eſteeme them by the agreeablenes or diſagreeablenes they haue to the true ſenſe of Scriptures, to the forme of Catholike faith and doctrine, to the praiſe of the old Chriſtians, to the Apoſtolike vſe of ſpeache come vnto vs by tradition of all ages and Churches, and to the preſcription of holy Counels and Schooles of the Chriſtian world: which haue giuen out (according to the time and queſtions raiſed by heretikes and contentious perſons) very fit, artificiall, and ſignificant wordes, to diſcerne and defend the truth by, againſt falſhod.

Prophane nouelties of words how to be tried and examined.

Theſe termes, Catholike, Trinitie, Perſon, Sacrament, Incarnation, Maſſe, and many mo, are not (in that ſenſe wherein the Church vſeth them) in the Scriptures at all, and diuers of them were ſpoken by the Apoſtles before any parte of the new Teſtament was written, ſome of them taken vp ſtraight after the Apoſtles daies in the writinges and preachings of holy Doctors, and in the ſpeach of all faithfull people, and therefore can not be counted Nouelties of wordes. Others beſide theſe, as, Conſubſtantial, Deipara, Tranſubſtantiation, and the like, which are neither in expreſſe termes found in Scriptures, nor yet in ſenſe (if we ſhould follow the iudgement of the ſpeciall ſectes againſt which the ſaid words were firſt inuented, the Arians crying out againſt Nicene Councel, for the firſt: the Neſtorians againſt the Epheſine Counsel, for the ſecond: the Lutherans and Caluiniſtes againſt the Lateran and the later Councels, for the third) theſe wordes alſo notwithſtanding, by the iudgements of holy Church and Councels approued to be conſonant to Gods word, and made authenticall among the faithfull, are ſound and true wordes, and not of thoſe kinde which the Apoſtle calleth Nouelties.

Catholike termes not expreſſly in the Scriptures, but in ſenſe, are no ſuch nouelties of wordes.

The wordes then here forbidden, are the new prophane termes and ſpeaches inuented or ſpecially vſed by heretikes, ſuch as S. Irenee recyteth the Valentinians had a number moſt monſtruous: as the Manichees had alſo diuers, as may be ſeene in S. Auguſtine: The Arians had their *Similis ſubſtantiæ, & Chriſt to be ex non exiſtentibus: the other heretikes after thoſe daies had their *Chriſtiparam, and ſuch like, agreable to their ſectes. But the Proteſtantes paſſe in this kinde, as they excedem: ſt heretikes in the num'er of new opinions: as their Scruum arbitrium, their ſole faith, their fiduce, their apprehenſion of Chriſtes iuſtice, their imputatiue rightcouſnes: their horrible termes of terrors, anguiſhes, diſtreſſes, diſtruſt, feares and feeling of hell paines in the ſoule of our Sauiour, to expreſſe their blaſphemous fiction of his temporal damnation, which they call his deſcending to hell: their markes, tokens, and badges Sacramental, their Companation, Impanation, Circumpanation, to auoid the true concerſion in the Euchariſt: their preſence in figure, in faith, ſigne, ſpirit, pleadge, effect, to auoide the reall preſence of Chriſtes body. Theſe and ſuch like innumerable which they occupie in euery parte of their falſe doctrine, are in the ſenſe that they vſe them, all falſe, captious and deceitfull wordes, and are nouitates vocum here forbidden.

As for prophane Nouelties of wordes, about which you make many wordes to no purpoſe, are ſuch, as are not new, onely in ſound of wordes, but in ſenſe alſo. And thoſe words, (the ſenſe and true meaning whereof is contained in the ſcriptures,) may be new words, but not prophane nouelties of wordes, as thoſe termes, Catholike, trinitie, perſon, ſacrament, incarnation &c. the meaning of which, is found in the ſcriptures. But the words of the Maſſe, tranſubſtantiation, our Lady, Pope, Cardinals, and an hundreth ſuch like, whereof nether the word, nor the meaning are in the holy ſcriptures, are prophane nouelties of wordes, which the Apoſtle willeth to be auoided. And for thoſe termes which you charge vs to vſe, as we vſe them they are in the ſcripture either in word or ſenſe: as will captiue or thrall to ſinne, Rom. 7. 15. Antiquitie.

By markes and badges ſacramentall, I know not what you meane, but we finde in the ſcriptures, that the ſacramentes be ſignes and ſeales of the righteouſneſſe of faith Gen. 17. Rom. 4. 11. As for companation, impanation, circumpanation, we renounce as wel as tranſubſtantiation. The preſens of Chriſt in ſpirit, to fayth, by ſigne, figure, pledge, or effect, we proue by many teſtimonies of ſcripture, which teach that Chriſt was preſent to the fathers in the olde teſtament, in the ſacrament of Manna, and the rocke, and other ſacramentes which cold not be in bodie, before he was incarnate. 1. Cor. 10. 6. therefore in ſpirit, to fayth, by ſigne, figure, pledge, effect of grace &c. which termes, beſide that the ſenſe of them is conteined in the ſcriptures, you know we haue receiued alſo of the ancient fathers, and euen in the ſame meaning, that we vſe them.

Where you ſay, the Catholikes in S. Auguſtines time, did abhorre from the phraſe Laus Deo, becauſe the Circumcelliones vſed it, it is falſe, and you ſhew your great reading in S. Auguſtine, that vnderſtand him no better. The Donatiſtes in deede, of a vaine curioſitie changed the vſuall terme, Deo gratias, which was honeſt and godly, and ſaid in ſteede of it, Deo Laudes in which worde there was no hurte, nor any cauſe why the Catholike ſhould abhorre the word, that giueth praiſe to God, becauſe the heretikes abuſed it. But this was the matter, that they abhorred. The Circumcellions were furious ronnagates, of the ſecte of the Donatiſtes, that ſpared not to beat, hurt, and wound, yee ſome time to kill the Catholikes, when they mett them, where they could maſter them, therefore when they were knowne by there termes, Deo Laudes, the Catholikes, had good cauſe to be afraide of them. Therefore ſayth S. Auguſtine. I would they were the ſoldiers of Chriſt, and not the ſoldiers of the diuell, by whom, Deo Laudes being vttered, is more feared, then the roaring of a Lyon. Agayne you laugh at our Deo gratias, but men weepe at your Deo Laudes, meaning thoſe whom they had beaten and hurt. But as for thoſe, that be your proper termes, I would you had them wholy to your ſelues. For ſuch wordes as we vſe in religion, we are readie to giue accompt before God and his Church, that they haue there true ſenſe, and meaning of the holy ſcriptures, and therefore can not be called prophane or vaine nouelties of wordes, which are to be auoided, by the Apoſtles precept.

Rhem. 5. 20. Falſely called knowledge.) It is the propertie of al Heretikes to arrogate to them ſelues great knowledge, and to contemne the ſimplicitie of their fathers the holy Doctors and the Church, but the Apoſtle calleth their pretended skill, a knowledge falſely ſo called, being in truth high and deepe blindnes. Such (ſaith S. Irenæus li. 5. c. 17.) as forſake the preaching of the Church, argue the holy Prieſts of vnskilfulnes, not conſidering how far more worth a religious idiote is, then a blaſphemous and impudent ſophiſter, ſuch as al Heretike be. And againe Vincentius Lirinenſis ſpeaking in the perſon of Heretikes ſaith, Come ô ye fooliſh and miſerable men, that are commonly called Catholikes, and learne the true faith which hath been hid many ages heretofore, but is reuealed and ſhewed of late &c. See his whole booke concerning theſe matters.

Heretikes arrogate knowledge falſly ſo called.

Fulke. 5. Such Heretikes were the Valentinians and Gnoſtikes, which not content with the ſimple knowledge that was conteined in the holy ſcriptures, did arrogate vnto them ſelues, a farre higher vnderſtanding, which none could atteine vnto, but they that vnderſtood the vnwritten tradition. When they are conuicted (ſaith Irenæus) out of the ſcriptures, they fall to accuſing of the ſcriptures them ſelues, as though they were not perfect, as though they were not of auctoritie ſufficient, becauſe they were diuerſely vttered, and that the truth out of them can not be founde out, of them which knowe not the tradition, for that was not deliuered by writing, but by worde of mouth. Ioyne this ſaying therefore to the other two, out of Irenæus and Vincentius, and you ſhall make make a perfect deſcription of Papiſts: which boaſt of the truth, of the Church, of tradition by word of mouth more certeine then the ſcriptures, all which is nothing els but falſely called knowledge, being in deede, deepe blindneſſe and ignorans of the truth, a falſe bragge of the catholike Church, and a counterfect boaſting of Apoſtolike tradition, where they haue nothing but newe vanities and prophane nouelties, not of words onely, but of matters inſpired by the deuill, maintained by Antichriſt, and vpholden by tyrannie or ſophiſtry, without auctoritie of the holy ſcriptures.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE SECOND EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO TIMOTHEE.

Rhem. THE chiefe ſcope of this ſecond to Timothee is, to open vnto him that his martyrdom is at hand. Which yet he doth not plainely before the end: preparing firſt his minde with much circumſtance, becauſe he knewe it would greue him ſore, and alſo might be a tentation vnto him. Therefore he talketh of the cauſe of his trouble, and of the reward: that the one is honorable, and the other moſt glorious: and exhorteth him to be conſtant in the faith, to be ready alwaies to ſuffer for it, to fulfill his miniſterie to the end, as him ſelfe now had done his.

Whereby it is certaine that it was written at Rome, in his laſt apprehenſion and empriſonment there: as he ſignifieth by theſe wordes Cap. 1: Oneſiphorus was not aſhamed of my chaine, but when he was come to Rome, carefully ſought me, &c. And of his martyrdom, thus: For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my reſolution (or death) is at hand. cap. 4.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 6 Grace of God.) Here againe it is plaine that holy Orders giue grace, and that euenby and in the externall ceremonie of impoſing the Biſhops hands. And it is a maner of ſpeach ſpecially vſed in this Apoſtle and S. Luke that Orders giue grace to the ordered, and that to take orders or auctoritie to miniſter Sacramentes or preach, is, to be giuen or deliuered to Gods grace. Act.14,25

Fulke. 1. Here is no ſuch matter to be gathered, for he ſpeaketh of the ſame extraordinary grace of prophecy, that was giuen by impoſition of hands, whereof he ſpake 1.Tim.4.14. Neyther doth the Apoſtle, or S. Luke, any where ſay, that the orders giue grace to the ordered, nor that to take orders, is to be deliuered to the grace of God. In the place Act.14. it is ſayd, that Paul and Barnabas ſayled to Antioche, from whence they were deliuered to the grace of God, and to the worke which they fulfilled, meaning that from Antioch, they were ſent to preach and by praier commended to the grace of God. For to vſe your terme, the Apoſtles tooke no orders at Antioch. Paul was an Apoſtle immediatly from Chriſt, and not by men. Gal. 1. And they both preached before they were ſent from Antioch, not without ſufficient auctoritie, I dare auow. Act.11.26. Againe the text is, from whence they were deliuered to the grace of God, not where they were deliuered, to the grace of God. Therefore if your gloſe were true, the ſenſe ſhould not be, they ſailed to Antioch, where they tooke orders, but from whence they tooke orders, which is an vnuſuall kinde of ſpeach, and farre from the meaning of the Euangeliſt.

Rhem. 2. 16. Not bene aſhamed.) What a happie and meritorious thing is it to relieue the afflicted for religion, and not to be aſhamed of their diſgrace, yrons or what miſeries ſoeuer.

Fulke. 2. It is an happy thing, to miniſter to the afflicted for true religion: but not meritorious. And the Apoſtle praieth, that Oneſiphorus may be rewarded of Gods mercy, and not of the merite of his worke.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 3. 5 .In thy grandmother.) Though God ſhew mercie to many that be of incredulous, heretical or ill parents, yet it is a goodly benediction of God to haue good education and to haue good faithfull progenitors and Catholike parents. And it is a greas ſinne to forſake the faith of our fathers that be Catholikes, or contrarie to our education in the Church to follow ſtrange doctrines, abandoning not onely our next naturall parents faith, but the auncient faith and beleefe of al our progenitours for faith.

A great bleſſing, to haue Catholike progenitors: and very commendable to cleaue faſt to their faith.

for many hundred yeeres together. And if to follow the fayth of mother and grandmother onely, the Christian religion beyng then but newly planted, was so commendable euen in a B shop, how much more is it now laudable to cleaue fast to the faith of so many our progenitors and ages that continued in the same Christian religion which they first receiued?

Our Protestantes in their great wisdome Laugh at good simple men when they talke of their fathers fayth. But S. Hierome, I am a Christian (sayth he) and borne of Christian parents, and carie the signe of the crosse in my forehead. And againe, ep.65.c.3. Vntil this day the Christian world hath bene without this doctrine. that faith will I holde fast beyng an olde man, wherein I was borne a child. And the holy Scriptures set vs often to schoole to our fathers. Aske thy fathers, and they wil shew thee, thy auncetours, and they will tell thee. And againe, Our fathers haue shewed vnto vs. And commonly the true God is called the God of the faithful and of their forefathers. Dan.2,3. And false Gods and new doctrines or opinions be named, New and fresh, such as their fathers worshipped not. Deut.32. *Finally S. Paul both here and often els alleageth for his defense and commendation, that he was of faithful progenitours. And it is a case that Heretikes cannot lightly brag of, no one sect commonly durith so long without intermission, that they can haue many progenitors of the sayd sect. Which is a demonstration that their faith is not true. and that it is impossible our Catholike faith to be false, supposing the Christian religion to be true.

The peoples speaches of their fathers faith, is very Christian and laudable. *Apol. cont. Ruff. li.1.c.8. Deut.32. & Psal.43. Act.24. 2.Cor.11.

Fulke.3. If the faith of our progenitors were true, it is sinne to forsake it: but to build vpon our fathers fayth, when it was false, or none, is to build vpon a weake foundation. Therefore the popish peoples speaches of their fathers faith to be the onely ground of their religion, against which they will heare nothing, is vaine, ridiculous, and damnable. Wherefore when so euer the Scripture or the ancient fathers, speake in commendation of their fathers fayth, they speake of the true fayth. For against their fathers faith which was none, or false, the Scriptures doe often cry out. Ez.20.18. Zach.1. & 1.Pet.1.18.&c. And heretikes may easily bragge of their fathers faith, as Nestorius and other did, as impudently as the Papists, but they can neuer prooue their fayth by the holy scriptures, nor by the testimonie of the most ancient and approued fathers, as true Catholikes doe.

Our fathers fayth.

Rhem.4. 12 Depositum.) A great comfort to al Christians, that euery of their good deeds and sufferings for Christ, and all the worldly losses susteined for defense or confession of their fayth, be extant with God, and kept as depositum, to be repayed or receiued agayne in heauen. Which if the worldlings beleeued or considered, they would not so much maruel to see Catholike men so willingly to lose land, libertie, credit, life and al for Christes sake and the Churches fayth.

Al our good deeds are laid vp with God, to be rewarded

Fulke.4. Although it be true that all our good works and sufferings for his trueth, be laied vp with God to be rewarded, yet the Apostle speaketh not of his good deeds, but of himselfe and his saluation, which by fayth he hath committed to God, that will surely preserue him vnto the perfect reward of iustification in the day of iudgement. What doeth he commit to God but his saluation? sayeth S. Ambrose. Theodoret saieth, The grace of Gods spirite. Primasius, Fayth. Chrysostome, His faith and preaching, all which come to one ende. The sufferings of the Papists in England, are not for Christ and the fayth of his Church, but for Antichrist and their horrible treasons and murthers conspired against the Lordes anointed and their native countrey.

Rhem.5. 13 A forme.) The Apostles did set downe a platforme of faith, doctrine, and phrase of Catholike speach and preaching, and that not so much by writing (as here we see) as by word of mouth: to which he referreth Timothee ouer and aboue his Epistle vnto him. And how precisely Christian Doctors ought to keepe the forme of wordes anciently appropriated to the mysteries and matters of our religion, S. Augustine expresseth in these wordes, lib.10.de ciuit. cap.23. Philosophers speake with freedome of wordes, &c. but we must speake according to a certaine rule, lest licentious libertie of words breed an impious opinion of the things allo that are signified by the same. Trinitie, person, essence, Consubstantial, Transubstantiation, Masse, Sacrament, and such like, be verba sana (as the Apostle speaketh) sound wordes, giuen to expresse certaine high truthes in religion, partly by the Apostles and first founders of our religion vnder Christ, and partly very aptly inuented by holy Councels and fathers, to expresse as neere as could be the high ineffable or vnspeakable veritie of some points, and to stop the Heretikes audacitie and inuention of new words & prophane speaches in such things which the Apostle warneth Timothee to auoyd, 1.ep.c.6,20. and 2.ep.2,16. See the Annotations there.

We must speake in Catholike termes after a certaine rule of faith, and forme of wordes.

Fulke.5. For substance of doctrine, the Apostles taught nothing by word of meuth, but that which is conteyned in their writings. The Apostles (sayth Irenæus) preached the Gospel, and after by the will of God deliuered it to vs in writing, to be the foundation and piller of our fayth, lib.3.cap.4. Therefore the truth of all those termes which the Church vseth to expresse the mysteries of our religion, or to meete with the fraud of heretikes, is manifestly conteined in the Scriptures, though the termes themselues be not expressed. But transubstantiation and Masse, be not onely not found in the Scriptures, but are manifestly contrary to the trueth of the scriptures as we haue often prooued.

Traditions vnwritten.

Rhem.6. 18 Our Lord.) To haue this prayer of an Apostle, or any Priest or poore Cath. man so relieued, giueth the greatest hope at the day of our death or general iudgement, that can be: and it is worth all the lands, honors, and riches of the world.

Reliefers of Cath. prisoners.

Fulke.6. The faithful haue their onely hope at the day of their death, and at the general resurrection in the mercie of God through Christ. So saith S. Augustine, My whole hope is no thing but thy exceeding great mercy. Conf. lib.10.c.29. Without which faith, if Moses, Samuel, Noe, Iob, Daniel, Hieremie, or any of the Prophets prayed for vs, it will not auaile vs. Ezech.14.14. 1.Sam.16. Hier.15.1.c.7.16. Therefore, miserable is the condition of Papists, which can haue no greater hope then that which is giuen by the prayer of a priest or other papist by them relieued, and therefore must bestow all their lands, honours and riches, to purchase such a prayer. For with popish priests it hath alwaies bene a true Prouerbe, No penny, No Pater Noster. And it is good to marke, what a large net is here spred, to bring al the lands, honours, and riches of the world, into the popish priestes hands, when their prayer giueth the greatest hope that can be to them, that bestow any thing vpon them, and is worth all that they can giue for it.

Popish priests prayer.

CHAP. II.

He exhorteth him to labour diligently in his office, considering the reward in Christ, and his denial of them that deny him. 14 Not to contend, but to shun heretikes: neither to be moued to see some subuerted, considering that the elect continue Catholikes, and that in the Church be of al sortes. 24 Yet with al sweetnes to reclaime the destroied.

2 And the things that thou haſt heard of mee by many witneſſes, the ſame commit thou to faythfull men, which ſhall bee apt to teach other alſo.

8 Remember that Ieſus Chriſt, of the ſeed of Dauid, was raiſed from the dead, according to my Goſpel:

9 Wherein I ſuffer trouble as an euill doer, euen vnto bondes: but the worde of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I ſuffer all things for the electis ſakes, that they might alſo obtaine the ſaluation which is in Chriſt Ieſus, with eternall glory.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem.1. 25 God giue them.) Converſion from ſinne and hereſie is the gift of God and of his ſpeciall grace: yet here we ſee, good exhortations and prayer and ſuch other helpes of man be profitable thereunto. Which could not be, if we had not free wil.

Fulke.1. Mans will is alwayes free from coaction, but neuer from thraldome to ſinne, vntill it begin to be ſet at liberty by the grace of God: Why doe men preſume ſo much of the poſſibilitie of nature? It is wounded, it is maymed, it is vexed, it is loſt? It hath neede of a true confeſſion, not of a falſe defence. Therefore let the grace of God be ſought, not wherewith it may be inſtructed, but whereby it may be reſtored. Auguſt. De nat. & gr. cap. 53. Freewill.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem.2. 4 No man being a ſouldier.) Firſt of all, the Apoſtle (1.Cor.7.) maketh mariage and the needfull cares, ſolicitude, and diſtractions thereupon euer depending, ſpecial impediments of al ſuch as ſhould emp oy themſelues wholy to Gods ſeruice, as Biſhops and Prieſts are bound to doe. He that is with a wife (ſayth he) is carefull for the world, how to pleaſe his wife, and is diſtracted or deuided. 1.Cor.7. What ſecular affaires do not agree nor conſiſt with ſpirituall mens function.

Secondly, the practiſe of Phyſicke, merchandiſe, or any other profane faculti e and trade of life to gather riches, and much more to be giuen to hunting, hauking, gamming, ſhewes, enterludes, or the like paſtimes is here forbidden.

Thirdly, the ſeruices of Princes and manifold baſe offices done to them for to obtaine dignities and promotions, are diſagreeable to Prieſtly functions. not ſo, to be their chaplens for this purpoſe to preach vnto them, to heare their confeſſions, to miniſter the Sacraments vnto them, to ſay Diuine ſeruice before them, and ſuch other ſpirituall duetie. for, all ſuch ſeruices done to principall perſons both of the Clergie and Laitie, be godly and conſonant to Prieſtly vocation. As alſo ſeruing of Princes and Commonweales in ciuil cauſes and matters of ſtate, in making peace and quietnes among the people, by deciding or compounding their controuerſies, and al ſuch like affaires tending to the honour of God and good of men, and to the vpholding of true religion, when they may be done without notorious damage or hinderance of their ſpirituall charge, or when the hurtes thereof be aboundantly recompenſed by the neceſſarie duetie done for the generall good of kingdome or Countrie: all ſuch things (I ſay) be lawfull and often very requiſite. And S. Auguſtine, S Ambroſe, S Bernard, and other holy Biſhops of olde were much occupied therein, as we ſee in S. Auguſtines booke De opere Monachorum cap. 29. & Poſſid. in vit. cap. 19. How ſpirituall men may ſerue ſecular princes, & deale in ciuil cauſes. In vit. S. Ambr. & Bern.

Fulke. 2. The Apoſtle 1. Cor. 7. maketh mariage no more impediment of Biſhops and Prieſts to employ themſelues wholly to Gods ſeruice, then of all other men and women. And alſo ſheweth, that it is neceſſarie for all perſons, that haue not the gift of continencie. Secondly, for couetouſneſſe or immoderate vayne delight, it is forbidden to practiſe phiſicke &c. but not for neceſſitie or honeſt recreation. Thirdly, if baſe offices about Princes ſeruices, be vnfit, what is it to be a ſtewarde in a noble mans or gentlemans houſe, as it was vſuall among popiſh prieſts? To heare Princes confeſſions, if they haue good cauſe to make them, is not vnmeete for their Chaplens. But to bind Princes to make their confeſſions to their prieſts, is a baſer and more ſeruile thing, then is required of any common ſubiect. To be occupied in making of peace, either priuate or publike with ſuch conditions, as you adde no reaſonable mā can miſlike, but to make bloodie warres vpon Chriſtian princes, as the Pope and ſome popiſh prelates vſe to doe, is contrary to the ſpirituall ſouldiers office, whereof the Apoſtle ſpeaketh. Mariage no impediment to a biſhop. &c.

Rhem.3. 15 Rightly.) The Scriptures or chalenge of the word of God is common to Catholikes and Heretikes, but all is in the handling of them. theſe Later handle them guilefully, adultering the word of God, as 2.Cor.2.& 4. els where the Apoſtle ſpeaketh: the other Catholikes only right handlers of the Scripture.

ſincerely after the maner of the Apoſtles and doctors of Gods Church. Which the Greeke expreſſeth by a ſignificant word of cutting a thing ſtraighe by a line, ὀρθοτομοῦντα.

Fulke. 3. The Papiſts ſo chalenge the ſcriptures, as they compt them inſufficient, to determine of all their contro- Abuſing of the ſcriptures.
uerſies: being in that reſpect inferior to many heretikes. And their handling is like to heretikes, which learne not their errors out of the ſcriptures, but ſtudy to draw the ſcriptures to their hereſies, where catholikes learne their faith out of the plaine and euident ſcriptures, and by the ſame confirme all true articles thereof.

Rhem. 4. 17 Their ſpeach.) The ſpeaches, preachings, and writings of Heretikes be peſtiferous, contagious, and creeping like a canker, therefore Chriſtian men muſt neuer heare their ſermons, nor read their bookes. For ſuch men haue a popular way of talke whereby the vnlearned, and ſpecially women loden with ſinne, are eaſily beguiled. Nothing is ſo eaſie (ſayth S. Hierome) as with voluble and rolling tong to deceiue the rude people, which admire whatſoeuer they vnderſtand not. Ep. 2. ad Nepot. c. 10. Heretikall bookes and ſermons are to be auoided.

Fulke 4. Heretical bookes with the confutations of them, may be read of them that deſire to ſee the victory of truth againſt falſhood, as the bookes of S. Auguſtine, S. Ambroſe, S. Cyril, confuting Paganes or heretikes.

Rhem. 20 In a great houſe.) He meaneth not that Hymenæus and Philetus (of whom he ſpake immediatly before) or of ther heretikes, be properly within the Church, as catholike men are, though grieuous ſinners: but that euil men who for the puniſhment of their ſinnes become heretikes, were before they fell from their faith as veſſels of contumelie within the Church. Yea and often alſo after they be ſeuered in hart and in the ſight of God, ſo long as they ſtand in external profeſſion and vſe of the ſame Sacraments, and in the outward fellowſhip of Catholikes, not yet either ſeparated of themſelues, nor caſt out by the gouernours of the Church, ſo long (we ſay) they be after a ſort in the Church: though properly and in deed they be out of the compaſſe of Gods houſe. Marrie of thoſe that are openly ſeuered in Sacraments, Seruice and communion, there is no queſtion but they are out of the Church. Who are out of the Church or within it.

Rhem. 5. 21 Cleanſe himſelfe.) Man then hath free wil to make himſelfe a veſſel of ſaluation or damnation: though ſaluation be attributed to Gods mercy principally, the other to his iuſt iudgement: neither of both being repugnant to our free will, but working with and by the ſame, al ſuch effects in vs as to his prouidence and our deſerts be agreeable. Freewil.

Fulke 5. Man hath no free will to make himſelfe a veſſel of ſaluation, but onely and altogether of the grace of God, Freewil. to whoſe mercy ſaluation is to be attributed onely, and not to mans will, which is euer free from conſtraint, but neuer from captiuitie of ſinne, vntill by grace it begin to be inlarged. Therefore ſayth S. Auguſtine, O euil free will without God. De verb. Apoſt. ſer. 11. Againe, Free will made captiue, auaileth to nothing but to ſinne. Auguſt. ad Bonif. l. 3. c. 8. Where you ſay the mercy of God worketh all ſuch effects in vs, as not onely to his prouidece, but alſo to our deſerts, are agreeable, you ioyne flatly with Pelagius, which ſayd, that the grace or mercy of God was beſtowed according to mens deſertes. Againſt which was holden the councels of Mileuite and Aphricane, and it is moſt directly contrary to the Scriptures, Ioan. 1. 16. Rom. 11. 6. &c. Pelagianiſme.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. 8. Iannes and Mambres.) That thoſe Magicians which reſiſted Moyſes, were thus called, it is not written in al the old Teſtament, therfore it came to the Apoſtles knowledge by tradition, as the Church now hath the names of the 3 kings, of the penitent theefe, of the ſouldiar that pearced Chriſtes ſide on the Croſſe, and of the like.

Fulke. 1. The names of thoſe Magicians were not neceſſary to ſaluation, therfore not expreſſed in the old Teſtament. And albeit the Apoſtle had them of tradition, yet hath not the Popiſh church the like certeintie of tradition in ſuch names as you ſpeake of. For neither the number, nor the names of the wiſe men that came to Chriſt, were knowne to the ancient church, as I haue ſhewed in Math 2. ſect. 4. The penitent theeues name, Diſmas, beſide that it hath no teſtimony of antiquitie, doth ryme with the other theeues name, Giſmas, as in ſo caſuall a matter it is very vnlike to be but feined: the names themſelues being ſuch as were neither vſuall among the Iewes, nor among the Gentiles. The ſtorie of the ſoldiour that pearced Chriſtes ſide, is a very fable, as his name is a childiſh fiction. For S. Iohn would not haue concealed the miracle of his ſight reſtored. And he hath his name feined of his office, becauſe he was a ſpeare-man. Which is his name, as truely as that he had two bodies, wherof one lieth at Mantua, the other at Lions, and both places are ſure of it by tradition.

Fulke. 2. So we be ſure that we were firſt inſtructed in the true faith, we muſt not giue ouer our olde faith for anie new fantaſie. But if we were firſt deceiued with errour, we muſt not refuſe the trueth whenſoeuer it is reuealed.

Our olde faith.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 2. Men ſhal be.) Al theſe wordes S. Cyprian expounderh of ſuch as by pride and diſobedience reſiſt Gods Prieſts. Let no faithful man, ſaith he, that keepeth in minde our Lordes and the Apoſtles admonition, meruel if he ſee in the later times ſome proud and ſtubburne fellowes and the enimies of Gods Prieſts, goe out of the Church or impugne the ſame: when both our Lord and the Apoſtle foretold vs that ſuch ſhould be. Cypr. ep. 55. nu. 3.

6. Women loden.) Women loden with ſinnes, are for ſuch their deſeruings, and through the frailtie of their ſexe, more ſubiect to the heretikes deceites, then men: the enemie attempting (as he did in the fall of our firſt parents) by them to ouerthrow man. See S. Hierom vpon the 3 chapter of Ieremie. Where he addeth that euery hereſie is firſt broched propter gulam & ventrem, for gluttonie and belly-cheere.

Women eaſily ſeduced by hereſie.

9. Folly manifeſt.) Al heretikes in the beginning ſeeme to haue ſome ſhew of truth, God for iuſt puniſhment of mens ſinnes permitting them for ſome while in ſome perſons and places to preuaile: but in ſhort time God deteſteth them, and openeth the eies of men to ſee their deceites: in ſo much that after the firſt brunt they be maintained by force onely, al wiſe men in maner ſeing their falſhod, though for troubling the ſtate of ſuch common weales where vnlooked they haue been receiued, they can not be ſo ſodenly extirped.

The folly of Heretikes in time appereth.

Rhem. 12. Al that wil liue.) All holy men ſuffer one kinde of perſecution or other, being greeued and moleſted by the wicked, one way or an other: but not al that ſuffer perſecution, be holy, as al malefactors. The Church and Catholike Princes perſecute heretikes, and be perſecuted of them againe, as S. Auguſtine often declareth. See ep. 48. Perſecution.

13. Proſper.) Though hereſies and the authors of them be after a while diſcouered and by litle and litle forſaken generally of the honeſt, diſcrete, and men careful of their owne ſaluation, yet their authors and other great ſinners proceed from one errour and hereſie to an other, and finally to plaine Atheiſme and al Diueliſh diſorder.

Rhem. 3. 16. Al ſcripture.) Beſides the Apoſtles teaching and tradition, the reading of holy Scriptures is a great deſire and helpe of the faithful, and ſpecially of a Biſhop, not onely to auoid and condemne al hereſies, but to the guiding of a man in al iuſtice, good life and workes. Which commendation is not here giuen to the bookes of the new Teſtament onely (whereof he here ſpeaketh not, as being yet for a great part not written) but to the Scriptures of the old Teſtament alſo, yea and to euery booke of it. For there is not one of them nor any part of them, but it is profitable to the end aforeſaid, if it be read and vnderſtood according to the ſame Spirit wherewith it was written. The great profit of reading the Scriptures.

The Heretikes vpon this commendation of holy Scriptures, pretend (very ſimply in good ſooth) that therfore nothing is neceſſarie to iuſtice and ſaluation but Scriptures. As though euery thing that is profitable or neceſſarie to any effect, excluded al other helpe, and were only ynough to attaine the ſame. By which reaſon a man might as wel proue that the old Teſtament were ynough, and ſo exclude the newer any one peece of al the old, and thereby exclude the reſt. For he affirmeth euery Scripture to haue the foreſaid vtilities, and they might ſee in the very next line before, that he requireth his conſtant perſeuerance in the doctrine which he had taught him ouer & aboue that he had learned out of the Scriptures of the old Teſtament, which he had read from his infancie, but could not thereby learne al the myſteries of Chriſtian religion therein. Neither doth the Apoſtle affirme here that he had his knowledge of Scriptures, by reading only, without helpe of maiſters and teachers, as the Aduerſaries herein (to committe the holy Scriptures to euery mans preſumption) do gather: but affirmeth onely that Timothee knew the Scriptures and therfore had ſtudied them by hearing good readers and teachers, as S. Paul him ſelf did of Gamaliel and the like, and as al chriſtian ſtudents doe, that be trained vp from their youth in Catholike vniuerſities in the ſtudie of Diuinitie. The Heretikes foolish argument: Al Scripture is profitable, ergo only Scripture is neceſſarie and ſufficient.

Fulke. 3: The Apoſtle ſaid before, that the ſcriptures are able to make a man wiſe vnto ſaluation, therfore they conteine all doctrine, not onely profitable, but alſo neceſſarie and ſufficient to ſaluation. And this commendation perteineth euen to the ſcriptures of the olde Teſtament, but not to euery booke of them, more then to euery line, word, ſyllable, or letter: but to the whole ſcripture that God deliuered for a ſufficient inſtruction to his church. Which was firſt the fiue bookes of Moſes, and afterward the Prophets for a more full and plaine declaration of the doctrine conteined in thoſe firſt bookes, and laſt of all, the bookes of the new Teſtament, for a moſt plaine and full explication of the Law and the Prophets, and a teſtimony of the fulfilling of all things that were foreſhewed in the Law and the Prophets. And where you ſay, there is not any one of thoſe bookes, nor any part of them, but it is profitable to the end that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, it is falſe, for the man of God cannot be made perfect by euery part of ſcripture, but by the whole. But of this commendation of holy ſcriptures, you ſay, the heretiks (for ſo you call true Catholiks) pretend that therfore nothing is neceſſarie to iuſtice and ſaluation, but ſcriptures, wherein, not more fooliſhly then maliciouſly, you falſifie the queſtion, becauſe againſt the true ſtate of the controuerſie you are able to ſay nothing: except you will denie the ſcripture it ſelfe. Who euer heard or read that we pretend that nothing is neceſſary to iuſtice & ſaluation but ſcriptures? By which ſaying we ſhould exclude Chriſt himſelfe, as vnneceſſary to iuſtice & ſaluation, therfore we pretend no ſuch thing. But this is the true ſtate of the controuerſie. Whether the whole ſcriptures doe conteine all doctrine neceſſarie to be learned vnto ſaluation? And we affirme they doe, becauſe the ſcriptures are able to make vs wiſe vnto ſaluation, to make the man of God perfect, inſtructed to all good works. Againſt this if you could ſay any thing, you would not ſo impudently faine a new queſtion, which we doe not holde. But euery thing that is profitable or neceſſarie to any effect, excludeth not all other helps, nor is ſufficient to attaine the ſame. As though our argument were onely of the profit and neceſſitie of the ſcripture, & not of the perfection. The Apoſtle ſaith, it is able to make wiſe to ſaluation, ergo it is perfect and ſufficient for doctrine. It is profitable to euery part of the man of Gods office, euen that he may be perfect, and throughly furniſhed vnto euery good worke. Therfore it is perfect and ſufficient, conteining all doctrine that is neceſſarie for this end. But you obiect that a man by this reaſon might as well proue that the olde Teſtament were inough, and ſo exclude the new. We confeſſe that the olde Teſtament for the time before Chriſt, was enough, but that doth not exclude the new. For all that is more then enough, is not ſuperfluous. God will haue his Church in the new Teſtament, to be not onely ſufficiently (as in the olde Teſtament) but moſt richly and abundantly furniſhed with all cleerenеſſe and euidence of knowledge, by the ſcriptures of the Apoſtles and Euangeliſts. But you cannot by any reaſon proue, that one peece of the olde Teſtament is or euer was enough: for any one peece of the olde Teſtament, cannot make Timothee wiſe to ſaluation, but the whole may. Againe, one peece cannot make the man of God perfect, but the whole can. Therefore he affirmeth not euery peece of ſcripture to haue theſe vtilities, but the whole. But we might ſee (ſay you) in the very next line before, that he requireth his perſeuerence in the doctrine, which he had taught him, ouer and aboue that he had learned out of the ſcriptures of the olde Teſtament, which he had read from his infancie, but could not thereby learne all the myſteries of Chriſtian religion therein. We ſee in deed that the Apoſtle had taught him to vnderſtand the ſcriptures, but that he taught any thing ouer and aboue the ſcriptures of the olde Teſtament, or that Timothee could not learne all the doctrine of all the myſteries of Chriſtian religion in them, we ſee not, but the contrary. For the Apoſtle ſaith theſe ſcriptures were able to make him wiſe vnto ſaluation, which no man can be that is ignorant of the myſteries of Chriſtian religion. Therfore the ſcriptures of the olde Teſtament were able to teach him the doctrine of the myſteries of Chriſtian religion. Neither doe we gather, that Timothee had his knowledge by reading only, without helpe of maiſters and teachers, as you falſlie ſlander vs. For we acknowledge paſtours and teachers to be neceſſarie in the Church, yet by reading only, diligent ſtudie, & prayer, many haue attained without other teachers, to ſufficient knowledge. But becauſe you ſay we make a fooliſh argument out of this text, to prooue that the ſcriptures conteine The ſufficiencie of the ſcriptures. Slander. Slander.

teine ſufficient doctrine to ſaluation, let vs ſee whether any of the ancient fathers was as fooliſh as we, to gather the ſame concluſion. Firſt Chryſtome ſaith vpon this text. Hom. 9. If any thing be needfull for vs to learne, or to be ignorant of, there (meaning in the ſcriptures) ſhall we learne it, if to reproue falſhood, from thence ſhall we draw it, if any thing lacke to be corrected or rebuked, which muſt be had vnto exhortation, vnto comfort, there alſo do we learne it. Likewiſe Hom. 8. vpon the fifteenth verſe, he ſaith. The ſcriptures doe teach both what things are to be done, and what things are not to be done. Theodoret ſaith: The ſcripture is inſpired of God, therefore he teacheth the kindes of vtilitie. It is profitable to teach. For whatſoeuer we know not, we learne out of it. To reproue, it reprocueth our wicked life. To correct, for it exhorteth, that they which haue gone aſtray, returne into the right way. To inſtruct in righteouſneſſe, for it teacheth vs the kinds of vertue. That the man of God may be perfect, furniſhed to all good workes. All theſe things doe attribute and aſcribe perfection to the God of all. This father by the perfection of the ſcripture, prooueth the Holy ghoſt to be perfect God.

Primaſius ſaith: Out of the ſcripture, he that is ignorant is taught, he that is inſolent is reprooued, he that erreth is corrected, he that can keepe no meaſure is inſtructed to iuſtice, to euery good worke, not vnto one. Oecumenius ſaith, after he hath rehearſed the particular vtilities to teach all true opinions and good workes to reprooue errours and vice, he concludeth that the man of God may be not onely partaker after a vulgar maner of euery good worke, but perfect and complete by the doctrine of the ſcriptures. Not to ſome kinds of good worke and to ſome not, but to all and euery good worke, ſaith Theophylact.

I Teſtifie therefore before God, and the Lord Ieſus Chriſt, which ſhall iudge the quicke and the dead at his appearing, and his kingdome:

2 Preach the word, be inſtant in ſeaſon, out of ſeaſon, improoue, rebuke, exhort in all long ſuffering and doctrine.

3 For the time will come, when they ſhall not ſuffer wholeſome doctrine: but after their owne luſtes, ſhall they whoſe eares itche, get them an heape of teachers:

4 And ſhall turne away their hearing from the truth, and ſhalbe turned vnto fables.

5 But watch thou in all things, ſuffer afflictions, doe the worke of an Euangeliſt, fulfill thy miniſterie:

6 For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my diſſolution is at hand.

7 I haue fought a good fight, I haue fulfilled my courſe, I haue kept the faith.

8 Henceforth there is laid vp for me a crowne of righteouſneſſe, which the Lord the righteous iudge ſhall giue me at that day: not to me onely, but vnto them alſo that haue loued his appearing.

9 Do thy diligence to come ſhortly vnto me.

10 For Demas hath forſaken me, hauing loued this preſent world, and is departed vnto Theſſalonica, Creſcens to Galatia, Titus vnto Dalmatia.

MARGINAL NOTES CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. 6. To be ſacrificed.) The martyrdom of ſainctes is ſo acceptable to God, that it is counted as it were a ſacrifice in his ſight, and therfore hath many effectes both in the partie that ſuffereth it, and in others that are partakers of the merite, as of a ſacrifice: which name it hath by a Metaphore.

Fulke. 1. The faithfull receiue confirmation by the conſtancie of the martyrs, ſuffering for the truth. But there is no participation of merits, where the martyr himſelfe doth not merit, but is crowned of Gods mercy. Participation of merits.

Rhem. 2. 21. [c] Linus.) This Linus was coadiutor with and vnder S. Peter, and ſo counted ſecond in the number of Popes.

Rhem. 2. The ancient fathers are not agreed who was next ſucceſſor to Peter, and who third and fourth, therefore the ſtorie of Peters being at Rome & of his ſucceſſion in the Apoſtolike chaire, is not ſo certeine a matter as the papiſts make it. See Phil. 4. ſect. 2. Peters being at Rome vncerteine.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 3. 3. There ſhal be a time.) If euer this time came (as needes it muſt that the Apoſtle foreſaw and foretold) now it is vndoubtedly, for the properties fall ſo iuſt in euery point vpon our new Maiſters and their Diſciples, that they may ſeeme to be preuented out, rather then prophecied of. Neuer were there ſuch delicate Doctors that could ſo pleaſantly claw & ſo ſweetly rubbe the itching eares of their hearers, as theſe, which haue a doctrine framed for euery mans phantſie, luſt, liking, and deſire, the people not ſo faſt crying, Speake placentia, things that pleaſe: but the Maiſters as faſt warranting them to doe placentia. The Apoſtle prophecied of our new delicate preachers. Eſa 30.v.10.

Fulke. 3. They that heare vs preach mortification according to the ſcriptures, can teſtifie that we preach not things pleaſant to the fleſh or carnall man. But your religion is the religion of pleaſure, ſeruing all the ſenſes almoſt, in your Church ſeruice, and bringing men into ſecuritie through your doctrine of pardons, maſſes, and merits, to be available not only in this life, but after men be dead. Carnall libertie & ſecuritie.

Rhem. 4. 8. A crowne of iuſtice.) This place conuinceth for the Catholikes, that al good workes done by Gods grace after the firſt iuſtification, be truely and properly meritorious, and fully worthy of euerlaſting life: and that thereupon heauen is the due and iuſt ſtipend, crowne, or recompenſe, which God by his iuſtice oweth to the perſons ſo working by his grace. for he rendreth or repaieth heauen as a iuſt iudge, and not onely as a merciful giuer, and the crowne which he paieth is not onely of mercie or fauour or grace, but alſo of iuſtice. It is his merciful fauour and grace, that we worke wel and merite heauen: it is his iuſtice, ſor the merites to giue vs a crowne correſpondent in heauen. S. Auguſtine vpon theſe wordes of the Apoſtle, expreſſeth both briefely thus, How ſhould he repay as a iuſt iudge, vnles he had firſt giuen as a merciful father? Lib. gra. & lib. arbit. c. 6.

And when you heare or read any thing in the Scriptures, that may ſeeme to derogate from mans workes in this caſe, it is alwaies ment of workes conſidered in their owne nature and valure, not implying the grace of Chriſt, by which grace it commeth, Works meritorious. How heauen is due both of iuſtice and mercie, commeth,and not of the worke In it ſelf that we haue a right to heauen and deſerue it worthily: which the Apoſtle in the 6 to the Hebrues more ſtenuouſly inſinuateth,ſaying theſe wordes, God is not vniuſt,to forget your worke and loue which you haue ſhewed in his name &c. As though he would ſay, that he were vniuſt if he did forget to recompenſe their workes.

Mat.20. * The parable alſo of the men ſent into the vineyard, proueth that heauen is our owne right, bargained for and wrought for,and accordingly paid vnto vs as our hire at the day of iudgement, for that is merces and merite whereby the Scripture ſo often calleth it. It is the gayle,the marke,the price,the hire,of al ſtriuing, running, labouring, due both by promis and by couenant and right dette. See a notable place in S. Auguſtine in Pſal.83 in fine: and 100 in initio,& ho.14.c.2.li.50. hom: S.Cyprian alſo,and namely the later end of his booke de opere & eleemoſyna: and thou ſhalt eaſily conuince the contrarie falſhod,which doth not ſo much derogate from mans workes, as from Gods grace which is the cauſe and ground of al

In Pſ.100. worthines in mans merites. S. Auguſtines wordes be theſe, Marke that he to whom our Lord gaue grace,hath our Lord alſo his detter.He found him a giuer,in the time of mercies he hath him his detter in the time of iudgement.See the place and the reſt here quoted,where he examineth and explicateth the matter at large.

It is not of vs, but of Gods grace,that workes be meritorious.

To ſuch good workes heauen is due: to ſay the contrary, is to derogate from Gods grace.

Fulke 4. This place proueth not that any workes done after the firſt iuſtification, are meritorious. For this crowne of iuſtice is giuen to the iuſtice of faith,freely giuen by the grace of God. For whereto ſhould that iuſtification ſerue,if the reward of iuſtice were not due vnto it? Therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, whom God hath iuſtified,he hath alſo glorified. Rom.8,30. And he rendreth heauen as a iuſt Iudge,not to the merite or worthines of our workes,but to the merite and worthines of Chriſt,and as due to vs by his promiſe freely made in Chriſt. The crowne therefore is only of mercie and of fauour in reſpect of vs, but of iuſtice in reſpect of Chriſt, who hath purchaſed it for vs,by his merites and worthines.Therefore ſayth S. Auguſtine,he crowneth his giftes,not our merites,when he crowneth vs. In Pſal. 101. and euen in the place quoted by you, he addeth immediatly. *And how ſhould this be a crowne of iuſtice,if grace had not gone before,which iuſtifieth the vngodly man.*You ſee it is a crowne of iuſtice,in reſpect of our free iuſtification by grace. Neither doth the Scripture any where aſcribe merite to our workes,or worthines of heauen to workes proceeding of grace, but faith: We are ſaued by grace, and not of workes,Epheſ.2. which ſaying could not be true, if we were ſaued by both, or by workes comming of grace. Wherefore,if you had any text of Scripture to proue the merite of Chriſtian mens workes, you would not flie to an inſinuation.Heb.6.where in deede the Apoſtle doth inſinuate no ſuch matter: but aſſureth the Hebrues, that God wil be iuſt of his promiſe,and not forget to reward their labour and dueriful ſeruice, yet this reward is of mercie, not of the merite of the worke. The parable of the men ſent into the Vineyard,is mightie for grace,againſt merites. For although God enter into couenant and promiſe of a reward, or a wages, yet he ſheweth in the ende,that this wages is of his mercie, and not of the merite or worthines of the worke or labour. For if it were of the merite of the worke and labour, then by iuſtice,they that wrought but one houre, ſhould not haue as much as they that wrought all day,or if one houres labour deſerued one penye,12 houres labour deſerued 12 pence.Therefore the reward is only of Gods mercie, in reſpect of vs,not of the merite of our workes.I confeſſe it is due by promiſe and couenant,and ſo a right a debt. But the couenant and promiſe is eſtabliſhed altogether in mercie and grace towards vs,through Ieſus Chriſt, in whom is all our merite and worthines,not in our ſelues,or our owne workes, though done by his grace. The Phariſee that truſted in him ſelfe,that he was iuſt by workes proceeding of Gods grace,and therefore gaue God thankes for all his vertues, went home without iuſtification Luc.18.9.11. Neither ſaith S.Auguſtine any thing againſt this, or if he ſpake againſt Chriſt,he were not to be heard. He often vſeth the name of merites for good workes, but he doth alwaies deny the worthines of the worke,to attaine to the reward, aſcribing all to the grace and mercie of God. Concerning the place that you cite,out of his expoſition of the Pſ.100,he telleth you plainly, how God commeth to be a debter. *Donando delicta fecit ſe coronæ debitorem. By forgiuing ſinnes,he hath made him ſelfe a debter of the crowne.*Therefore he is not a debter to the merite of our workes, but to the meane of his mercie Ieſus Chriſt, whereby our ſinnes are pardoned: to whoſe iuſtice,the crowne of iuſtice is due.*In Pſal.*83 he ſayth: The Lord hath made him ſelfe a debter,not by receiuing any thing, but by promiſing. It is not ſayd to him, pay that thou haſt receiued, but pay that thou haſt promiſed. Againe,*He that hath giuen the death of his ſonne to a ſinner, what doth he keepe to him that is ſaued by the death of his ſonne? Be out of feare. Hold him as a debter, becauſe thou haſt beleeued in him,as a promiſer.*You ſee therefore,that the debt groweth not of the worthines or merite of our workes, but by the promiſe of God,in the worthines and merite of Chriſtes death.*Hom.*14.c. 50. he ſayth by an Apoſtrophe to S. Paule, When God crowneth thy merites or good workes, he crowneth nothing but his owne giftes. So he ſayth in the perſon of Paule: I obtained mercie,debts were not payed vnto me, for if debts ſhould be payed, puniſhment ſhould be payed. Here againe you ſee,nothing is giuen as due to the merite of our workes,but of the mercie of God, which hath promiſed reward,& giueth all power to worke.Cyprian in the booke named, exhorteth earneſtly to the workes of almes and pietie,aſſuring men of the reward, that God hath promiſed to our merite, (for ſo he calleth good workes:) as before the Pelagian hereſie, the Fathers vſed that word more freely,but this queſtion,whether the reward be due to our workes of the merite or worthines of them, he teacheth not. *But ad Quirinum cap.*4 he ſaith,We are to glorie of nothing,ſeeing nothing is our owne. And againe: That faith only profiteth, and that we may be able to ſo much as we beleeue. And De doctrina martyrio. He truſteth not in God, that doth not repoſe the confidence of all his ſelfe in him alone. By which ſaying it followeth, that we are not to truſt in the merite of good workes, but in the mercie of God through Ieſus Chriſt,which is our righteouſnes.

Reward.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO TITVS.

Rhem. THAT Titus was a Gentil, and not a Iew, and that he was in S. Paules traine, at the leaſt the 14 yere after his converſion, if not before, we vnderſtand by the Epiſtle to the Galatians c. 2. And that he continued with him to the very end, appeareth in the ſecond to Timothee c. 4. Where he maketh mention that he ſens him from Rome into Dalmatia, when himſelf was ſhortly after to be put to death.

And therefore although S. Luke neuer name him in the Actes, as neither himſelf, yet no doubt he comprehendeth him commonly, when he ſpeaketh thus in the firſt perſon plural: Forthwith we ſought to goe into Macedonia. Act. 16. For S. Paul alſo ſens him to Corinth, betwene the writing of his 1 and 2 to the Corinthians (which time concurreth with Act. 19) by occaſion whereof he maketh much and honorable mention of him in the ſaid ſecond Epiſtle c. 2. & c. 7. and againe * he ſens him with the ſame Epiſtle: both times about great matters: ſo that no doubt he was euen then alſo a Biſhop, and receiued accordingly of the Corinthians, with feare and tremb ling, 2. Cor. 7. v. 15. But the ſame is playner in this Epiſtle to him ſelf c. 1. v. 5 Where the Apoſtle ſayth, for this cauſe I left thee at Crete, &c. By which wordes it is manifeſt alſo, that this Epiſtle was not written during the ſtorie of the Actes (ſeing that no mention is there of S. Paules being in the Ile of Crete) but after his diuiſion at Rome out of his firſt trouble, and before his ſecond or laſt trouble there, as is euident by theſe wordes: When I ſhall ſend to thee Artemas or Tychicus, make haſt to come to me to Nicopolis, for there I haue determined to winter. Tit. 3.

2. Corinth.

Therefore he inſtructeth him (and in him, al Biſhops) much like as he doth Timothee, what qualities he muſt require in them that he ſhal make Preeſts and Biſhops, in what ſort to preach, and to teach al ſortes of men, to commend good workes vnto them: finally, himſelf to be their example in al goodnes.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem.1. 15. Cleane to the.) He ſpeaketh not of the Churches abſtaining from meates ſometimes, which is not for any vncleanes in the creatures, but for chaſtening their bodies: but he meaneth the Ieuiſh ſuperſtition, who now being Chriſtians, would not ceaſe to put difference of cleane and vncleane according to their old law. See S. Auguſtine Cont. Fauſt. li 31. c. 4.

Fulke 1. The Popiſh Churches forbidding of meates is Antichriſtian, and the doctrine of Deuils, not a voluntarie abſteining for chaſtiſement of the body, among whom all kind of meates and drinkes are permitted that prouoke luſt moſt of all, only fleſh excepted. Therefore they make the creatures of God by their prohibition, vncleane, not in reſpect of their creation, but in reſpect of their Antichriſtian prohibition. As the Ieuiſh abſtinence was not for any vncleannes in the creatures by Gods creation, but only by the prohibition of the lawe. Therefore, as the Apoſtle meaneth the Ieuiſh ſuperſtition, who ceaſed not to put difference of cleane and vncleane, according to their old lawe, ſo alſo he comprehendeth much more the Popiſh ſuperſtition, who boaſting that they are the Diſciples of Chriſt which hath made all things cleane to the cleane, yet ceaſe not to put difference of meates, cleane and vncleane, holy and vnholy, not according to Gods law, as the Ieues did, but according to the law of the Pope, which is Gods enemie. S. Auguſtine in the place quoted, hath neuer a word ſounding to the defence of the Popes prohibition of meates. See 1. Tim 4. ſect. 2. 5. &c. Forbidding of meates.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem.2. 5. Ordaine Prieſts) Though Prieſts or Biſhops may be nominated and elected by the Princes, people, or Patrons of places, according to the vſe of the time and diuerſitie of Countries and faſhions, yet they can not be ordered and conſecrated but by a Biſhop who was him ſelf rightly ordered or conſecrated before, as this Titus was by S. Paul. And here it ſeemeth that he did not onely conſecrate them whom the people had elected before, but him ſelf alſo made choiſe of the perſons, no mention being here made of any other election popular. Which though it were long vſed in the Primitiue Church, yet for diuers cauſes and ſpecially for continual tumultes, partialities, and diſorders which S. Auguſtine much complaineth of in his time, was iuſtly taken away, and other better meanes of their deſignement appointed. See Conc. Laodic. cap. 12. 13. S. Auguſt. de adult. coniug. li. 2. c. 20. Ep. 110. and Poſſid. in vita Aug. c. 8. Prieſts muſt be conſecrated by Biſhops only. The popular election of the Clergie taken away.

And that the ordering of Prieſts or impoſition of handes to that purpoſe, belongeth onely to Biſhops, and to no inferior Prieſt or other perſon, it is plaine by the Apoſtolike practiſe ſet downe in the Scriptures, namely in the Acts, and in the Epiſtles to Timothee and Titus. And S. Hierom, who ſeemeth ſometimes to ſay that in the Primitiue Church there was no great difference betwixt a Biſhop and Prieſt, yet he euer except eth giuing holy Orders, which preeminence he attributeth to Biſhops only. cp. 85. as he doth alſo confirming the Baptized by giuing them the holy Ghoſt through impoſition of hand & holy Chriſme. Dial. cont. Lucifer. c. 4. Note alſo that Arius was of old condemned of hereſie, for holding that there was no difference betwixt a Prieſt and a Biſhop. Epiph. hær. 75. Auguſt. hær. 53. Note laſtly the fraudulent tranſlation of the Heretikes at Trent, turning for Prieſts (which here is euident to be a calling of Order and office) Elders, ſaying, That they ordaine Elders, which in our vulgar tonge ſignifieth the age, and not the Office properly: and al this for The preeminence of a Biſhop aboue a Prieſt. for hatred of Prieſts.

Fulke 2. Meere popular elections were neuer allowable in the Church of God, and therfore forbidden by the Councell of Laodicea. Yet long after that Councell, the people had their elections, moderated by the wiſedome and grauitie of the Clergie, among whom, for order and ſeemely gouernment, there was alwaies one principall, to whom by long vſe of the Church, the name of Biſhop or Superintendent, hath been applied, which roome Titus exerciſed in Creta, Timothy in Epheſus, and others in other places. Therefore although in the Scripture, a Biſhop and an Elder is of one order and auctoritie in preaching the worde, and adminiſtration of the Sacraments, (as Hierome doth often confeſſe) yet in gouernment, by ancient vſe of ſpeach, he is only called a Biſhop, which is in the Scripture called ἡγούμενος, προϊστάμενος or ἐπίσκοπος, Rom. 12, 8. 1. Tim 5. 17. Heb. 13. 17. that is, cheefe in gouernment, to whom the ordination or conſecration by impoſition of handes, was alwaies principally committed. Not that impoſition of hands belongeth only to him, for the reſt of the Elders that were preſent at ordination, did lay on their hands, or els the Biſhop did lay on his hands in the name of the reſt. Which moſt ancient forme of gouernmẽt, when Aërius would take away, it was noted among his other errors. Where you ſay, S. Hierome doth attribute to the Biſhop only, confirming the baptiſed by giuing them the holy Ghoſt, through impoſition of hands, and holy Chryſme. S. Hieroms words are theſe: I do not deny that this is the cuſtome of the Churches, that to them which are baptiſed farre of in litle cities by the Prieſts and Deacons, the Biſhop goeth abroad to lay on his hand at the inuocation of the holy Ghoſt. Here you ſee there is neither giuing of the holy Ghoſt, nor holy Chryſme, therefore no Popiſh confirmation. And further he ſheweth, that this was a cuſtome, and not a matter of neceſſitie. But if you aske (layth he) why he that is baptiſed in the Church, doth not receiue the holy Ghoſt, but by the hands of the Biſhop, whom we affirme to be giuen in true Baptiſme: learne, that this obſeruation proceeded of that auctoritie, becauſe after the aſcenſion of our Lord, the holy Ghoſt deſcended vpon the Apoſtles. And we find that the ſame hath been done in many places, rather for the honour of Prieſthood, then for the neceſſitie of a law. Or els, if only at the praier of a Biſhop, the holy Ghoſt deſcendeth, they are to be lamented, which in litle townes and villages, or places farre of, are baptiſed by Prieſts and Deacon, and die before they be viſited of the Biſhop. You ſee therefore, that the ceremonie of confirmation of the baptized by impoſition of handes with calling vpon the holy Ghoſt, (though laudable) yet is it not neceſſary to ſaluation, and therefore no Sacrament, as it is holden of you.

Our tranſlation is according to the truth of the word, which we tranſlate. And as the word (Elders) in our tongue ſignifieth age, and not office properly, ſo doth the Greeke word ſignifie age, and not office properly. Yet it is eaſie to gather by the circumſtance of the text, that here it ſignifieth an office, which hath his name of of age, becauſe the Elder ſort, for wiſedom, grauitie, and experience, are moſt meete to gouerne. And that although yong men be called to that office, yet in knowledge, grauitie, gouernment of affections, they muſt be ancient. Your owne vulgar Latine doth tranſlate the worde when it ſignifieth office, ſometime Seniores, ſometime Maiores natu, Act. 15. Cap. 16. Cap. 20. which can ſignifie nothing els but Elders, Seniors, or as you had rather call them by a French Engliſh terme, Ancients.

Calling.

Rhem. 3. 6. Of one wife.) To that which is ſaid vpon the like worde 1. Tim. 3: adde this teſtimonie of S. Epiphanius li. 3. to. 2. cont. hæreſes in fine. Holy Prieſthod, ſaith he, for the moſt part procedeth of Virgins: and if not of virgins, yet of them that liue a ſole or ſingle life: but and if the ſingle and ſole perſons ſuffice not to the Miniſterie, of ſuch as conteine from their wiues, or after once marying remaine widowes. For, him that hath been maried twiſe, it is not lawful to take to Prieſthod &c. If you liſt to ſee the cauſes why bigamie is forbidden them that are to be Prieſts, and continencie required of the Clergie, ſee the ſame author li. 2. to. 1. hæreſ. 59. *S. Bigami excluded from holy Orders and the cauſes thereof.

And if the ſtudious reader ſeruſe el antiquitie, he ſhal finde al notable Biſhops and Prieſts of Gods Church to haue been ſingle, or continent from their wiues, if any were maried before they came to the Clergie. So was S. Paul, and exhorteth al men to the like 1. Cor. 7. 7. So were al the Apoſtles after they folowed Chriſt, as S. Hierom witneſſeth, affirming that our Lord loued Iohn ſpecially for his virginitie. Apol. ad Pammach. c. 8. & li. 1. cont. Iouin. c. 14. S. Ignatius ep. 6. ad Philadelph. ſaith of the ſaid Iohn, and of Timothee, Titus, Euodius, Clemens, that they liued and died in chaſtitie, reckning vp of the old Teſtament diuers notable perſonages that did the ſame, as Elias, Ieſus Nane (otherwiſe called Ioſue) Melchiſedec, Eliſeus, Hieremie, Iohn Baptiſt. No man is ignorant that al the notable fathers of the Greeke and Latin Church liued chaſt: Athanaſius, Baſil, Nazianzene, Chryſoſtom, Cyprian, Hilarie (who entered into holy Orders after his wiues death) Ambroſe, Hierom, Auguſtine, Leo, Gregorie the great. Certaine other notable fathers had once wiues, but no holy men euer vſed them, much leſſe maried, after they were in holy Orders. A marueilous thing, that ſo many hereto before ſhould haue the gift of chaſtitie then, and now ſo few, if the Proteſtants ſay true, that ſkerſe one among them in our age of al their ſectes, euen of their principal Superintendents, hath had it.

The notable men of both Teſtaments, that liued conenently from wiues.

Only the Proteſtants complaine that they haue not the gift of chaſtitie.

Fulke 3. The teſtimonie of a man cannot controll the auctoritie of the holy Ghoſt: & yet the ſame man confeſſeth, that in ſome places in his time, the Miniſters of the Church were maried, & did beget children, and that it was neceſſary for the multitude that were required to the miniſterie, when other were not found, to take ſuch. Hær. 59. Before Montanus & other Heretikes came with his hypocriticall faſting, & condemning of ſecond mariages, there was no queſtion, but he that had been twiſe maried, might be a Biſhop, as they were in Tertullians time, who obiecteth it to the Catholikes as a crime, that Digami, twiſe maried men, were Biſhops and Prieſts among them. De Monogam But after that time, the myſterie of iniquitie wrought ſo much, euen in godly Fathers, that though they doe not ſimply deny ſecond mariages, yet by denying the bleſſing vnto them, by calling them honeſt fornication, & comely adulterie, & otherwiſe derogating from the holines of them, they brought them in diſcredit, that it was thought firſt vnmeete, & then vnlawful for one that had been twiſe maried, to be receiued into the miniſterie. See Athenagoras Apol. Origen in Luc. hom. 19. Greg. Naz. Or. 32. Hierem. ad Gerontiam, &c. And thus came ſecond mariages to be condemned in the miniſterie. And whatſoeuer is alledged by Epiphanius, Ambroſe, Hierom, or any other, for the continencie of the Clergie, can argue no neceſſitie thereof, ſeeing the holy Ghoſt ſo expreſly alloweth the husband of one wife, to be a Biſhop, Prieſt, or Deacon.

Marriage of Miniſters.

Heretical faſting.

Second mariages.

Where

Where you ſay, that all notable Biſhops were either ſingle, or conteined from their wiues, it is falſe. For Ambroſe teſtifieth, that all the Apoſtles, except Iohn and Paul had wiues. Com. in 2. Cor. 11. Clemens Alexandrinus affirmeth, that Peter and Philip begate children. Strom. 3. Chæremon Biſhop of Nilus fled with his wife in perſecution. Euſeb. lib. 6. cap. 42. Demetrianus a notable Biſhop of Antiochia, had a ſonne called Domnus, that was made Biſhop in ſteade of Paulus Samoſatenus the Heretike. Euſeb. Lib. 7. cap. 30. Spiridion was a famous Biſhop in the Councel of Nice that was maried, and had a daughter called Irene. Ruffi. Lib. 1. cap. 5. Gregorie Biſhop of Nazianzen, was a notable Biſhop, and father of the other Gregorie that ſucceeded him, as appeareth by the oration that he made in prayſe of his father. Gregorie Biſhop of Nyſſa, was a notable Biſhop, maried Niceph. Lib. 11. cap. 19. Syneſius a moſt excellent learned Biſhop of Ptolemais was maried, and begate children while he was Biſhop, as appeareth in diuers of his epiſtles. Epi. 70. & epi. 126. S. Hilarie that notable Biſhop of Poyctiers was maried, and had a yong daughter, as appeareth by his Epiſtle to her (if it be not counterfect) and by other recordes. Fabianus and Hormilda Biſhops of Rome, were maried, and many other Biſhops of Rome were prieſts ſonnes, as Pope Damaſus in his pontificall doeth teſtifie. And although many holy men were vnmaryed, yet it is falſe that you ſay, no holy men euer vſed their wiues after they were in holy orders. For Socrates teſtifieth of many godly Biſhops of the Eaſt Church in his time, that begate children of their lawfull wiues, ſince they were Biſhops. Lib. 5 cap. 22. That many alſo were maried after they were in holy orders, I haue proued before vpon 1. Tim. 3. Sect. 3. 4. 5. &c. That ſcarce one amongſt vs hath ỹ gift of continencie, it is a lewd leiander: for beſide a great number of inferiour miniſters, both liuing & departed this life in England, diuers godly Biſhops haue liued vnmaried, without any note of incõtinencie. To omit them that yet liue, theſe may ſerue for example that are departed, Latimer, Ridley, Iewel, Grindal, to conuince your impudencie.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem.1. 5. By the lauer of regeneration.) As before in the Sacrament of holy Orders (1.Tim.4. & 2.Tim.1.) ſo here it is plaine that Baptiſme giueth grace, and that by it as by an inſtrument all cauſe we be ſaued.

Fulke.1. Here is no word to proue, that Baptiſme giueth grace of the worke wrought: but the Apoſtle ſaith, that God hath ſaued vs by the renuing of the holy Ghoſt, which is teſtified by the ſacrament of Baptiſme, which is ſacramentally the lauer of regeneration, not by the worke wrought, but by the grace of Gods Spirit, by which we are inſtructed. So ſpeaketh S. Peter, and explicateth himſelfe 1.Pet.3.21. Baptiſme ſaueth vs, not the waſhing of the filth of the body, but the interrogation of a good conſcience &c. The worke wrought.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 2. 10. A man that is an Heretike.) Not euery one that erreth in religion, is an Heretike, but he onely that after the Churches determination, wilfully and ſtubburnely ſtandeth in his falſe opinion, not yeelding to doome of Councel, or the chiefe Paſtors of the Church therein. They (ſayth S. Auguſtine ep.162.) that defend their ſentence (though falſe and peruerſe) with no ſtubburne ſtomake or obſtinate hart, ſpecially if it be ſuch as themſelues by bolde preſumption broched not, but receiued it of their deceiued parents, and doe ſeeke the truth warily and carefully, being ready to be reformed if they finde it, ſuch are not to be reputed among Heretikes. And againe li.18.de Ciuit.c.51. They that in the Church of Chriſt haue any craſed or peruerſe opinion, if being admoniſhed to be of a ſound and right opinion, they reſiſt obſtinately, and will not amend their peſtiferous opinions, but perſiſt in defenſe of them, are thereby become Heretikes, and going forth out of the Church, are counted for enemies that exerciſe vs. Againe li.4.de Bapt.cont.Donat.c.16. He is an Heretike that, when the doctrine of the Catholike faith is made plaine and manifeſt vnto him, had rather reſiſt it, and chooſe that which himſelfe held &c. And in diuers places he declareth that S. Cyprian, though he held an errour, yet was no Heretike, becauſe he would not haue defended it after a generall Councell had declared it to be an error lib.2.de bapt.c.4. So Poſſidonius in the life of S. Auguſtine reporteth, howe, after the determination of the See Apoſtolike that Pelagius opinion was hereticall, all men eſteemed Pelagius an Heretike, and the Emperour made lawes againſt him as againſt an Heretike. S. Auguſtine ſaith, He is an Heretike in my opinion, that for ſome temporall commoditie, and ſpecially for his glorie and principalitie coineth or els followeth falſe or newe opinions. de vtilit.credendi cap.1.

Deſcriptions or markes how to know an Heretike.

Vin. Aug.c.18.

Let our Proteſtants behold themſelues in this glaſſe, and withall let them marke all other properties that old Heretikes euer had, and they ſhall finde all deſinitions and markes of an Heretike to fall vpon themſelues. And therefore they muſt not maruell if wee warne all Catholike men by the wordes of the Apoſtle in this place, to take heede of them, and to ſhunne their preachings, bookes, conuenticles and companies. Neither needs the people be curious to knowe what they ſay, much leſſe to confute them: but they muſt truſt Gods Church, which doth refute and condemne them. And it is ynough for them to know that they be condemned, as S. Auguſtine writeth in the later end of his booke de hereſibus. And S. Cyprian ſaith notably to Antonianus demanding curiouſly what hereſies Nouatianus did teache: No matter, quod he, what hereſies he hath or teacheth, when he teacheth without, that is to ſay, out of the Church.

The former markes agree to the Proteſtants.

Their bookes, ſeruice, and preaching muſt be auoided. Ep.52.nu.7.

Fulke. 2. A man may be conuicted to be an Heretike, without a generall Councell, if he doe obſtinately defend any grieuous errour, againſt the manifeſt auctoritie of the holy Scriptures. So were many Heretikes and hereſies condemned, againſt which there was no Councels gathered. Againe, many godly men and the trueth it ſelfe by Councels, haue been condemned for Heretikes and hereſies: as Athanaſius was condemned in the Councels of Tyre and Antioche. Iohn Chryſoſtome in a Councell holden at Chalcedon. The Councels of Ariminum and Nicomedia, decreed againſt the diuinitie of Chriſt for the Arrians. The Councell of Epheſius the ſecond for Eutyches and Dioſcorus againſt the trueth of Chriſtes humanitie. Therefore your deſcriptions and markes to knowe Heretikes, are not ſufficient: for no opinion is to be taken for hereſie, which is agreeable to the holy ſcriptures, though it be condemned by all men in the world. S. Cyprian alſo had his errour confirmed by a Councell of Carthage, and did defend it againſt the Biſhop of Romes ſentence: Yet was he no Heretike, but his opinion was erroneous, becauſe it was contrary to the trueth of the ſcripture. Neither was it the onely See Apoſtolike, that condemned Pelagius for an Heretike, but the Councels of Africa. And if the See Apoſtolike had not condemned him, yet had he beene an Heretike, and his opinion hereſie: becauſe it was contrary to the doctrine of the holy ſcriptures. Sergius the Biſhop of Conſtantinople was an Heretike, and his opinion (that there was but one will in Chriſt) was hereſie, although the See Apoſtolike of Rome, did not onely not condemne him, but alſo by Honorius the Biſhop thereof confirmed his hereſie, as is teſtified Conc.Conſt. 6.Act.13. in theſe wordes: Beſide theſe alſo we haue foreſeene, that Honorius ſometime Biſhop of olde Rome, is caſt out of the holy Catholike Church of God and accurſed: becauſe we haue found by certaine writings of his made vnto Sergius, that in all things he followed his mind, and confirmed his vngodly opinions. Neither was Arrianiſme made Catholike religion, when Pope Liberius confirmed it by his ſubſcription, and condemned the Catholikes by a Councel holden at Rome, as Pope Damaſus teſtifieth in Lib. Hieron. in Catalog. Athanaſius ad ſolit. Therefore in the deſcription of an Heretike giuen by S. Auguſtine, thoſe are meant to be falſe and newe opinions, which are contrarie to the true and auncient doctrine, conteyned in the holy ſcriptures. Seeing therefore we hold no new or falſe opinion, contrary to the word of God, the markes of Heretikes and hereſies, ſhall neuer be found in vs. We are not condemned of the Church of Chriſt, nor by any generall Councell: for the Romiſh Church is the Church of Antichriſt, and the Chapter of Trent, conſiſting of fourtie popiſh Biſhops, is vnworthy the name of a Councell, much leſſe of a generall Councell, which is not receiued of the papiſtes themſelues. For the papiſtes of France proteſted againſt it, as no lawfull Councell in the time of Franciſce the firſt. Therfore ſo long as you haue nothing but this moſt impudent petition of principle: that you are the Church, which hath condemned the Proteſtants for Heretikes, no reaſonable man will thinke vs ſufficiently confuted or condemned. Specially ſeeing the queſtion is, whether you or we are the Church, as it was betweene the Donatiſtes and Catholikes, in S. Auguſtines time: and to be determined onely by the ſcriptures, as he ſayth: Betweene vs and the Donatiſts the queſtion is, where the Church is. Therefore what ſhall we doe? ſhall we ſeeke her in our owne wordes, or in the wordes of her head our Lord Ieſus Chriſt? I ſuppoſe that we ought rather to ſeeke her in his wordes, which is the trueth, and beſt knoweth his owne body? De vnitat. Eccleſ. cap. 2. Againe: I will not haue the holy Church to be deſcribed by humane documents, but by the diuine oracles. Therefore let vs ſeeke her in the holy Canonicall ſcriptures, Cap. 3. Againe cap. 16. Whether they hold the Church, let them ſhew none otherwiſe, but by the Canonicall bookes of the holy Scriptures. For we doe not ſay, that therefore men muſt beleeue vs, becauſe we are in the Church, and becauſe Optatus Biſhop of Milenet, or Ambroſe Biſhop of Mediolane, or innumerable other Biſhops of our communion, haue commended that Church which we hold, or becauſe it hath been ſet forth by the Councels of our fellow Biſhops &c. Therefore let the papiſts by the ſcriptures only proue, that they are that Church, & that all their doctrine is true, or els they haue no auctoritie to condemne other men of hereſie, being the greateſt heretikes themſelues.

Rhem. 11. Subuerted.) Heretikes be often incorrigible, yet the Church of God ceaſeth not by all meanes poſſible to reuoke them. therefore S. Auguſtine ſaith ep. 162. The Heretike him ſelfe though ſwelling with odious & deteſtable pride, and mad with the frowardneſſe of wicked contention, as we admoniſh that he be auoided, leſt he deceiue the weakelings and litle ones, ſo we refuſe not by all meanes poſſible to ſeeke his amendment and reformation. The Church ſeeketh the amendement of the moſt obſtinate Heretikes.

11. By his owne iudgement.) Other grieuous offenders be ſeparated by excommunication from the communion of Sainctes and the fellowſhip of Gods Church, by the ſentence of their Superiors in the ſame Church: but Heretikes more miſerable and infortunate then they, runne out of the Church of their owne accorde, and ſo giue ſentence againſt their owne ſoules to damnation. Heretikes cut themſelues from the Church.

Hearing of Philémons vertue, who was a Coloſſian, he writeth a familiar letter from Rome, (being priſoner there) about his fugitiue ſeruant Oneſimus: not doubting but that he might commaund him, yet rather requeſting that he will forgiue him, yea and receiue him as he would Paul himſelfe, who alſo hopeth to come vnto him.

12 Whom I haue ſent backe to thee. And ‡doe thou receiue him as mine own bowels.

‡ All Spirituall men ought to be exceeding propenſe and ready to procure mens pardon, & reconciliation to all penitents.

13 Whom I woulde haue reteined with me, that for thee he might miniſter to me in the bandes of the Goſpel:

14 But

PAVL a priſoner of Ieſus Chriſt, and brother Timotheus, vnto Philemon my dearely beloued, and our fellow labourer,

2 And to our dearely beloued Apphia, and to Archippus our fellowe ſouldier, and to the Church in thy houſe:

3 Grace to you, and peace from God our father, and the Lord Ieſus Chriſt. 1. Cor. 1. 2. 3. Cor. 1. 2. Galat. 1. 3.

4 I thanke my God, making mention alwaies of thee in my prayers,

5 Hearing of thy loue and faith which thou haſt toward the Lord Ieſus, & toward all ſainctes:

6 That the fellowſhip of thy faith may be effectuall in the knowledge of euery good worke which is in you toward Chriſt Ieſus.

7 For we haue great ioy and conſolation in thy loue, becauſe the bowels of the ſainctes are refreſhed by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore, though I might be much bolde in Chriſt, to enioyne thee that which is conuenient,

9 Yet for loues ſake, I rather beſeech thee, being ſuch a one as Paul the aged, and nowe alſo a priſoner of Ieſus Chriſt,

10 I beſeeche thee for my ſonne Oneſimus, Coloſ. 4. 9. whom I haue begotten in my bonds:

11 Which in time paſſed was to thee vnprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me,

12 Whom I haue ſent againe: thou therefore receiue him, that is, mine owne bowels.

13 Whom I woulde haue reteined with me, that in thy ſtead he might haue miniſtred vnto me in the bondes of the Goſpel:

14 But

14 But without thy counſel I would doe nothing: that thy good might be not as it were of neceſsitie, but voluntarie.

15 For perhaps therfore he departed for a ſeaſon from thee, that thou mighteſt take him againe for euer.

16 Now not as a ſeruant, but for a ſeruant, a moſt deere brother, eſpecially to me, but how much more to thee both in the fleſh and in our Lord?

17 If therfore thou take me for thy fellow: receiue him as my ſelf.

18 And if he hath hurt thee any thing or is in thy dette, that impute to me.

19 I Paul haue written with mine owne hand: I wil repay it: not to ſay to thee, † that thou oweſt me thine owne ſelf alſo.

† The great debt and duetie that we owe to ſuch as be our ſpiritual parents in Chriſt.

20 Yea brother. ᶜ God graunt I may enioy thee in our Lord. Refreſh my bowels in our Lord.

ᶜ Vtinam.

21 Truſting in thy obedience I haue written to thee, knowing that thou wilt doe aboue that alſo which I do ſay.

22 And withal prouide me alſo a lodging. for I hope by your praiers that I ſhal be giuen to you.

23 There ſalute thee Epaphras my fellow-priſoner in Chriſt IESVS, 24 Marke, Ariſtarchus, Demas and Luke my coadiutors.

25 The grace of our Lord IESVS Chriſt be with your ſpirit, Amen.

14 But without thy minde would I doe nothing, that thy benefite ſhould not be as it were of neceſſitie, but willingly.

15 For haply he therefore departed for a ſeaſon, that thou ſhouldeſt receiue him for euer:

16 Not now as a ſeruant, but aboue a ſeruant, a brother beloued, ſpecially to me: but how much more vnto thee, both in the fleſh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therfore a fellow, receiue him as my ſelfe.

18 If hee haue iniured thee, or oweth thee ought, that lay to my charge.

19 I Paul haue written it with mine owne hand, I will recompence it: albeit, I doe not ſay to thee how thou oweſt vnto me euen thine owne ſelfe beſides.

20 Yea, brother, let me enioy this † pleaſure of thee in the Lord: comfort my bowels in the Lord. † Or, fruite.

21 Truſting in thine obedience, I wrote vnto thee, knowing that thou wilt alſo doe more then I ſay.

22 Moreouer, prepare me alſo a lodging: for I truſt that through your prayers I ſhall be giuen vnto you.

23 There ſalute thee Epaphras my fellowe priſoner in Chriſt Ieſus, 24 Marcus, Ariſtarchus, Demas, Lucas, my felow labourers.

25 The grace of our Lorde Ieſus Chriſt be with your ſpirit, Amen.

MARGINAL NOTES.

Rhem. 1. 5. Charitie and faith) Faith and charitie commended alwaies together, both neceſſarie to make a complete Chriſtian man, and to iuſtification and ſaluation.

Fulke. 1. Charitie followeth faith by which we are iuſtified, but goeth not before nor concurreth with faith vnto iuſtification. Yet is charitie neceſſarie for a Chriſtian man that looketh to be ſaued. Iuſtification.

ANNOT.

Rhem. 2. 5. Toward al the ſainctes.) The Apoſtle ſticketh not to ſay, Charitie and faith in Chriſt and al his Saincts, which our captious Aduerſaries count in Catholike mens ſpeaches and writings, very abſurd, ſeining that in al ſuch we make no difference betwixt the loue we beare to Chriſt, & the loue we owe to our neighbours: betwixt the truſt or beleefe we haue in God, and that which we haue in his holy Saincts. Malice and contention doth ſo blinde al Heretikes. Faith and beleefe in Saincts.

Fulke. 2. The Apoſtle naming charitie and faith together, doth aſſigne to either of them their proper ſubiect, namely faith in our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, and charitie toward all the Saincts. For he commendeth no faith or truſt in men, but in God onely, and charitie towarde all holy men. So doeth Theodoret expound the wordes: I knowe (ſaith he) how great faith thou haſt repoſed in our Lord which hath ſaued vs, and howe great charitie thou haſt, and howe much thou haſt helped them that eſteeme godlineſſe. S. Ambroſe writeth: Hee ſaith he reioyceth and giueth thankes in his prayers, becauſe he was ſtedfaſt in faith, and continued in good workes: for he that loueth Chriſt, ought to proue it in his ſeruants, &c. Againe, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of the Saincts liuing, and not departed: therefore this place cannot ſerue to colour your Popiſh faith and beliefe in Saincts that are departed out of this life. No faith in Saincts.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. PAVL TO THE HEBREWES.

Rhem. THAT the Hebrewes were not all the Iewes, but only a part of them, it is manifeſt Act. 6: where the primitiue Church of Hieruſalem, although it conſiſted of Iewes only, as we reade Act. 2, yet is ſaid to conſiſt of two ſortes, Grecians and Hebrues. Which againe is manifeſt Phil. 3. where S. Paul comparing him ſelf with the Iudaical falſe Apoſtles, ſaith, that he alſo is, an Hebrue of Hebrues. Finally, they ſeeme to haue been thoſe Iewes which were borne in Iurie, which for the moſt part dwelled alſo there. Therefore to the Chriſtian Iewes in Hieruſalem and in the reſt of Iurie, S. Paul writeth this Epiſtle, out of Italie: ſaying thereupon, The brethren of Italie ſalute you.

you. Heb.13. By which wordes, and by theſe other in the ſame; Luc. Know ye our brother Timothee to be diminiſſed, with whom (if he come the ſooner) I wil ſee you, it is euident, that he wrote this, not only after he was brought priſoner to Rome, wherein S. Luke endeth the Actes of the Apoſtles: but alſo after he was ſet at liberte there againe.

Many cauſes are geuen of the Doctors, why writing to the Iewes, he doth not put his name in the beginning, Paul an Apoſtle &c. as he doth vſually in his Epiſtles to the Churches and Biſhops of the Gentils. The moſt likely cauſe is, for that he was the preacher and Apoſtle and Maiſter of the Gentils. And againe in an other place he ſaith, that himſelf was appointed the Apoſtle of the Gentils, as Peter of the Iewes. Gal.2. 2.Tim.1. 1.Tim.2. Only S. Peter therefore writing to the Iewes, doth vſe this ſtile: Peter an Apoſtle of IESVS Chriſt &c. becauſe he was more peculiarly their Apoſtle, as being the vicar of Chriſt, who was alſo himſelf [‡] more ſpecially the miniſter of the Circumciſion, that is (as himſelfe ſpeaketh) not ſent but to the ſheepe which were loſt of the houſe of Iſrael Mat.15. 1.Pet.1. Rom.5.

The Argument of the Epiſtle S. Paul himſelf doth tell vs in two wordes, calling it verbum ſolatij, the word of ſolace and comfort. Which alſo is plaine in the whole courſe of the Epiſtle, namely in the tenth chapter. v.32. &c. Where he exhorteth them to take great comfort and confidence in their manifold tribulations ſuſtained of their owne countrie men the Iewes, whereof the Apoſtle alſo maketh mention to the Theſſalonians. 1. Theſſ.2.v.14. Theſe perſecutions then of the obſtinate incredulous Iewes their countrie men, was one great tentation vnto them. An other tentation was, the perſuaſions that they brought them out of Scriptures, to cleaue vnto the Law, and not to beleeue in IESVS the dead man. Heb 13.

And whereas the Iewes did magnifie their Law, by the Prophetes, and by the Angels by whom it was giuen, and by Moyſes, and by their Land of promiſe, into which Ieſus brought them, and by their father Abraham, and by their Aaronicall or Leuiticall prieſthod and ſacrifices, by their Tabernacle, and by their Teſtament: he ſheweth, that our Lord IESVS, as being the naturall ſonne of God, paſſeth incomparably the Prophets, the Angels and Moyſes: that the Reſter promiſed, was not in their earthly land, but in heauen: that his figure Melchiſedech paſſed Abraham: and that his prieſthod, Sacrifice, Tabernacle, and teſtament, far paſſed theirs. In all which he ſheweth ſixe cauſes of theſe three markes to take away the ſcandal of Chriſtes death, by giuing them ſundrie good reaſons and conſiderations firſt to erect their mindes from viſible and earthly promiſes (to which only the Iewes were wholy bent) to inuiſible and the vnſeene: and to inſinuate that the Ceremonies ſhould now ceaſe, the time of their correction by Chriſt being now come.

The Epiſtle may be deuided into three parts: the firſt, Of Chriſtes excellencie aboue the Prophets, Angels, Moyſes, and Ieſus: c.1.2.3.4. The ſecond, of his prieſthod and excellencie thereof aboue the prieſthod of the old Teſtament: c.5. vnto the middeſt of the 10. The laſt part is of exhortation c.10.v.9. to the end of the Epiſtle.

MARGINALL NOTES.

Rhem.1. [‡] More ſpecially.) Yet was Chriſt head of the Gentils alſo. So likewiſe his vicar S. Peter, notwithſtanding his more peculiar Apoſtleſhip ouer the Iewes.

Fulke 1. Chriſt neuer made S. Peter his Vicar generall, nor his ſucceſſour in the headſhip, but holdeth it himſelfe, and executeth it by his holy Spirit. But Peters Apoſtleſhip principally ouer the Circumciſion, we finde in the Scripture, and Paules ouer the Gentiles, and the compoſition betweene Peter, Paul, and the reſt of the Apoſtles, touching that Primacie or chiefe Apoſtleſhip, Gal.2. But that Peter was neuertheleſſe head of the Gentiles, the holy Scripture neuer teacheth. Peters Primacie.

THE EPISTLE OF PAVL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWES.

Rhem.2. LEt the Chriſtian Reader note the corruption & impudent boldnes of our Aduerſaries, that vpon a falſe priuate perſuaſion of their owne, that S. Paul was not the author of this Epiſtle, * leaue out his name in the title of the ſame, contrarie to the authentical copies both Greeke and Latin. In old time there was ſome doubt who ſhould be the writer of it, but then, when it was no leſſe doubted whether it were Canonical Scripture or no. Afterward the whole Church (by which only we know the true Scriptures from other writings) held it and deliuered it, as now ſhe doth, to the faithful, for Canonical, and for S. Paules Epiſtle. Notwithſtanding the Aduerſaries would haue refuſed the Epiſtle, as well as they do the Author, but that they falſely imagine certaine places thereof to make againſt the Sacrifice of the Maſſe. Heretical corruption. * In the Engliſh Bible of the yere 1579. The Epiſtle to the Hebrues, is S. Paules.

Fulke. 2. Let the Chriſtian Reader note the malice of our aduerſaries, which charge vs with corruption of the Scripture, without any ground. Firſt, becauſe the titles and ſubſcripts of the Epiſtles, be no part of the Apoſtles writings, but added by ſuch as copied out the ſame. Therefore if we did leaue out the title of the Epiſtle of S. Paul to the Romanes, or the Corinthians, or any other (which it is moſt certaine were written by the Apoſtle Paul:) yet were it no corruption of the Scripture. But this title ſome of our tranſlations haue left out, becauſe it is not agreed among ancient writers, who was the writer of this Epiſtle: Paul, or Barnabas, or Luke, or Clemens. Secondly, becauſe diuers reaſons are brought by ſome, to proue ỹ it was not written by S. Paul. And becauſe ſome auncient Greeke copies haue not S. Paules name in the title, but onely: The Epiſtle to the Hebrewes. And ſo doeth Oecumenius intitle it, and Herteius a Papiſt tranſlate it. Where you ſay, it was no leſſe doubted, whether it were Canonical Scripture then who ſhould be the writer of it, it is falſe. For many were vncertaine of the writer, that doubted not of the auctoritie. For they that aſcribe it to Barnabas or Luke, the one an Apoſtle, the other an Euangeliſt, doe not doubt whether it be to be admitted for holy Scripture. There were in deede in the Latine Church, that doubted of it. Becauſe the Nouatians and Montaniſts, abuſed a place or two in it, as Tertullian doeth in his booke de pudicitia, yet nothing doubting, but that it was written by Barnabas, as the title then gaue it, and that it was of ſufficient auctoritie. Where you ſay, that by the Church onely, we knowe the true Scriptures from other writings, it is falſe. For by the Spirit of God, (which is the auctour of them,) we know them more certainely, then by the auctoritie of the Church. Slander. Cauillings. Auctoritie of the Church and Scripture.

Seeing

Seeing therefore the doctrine of this Epiſtle is conſonant to the doctrine of the other Canonical Scriptures, there ought to haue bene no doubt of it. Of like trueth it is that you ſay, we would haue refuſed it, aſwell as we doe the auctor. For none of vs doeth refuſe S. Paul, though ſome iudge that he was not writer of this Epiſtle. Neither are you able to bring any reaſon, why it is like we would refuſe the Epiſtle, which not onely maketh manifeſtly againſt the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, but alſo againſt many other points of your hereſie, and hath not ſo much as any ſhew againſt any thing that we teach.

ANNO-

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 3. The figure.) To be the figure of his ſubſtance, ſignifieth nothing els but that which S. Paul ſpeaketh in other words; to the Philippians c. 2. v. 6. that he is the forme and moſt expreſſe reſemblance of his fathers ſubſtance. So S. Ambroſe and others expound it, and the Greeke word Character is very ſignificant to that purpoſe. Note alſo by this place, that the Sonne, though he be a figure of his Fathers ſubſtance, is notwithſtanding of the ſame ſubſtance. So Chriſtes body in the Sacrament and his myſtical death and ſacrifice in the ſame: though called a figure, image, or repreſentation of Chriſtes viſible body and ſacrifice upon the Croſſe, yet may be: and is the ſelfe ſame in ſubſtance. χαρακτὴρ ὑποστάσεως. As that which runneth out of a broken veſſel, or that runneth by, is loſt. The B. Sacrament a figure, and yet the true body.

Fulke. 1. The Sacrament is not ſo the Character of Chriſtes ſubſtance, as Chriſt is of his fathers ſubſtance. Beſide this, the diſtinction of the perſons of the Father and the Sonne, is inuincibly proued by the oppoſition that is in theſe relatiues, the character and the ſubſtance of the Father. For this Argument followeth moſt certainly, the Sonne is the character of his Fathers ſubſtance, Ergo the Sonne is not the Father, though of the ſame ſubſtance, nor the Father is the Sonne: So muſt the oppoſition of neceſſitie holde. The Sacrament is the figure, ſigne, & repreſentation of the body of Chriſt, Ergo it is not the body of Chriſt, but ſacramentally, ſignificatiuely, or repreſentatiuely. Wherefore this is ſuch impudent ſophiſtrie to delude the ignorant, that euery yong ſophiſter in the Vniuerſities, which knoweth the oppoſition of Relatiues, is able to diſcouer it, as a very vaine and vnlearned ſhift, to make the ſigne and the thing ſignified, to be the ſame in the very reſpect & point, wherein they are oppoſite, which is impoſſible. The word (viſible) which you foyſt in, to make an apparance of oppoſition, wil not ſerue your turne. For the Sacrament is not a figure or ſigne of the viſiblenes of Chriſtes body, but of his very body in deede, which is alwayes of his owne nature viſible, though it be not alwayes ſeene. The real preſence.

Rhem. 2. 6. Let al the Angels adore.) The Heretikes maruel that we adore Chriſt in the B. Sacrament, when they might learne by this place, that whereſoeuer his perſon is, there it ought to be adored both of men and Angels. And where they ſay it was not made preſent in the Sacrament: nor inſtituted to be adored, we anſwer that no more was he incarnate purpoſely to be adored: but yet ſtraight vpon his deſcending from heauen, it was the duety both of Angels and al other creatures to adore him. The adoration of Chriſt in the B. Sacrament.

Fulke. 2. Firſt, we deny the body of Chriſt to be preſent in the Sacrament (as you affirme it) that is, really, corporally, ſubſtantially, &c. Secondly, if it were ſo preſent with the ſubſtance of the elements, or vnder the accidents of elements: yet, becauſe Chriſt is not ioyned either to the elements, or to the accidents of them in vnitie of perſon, ſo that the elements and Chriſt, or the accidents and Chriſt, doe not make one perſon, as the Godhead and manhod are one perſon, which is Chriſt: we ought not to adore Chriſt in any ſuch viſible forme. No more then we may adore God the Father, in the Sunne, the Moone, or any other creature, in which he is verily preſent, as he is preſent in all places. Or the holy Ghoſt in euery true Chriſtian in whom he is preſent, not onely by ſubſtance, as God is euery where, but alſo by ſpeciall grace. Becauſe God the father, and God the holy Ghoſt, is not vnited to any creature in vnitie of perſon, as God the Sonne is vnto the humanitie: and therefore is to be adored as God manifeſted in the fleſh. Where you ſay, Chriſt was not incarnate purpoſely to be adored, it is falſe, for he was incarnate to be ſeene and adored of the Angels, and of all the world in the fleſh. 1. Tim. 3. 16. Though not onely for that purpoſe. And if you make ſo litle accompt of this Argument, of the inſtitution or ende of the Sacrament, why doe you not adore likewiſe euery man that hath receiued it, for ſo long time as you determine that Chriſt is preſent within him? Or why doe you not fal downe before euery ſuch perſon, as you doe before the Pixe, when it is caried about with the Sacrament in it, for the ſame reaſon that you adore or fall downe before the Pixe: ſeeing in reſpect of Chriſtes preſence as you ſuppoſe it to be, there is as great duetie in the one, as in the other. Real preſence and adoration of the Sacrament.

CHAP. II.

He inferreth of the foreſaid, that it ſhal be incomparably more damnable for them to neglect the new Teſtament then the old, 3 conſidering the irrefragable authoritie of the Apoſtles alſo. 5 Then he proſecuteth the excellencie of Chriſt aboue the Angels, 9 who neuertheles, was made leſſer then Angels, to ſuffer and die for men, to deſtroy the dominion of the Diuel, 15 to deliuer men from feare of death, 17 and to be a iuſte Prieſt for men.

THerefore more aboundantly ought we to obſerue thoſe things which we haue heard: c leſt perhaps we runne out.

c As that which runneth out of a broken veſſel, or that runneth by, is loſt.

2 For if the word that was ſpoken by Angels, became ſure, and al preuarication and diſobedience hath receiued a iuſt retribution of reward:

3 How ſhal we eſcape if we neglect ſo great ſaluation? which when it was begonne to be declared by our Lord, of them that heard was confirmed on vs,

Mar. 16, 20. 4 * God withal teſtifying by ſignes, and wonders, and diuers miracles, and diſtributions of the holy Ghoſt according to his wil.

5 For not to Angels hath God made ſubiect the world to come, whereof we ſpeake.

6 But one hath teſtified in a certaine place,

WHerefore wee ought to giue the more earneſt heede to the thinges which wee haue heard: leſt at any time we ſhoulde let them ſlippe.

2 For if the word ſpoken by Angels, was ſtedfaſt, and euery tranſgreſſion and diſobedience receiued a iuſt recompence of reward:

3 Howe ſhall we eſcape if we neglect ſo great ſaluation? which at the firſt began to be preached of the Lord, and was confirmed vnto vs warde by them that heard it,

4 * God bearing witneſſe thereto both with ſignes and wonders alſo, and with diuers powers, and gifts of the holy Ghoſt, according to his owne will. Mar. 16. 20.

5 For vnto the Angels hath he not put in ſubiection the world to come, whereof we ſpeake.

9 But one in a certaine place witneſſed, ſaying, place, saying: What is man, that thou art mindful of him: or the sonne of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou didst minish him litle lesse then Angels: with glorie and honour thou hast crowned him, and constituted him ouer the workes of thy handes.

1.Cor.15. Eph.1. 8 All things hast thou made subiect vnder his feete. For in that he subiected al thinges to him, he left nothing not subiecte to him. But now we see not as yet al thinges subiected to him.

Philip.2,8. 9 But *him that was a litle lessened vnder the Angels, we see IESVS, ‡ because of the passion of death, crowned with glorie and honour: that through the grace of God he might tast death for al.

10 For it became him for whom al things and by whom al thinges, that had brought many children into glorie, to consummate the author of their saluation, by his passion.

11 For he that sanctifieth, and they that be sanctified: all of one. For the which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren.

Ps.21,23. 12 Saying, I wil declare thy name to my brethren: in the middes of the Church will I praise thee.

Ps.17,3. 13 And againe, I will haue affiance in him. And againe, Behold here am I and my children: whom God hath giuen me.

Es.8,18. 14 Therefore because the children haue communicated with flesh and bloud, him selfe also in like maner hath been partaker

Ose.13,14. of the same: that *by death he might destroy

1.Cor.15,54 him that had the empire of death, that is to say, the Deuil.

15 And might deliuer them that by the feare of death through al their life were subiect to seruitude.

* The dignitie of man, in that Christ tooke our nature vnto his person in Deitie, and not the nature of Angels.

16 For no where doth hee take Angels: but the seede of Abraham he taketh.

17 Whereupon he ought in al things to be like vnto his brethren, that he might become a merciful and faithful high Priest before God, that he might repropitiate the sinnes of the people.

18 For in that wherein him selfe suffered and was tempted: he is able to helpe them also that are tempted.

*ing, * What is Man, that thou art mindfull of him? or the sonne of man, that thou visitest him?* Ps.8.5.

*7 Thou madest him for a litle while lower then the angels, thou hast crowned him with glory and honour, and hast set him aboue the workes of thy hands.

8 Thou hast put all thinges in subiction vnder his feete. In that he put all thinges vnder him, he left nothing that is not put vnder him, But nowe we see not yet all thinges put vnder him. 1.Cor.15.17

*9 * But him that for a while was made lesse then the angels, † we see* that it was Iesus, who through the suffering of death, was crowned with glorie and honour, that he by the grace of God, should taste of death for all. Phi.1.8. Fulke. † The greeke is word for word We see Iesus by the suffering of death, crowned &c.

10 For it beecame him, for whom are al things, and by whom are all things, after he had brought many sonnes vnto glorie, that he should make the captaine of their saluation perfect through afflictions.

11 For both he that sanctifieth, & they which are sanctified are all of one: for which cause, he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

*12 Saying, * I wil declare thy name vnto my brethren, in the middest of the Church will I praise thee.* Ps.22.23.

13 And againe, I wil put my trust in him. And againe, Behold here am I, and the children which God hath giuen me.

*14 For asmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himselfe likewise tooke part with them, * that through death, he might expell him that had lordship ouer death, that is, the deuil:* Osee.13.14. 1.Cor.15.54

15 And that he might deliuer them which through feare of death, were all their life time in danger of bondage.

16 For he in no place taketh on him the angels: but the seede of Abraham taketh he on him.

17 Wherefore in all thinges it became him to be made like vnto his brethren, that he might bee mercifull, and a faithfull high priest in thinges concerning God, for to purge the peoples sinnes.

18 For in that he himselfe suffered, and was tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. 9. Because of the passion.) This proueth against the Caluinistes that Christ by his Passion merited his owne glorification. Which they would not for shame deny of Christ, but that they are at a poinct to deny all meritorious workes, yea euen in Christ also, and therefore they translate also this sentence heretically, by transposing the words. In the Bible printed in the yere 1579.

Fulke. 1. If it were graunted that Chriſt merited his glorie by his ſuffering, it would helpe you nothing for your meritorious workes. And yet we would not for all the world, denie all meritorious works, for we acknowledge the the ſacrifice of Chriſt to haue merited and deſerued for vs remiſſion of our ſinnes, and eternall life. But all glorie that Chriſt hath, was from euerlaſting due to his perſon, becauſe he is the eternall ſonne of God. And it is not long ſince, you confeſſed that ſtraights vpon his diſcending from heauen it was the duetie both of angels and all other creatures to adore him, therefore he merited not his glorification by his death which was due to him ſo ſone as he was incarnate by the right of his godhead. Neyther doth this text proue any thing to the contrary, if it be rightly tranſlated. For the apoſtle ſayth that Chriſt was made leſſe then the angels, in reſpect of the paſſion of his death, as S. Paul ſaith, he made him ſelfe of no reputation &c. Philip. 2. 7 not that that he was crowned with glorie for the merite of his death. And therefore we tranſlate not this ſentence heretically, but according to the ſenſe of the Apoſtle, and the iudgement of the Catholike fathers. Firſt Athanaſius diſtinguiſhed as wee doe. De incarnat verbi dei.

So doth Chryſoſtome Hom. 4. If he which ſhould haue all ſubiect vnto him, died and ſuffered inuenerable things: why art thou ſad, whē thou ſuffereſt? For we ſee Ieſus, euen him that was made a litle leſſe then the Angels, for the paſſion of death. And then againe he added, good and proſperous thinges, crowned with glorie. S. Ambroſe likewiſe ſaith. He ſheweth that the Croſſe of Chriſt is glorie and honour, for which Croſſe he was made leſſe then the Angels. Theodoret ſayth. He was not leſſe then the Angels by nature of his diuinitie, but by ſuffering of his humanitie. S. Auguſtine vpon this text, Cont. Maxim. lib. 3. cap. 18. ſaith. That which is written in the Epiſtle to the Hebrewes. (But now we do not yet ſee all things ſubiect vnto him: but we ſee Ieſus euen him that was made a litle leſſe then the Angels for the paſſion of death) ought to teach vs how we ſhould vnderſtand that which is written to the Corinthians, When all things ſhalbe ſubdued vnto him, that is ſaid according to his humanitie, not according to his deitie. So therefore appearing in man in whom by the paſſion of death, he was made a litle leſſe then the Angels, he ſhal iudge the quicke and the dead. Againe, Cap. 25. he writeth, The Scripture hath opened why it is ſaid. Thou haſt made him a litle leſſe then the Angels, where it is read: we ſee Ieſus euen him which is made a litle then the Angels for the ſuffering of death. Therefore not for the nature of man, but for the ſuffering of death. Primaſius ſaith, he was made leſſe then the Angels by dying for vs. Seeing our tranſlation therefore, is according to the interpretation and diſtinction of theſe Catholike fathers, you ſee either what learning, or what honeſty is in theſe men, to charge vs with heretical tranſlation, and tranſpoſing of the wordes. And although we ſhould otherwiſe diſtinguiſh, that Chriſt by the paſſion of death was crowned with glorie, yet Chriſtes meriting his glorie, were not proued thereby. For all the members of Chriſt by death attaine to the crowne of glory, yet not by the merite of there death.

CHAP. III.

By example of Chriſt (who is incomparably more excellent then Moſes alſo) he exhorteth them to be faithfull vnto God. 7 Their reward ſhal be, to enter into euerlaſting reſt, if they perſeuere, as contrariewiſe to be excluded (as was ſhadowed in their forfathers in the wilderner) if they ſinne and become incredulous.

WHEREFORE holy brethren, partakers of the heauenly vocation, conſider the Apoſtle, and high prieſt of our confeſſion IESVS.

The excellencie of Chriſt aboue Moyſes. Nu. 12, 7.

2 Who is faithful to him that made him, as alſo * Moyſes in al his houſe.

3 For, this mā is eſteemed worthy of more ample glorie aboue Moyſes, by ſo much as more ample glorie then the houſe, hath he that framed it.

4 For euery houſe is framed of ſome mā, but he that created al things, is God.

5 And Moyſes in deede was faithful in al his houſe as a ſeruāt, for a teſtimonie of thoſe things which were to be ſaid:

6 But Chriſt as the Sonne in his owne houſe: which houſe are we, if we keepe firme the confidence & glorie of hope vnto ŷ end.

Pſ. 94, 8.

7 Wherefore, as the holy Ghoſt ſaith, To day if you ſhal heare his voice,

THerfore holy brethren, partakers of the celeſtiall calling, conſider the Apoſtle and high prieſt of our profeſſion Chriſt Ieſus.

*2 Being faithful to him that appointed him, as alſo * Moſes* was faithful in all his houſe.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glorie then Moſes, in as much as he which hath builded the houſe, hath more honour then the houſe. Num. 12, 7.

4 For euery houſe is builded of ſome man, but he that builded all things, is God.

5 And Moſes verely was faithful in all his houſe, as a ſeruant, for a witneſſe of thoſe thinges which were to be ſpoken after:

6 But Chriſt as the ſonne hath rule ouer his owne houſe: whoſe houſe are we, if we hold faſt the confidence and the reioycing of that hope vnto the end.

*7 Wherefore: as the holy Ghoſt ſayeth, * To day if ye wil heare his voice,* Pſa. 95, 8.

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the prouocation in the day of temptation in the wilderneſſe:

9 Where your fathers tempted mee, prooued me, and ſaw my workes fourtie yeres.

10 Wherefore I was greeued with this generation, and ſaid, They do alway erre in heart, they verily haue not knowen my waies.

11 So

11 To whom I ſware in my wrath, If they ſhal enter into my reſt,

12 Beware brethren, leſt perhaps there be in ſome of you an euil hart of incredulitie, to depart from the liuing God.

13 But exhort your ſelues euery day, whiles to day is named, that none of you be obdurate with the fallacie of ſinne.

14 For we be made partakers of Chriſt: yet ſo if we keepe the ‡ beginning of his ſubſtance firme vnto the end.

‡ Faith is the ground worke of our creadon in Chriſt, which if we hold not faſt, al the building is loſt.

15 While it is ſaid, To day if you ſhal heare his voice, do not obdurate your hartes as in that exacerbation.

Nu.14,37. 21,23.

16 For ſome hearing did exaſperate: but not all they that went out of Aegipt by Moyſes.

17 And with whom was he offeded fourtie yeres? was it not with them that ſinned, *whoſe carcaſſes were ouerthrowen in the deſert?

18 And to whom did he ſweare that they ſhould not enter into his reſt: but to them that were incredulous?

19 And we ſee that they could not enter in, becauſe of incredulitie.

11 So that I ſware in my wrath, If they ſhall enter into my reſt.

12 Take heede brethren, leaſt at any time there be in any of you an euil heart of vnbeliefe, to depart from the liuing God:

13 But exhort ye one another daily, while it is called to day: leaſt any of you be hardned through the deceitfulneſſe of ſinne.

14 For we are made partakers of Chriſt, if we keepe ſure vnto the end the beginning of the ſubſtance.

15 ‖ *So long as it is ſaid, * To day if ye will heare his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the prouocation.*

‖ Or, while. Pſal.95.8.

16 For ſome when they had heard, did prouoke ‖: howbeit, not all that came out of Egypt by Moſes.

‖ The Lord.

17 But with whom was he diſpleaſed fourtie yeres? Not with them that had ſinned, whoſe carkeiſes fell in the deſert?

18 And to whom ſware he that they ſhould not enter into his reſt, but vnto them that were not obedient?

19 And we ſee that they could not enter in, becauſe of vnbeliefe.

CHAP. IIII.

That they muſt feare to be excluded out of the foreſaid reſt (which he proueth out of the Pſalme) 12 conſidering that Chriſt ſeeth their moſt inward ſecretes. 14 And that he (as their Prieſt who alſo himſelfe ſuffered) is able and ready to ſtrengthen them in confeſſion of their faith.

LET vs feare therefore leſt perhaps forſaking the promis of entering into his reſt, ſome of you bee thought to be wanting.

2 For to vs alſo it hath been denounced, as alſo to them, but the word of hearing did not profit them, not mixt with faith of thoſe things which they heard.

3 For we that haue beleeued, ſhal enter into the reſt: as he ſaid, As I ſware in my wrath, if they ſhal enter into my reſt: and truely the workes from the foundation of the worlde being perfited.

doe not obdurate your hearts.

c So Ioſue is called in greek

8 For if c Ieſus had giuen them reſt: he would neuer ſpeake of an other day afterward.

9 Therefore there is left a ſabbatiſme for the people of God.

10 For he that is entred into his reſt, the ſame alſo hath reſted from his workes, as God from his.

11 Let vs haſten therefore to enter into that reſt: that no man fal into the ſame example of incredulitie.

‡ Whichwitnit God declareth by his word concerning the punishment of ſinne and incredulitie, ſhal be executed, be the offence neuer ſo ſecrete, deepe, or hidden in our hearts, becauſe Gods ſpeach paſſeth eaſily and ſearcheth throughly euery part, power, and faculte of mans ſoul.

12 ‡ For the word of God is liuely and forcible, and more perſing then any two edged ſword: and reaching vnto the diuiſion of the ſoule and the ſpirit, of the ioiuntes alſo and the marowes, and a diſcerner of the cogitations and intents of the hart.

13 And there is no creature inuiſible in his ſight, but al things are naked and open to his eies, to whom our ſpeach is.

14 Hauing therefore a great high Prieſt that hath entred the heauens, IESVS the ſonne of God, let vs hold the confeſſion.

15 For we haue not a high prieſt that can not haue compaſſion on our infirmities: but tempted in all thinges by ſimilitude, except ſinne.

The Epiſtle in a Maſſe for the election of the Pope.

16 ‖ Let vs goe therfore with confidence to the throne of grace: that wee may obtaine mercie, and finde grace in ſeaſonable aide.

harden not your hearts.

8 For if Ieſus had giuen them reſt, then would he not afterward haue ſpoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore yet a reſt to the people of God.

10 For he that is entred into his reſt, hath ceaſed alſo from his owne workes, as God did from his.

11 Let vs ſtudy therefore to enter into that reſt, leaſt any man fall ‖ after the ſame example of the diſobedience. ‖ Or, into.

12 For the word of God is quicke and mighty in operation, & ſharper then any two edged ſword and entreth through euen vnto the diuiding aſunder of the ſoule and the ſpirit, & of the iointes, and the marow, and is a diſcerner of the thoughts and of the intents of the heart.

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifeſt in the ſight of him: but all things are naked and open vnto the eies of him of whom we ſpeake.

14 Seeing then that wee haue a great high prieſt, which is entred into heauens, Ieſus the ſonne of God, let vs hold faſt this confeſſion.

15 For we haue not an high prieſt which can not be touched with the feeling of our infirmities: but was in all points tempted like as we are, and yet without ſinne, 16 Let vs therefore come boldly vnto the throne of grace, that we may obtaine mercy, and finde grace to helpe in time of neede.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. 4 Seuenth day.) If the Apoſtle had not euidently here ſhewed that the Sabbaths reſt was a figure of the eternall repoſe in heauen, who durſt to haue applied that Scripture of Gods reſt the ſeuenth day, to that purpoſe? Or how can our Aduerſaries now reprehend the like application manifoldly vſed in al holy auncient writers to the like end?

Fulke. 1. Before this Epiſtle was written, the prophet Eſay deliuered the ſame doctrin of the Saboath that the Apoſtle doth: Eſay 58.13. &c. & cap. 66.23. The like application, in any ancient writer, to the like end we do not reprehend, when it hath the ſame warrant of the ſcripture. But ſeeing the ancient holy fathers, had neyther the ſame priuiledge of the ſpirit, that they ſhould neuer erre in there applications, nor alway the holy ſcripture to direct them vnto ſuch endes, ſometimes we may iuſtly reprehend them by auctoritie of the holy ſcriptures when there applications are not agreable vnto them. Applying of ſcriptures.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 2. 16. Let vs goe with confidence.) The aduerſaries goe about to proue by theſe wordes, that we neede no helpe of Saincts to obtaine any thing, Chriſt him ſelf being ſo readie, and we being admoniſhed to come to him with confidence as to a moſt mercifull Mediator and Biſhop. But by that argument they may as well take away the helpes and praiers of the liuing one for an other. And we do not require the helpe either of the Saincts in heauen, or of our brethren in earth, for any miſtruſt of Gods mercie, but for our owne vnworthines: being aſſured that the praier of a iuſt man auaileth much with him, thus the deſire of a grieuous ſinner: and of a number making interceſſion together, rather then of a man alone, which the Heretikes can not deny except they reproue the plaine Scriptures. Neither do we come leſſe to him, or with leſſe confidence, when we come accompained with the praiers of Angels, Saincts, Prieſtes, or ieſt men ioyning with vs, as they fondly imagine and pretend: but with much more aſſurance in his grace, mercie, and merites, then if we praied our ſelues alone. Scripture abuſed againſt inuocation of Saincts.

Fulke. 2. Chriſt is a moſte mercifull mediator, to whom we ought to come with confidence, and by him to God. Therefore we haue on neede of the mediatiaon of Saincte departed. This argument (you ſay) is inſufficient. Whereby wee may as well take away the helpes and praiers of the liuing, one for another. I anſwere, the praiers of the Saincte liuing, haue both commaundement, and promiſe in the ſcriptures: ſo hath not inuocation of Saincte departed this life, and therefore, they are not of one kinde. Agayne we haue no neede of the prayer of Saincte liuing for the merite or worthines of their perſons, but becauſe this Chriſt our onely mediatour. Innocation of Saincts.

mutuall dutie of praying one for another, is by God required, and is acceptable to him, when it is done in fayth and obedience vnto him, and of loue and charitie one towards another. The like cauſe is not of praying to Saincts in heauen, becauſe there is neither commandement to be obeyed, nor promiſe to be beleeued, nor any vſe of our prayer for them. You ſay, you require not the prayers of Saincts in heauen, or of your brethren on earth, for any miſtruſt of Gods mercy, but for your owne vnworthineſſe. And we goe with confidence to the throne of grace, not truſting in our worthineſſe, or in the worthineſſe of any other creature, but onely in the worthineſſe of Chriſt, in who we are aſſured to be heard, according to his promiſe, whether we be few or many. But you are aſſured that the prayer of a iuſt man, auaileth more with him then of a grieuous ſinner. And wee are aſſured, that no mans prayer auaileth with him any thing at all in reſpect of the merite of any iuſt man, but onely in the merite and mediation of Chriſt. Yet we know the prayer of a iuſt man, auaileth much by Gods mercifull promiſe, but not by the worthineſſe of his prayer: ſo we ſay of the interceſſion of many together, and otherwiſe the Scripture teacheth not. Therefore, ſeeing we haue no promiſe of helpe, by inuocation of Saincts, we can haue no confidence or hope in ſuch inuocation. Laſt of all you ſay, You come not leſſe to God, or with leſſe confidence, but with much more affiance in his grace, when ye are accompanied with the prayers of Angels and Saincts, &c. Firſt it is to to manifeſt, that you come leſſe to God, when you goe ſo much to Saincts, then you ſhould doe if you went onely to God. Secondly, the affiance that you haue, is not in the meere grace, mercy, and merites of Chriſt, ſo great as if you came to Chriſt onely, truſting in his grace, merites and mercy, and not a whit in the merites or worthineſſe of Angels and Saincts, or any other creature, liuing, or dead. Whether the Angels and Saincts doe pray for you or no, you know not by the word of God. But that neither the one nor the other, can know your hearts, or your petitions offered to them in ſo many places at once, you might learne by the Scriptures, and euen by naturall reaſon, ſeeing it is proper to the diuinitie only, to know the heart of man, and all things or many things at one inſtant, 1.Reg.8.39.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 1. 1 Euery high Prieſt.) By the deſcription of a Prieſt or high Prieſt (for to this purpoſe all is one matter) he proueth Chriſt to be one in moſt excellent ſort. Firſt then, a Prieſt muſt not be an Angel, or of any other nature but mans. Secondly, euery man is not a Prieſt, but ſuch an one as is ſpecially choſen out of the reſt, and preferred before other of the communitie, ſeuered, aſſumpted and exalted into a higher ſtate and dignitie then the vulgar. Thirdly, the cauſe & purpoſe why he is ſo ſequeſtred and piked out from the reſidue, is to take charge of Diuine things, to deale as a mediator betwixt God and the people, to be the Deputie of men in ſuch things as they haue to craue or to receiue of God, and to preſent or giue to him againe. Fourthly, the moſt proper and principall part of a Prieſtes office is, to offer oblations, giftes and ſacrifices to God for the ſinnes of the people: without which kinde of moſt ſouereine duetie, no perſon, people, or common wealth can appertaine to God: and which can be done by none, of what other dignitie or calling ſoeuer he be in the world, that is not a Prieſt: diuers Princes (as we read in the Scriptures) puniſhed by God, and king Saul depoſed from his kingdome, ſpecially for attempting the ſame. The deſcriptiō of a Prieſt, and his office. 3. Reg. 13. 2. Par. 26. 1. Reg. 13.

And generally we may learne here, that in ijs quæ ſunt ad Deum, in all matters touching God, his ſeruice, and religion, the Prieſt hath onely charge and authority: as the Prince temporal is the peoples gouernour, guider, and ſoueraine, in the things touching their worldly affaires: Which muſt for all that by him be directed and mannaged no otherwiſe, but as is agreeable to the due worſhip and ſeruice of God, againſt which if the terrene Powers commit any thing, the Prieſts ought to admoniſh them from God. The Princes temporal authoritie how farre it extendeth.

We learne alſo hereby, that euery one is not a Prieſt, and that the people muſt alwayes haue certayne perſons choſen out from among them, to deale in their ſuites and cauſes with God, to pray, to miniſter Sacraments, and to ſacrifice for them. And whereas the Proteſtants will haue no Prieſt, Prieſthood, nor ſacrifice, but Chriſt and his death, pretending theſe wordes of the Apoſtle to be verified onely in the Prieſthood and Seruice of the old Law, and Chriſtes perſon alone, and after him of no moe: therein they ſhew themſelues to be ignorant of the Scriptures, and of the ſtate of the new Teſtament, and induce a plaine Atheiſme and Godleſneſſe into the world, for ſo long as mans hath to doe with God, there muſt needs be ſome deputed, and choſen out from among the reſt, to deale according to this declaration of the Apoſtle, in things pertaining to God, and thoſe muſt be Prieſts, for elſe if euen need to deale no more, but immediatly with Chriſt, what doe they with their Miniſters? Why let they not euery man pray, and miniſter for himſelfe and to himſelfe? What doe they with Sacraments, ſeeing Chriſtes death is as wel ſufficient without them, as without Sacrifice? Why ſtandeth not his death as wel with ſacrifice as with Sacraments: as wel with Prieſthood, as with other Eccleſiaſtical function? There is no other cauſe in the world, but that (Sacrifice being the moſt principal act of religion that man oweth to God, both by his Law, and by the law of nature) the Diuel by theſe his miniſters, vnder pretence of deferring or attributing the more to Chriſtes death, would aboliſh it. There is a peculiar order & calling of Prieſts of the new Teſtament. Prieſts and Sacrifice neceſſarie in the new Teſtament, and nothing derogatorie to Chriſts prieſthood or ſacrifice.

This definition of a Prieſt and his function, with all the properties thereto belonging, holdeth not onely in the law of Moyſes, and order of Aaronis Prieſthood, but it was true before, in the law of nature, in the Patriarches, in Melchiſedec, and now in Chriſt, and all his Apoſtles, and Prieſts of the new Teſtament: ſauing that it is a peculiar excellencie in Chriſt, that he onely offered for other mens ſinnes, and not at all for his owne, as all other doe. The difference and excellencie of Chriſts Prieſthood.

Fulke. 1. Firſt you doe blaſphemouſly confound the office of a prieſt, and an high prieſt, to eſtabliſh your popiſh ſacrificing prieſthood. For it is not all one matter, to compare Chriſt with euery inferior prieſt of the lawe, and with the high prieſt, who was neuer but one at once, to ſignifie the ſingular prieſthood of our Sauiour Chriſt. Secondly, where you ſay there can no perſon, people, or common wealth, appertaine to God without the ſoueraigne duties of prieſthood, it is true, but for that purpoſe we haue no need of your popiſh ſacrificing prieſthood. For our high prieſt hath perfectly accompliſhed whatſoeuer ſacrifice was neceſſary for our ſinnes, and continueth to make interceſſion for vs for euer. Hauing no office of an externall ſacrificing prieſthood vnder him, but a miniſterie of preaching of his worde, and adminiſtration of his holy Sacraments here on earth. Thirdly, where you ſay that in al matters pertaining to God, the prieſt hath only charge & auctoritie, it is falſe. For although in preaching and adminiſtration of the Sacraments, &c. the choſen miniſter hath only charge and auctoritie to execute them, yet the prince hath charge and auctoritie to commaund them to be executed according to the word of God. Wherein as he is to be taught by the miniſter, ſo he is bound not to be ignorant therof, though the miniſter neglect his dutie in teaching of him. For which, and for not executing his Chriſt our onely high prieſt.

office according to the word of God, the prince alſo hath charge and auctoritie to punish the miniſter of the Church.

Fourthly, we learne elſe where, that euery true Chriſtian is a ſacrificing prieſt, to offer vp ſpirituall ſacrifice acceptable to God by Ieſus Chriſt, 1. Pet. 2. 5. But none is our high prieſt to offer vp ſacrifice propitiatory for our ſinnes, or to make interceſſion with God for vs, as our mediator and aduocate, but onely Ieſus Chriſt, although there be prieſts, elders or miniſters choſen and appointed for miniſtration of the worde and Sacraments. For although it bee the duetie of the miniſter, to conceiue or pronounce publike prayers in the name of the Church, yet he is not as a prieſt or aduocate to preſent them before God, to be acceptable by the worthineſſe of his perſon or office, as the high prieſt of the law was, as a figure of Chriſt. Therefore ſayeth S. Auguſtine: If the Apoſtle had ſayd ſo, These things haue I written vnto you, that you ſhould not ſinne, but if any man ſinne you haue me for a mediatour, and I by my prayer obteine pardon for your ſinnes, as in a certayne place Parmenian placed the biſhop to be a mediatour betweene the people and God, what good or faythfull Chriſtian could abide him? who would beholde him as an Apoſtle of Chriſt, and not as Antichriſt. Contra Parmen. lib. 2. c. 8. You ſee this godly father counteth it intollerable, and very Antichriſtianiſme to place the biſhop or any other miniſter of the Church, as mediator betweene God and the people, to deale in their ſutes and cauſes with God as you meanſe; namely, as ſacrificing prieſts, to obtaine pardon for the worthineſſe of their office. Yet you are bold to ſay, That we ſhew our ſelues not onely ignorant of the Scriptures, and of the ſtate of the new Teſtament, but alſo to induce a playne Atheiſme into the world, by denying ſuch a prieſthood. But where be theſe Scriptures, that wee might learne them of you? you are as mute as a ſtone for any Scripture you bring. Well, for lacke of Scriptures let vs ſee what reaſon you haue. You ſay for reaſon, That as long as men haue to doe with God, there muſt needes be ſome deputed to deale according to this declaration of the Apoſtle, in things pertaining to God, and thoſe muſt be prieſts. I anſwere, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh onely of the high prieſts office, which is conſummated and perfected in Chriſt, in whoſe perſon is accompliſhed, whatſoeuer was figured by the high prieſts office of the law, but of inferiour prieſts he ſpeaketh not. You aske then what we doe with our miniſters? I anſwere, we make them not mediatours and ſacrificing prieſts, (as Parmenian the heretike, and you doe) but we haue them for ſuch purpoſes as Chriſt hath commaunded, to miniſter the word, Sacraments, publike prayers, diſcipline, &c. which is no part of the office of Chriſtes eternall high prieſthood, or chiefe ſacrificers dignitie. You aske further, What we doe with Sacraments, ſeeing Chriſtes death is as well ſufficient without them as without ſacrifice? Verily, we vſe them as ſeales appointed of God, for confirmation of our fayth in Chriſtes death. But ſacrifice we haue none appointed of God, But the ſacrifice of prayſe and thankeſgiuing which be the onely ſacrifices (ſayth Iuſtinus) that Chriſtians haue receiued to offer. Dialog. cum Tryphon.

Thirdly, you aske, Why his death ſtandeth not as well with ſacrifices, as with Sacraments, and with prieſthood, as with other eccleſiaſticall function? Becauſe Chriſtes ſacrifice cannot bee the onely propitiatorie ſacrifice, if there be any other beſide it. As for Sacraments, as ſeales and memorials to certifie vs of the effect of his death may well ſtand with his ſacrifice, as other functions that derogate nothing from his prieſtly dignitie. But the popiſh ſacrificing prieſthood, cannot ſtand with the death of Chriſt, becauſe it vſurpeth the ſacrificing prieſthood of Chriſt, in offering his bodie which none could doe but hee himſelfe, and therefore he is an high prieſt for euer, and hath no ſucceſſours in that office. But ſacrifice propitiatorie you ſay, (or elſe you ſay nothing to the purpoſe) Is the moſt principall acte of religion that man oweth to God, and therefore muſt bee dayly offered. We anſwere, Chriſt hath moſt perfectly accompliſhed that ſacrifice himſelfe, by his oblation of himſelfe once for all, as the Apoſtle doeth often affirme in playne termes, therefore that ſacrifice propitiatorie, neither needeth, neither can bee offered daily, or any more bee repeated, the fruite whereof is eternall. And therefore the deuill by ſetting vp a new prieſthood and ſacrifice, ſeeketh nothing elſe, but to depriue men of the fruite and benefite of the ſingular ſacrifice and prieſthood of Chriſt. To whom it is not to bee feared that we can attribute too much, ſeeing he is the ſonne of God, to whom with God his father and his holy ſpirite, all that are ſaued aſcribe their ſaluation, with all bleſſing, glory, wiſedome, thankeſgiuing, honour, power and might, for euer and euer, Apocalypſe 7. And where you ſay, this definition of prieſthood was true in the Patriarkes, Melchiſedech and Aarons prieſthood, as it is nowe in Chriſt, ſauing that Chriſt onely was free from ſinne, I ſay it is horrible blaſphemie. For it was but figuratiue and a ſhadowe of a prieſthood in all the reſt, and in Chriſt onely it was true, as the Apoſtle prooueth manifeſtly, capitulo 10. 1. &c. beſide many other peculiar excellencies that the Apoſtle deſcribeth to bee true in Chriſt, which were figured in the prieſthoode of Melchiſedech, and excelled alſo by Chriſt, capitulo 7. 14. to the ende of the Chapter.

Therefore Theodoret ſayeth well vpon this text. Theſe things the holy Apoſtle hath ſayde, not meaning to ſhew vnto vs the rule of an high prieſthood, but preparing a way to ſpeake of the high prieſthood of our Lorde. S. Ambroſe ſaieth: The Apoſtle placeth here certayne things common to Chriſt with the Prieſtes, but certaine things higher. Among which he maketh more peculiar excellencies of Chriſt then that one which you doe. The ſame not onely in ſenſe but alſo in wordes hath Chryſoſtome, hom. 13. the like hath Primaſius. But what need the teſtimonie of men where the Scripture is ſo plaine?

Rhem. 2. 4 Taketh to himſelfe.) A ſpeciall preciſe for all Prieſtes, Preachers, and ſuch as haue to deale for the people in things pertaining to God, that they take not that honour or office as their owne handes, but by lawfull calling and conſecration, euen as Aaron did. By which clauſe if you examine Luther, Caluin, Beza, and the like, or if all ſuch as nowe a dayes intrude themſelues into ſacred functions, looke into their conſciences, great and foule matter of damnation will appeare. All true prieſts and preachers muſt be lawfully called thereto.

Fulke. 2. Luther, Caluine, Beza, and ſuch like, had both the inward calling by God, and the outward calling by the Church to their miniſtery. But if you examine the Pope and all his prieſts, which claime a prieſthood equall to Chriſt in all things, ſauing that they offer for their owne ſinnes, a great and foule matter of Antichriſtian Lawfull calling.

vſurpation will appeare. For where haue they any teſtimonie of the Scripture, either for their papacie, or for their prieſthood?

Rhem. 3. 5 Did not glorifie himſelfe.) The dignitie of Prieſthood muſt needes be paſſing high and ſoueraigne, when it was a promotion and preferment in the ſonne of God himſelfe according to his manhood, and when he would not vſurpe, nor take vpon him the ſame, without his fathers expreſſe commiſſion and calling thereunto. An eternal example of humilitie, and an argument of condemnation to all mortal men, that arrogate vnlawfully any function or power ſpirituall, that is not giuen them from aboue, and by lawfull calling, and commiſſion of their ſuperiors. The dignitie and function of Prieſthood is not to be vſurped.

Fulke. 3: The Pope and his prieſts doe glorifie themſelues, for their prieſthood is not of Gods appointment, but of their owne vſurpation. For where hath God commanded them to ſacrifice the body and bloud of Chriſt, for the ſinnes of the liuing and of the dead? The popiſh prieſthood.

Rhem. 4. 6 A Prieſt for euer.) In the 109. Pſalme, from whence this teſtimonie is taken, both Chriſtes kingdome and Prieſthood are ſet foorth, but the Apoſtle vrgeth ſpecially his Prieſthood, as the more excellent and preeminent ſtate in him, our Redemption being wrought and atchieued by ſacrifice, which was an acte of his Prieſthood, and not of his kingly power though he was properly a king alſo, as Melchiſedec was both Prieſt, and king, being a reſemblance of Chriſt in both, but much more in his Prieſthood. And our Lord had this excellent double dignitie (as appeareth by the diſcourſe of S. Paul, and his allegations here out of the Pſalmes) at the very firſt moment of his conception or incarnation. for you muſt beware of the wicked hereſie of the Arians and Caluiniſts (except in theſe later it be rather an errour proceeding of ignorance) that ſticke not to ſay, that Chriſt was a Prieſt, or did ſacrifice, according to his Godhead. Which is to make Chriſt, God the fathers Prieſt, and not his ſonne, and to doe ſacrifice and homage to him as his Lord, and not as his equall in dignitie and nature. Therefore S. Auguſtine ſayth in Pſal. 109. That as he was man, he was Prieſt: as God, he was not Prieſt. And Theodoret in Pſ. 109. As man, he did offer ſacrifice: but as God, he did receiue ſacrifice. And againe, Chriſt touching his humanitie was called a Prieſt, and he offered no other hoſt but his owne body. &c. Dial. 3. circa med. Some of our Retor. pag. 89 new Maſters not knowing ſo much, did let fall out of their pennes the contrary, and being admoniſhed of the errour, and that it was very Arrianiſme, yet they perſiſt in it of mere ignorance in the grounds of Diuinitie. Chriſt both prieſt & king: but his Prieſthood more excellent of the two. Pſal. 2. 109. Chriſt a Prieſt as he is man, not as he is God.

Fulke. 4. Becauſe this note ſpecially noteth me, I will repeate that I haue anſwered vnto it elſe where. Firſt note the intollerable pride of theſe popiſh interpreters, that chalenge to themſelues all learning & knowledge in diuinitie, & condemne all other mē of ignorance, and mere ignorance, in the grounds of diuinitie. So playeth Briſtow with the biſhop of Sarum, whom in the place by them quoted, I reprooued in theſe wordes. The like impudent cauill he bringeth againſt M. Iewell, whom no man I thinke without laughter can read, to be charged with ignorance by blundering Briſtow, for affirming Chriſt to be a prieſt according to his deitie, whom the Apoſtle expreſly ſayth by his eternall ſpirit to haue offered himſelfe. Heb. 9. 14. But that you may the better vnderſtand this controuerſie betweene vs, we deny not that Chriſt was a prieſt according to his humanitie, but wee affirme, that whole Chriſt is a prieſt, as hee is both God and man. For in the office of prieſthood, two things muſt be conſidered, A Miniſterie, and an Auctoritie. In reſpect of the miniſteriall part, our Sauiour Chriſt perfourmed that office, as man, but in reſpect of auctoritie of entring into the holieſt place, and reconciling vs to God, and preſenting vs vnto God, which was the principall part of his prieſthood, he did perfourme it, as the ſonne of God, as the Lord and maker of the houſe, and not as a ſeruaunt, but as God which hath created all things, Heb. 3. verſe 1. 2. 3. 4. 5. and 6. Againſt this ſound doctrine, let vs examine what the heretikes alleage. Firſt, they charge it moſt odiouſly with Arrianiſme, but without all ſparke of reaſon, ſeeing we diſtinguiſh plainly, the auctoritie of God the ſonne, which is equall with his father, from the miniſterie of the man Ieſus Chriſt, inferiour to his father as touching his manhood. Secondly, they charge vs that we ſticke not to ſay: Chriſt was a prieſt, or did offer ſacrifice according to his godhead. But we ſay he was a prieſt, and did offer ſacrifice, both according to his godhead, and according to his manhood. And the ſame ſayeth the Apoſtle in effect, when he ſayth: The bloud of Chriſt, which by his eternall ſpirite, offered himſelfe vnreproueable to God, ſhall purge your conſcience, &c. Heb. 9. 14. For not the bloud of beaſts, nor of any man, though he had bene innocent, but the bloud of that man which was God, was the price of our redemption, in which reſpect the Apoſtle, Act. 20. 28. ſayth, that God purchaſed his Church vnto himſelfe by his owne bloud. For by the eternall ſpirit is vnderſtoode that infinite power of the diuinitie, vnited to the humanitie, by which the ſacrifice of Chriſt was conſecrated, that by the ſame liuely or quickening vertue by which he created vs, he might alſo reſtore vs. Whereunto our Sauiour Chriſt had regard, when he ſayd. Iohn 6. It is the ſpirite that giueth life, the fleſh profiteth nothing. But this (ſay the Papiſts) is to make Chriſt God the fathers prieſt, and not his ſonne. Nay rather, this is to acknowledge Chriſt to bee both his fathers ſonne and his prieſt, euen as the Apoſtle ſayth: The Law appointeth Prieſts, men that haue infirmitie, but the word of the othe, which is after the lawe, the ſonne for euer perfected. Heb 7. 28. where, by the oppoſition of men hauing infirmitie, with the ſonne perfected for euer, it is moſt cleere, that the worde of the othe maketh Chriſt, as he is the ſonne of God a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech. Where I cannot omit the ſhamefull corruption of this text in your popiſh tranſlation, which to hide this oppoſition betweene men, and God the ſonne of God, hath altogether left out this word Men, although it be in the Latine expreſſed manifeſtly: Lex enim homines conſtituit, &c. which they tranſlate thus: The Lawe appoynteth prieſtes, them that haue infirmitie. But to proceed: our accuſers adde further, that our aſſertion is to make Chriſt to doe ſacrifice, and homage to God his father, as his Lord, and not as his equal in dignitie and nature. I anſwere, no more then when S. Paule ſayeth, that Chriſt when he was in the fourme of God, and thought it no robberie to be equall with God, made himſelfe of no reputation, tooke vpon him the ſhape of a ſeruaunt, and became obedient to the death, euen the death of the croſſe. For I haue ſufficiently before diſtinguiſhed, that all partes of his prieſthood that required obedience, ſeruice, homage, miniſterie, ſubiection, he performed as man: but the auctoritie of reconciling men to God, he wrought as God and man, euen as the Apoſtle writeth: God was in Chriſt, reconciling the world vnto himſelfe. 2. Cor. 5. 19. Therefore, that he might be a prieſt, able and worthy to make atonement with God, he was God: That his reconciliation and ſatisfaction might extend to men, he was man, and ſo being God and man, he is a perfect mediator betweene God and man, and an high Slander.

prieſt for euer after the order of Melchiſedech. All this notwithſtanding they oppoſe againſt vs the auctoritie of the fathers, who doubtleſſe had none other meaning then we to keepe this diſtinction. Firſt S. Auguſtine in pſ. 109 is produced to ſay: Thus as he was man, for was prieſt, as God he was not prieſt. But S. Auguſtines wordes are ſomwhat otherwiſe: The Lord hath ſworne &c. for to this end thou waſt borne out of the wombe before the daiſtarre, that thou mighteſt be a prieſt for euer after the order of Melchiſedech. For according to that he is borne of God the father, God with God, coeternall with him that begetteth, he is not a prieſt, but a prieſt for his fleſh aſſumpted, for the ſacrifice, which being taken of vs, he might offer for vs. In theſe words Auguſtines meaning is plaine enough, that Chriſt according to his diuine and eternall generation could not haue beene a prieſt for vs, except he had taken our fleſh, and beene borne a man, which we doe alwaies confeſſe. But that our redemption by his ſacrifice was the mere worke of his manhood onely, he ſaith not, but the contrary if he be marked. For he ſaith that the ſonne of God was a prieſt for the fleſh, which he tooke of vs, that he might offer for vs that ſacrifice which he tooke of vs. Heere is plaine, that Chriſt as God offereth ſacrifice, but he offereth as a prieſt, for to offer ſacrifice pertaineth to a prieſt, therfore Chriſt as God is a prieſt, yet not as God only, but as God and man. Whereupon therfore Auguſtine ſaith afterward: O Lord which haſt ſworne and ſaid: Thou art a prieſt for euer after the order of Melchiſedech. The ſame prieſt for euer is the Lord on thy right hand, the very ſame (I ſay) prieſt for euer, of whom thou haſt ſaid vnto him, is the Lord on thy right hand, becauſe thou haſt ſaid to the ſame my Lord, ſit thou on my right hand vntil I make thine enemies thy footſtoole. Heere he affirmeth that the eternall God, Dauids Lord as he is God, and Dauids ſonne as he is man, is that eternal prieſt. And to what end, but to performe thoſe parts of a prieſt which were proper to God, that is, to reconcile vs to God, to haue auctority of himſelfe and of his owne nature and worthineſſe, to come before God, and to remaine in the fauor of God alwaies, which no creature hath but through his worthineſſe and gratious gift. The next auctority brought againſt vs, is Theodoret in pſ. 109. who is cited thus: As man he did offer ſacrifice, but as God he did receiue ſacrifices. Verily we ſay as much and more alſo, that he offered ſacrifice as God alſo, reconciling the world to himſelfe. But in truth the words of Theodoret are otherwiſe, and to an other end, Chriſt (ſaith he) is now a prieſt, which is ſprong of Iuda, according to the fleſh, not offering any thing himſelfe, but is the head of them that offer, ſeeing he calleth the church his body, and therfore he exerciſeth the prieſthood as a man, and he receiueth thoſe offerings that are offered as God. And the church truely doth offer the tokens of his body and bloud, ſanctifying euery leuen by the firſt fruits. In theſe words Theodoret ſpeaketh not of the ſacrifice that Chriſt offered himſelfe, but of the ſpirituall ſacrifice of thankſgiuing which the church offereth to him, in celebrating the memory of his death. Not of the prieſthood which Chriſt did exerciſe in earth, but of the prieſthood which he doth exerciſe in heauen, not now offering any thing, but as God receiuing oblations. And where he ſaith that now he exerciſeth the prieſthood as man, he denieth not, but that he doth exerciſe it as mediator, God & man: which is more plaine in his expoſition of the epiſtle to the Hebrues cap. 8. where he inquireth how Chriſt doth both ſit at the right hand of maieſty, & yet is a miniſter of the holy things. For what prieſtly office doth he exerciſe? (ſaith he) which hath once offered vp himſelfe, and doth no more offer any ſacrifice? And how can it be that the ſame perſon ſhould both ſit and exerciſe the prieſtly office? except perhaps a man will ſay, that the ſaluation which he procureth as Lord, is a prieſtly office. Neither hath he any other meaning dialogo primo where his purpoſe is to proue that Chriſt had a body. If therfore it be proper for prieſts to offer gifts, and Chriſt concerning his humanitie is called a prieſt, & he offered none other ſacrifice but his owne body, therfore our Lord Chriſt had a body. He ſaith not heere, that Chriſt is a prieſt according to his humanitie onely, whereas the excellency of his perſon, being both God and man, cauſed his prieſthood and ſacrifice to be acceptable and auailable for the redemption of man. Therfore he ſaith alſo vpon the ſeuenth chapter. It is the part of a man to exerciſe prieſthood, and of God to receiue thoſe things that are offered. But yet the only begotten ſonne of God being made man, was made our prieſt alſo after the order of Melchiſedech, not with any increaſe of dignitie, but concealing his diuine dignitie, and taking vpon him a baſe eſtate for our ſaluation. You ſee in theſe words he acknowledgeth him to be a prieſt, as he is both God & man. So ſaith Primaſius vpon this chapter: It is the office of the high prieſt to ſtand betweene God & the people, to intreat God for the ſinnes of the people, this did Chriſt, by that he is man and God alſo, offering vp himſelfe for our ſinnes, alwaies liuing to make interceſſion to God for vs. But to make the matter clere, beſide that which the apoſtle writeth cap. 3 & 9. theſe arguments may plainly be drawne out of the ſeuenth chapter, where he ſpeaketh expreſſie of his prieſthood after the order of Melchiſedech. Chriſt as he is without father and mother, is a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech: Chriſt as he is God and man is without father and mother, therfore Chriſt as he is God & man is a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech. Againe, Chriſt according to his diuinitie hath no beginning of his dayes, nor end of his life according to his whole perſon: therfore Chriſt according to his diuinitie, and according to his whole perſon, is a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech. Againe, except you vnderſtand Chriſt to haue beene a prieſt according to his diuinitie, he was tithed in the loines of Abraham aſwell as Leui, but according to his diuinitie he was not in the loines of Abraham, and therefore paid no tithes in Abraham as God, though as man he was ſubiect to the law: but receiued tithes of Abraham in his prieſt and figure Melchiſedech. For the prieſt receiueth tithes in the name of God, as he bleſſeth in the name of God. Therefore if Chriſt giue prieſtly bleſſing in his owne name, he giueth it as he is God, and not as man only. Finally, to ſay that Chriſt was a prieſt in reſpect of his manhood onlie, ſauoureth rancklie of Neſtorianiſme, whereas our aſſertion that Chriſt is an high prieſt, both according to his Deitie, in which he is equall with his father, and alſo according to his humanitie, in which the father is greater then he, is as farre from Arrianiſme as Papiſts are from honeſtie & ſincerities, to charge vs with ſuch open blaſphemie, which we deteſt more then they.

Rhem. 5. 7. With a ſtrong crie.) Though our Sauiour make interceſſion for vs, according to his humane nature, continually in heauen alſo: yet he doth not in any external creature make ſacrifice, nor vſe the praiſes of all by which our redemption was atchieued, as he did in the time of his mortall life, and in the act of his Paſſion, and laſt principally, when with a loud voice, and with this praier, In manus tuas commendo ſpiritum meum. In vehemently diſpoſed his ſoul, yeelding it in moſt proper ſort for a ſacrifice, for in that laſt point of his death, conſiſteth ſpecially his high Prieſtly office, and the very worke & conſummation of our redemption. The ſacrifice on the croſſe was the principal act of Chriſtes prieſthood. Luc. 23, 46.

Obſerue,

Obſerue more ouer, that though commonly euery faithful perſon pray both for him ſelf and others, and offer his prayers to God, yet none offereth by office, and ſpecial deputation, and appointment, in the perſon of the whole Church and people, ſauing the Prieſt. Whoſe prayers therfore be more effectuall in them ſelues, for that they be the voice of all faithful men together, made by him that is appointed and reteined of God for the peoples legate. And of this kind were all Chriſtes prayers, in all his life and death, as all his other actions were: his faſting, watching, preaching, inſtituting, miniſtring, or receiuing Sacraments: euery one being done as Prieſtly actions.

Prieſts prayers more effectual Chriſts Prieſtly actions.

Fulke. 5. Chriſt offered but that one ſacrifice propitiatory on the croſſe, and that but once, neither doth he make any other ſacrifice in any externall creatures. Neither hath he any ſacrificing preeſtes to be mediators betweene God and the people, as Parmenian the heretike placed the biſhop betweene God and the people. Therfore the prayers of the miniſter of the church, which he conceiueth or pronounceth in the name of the congregation are not more effectuall in themſelues for any ſuch office of mediation or legation, but they are acceptable becauſe they are according to Gods ordinance, the prayers of the whole church vttered by a miniſter thereinto appointed. For the prayer of one priuate man, praying with heartie affection and true faith, is more agreeable to the will of God, then the prayer of a thouſand prieſts void of faith and good affection, yea and ſhall haue better effect then the faithfull prayer of the miniſter, conceiued for a careleſſe and faithleſſe people. Therfore Chriſtes prayers and other actions of his prieſthood were of another and a more excellent kinde, then the prayers of the beſt prieſt that euer was. His office of preaching and miniſtring of ſacraments, he hath by his word committed to the miniſters of his church, to exerciſe in his name, therefore they be as effectuall being done by his ſeruants, as by himſelfe. But his high prieſts office he reteineth to himſelfe, and hath not committed it to another. Therfore none may preſume to offer ſacrifice as he did, nor to pray, watch, faſt, or doe any thing meritorious for other as he did.

Chriſt our only high prieſt.

Rhem. 6. 7. For his reuerence.) Theſe wordes haue our Engliſh Tranſlators peruiciouſly and moſt preſumptuouſly corrupted, turning them thus, In that which he feared, contrary to the verſion and ſenſe of al antiquity, and to Eraſmus alſo, and contrarie to the ordinary vſe of the Greeke word, as Beza himſelfe deſineth it Luc. 2. v. 25: *and contrarie to the propriety of the Greeke phraſe, as not onely the Catholikes, but * the beſt learned Lutherans do ſhew and proue by many examples. They follow herein the ſingular preſumption of Caluin, who was the firſt (as his fellow Beza confeſſeth) that euer found out this interpretation. Which neither S. Chryſoſtom, nor any other, as perfect Gracians as they were, could euer eſpie. Where, ſure ly to haue made choiſe of that impious and arrogant Sectaries ſenſe, before the ſaid fathers and all the Churches beſides, had been ſhameful ynough: but to ſet the ſcope downe for very Scripture of Gods bleſſed word, that is intolerable and paſſeth al impiety. And we ſee plainely that they haue no conſcience, indifferencie, nor other purpoſe, but to make the poore Readers beleeue, that their opinions be Gods owne word, and to draw the Scriptures to ſound after the fantaſie of their hereſies. But if the good Reader knew, for what point of doctrine they haue thus framed their tranſlation, they would abhorre them to the depth of Hel. For ſooth it is thus: they would haue this Scripture meane, that Chriſt was in horrible feare of damnation, and that he was not onely in paines corporal vpon the Croſſe (which they hold, not to haue been ſufficient for mans redemption) but that he was in the very ſorowes and diſtreſſes of the damned, without any difference, but that it was not euerlaſting, as theirs is. For this horrible blaſphemie (which is their interpretation of Chriſtes deſcending into Hel) Gods holy word muſt be corrupted, and the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death (whereof they talke ſo preſumptuouſly) muſt not be ynough for our redemption, except he be damned for vs alſo to the paines of Hel. Woe be to our poore Countrie, that muſt haue ſuch bookes, and read ſuch tranſlations. See Caluin and Beza in their Commentaries and Annotations vpon this place, and you ſhal ſee, that for defenſe of the ſaid blaſphemies they haue thus tranſlated this text. See the Annotations before, Act. 2. 27. and Mat 27. 46.*

Notorious hereticall tranſlation to maintein Caluins horrible blaſphemie.

* Vide Illyr. Flac. vpon this place.

Caluins blaſphemie that Chriſt ſuffered hel paines vpō the croſſe, and that his death otherwiſe were inſufficient.

Fulke. 6. The Greeke word ſignifieth both feare, reuerence, and pietie. Therefore that tranſlation is not corrupt, which giueth that interpretation which the word will beare. But it is contrary (ſay you) to the verſion and ſenſe of all antiquitie. That is not ſo, for Beza allegeth a moſt ancient Latine verſion, which he calleth Claromontanus codex, where it is tranſlated à metu, from feare. Primaſius alſo allegeth the ſentence of Caſſiodorus, that the word is taken ſometime for loue, and ſometime for feare. Greg. Nazian. alſo orat. 2. de filio, reckoning τὸ ἀλλόκοτον, that is, feare, among the infirmities of Chriſtes manhood, declareth that he followed this ſenſe: ſeeing this word ſignifying feare, is no where in the ſcripture applied to Chriſt but in this text. Theodoret alſo manifeſtly followeth this ſenſe, writing vpon this text, & ſaith: who (except he were out of his wits) would ſay that theſe things are ſpoken of his diuine nature? For if bleſſed Paule feared not death, but deſired to be diſſolued and to be with Chriſt, and ſaid to them which foreſhewed vnto him theſe things which ſhould befall vnto him at Ieruſalem, and aſſayed to keepe him backe, why weepe you and afflict my heart? I am ready, not only to be bound, but alſo to die for the name of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt: how did God the word, the creator of the world (which cannot be turned or changed, and is free from all affection) feare death? Againe, he interpreteth the prayer heere ſpoken of, to be that which he made in his paſſion, ſaying, Father if it be poſſible, let this cup paſſe from me. The Syrian tranſlation is alſo from feare. By all which it is manifeſt, how vntruely you ſay, that our interpretation is contrary to the verſion and ſenſe of all antiquitie, as alſo to the ordinary vſe of the Greeke word, which not only of prophane writers, but alſo in the holy ſcripture, is taken for feare, Act. 23. 10. & euen in this epiſtle Heb. 11. 7. witneſſe your owne Latine text, which for εὐλαβηθεὶς tranſlateth timens & metuens, fearing. Neither doth Beza ſay otherwiſe, but bringeth many examples to the contrarie. Likewiſe, where you ſay it is contrarie to the propertie of the Greeke phraſe, you ſhew your great skill in the Greeke tongue. For our interpretation is moſt agreeable to the Greeke phraſe, becauſe the preposition ἀπὸ doth more commonly ſignifie out or from, then for, as you tranſlate it, though Illyricus helpe you with ſome examples, where it ſignifieth rather pro then pro. That Beza confeſſeth Caluin to haue beene the firſt that found out this interpretation, he meaneth in theſe dayes, for he allegeth that Nazianzen & other of the ancient fathers did follow this interpretation before Calum. And although Chryſoſtome did not, yet Nazianzen and Theodoret did, which were as perfect Gracians as Chryſoſtome: and yet Chryſoſtome doth not altogether abhorre from it, though he preferre the other. Let the heretikes be aſhamed (ſaith he) the ſonne of God was heard from εὐλαβείας from feare, and what could a man ſay more of the Prophets? And what order is it, that he ſaith he was heard from feare? and although he were the ſonne, he learned of thoſe things which he ſuffered, obedience, who would ſay theſe theſe things of God. Here it appereth plainly, that he vnderſtood the word εὐλάβεια for feare, & not for reuerence, becauſe it could not be ſaid of the prophets, that they were heard for their reuerence, but from their feare. Wherfore, ſeeing this commentary was not written by Chryſoſtome himſelfe, but gathred out of his homilies & writings after his death, it may be the other interpretation was added by ſome other that liked better therof then of Chryſoſtoms firſt ſenſe. Wherfore (to omit all your vngodly railing meet for ſuch heretiks & traitors as Rhemes ſendeth into England) as our tranſlation is agreeable to the originall text & to the ancient verſiõs & ſenſe of ſome of the ancient fathers, ſo is our expoſition honorable & glorious to God the father & Chriſt his ſonne, & to the holy ghoſt, by whom this epiſtle was indited, and agreeable to the analogy of faith, confirming an article of our faith, that Chriſt deſcended into hell, and ſuffered not only bodily paines, but alſo great ſorow & anguiſh of ſoule, which was neceſſary for our redemptiõ, according to the manifeſt ſcriptures & obeied, as the death of his body was a neceſſary part of his obedience & ſacrifice. And therfore you doe as ignorantly as maliciouſly, ſeparate the ſacrifice of his death from all other his paſſions, as though his ſacrifice was no more but the ſeparation of his body from his ſoule, & that all that he ſuffered beſide in body & minde, was ſuperfluous, ſeeing his death only ſhould be enough for our redemption. Wo be to them therfore that are led by ſuch blinde guides, that either ſee not ſo manifeſt light of truth, or els doe ſo obſtinatly ſtriue againſt it to their vtter condemnation. Where you exhort men to read Caluin & Beza in their commentaries & annotations vpon this place, I wiſh that all men either would or could follow your counſell, & they ſhould ſee that they are farre from ſuch blaſphemies as you moſt blaſphemouſly aſcribe vnto them. And for this queſtion of Chriſts deſcending into hell, I refer ỹ readers as you doe, to that which hath bin written before of this matter.

Rhem. 9. Conſummate.) The full worke of his ſacrifice, by which we were redeemed, was wholy conſummate and accompliſhed, at the yelding vp of his ſpirit to God the Father, when he ſaid, Conſummatum eſt. though for to make the ſame effectual to the ſaluation of particular men, he him ſelf did diuers things, and now doth in heauen, and our ſelues alſo muſt vſe many meanes, for the application therof to our particular neceſſities. See the next Annotation. Chriſt yelding vp the Ghoſt, accompliſhed our redemption. Ioan. 19. 30.

Rhem. 7. 9. Was made to all.) The Proteſtants vpon pretence of the ſufficiencie of Chriſtes Paſſion, & his onely redemption, oppoſe them ſelues guilefully in the ſight of the ſimple, againſt the inuocation of Saincts, and their interceſſion, and help of vs, againſt our penitential workes or ſuffering for our owne ſinnes, either in this life or the next: againſt the merites of faſting, praying, almes, and other things commended to vs in holy writte, and againſt moſt things done in the Church, in ſacrifice, Sacrament, and ceremonie. But this place and many other ſhew, that Chriſtes Paſſion, though it be of it ſelf far more ſufficient & forcible, then the Proteſtants in their baſenes of vnderſtanding can conſider, yet profiteth none but ſuch, as both doe his commaundements, and vſe ſuch remedies and meanes to apply the benefite therof to them ſelues, as he appointeth in his word, or by the Holy Ghoſt in his Church. And the Heretikes that ſay, faith onely is the thing required to apply Chriſtes benefites vnto vs, are hereby alſo eaſily refuted. for we do not obey him onely by beleeuing, but by doing whatſoeuer he commaundeth. Laſtly, we note in the ſame wordes, that Chriſt appointeth not by his abſolute and eternal election, men ſo to be partakers of the fruite of his redemption, without any condition or reſpect of their owne workes, obedience, or free wil: but with this condition alwaies, if men wil obey him, and do that which he appointeth. See S. Auguſtine (or Proſper) to. 7 Reſponſ. Proſperi li. 2. articulo 1 ad obiectiones Vincentij, where he ſaith of the cup of Chriſtes paſſion, It hath in deede in it ſelf, to profite al: but if it be not drunken, it healeth not. Chriſts Paſſion ſufficient for al, but profitable to the only which obey, not by faith only, but by doing as he and his Church commaund.

Fulke. 7. We confeſſe that Chriſtes paſſion profiteth none but ſuch as obey him, and vſe ſuch meanes to apply the benefit therof to themſelues, as he hath appointed by his word, without which, the Holy ghoſt hath appointed nothing in the church of Chriſt. Though in the church of Antichriſt, that which cannot haue a ſhew or colour by wreſting of the word of God, is blaſphemouſly aſcribed to the appointment of the Holy ghoſt. But how are we confuted, that ſay faith is the only thing required to apply Chriſtes benefits vnto vs? You anſwere: For we doe not obey him only by beleeuing, but by doing whatſoeuer he commandeth: ergo, it is not the proper office of faith to apply the benefits of Chriſtes death vnto vs. How hangeth this together? For the Apoſtle ſaith not that obedience is the only meane wherby we apply Chriſtes benefits vnto vs, but that Chriſt is a cauſe of ſaluation to all that obey him, ſo that obedience is a fruit of ſaluation, not a cauſe thereof. Although if you would vnderſtand the obedience of faith and trueth, wherof the ſcripture ſpeaketh, and from whence floweth all other obedience to Gods commandements, we would not contend with you, but that obedience is the only meane on our part, to apply the benefits of Chriſt vnto vs, but on Gods behalfe, the Holy ghoſt is the only meane. Theodoret ſaith: By this meanes he exhorteth them to whom he writeth to continue in faith, and to truſt in the mercy and clemency of the high prieſt. S. Ambroſe alſo vnderſtandeth this obedience to be faith, ſaying: He ſheweth what great gaine his paſſion is, which ſufficeth vnto all beleeuers for eternall ſaluation. The very ſame words hath Primaſius. Finally, you cannot prooue by this place that God chuſeth men to ſaluation, with reſpect of the merit of their works, obedience, free will or faith it ſelfe, but with condition, that he will giue them grace to obey him, & will to beleeue in him, and to doe that he appointeth. Not leauing it to the freedome of mans will, which auaileth to nothing but to ſinne, as S. Auguſtine ſaith ad Boniface, lib. 3. c. 8. And Proſper meaneth, that the cup of immortalitie is drunke by faith onely. For he ſaid before, that they which depart out of the world without faith and the Sacrament of regeneration, are farre from their redemption. Signifying, that faith which is confirmed by the Sacrament of baptiſme in all that be of yeeres, is the onely meane to drinke this cup of immortalitie. But to infants, the ſpirit of God which is alſo teſtified to be giuen by baptiſme, is ſufficient to make them partakers of it. Iuſtification by faith only. Merit. Freewill.

Rhem. 8 11 Inexplicable.) Intending to treate more largely and particularly of Chriſtes or Melchiſedeks Prieſthood, he forewarneth them that the myſterie therof is far paſſing their capacitie, and that through their feeblenes in faith and weakneſſe of vnderſtanding, he is forced to omit diuerſe deepe points concerning the Prieſthood of the new law. Among which (no doubt) the myſtery of the Sacrament and Sacrifice of the altar, called MASSE, was a principall and pertinent matter: which the Apoſtles and Fathers of the primitiue Church vſed not to treat of ſo largely and particularly in their writings, which might come to the hands of the vnfaithfull, who of all things tooke ſo neſt ſcandal of the B. Sacrament, as we ſee Io. 6. He ſpake to the Hebrues (ſaith S. Hierom ep. 126.) that is, to the Iewes, and not to the faithfull men, to whom he might haue beene bold to vtter the Sacrament. And in deede it was not reaſonable to talke much to them of that ſacrifice which was The Apoſtle omitteth to ſpeake of the B. Sacrament as a myſterie then to deepe for the Iewes capacitie.

the reſemblance of Chriſtes death, when they thought not vpon Chriſtes death, it ſelf. Which the Apoſtles wiſedom and ſilence our Aduerſaries wickedly abuſe againſt the holy Maſſe.

Fulke. 8. Sacrifice of the maſſe.

Thoſe things that were hard to be vnderſtood of them, concerning the prieſthood of Melchiſedech, after he hath ſtirred them vp to attention in the ſixt chapter, are all expreſſed in the ſeuenth chapter. And therefore here is no place to foiſt in the ſacrifice of your popiſh maſſe, as one of the things inexplicable. For by as good reaſon the Valentinians, Carpocratians, Manichees, & ſuch other heretiks might ſay, no doubt all their myſteries of wickednesſe were principall & pertinent matters to the prieſthood of Melchiſedech, which were inexplicable. But if the Hebrues were vnmeet, in reſpect of their infirmitie, to heare of the myſteries of the maſſe, were all other churches in the world in the ſame caſe, that no mention of that ſacrifice is made in all the ſcriptures? Of the bleſſed ſacrament of Chriſtes ſupper, the apoſtles and fathers of the moſt ancient church, haue treated as ſufficiently and largely as of any other matter, for the inſtruction of the church. And therfore you doe nothing but ſeeke a corner to hide the impietie & blaſphemie of your maſſe which hath no ground in the holy ſcriptures, nor teſtimony of the ancient fathers. For we ground not only vpon the ſilence of the Apoſtle in this place, but of the ſilence of the Holy ghoſt in all the ſcriptures, and not only of the ſilence of the Apoſtle, but vpon thoſe ſpeeches which the Holy ghoſt hath vttered in this epiſtle and elſwhere which vtterly ouerthroweth your blaſphemous ſacrifice of the maſſe.

CHAP. VI.

He exhorteth them to be perfect ſcholers, and not to neede to be Catechumens againe, 4 conſidering they can not be baptized againe: 9 and remembring their former good workes, for the which God will not faile to performe them his promis, if they faile not to imitate Abraham by perſeuerance in the faith with patience. 20 And ſo endeth his digreſſion, & returneth to the matter of Chriſtes Prieſthod.

WHERFORE intermitting the word of the beginning of Chriſt, let vs proceede to perfection, not againe laying ‖ the foundation of penance frō dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 Of the doctrine of baptiſmes, and of impoſition of handes, and of the reſurrection of the dead, and of eternal iudgement.

3 And this ſhal we doe, if God wil permit.

Heb.10,26. 4 For * it is ‖ impoſſible for them that were once illuminated, haue taſted alſo the heauenly gift, and were made partakers of the holy Ghoſt,

5 Haue moreouer taſted the good word of God, & the powers of the world to come,

6 And are fallen: to be renewed againe to penance, crucifying againe to them ſelues the ſōne of God, & making him a mockerie.

7 For the earth drinking the raine often comming vpon it, and bringing forth graſſe commodious for them by whom it is tilled, receiueth bleſſing of God.

8 But bringing forth thornes and bryers, it is reprobate, and very neere a curſe, whoſe end is, to be burnt.

9 But ‡ we confidently truſt of you, my beſt beloued, better things and neerer to ſaluation: although we ſpeake thus.

10 For God is not vniuſt, that he ſhould forget your worke and loue which you haue ſhewed in his name, which haue miniſtred to the ſainctes and doe miniſter.

11 And our deſire is that euery one of you ſhew forth the ſame carefulneſſe to the accompliſhing of hope vnto the end:

12 That you become not ſlouthfull, but imitatours

THerefore leauing the doctrine of the beginning of Chriſt, let vs go forth vnto perfection, not laying againe the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 Of the doctrine of baptiſmes, and of laying on of hands, and of reſurrection of the dead, and of eternall iudgement.

3 And this will we do, if God permit.

*4 * For it can not be that they which were once lightened, and haue taſted of the heauenly gift, and were become partakers of the Holie ghoſt,* Matt. 22.45. 2.pet.2.20.

5 And haue taſted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come:

6 And they fall away, ſhould be renued againe into repentance, crucifying to themſelues the ſonne of God afreſh, and making a mocke of him.

7 For the earth which hath drunken in the raine that commeth oft vpon it, and bringeth forth herbes, meete for them by whom alſo it is tilled, receiueth bleſſing of God:

8 But that ground which beareth thornes & bryers, is reproued, & is nigh vnto curſing, whoſe end is to be burned.

9 Neuertheleſſe, deare friends, we are perſuaded better things of you, and things which accompany ſaluation, though we thus ſpeake.

10 For God is not vnrighteous, to forget your worke and labor of loue, which ye haue ſhewed toward his name, hauing miniſtred to the ſaints, and do miniſter.

11 Yea, and we deſire that euery one of you doe ſhew the ſame diligence, to the full aſſurance of hope vnto the end,

12 That ye faint not, but be followers of them, imitatours of them which by faith and patience ſhal inherite the promiſſes.

13 For God promiſing to Abraham, becauſe he had none greater by whome he might ſweare, he ſware by him ſelf, Gen.22,16. 14 Saying, * Vnles bleſsing I ſhal bleſſe thee, and multiplying ſhal multiplie thee.

15 And ſo patiently enduring he obtained the promiſe.

16 For men ſweare by a greater then them ſelues: and the end of al their controuerſie, for the confirmation, is an othe.

17 Wherin God meaning more aboundantly to ſhew to the heires of the promiſe the ſtabilitie of his counſel, he interpoſed an othe:

18 That by two thinges vnmoueable, whereby it is impoſsible for God to lie, we may haue a moſt ſtrong comfort. who haue fled to hold faſt the hope propoſed,

19 Which we haue as an anker of the ſoule, ſure and firme, and going in into the inner partes of the vele, 20 Where IESVS the precurſor for vs is entered, made a high prieſt for euer according to the order of Melchiſedec.

them, which through faith and patience inherite the promiſes.

13 For when God made the promiſe to Abraham, becauſe he could ſweare by no greater, he ſware by him ſelfe, 14 Saying, Surely, bleſſing, I will bleſſe thee,* Gen.22. and multiplying, I will multiplie thee.

15 And ſo after that he had taried patiently, he obteined the promiſe.

16 For men verily ſweare by the greater, and an othe of confirmation, is to them an ende of all ſtrife.

17 Wherein God willing more abundantly to ſhew vnto the herres of promiſe the ſtableneſſe of his counſell, confirmed by an othe:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impoſſible for God to lie, we might haue a ſtrong conſolation, which haue fled to hold faſt the hope laid before vs:

19 Which hope we hold as an anker of the ſoule both ſure and ſtedfaſt, an entering in into that thing which is within the vaile:

20 Whither the forerunner is for vs entred, euen Ieſus, after the order of Melchiſedech made a Prieſt for euer.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 1. 9. We confidently.) It is euident by theſe wordes, againſt the Nouatians and the Caluinists, that S. Paul meant not preciſely, that they had done, or could do any ſuch ſinne, wherby they ſhould be put out of al hope of ſaluation, and be ſure of damnation, during their life.

Fulke 1. S. Paul meant not, that the elect among the Hebrewes, either had or could fall away finally from Chriſt, but he declared before, that ſome might ſo fall away from Chriſt, as it was impoſſible for them to be renued by repentance. v.4. Certainty of election.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 2. 1. The foundation of penance.) We ſee hereby, what the firſt grounds of Chriſtian inſtitution or Catechiſme were in the Primitiue Church, and that there was euer a neceſſarie inſtruction and beleefe of certaine points had by word of mouth and tradition, before men came to the Scriptures: which could not treate of things ſo particularly, as was requiſite for the teaching of al neceſſarie grounds. Among theſe points were the 12 Articles conteined in the Apoſtles Creede: the doctrine of penance before Baptiſme: the maner and neceſſitie of Baptiſme: the Sacrament of Impoſition of hands after Baptiſme: called Confirmation: the articles of the Reſurrection, Iudgement, and ſuch like. Without which things firſt laid, if one ſhould be ſent to picke his faith out of the Scripture, there would be madde rule quickly. See S. Auguſtine in expoſit. inchoat. ep. ad Ro. verſus finem. The Apoſtles forme of Catechiſme, and the points therof.

Fulke 2. The Primitiue Church had nothing in their Catechiſme & inſtruction, that was taught by word of mouth, but that which was conteined in the holy Scripture, as all the articles of the Creede, the doctrine of repentance before baptiſme, the maner and vſe of baptiſme, Confirmation by impoſition of handes, and ſuch like. Which doctrine muſt firſt be preached and taught ordinarily, yet ſome haue beene driuen to picke their faith out of the Scriptures, without ſuch ordinarie inſtruction, and made no madde rule at all. Neither doth S. Auguſtine in the place cited, ſay any thing to the contrarie. Sufficiencie of the Scriptures.

Rhem. 3. 4. Impoſſible.) How hard the holy Scriptures be, and how dangerouſly they be read of the vnlearned, or of the proud be they neuer ſo wel learned, this one place might teach vs. Wherat the Nouatians of old did ſo ſtumble, that they thought, and heretically taught, that none falling into any mortal ſinne after Baptiſme, could be receiued to mercie or penance in the Church: and ſo to a contentious man, that would folow his owne ſenſe, or the bare wordes, without regard of the Churches ſenſe and rule of faith (after which euery Scripture muſt be expounded) the Apoſtles ſpeach doth here ſound. Euen as to the ſimple, and to the Heretike that ſubmitteth not his ſenſe to the Churches iudgement, certaine places of this ſame Epiſtle, ſeeme at the firſt ſight, to ſtand againſt the daily oblation or ſacrifice of the Maſſe: which yet in truth make no more for that purpoſe, then this text we now ſtand on, ſerueth the Nouatians: as when we come to the places, it ſhal be declared. The Nouatians (as al Heretikes) made Scripture the ground of their hereſie. Other places make no more for the Proteſtants then this doth for Nouatus. Caluins hereſie vpon this place, worſe then the Nouatians.

The fathers expoſition of this place.

And let the good Readers beware here alſo of the Proteſtants expoſition, for they are herein worſe then Nouatians, ſpecially ſuch as preciſely folow Caluin: holding impiouſly, that it is impoſſible for one that forſaketh entirely his faith, that is, becommeth an Apoſtata or an Heretike, to be receiued to penance or to Gods mercie. To eſtabliſh which falſe and damnable ſenſe, theſe fellowes make nothing of S. Ambroſes, S. Chryſoſtoms, and the other fathers expoſition, which is the holy Churches ſenſe, That the Apoſtle meaneth of that penance which is done before and in Baptiſme. which is no more to ſay, but that it is impoſſible to be baptized againe, and thereby to be renounced & illuminated, to die, be buried, and riſe againe the ſecond time in Chriſt, in ſo caſe and perfect penance and cleanſing of ſinnes, as that firſt ſacrament of generation did yeld: which applieth Chriſtes death in ſuch ample maner to the receiuer, that it taketh away all paines due for ſinnes before committed: and therfore requireth no further penance afterward, for the ſinnes before committed, all being waſhed away by the force of that Sacrament duely taken. S. Auguſtine calleth the remiſſion in Baptiſme, Magnam indulgentiam, a great pardon. Enchirid. c. 64.

The Apoſtle therfore warned them, that if they fell from their faith, and from Chriſtes grace and law which they once receiued in their Baptiſme, they may not looke to haue any more that firſt great and large remedie applied vnto them, nor no man els that ſinneth after Baptiſme: though the other penance, which is called the Second table after ſhipwracke, which is a more painefull medicine for ſinne then Baptiſme, requiring much faſting, praying, and other afflictions corporal, is open not only to other ſinners, but to al once baptized, Hereticke, or oppugners of the truth maliciouſly and of purpoſe or what way ſo euer, during this life. See S. Cyprian ep. 52. S. Ambroſe vpon this place. S. Auguſtine cont. ep. Parmen. l. 2. c. 13. and ep 50. S. Damaſcene li 4. c. 10.

The Sacrament of penance is ready for al ſinners whatſoeuer.

Hiero. ep. 8. ad Demetriad. c. 6

Fulke 3. The wicked peruert al the Scriptures to their owne damnation, though they be neuer ſo plaine, much more if there be any difficultie in them. But hereof we may not gather, that all the holy Scriptures be hard, & dangerous to be read of the vnlearned. Chryſoſtome, exhorting the vnlearned to read the Scriptures, ſaith: All things are cleere and plaine by the holy Scriptures, whatſoeuer are neceſſary are manifeſt. In 2. Theſ. Hom. 3. Againe he ſaith: Our merciful Lord knowing the infirmitie of our will, and apt to fall, hath left vs great medicines in the reading of the holy Scriptures. In Gen. Hom. 12. Againe: The holy Scripture when it will teach ſuch a thing, expounded it ſelfe, and ſuffereth vs not to be deceiued. In Gen. Hom. 13. Againe: The holy Scripture hath no vaile of mans wiſedome, that it may be vnderſtood, but of reuelation of the ſpirite, that the vaile being taken from thence, great game may growe vnto vs thereof. Therefore the Nouatians, if they had bene willing to vnderſtand the truth, might both by the very wordes of the text, & by conference with other places haue ſeene, that not euery particular falling into ſinne after baptiſme, did exclude from mercie & repentance, but only falling away cleane from Chriſt, which is ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt. There be many places in deede, that ſo ſtand againſt the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, as it cannot ſtand with the only ſacrifice of Chriſt, which you can neuer auoid by teſtimonie of Scripture, but by impudent begging of the whole matter in queſtion: that you are the Church, and this is your determination. But Caluines hereſie (you ſay) is worſe then the Nouatians. For he holdeth, that it is impoſſible for him that is an Apoſtata or an Hereticke, to be receiued to repentance or Gods mercie. Verely if he be ſuch an Apoſtata and Hereticke, as the Apoſtle here deſcribeth, that falleth wholy away from Chriſt, not of ignorance nor infirmitie, but of wilfull malice, and in deſpite of God and his truth, he holdeth, as the Apoſtle doth, that it is impoſſible for him to be renued by repentance, and ſo to be partaker of Gods mercy, becauſe God hath manifeſtly pronounced the contrary. Neither is the expoſition of any man to be receiued, that goeth directly againſt the wordes of the text, and the manifold teſtimonies of the Scripture, that the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, is irremiſſible. For it is in vaine to offer hope to them, which cannot hope, becauſe God hath denied it vnto them. And the ancient Fathers, by denying that baptiſme can be repeated, doe meane alſo, that ſuch can not be ſaued, as cannot be ſaued without a ſecond baptiſme, although repentance be open to all, that haue not ſo fallen cleane away, and humbly deſire pardon of their ſinnes. S. Cyprian ep. 52, by many arguments proueth againſt the Nouatians, that ſuch offendors as humbly deſire to be receiued of the Church, are to be admitted by repentance. But Apoſtates (ſayth he) and traitors, or aduerſaries, and enimies that moſte the Church of Chriſt, although they be ſlaine without for his name, yet according to the Apoſtle, they cannot be admitted to the peace of the Church, ſeeing they haue kept neither the vnitie of the ſpirite, nor of the Church. The ſame thing in effect ſayth S. Ambroſe: that it is not an hard matter, but an impoſſible thing, he hath put them out of hope, that they cannot be baptized the ſecond time, and ſo in proceſſe of the matter, alloweth ſinners to repentance, but denieth ſuch as fall away to be renued by repentance, as in baptiſme. S. Auguſtine cont. Parmen. l. 2. Cap. 13 ſpeaking of Apoſtates or reuolters, that returne by repentance, meaneth ſuch as haue reuolted of ignorance and infirmitie, not ſuch of whome the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, that wilfully and maliciouſly renounce Chriſt. Ep. 50. he ſheweth his iudgement of the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, which can neuer be forgiuen. That is hardnes of heart to the end of a mans life, whereby a man refuſeth to receiue forgiuenes of his ſinne in the vnitie of the body of Chriſt, to which the holy Ghoſt doth giue life. And ſuch hardnes of hart is in them, of whō the Apoſtle ſpeaketh. For if any be truly penitent, & with faith and humilitie deſire pardon, he hath not ſinned againſt ỹ holy Ghoſt. Damaſcene alſo, denying that Baptiſme can be repeated vnto renouation, vnderſtandeth, that they that are vtterly fallen from the grace of God teſtified in Baptiſme, can neuer be ſaued. But ſo hath no man fallen, that is truly penitent for his fall, and humbly deſireth forgiuenes of his ſinnes, for ſuch ſhall vndoubtedly obtaine pardon, according to the promiſes of God. Whereas they that haue fallen cleane away, either repent not at all, or els repent as Iudas, without faith, or deteſtation of their ſinne, but onely are ſorowfull for the puniſhment, which they haue deſerued by their ſinne. As for your Popiſh penance that requireth ſatisfaction, and which you offer euen to them that ſinne againſt the holie Ghoſt, is farre from the Apoſtles meaning.

The ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt.

Popiſh penance ſatisfaction.

Rhem. 4. 10. God is not vniuſt.) It is a world to ſee, what wringing and writhing the Proteſtants make, to ſhift them ſelues from the euidence of theſe wordes, which make it moſt cleere to al not blinded in pride and contention, that good workes be meritorious, and the very cauſe of ſaluation, ſo far that God ſhould be vniuſt, if he rendered not heauen for the ſame. Reuera grandis iniuſtitia Dei (ſaith S. Hierom) Si tantum peccata puniret, & bona opera non ſuſciperet. That is, In deede great were Gods iniuſtice, if he would onely puniſh ſinnes, and would not receiue good workes. Li. 2. cont. Iouin. c. 2.

Gods iuſtice in rewarding meritorious workes.

Fulke 4. Theſe wordes make it ſo cleare that good workes be meritorious, that all the Logicians in Rhemes, Paris, Louane, Rome, (where I doubt not, but there be many good Logicians,) yet are they not able to conclude this propoſition in a lawfull Syllogiſme, out of this text. God ſhould be vniuſt, if he kept not his promiſe, which is to reward good works of his mere mercy, not of the merite of the works. But that he ſhould be vniuſt, if he rendered red not heauen for the merit of good works, neither the Apoſtle ſayth, nor S. Hierom, in the place by you cited.

CHAP. VII.

To proue the Prieſthod of Chriſt incomparably to excel the prieſthod of Aaron (and therfore, that Leuitical prieſthod now to ceaſe, and that Law alſo with it) he ſtaieth euery word of the verſe alleaged out of the Pſalme, Our Lord hath ſworne: thou art a Priest for euer, according to the order of Melchiſedec.

Gen.14,18. FOR this ‖ Melchiſedec, the king of Salem, Prieſt of the God moſt high, * who mette Abraham returning from the ſlaughter of the kings, and bleſſed him:

2 To whom alſo Abraham deuided tithes of al: firſt in deede by interpretation, ‡ the king of iuſtice: and then alſo king of Salem, which is to ſay, king of peace,

3 ‖ Without father, without mother, without genealogie, hauing neither beginning of daies nor end of life, but likened to the ſonne of God, cõtinueth a prieſt for euer.

4 And ‖ behold how great this man is, to whom alſo Abraham the Patriarke gaue ‖ tithes of the principal things.

Nu.18,21. Deu.18,1. Ioſ.14,4. 5 And certes * they of the ſonnes of Leui that take the prieſthod, haue commaundement to take tithes of the people according to the Law, that is to ſay, of their brethren: albeit themſelues alſo iſſued out of the loines of Abraham.

6 But he whoſe generation is not numbered among them, tooke tithes of Abraham, and bleſſed him that had the promiſes.

7 But without al contradiction, that which is leſſe, ‖ is bleſſed of the better.

8 And here in deede, ‡ men that die, receiue tithes: but there he hath witnes, that he liueth.

9 And (that it may ſo be ſaid) by Abraham Leui alſo, which receiued tithes, was tithed.

10 For as yet he was in his fathers loines, when Melchiſedec mette him.

11 If then conſummation was by the Leuitical prieſthod (for vnder it the people receiued the Lawe) ‖ what neceſsitie was there yet an other prieſt to riſe according to the order of Melchiſedec, and not to be called according to the order of Aaron?

12 For the prieſthod being ‖ tranſlated, it is neceſſarie that a tranſlation of the Law alſo be made.

13 For he on whom theſe things be ſaid, is of an other tribe, of the which, none attended on the altar.

14 For it is manifeſt that our Lord ſprũg of Iuda: in the which tribe Moyſes ſpake ‖ Prieſthod nothing of ‖ prieſtes.

15 And yet it is much more euident: if according to the ſimilitude of Melchiſedec there ariſe an other prieſt,

16 Which

FOR this * Melchiſedech king of Salem, Gen.14.18. prieſt of the moſt high God, who met Abraham returning from the ſlaughter of the kings, and bleſſed him,

2 To whom alſo Abraham gaue tithe of all things: firſt being called by interpretation king of righteouſnes: and after that alſo, king of Salem, which is king of peace,

3 Without father, without mother, without kinne, hauing neither beginning of daies, neither end of life, but likened vnto the ſonne of God, continueth a Prieſt for euer.

4 Nowe conſider how great this man was, vnto whom alſo the Patriarch Abraham * gaue Num.18.22. tithe of the ſpoiles.

5 And verily they which are of the children of Leui, which receiue the office of the Prieſthood, haue a commaundement to take tithe of the people, according to the lawe, that is, of their brethren, though they came out of the loines of Abraham.

6 But he whoſe kinred is not counted among them, receiued tithe of Abraham, and bleſſed him that had the promiſes.

7 And without all controuerſie, the leſſe is bleſſed of the better.

8 And here men that die, receiue tithes: but there he receiueth them of whom it is witneſſed that he liueth.

9 And (to ſay the trueth) Leui alſo, which receiueth tithes, paied tithes in Abraham:

10 For he was yet in the loines of his father, when Melchiſedech met Abraham.

11 If therefore perfection was by the prieſthood of the Leuites, (for vnder that prieſthood the people receiued the lawe) what needeth it furthermore that another Prieſt ſhould riſe after the order of Melchiſedech, and not to be called after the order of Aaron?

12 For if the prieſthood be tranſlated, of neceſſitie alſo there is made a tranſlation of the lawe.

13 For he of whome theſe things are ſpoken, perteineth vnto another tribe, of which no man gaue attendance at the altar.

14 For it is euident that our Lord ſprong out of Iuda, of which tribe ſpake Moſes nothing concerning prieſthood:

15 And it is yet a farre more euident thing, if after the ſimilitude of Melchiſedech there ariſe an other Prieſt, 16 Which was not made according to the Law of the carnal commaundement, but according to the power of life indiſſoluble.

17 For he witneſſeth, That thou art ‖ a Prieſt for euer, according to the order of Melchiſedec. Pſ.109.4.

18 Reprobation certes is made ‖ of the former commaundement, becauſe of the weakeneſſe and vnprofitableneſſe thereof.

19 For the Law brought nothing to perfection, but an introduction of a better hope, by the which we approche to God.

20 And in as much as it is not without an othe, (the other truely without an othe were made prieſtes:

21 But this ‖ with an othe, by him that ſaid vnto him: Our Lord hath ſworne, and it ſhall not repent him: thou art a prieſt for euer. Pſ.109.4.

22 By ſo much, is IESVS made a ſuretie of a better teſtament.

The Epiſtle for a Confeſſor that is a Biſhop.

23 And the other in deede were made prieſtes, ‖ being many, becauſe that by death they were prohibited to continue:

24 But this, for that he continueth for euer, hath an euerlaſting prieſthod.

25 Whereby he is able alſo for euer ‖ going by him ſelf to God: ‡ alwaies liuing to make intercеſsion for vs.

26 For it was ſeemely that we ſhould haue ſuch a high prieſt, holy, innocent, impolluted, ſeparated from ſinners, and made higher then the heauens.

27 Which hath not neceſsitie daily (as the prieſtes) firſt * for his owne ſinnes to offer hoſtes, then for the peoples. for ‖ this he did once, in offering him ſelf. Leu.9,7.16,6

28 For the Law appointeth prieſts them that haue infirmitie: but the word of the othe which is after the Law, the Sonne for euer perfected.

16 Which is not made after the law of the carnall commaundement, but after the power of the endleſſe life:

*17 For he thus teſtifieth, Thou art a prieſt for euer after the order of Melchiſedech. Pſal.110.4. heb.5.6.

18 For there is truely a diſannulling of the commaundement going before, for the weakeneſſe and vnprofitableneſſe thereof.

19 For the lawe made nothing perfect, but was the bringing of a better hope, by the which we draw nigh vnto God.

20 And inaſmuch as that was not without an othe, (For thoſe prieſtes were made without an othe:

*21 But this Prieſt with an othe, by him that ſayd vnto him, The Lord ſware, and will not repent him, thou art a Prieſt for euer, after the order of Melchiſedech,) Pſal.110.4.

22 By ſo much was Ieſus made a ſuertie of a better Teſtament.

23 And among them many were made Prieſts, becauſe they were forbidden by death to endure:

24 But this man, becauſe he endureth euer, hath an vnchangeable prieſtbood.

25 Wherefore he is able alſo euer to ſaue them to the vttermoſt, that come vnto God by him, ſeeing he euer liueth, to make interceſſion for them.

26 For ſuch an high Prieſt became vs, which is holy, harmeleſſe, vndefiled, ſeparate from ſinners, and made higher then heauens.

27 Which needeth not daily, as thoſe high Prieſtes, to offer vp ſacrifice firſt for his owne ſinnes, and then for the peoples: for that did he once, when he offered vp him ſelfe. Leuit.16.11.

28 For the lawe maketh men high Prieſtes which haue infirmitie, but the worde of the othe which was after the lawe maketh the ſonne, which is perfect for euermore.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. VII.

Rhem.1. 2. The king of.) When the fathers and Catholike expoſitours pike out allegories and myſteries out of the names of men, the Protеſtants not endued with the Spirit whereby the Scriptures were giuen, deride their holy labours in the ſearch of the ſame: but the Apoſtle findeth high myſterie in the very names of perſons and places, as you ſee.

Fulke 1. When the Fathers, or any other, haue the ſame aſſurance of Gods ſpirite that the Apoſtle had, they may be as bold as he was. Otherwiſe, to leaue the plaine truth, and to follow vncertaine allegories, cannot be without reprehenſion, whoſoeuer vſeth it. Allegories.

Rhem.2. 8. Men that die.) The titles giuen to Melchiſedech were not giuen as to a mere mortal man, as al of the tribe of Leui and Aarons order were: but as to one repreſenting the Sonne of God, who now liueth and reigneth and holdeth his prieſthod and the functions thereof for euer.

Fulke 2. Ergo Chriſt is a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, according to his Godhead, and not according to his manhood only. Chriſts prieſthood.

Rhem. 3. 25. Alwaies liuing.) Chriſt according to his humane nature praieth for vs, and continually repreſenteth his former paſſion and merites to God the Father.

Fulke 3. Vpon 1. Tim. 2, 5. you ſaid, No Catholike euer can or dare thinke or ſpeake ſo baſely vnto him, as to deſire him to pray for vs. If you be aſſured by this text, that he praieth for vs, why dare you not thinke or ſpeake ſo baſely vnto him, as to deſire him to pray for you?

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VII.

Rhem.4. 1. Melchiſedec.) The excellencie of this perſon was ſo great, that ſome of the antiquitie tooke him to be an Angel,

and ſome the holy Ghoſt. Which opinion not onely the Hebrues, that auouch him to be Sem the ſonne of Noë, but alſo the cheefe fathers of the Chriſtians doe condemne: not doubting but he was a mere man and a Prieſt and a king, whoſoeuer he was. for els he could not in office and order and ſacrifice haue been ſo perfect a type and reſemblance of our Sauiour, as in this Chapter and other is ſhewed.

Rhem. 3. Without father.) Not that he was without father and mother, ſaith S. Hierom epi. 126: for Chriſt him ſelfe was not without father, according to his diuinitie, nor with out mother, in his humanitie: but for that his pedigree is not ſet out in the Geneſis, as the geneologie of other Patriarches is, but is ſuddenly induced in the holy hiſtorie, no mention made of his ſtocke, tribe, beginning or ending, and therefore in that caſe alſo reſembling in a ſort the ſonne of God, whoſe generation was extraordinarie, miraculous, and ineffable, according to both his natures, lacking a father in the one, and a mother in the other. his perſon hauing neither beginning nor ending, and his kingdome and Prieſthood ſpecially in himſelfe and in the Church, being eternall, both in reſpect of the time paſt, and the time to come: as the ſaid Doctor in the ſame epiſtle writeth.

The reſemblace of Melchiſedec to Chriſt, in many points.

Fulke. The prieſthod and ſacrifice of the new Teſtamẽt & of ỹ Church, is ỹ prieſthood of Chriſt and the ſacrifice of his death onely.

By the ſundry excellencies of Melchiſedecks Prieſthood is proued the excellencie of ỹ Prieſthod and ſacrifice of the new Teſtamẽt.

4. Behold.) To proue that Chriſtes prieſthod farre paſſeth the Prieſthod of Aaron: and the Prieſthod of the new Teſtament, the Prieſthod of the old lawe: and conſequently that the Sacrifice of our Sauiour and the ſacrifice of the Church doth much excell the ſacrifices of Moyſes lawe, he diſputeth profoundly of the preeminences of Melchiſedec aboue the great Patriarch Abraham, who was father of the Leuites.

Rhem. 4. 4. Tithes.) The firſt preeminence, that Abraham payed tithes, and that of the beſt and moſt cheefe things that he had, vnto Melchiſedec, as a duetie and homage, not for himſelfe onely in perſon, but for Leui, who yet was not borne, and ſo for the whole Prieſthod of Leuites ſtocke, acknowledging thereby, Melchiſedec not onely to be a Prieſt, but his Prieſt and Superior, and ſo of all the Leuiticall order. And it is here to be obſerued, that whereas in the 14. of Geneſis, whence this holy narration is taken, both in the Hebrue, and in the 70 it ſtandeth indifferent or doubtfull, whether Melchiſedec payed tithes to Abraham, or tooke tithes of him: the Apoſtle here putteth all out of controuerſie, plainely declaring that Abraham payed tithes to the other, as the inferiour to his Prieſt and Superior. And touching paiment of tithes, it is a naturall duetie, that men owe to God in all lawes, and to be giuen to his Prieſts in his behalfe, for their honour and liuelihod. Iacob promiſed or vowed to pay them, Gen. 28. Moyſes appointed them Leuit. 27. Num. 18. Deut. 12. 14. 26 Chriſt confirmed that duetie Mat. 23: and Abraham ſpecially here giueth them to Melchiſedec: plainely thereby approuing them or their equiualent to be due to Chriſt and the Prieſthod of the new Teſtament much more then either in the Law of Moyſes, or in the law of Nature. Of which tithes due to the Clergie of Chriſtes Church ſee S. Cyprian ep. 66. S. Hierom ep. 1. cap. 7 and ep. 2. cap. 5. to Heliodorus and Nepotianus. S. Auguſtine ſer. 119. de tempore.

He receiued tithes of Abraham, and conſequently of Leui & Aaron.

Fulke. 4. The payment of tythes, as it was a ceremoniall duetie, is abrogated with other ceremonies, by the death of Chriſt. But as it is a neceſſarie maintenance and liuelihod of them that ſerue in the Church, it may be reteyned, or any other ſtipend appointed, that may be ſufficient for their maintenance, be it more or leſſe then the tenth part. But that there is any ſacrificing prieſthod, to whom it is due in the newe Teſtament, the olde payment of tithes doth not proue. Neither did Chriſt himſelfe our high prieſt, euer make claime vnto them: nor his Apoſtles the miniſters of the Church, but onely to a ſufficient liuing by the goſpeel, to be allowed of their temporall goods, to whom they miniſtred ſpirituall goods. 1. Cor. 9. 14. Galath. 6. 6.

Tithes.

Rhem. 5. 7. Is bleſſed of the better.) The ſeconde preeminence is, that Melchiſedec did bleſſe Abraham: which we ſee here S. Paul maketh a great and ſouereine holy thing, grounding our Sauiours prerogatiue aboue the whole order of Aaron therein: and we ſee that in this ſort it is the proper act of Prieſthod: and that without all controuerſie as the Apoſtle ſayth, he is greater in dignitie, that hath auctoritie to bleſſe, then the perſon that hath not, and therefore the prieſtes vocation to be in this behalfe ſweare aboue any earthly king, who hath not power to giue benediction in this ſacred maner, neither to man, nor other creature. As here Melchiſedec, ſo Chriſt bleſſed much more, and ſo haue the Biſhops of his Church done, and doe. Which no man can marueil that our forefathers haue ſo highly eſteemed and ſought for, if he marke the wonderfull myſterie and grace thereof here expreſſed. This Patriarch alſo which here taketh bleſſing of Melchiſedec, him ſelfe (though in an inferior ſort) bleſſed his ſonnes, as the other Patriarches did, and fathers doe their children by that example.

He bleſſed Abraham.

Bleſſing a great preeminence, ſpecially in Prieſtes.

Fulke. 5. If all kind of bleſſing were the proper acte of prieſthod, neither the patriarkes nor parents ſhould lawfully bleſſe their children. But bleſſing with auctoritie, is not proper to Prieſthod: yet to whomſoeuer God hath giuen auctoritie to bleſſe in his name, it is doubtleſſe a great prerogatiue. But the magicall bleſſing of Popiſh Byſhops, with ſhaking their fingers a croſſe, is a vaine thing, not onely becauſe the perſons haue no auctoritie to bleſſe in the name of God, being the miniſters of Antichriſt, & not of Chriſt: But alſo, becauſe it is without inuocation of the name of God, by a ſuperſtitious ceremonie, whereunto God hath giuen no power of conſecration or bleſſing.

Biſhops bleſſing.

Rhem. 11. If conſummation.) The principall propoſition of the whole epiſtle and all the Apoſtles diſcourſe, is inferred and grounded vpon the former prerogatiues of Melchiſedec aboue Abraham and Leui: that is, that the ende, perfection, accompliſhment, and conſummation of all mans duelies and debtes to God, by the generall redemption, ſatisfaction, full price and perfect ranſome of all mankind, was not atchieued by any or all the Prieſtes of Aarons order, nor by any ſacrifice or act of that Prieſthod, or of all the lawe of Moyſes, which was grounded vpon the Leuiticall Prieſthod, but by Chriſt and his Prieſthod, which is of the order and rite of Melchiſedec.

The full accompliſhment of mans redemption was not by Aarons, but by Melchiſedecks Prieſthod.

Rhem. 6. 11. What neceſſitie.) This diſputation of the preeminence of Chriſtes Prieſthod aboue the Leuiticall order, is againſt the erroneous perſuaſion of the Iewes, that thought their law, Prieſthod, and ſacrifices to be euerlaſting, and to be ſufficient in themſelues, without any other Prieſt then Aaron and his ſucceſſors, and without all relation to Chriſtes paſſion or any other redemption or remiſſion, then that which their Leuiticall offices did procure: not knowing that they were all figures of Chriſtes death, and to be ended and accompliſhed in the ſame. Which point well vnderſtood and kept in mind, will cleere the whole controuerſie betwixt the Catholikes and Proteſtants, concerning the ſacrifice of the Church. for, the ſcope of the Apoſtles diſputation being, to auouch the dignitie, preeminence, neceſſitie, and eternall fruite and effect of Chriſtes paſſion, hee had not to treate at all of the other, which is a ſacrifice depending of his Paſſion, ſpecially writing to the Hebrues, that were to be inſtructed and reformed firſt touching the ſacrifice of the Croſſe, before they could fruitefully heare any thing of the other. though in couert and by moſt euident ſequele of diſputation, the learned and faithfull may eaſily perceiue whereupon the ſaid Sacrifice of the Church (which is the Maſſe) is grounded. And therefore S. Hierom ſaith, epiſt. 126: that all theſe commendations of Melchiſedec are in the type of Chriſt, cuius profectus Eccleſiæ ſacramenta ſunt.

Fulke. 6. You are not able to proue, that the Hebrues which were Chriſtians, thought their law of prieſthood and ſacrifice to be ſufficient in themſelues, without all relation to Chriſtes paſſion, or any other redemption or remiſſion, then that which the Leuiticall office did procure: for if they had ſo thought, they coulde not haue been any wayes accompted for Chriſtians. But their errour was, that although there were redemption and remiſſion by the death of Chriſt, yet their lawe, ceremonies, and Leuiticall offices, might ſtill continue. Therefore the Apoſtle, prouing that Chriſt is that onely true Prophet, King, and high Prieſt, vnto whom all the fathers looked by faith, and by whom it behoueth the whole Church to be taught, gouerned and ſanctified, as it was by him ſaued and redeemed: doth thereupon inferre, that all thoſe figures and ſhadowes ought to ceaſe, and that the high prieſthood reſteth onely in the perſon of Chriſt. So that there is no neede of any other propitiatorie ſacrifice, ſeeing Chriſt by his one ſacrifice once offred, found eternall redemption, nor of any other high Prieſt, to be our Mediator, ſeeing Chriſt continueth for euer a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech. And therefore the ſcope of the Apoſtle, vtterly ouerthroweth the popiſh prieſthood and ſacrifice. And where you ſay (the Apoſtles ſcope, being to auouch the preeminence, dignitie, neceſſitie, and eternall fruite and effect of Chriſtes paſſion, he had not at all to treate of the other, which is a ſacrifice depending vpon his paſſion:) You ſpeake without all reaſon: For if your pretended ſacrifice depend vpon his paſſion, and it was his ſcope to auouch the eternall fruite and effect of his paſſion, howe could the Apoſtle omit your ſaid ſacrifice? but that your ſacrifice of the maſſe is no fruite or effect of Chriſtes paſſion. Howbeit, the Apoſtle doth not onely omit to ſpeake of it, but doeth ſpeake much againſt it, prouing by many reaſons, that Chriſt offred himſelfe but once, and that with blood, and at his death, and by that one oblation made perfect for euer all that are ſanctified: whereupon it followeth, ỹ there is no ſuch ſacrifice as you pretend. Your other reaſon why he omitteth to ſpeake of it, (becauſe he writeth to the Hebrues, that were to be inſtructed and reformed firſt touching the ſacrifice of the Croſſe, before they could fruitefully heare any thing of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe) is vaine alſo: exceept you will confeſſe, that there was no maſſe ſaid among them ſince they were conuerted. For if they had the ſacrifice of the maſſe among them, it was as neceſſarie for them to know the ground of it out of the lawe and the Prophets, as of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes paſſion: Which if order required to be firſt handled, yet reaſon would not, that the maſſe ſhould haue beene altogether omitted: yea the other being ſo handled, as they could not ſee what neede they had of maſſe, but rather ſhould be brought into deteſtation of it, if euer before they had vſed it. Of like abſurditie it is that you ſay, the learned and faithfull may eaſily perceiue in couert and by moſt euident ſequell of diſputation, whereupon the ſacrifice of the Maſſe is grounded. For that which may eaſily be perceiued, and by moſt euident ſequell, may be vnderſtood of the vnlearned, and cannot be ſaid to be perceiued in couert. But vnto this Laberinth or maze of wordes, you are driuen, while you ſeeke to ſtop the light of ſo cleare diſputation, as the Apoſtle maintaineth againſt your blaſphemous ſacrifice of the maſſe. S. Hierom ſayth, that all that followeth in the praiſe of Melchiſedech, is referred vnto the type of Chriſt, the profite whereof are the ſacraments of the Church: which nothing toucheth the ſacrifice of the maſſe, but all the myſteries of Chriſtian religion. And S. Hierome in the ſame Epiſtle ſpeaketh of no ſacrifice that Melchiſedech offered in bread and wine: but ſayth according to the trueth of the Hebrue text, He brought forth bread and wine, for the refreſhing of Abraham and his ſouldiers. And rehearſing the opinions of Hippolytus, Ireneus, Euſebius and others, he ſayth, that with bread and wine, being a ſimple and pure ſacrifice, he dedicated the ſacrament of Chriſt. By which ſacrifice, as it ſhall appeare afterward, they vnderſtood not the ſacrifice of the maſſe, but the ſacrifice of prayſe and thankeſgiuing, that the whole Church offereth to God for the redemption of the world, at and in the celebration of the Lords Supper.

Chriſt our onely high Prieſt.

Rhem. 7. 12. Tranſlated.) Note well this place, and you ſhall perceiue thereby, that euery lawfull forme and manner of lawe, ſtate, or gouernement of Gods people dependeth on Prieſthod, riſeth, ſtandeth, falleth, or alſereth with the Prieſthod. In the lawe of Nature, the ſtate of the people hanged on one kind of Prieſthod: in the lawe of Moyſes, of an other: In the ſtate of Chriſtianitie, of an other: and therefore in the former ſentence the Apoſtle ſaid, that the Ieuiſh people or Common wealth had their lawe vnder the Leuiticall Prieſthod, and the Greeke more properly expreſſeth the matter, that they were legitimated, that is to ſay, made a lawfull people or communitie vnder God, by the Prieſthod. for there is no inſt nor lawfull Common wealth in the world, that is not made legall and Gods peculiar, and diſtinguiſhed from vnlawfull Common weales that holde of falſe goddes, or of none at all, by Prieſthod. Whereupon it is cleere, that the newe Lawe, and all Chriſtian peoples, holding of the ſame, is made lawfull by the Prieſthod of the new Teſtament, and that the Proteſtants ſhamefully are deceiued, and deceiue others, that would haue Chriſtian Common-weales to lacke an externall Prieſthod, or Chriſtes death to aboliſh the ſame. for, this is a demonſtration, that if Chriſt haue aboliſhed Prieſthod, he hath aboliſhed the new law, which is the new Teſtament and ſtate of Grace, which all Chriſtian Common-weales liue vnder. Neither were it true, that the Prieſthod were tranſlated with the Law, if all externall Prieſthod ended by Chriſtes death, where the new lawe began. for ſo the Law ſhould not depend on Prieſthod, but dure when all Prieſthod were ended: which is againſt S. Pauls doctrine.

No lawfull ſtate of people without an externall Prieſthood.

Furthermore it is to be noted, that this legitimation or putting Communities vnder Lawe, and Prieſthod, of what order ſo euer, is no otherwiſe, but by ioyning one with another in one homage of ſacrifice externall: which is the proper act of Prieſthod. for, as no lawfull ſtate can be without Prieſthod, ſo no Prieſthod can be without ſacrifice. And we meane alwayes of Prieſthod and ſacrifice taken in their owne proper ſignification, as here S. Paul taketh them. for, the conſtitution, difference, alteration or tranſlation of ſtates and lawes riſe not vpon any metaſion of ſpirituall or metaphorically taken Prieſthod, or ſacrifice: but vpon thoſe things in proper acception, as it is moſt plaine.

Externall Prieſthod neceſſary for the ſtate of the new Teſtament.

Externall ſacrifice alſo neceſſarie for the ſame.

Laſtly, it followeth of this, that though Chriſt truely ſacrificed him ſelfe vpon the Croſſe (there alſo a Prieſt according to the order of Melchiſedech) and there made the full redemption of the world, confirmed, and conſummated his compact, and Teſtament, and the lawe and Prieſthod of this his newe and eternall ſtate, by his blood: yet that cannot be the forme of ſacrifice into which the olde Prieſthod and ſacrifices were tranſlated, whereupon the Apoſtle inferreth the tranſlation of the Lawe. For they all were figures of Chriſtes death, & ended in effect at his death, yet they were not altered into that kind of ſacrifice, which which was to be made but once, and was executed in such a sort, that peoples and nations Christened could not meete often to worship at it, nor haue their Lawe and Priestes constituted in the same. though for the honour and duetie, remembrance and representation thereof, not onely we Christians, but also all peoples, faithfull both of Iewes and Gentiles, haue had their Priesthood and sacrifices, according to the difference of their states. Which kinde of Sacrifices were translated one into an other: and so no doubt is the Priesthood Leuiticall properly turned into the Priesthood and sacrifice of the Church, according to Melchisedecks rite, and Christes institution in the formes of bread and wine. See the next note.

Fulke. 7. All externall priesthod that was before Christ, ordeyned by God, was a figure of the eternall priesthod of Christ, and of the spirituall priesthod of all his members. Therefore the translation of the priesthod, whereof the Apostle speaketh, is from Aarons order to Christ: where it resteth, and from whom it is not translated, or remoued vnto any other, by succession or any other wayes. And the new Testament is established in the sacrifice and priesthod of Christ to be eternall, as he is an eternall priest, and the fruite of his one sacrifice, is euerlasting. Then let vs see, wherein the Protestants are shamefully deceiued, which will haue none other externall sacrificing priesthod, but of Christ, or Christes death to haue abolished all other priesthod offering bodily sacrifice. First, you giue vs a strange kind of demonstration, such as Aristotle neuer taught. If Christ haue abolished priesthod, he hath abolished the new Testament: what cõsequẽce is there in this demõstration? Certeyne it is by the text, that Christ hath translated all externall priesthod of the lawe, vnto his owne person, whereby he hath established the new Testament to be eternall, as his priesthod is eternall: and abolished all other externall priesthod, which cannot stand with his singular and eternall priesthod. Seeing therefore he hath abolished all externall sacrificing priesthod that was before him, and hath instituted none other to succeede in the place thereof, but his owne singular priesthod, how doth it follow that he hath abolished the newe Testament, which could not haue been established, if that old priesthod had not beene abolished? But here you seeme (for lacke of an institution of your popish priesthod) to say, that it is the olde Priesthod, not abolished by the death of Christ: for els, what aduantage is it to you, if Christ haue not abolished all priesthod? We affirme according to the holy scripture, that Christes death hath abolished the Iewish priesthod, not that there should no priesthod succeede, but that all dignitie and holinesse of that priesthod, is translated vnto our Sauiour Christ only, where it shall remaine for euer. Therefore your popish priesthod, supposeth an abolishing of the newe Testament, or an erecting of a third Testament, seeing you affirme, that there can be no law: testament, or gouernement, without an externall priesthod, nor no priesthod without a law, testament or couenant. And your priesthod hath no institution in the old or new Testament, therefore you must bring forth the tables of the third law or testament, by which your priesthod is instituted or established. For if it had any institution in the olde Testament, it was abolished by the newe Testament. If it had any institution in the newe testament, you could bring forth such plaine wordes of institution and consecration thereof, as we see in the old testament of Aarons priesthod, and in the new testament of our Sauiour Christes priesthod, but that all the worlde knoweth you cannot doe. Therefore it remaineth, that your popish priesthod is grounded vpon a third law and testament, which is the lawe and testament of Antichrist, that by your priesthod laboureth to abolish the newe Testament, and eternall priesthood of our Lorde and Sauiour Christ. But let vs followe the rest of your reasons. You adde further, that if all externall Priesthod ended by Christes death where the new law began, the priesthod were not translated with the law: for so the law should not depend on priesthod, but endure when all priesthod were ended. I can see no light of reason in this mishapen argument, except you make no accompt of the priesthod of Christ. For ỹ priesthod of Christ, whereupon the newe Testament dependeth, is neuer ended, but continueth for euer: therefore there is no neede of your popish priesthod, to establish the new law and testament, which is perfect in the singular priesthod of Christ. You proceede to proue, that externall sacrifice, is as necessarie as externall priesthod, because it is the proper act of priesthod. And we acknowledge, that our high Priest hath offered externall sacrifice of him selfe once for all, and found eternall redemption: therefore there remaineth nowe no sacrifice propitiatorie for sinne, but the spirituall sacrifice of praise and thankesgiuing, offered by the whole Church, and euery true member of the same. Neither is there any other homage of sacrifice external, needeful for legitimation of the communitie of the Church, which to offer vp spirituall sacrifices, is made a spirituall house, and holy priesthod 1. Pet. 2. And you say well, that the constitution, difference, or translation of states, riseth not vpon any change of spirituall priesthod or sacrifice: for the Church of Christ, euen vnder the lawe, was a spirituall priesthod, to offer vp spirituall sacrifices Exod. 19. 6. Yet had it an externall priesthod, to offer vp bodily sacrifices, both propitiatorie and eucharisticall. For all which our high Priest Iesus Christ hath offered one externall sacrifice, to sanctifie all his Church for euer, and to abolish all other externall sacrifices propitiatorie and eucharisticall, and hath reteyned onely spirituall sacrifices, which are acceptable to God by his externall propitiatorie sacrifice, in figure whereof, euen the externall sacrifices that were eucharisticall of the lawe, were offered by the priest. Lastly you say most blasphemously, that the sacrifice of Christes death cannot be the forme of sacrifice, into which the old priesthod and sacrifice were translated, whereupon the Apostle inferreth the translation of the lawe: But the Apostle beateth out the braines of this monstrous blasphemie ver. 26. & 27. where he sayth, that our high priest which is holy, innocent, impolluted, separated from sinners, and made higher then the heauens, hath no neede dayly (as those priestes) first for his owne sinnes, then for the peoples to offer sacrifices, for this he did once for all, in offering himselfe. What can be more plaine? That which they did dayly and vnsufficiently in offering the sacrifices of beastes, Christ did once and perfectly in offering himselfe. Therefore the priesthod and sacrifice of Christes death is that forme of sacrifice and priesthod, into which the old priesthod and sacrifice was translated. Againe that sacrifice and priesthod, whereby the new Testament is established, is that whereunto the sacrifice and priesthod is translated, but the singular priesthod of Christ Iesus, which is made suertie of the new Testament, is that whereunto the multitude of priestes of the law is translated vers. 22. 23. and which is established by the bloodshedding of Christ once for all. Heb. 9. Therefore the priesthod & sacrifice of Christes death is that sacrifice and priesthod, whereunto ỹ old sacrifice & priesthod are translated. But let vs see vpon what ground you dare open your mouth to such dishonour of Christes priesthod and sacrifice. Your reason why the sacrifice of Christs death cannot be that forme of sacrifice, into which the old priesthod and sacrifice was translated: is because the sacrifice of Christes death, was made but once, and was executed in ſuch a ſort, that people and nations chriſtened, could not meete often to worſhip at it, nor haue their law and prieſts conſtituted in the ſame. But ſeeing all people and nations chriſtened, were redeemed by that ſacrifice once made for euer, what neede haue they ỹ it ſhould be repeated often? or what neede haue they to be preſent at it, or to worſhip at it? when the time is nowe, that the true worſhippers without externall ſacrifice, muſt worſhip in ſpirit and trueth Ioan.4.23. And Chriſt being liſted vp to ỹ croſſe, hath drawne all vnto himſelfe Ioan.12.32. ſo that they neede none other ſacrifice to approch vnto God, but ỹ only ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. As for the honor, ductie, remembrance, and repreſẽtation thereof, in reſpect of our infirmitie, we haue ſacraments inſtituted by Chriſt, and miniſters appointed to conſecrate, and to deliuer ỹ ſame vnto his people: but no ſacrifice, nor ſacrificing prieſthod. Therefore ỹ ſacrifices, as they were ſacrifices, were tranſlated only into the ſingular ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, as they were ſacraments, into the ſacraments of ỹ new Teſtament. And the ſacrificing prieſthod, was tranſlated into the prieſthod of Chriſt onely, their miniſtration of the ſacraments, into our miniſtration of the ſacraments. But to ſay, that the Leuiticall prieſthod is properly turned into the popiſh prieſthod, and ſacrifice of the Maſſe, according to Melchiſedechs rite, is firſt to deny Chriſt in dying for vs, to be a prieſt properly, according to the order of Melchiſedech: ſecõdly it is to arrogate diuinitie to euery hedge prieſt. For he onely is a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, which is the eternall ſonne of God, the king of righteouſneſſe, the king of peace, without father or mother, without generation, hauing neither beginning of his dayes, nor end of his life, and is but one, and not many. Wherefore to ſay, that the popiſh prieſthod, is properly the prieſthod after Melchiſedechs rite, is vtterly to deny al ỹ the Apoſtle in this chapter, yea throughout this Epi. maketh peculiar to Chriſt. But for your popiſh prieſthod or ſacrifice of ỹ maſſe, you haue Chriſtes inſtitution in the formes of bread and wine: yet Chriſt neuer inſtituted any ſuch prieſthod or ſacrifice in ỹ formes of bread and wine, but a miniſtery of a ſacramẽt in bread & wine. Neither doth any ancient father ſpeake of a ſacrifice in the formes of bread and wine, although many do cal ỹ ſacrament which is celebrated in bread & wine, a ſacrifice vnperly, becauſe it is a remẽbrance of ỹ one only ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, and becauſe the ſpiritual ſacrifice of prayſe & thankeſgiuing is offered therein, not by ỹ miniſter onely, but by the whole Church ỹ is partaker of it.

The popiſh prieſthod.

Rhem. 8. 17. A Prieſt for euer.) Chriſt is not called a Prieſt for euer, only for that his perſon is eternall, or for that he ſitteth on the right hand of God, and perpetually praieth or maketh interceſſion for vs, or for that the effect of his death is euerlaſting: for all this proueth not that in proper ſignification his Prieſthod is perpetuall: but according to the iudgement of all the fathers grounded vpon this deepe and diuine diſcourſe of S. Paul, and vpon the very nature, definition, and proprietie of Prieſthod, and the excellent act and order of Melchiſedec, and the ſtate of the new Law, he is a Prieſt for euer according to Melchiſedecks order, ſpecially in reſpect of the ſacrifice of his holy body and bloud, inſtituted at his laſt ſupper, and executed by his commiſſion, commaundement, and perpetuall concurrence with his Prieſtes, in the formes of bread and wine: in which things onely the ſaid high Prieſt Melchiſedec did ſacrifice. For though S. Paul make no expreſſe mention hereof, becauſe of the depth of the myſterie, and their incredulitie or feeblenesſe to whom he wrote: yet it is euident in the iudgement of all the learned fathers (without exception) that euer wrote either vpon this Epiſtle, or vpon the 14. of Geneſis, or the Pſalme 109. or by occaſion haue treated of the ſacrifice of the altar, that the eternitie & proper act of Chriſtes Prieſthod, and conſequently the immutabilitie of the new law, conſiſteth in the perpetuall offering of Chriſtes body and bloud in the Church.

How Chriſt is a prieſt for euer.

Chriſts eternal Prieſthod conſiſteth in the perpetuall ſacribce of his body & bloud in the Church.

Which things is ſo well knowen to the Aduerſaries of Chriſtes Church and Prieſthod, and ſo graunted, that they be forced impudently to cauill vpon certaine Hebrue particles, that Melchiſedec did not offer in bread and wine: yea and when that will not ſerue, flatnely to deny him to haue been a Prieſt: which is to giue checkmate to the Apoſtle, and to ouerthrowe all his diſcourſe. Thus whiles theſe wicked men pretend to defend Chriſtes onely Prieſthod, they in deede aboliſh as much as in them lieth, the whole order, office, and ſtate of his eternall lawe and Prieſthod.

The Proteſtãs cauilling vpon particles againſt Melchiſedecks ſacrifice and prieſthod, directly againſt the Apoſtle.

Arnobius ſaith, By the myſterie of bread and wine he was made a prieſt for euer. And againe, The eternall memorie, by which he gaue ỹ foode of his body to them that feare him. in pſal.109.110. Lactantius, In ỹ Church he muſt needes haue his eternall prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedec. Lib.14. Inſtitut. S. Hieromo to Euagrius, Aarons prieſthod had an ende, but Melchiſedecks, that is, Chriſtes and the Churches is perpetuall, both for the time paſt and to come. S. Chryſoſtome therefore calleth the Churches ſacrifice, hoſtiam inconſumpubilem, an hoſt or ſacrifice that cannot be conſumed. ho.17. in 9. Heb. S. Cyprian, hoſtiam qua ſublata, nulla eſſet futura religio, in lieu which being taken away, there could be no religion. de cœna Domini. nu.2 Euſſenus, perpetuam oblationem & perpetuò currentem redemptionem, a perpetual oblation and a redemption that runneth or continueth euerlaſtingly. ho.5. de Paſch. And our Sauiour expreſſeth ſo much in the very inſtitution of the B. Sacramẽt of his body and bloud: ſpecially when he calleth the later kind, the new teſtament in his bloud, ſignifying that as the old law was ſtabliſhed in the bloud of beaſts, ſo the new (which is his eternal Teſtament) ſhould be dedicated & perpetual in his owne bloud: not only as it was ſhed on the Croſſe, but as giuen in the Chalice. And therefore into this ſacrifice of the altar (ſaith S. Auguſtine li.17. de ciuit.c.20. S. Leo ſer.8. de paſſione, and the reſt) were the olde ſacrifices to be tranſlated. See S. Chriſts eternal Prieſthod and ſacrifice in the Church is proued out of the fathers.

*Epiſ.126.

*That is, from Adam to the end of the world, repreſented by ſacrifice.

Finally if any of the fathers, or all the fathers, had either wiſedome, grace, or intelligence of Gods wordes and myſteries, it is the trueth. If nothing will ſerue our Aduerſaries, Chriſt Ieſus confound them, and defend his eternall Prieſthod, and ſtate of his newe Teſtament eſtabliſhed in the ſame.

Fulke. 8. You might as wel ſay, ỹ all ỹ the Apoſtle ſaith concerning ỹ external prieſthod of Melchiſedech, is nothing worth without the popiſh prieſthod and ſacrifice of the maſſe, whereof he maketh no mention. O Antichriſt, the Lord, euen the Lord rebuke thee. But according to the iudgement of all the fathers (ſay you) Chriſt is a Prieſt for euer, according to Melchiſedechs order, ſpecially in reſpect of the ſacrifice of his holy body & bloud, inſtituted at his laſt ſupper, and executed by his commiſſion & perpetuall concurrence with his prieſts in the formes of bread and wine. As you neglect whatſoeuer ỹ Apoſtle ſaith of the prieſthod of Chriſt, ſo you faine moſt impudently, ỹ you report of the iudgemẽt of al ỹ fathers: for no one ancient father, before Antichriſt had ſet vp his prieſthod & ſacrifice euer was of ỹ iudgemẽt. Although many of ỹ ancient fathers, wout al groũd of ſcripture, ſought a reſẽblance of the bread & wine which Melchiſedech brought forth, vnto ỹ bread & wine, wherein Chriſt inſtituted his ſacramẽt. But it ought to ſuffice vs againſt ỹ iudgemẽt of al ỹ world, ỹ the holy ghoſt examining all things moſt perfectly, ỹ the ſcripture

The popiſh prieſthod.

Scripture reporteth of the Prieſthod of Melchiſedech, would not leaue out that wherein the Prieſthod of Chriſt moſt eſpecially conſiſteth as you ſay. Therefore Melchiſedechs bread and wine pertained not to his Prieſtly office, neither did he offer it to God, but as S. Hierome ſaith, brought it forth for the refreſhing of Abraham and his ſouldiers, and it pertained to his Kingly liberalitie. Wherein if you would make reſemblance vnto Chriſt, that hath not onely conſecrated vs as a Prieſt by his ſacrifice, but alſo hath ſedde vs a King, with the ſpiritual food of his body and bloud repreſented in bread and wine, whereby we are bound to giue him praiſe and thankes for euermore: You ſhould ſay that which all the ancient fathers doe meane, in their relation of Melchiſedechs bread and wine, to the Sacrament of the body and bloud of Chriſt. But let vs examine the Arguments, vpon which you ſay the ancient fathers grounded their iudgement. Firſt, you ſay, vpon this deepe and diuine diſcourſe of S. Paul, where there is no word of the Sacrament nor of Melchiſedechs bread and wine, but altogether he proueth Chriſt to be a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, by thoſe reaſons, for which you ſay he is not called a Prieſt for euer without your Prieſthod and ſacrifice, whereof he ſpeaketh no word, but much againſt it. Therefore the fathers could ground no ſuch matter vpon the Apoſtles diſcourſe. Secondly, you ſay vpon the very nature, propertie, diffinition of Prieſthod. But either you giue another diffinition of Prieſthod then the Apoſtle knewe, or els the Apoſtle diſcourſeth of Chriſtes Prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech, beſide the nature, propertie, and diffinition of Prieſthod, which none of the auncient fathers would ſay. Therefore they ground not any ſuch iudgement vpon any ſuch pretended diffinition, which the Apoſtle in all his diſcourſe toucheth not. Thirdly, vpon the excellent act and order of Melchiſedech, If the Apoſtle knew wherein the order of Melchiſedech conſiſted, his acte of bringing foorth bread and wine was no part of his Prieſthod, for if it had bene the principall part, (as you pretend) he would neuer haue omitted it. Therefore thoſe fathers were deceiued, that iudged that acte to pertaine to his Prieſthod, although none of them counted it the principall part of his order.

Laſt of all you ſay, they grounded their iudgement vpon the ſtate of the newe Law, but the couenant of the new lawe ſtandeth in forgiuenes of ſinnes by the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, as the Apoſtle proueth at large Cap. 8. 9. and 10. Therefore the auncient fathers, nor any other after them, could iuſtly ground any ſuch Prieſthod and ſacrifice vpon the ſtate of the newe Lawe, which ouerthroweth the vertue of Chriſts onely Prieſthod and ſacrifice. Finally, where you ſay Chriſt inſtituted ſuch a ſacrifice and Prieſthod at his laſt ſupper, you are neuer able to proue it by any word, or conſequence of any word in the Scriptures. But Chriſt (you ſay) inſtituted this Sacrament in the formes of bread and wine, in which things onely the ſaid high Prieſt Melchiſedech did ſacrifice. Firſt, Melchiſedech brought forth bread and wine, and not the only formes of bread and wine, therefore your ſacrifice in the onely formes of bread and wine, is not after his order. Secondly, he offered no ſacrifice of bread & wine, but brought it foorth (as S. Hierom ſaith) for the refreſhing of Abraham and his armie. So ſaith Ioſephus, Antiquit. lib. 1 cap. 10. Melchiſedech gaue liberall entertainment to the ſouldiers of Abraham, and ſuffered them to want nothing to their liking. Which Petrus Comeſt Hiſt. ſcholaſt. in Gen. c. 45. approueth ſaying: Melchiſedech which was king of Salem, offered vnto him bread and wine, which Ioſephus as it were expounding ſaith: he miniſtred to his armie the duties of hoſpitalitie, and gaue him great plentie of things neceſſarie, and beſide the feaſt, or at the feaſt, he bleſſed God which had ſubdued to Abraham, his enemies. For he was a Prieſt of the higheſt God. This writer came not into your minde, when you ſaid all without exception doe ground the eternal Prieſthod of Chriſt vpon Melchiſedechs bread and wine. Thirdly, as you are not able to proue, that he ſacrificed bread and wine, ſo you can neuer proue, that he ſacrificed nothing but bread and wine. Becauſe there is no mention of his ſacrifice in the Scripture. Finally where as you ſay that in the iudgement of all the learned fathers without exception, the eternitie and proper acte of Chriſts Prieſthod, and the immutabilitie of the new Teſtament, conſiſteth in the perpetual offering of Chriſts body and bloud in the Church: it is vtterly vntrue, for not one of the ancient fathers is of that iudgement, or that the naturall body and bloud of Chriſt is offered in the Church, but onely they ſpeake of a ſpiritual offering of praiſe and thankeſgiuing, and a memorial of that one ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, continued in the celebration of the Lords ſupper. Theodoret vpon the 8. of this Epiſtle declareth this euidently in theſe wordes: If therefore both the Prieſthod which is of the Lawe hath taken an ende, and alſo the Prieſt which is after the order of Melchiſedech, hath offered a ſacrifice, and ceaſed that all other ſacrifices ſhould not be neceſſary, why doe the Prieſts of the newe Teſtament celebrate the myſticall liturgie or ſacrifice? But it is cleere to them that are inſtructed in diuine matters, that we offer not another ſacrifice, but do celebrate a remembrance of that one and healthfull ſacrifice. For that our Lord himſelfe hath commaunded vs: Doe you this in remembrance of me, that by beholding of the types or tokens, we might remember thoſe things which he hath ſuffered for vs, and both continue loue towards our benefactor, and alſo wait for the fruition of the good things to come. By this one amongſt ſo many, you may ſee how true it is, that all fathers without exception, iudge the proper note of Chriſtes Prieſthod, to conſiſt in the ſacrifice of the body and bloud of Chriſt in the Maſſe. The ſame Theodoret vpon the Pſalme 109. ſaith, that Chriſt is now a Prieſt which is ſprung of Iuda according to the fleſh, not offering any thing him ſelfe, but is called the head of them which offer, ſeeing he calleth the Church his body, and therefore he exerciſeth the Prieſthod as a man, but he receiueth thoſe things that are offered as God. And the Church offereth the tokens of his body and bloud, ſanctifying all the leauen by the firſt fruites. Marke here, that Chriſt after he hath accompliſhed the propitiatorie ſacrifice in his owne perſon, by offering himſelfe once on the Croſſe, is now a Prieſt on earth alſo in reſpect of his body, which is the Church, to offer the ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing in the Sacrament. Secondly, that the whole Church offereth this ſacrifice. Thirdly, that it is the tokens of his body & bloud, not the ſame in ſubſtance. Fourthly, that which they offer, is the firſt fruits of his creatures, (as Irenæus alſo ſaith) for a ſacrifice of praiſe and thankeſgiuing, Irenæus lib. 4. cap. 32. & 34. The ſame Theodoret vpon the 14. of Geneſis ſaith: Abraham the Patriarke offered to Melchiſedech the tenth of his ſpoyles, and being a iuſt man and the friend of God, receiued bleſſing of him. For hee bare a figure of the Prieſthod of our Lord. And therefore on the other ſide, he gaue to Abraham bread and wine, and a lumpe of floure, as it was the maner for euery man, to offer ſuch things to the God of all. For he perceiued that herein alſo the figure was manifeſted. By this place it is euident, that his meaning is, that as Melchiſedech gaue bread & wine to Abraham, ſo Chriſt gaue to his Church the Sacrament in bread and wine, which as it was offred by euery man to God for a ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing, ſo in the ſacrament of the Church, the ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing is offered by euery true member ber of the Church. But here you ſay, we are inforced impudently to cauil vpon certaine Hebrue particles, that Melchiſedech did not offer bread and wine. It is no enforcement nor impudent cauillation, to appeale to the originall text, that there is no mention that Melchiſedech offered bread and wine, but that he brought it forth. So doth S. Hierome tranſlate it, and ſo doth your owne vulgar latine turne it. S. Hierome ſheweth to what ende he brought it foorth, and ſo doe other of the ancient fathers. And whoſoeuer ſeemeth to ſay moſt for you, doe make onely a figure of the Sacrament, and a ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing in the bread & wine that he brought forth. But when that will not ſerue (you ſay) we are enforced plainly to denie him to haue bene a Prieſt. Verely, the trueth of the Hebrue text will ſerue to the worldes ende, to proue that Melchiſedech offered not bread and wine. But that we plainely denie him to haue bene a Prieſt, whome the Scripture ſaith ſo expreſly to haue bene a Prieſt of the higheſt God, without ſhame you doe ſlander vs: we neuer denied it, neither will we euer by Gods grace denie it, al- Slander.

though we affirme, that his Prieſthod conſiſted not in offering of bread and wine, neither doth the Apoſtle or any text of the Scripture teach any ſuch thing. Thus haue you nothing but monſtrous lies to bleare the eyes of the ignorant, that you may vpholde your blaſphemous ſacrifice and prieſthod, directly againſt Chriſt and the Apoſtles doctrine. But let vs ſee, what you can bring out of mans auctoritie: for you are vtterly forſaken of Gods word both for your prieſthod and ſacrifice. Firſt, Arnobius paſſing lightly ouer the Prieſthod of Chriſt, which is God eternal, meaneth, that he was declared to be a Prieſt for euer, among other things, by the myſterie of bread & wine, as Melchiſedech alone amongſt the prieſts offred bread & wine: he ſaith not, that the eternitie of Chriſts Prieſthod cõſiſteth in the perpetual offring of Chriſts body & bloud, which is your expoſition.

Againe, if Chriſt were made a Prieſt for euer, by the myſterie of bread and wine, your ſacrifice aboliſheth the Prieſthod of Chriſt: for you ſay, that Chriſt offered not bread and wine, therefore not that which Melchiſedech offred. The ſecond place of Arnobius, expoundeth plainly, what he vnderſtandeth by the myſterie of bread and wine, namely the Sacrament of bread and wine, celebrated in remembrance of the ſpiritual foode of Chriſts body and bloud. Therefore his wordes are theſe in Pſ. 110. He hath made a memory of his marueilous workes, ſaying: as often as you ſhall doe theſe things, you ſhall doe them in remembrance of me: When ſaid our merciful and gracious lord this? Then when he gaue the food of his body to them that feare him, & this couenant the Lord will remember for euer, by which he hath declared vnto his people the vertue of his workes. And leaſt you ſhould yet dreame of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, and Popiſh prieſthod whereof he ſpeaketh no worde: he ſaith that al the lawes of the newe Teſtament are fulfilled in Chriſt Ieſus our Lord, and kept in his equitie, when he ſent redemption to his people by his Apoſtles, ſaying, goe and baptiſe all nations, &c. Therefore you may aſwell make Baptiſme a ſacrifice as the Lords Supper, and ſay that the eternal Prieſthod of Chriſt conſiſteth in Baptiſme. Lactantius Inſt. lib. 4. c. 14. ſpeaketh nothing that ſoũdeth to the maintenance of your Popiſh prieſthod & ſacrifice: his words are theſe, ſpeaking of the Church: This is the faithfull houſe, this is the immortall temple, in which whoſoeuer hath not ſacrificed, he ſhal not haue the reward of immortalitie. Of which great and eternal temple, ſeeing Chriſt was the builder, it is neceſſary that he haue therin an eternal Prieſthod. Neither can any man come to the entrance of the temple, and to the ſight of God, but by him which builded the temple. Dauid in the 109. Pſalme teacheth the ſame thing ſaying: Before the morning ſtarre, I haue begotten thee, the Lord hath ſworne, and it ſhal not repent him, thou art a Prieſt for euer, after the order of Melchiſedech. What other thing can be gathered out of theſe words: but that Chriſt hath an eternal Prieſthod in his Church, that al true Chriſtians by him may haue acceſſe to God, and offer there ſpiritual ſacrifices acceptable to God by him. For euery true Chriſtian, as he is a member of Chriſt, is a ſpiritual Prieſt, to offer ſacrifice in the Church, in which whoſoeuer hath not ſacrificed (ſaith Lactantius) ſhall not haue the reward of immortalitie. Therefore of the Popiſh prieſthod and ſacrifice of the Maſſe here is no mention, nor any thing that hath ſo much as any ſhadow of ſuch a matter. S. Hieroms words alſo you falſifie by detraction, as you doe the reſt. For he ſaith: The Apoſtle affirmeth, that the Prieſthod of Aaron, that is of the people of the Iewes, had a beginning and an ende, but that the Prieſthod of Melchiſedech, that is of Chriſt and his Church, is eternall both for time paſt, and for time to come, and had no auctour of it. By theſe wordes it is manifeſt, that Chriſt onely is a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, whoſe Prieſthod is the Prieſthod of his Church, as Aarons was of the Iewiſh temple. And is an eternall Prieſthod without beginning, and had none auctour of it, therefore cannot poſſibly be the Popiſh prieſthod. Chryſoſtome Hom. 17. ad Heb. ſheweth moſt plainly, that the celebration of the Supper is vnproperly called a ſacrifice, Our high Prieſt is he, which offered the ſacrifice which purgeth vs, the ſame we offer now alſo, which was then offered, and cannot be conſumed. But this which we doe, is done in remembrance of that which was done. For doe ye this (ſaith he) in remembrance of me: we doe not offer another ſacrifice, as the high Prieſt, but the ſame alwayes, but rather we celebrate the remembrance of a ſacrifice. Therefore the Sacrament of the body and bloud of Chriſt is not a ſacrifice properly, but a remembrance of the ſacrifice of Chriſt. S. Cyprian ſpeaketh of the groſſe error of the Capernaites, which thought they ſhould eate ỹ fleſh of Chriſt roſted, or ſodden, and cut in pieces. Whereas the fleſh of his perſon (ſaith he) if it ſhould be cut in pieces, could not ſuffice all mankinde, which being once conſumed, it might ſeeme that Religion were loſt, to which no oblation remained any more. What maketh this for the Popiſh Prieſthod or ſacrifice? We know that Chriſts body was not cut in pieces, but offered vpon the Croſſe, to be a ſacrifice: whoſe vertue is alwayes ſufficient for the Religion of Chriſt, and hath no neede of the Popiſh Prieſthod, or the ſacrifice of the Maſſe. The words of Emiſſenus are alſo falſly applied, for that hee ſaith is of the vertue of Chriſtes death, and not of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, or of the celebration of the Lordes Supper: Becauſe he would take away from our ſight his aſſumpted body, and carie it into heauen, it was neceſſarie, that as this day hee ſhould conſecrate vnto vs the Sacrament of his body and bloud, that it might be celebrated continually by a myſterie, which was once offered for a price, that becauſe the perpetuall and vnwearied redemption did runne or continue ſtill for the ſaluation of men, the oblation alſo of that redemption ſhould be perpetuall, and that eternall ſacrifice might liue in remembrance and alwayes be preſent in grace. You ſee therefore that the redemption which runneth or continueth euer, is the effect of Chriſtes paſſion: and that the perpetuall oblation of that redemption, is but a memoriall and teſtimonie of the preſence of that ſacrifice in grace, not in ſubſtance. Neither doth Chriſt in the inſtitution of the Sacrament, expreſſe any ſuch matter as you pretende. For ſaying, the new Teſtament is dedicated in his bloud, he ſpeaketh expreſly of the ſacrifice of his death, where his bloud was ſhed, & not in the Chalice.

S. Auguſtine

S. Auguſtine ſaying, that the ſacrifice of bread and wine after the order of Melchiſedech, hath ſucceeded all the ſacrifices of the olde Teſtament, meaneth not that the Sacrament is that ſacrifice properly, but the body of Chriſt offred on the Croſſe, whereof the Sacrament is a memorial in bread and wine. For cap. 17. he ſaith: That which Melchiſedech offered when he bleſſed Abraham, is offered every where under Chriſt our Prieſt. What is that I pray you but bread and wine, as a figure of Chriſts body and bloud? Therefore he ſpeaketh of it moſt clerely, Oecolampatrium, quæſt. 61. He is our Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchiſedech, which offered himſelfe a whole ſacrifice for vs, and hath commanded the ſimilitude of that ſacrifice, to be celebrated in remembrance of his Paſſion. ſo that we ſee that which Melchiſedech offered to God, to be now offred through out the whole world in the Church of Chriſt. Againe I ſay, what did Melchiſedech offer, but bread and wine? not the naturall body & bloud of Chriſt. Therefore S. Auguſtine meaneth plainly, that bread and wine is offred in the Church in remembrance of his Paſſion, not the natural body and bloud of Chriſt. As alſo he ſaith, De ciuit. lib. 10. c. 20. Hee is the Prieſt himſelfe, he is the offerer, he is the oblation, whereof he would haue the daily ſacrifice of the Church to be a Sacrament, ſeeing that of her body hee is the head, and of his head ſhe is the body, as well ſhe by him, as he by her, being accuſtomed to be offered. You ſee not onely, that this ſacrifice is a Sacrament, (that is an holy ſigne and memorial of Chriſts death) but alſo that the Church is as wel offred therein by Chriſt, as Chriſt by the Church, which muſt needes be vnderſtoode of a ſpirituall oblation of praiſe and thankeſgiuing, not of propitiation. Leo ſpeaketh manifeſtly of the death of Chriſt, and not of the Sacrament, as I haue ſhewed in Luke 22. Sect. 5. where alſo I haue anſwered to the place of Cyprian. Ep. 63. S. Ambroſe de ſacramentis lib. 5. c. 4. ſaith, So often as the ſacrifice is offered, the death of our Lord, the reſurrection of our Lord is ſignified and remiſſion of ſinnes. Theſe words declare, in what ſenſe he calleth the celebration of the ſacrament a ſacrifice: namely, becauſe thereby is ſignified the death, reſurrection, and aſcenſion of Chriſt, and remiſſion of ſinnes. Not that Chriſtes body is truely ſacrificed for remiſſion of ſinnes. Auguſt. in Pſal. 33. Con. 2. ſaith, that Chriſt did in his body and bloud, inſtitute a ſacrifice after the order of Melchiſedech. What that was, you haue heard him explane himſelfe in other places. Hierom. Epiſt. 17. ſaith in the perſon of Paula and Euſtochium, That Melchiſedech offered bread and wine in a figure of Chriſt, and dedicated the Chriſtian myſterie in the body and bloud of our Saviour. Here is nothing, but that Melchiſedechs bread and wine was a figure of Chriſt, and the Sacrament of his body and bloud giuen in bread and wine. Epiphanius Hæreſ. 55. ſaith of Chriſts Prieſthod: Hee offereth to his father a Prieſthod having received ſubſtance of mans nature, that he might be made a Prieſt for vs after the order of Melchiſedech, which hath no ſucceſſion. For he remaineth for ever, offering gifts for vs. And firſt he offered himſelf, that he might diſſolue the ſacrifice of the olde Teſtament, ſeeing he hath offered a more perfect and liuing ſacrifice for the whole world, himſelf being the temple, himſelfe the ſacrifice, himſelfe the Prieſt, himſelfe the altar, himſelfe God, himſelfe man, himſelfe king, himſelfe high Prieſt, himſelfe the ſhepe, himſelfe the lambe, being made all in all for vs, that he might be made like to vs by all meanes, & might perfourme the immutable ſtedfaſtnes of his Prieſthod for euer, no more diuiding ſucceſſions according to ſeede or generation, but graunting it to be preſerued according to iuſtice, or iuſtification in the holy Ghoſt. This place ſheweth manifeſtly, that Chriſt is a Prieſt according to the order of Melchiſedech, in his owne perſon onely, wherein he offred ſacrifice propitiatorie for our redemption on the Croſſe: and hath no ſucceſſion in that office: although he ſay before, that from Chriſt vntill now, the tranſlation of that Prieſthod continueth in the Church, which the ſeede is not choſen according to ſucceſſion, but a figure is ſought according to vertue. Meaning, that the Miniſterie of the Church, is not the Prieſthod it ſelfe, but a figure of it, to diſpenſe the vertue thereof by preaching of the word, and miniſtration of the Sacraments. The reſt of the places quoted, be all examined and anſwered before. By all which you may ſee, how true it is, that theſe ſhameleſſe heretikes affirme of all the auncient fathers, and what cauſe they haue to beſtowe their Popiſh prieſtly bleſſing vpon vs, becauſe they can not ſatisfie vs with lies, and falſe wreſting of the fathers from their true meaning. But their bleſſing ſhall returne into their owne boſome: and the eternall Prieſthod of Chriſt, and the ſtate of the newe Teſtament ſhall alwayes continue, when Antichriſt with his blaſphemous prieſthod and ſacrifice ſhalbe aboliſhed.

Rhem. 9. 18. Of the former commandement.) The whole law of Moyſes containing all their old Prieſthod, ſacrifice, ſacraments, and ceremonies, is called the Old commandement: and the new Teſtament containing the ſacrifice of Chriſtes body and bloud, and all the ſacraments and graces giuen by the ſame, is named the New mandatum: for which our fathers called the Thurſday in the holy weeke Maundy thurſday, becauſe that in it, the new law and Teſtament was dedicated in the Chalice of his bloud: the old mandatum, law, Prieſthod, and ſacrifices, for that they were inſufficient and vnperfect, being taken away: and this new ſacrifice, after the order of Melchiſedec, giuen in the place thereof.

The old commandement, and the new. Maundy thurſday why ſo called.

Fulke. 9. An high myſterie reueiled, why thurſday before Eaſter is called Maunday thurſday. And yet I thinke you are able to bring litle proofe of it. For a more Popiſh name it had, being called Sheare thurſday, becauſe Prieſts and Clearkes, muſt ſhaue their crownes as that day, as the Engliſh feſtiuall ſaith. That charitie is called Chriſtes new Commandement we reade often in the Scripture, that the inſtitution of the Supper is ſo called, the Scripture ſaith not any where. Therefore whether the common people called that day Maunday thurſday of the latine word mandatum, or of Maundes and baskets, in which was brought to the Church the prouiſion of the feaſt which they had in the Church, or of the word mando or manduco that ſignifieth to eate, or of whatſoeuer, it ſkilleth not. But we are aſſured that our Sauiour Chriſt inſtituted his Supper, as a ſeale or pledge of the grace of the new Teſtament, which was confirmed by his bloud that was ſhedde on the croſſe for remiſſion of ſinnes, whereof the cuppe is a Sacrament, and that the old lawe was not taken away by inſtitution of the Sacrament, but by the ſacrifice of Chriſt vpon the croſſe. For in the bread and wine of Melchiſedech, (although we ſhould graunt it to haue bene a figure of the Sacrament,) there was no ſhedding of bloud, without which there is no remiſſion of ſinnes. Therefore Chriſtes Prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedech, conſiſteth not in the inſtitution or miniſtration of the Sacrament, but in bleſſing or conſecrating of his Church, by the bloud of the ſacrifice of his death. For other ſacrifice propitiatorie, the Scripture doeth not declare that Chriſt offered. And yet the blaſphemous Papiſts are not afraide to ſay and write, that Chriſtes ſacrifice on the croſſe was not after the order of Melchiſedech, but after the order of Aaron. Hoſkin. lib. 1. c. 13. directly contrary to the whole diſcourſe of the Apoſtle in this Chapter.

The Popiſh Prieſthod.

19. The

Rhem. 10 19. The introduction.) Euer obſerue, that the abrogation of the old Law, is not an aboliſhing of al Prieſthod, but an introduction of a new, containing the hope of eternal things, where the old had but temporal. The introduction of a new Prieſthod.

Fulke. 10 The newe Prieſthod that ſucceedeth the olde, is the eternall Prieſthod of Chriſt. The fathers that liued vnder the Lawe, had hope of eternal things as we haue, but not by the Lawe, but by faith in Chriſt, vnto whom the Lawe (euen then alſo) was an introduction.

Rhem. 11 21. With an othe.) This othe ſignifieth the infallible and abſolute promis of the eternitie of the new Prieſthod and ſtate of the Church: Chriſt by his death, and bloud ſhed in the ſacrifice of the Croſſe, confirming it, ſealing it, and making him ſelf the ſurety and pledge thereof. For though the new Teſtament was inſtituted, giuen, and dedicated in the Supper, yet the warrant, confirmation, and eternal operation therof, was atchieued vpon the Croſſe, in the one oblation and one general and euerlaſting redemption there made. The eternitie of the newe Prieſthod confirmed by the fathers othe, and Chriſts paſſion.

Fulke 11. This othe confirmeth the eternall Prieſthod of Chriſt onely, which is the eternall Sonne of God, ſitting on the right hand of God the father. And perteineth to none other, but onely to him of whom the Pſalme 110. is made, where the Prophet ſaith: The Lord ſaid vnto my Lord, ſit thou on my right hand, vntill I make thine enemies thy footeſtoole. Wherefore Antichriſt cannot vſurpe the Prieſthod of Chriſt according to the order of Melchiſedech, which is to be both a King and a Prieſt, except he will arrogate the whole Pſalme to himſelfe & his members. For to whom God ſware and ſaid, Thou art a Prieſt for euer, to him he ſaid, ſit thou on my right hand, and the reſt that followeth in the Pſalme, and he is Dauids ſonne & Lord, which is none other, but our Sauiour Chriſt, of whom the Pſalme is to be expounded. For although Dauid had many ſonnes, yet Chriſt only was his Lord, becauſe he was God. Antichriſt therefore graunting to his ſhauelings the Prieſthod of Melchiſedech, which is proper to Chriſt both God and man, & preferring himſelfe ſo much before thoſe vile creatures of his, aduanceth himſelfe aboue all that is called God, or worſhipped. Finally, the ſacrifice of Chriſts death was the act of his eternal Prieſthod, whereby the new Teſtament was eſtabliſhed, and no Popiſh Prieſthod or ſacrifice. And here marke the impudencie of theſe heretikes, which ſo boldly auouch, that their prerended ſacrifice in formes of bread and wine, was the proper acte of Chriſtes Prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedech, and that both it, and the immutabilitie of the new Lawe conſiſteth in it, yet now are driuen to confeſſe, that ſacrifice to haue bene vnperfect, without the ſacrifice of Chriſts death. Which when they affirme to be after Aarons order, it followeth, that a ſacrifice after Aarons order, eſtabliſheth the ſacrifice after Melchiſedechs order, and ſo the newe Teſtament doeth not take away the olde, but the olde giueth perfection, confirmation, and eternall operation vnto the newe. But vnto theſe abſurdities, and blaſphemies, they muſt needes be driuen that maintaine their owne glorie, againſt the glorie of Chriſt. The Popiſh antichriſtian prieſthod. Antichriſt.

Rhem. 12 23. Being many.) The Proteſtants not vnderſtanding this place, feine very fooliſhly, that the Apoſtle ſhould make this difference betwixt the old ſtate and the new: that in the old, there were many Prieſts: in the new, none at all but Chriſt. which is againſt the Prophet Eſay, ſpecially propheſying of the Prieſts of the new Teſtament (as S. Hierom declareth vpon the ſame place) in theſe wordes, You ſhal be called the * Prieſts of God: the * miniſters of our God, ſhal it be ſaid to you: and it taketh away al viſible Prieſthod, and conſequently the Lawful ſtate that the Church and Gods people haue in earth, with al Sacraments and external worſhip. By the compariſon of many prieſts, & one, is not meant that there is but one Prieſt of the new Teſtament.

Eſa. c. 61. * ἱερεῖς * λειτουργοὺς.

The Apoſtle then meaneth firſt, that the abſolute ſacrifice of conſummation, perfection, and vniuerſal redemption, was but one, once done, and by one onely Prieſt done, and therefore it could not be any of the ſacrifices, or al the ſacrifices of the Iewes law, or wrought by any or by all of them, becauſe they were a number at once, and ſucceding one an other, euery of their offices and functions ending by their death, and could not worke ſuch an eternal redemption as by Chriſt onely was wrought vpon the Croſſe. Secondly, S. Paul inſinuateth thereupon, that Chriſt neuer loſeth the dignitie or practiſe of his eternal Prieſthod, by death nor otherwiſe, neuer yeldeth it vp to any, neuer hath ſucceſſors after him, that may enter into his roome or right of Prieſthod, as Aaron and al other had in the Leuitical Prieſthod, but that him ſelf worketh and concurreth with his miniſters the Prieſts of the new Teſtament, in al their actes of Prieſthod, as wel of ſacrifice as Sacrament, bleſſing, preaching, praying, and the like whatſoeuer. This therfore was the fault of the Hebrues, that they did not acknowledge their Leuitical ſacrifices and Prieſthod to be reformed and perfited by Chriſtes ſacrifice on the Croſſe: and againſt them the Apoſtle only diſputeth, and not againſt our Prieſts of holy Church, or the number of them, who al confeſſe their Prieſthod and al exerciſes of the ſame, to depend vpon Chriſtes onely perpetual Prieſthod. The meaning is, that the abſolute ſacrifice of eternal redemption could not be done by thoſe many Aaronical prieſts but by one only, Chriſt Ieſus: who liueth a Prieſt for euer, hath no ſucceſſor, & as theſe prieſt, worketh and concurreth with al Prieſts in their prieſtly functions.

Fulke 12. When the Scripture is moſt plaine and euident for vs, then theſe wiſe profound learned men of Rhemes doe impute vnto vs fooliſhnes, ignorance, want of learning, for applying them to the ouerthrowe of their hereſies. But to the matter, we doe not faine, but the Apoſtle in plaine words doeth make this difference betweene the old Prieſthod and the new: that in the old there were many, in the new there is but one, which continueth for euer. But that (ſay you) is againſt the Prophet Eſay, ſpecially propheſying of the prieſts of the new Teſtament. You might aſwell ſay, it is againſt S. Peter. 1 Pet. 2. and S. Iohn. Apoc. 1. affirming, that all true Chriſtians as members of Chriſt their head, are a ſpiritual Prieſthod, and are ſpiritual Kings and Prieſtes. For of ſuch ſpeaketh the Prophet Eſay, and not of Popiſh Prieſtes, nor of the Miniſters of the Goſpel onely: except you will ſay, that none other appertaine to the Church of Chriſt. Neither doeth Hierom declare, that he propheſieth of the Prieſts of the new Teſtament, when he ſaith: It ſignifieth the Princes of the Churches, or at leaſt wiſe it is to be vnderſtood of the Apoſtles. For neither the Princes of the Churches are, nor the Apoſtles were ſacrificing Prieſts: But as he ſaith afterwarde, You ſhall be called Prieſtes and Miniſters of God, ſuch as the ſonnes of Dauid were, of whome the Scripture ſaith: The ſonnes of Dauid were Prieſtes of God. Nowe it is well knowen, the ſonnes of Dauid were no ſacrificing Prieſtes. Therefore S. Hierom meaneth not by Prieſts, ſacrificing Prieſts, but ſpiritual Prieſtes, ſuch as all true Iſraelites are, and the gouernours of the Church eſpecially. So doeth Cyrillus expound the place of the whole Church generally, and particularly of the teachers thereof. This ſpeach (ſaith he) is had as it were vnto the Church, whoſe ſheepe may be vnderſtoode the whole multitude of them that are ſaued by faith. Your other fond petition of the principle, I haue anſwered before, Sect. 7. Then touching the Apoſtles meaning, you ſay, the abſolute ſacrifice of conſummation, perfection, and vniuerſall redemption, was but one, once done, and by one holy Prieſt. What needs then haue we of any other ſacrificing Prieſt, but that one?

Secondly,

Secondly you ſay S. Paul inſinuateth, that Chriſt neuer loſeth the dignitie or practiſe of his eternall prieſthood, by death reſignation, ſucceſſion or otherwiſe. Then it foloweth, that as he was firſt onely one, ſo he remaineth for euer one ly prieſt, and ſeeing his ſacrifice of redemption, was but one, and once done, the practiſe of his prieſthod conſiſteth not, in repeating or often doing thereof. But (you ſay) himſelfe worketh and concurreth with his miniſters, the prieſts of the new Teſtament, in al their actes of prieſthod, aſwel of ſacrifice as ſacrament, bleſſing, preaching, praying, and the like whatſoeuer. In actes of there miniſterie he concurreth, but prieſthod and ſacrifice, is the matter in queſtion. For he cannot be the onely prieſt (if they be many) by concurring in the actes of there prieſthod and ſacrifice. For he did concurre in the actes of the prieſthod, and all the ſacrifices of the Law, that were faithfully and rightly offred. Yet were the prieſtes of the law many, beſide him. So that if there be many prieſtes of the new Teſtament, there is no difference betwene the new Teſtament and the old, the prieſthod of Aaron, and the prieſthod of Melchiſedech, in that they were many, and Chriſt is but one. Therefore, this ſhift of concurrence, cannot throud the multitude of popiſh prieſtes from vſurpation of Chriſtes office, and prerogatiue. For the Apoſtle writeth, not onely againſt the error of the Hebrewes, but againſt al hereſies, that goe about to derogate any thing, from the ſinguler prieſthod of our Sauiour Chriſt. Neither wil it ſerue the popiſh prieſts to confeſſe, that there prieſthod, and all exerciſes of the ſame, doth depend vpon Chriſtes onely perpetual prieſthod. For the ſame might the Hebrewes iuſtly confeſſe, aſwell of the prieſthod of Aaron, & al exerciſes of the ſame, which were not otherwiſe auailable, but as they depended vpon Chriſtes onely perpetual prieſthod. Yet the Apoſtle maketh this difference. They were many, Chriſt is but one.

Rhem. 13 27. This did he once.) This is the ſpecial preeminence of Chriſt, that he offereth for other mens ſinnes onely, hauing none of his owne to offer for, as all other Prieſts both of the old and new law haue. And this againe is the ſpecial dignitie of his owne perſon, not communicable to any other of what order of Prieſthod ſoeuer, that he by his death (which is the onely oblation that is by the Apoſtle declared to be irreiterable in it ſelfe) paied the one full ſufficient ranſom for the redemption of all ſinnes.

Fulke. 13 Chriſt offered but once for ſinnes, and found eternall redemption, therefore he offred not any ſacrifice in his ſupper, for ſinnes, nor inſtituted any ſuch ſacrifice to be reiterated. Wherefore it is vnpoſſible, for the popiſh prieſthod and ſacrifice of the maſſe, to ſtand with the truth of this text. Chriſts one ſacrifice once offred.

CHAP. VIII.

Out of the ſame Pſalme 109 he vrgeth this alſo, Sit thou on my right hand, ſhewing that the Leuitical tabernacle on earth, was but a ſhadow of his true Tabernacle in heauen; without which he ſhould not be a Prieſt at all: 6 Whereas he is of a better Prieſthod then they, as alſo he proueth by the excellencie of the new Teſtament aboue the old.

BVT the ſumme concerning thoſe things which be ſaid, is: We haue ſuch an high prieſt, who is ſette on the right hand of the ſeate of maieſtie in the heauens,

2 A miniſter of the holies, and of the true tabernable, which our Lord pight and not man.

3 For euery high prieſt is appointed to offer giftes and hoſtes, wherefore it is neceſſarie that he alſo haue ſome thing that he may offer.

4 If then he were vpon the earth, neither were he a prieſt: whereas there were that did offer giftes according to the Law,

6 But now he hath obtained a better miniſterie, by ſo much as he is mediatour of a better teſtament, which is eſtabliſhed in better promiſes.

7 For ‡ if that former had been void of fault, there ſhould not certes a place of a ſecond been ſought.

But of the thinges which we haue ſpoken this is the ſumme: We haue ſuch an high prieſt, that ſitteth on the right hand of the throne of the maieſtie in the heauens,

3 For euery hygh prieſt is ordeyned to offer giftes and ſacrifices: Wherefore it is of neceſſitie, that this man haue ſomewhat alſo to offer.

4 For he were not a prieſt, if he were on the earth, ſeeing that there are prieſtes, that according to the law offer gifts,

9 Not according to the teſtament which I made to their fathers in the day that I tooke their hand to bring them out of the land of Ægipt: becauſe they did not continue in my teſtament: and I neglected them: ſaith our Lord.

10 For this is the teſtament which I will diſpoſe to the houſe of Iſrael after thoſe daies, ſaith our Lord: Giuing my lawes ‖ into their minde, & in their hart will I ſuperſcribe them: and I will be their God, and they ſhal be my people.

11 And euery one ‖ ſhall not teach his neighbour, and euery one his brother, ſaying Know our Lord. becauſe al ſhal know me from the leſſer to the greater of them:

12 Becauſe I will bee mercifull to their iniquities, and their ſinnes I will not now remember.

13 And in ſaying a newe, the former he hath made olde. And that which groweth auncient and waxeth old, is nigh to vtter decay.

finiſh vpon the houſe of Iſrael, and vpon the houſe of Iuda, a new couenant:

9 Not like that, that I made with their fathers, in the day when I tooke them by the hand, to leade them out of the land of Ægipt: becauſe they continued not in my couenant, and I regarded them not, ſayth the Lord.

10 For this is the couenant that I will make with the houſe of Iſrael after thoſe dayes, ſayth the Lorde: giuing my lawes into their minde, and in their heart I will write them, and I will be to them a God, and they ſhall be to me a people, 11 And they ſhal not teach euery man his neighbour, and euery man his brother, ſaying, Know the Lord: for all ſhall knowe me, from the litle of them, to the great of them.

12 For I will be merciful to their vnrighteouſneſſe, and their ſinnes and their iniquities will I thinke vpon no more.

13 In that he ſaith a new couenant, he hath worne out the firſt: for that which is worne out and waxed old, is ready to vaniſh away.

V. 27. but feeding vs continually, with the vertue of that ſacrifice, that being incorporate vnto him, we might alwaies continue members of his body. The vertue of Chriſtes ſacrifice eternal.

Rhem. 2. If that former.) The promiſes and effectes of the Law were temporall, but the promiſes and effectes of Chriſtes Sacraments in the Church be eternall.

Fulke. 2. The promiſes and effects of the old teſtament, were imperfect (though they were of eternal things,) without the accompliſhment of Chriſts prieſthood in the new teſtament, where vnto they had relation.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VIII.

3. Neceſſarie that he alſo.) Euen now being in heauen, becauſe he is a Biſhop and Prieſt, he muſt needes haue ſomewhat to offer, and wherein to do ſacrifice: and that not in ſpiritual ſort onely, for that could not make him a Prieſt of any certaine order. And it is moſt falſe and wicked, to hold with the Caluiniſtes, that Melchiſedecks Prieſthod was wholy ſpiritual. For then Chriſtes death was not a corporal, external, viſible, and truely named ſacrifice: neither could Chriſt or Melchiſedec be any otherwiſe a Prieſt, then euery faithful man is: which to hold (as the Caluiniſts following their owne doctrine muſt needes do) is directly againſt the Scriptures, and no leſſe againſt Chriſts one oblation of his body vpon the Croſſe, then it is againſt the daily ſacrifice of his body vpon the altar. Therefore he hath a certaine hoſt in external and proper manner, to make perpetual oblation thereby in the Church: for, viſible and external act of ſacrificing in heauen he doth not exerciſe.*

Rhem. 3. Chriſts prieſthod & ſacrifice is eternal, not ſpiritual only.

* Beſa ſchol. Teſt. Gracolat. in c. 7. Heb. num 8.

Fulke. 3. The Apoſtle ſayth not, that Chriſt muſt offer ſacrifice in heauen: but the truth of the text is, Seeing euery prieſts hath gifts to offer, it is neceſſary, ὁθεν that he hath ſomewhat which he offred: for the verbe προσενεγκῃ is not of the preſent time, but of the time paſt, and ſignifieth the oblation which he offred but once c. 7. 27. So doth Theodoret expound the text, ſaying: It is the propertie of an high prieſt, to offer giftes to the God of all things. For this cauſe, the onely begotten ſonne, being made man, when he had taken vpon him our nature, he offred the ſame for vs. Chryſoſtome alſo Hom. 14. ad Heb. vpon this text, ſayth. Becauſe ſome asked, wherefore he dyed, he ſayeth, becauſe he was an high prieſt. For an high prieſt is not without a ſacrifice. Chriſts onely prieſthod and ſacrifice.

S. Ambroſe likewiſe, referreth his offering to his onely oblation on the croſſe, ſaying. It is neceſſarie that our ſauiour in the daies of his fleſh had ſomething to offer for vs. For while in the eternal nature of his godhead he had nothing which he might offer he tooke of vs that which he might offer for vs, that is his mans fleſh. For what is ſo apt for ſacrifice, as mortal fleſh for mortal men? The ſame wordes in effect, hath Primaſius ſaying, he tooke of vs, that he offred for vs, that is mans fleſh, namely himſelfe, whom he offred in the aultar of the croſſe. Oecumenius ſaith He had his owne fleſh, which alſo he offred. Theophylact ſayth. He hath al things proper to the high prieſts, as they offer, ſo he offred himſelfe. Againe. Seeing he was a prieſt and a prieſt is not without a ſacrifice, it is neceſſary, that he alſo had ſomething to offer. And that was nothing, but his owne body, therefore it was neceſſarie, that he dyed. Againſt this general conſent of al the ancient interpretors, you faine, that Chriſt offreth a ſacrifice propitiatory, now being in heauen. And you do vnhoneſtly ſlander Caluin, and Beza, to hold that Melchiſedichs prieſthod was onely ſpiritual,as the ſpirituall preſthood of all the faithfull is,for they hold no ſuch thing. But that Melchiſedechs preeſthood was figuratiue,hauing a ſpiritual relation, to Chriſtes eternal preeſthood. Finally,as Chriſt doth not exerciſe any viſible or externall act of ſacrificing in heauen, ſo much leſſe, doth he exerciſe any viſible or externall act of ſacrificing on earth. Neither by this text, hath he any ſuch certaine hoſt, in externall or proper maner, to make perpetuall oblation thereby in the Church. For that which he had to ſacrifice for ſinne,in offering himſelfe he performed once vpon the croſſe, the vertue whereof continueth alwaies, and therefore neede not,in any ſort to be reiterated.

Rhem. 5. 4. If vpon the earth.) It is by his death, and reſurrection to life againe, that his body is become apt and fitte in ſuch diuine ſort to be ſacrificed perpetually. For if he had liued in mortall ſort ſtill, that way of myſtical repreſentation of breaking his body and ſeparating the bloud from the ſame, could not haue been agreable, and ſo the Church and Chriſtian people ſhould haue lacked a prieſthod and ſacrifice, and Chriſt himſelfe ſhould not haue been a Prieſt of a peculiar order, but either muſt haue offered in the thinges that Aarons Prieſtes did, or els haue been no Prieſt at all. For, to haue offered onely ſpiritually, as all faithful men do, that could not be ynough for his vocation, and our redemption, and ſtate of the new Teſtament. How his fleſh was made fit to be offered and eaten in the B. Sacrament, by his death, ſee Iſychius li. 1. in leuit. cap. 2. How Chriſtes body is made fit to be ſacrificed and eaten perpetually.

Fulke. 5. After Chriſt by his one ſacrifice, once offered, hath entred into the holyeſt place which is heauen, he exerciſeth his continual prieſthod, in preſenting his Church before God, and in making continual interceſſion for vs: but not in offering any more ſacrifice, for that he did once, and found eternal redemption. By the ſacrifice of his death therefore, his fleſh and bloud, are made meate and drinke to feede vs ſpiritually, both in the ſacrament and without it, but not to be offered in the maſſe. Neither doth Heſychius tell, how his fleſh was made fit to be offered, but to be eaten in the B. ſacrament, for theſe are his wordes. The croſſe of Chriſt was ſo ſtrong, that it ſubdued euery creature to him that was crucified: and made his fleſh meete for meate by his paſſion, which before his paſſion, was vnfit to be eaten, for who deſired to eate the fleſh of God? For if he had not been crucified, we ſhould not haue eaten the ſacrifice of his body. But now we eate that meate, receiuing the memory of his paſſion you ſee euidently, that he ſaith, by crucifying, the fleſh of Chriſt is made apt to be eaten, not to be ſacrificed any more. But as in the old teſtament, after the beaſt was ſacrificed, the people were partakers of the ſacrifice by eating thereof, ſo we are partakers of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes bodie, by eating thereof continually, not by offering it any more. The ſacrifice of Chriſt.

Rhem. 6. 5. Heauenly thinges.) As the Church or ſtate of the new Teſtament is commonly called Regnum cœlorum & Dei, in the Scriptures, ſo theſe heauenly thinges be probably taken by learned men, for the myſteries of the new Teſtament. And it ſeemeth that the paterne giuen to Moyſes to frame his tabernacle by, was the Church, rather then the heauens themſelues: al S. Paules diſcourſe tending to ſhew the difference betwixt the new Teſtament and the old, and not to make compariſon betweene the ſtate of heauen and the old law. Though incidently, becauſe the condition of the new Teſtament more nerely reſembleth the ſame, then the old ſtate doth, he ſometime may ſpeake ſomewhat thereof alſo. Kingdom of heauen, & heauenly thinges, ſpoken of the Church.

Rhem. 6. The Apoſtle cap. 9. 11. 24. ſheweth, that the paterne giuen to Moyſes, to frame the tabernacle by, was Chriſt, and the kindgome of heauen it ſelfe, not the church which is not properly, but figuratiuely, called the kingdome of heauen: becauſe Chriſt beginneth his raigne, in the faithfull therein, whom afterward he tranſlateth actually, into the kingdome of heauen, where he is preſent in his humanitie. Therefore, thoſe learned men, might learne of the Apoſtle, how to take theſe heauenly things principally of Chriſt, and his heauenly throne, vnto which the heauenly myſteries of the Church do ſerue, and in that reſpect, are compted heauenly things, although they be done vpon the earth. And the excellencie of the new Teſtament, conſiſteth principally, in the excellency of Chriſts prieſthod, whereby it is conſecrated and eſtabliſhed.

Rhem. 7. 10. Into their minde.) This alſo and the reſt following is fulfilled in the Church, and is the proper effect of the new Teſtament, which is the grace and ſpirit of loue, graffed in the hartes of the faithful by the holy Ghoſt, working in the Sacraments and ſacrifice of the new law to that effect. Grace, the effect of the new Teſtament.

Fulke. 7. The ſacrifice of Chriſts death, is ſufficient to worke this effect by his holy ſpirit, when his word is preached, and his ſacraments are adminiſtred, without any other ſacrifice. The ſacrifice of Chriſt death.

Rhem. 8. 10. Their God.) This mutual couenant made betwixt God and the faithful, is that which was dedicated and eſtabliſhed, firſt in the chalice of his bloud, called therefore the new Teſtament in his bloud: and which was ſtraight after ratified by the death of the teſtator, vpon the Croſſe. The new teſtament or couenant betweene God and man. Luc. 22.

Fulke. 8. The new Teſtament was eſtabliſhed, onely by the death and bloudſhedding of Chriſt on the croſſe, and not by the chalice or cuppe of the new Teſtament, which was only a ſacrament & figure thereof. Heb. 9. 11. 12. The new Teſtament eſtabliſhed by the death of Chriſt.

Rhem. 9. 11. Shal not teach.) So it was in the primitiue Church, in ſuch ſpecially as were the firſt founders of our new ſtate in Chriſt. And that which was verified in the Apoſtles and other principall men, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh generally as though it were ſo in the whole, as S. Peter applieth the like out of Ioel, and our ſauiour ſo ſpeaketh, when he ſaith that ſuch as beleeue in him ſhal worke miracles of diuers ſortes. Chriſtian men then muſt not abuſe this place to make chalenge of new inſpirations and ſo great knowledge that they needs no Scriptures or teaching in this life, as ſome Heretikes do: with much like reaſon and ſhew of Scriptures as the Proteſtants haue to refuſe external ſacrifice. And it is no leſſe phrenaſtical madneſſe to deny external ſacrifice, ſacraments, or Prieſthod, then it is to aboliſh teaching and preaching. Scriptures abuſed for phantaſticall inſpirations. Act. 2. 10. 14. v. 12.

Fulke. 9. The Prophet and the Apoſtle meane, that all true members of the Church, ſhal know God by his ſpirit, which is not otherwiſe to be knowen, not excluding the external miniſterie of teaching, by which both the ignorant are brought to knowledge, and they that haue knowledge of God, do increaſe therein, but declaring that there ſhalbe no more ſuch groſſe ignorance of God as poſſeſſed the world, commonly, before the comming of Chriſt. But where you ſay, the Anabaptiſts, and other like heretikes, do reiect the ſcriptures, and office of teaching, with much like reaſon and ſhew of ſcriptures, as the Proteſtants refuſe external ſacrifice, it hath no colour of reaſon, or ſimilitude. For the neceſſitie of the ſcriptures, and external miniſterie of teaching, is eſtabliſhed by very many moſt plaine teſtimonies of the ſcripture, whereas your external ſacrifice, hath no teſtimony at all in the word of God, but many arguments againſt it.

CHAP. IX.

In the old Teſtament, that ſecular Sanctuarie had two partes: the one ſignifying that time, with the ceremonies thereof for the emundation of the fleſh: the other ſignifying heauen, which then was ſhut, vntill our high prieſt Chriſt entred into it, and that with his owne bloud, ſhed for the emundation of our conſciences. Whereupon he concludeth the excellency of his tabernacle and hoſt aboue the old. 25 Noting alſo the difference, that he entred but once (ſo effectual was that one bloudy offering of him ſelf, for euer) whereas the Leuitical High prieſt entred euery yere once.

9 Which was a ſimilitude for the time then preſent, in which were offered giftes, and ſacrifices, that could not make the worſhipper perfect as perteyning to the conſcience.

10 With onely meates and drinkes, and diuers waſhinges, and iuſtifyinges of the fleſhe, which were layde vp vntill the time of reformation.

11 But Chriſt being come an high Prieſt of good thinges that ſhould be, by a greater & more perfect tabernacle, not made with handes, that is to ſay, not of this building, 12 Neyther by the blood of Goates, and Calues: but by his owne blood he entred in once into the holy place, and founde eternal redemption.

13 For if the blood of Oxen and of Goates, and the aſhes of a yong Cowe, ſprinkling the vncleane, ſanctifieth to the purifying of the fleſh:

14 How much more ‖ hath the bloud of Christ who by the holy Ghost offered himselfe vnspotted vnto God, ‖ clenseth our conscience from dead workes, to serue the liuing God?

15 And therefore he is the mediatour of the newe Testament: that death being a meane, vnto the redemption of these preuaricatiõs which were vnder the former testament, they that are called may receiue the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For * where there is a testament: the death of the testator must of necessitie come betweene.

17 For a testament is confirmed in the dead: otherwise it is yet of no value, whiles he that tested, liueth.

18 Whereupon neither was the first certes dedicated without bloud.

19 For all the commaundement of the Law being read of Moyses to al the people: he taking the bloud of calues and goates with ‡ water and scarlet wool and hyssope, sprinkled the very booke also it selfe and all the people, 20 Saying, * ‖ This is the bloud of the Testament, which God hath commanded vnto you.

22 And al things almost according to the law are cleansed with bloud: and without sheading of bloud there is not remission.

23 It is necessary therfore that ‖ the examplers of the cœlestials, be clensed with these, but the cœlestials also themselues with better hostes then these.

24 For IESVS is not entred into Holies made with hand, examplers of the true: but into heauen it self, that he may appeare now to the countenance of God for vs.

25 Nor that he should ‖ offer himselfe often, as the high priest entereth into the Holies, euery yere in the bloud of others:

26 Otherwise he ought to haue suffered often from the beginning of the world: but nowe once in the consummation of the worldes, to the destruction of sinne, he hath appeared by his owne host.

27 And as it is appointed to men to die once, and after this, the iudgement:

28 So also Christ was offered once ᶜ to exhaust the sinnes of many, the second time he shall appeare without sinne to them that expect him, vnto saluation.

Gal.3.15.

ᶜ By this word which signifieth to empty or draw out euen to the bottome, is declared the plentiful & perfect redemption of sinne by Christ ᶜ ad exhauriendas peccata.

14 Howe much more the blood of Christ, which through the eternall spirite offered himselfe without spotte to God, shall purge your conscience from dead workes, to serue the liuing God?

15 And for this cause is he the mediatour of the newe couenaunt, that through death, which was for the redemption of the transgressions that were vnder the first † couenant, they which are called, might receiue the promise of eternall inheritance.

† Or, testament

16 For where as is a testament, there must also of necessitie be the death of him that made the testament.

17 For a testament is confirmed when men are dead: for it is yet of no value, as long as hee that made the testament is aliue.

18 For which cause also, neither the first testament was dedicated without blood.

19 For when Moses had spoken euery precept to all the people according to the law, taking the blood of calues and of goates, with water and purple wooll, and hyssope, he sprinckled both the booke it selfe, and all the people,

*20 Saying, * This is the blood of the testament, which God hath enioyned vnto you.* Exod.24.8.

21 And likewise he sprinckled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministerie.

22 And almost all things are by the lawe purged with blood, and without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It is need then that the paterns of heauenly things bee purified with such things: but the heauenly things themselues bee purified with better sacrifices then are those.

24 For Christ is not entred into the holy places made with hands, which are paterns of true things: but into heauen it selfe, now to appeare in the sight of God for vs.

25 Not that he should offer himselfe often, as the high priest entereth into the holy places, euery yeere in strange blood.

26 (For then must hee haue often suffered since the foundation of the world:) but now once in the end of the world hath hee appeared to put away sinne, by the sacrifice of himselfe.

27 And as it is appointed vnto men once to die, and after this the iudgement:

*28 * Euen so Christ once offred to take away the sinnes of many, the second time shall be seene without sinne, of them which waite for him vnto saluation.* Rom.5.8. 1.Pet.3.18.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. IX.

Rhem.1. 8 Not yet manifeſted.) The way to heauen was not open before Chriſtes paſſion, and therefore the Patriarches and good men of the old Teſtament were in ſome other place of reſt vntil then.

Fulke.1. Heauen was not opened by the ſacrifices of the firſt tabernacle, but by the paſſion of Chriſt, whoſe vertue as it extended to the beginning of the world, to take away the ſinnes of the faithfull, and to iuſtifie them by faith: ſo it was auaileable to giue them reſt in heauen in their ſoules. Which is the reward of righteouſneſſe, vntil the time came, when they ſhal wholy enter into it with their bodies alſo, as our Sauiour Chriſt did which was the firſt that entred with his body into perfect glory of heauen. The ſoules of the faithfull in heauen.

Rhem.2. 19 Water.) Here we may learne that the Scriptures conteine not al neceſſarie rites or truthes, when neither the place to which the Apoſtle alludeth, nor any other, meeteth with halfe theſe ceremonies, but he had them by tradition.

Fulke. 2. Here is nothing but that which is conteined in the Scripture. For the booke was doubtleſſe layd vpon the aultar, which was ſprinckled, from whence Moyſes tooke it. Exo. 24. Or at leſt it was ſprinckled with the reſperſion that was caſt vpon the whole people. Now for the vſe of ſprinckling, there muſt needes be ſome inſtrument, which is deſcribed by Moyſes, Leuit. 14 to be made of Cedar wood, and ſcarlet woll, and hyſſope, and the bleud to be powred vpon water. And this was the order of all ſuch aſperſions, which is deſcribed in the purging of the Leper. And that the bloud of Goates, is comprehended vnder the peace offerings mentioned Exod. 24. you may ſee Leuit. 3. 12. Therefore here was no need of tradition for any of theſe ceremonies. Vnwritten traditions.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IX.

Rhem.3. 4 A golden pot.) The Proteſtants count it ſuperſtitious to keepe with honour and reuerence the holy memories or monuments of Gods benefites, and myracles, or the tokens of Chriſtes Paſſion, as his Croſſe, garments, or other things apperteining to him or his Saincts, and thinke it impoſſible that ſuch things ſhould dure ſo long: when they may here ſee the reuerent and long reſeruation of Manna, which of it ſelfe was moſt apt to putrifie, and of Aarons rod, onely for that it ſedenly flouriſhed by miracle, the tables of the Teſtament, &c. See a notable place in S Cyrill li. 6. cont. Iulian, where he defendeth against Iulian the Apoſtates blaſphemie, the keeping and honouring of that Croſſe or wood which Chriſt died on. See alſo S. Paulinus ep. 11. and what reuerence S. Hierome and the faithfull of his time did to the ſepulchres of Chriſt and his Martyrs, and to their relikes. We reuerence and worſhip (ſaith he) euery where Martyrs ſepulchres, and putting the holy aſhes to our eies, if we may, we touch it with our mouth alſo: and do ſome thinke, that the monument wherein our Lord was buried, is to be neglected? But our Proteſtants cannot skill of this. they had rather follow Vigilantius, Iulianus the Apoſtata, and ſuch Maiſters, then the holy Doctors and euident practiſe of the Church in al ages. They continue without putrefaction. The holy CROSSE, The ſepulchres of Chriſt and his Saincts. Ep. 17 c. 5.

Fulke. 3: When we haue a commaundement for the reſeruation of ſuch things, as the Iſraelites had for Aarons rod, Num. 17. 10. and for the pot of Manna, Exod. 16, 34. we will likewiſe reſerue them, and beleeue that they will continue to the worlds end. Yet will we not worſhip them nor ſhew them, which the godly Iſraelites did not becauſe they had no commandement for it. But contrarywiſe, when the braſen ſerpen, which was a monument of a great miracle, and a figure of Chriſt was abuſed in being worſhipped and made an idoll, it was broken in pieces by Ezechias, 2. Reg. 18. 14. and thought to be no more priuileged then the golden calfe which Moyſes ſerued with the like ſauce, Exod. 32. 20. Thus thinke we of the holieſt reliques abuſed to idolatry. But Cyrillus you ſay againſt Iulian, deſendeth the keeping and honouring of that croſſe or wood which Chriſt died one, where he ſpeaketh of neither of both: but defendeth the making of the ſigne of the croſſe on their foreheads, and painting it before their houſes, whereby Iulian ſaid, they adored the wood of the croſſe. Cyrillus ſayth, They vſed it onely to put them in remembraunce of the death of Chriſt, and the fruites of his paſſion. But as for keeping of the wood it ſelfe, or the honouring of it (which S. Ambroſe ſayth, to be an Heathenish errour, and vanitie of the vngodly. De obitu Theodoſ.) Cyrillus ſpeaketh nothing. But by that which Iulian obiecteth, you may well ſee, they had no images in their Churches, no not of the croſſe of Chriſt. For if they had, Iulian would not haue ſpared to haue charged them withall, as hee doeth with the ſigne of the croſſe painted before their houſes. Paulinus in deed, if that epiſtle be not counterfeict, was perſwaded that he had a piece of that croſſe whereon Chriſt died, ſent by Melania to his ſiſter Baſſula, of the gift of Iohn biſhop of Hieruſalem, but of this matter, as of the other place quoted out of Hierome, I haue ſpoken ſufficiently in other places, namely, In Ioan. 19 ſect. 2. Relikes. The croſſe and ſigne thereof. Images.

Rhem.4. 5 Cherubins.) You ſee it is a fond thing, to conclude vpon the firſt or ſecond commaundement, that there ſhould be no ſaered images in the Church, when euen among theſe people that were moſt prone to idolatry, and groſſe in imagination of ſpiritual things ſuch as Angels are, and to whom the precept was ſpecially giuen, the ſame God that forbade them grauen Idols, did command theſe images of Angels to be made and ſet in the ſouerain holieſt place of al the tabernacle or Temple. By which it is plaine, that much more the images of Chriſt and his B. mother and Saincts, thus may be more truely pourtured then were ſpirituall ſubſtances can be, are not contrary to Gods commandement, nor againſt his honour, or repugnant to any other Scripture at all, which condemne only the Idols or pourtraitures of the Heathen made for adoration of falſe Gods. Images in Salomons temple commanded by God.

Fulke. 4. It is a fond thing with you to conclude, that Gods commaundement is to be obſerued, which forbiddeth vs to make to our ſelues, any grauen images. Becauſe God himſelfe commanded theſe Images of Angels to be made, and ſet in the ſouereigne holieſt place of all the tabernacle or temple. As though God forbidding vs to make any images to our ſelues, that is, according to our owne fantaſie and appointment in his ſeruice, had reſtrained himſelfe to commaund and appoint ſuch figures or ſhapes as he thought meete for his tabernacle. Or as though by this particular commandement of God, men were diſcharged of the generall law, and were at libertie to doe at their pleaſure that which God expreſly forbiddeth to be done, except at his appointment onely. But it is not onely a fond, but a wicked concluſion, that becauſe theſe images of Cherubins were made and ſet vp by Gods commandement, therefore much more the images of Chriſt his mother and ſaincts may be made and ſet in the Churches, which God hath not commaunded but forbidden to be made, to any vſe of religion. Againe, Images.

thoſe Cherubins were ſet in the holieſt place, where they were neuer ſeene of the people, therefore out of danger of idolatrie, your images are not onely ſet openly in Churches, but commaunded to bee worſhipped. That onely the idoles of the Heathen are forbidden, it is a vayne cauil: for the commaundement is generall, not onely againſt the images of the Heathen that were made for any vſe of religion, but alſo againſt the like images of all heretikes, as of Simon Magus, of the Carpocratians and Gnoſticks, which had the image of Ieſus and Paule, Homere, Pythagoras and others. Epiph. her. 24. of the Melchiſedechians in Arabia, that worſhipped the image of Moyſes, Epiph her. 55. Of the Collyridians that made and worſhipped the image of the B. Virgin Mary, Epiph. her. 79. Of them that hanged vp a vayle with an image in a Church at Anablatha, Epiph epiſt. ad Ioan. Hier. and of the Papiſts which in idolatry by imagerie, exceed all other heretikes, and are as ill as the Paganes.

Rhem. 5. 10 Vntil the time of correction.) All thoſe groſſe and carnal ſacrifices, ceremonies, and obſeruations inſtituted to cleanſe and purifie the fleſh from legall irregularities and impurities onely, and not reaching to the purging of the ſoules and conſciences of men, being commaunded not for euer, but till Chriſtes comming, ceaſed then: and better, more forcible, & more ſpirituall Sacraments were inſtituted in their place. For we may not imagine Chriſt to haue taken away the old, and put none in their place: or to alter the ſacraments onely into other ſacraments externall, and not alſo to tranſlate the ſacrifices to ſome other more excellent. for it is called, Tempus correctionis, non abolitionis ſacrificij aut legis: the time of correction not of aboliſhing ſacrifice or law. Neither haue they more reaſon to affirme Chriſtes one oblation vpon the Croſſe to haue rather taken away all kind of ſacrifice, then all maner of Sacraments. The time and ſtate of the new Teſtament is not made lawleſſe, hyſtleſſe, or without ſacrifice, but it is the time of correction or reformation and abettering all the foreſayde things.

Sacrifice not taken away by the new Teſtament, but changed into a better.

Fulke 5. The one ſacrifice of Chriſtes death is ſucceeded in ſtead of all the legall ſacrifices, but not in ſtead of the old Sacraments, becauſe it is no Sacrament but the thing ſignified by all Sacraments. And this is a ſufficient reaſon why Chriſtes one oblation on the croſſe, doth not take away all kind of Sacraments, as it doth al kind of propitiatory ſacrifices for ſinne. Neither is the ſtate of the new Teſtament without ſacrifice, ſeeing that one ſacrifice once offred, is of eternall vertue to reconcile all the elect of God for euer. See the next ſection.

Sacrifice. Sacraments.

Rhem. 6. 12 Eternal redemption.) No one of the ſacrifices, nor all the ſacrifices of the old law, could make that one generall price, ranſome, and redemption of all mankind, and of all ſinnes, ſauing this one higheſt Prieſt Chriſt, and the one ſacrifice of his bloud once offered vpon the Croſſe. Which ſacrifice of redemption cannot be often done, becauſe Chriſt could not die but once. through the figures alſo thereof in the Law of nature and of Moyſes, were truely called ſacrifices, as ſpecially this high and marueilous commemoration of the ſame in the holy Sacrament of the altar, according to the rite of the new Teſtament, is moſt truely and ſingularly (as S. Auguſtine calleth it) a ſacrifice. But neither this ſort, nor the other of the old law, being often repeated and done by many Prieſts (all which were and are ſinners themſelues) could be the generall redeeming and conſummating ſacrifice: nor any one of thoſe Prieſts, nor all the Prieſts together, either of the law of Nature or of Aaron, or Melchiſedecks order (except Chriſt alone) could be the generall redeemers of the world.

One only ſacrifice on the Croſſe the redemption of the world: and one only prieſt (Chriſt) the redeemer thereof. Lyra Sp. & lit. c. 11.

And this is the Apoſtles meaning in all this compariſon and oppoſition of Chriſtes death to the old ſacrifices, and of Chriſt to their Prieſts: and not that Chriſtes death or ſacrifice of the Croſſe ſhould take away all ſacrifices, or proue that thoſe Aaronicall offices were no true ſacrifices at all, nor thoſe Prieſts, verily Prieſts. They were true Prieſts and true ſacrifices, though none of thoſe ſacrifices were the high, capitall, and generall ſacrifice of our price and redemption: nor none of them, or of thoſe Prieſts, could without reſpect to this one ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, worke any thing to Gods honour, or remiſſion of ſinnes, as the Iewes did falſly imagine, not referring them at all to this generall redemption and remiſſion by Chriſt, but thinking them to be abſolute ſacrifices in themſelues. And that to haue bene the errour of the Hebrues, you may read in S. Auguſtine, li. 3. doct. Chriſt. c. 5. And this, we tel the Proteſtants, is the onely purpoſe of the Apoſtle.

The Apoſtles diſputation being onely againſt the errour of the Iewes concerning their ſacrifices and prieſts: the Proteſtants applying it againſt the ſacrifice of the Maſſe and prieſts of the new Teſtament.

But they be ſo groſſe, or ignorant in the Scriptures, and ſo maliciouſly ſet againſt Gods and the Churches truth, that they peruerſly and fooliſhly turne the whole diſputation againſt the ſacrifice of the B. Maſſe, and the Prieſtes of the new Teſtament: as though we held, that the ſacrifice of the altar were the generall redemption or redeeming ſacrifice, or that is had no relation to Chriſtes death, or that it were not the repreſentation and moſt liuely reſemblance of the ſame, or were not inſtituted and done, to apply in particular to the vſe of the partakers, that other generall benefit of Chriſtes one oblation vpon the Croſſe. Againſt the Iewes then onely S. Paul diſputeth, and againſt the falſe opinion they had of their Prieſts and ſacrifices, to which they attributed al remiſſion and redemption, without reſpect of Chriſtes death.

Fulke. 6. Seeing eternall redemption is found by that one ſacrifice on the croſſe, there remaineth now no more ſacrifice for ſinne, therefore the Lordes ſupper is not a ſacrifice for ſinne, but a thankſgiuing, for that onely ſingular ſacrifice, in which ſenſe the fathers often call it a ſacrifice, and S. Auguſtine moſt manifeſtly in the place quoted. For his wordes are theſe: The worſhip of God doeth conſiſt moſt of all in this, that the ſoule of man bee not vnthankefull to him. Therefore in that moſt true, and in that ſingular ſacrifice, we are admoniſhed to giue thankes to the Lord our God. You ſee plainly he calleth it a moſt true and ſingular ſacrifice of thankſgiuing, for the onely true, and vnſacrificable ſacrifice of propitiation for ſinne, prouing thereby that religion or the worſhip of God, doeth now conſiſt moſt eſpecially in thankeſgiuing, which were not true if the Lordes ſupper were a ſacrifice propitiatory for ſinnes. But the fathers knew no ſacrifice propitiatory, but only the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, whereby all externall ſacrifices of the law are taken away with the prieſthood thereof, which is tranſlated into the perſon of our Sauiour onely: not as falſe ſacrifices or prieſts, but as figures and ſhadowes of the onely prieſt and onely ſacrifice. Therefore the Apoſtle doeth not diſpute onely againſt the errour of the Iewes, that thought their prieſthood and ſacrifices to be abſolute in themſelues, and ſufficient for redemption, without the ſacrifice of Chriſt (for none of the Chriſtian Hebrewes, did ſo think) though many obſtinate Iewes did, of whom S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh, But he diſputeth alſo & more properly againſt the, that thought the Iewiſh prieſthood & ſacrifice might ſtand ſtill & be exerciſed as they were before, with relation vnto Chriſts death, and fetching their vertue from the only prieſthood & ſacrifice of Chriſt. And therfore you tell the Proteſtants a falſe tale, when you ſay, that is the only purpoſe of the Apoſtle. For he ſtandeth not ſo much in prouing that the olde prieſthood and ſacrifices had no vertue but from Chriſt, as he doeth to declare, that they being figures and ſhadowes, muſt giue place and ceaſe, now the body, truth, and light it ſelfe is come. Neither are we ſo groſſe or ignorant in the Scriptures, to turne the whole diſputation, againſt the popiſh prieſthood and ſacrifice of the maſſe as you imagine. But ſeeing theſe reaſons and argumentes by which the Apoſtle proueth, that the old prieſthood and ſacrifices are at an ende, doe as well (and much rather) exclude your falſe prieſthood and ſacrifice as they did, that lawfull prieſthood with the ſacrifices of the old Teſtament: we vſe the Apoſtles argumentes, as it is meete for them that know the right vſe of the Scriptures, to ouerthrow your blaſphemous prieſthood and ſacrifice. As our fathers by the like teſtimonies of Scriptures ouerthrew the foliſh prieſthood and ſacrifice of the Collyridians, which they might as well ſay, were meant onely againſt the Gentiles, as you ſay the Apoſtles purpoſe is onely againſt the error of the Iewes. But you haue very good reaſons to prooue, that this diſputation of the Apoſtle toucheth not your prieſthood and ſacrifice. By which the Hebrewes might as well prooue, that their prieſthood and ſacrifice might ſtill continue. For you hold not that the ſacrifice of the aultar is the generall redemption or redeeming ſacrifice. No more did they that were Chriſtians, nor any faythfull Iew before the comming of Chriſt in the fleſhe. Secondly, you hold, that your ſacrifice hath relation to Chriſtes death, ſo did the Chriſtian Hebrewes and all the godly Iewes before them hold of their ſacrifices. Thirdly, You hold that it is the repreſentation and moſt lively reſemblance of the ſame. So were all the ſacrifices propitiatorie of the lawe, in the iudgement of all faythfull and Chriſtian Iewes. Fourthly, you hold, That it was inſtituted and is done to apply in particular to the vſe of the receiuers, that other generall benefite of Chriſts one oblation vpon the croſſe. And all faythfull Iewes and Chriſtian Hebrewes held the ſame of the inſtitution, practiſe and vſe of the olde ſacrifices, therefore they might ſtill vſe them, with as good and better reaſon then you may ſet vp a new ſacrifice without any worde of God to warrant it. But notwithſtanding they helde in theſe pointes of their ſacrifices, as you ſay you doe of yours, yet the Apoſtles purpoſe is to prooue, that thoſe ſacrifices muſt now no more be vſed, becauſe Chriſt hath accompliſhed whatſoeuer was by them prefigured, by his one oblation on the croſſe, hauing found eternall redemption, and made perfect for euer thoſe that are ſanctified. Therefore your vnderſtanding is either very groſſe, or you are maliciouſly blind in the Scriptures, that can ſee no argumentes of the Apoſtle, for the abrogation of the Iewiſh prieſthood, and ſacrifices propitiatorie, (though they were vſed according to their right inſtitution) by the prieſthood and ſacrifice of Chriſt: but affirme, that the Apoſtle diſputeth onely againſt the incredulous Iewes, and their falſe opinion of their prieſthood and ſacrifices, to be ſufficient without Chriſt.

Rhem.7. 15 Of thoſe preuaricatiõs.) The Proteſtants doe vnlearnedly imagine, that becauſe all ſinnes be remitted by the force of Chriſtes paſſion, that therefore there ſhould be no other ſacrifice after his death. Whereas in deede they might as well ſay, there ought neuer to haue bene ſacrifice appoynted by God, either in the law of Nature, or of Moyſes: as all their argumentes made againſt the Sacrifice of the Church vpon the Apoſtles diſcourſe, prooue as well, or rather onely, that there were no ſacrifices of Aarons order or Leuitical law at all. For againſt the Iewes falſe opinion concerning them, doth he diſpute, and not a word touching the ſacrifice of the Church, vnto which in all this diſcourſe he neuer oppoſeth Chriſtes ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe: al Chriſtian men wel knowing that the hoſt and oblation of thoſe two, though they differ in maner and external forme, yet is in deed al one.

The Apoſtle then ſheweth here plainly, that al the ſinnes that euer were remitted ſince the beginning of the world, were no otherwiſe forgiuen, but by the force and in reſpect of Chriſtes Paſſion. Yet it followeth not thereupon, that the oblations of Abel, Abraham, Aaron, &c. were no ſacrifices, as by the Heretikes fooliſh deduction it ſhould do: S. Paul not preſſing Chriſtes Paſſion to them, for the intent to proue them to haue bene no ſacrifices, but to proue that they were not abſolute ſacrifices, nor the redeeming or conſummating Sacrifice, which could not be many, nor done by many Prieſts, but by one, and at one time, by a more excellent Prieſt then any of them, or any other mere mortal man.

And that you may ſee the blaſphemous pride and ignorance of Caluin, and in him, of all his fellowes: read (ſo many as may read Heretical bookes) his commentarie vpon this place, and there you ſhall ſee him gather vpon this, that Chriſtes death had force from the beginning and was the remedie for all ſinnes ſince the creation of the world, therefore there muſt be no more but that one ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. Which muſt needes by his deduction hold (as is doth in deede) no leſſe againſt the olde ſacrifices then the new ſacrifice of the Church, and ſo take away all, which is againſt the Apoſtles meaning and all religion.

Caluins argument againſt the ſacrifice of the altar, maketh no leſſe againſt the ſacrifices of the old Law.

Fulke.7. The fooliſh Proteſtants which know nothing but Ieſus Chriſt and him crucified, doe vnlearnedly, but yet truly beleeue, that becauſe all ſinnes are remitted by force of Chriſtes ſacrifice once offred on the croſſe, that therefore there ſhould be none other ſacrifice propitiatorie for ſinne after his death. But the wiſe and learned papiſts, which know much more of this matter then God hath reuealed in his word, doe thinke That we might as well ſay, that there ought neuer to haue bene ſacrifice appointed by God. Yes ſay we, before that only propitiatorie ſacrifice was offred by Chriſt on the croſſe, God thought meet to appoint diuers figuratiue ſacrifices to foreſhew the ſame. Which all were effectual by the death of Chriſt, to aſſure thẽ of reconciliatiõ & remiſſion of ſinnes. Neither doth any argument that we make againſt popiſh ſacrifice, proue ỹ there were no ſacrifices of Aarons order, or the Leuitical law. And I haue proued before, that the Apoſtle doth not diſpute, only againſt the falſe opinion which the vnbeleeuing Iewes had of them, but alſo againſt the falſe opinion that Chriſtian Iewes might conceiue of their continuance after the death of Chriſt. But he doth neuer in all his diſcourſe (ſay you) oppoſe Chriſtes ſacrifice vpon the croſſe, to the ſacrifice of the Church, ſo you call the ſacrifice of the maſſe. And that proueth very wel, that the Church had no ſuch ſacrifice in his time, for if it had, he ought in this diſcourſe to haue declared how that ſacrifice might ſtand with the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. As the fathers that followed in thoſe times when the Lordes ſupper was vnproperly called a ſacrifice, doe ſhew that it is a memorie of a ſacrifice, rather then a ſacrifice in deed, and a ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing, not a ſacrifice propitiatorie. And although the Apoſtle doeth not name the ſacrifice of the maſſe, which was not inuented many hundred yeeres after his death, yet he doeth ſo often and in ſo playne maner, prooue that the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death is but one, and once offered by himſelfe, and of eternall vertue for full redemption, that the holy Ghoſt directing his ſtile, he doeth as ſtrongly arme the Church againſt that blaſphemous prieſthood and ſacrifice ſacrifice of Antichriſt, as he doth purpoſely prooue the abrogation and ceaſſing of the Iewiſh prieſthood and ſacrifices, by the onely prieſthood and ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. As for the difference in maner of oblation will not helpe you, for the Apoſtle ſaith expreſſlie, that that one ſacrifice could be but once offered, and in that onely maner, by ſhedding of bloud, and death of the prieſt himſelfe. And if Chriſt ſhould haue offered himſelfe often, he ſhould haue died often, as it is moſt plaine in the fiue and twentith verſe, and ſo to the end of this chapter. Therefore your fantaſticall maner of offering his body and bloud in the formes of bread and wine, can neuer ſtand with the Apoſtles words and plaine meaning. That the ſacrifices of Abell, Abraham, Aaron, &c. were no ſacrifices, it followeth not by any deduction of ours, for we confeſſe they were ſacrifices, figuratiue of the ſacrifice of Chriſt, and ſo doth Caluine alwayes acknowledge in his commentaries, and in the place whither you ſend men, as it were, to ſee a miracle. For what deduction is this in your logike? The ſacrifice of Chriſtes death is the onely true propitiatorie ſacrifice whereby God was reconciled: ergo there were neuer any ſacrifices that were ſhaddowes and figures thereof. It is not therefore your railing of Caluins blaſphemous pride and ignorance, without all colour of reaſon, that will vpholde your Antichriſtian prieſthood, for which you haue no word of God, but many wordes of God againſt it. Therefore this argument of Caluine ſhall ſtill holde againſt your popiſh ſacrifice, and maketh nothing againſt the figuratiue ſacrifices of the law. Slander.

Chriſtes only ſacrifice for ſinnes.

Rhem. 8. 20. This is the bloud.) Chriſtes death was neceſſarie for the full confirmation, ratification, and accompliſhment of the new Teſtament, though it was begonne to be dedicated in the ſacrifice of his laſt ſupper, being alſo within the compaſſe of his Paſſion. Which is euident by the wordes pronounced by Chriſt ouer the holy chalice, which be correſpondent to the wordes that were ſpoken (as the Apoſtle here declareth) in the firſt ſacrifice of the dedication of the old law, hauing alſo expreſſe mention of remiſſion of ſinnes therein, as by the bloud of the new Teſtament. Whereby it is plaine, that the B. Chalice of the altar hath the very ſacrificall bloud in it that was ſhed vpon the Croſſe, in and by which, the new Teſtament (which is the law of ſpirit, grace, and remiſſion) was dedicated, and doth conſiſt. And therfore it is alſo cleere, that many diuine things, which to the Heretikes or ignorant may ſeeme to be ſpoken only of Chriſtes ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe, be in deede verified and fulfilled alſo in the ſacrifice of the altar. Whereof S. Paul for the cauſes aforeſaid would not treate in plaine termes. See Iſychius li. 1 in Leuit. c. 4. paulo poſt initium, applying al theſe things to the immolation of Chriſt alſo in the Sacrament. The correſpondence of wordes in dedicating both Teſtaments proueth the real preſence of bloud in the Chalice.

Fulke. 8. The Apoſtle ioyneth ſhedding of bloud with death, and therefore the new Teſtament was not dedicated by the ſacrament of the bloud of Chriſt, but by the bloud of Chriſt ſhed at his death. And although the inſtitution of the ſacrament was within the compaſſe of his paſſion, in reſpect of the time, becauſe it was in the ſame night in which he was deliuered after he had beene betraied, yet was the ſacrament no part of his paſſion, and therfore the new Teſtament was not begun to be dedicated by it. Neither doe the words pronounced by our ſauior Chriſt of the cup, declare any ſuch matter, but that the cup is a ſacrament of the new teſtament, which is eſtabliſhed by the ſhedding of his bloud on the croſſe. Therfore he ſaith, This is my bloud of the new teſtament, which is all one in ſenſe with theſe words, This is the new teſtament in my bloud, which is ſhed for you. But neither the cup nor that which was conteined in it, was the new teſtament, which is the ſame that the Apoſtle expreſſed before cap. 8. but an holy ſigne, ſacrament or memoriall of the ſame. So the ſenſe is clere, that the cup is a ſacrament of the bloud of Chriſt, and of the new teſtament, confirmed therby, being no more the bloud of Chriſt it ſelfe, then it is the new teſtament it ſelfe, ſeeing the like ſpeech is of the one and of the other, This is my bloud, This is the new teſtament in my bloud. The expreſſe mention of remiſſion of ſinnes is referred to the bloud of Chriſt ſhed vpon the croſſe, and not to the ſacrament of his bloud conteined in the cup. Therfore he ſaith, Which is ſhed for many vnto remiſſion of ſinnes. But the bloud of Chriſt was not ſhed in the ſupper, but in his paſſion. Againe, the ſupper was effectuall only to them that receiued it faithfully, the bloud of Chriſt ſhed on the croſſe was auailable for the ſinnes of all the elect, which were not yet borne. Therfore the cup did not conteine the bloud it ſelfe, but a ſacrament of that bloud which was ſhed on the croſſe. Finally, when the Apoſtle ſaith ſo expreſly, that Chriſt offered not himſelfe often, but once only, he offered not himſelfe in the ſupper, except you will ſay he offered not himſelfe on the croſſe. And therfore that which is ſpoken of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, cannot be verified of any other ſacrifice, nor of the ſupper, but ſacramentally, as it is a figure and remembrance of that only ſacrifice. The ſacrifice of Chriſtes death.

Therfore Heſychius in the place quoted, meaneth no more but that Chriſt by inſtitution of his ſupper, to be a memoriall of his death, declared that he did willingly offer himſelfe to his father, to die for the people, and preuented the malice of his enemies which ſought his death. And alluding to the phraſe of filling their hands that were conſecrated prieſts, he ſaith that Chriſtes hands were filled, firſt in the myſticall ſupper, when he tooke bread and brake it, and after by the croſſe, when he was nailed to the tree. For then (ſaith he) taking vpon him the dignitie of prieſthood, or rather, then fulfilling it in worke, when he alwaies had it, he dedicated that ſacrifice, which was for vs. Therfore as the filling of the prieſts hands was a ſigne of their conſecration vnto the prieſthood, ſo was the inſtitution of the ſupper a ſacrament of the conſecration of Chriſtes prieſthood, which was in worke and deed accompliſhed only on the croſſe. Heſychius therfore doth not apply thoſe things that were proper to the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death to his ſacramentall offering of himſelfe in the ſupper.

Rhem. 9. 23. The examplers.) All the offices, places, veſſels, and inſtruments of the old law, were but figures and reſemblances of the ſtate and ſacraments of the new Teſtament, which are here called celeſtials, for that they are the liuely images of the heauenly ſtate next enſuing: which be therefore ſpecially dedicated and ſanctified in Chriſtes bloud, ſacrificed on the altar, and ſprinkled vpon the faithful, as the old figures and people were cleanſed by the bloud of beaſts. And therfore by a tranſition vſual in the holy Scriptures, the Apoſtle ſodenly paſſeth in the ſentence immediatly following, and turneth his talke to Chriſtes entrance into heauen, the ſtate whereof, both by the Sacraments of the old law, and alſo more ſpecially by them of the new, is prefigured. In the old Teſtament were figures of the new: in the new, is reſemblance of the heauenly ſtate.

Fulke. 9. The offices, places, veſſels, and ceremonies of the old law were figures of heauen & heauenly things, which are dedicated and conſecrated in the new teſtament by the bloud of Chriſt ſhed and once ſacrificed on the croſſe (as it is manifeſt by that which followeth in the text) & not by any bloud ſacrificed on the altar, wherof neither Sacrifice of the maſſe.

neither the Apoſtle in this place, nor the Holy ghoſt in any place doth make any mention. And therefore the ſudden paſſage that you aſcribe vnto the Apoſtle, is a ſudden paſſion of your owne braine, for the Apoſtle was neuer at your ſacrifice of the maſſe, that he might ſuddenly paſſe from thence to Chriſtes entrance into heauen by his death and bloudy ſacrifice. Neither doth any of the ancient writers doubt, but that theſe better ſacrifices wherwith theſe heauenly things are purified, are the only ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, which is in ſtead all ſacrifices. Therfore ſaith Primaſius: The heauenly things themſelues, that is, thoſe ſpirituall things which are now in truth celebrated in the church, are purified by better ſacrifices then thoſe legall ſacrifices, namely by the bloud of the paſſion of Chriſt. Oecumenius ſaith vpon this text: Becauſe theſe heauenly things had need of a better oblation and ſacrifice, according to their worthineſſe, the ſonne of God himſelfe was ſacrificed. Therfore our Lords death did profit and had force not only to confirme the Teſtament, but alſo to this end that he might make a true purification of the ſoule. The ſame words hath Theophylact. The other as Chryſoſtome, Ambroſe, Theodoret, paſſe it ouer in generall termes, as a matter vndoubted, that the death of Chriſt is the only ſacrifice, by which the heauenly things are purified.

The ſacrifice of Chriſtes death.

Rhem. 10 25. Offer him ſelf often.) As Chriſt neuer died but once, nor neuer ſhal die againe, ſo in that violent, painfull, and bloudy ſort he can neuer be offered againe, neither needeth he ſo to be offered any more: hauing by that one action of ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe, made the full ranſom, redemption, and remedie for the ſinnes of the whole world. Neuertheleſſe, as Chriſt died and was offered after a ſort in all the ſacrifices of the Lawe and Nature, ſince the beginning of the worlde (al which were figures of this one oblation vpon the Croſſe) ſo is he much rather offered in the ſacrifice of the altar of the new Teſtament, incomparably more neerely, diuinely, and truely expreſſing his death, his body [illegible]n, his bloud ſhed, then did any figure of the old lawe, or other ſacrifice that euer was. as being in deede (though in hidden, ſacramental, and myſticall, and vnbloudy manner) the very ſelf ſame B. body and bloud, the ſelf ſame hoſt, oblation and [illegible]crifice, that was done vpon the Croſſe.

Chriſt once offered in blouddy ſort, but vnbloudily often, namely in the ſacrifice of the altar.

And this truth is moſt euident by the very forme of wordes vſed by our Sauiour in the inſtitution and conſecration of the holy Sacrament, and by the profeſſion of all the holy Doctors. Our ſacrifice, ſaith S. Cyprian, is correſpondent to the Paſſion of Chriſt. And, The ſacrifice that we offer, is the Paſſion of Chriſt. ep. 63. nu. 4. & nu. 7. S. Auguſtine de fid. ad Petr. c. 19. In thoſe carnal ſacrifices was the prefiguring of the fleſh of Chriſt, which he was to offer for ſinnes, and of the bloud, which he was to ſheade. but in this Sacrifice is the commemoration of the fleſh of Chriſt which he hath now giuen, and of the bloud which he hath ſhed: in illis prænuntiabatur occidendus, in hoc annuntiatur occiſus. In them he was forethewed as to be killed: in theſe he is ſhewed, as killed. *And S. The ſacrifice of the altar and that on the Croſſe, both one.

And the ſaid fathers and others, by reaſon of the difference in the manner of Chriſtes preſence and oblation in reſpect of that on the Croſſe, called this the vnbloudy ſacrifice, as " Caluin him ſelf confeſſeth, leſt anſwereth them in the pride of hereticall ſpirit, with theſe wordes: Nihil moror quòd ſic loquantur vetuſti ſcriptores. that is, I paſſe not for it, that the auncient writers do ſo ſpeake: calling the diſtinction of bloudy and vnbloudy ſacrifice, ſcholaſticall and friuolous, and diabolicum commentum, a diuelish deuiſe. With ſuch ignorant and blaſphemous men we haue to do, that thinke they vnderſtand the Scriptures better then all the fathers.

Comment. in 9 Hebr.

The fathers call it the vnbloudy ſacrifice of the altar.

Caluins contempt of the fathers.

Fulke. 10 The Apoſtles words are plaine, Chriſt could not offer himſelfe any other way then by dying. Therfore he offered himſelfe but once for all, by giuing himſelfe to death: and not twiſe by any fantaſticall, hidden, inuiſible, myſticall or vnbloudy maner. But you ſay, as Chriſt died, and was offered after a ſort in all the olde ſacrifices, ſo he is much rather offered in the ſacrifice of the altar of the new Teſtament. I anſwere, that in the olde ſacrifices Chriſt was not offered in truth, but in figure and ſignification, therfore in the ſacrament he is not offered in trueth, but a figure, ſignification, remembrance, and repreſentation of his only true ſacrifice, is made in the ſacrament more neerely and liuely expreſſing the ſame, then by any figure of the law it was expreſſed. Yet is not the ſacrament a ſacrifice properly, but a memory of that ſacrifice, and a figure of Chriſtes body, not the very body it ſelfe, but to him that receiueth it ſpiritually by faith, as the olde ſacrifices were to the faithfull Iewes. But what impudency is it to ſay that it is moſt euident by the very forme of words of our ſauiour, vſed in the inſtitution of the ſacrament, that it is the ſame hoſt, oblation, and ſacrifice that was done vpon the croſſe, whereas in the inſtitution of the ſupper there is no word of oblation, hoſt, or ſacrifice. You ſhew as great impudency in ſaying it is ſo, by the profeſſion of all the holy doctors: when euen their wordes which you cite crie out againſt you, that they meane no ſuch matter. For Cyprian in the former place, ſaith againſt them that miniſtred the ſacrament without wine, We finde that the cup was mixed which our Lord offered, & that it was wine, which he called his bloud. Wherupon it appeareth, that the bloud of Chriſt is not offered if wine be wanting to the cup, and that the Lords ſacrifice is not celebrated with lawfull ſanctification, except our oblation and ſacrifice doe anſwere to his paſſion. He ſaith not, that the ſacrament (which he calleth a ſacrifice or holy ſeruice) is the ſelfe ſame body & bloud, the ſelfe ſame hoſt, oblation and ſacrifice, which was done on the croſſe, for wine was not offered on the croſſe. but that this ſacrament is not rightly celebrated, except it doe anſwere to the paſſion of Chriſt, whereof it is a memoriall, that is, that it be celebrated with wine, which our ſauiour Chriſt did call his bloud figuratiuely, to expreſſe the ſhedding of his bloud vpon the croſſe.

Chriſt offered himſelfe but once.

In the ſecond place his wordes are theſe: Becauſe we make mention of his paſſion in all ſacrifices (for the ſacrifice which we offer is our Lords paſſion) we ought to doe none other thing then he did. For the ſcripture ſaith: So often as you ſhall eat of this bread, and drinke of this cup, you ſhall ſhew the Lords death vntill he come. Therfore as often as we offer the cup in remembrance of our Lord and his paſſion, let vs doe that which is is certeine that our Lord did. What can be more euident then that Cyprian in this place calleth the ſacrament, a ſacrifice and the paſſion of Chriſt figuratiuely, becauſe it is a commemoration of the ſacrifice and paſſion of Chriſt, not the ſacrifice and paſſion of Chriſt it ſelfe. For Chriſt is now impaſſible. Therfore no more properly then Chriſt is crucified in the ſacrament, no more properly is he ſacrificed therin. But as the Apoſtle ſaith figuratiuely, that Chriſt was crucified among the Galathians, ſo we may ſay he is crucified in the celebration of the ſacrament, and ſacrificed: becauſe his death and paſſion, and the vertue thereof, is liuely repreſented by the word that is preached, and the action that is celebrated: but properly we cannot ſay that Chriſt is ſacrificed or crucified in the ſacrament. The wordes of Auguſtine, or rather of Fulgentius De fide ad Petrum, be theſe: Holde ſtedfaſtly, and nothing doubt thou, that the ſame onely begotten God, the word being made fleſh, offered himſelfe a ſacrifice, and hoſt of ſweet ſauour to God for vs. To whom with the Father and the Holy ghoſt by the patriarchs, prophets and prieſts, in the time of the olde teſtament beaſts were ſacrificed, and to whom now, that is, in the time of the new teſtament, with the Father and the Holy ghoſt, with whom he is one God, the holy Catholike church throughout the whole world doth not ceaſe to offer the ſacrifice of bread and wine in faith and charitie. For in thoſe carnall ſacrifices, there was a figuring of the fleſh of Chriſt, which he being without ſinne, was to offer for our ſinnes, and of the bloud which he was to ſhed for the remiſſion of our ſinnes. But in this ſacrifice there is a thankeſgiuing and commemoration of the fleſh of Chriſt, which he offered for vs, and of the bloud, which the ſame God hath ſhed for vs: Of which S. Paule in the Acts of the Apoſtles ſaith: Take heed to your ſelues, and to the whole flocke, ouer which the Holy ghoſt hath made you biſhops, to rule the Church of God, which he hath purchaſed with his owne bloud. Therefore in thoſe ſacrifices it was ſignified figuratiuely, what was to be giuen vnto vs: but in this ſacrifice it is euidently ſhewed what is already giuen vnto vs. In thoſe ſacrifices the ſonne of God was foreſhewed, that he ſhould be ſlaine for vngodly men, but in this he is declared that he hath beene already ſlaine for vngodly men, as the Apoſtle witneſſeth, that Chriſt when we were yet weake, according to the time, died for vngodly men, and that when we were his enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his ſonne. In this ſaying, marke that he calleth the ſacrament the ſacrifice of bread and wine. Secondly, that the ſame is offered to Chriſt. Thirdly, by the whole Church. Fourthly, as a thankeſgiuing and commemoration of the death of Chriſt. Fifly, that the death of Chriſt is ſhewed therin, and not that Chriſt is ſhewed as killed, but that he hath beene killed. All which is manifeſtly againſt the ſacrifice of the maſſe, in which neither bread nor wine is ſacrificed, nor to Chriſt, but Chriſt himſelfe is ſaid to be ſacrificed to his father, not by the whole Church but by the prieſts onely, not as a thankeſgiuing onely, and commemoration of Chriſtes death, but as the ſelfe ſame hoſt, oblation and ſacrifice that was done on the croſſe. By all which it is euident that he ſpeaketh not of the ſacrifice of the maſſe, but of the celebration of the Lordes ſupper, which is a ſpirituall ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing, and not the ſame ſacrifice that was done vpon the croſſe but figuratiuely, ſacramentally, and vnproperly. And what ſhould Gregory Nazianzen meane by the prieſt mingling himſelfe with the great paſſions of Chriſt, but his contemplation of them to ſtirre vp himſelfe and his people vnto thankeſgiuing for them? For the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death he calleth that great and vnſacrificable ſacrifice, or which cannot be ſacrificed againe. Therefore he ſpeaketh directly againſt your popiſh ſacrifice, which you ſay to be the ſame that was done vpon the croſſe. The wordes of S. Ambroſe be theſe: Before time a lambe was offered, a calfe was offered, now Chriſt is offered, but he is offered as a man, as receiuing paſſion, and he offereth himſelfe as a prieſt, that he may forgiue our ſinnes. There in an image, there in truth, where he maketh interceſſion with the father, as an aduocate for vs. Is it not manifeſt in theſe words, that Chriſt is not now offered in trueth, but in an image and repreſentation of his death, becauſe the ſacrament is a preaching or ſhewing of his death vntill he come?

As for the counterfect epiſtle of Alexander, although it deſerue none anſwere, yet the words you cite, doe not prooue your ſaying. For the paſſion of Chriſt is celebrated by the ſacrament of the body and bloud of Chriſt: yet the ſacrament is not the ſame ſacrifice that was done on the croſſe and can neuer be repeated. Gregory meaneth none otherwiſe that Chriſt ſuffereth againe, then S. Paule when he ſaith Chriſt was crucified among the Galathians, Gal. 3. that is, his paſſion and death is plainly ſhewed, not actually renued, nor Chriſt ſuffering any thing in deed, but figuratiuely and vnproperly. Heſychius ſpeaketh vndoubtedly of the ſacrifice of Chriſts death, and his words are theſe: Not one ſinne only but many ſinnes are forgiuen vs by the ſacrifice of the only begotten ſonne, that is to ſay, the pardoning of all mankinde, life in perfect philoſophy or wiſdome, and a ſingular introduction of the myſteries of the new teſtament, to the exemplars and figures of which, the ſacrifices which are aſſigned to the perſon of the high prieſt, were offered, moſt of all ſhewing the ſhadow of heauenly things, by thoſe things which were done vpon earth. Is it now the ſacrifice of the maſſe, or Chriſtes death, by which all ſinnes are forgiuen, all mankinde pardoned, the myſteries of the new teſtament are brought in? The ſame father, ſpeaking afterward of the ſacrament, ſaith, it is bath bread and fleſh, meaning the one properly, the other figuratiuely and ſacramentally. Wherfore I ſay againe, that you haue cited the ſayings of the fathers without all ſhame, which make againſt you very plainely. And that the fathers call the ſacrament an vnbloudy ſacrifice, they doe plainely diſtinguiſh it in kinde, and not onely in maner of ſacrificing, from the bloudy ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. For by that was remiſſion of ſinnes, by the other could be no remiſſion of ſinnes, becauſe without ſhedding of bloud there can be no remiſſion of ſinnes. Therefore the fathers calling the ſacrament an vnbloudy ſacrifice, did plainely declare that it was no propitiatory ſacrifice, but a ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing, and remembrance of Chriſtes death. Which Caluin knew right well, and therefore ſaith, that the Papiſts did wickedly abuſe thoſe ſpeeches, to maintaine a ſacrifice of their owne inuention. Yea he ſaith it is a diuelliſh inuention, that Chriſt ſhould be often ſacrificed, ſeeing he cannot die often, and without death there can be no ſacrifice for ſinne. Theſe thinges are ſo plaine in the Apoſtle, that they need no expoſition, yet all the fathers agree, that there is but one ſacrifice propitiatory for ſinnes, namely the death of Chriſt. Chryſoſtome ſaith therefore, that the ſupper is rather a remembrance of a ſacrifice then a ſacrifice in deed. Hom. 17. which is the meaning of the reſt of the fathers when they call it a ſacrifice. Or if they meant otherwiſe then the Apoſtle teacheth ſo plainely, we may without pride ſay with Caluin, it is not to be regarded what any man hath ſaid, but what the Holy ghoſt ſaith, of whom all men ought to learne to ſpeake.

CHAP. X.

Becauſe in the yerely feaſt of Expiation was only a commemoration of ſinnes, therfore in place of al thoſe old ſacrifices the Pſalme telleth vs of the oblation of Chriſtes body. 10 Which he offered bloudily but once (the Leuitical Prieſtes offring ſo euery day) becauſe that once was ſufficient for euer, 15 in that it purchaſed (as the prophet alſo witneſſeth) remiſſion of ſinnes. 19 After al this he proceaueth and exhorteth them vnto perſeuerance: partly with the opening of Heauen by our high-prieſt, 26 partly with the terrour of damnation if they fall againe: 32 bidding them remember how much they had ſuffered already, and not loſe their reward.

Leu.16,14. FOR the law hauing ‖ a ſhadow of good things to come, not the very image of the things: euery yere with the ſelf ſame hoſtes which they offer inceſſantly, can neuer make the commers thereto perfect:

2 Otherwiſe ‖ they ſhould haue ceaſed to be offered, becauſe the worſhippers once cleanſed ſhould haue no conſcience of ſinne any longer.

3 But in them there is made a commemoration of ſinne euery yere.

4 For it is ‖ impoſſible that with the bloud of oxen and goates ſinnes ſhould be taken away.

Pſ 39,7. 5 Therfore comming into the world he ſaith: ‖ Hoſt and oblation thou wouldeſt not: ‖ but a body thou haſt fitted to me:

2 For would not then thoſe ſacrifices haue ceaſſed to haue bene offered, becauſe that the offers once purged, ſhould haue had no more conſcience of ſinnes?

36 For ye haue needs of patience, that after ye haue done the will of God, ye might receiue the promiſe.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 1. 20. He hath dedicated.) To dedicat, is to be author and beginner of a thing. The Proteſtants tranſlate, he hath prepared, for their hereſie that Chriſt was not the firſt man that entered into heauen.

Fulke 1. To dedicate, is not alwaies to be auctor and beginner of a thing. We reade that diuers men haue bene auctors of the building of Temples, which other men haue dedicated. The Greeke word ſignifieth alſo To prepare, and ſo doth S. Ambroſe tranſlate it. And you falſely belie vs, to ſay we hold any ſuch hereſie, that Chriſt was not the firſt man that entred into heauen with his body, or whole humanitie, as the text is: & ỳ dedicated and prepared the way for all his members to enter into heauen, both with their bodies and with their ſoules: by vertue of whoſe death, all the faithful from the beginning, were receiued into heauenly reſt in their ſoules. Cauilling. Slander.

Rhem. 2. 35. [c]Confidence, which.) Good workes make great confidence of ſaluation, and haue great reward.

Fulke 2. Good workes are good teſtimonies of faith, by which we haue confidence of ſaluation, by the onely grace of God, and not by the merite of our workes, yet haue good workes great reward, grounded vpon Gods promiſe, and not vpon the worthines of them. And confidence in this place, is ſtedfaſtnes of faith, not in the merite of good workes, but in the mercie of God, who hath giuen good workes to be fruites of faith. S. Ambroſe vpon ver. 19 ſayth: Hauing confidence brethren, wherein? As ſinnes cauſe ſhame, ſo forgiuenes of ſinnes cauſeth confidence, both that we are made fellow heires, and that we enioy ſo great loue. And vpon this text, he ſayth: Nothing is neceſſarie for you, but that you ſtand faſt, and continue in your ſtrength, which hath great reward with God. Which wordes Primaſius repeating, ſayth: Nothing is neceſſarie for you, but ſtedfaſtnes in your faith. Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 3. 1. A ſhadow.) The Sacrifices and ceremonies of the old law, were ſo far from the truth of Chriſts Sacraments, and from giuing ſpirit, grace, remiſſion, redemption, and iuſtification, and thereupon the entrance into heauen and ioyes celeſtial, that they were but mere ſhadowes, vnperfectly and obſcurely repreſenting the graces of the new Teſtament and of Chriſtes death: whereas al the holy Churches rites and actions inſtituted by Chriſt in the Prieſthod of the new law, conteine and giue grace, iuſtification, and life euerlaſting to the faithful and worthy receiuers: and therefore they be not ſhades or darke reſemblances of Chriſtes paſſion, which is the fountaine of al grace and mercie, but perfect images and moſt liuely repreſentations of the ſame, ſpecially the ſacrifice of the altar, which becauſe it is the ſame oblation, the ſame hoſt, and offered by the ſame Prieſt Chriſt IESVS (though by the miniſterie of man and in myſterie) is the moſt pure and verie image, character, and correſpondence to the ſacrifice of Chriſtes paſſion, both in ſubſtance, force, and effect, that can be. The old ſacrifices obſcurely ſhadowed, but the ſacrifice of the altar moſt plainely repreſenteth the ſacrifice on the Croſſe.

Fulke 3. The Sacraments and ceremonies of the old Law, were ſhadowes of Chriſtes only Sacrifice and the vertue thereof, not of our Sacraments, as it is manifeſt in the 10. verſe. Neither doe the Sacraments of the new Teſtament, conteine or giue grace, iuſtification, and life, to the worthy receiuers, but are certaine teſtimonies of grace, iuſtification, and life, giuen by God reconciled to vs, by the only ſacrifice of Chriſts death. And ſo were the ſacrifices and ceremonies of the old Teſtament to the worthy receiuers, as effectuall to aſſure the fathers of grace, iuſtification, and life euerlatting, by the death of Chriſt, as our Sacraments are to vs. Although in reſpect of more cleere, plaine, and lightſome ſignification, our Sacraments doe farre exceede the Sacraments of the old Teſtament. And ſo the Goſpel, with the Sacraments thereof, may be called an expreſſe image or forme of good things, in reſpect of the Law with the ceremonies thereof, which was but a ſhadow of them. As for the Sacrifice of the Maſſe, which hath no ground in the word of God, and is ſo directly contrary to the only Sacrifice of Chriſtes death, once offred for all, is no expreſſe forme or repreſentation of Chriſtes death, but an apiſh counterfecting of Chriſtes actions concerning the ceremonies, and concerning the doctrine of it, a moſt horrible blaſphemie againſt the perfection and ſufficiencie of Chriſtes only ſacrifice. Sacraments. Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

Rhem. 4. 2. They ſhould haue ceaſed.) If the hoſtes and offerings of the old law had been of themſelues perfect to all effectes of redemption and remiſſion, as the Hebrues (againſt whom the Apoſtle diſputeth) did thinke, and had had no relation to Chriſtes ſacrifice on the Croſſe or any other abſolute and vniuerſal oblation or remedie for ſinne, but by and of their owne efficacie could haue generally purged and cleanſed men of al ſinne and damnation: then they ſhould neuer haue needed to be ſo often repeated and reiterated. For being both generally auailable for al, by their opinion, and particularly applied (in as ample ſort as they could be) to the ſeuerall infirmities of euery offender, there had been no ſinnes left. But ſinnes did remaine, euen thoſe ſinnes for which they had offered ſacrifices before, notwithſtanding their ſacrifices were particularly applied vnto them. For, offering yerely they did not onely offer ſacrifices for the new committed crimes, but euen for the old, for which they had The Iewes ſacrifices were not abſolute and independent, becauſe they were often repeated.

had often ſacrificed before: the ſacrifices being rather recordes and atteſtations of their ſinnes, then a redemption or full remiſſion, as Chriſtes death is. Which being once applied to man by Baptiſme, wipeth away all ſinnes paſt, God neuer remembring them any more, nor euer any ſacrifice or Sacrament or ceremonie being made or done for them any more, though for new ſinnes other remedies be daily requiſite. Their ſacrifices then could not of themſelues remitte ſinnes, much leſſe make the general redemption without relation to Chriſtes Paſſion. And ſo yon ſee it is plaine euery where, that the Apoſtle proueth not by the often repetition of the Iewiſh ſacrifices, that they were no ſacrifices at al, but that they were not of that abſolute force or efficacie, to make redemption or any remiſſion, without dependance of the one vniuerſal redemption by Chriſt: his whole purpoſe being, to inculcate vnto them the neceſſitie of Chriſtes death, and the oblation of the new Teſtament. As for the Churches holy ſacrifice, it is cleane of an other kinde then thoſe of the Iewes, and therfore he maketh no oppoſition betwixt it, and Chriſtes death or ſacrifice on the Croſſe, in al this Epiſtle: but rather as a ſequele of that one general oblation, couertly alwaies inferreth the ſame: as being in a different maner the very ſelf ſame hoſt and offering that was done vpon the Croſſe, and continually is wrought by the ſelf ſame Prieſt.

The Apoſtle proueth by the often repeating of the Iewes ſacrifices, not that they were none, but that they were not abſolute and ſufficient.

Fulke 4. The Hebrewes to whome the Apoſtle writeth were Chriſtians, and therefore could haue no ſuch groſſe opinion of the ſacrifices of the Lawe, which no faithfull Iewe had before the comming of Chriſt. Therefore they beleeued that all thoſe ſacrifices tooke there effect, onely of the death of Chriſt. Yet they thought they might be ſtill offered, to apply the vertue of his death vnto them. But the Apoſtle declareth, that after the ſacrifice of Chriſt once offered, whereby all ſinnes are taken away, there are meanes by God appointed, to apply the vertue thereof to euery perſon, but all ſacrifices for ſinne muſt needes ceaſe. Howbeit you ſay: That Chriſtes death being once applied to man by baptiſme, wipeth away all ſinnes, &c. though for new ſinnes, other remedies be daily requiſite. Where your ſpeach is doubtfull, whether you meane other remedies then the death of Chriſt, or other remedies then Baptiſme. In trueth not the externall acte of Baptiſme, but the inward working of Gods ſpirite, waſheth away all ſinnes in the elect, by the vertue of Chriſtes death, which is teſtified and confirmed vnto vs, by the outward Sacrament of Baptiſme. The vertue of which application by Gods ſpirite, in our regeneration, extendeth not onely to the ſinnes paſt, but to all infirmities to come. And the Sacrament of Baptiſme is a ſeale for confirmation of our faith, of remiſſion of our ſinnes committed after Baptiſme receiued, when we are penitent for them, aſwell as of ſinnes committed before: ſeeing it hath relation to the death of Chriſt, whereby all our ſinnes are forgiuen. Therefore, although the ceremonie of Baptiſme ought not to be repeated, yet the vertue of Gods ſpirite teſtified thereby, that we are borne againe to be the ſonnes of God, remaineth to our liues ende, and vnto eternall life. Although, for further confirmation of our faith, and aſſurance of our perpetuall conſeruation in the body of Chriſt, whereunto we are engraffed by Baptiſme, the mercy of God hath added another Sacrament of our ſpiritual nouriſhment & feeding, with the very body and bloud of Chriſt crucified. Not as a new Sacrifice for ſinne, nor as a reiteration of that only ſacrifice of Chriſts death, but as an vndoubted pledge of his grace, wherby we are aſſured that we are not only borne againe to be his children, but alſo are fed with the foode of life & immortalitie, that we might alwaies continue in the ſtate of Gods children, euen vntil we be put in poſſeſſion of our heauenly inheritance. Therfore, there is none other remedie for ſinnes committed after Baptiſme, but the ſacrifice of Chriſts death: the vertue & force whereof, is inwardly applied vnto euery perſon, on Gods behalfe by his ſpirit, on mans behalfe, in them that haue vnderſtanding by faith in his word preached, and teſtified outwardly, by the holy Sacraments of Baptiſme, and the Lords Supper. That the Iewiſh ſacrifices were no ſacrifices, no man in his right wits would affirme, but the repeating of them argueth, that they were imperfect ſacrifices, that did not take away ſinne. So the repeating of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, declareth, that ſinne is not taken away by it, yea it doth blaſphemouſly emply, that ſinne is not taken away by the death of Chriſt. For remiſſion of ſinnes once obteined, there remaineth no more ſacrifice for ſinne, ver. 18 If therfore remiſſion of ſinnes were obteined perfectly by the death of Chriſt, the Maſſe is no ſacrifice for ſinnes. If the Maſſe muſt needs be a ſacrifice for ſinnes, then remiſſion of ſinnes was not obtained by the death of Chriſt. But the Popiſh Churches ſacrifice (you ſay) is of another kind, then thoſe of the Iewes, and you ſay right, For they were ordained by God, to be holy ſacrifices and ſacraments of remiſſion of ſinnes, by the only perfect ſacrifice of Chriſts death, but your ſacrifice hath no inſtitution of God, and is blaſphemous againſt the only ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. Where you ſay, He maketh no oppoſition betwixt it and Chriſtes death or ſacrifice on the Croſſe, in all this Epiſtle. I anſwere, he maketh ſuch oppoſition as is betweene contradictories, ſacrifice, and no ſacrifice. For Chriſtes death being the onely ſacrifice for ſinne, there remaineth now no ſacrifice for ſinne, whereas betweene the ſacrifices of the Law, and Chriſtes ſacrifice, he maketh ſuch oppoſition, as is betweene Relatiues. Becauſe all theſe ſacrifices did ſignifie this only perfect and abſolute ſacrifice. But rather (you ſay) as a ſequele of that one generall oblation, couertly alwaies he inferreth the ſame. It is a very couert illation, that by no argument can be deduced out of his wordes or ſentences. And it is a monſtrous ſequele, that one onely ſacrifice but once offered, neuer to be reiterated, after which there remaineth no ſacrifice for ſinne, ſhould draw after it another ſacrifice, to be repeated ten thouſand times euery day. But it is the ſelfe ſame hoſt (you ſay) and offering, that was done vpon the Croſſe in a different manner, and continually is wrought by the ſame Prieſt. But the text is plaine, that Chriſt offered him ſelfe but once, and that was vpon the croſſe, and by that one oblation, he made perfect for euer all that are ſanctified. Therefore, your deuiſe of a different maner, cannot ſtand with the Scripture, by which it foloweth, that Chriſt offred not him ſelf once only, but twiſe in his owne perſon, and a thouſand thouſand times by Popiſh Prieſts. And ſeeing you haue no ground in the word of God, to warrant this your offering in a different maner, you may aſwel inuent ten thouſand different maners, in which Chriſt hath or doth offer him ſelf ſo often, to elude that which the holy Ghoſt ſpeaketh ſo plainly of Chriſts one oblation but once offred, as you haue inuented this one different maner. But ſeeing the Scripture teſtificth, that perfect redemption is wrought by that one oblation of Chriſt on the croſſe, what neede or vſe is there, that Chriſt ſhould be often offred in any different maner? Againe, where was it euer heard in the Scripture, that one ſacrifice ſhould be offred by two Prieſtes? For you ſay, that your Popiſh ſacrifice is continually wrought by the ſelfe ſame Prieſt, Chriſt, and yet you ſtoutly defende, that it is offered by the Popiſh Prieſt that ſayth Maſſe, who is a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, to offer vp this ſacrifice, as Chriſt him ſelfe was. How can theſe blaſphemies and abſurdities, with any conſcience be maintained?

Rhem. 5. 4. Impoſſible.) The hoſtes and ſacrifices of the old Law, which the carnal Iewes made al the count of, without relation to Chriſtes death, were not onely not perfect and abſolute ſufficient in them ſelues, but they did not, nor could not remit any ſinnes at al, being but onely ſignes therof, referring the offenders for remiſſion in deede, to Chriſtes Paſſion. For the bloud of bruit beaſtes could haue no other effect, nor any other element or creature, before Chriſtes death. the fruite whereof, before it was extant, could be no otherwiſe properly applied vnto them, but by beleefe in him.

The old ſacrifices remitted not ſinnes, but were only ſignes therof.

Fulke 5. The fruite of Chriſtes death was neuer applied to the carnall Iewes, which made ſuch accompt of their ſacrifices, without relation to Chriſtes death. But to them that eſteemed rightly of the ſacrifices of the Law, the fruite of Chriſtes death was applied, as it is vnto vs by the ſpirite of God and faith, teſtified and confirmed by thoſe Sacraments.

The eternall fruit of Chriſt one Sacrifice.

Rhem. 6. 5. Hoſt and oblation.) He meaneth not that God would no hoſt nor ſacrifice any more, as the Proteſtants falſely imagin: for that were to take away not onely the ſacrifice of Chriſtes body vpon the altar, but the ſacrifice of the ſame body vpon the Croſſe alſo. Therfore the Prophet ſpeaketh onely of the legal and carnal ſacrifices of the Iewes, ſignifying that they did neuer of them ſelues pleaſe God, but in reſpect of Chriſt, by whoſe oblation of his owne body they ſhould pleaſe.

God refuſeth the Iewes ſacrifices, not al ſacrifice.

Fulke 6. He meaneth, that God would no hoſt nor ſacrifice for ſinne, to worke ſatisfaction and reconciliation, but only the Sacrifice of Chriſtes body vpon the Croſſe. Whereof the legall ſacrifices were figures and ſhadowes. As for the Popiſh ſacrifice of Chriſtes body vpon the altar, is a blaſphemous deuiſe of Antichriſt, whereof the Scripture neuer ſpeaketh.

Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

Rhem. 7. 5. But a body.) If Chriſt had not had a body, he could not haue had any worthy matter or any matter at al to ſacrifice in viſible manner, other then the hoſtes of the old law. Neither could he either haue made the general redemption by his one oblation vpon the Croſſe, nor the daily ſacrifice of the Church: for both which, his body was fitted by the diuine wiſedom. which is an high concluſion, not vnderſtood of Iewes, Pagans, nor the Heretikes of our time, that Chriſtes humane nature was taken to make the Sonne of God (who in his diuine nature could not be either Prieſt or hoſt) fitte to be the ſacrifice and Prieſt of his father, in a more worthy ſort, then al the Prieſts or oblations of the old Law. And that this body was giuen him, not onely to be the ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe, but alſo vpon the altar, S. Auguſtine affirmeth in theſe wordes. The table which the Prieſt of the new Teſtament doth exhibit, is of his body and bloud: for that is the ſacrifice which ſucceded al thoſe ſacrifices that were offered in ſhadow of that to come. For the which alſo we acknowledge that voice of the ſame Mediatour in the Pſalme. BVT A BODY THOV HAST FITTED TO ME, becauſe in ſteede of al thoſe ſacrifices and oblations his body is offered, and is miniſtred to the partakers or receiuers. Li. 17. Ciuit. Dei c. 20. And againe li. 4. de Trin. c. 14. Who ſo iuſt and holy a Prieſt, as the onely Sonne of God? What might ſo conueniently be offered for men, of men, as mans fleſh? and what ſo fitte for this immolation or offering, as mortal fleſh? what ſo cleane for cleanſing the vices of mortal men, as the fleſh borne of the virgins wombe? and what can be offered and receiued ſo gratefully, as the fleſh of our ſacrifice, made the body of our Prieſt?

That Chriſt ſhould haue a body, was neceſſarie for his Prieſthod, and ſacrifice. The body of Chriſt is the ſacrifice of the altar. Pſ. 39.

Fulke 7. The Scripture teſtifieth, that Chriſts body was made for his one and only oblation vpon the croſſe, and not for any ſecond oblation, or infinite repetitions of the ſame oblation vpon the altar. And the neceſſitie of his humanitie, to be a Prieſt, & to haue a ſacrifice, (God be thanked) we vnderſtand ſufficiently, as alſo the neceſſitie of his diuinitie, to make his miniſterie & ſacrifice acceptable. But that Chriſts body was giuen him, not only to be the Sacrifice vpon the Croſſe, but alſo vpon the altar, S. Auguſtine affirmeth. If S. Auguſtine affirme that, for which he hath no warrant in the Scripture, his affirmation is no ground to build our faith vpon. But his wordes being rightly vnderſtood according to his meaning, which he declareth at large in other places, doth nothing auaile to confirme the Popiſh ſacrifice. For in the former place he meaneth, that the ſacrifice of Chriſtes body was but once offred by him ſelfe vpon the croſſe. Yet he inſtituted in the Sacrament a table, for participation of the ſame body then ſacrificed, which commeth to the end of the world, wherein Chriſt is not properly ſacrificed againe, but the feaſt of Chriſtes only ſacrifice, for participation is continued in an holy memorial. For we muſt not thinke, that S. Auguſtine would apply that Scripture to the Lords Supper, which the Apoſtle ſo euidently & properly, applieth to the death of Chriſt. Therfore he vſeth the word ſacrifice in ſuch ſpeaches, improperly, for a Sacrament or holy ſigne of that ſacrifice, not for a ſacrifice in deed. As he declareth De Ciuit. lib. 10. cap. 20 ſaying: By this he is a Prieſt, he him ſelfe offring, and be him ſelfe being the oblation. Of which thing, he would haue the daily ſacrifice of the Church to be a Sacrament, ſeeing he is the head of his owne body, and ſhe is the body of her owne head, aſwel ſhe by him, as he by her, being accuſtomed to be offred. In theſe words he declareth firſt, that the Lords Supper is vnproperly called a Sacrifice, when in deed it is a Sacrament of the only oblation of Chriſt. Secondly, that in this Sacrament is offred not a Sacrifice propitiatorie for ſinne, but a ſpirituall Sacrifice of thankſgiuing, for the redemption of the Church, which is ſpiritually offred by Chriſt in this Sacrifice, as Chriſt is offred by the Church. His meaning alſo, of the vſe of this terme ſacrifice, he ſheweth Epiſt. 23. Bonifacio. Was not Chriſt offred but once onely in him ſelfe? and yet in a Sacrament, he is not only offred for the people, at euery ſolemnitie of Eaſter, but euery day. Neither doth he lie, that being aſked the queſtion, doth anſwer, that he is offred. For if Sacraments had not a certaine ſimilitude of thoſe things whereof they be Sacraments, they ſhould not be Sacraments at all. And of this ſimilitude, for the moſt part, they receiue the names of the things them ſelues. Therefore, as after a certaine manner, the Sacrament of the body of Chriſt, is the body of Chriſt, the Sacrament of the bloud of Chriſt, is the bloud of Chriſt. ſo the Sacrament of faith, is faith. It is moſt cleere by this ſaying, that the Sacrament was called a Sacrifice vnproperly, becauſe it is a Sacrament or holy ſigne of the onely Sacrifice of Chriſtes death, as alſo it is called the body of Chriſt, becauſe it is a ſigne and Sacrament thereof. The ſecond place of S. Auguſtine. De trinitat. lib. 4. c. 14. is moſt impudently alledged, to proue that Chriſts body was giuen him to be ſacrificed vpon the altar, where Auguſtine ſpeaketh onely of the Sacrifice of Chriſtes death, whereof he ſpake in the Chapter before, where he ſayth: By his death, that one moſt true Sacrifice offered for vs, what ſinnes ſoeuer there was, for which the principalities and powers held vs by right, rights,to ſuffer puniſhment,be purged,aboliſhed,extinguiſhed,and by his reſurrection into a new life,he called vs that are predeſtinated, and being called,he iuſtified vs, and being iuſtified, he glorified vs. Therefore it is true, that is cited in the decrees as out of Auguſtine de conſec.diſt.2.c.Hoc eſt.That offering of his fleſh,which is made by the prieſts hands, is called the paſſion,death,crucifying of Chriſt, not in trueth of the thing,but in a ſignifying myſterie.

Rhem.8. 8. Neither did they pleaſe thee.) By that he ſayth,the things offered in the Lawe,did not pleaſe God, and likewiſe by that he ſayth,the former to be taken away, that the ſecond may haue place,it is euident,that all hoſtes and ſacrifices be not taken away by Chriſt,as the Heretikes fol ſhly conceiue: but that the olde hoſtes of brute beaſtes be abrogated to giue place to that which is the proper hoſt of the newe lawe,that is,Chriſtes owne body. The Iewes ſacrifices refuſed, not all ſacrifice.

Fulke.8. By the ſacrifice of Chriſt once offered, all hoſts and ſacrifices are taken away: as the wordes of the text are manifeſt,ſeeing we are ſanctified by the oblation of the body of Chriſt once offered,ver.10. That which commeth in place therefore of the old ſacrifices of the lawe, is the one only oblation of Chriſtes body,which was once offered,and neither can,nor neede euer to be offered any more. The one ſacrifice of Chriſtes death.

Rhem.9. 11. Often offering the ſame hoſtes.) As S.Paul is forced often to inculcate that one principle of the efficacie and ſufficiencie of Chriſtes death,becauſe of the Hebrues to much attributing to their legall ſacrifices,and for that they did not referre them to Chriſtes onely oblation: ſo we,through the intolerable ignorance and importunitie of the Heretikes of this time(abuſing the wordes of the Apoſtle ſpoken in the due defence and declaration of the valure and efficacie of Chriſtes paſſion aboue the ſacrifices of the Law)are forced to repeate often,that the Apoſtles reaſon of many Prieſts and often repetition of the ſelfe ſame ſacrifices ,concerneth the ſacrifices of the Law onely, vnto which he oppoſeth Chriſtes ſacrifice and Prieſthod,and ſpeaketh no word of or againſt the Sacrifice of the newe Teſtament,which is the ſacrifice of Chriſtes owne Prieſthod,Lawe,and inſtitution,yea the ſame ſacrifice done dayly vnbloudily, that once was done blouddily : made by the ſame Prieſt Chriſt Ieſus,though by his miniſters hands: and not many hoſtes,as thoſe of the old lawe were,but the very ſelfe ſame in number,euen Chriſtes owne body that was crucified. And that you may ſee that this is the iudgement of all antiquitie, and their expoſition of theſe and the like wordes of this Epiſtle,and that they ſeeing the very ſame argumentes that the Proteſtants nowe make ſo much a doe withall among the ſimple and vnlerned ,yet well perceiued that they made nothing againſt the dayly oblation or ſacrifice of the altar,and therefore anſwered them before the Proteſtants were extant,1200.yeres: we will ſet downe ſome of their wordes,whoſe authorie and expoſition of the Scriptures muſt preuaile in all that haue wiſdome or the feare of God ,aboue the falſe and vaine gloſes of Caluine and his followers. We muſt often note that the Apoſtles ſpeach of many prieſtes and often ſacrificing,concerneth onely the Iewes prieſtes and ſacrifices, not the prieſts and ſacrifice of the newe Teſtament.

Thus then firſt ſayth S.Ambroſe: Quid ergo nos &c. What we then? doe not we offer euery day? we offer ſurely: but this ſacrifice is an exampler of that: for we offer alwayes the ſelfe ſame, and not nowe one lambe, to morowe an other, but alwayes the ſelfe ſame thing: therefore it is one ſacrifice, otherwiſe, by this reaſon becauſe it is offred in many places,there ſhould be many Chriſtes. not ſo,but it is one Chriſt in euery place,here whole, and there whole, one body. But this which we doe, is done for a commemoration of that which was done. for we offer not an other ſacrifice, as the high Prieſt of the olde lawe, but alwayes the ſelfe ſame &c. Primaſius S.Auguſtines ſcholer doth alſo preoccupate theſe Proteſtants obiections thus: What ſhall we ſay then? doe no: our Prieſtes dayly offer ſacrifice? they offer ſurely, becauſe we ſinne dayly, and dayly haue neede to be cleanſed: and becauſe he cannot die,he hath giuen vs the ſacrament of his body and bloud: that as his Paſſion was the redemption and abſolution of the world, ſo alſo this oblation may be redemption and cleanſing to al that offer it in truth and veritie. So ſayth this holy father,to wite, that as the ſacrifice of the Croſſe was a generall redemption, ſo this of the altar is,to all that vſe it,a particular redemption or application of Chriſtes redemption: to them.In which ſenſe alſo V.Bede calleth the holy Maſſe, redemptionem corporis & animæ ſempiternam, the euerlaſting redemption of body and ſoule. lib.4.cap.22.hiſtor. Againe the ſame Primaſius, The diuinitie of the worde of God which is euery where,maketh that there are not many ſacrifices,but one,although it be offered of many,and that as it is one body which he tooke of the Virgins wombe, not many bodies, euen ſo alſo one ſacrifice,not diuers,as thoſe of the Iewes were. The Caluiniſts argumentes againſt Chriſtes body often offered,and in many places, anſwered by the fathers long agoe. in 10.ad Hebr. ibidem. The generall redemption vpon ỹ Croſſe is particularly applied in the ſacrifice of the altar. Primaſ.loco citato.

Otherwiſe, becauſe it is offered in many places, there ſhould be many Chriſtes. And a litle after, Not an other ſacrifice, as the high Prieſt of the olde lawe, but the ſelfe ſame we doe alwayes offer, rather working a remembrance or commemoration of the ſacrifice. See the Annotation Luke 22,19. vpon theſe wordes, A commemoration. Thus did all the auncient fathers Greeke and Latine treate of theſe matters, and ſo they ſaid Maſſe , and offered dayly, and many of them made ſuch formes of celebrating the diuine ſacrifice , as the Greekes and Latines doe vſe in their Liturgies and Maſſes,and yet they ſaw theſe places of the Apoſtle and made commentaries vpon them,and vnderſtood them (I trowe) as well as the Proteſtants. hom.17.in ep.ad Hebr.*

Fulke.9. That the Hebrues,to whom the Apoſtle writeth,in that they were Chriſtians, did referre their ſacrifices to Chriſtes only oblation,as all faithful Iewes did before Chriſtes comming in ỹ fleſh I haue often proued:for els they ſhould haue been no better then carnall Iewes. And this to deny,is intollerable,both ignorance and impudence in theſe Rhemiſh papiſts. The wordes of the Apoſtle ſpoken in defence and declaration of the valure and efficacie of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death once offered , and neuer to be repeated , doe of them ſelues ouerthrowe your blaſphemous ſacrifice of the Maſſe: therefore we doe no way abuſe them. Wherefore,where as you ſay , the Apoſtles reaſons of many prieſtes, and often repetition of the ſame ſacrifice, concerneth the ſacrifices of the The ſacrifice of Chriſt once offered.

lawe onely,it is falſe for they make alſo and much more, againſt all the falſe ſacrifices of the Gentiles, and all other falſe ſacrifices, whatſoeuer ỹ deuill ſhould afterward inuent by Heretikes. Therefore S.Auguſtine ſaith. To this highest and true ſacrifice,all falſe ſacrifices haue giuen place. De ciuit. lib.10.c.20. Againe, the Apoſtles reaſons doe ſo make againſt the many prieſtes and often ſacrifice of the lawe, that they muſt giue place to the onely prieſt and ſacrifice once offered by Chriſt: whereas if there be infinite prieſts and ſacrifices, or one ſacrifice infinitely repeated in the new Teſtament,the Apoſtles reaſons make nothing againſt the multitude of prieſtes and ſacrifices of ỹ lawe.That he ſpeaketh no word of the ſacrifice of the Maſſe,it is becauſe there is none ſuch,but againſt that falſe fiction of ſuch a blaſphemous ſacrifice, he ſpeaketh often when he ſpeaketh of the ſingular prieſthod of Chriſt, and of his one oblation once offered, whereby eternall redemption is found, and of the impoſſibility of reiterating the ſame ſacrifice,becauſe Chriſt can die no more. Where you ſay your popiſh ſacrifice and ſacrificing prieſthod,is of Chriſtes inſtitution to be done dayly vnbloudily,you haue no word of God to proue ſuch inſtitution or maner of oblation: wherefore it is nothing els but a blaſphemous inuention of Antichriſt,to deface the glorie of Chriſtes onely ſacrifice. As for the iudgement of all antiquitie,if it were contrary to ſo cleare light of the trueth,as is expreſſed in plaine wordes and moſt euident reaſons in this Epiſtle,it were nothing to be regarded. But as I haue often ſaide and proued the auncient fathers, although they doe vnproperly vſe the word of ſacrifice,for that which is but a ſacrament and commemoration of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſt once offered on the croſſe: yet doe they expound them ſelues at one time or another, that they meane it to be onely a ſacrament,not a ſacrifice propitiatorie in deede,or els a ſpirituall ſacrifice of prayſe and thankeſgiuing.That you ſay our arguments were anſwered 1200.yeres agoe,it is falſe:for none of ỹ fathers of ỹ age acknowledged your popiſh ſacrifice of the maſſe. The wordes that are aſcribed to S. Ambroſe, are the ſame which are found in the commentarie of Chryſoſtome vpon the Hebrues, and doe plainely declare, that the celebration of the Lordes ſupper, is vnproperly called a ſacrifice, being in deede a commemoration of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death :and therefore it followeth, that it is rather a memorie of that ſacrifice, then a ſacrifice in deede. We offer not another ſacrifice, as the high Prieſt, but the ſame alwayes, but rather we worke the remembrance of a ſacrifice. Thus Ambroſe and Chryſoſtome doe plainely confeſſe, that the ſacrament is vnproperly called a ſacrifice,which is rather an exemplar,a remembrance,or memorial of that ſacrifice of Chriſt. The ſaying of Primaſius alſo you doe falſifie,by gelding out theſe words,which do expound his meaning:For theſe are his wordes.What then ſhall we ſay? doe not our prieſtes the ſame thing daily,while they offer ſacrifice continually? they offer in deede but for the remembrance of his death. And becauſe we ſinne daily,and haue neede daily to be cleanſed,becauſe he cannot now die, he hath giuen vs this ſacrament of his body and blond, that as his paſſion was the redemption and abſolution of the worlde: ſo alſo this oblation may be redemption and cleanſing, to all that offer it in true faith, and haue a good intention.

Sacrifice of the maſſe.

Firſt therefore he ſaith not,that the prieſtes offer a ſacrifice propitiatory for ſinne, but they are ſaid to offer ſacrifice vnproperly: for they offer not abſolutely, but vnto,or for the remembrance of Chriſtes death.

Secondly he ſayth,that Chriſt hath giuen this ſacrament of his body and bloud,that by true faith we might apply the benefite of redemption by Chriſtes death vnto vs, ſeeing the ſacrament is a ſeale of God added to his worde,to confirme our faith.And this is the true meaning of Primaſius, howſoeuer by leauing out and altering his wordes,you would enforce him to ſay another thing. Neither doth Bede (although he liued in a ſuperſtitious time, long after Antichriſt did openly ſhewe himſelfe) call the maſſe, the euerlaſting redemption of body and ſoule. But ſaith, that vpon the credite of the report of one Imma, (a meere argument for ſuch a concluſion) which ſaid he was deliuered of his bondes, wherein he was held priſoner, ſo often as his brother Tunna cauſed maſſe to be ſaid for him,ſuppoſing he had been dead: Men vnderſtood,that the healthfull ſacrifice auailed to redemption both of ſoule and body euerlaſting. The like fable telleth Gregorie hom.37.in Euang.The words of Primaſius that followe doe ſhewe, that Chriſt is dayly receiued whole of euery one of the faithfull,that receiueth the ſacrament worthely by his diuine power, not altering the nature of Chriſtes body, but by feeding them with it ſpiritually through faith. The other ſaying borrowed out of S.Chryſoſtome by Theophylact, Oecumenius,and the reſt,doth manifeſtly declare,that thoſe fathers called the celebration of the Lords Supper, by the name of a ſacrifice vnproperly, which they confeſſed to be rather a remembrance of Chriſtes onely once offered ſacrifice,then a ſacrifice in deede,as that was.Wherefore though they yeelded to the terme that was commonly receiued,yet as well in their commentaries vpon this epiſtle,as in other of their writings they declared, how they vnderſtand that terme: the vnproper vſe whereof is the onely colour that you haue in the auncient fathers for your propitiatorie ſacrifice : but in the ſcriptures you haue not ſo much as the ſhadowe or colour of the name of ſacrifice, euer applied to the celebration of the Lordes Supper. And as for the auncient Lyturgies, they haue not ſacrifice in them of the very body and bloud of Chriſt, but onely a remembrance of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, for which they offer the ſpirituall ſacrifice of prayſe of thankeſgiuing, of them ſelues,and all that they haue. The multitude of places that are quoted, are for the moſt part anſwered already in Luke cap.22. Sect.5. The reſt haue nothing but the name of ſacrifice, which howe it was vnderſtood, I haue often declared. But that which is quoted out of the firſt Nicen Councell out of the Greeke is this : In the holy table let vs not baſely attend the bread and cuppe ſet before vs,but lifting vp our mindes,let vs vnderſtand by faith, that Lambe of God which taketh away the ſinnes of the world, to be ſet on that holy table,to be vnbloudily ſacrificed of the prieſtes, and that we truely taking his owne precious body and bloud, doe beleeue theſe to be myſticall tookens of our redemption. For this cauſe we take not much, but little, that we may knowe we take not to fill vs,but for holineſſe. The very wordes here vſed doe plainely declare,that Chriſt is not really offered in the ſacrament, but ἀθρόως, without ſacrifice,that is,by a commemoration of his death and onely ſacrifice. The like wordes they haue of baptiſme: *Doeſt thou ſee water? vnderſtand that the power of God is hidden in the waters.*Where euery man ſeeth,that the wordes muſt be vnderſtood figurariuely,as it is vſuall in ſacraments. In the libell of accuſation of Dioſcorus,exhibited to the Councell of Chalcedon by Iſchyrion a Deacon,it is declared, that whereas the Emperours had appointed certaine corne to be giuen to the cities of Lybia,ſpecially that of it the ſacrifice might be offered, and the reſt be beſtowed vpon the releeſe of the poore, Dioſcorus ſold the ſaid corne at exceſſiue prices,

prices, ſo that of it neither the reuerend and vnbloudie ſacrifice was celebrated, nor the poore releeued. Here is nothing but the bare terme of hoſt and ſacrifice, by which is meant the celebration of the Lords Supper, whereof the multitude did often communicate. For els a ſmall quantitie of corne would ſerue to offer the popiſh ſacrifice of the maſſe. In the Councell of Ancyra, the firſt canon excludeth prieſts from exerciſing their office, if they haue ſacrificed to Idoles, among which offices offerre to offer, is named: whereby the celebration of the Lordes Supper is ſignified. In the 4. canon there is no worde of ſacrificing, but to Idoles. In the 5. canon it is decreed, that they which in mourning garments and behauiour, haue come into the temple of Idoles, ſhould after three yeeres repentance, be receiued to the communion without oblation: that is, their oblation ſhould not be receiued, as was vſuall to be receiued of other Chriſtians that had not fallen: although Balſamon thinketh it to be meant of the participation of the Lords Supper. In the councell of Neocæſarea it is decreed, that in preſence of the Biſhop, the prieſts ſhould not offer, nor giue the ſanctified bread, nor deliuer the cuppe: Which is nothing els, but to offer the ſacrifice of prayſe and thankeſgiuing in the miniſtration of the Lords Supper. In the councell of Laodicea it is decreed, that after the prieſt by a kiſſe hath giuen peace to the Biſhop, and the lay men one to another, then the oblation ſhould be offered. Which whether it be the diſtribution of the Lords Supper, or ſome other oblation: certeyne it is, that it was not the ſacrifice of the maſſe, which is done before the paxe be giuen. In the 2. of Carthage, is nothing but the word ſacrificing: which proueth no propitiatorie ſacrifice of the body and bloud of Chriſt. In the 3. of Carthage it is decreed, that in the ſacraments of the body & bloud of our Lord, nothing more be offered, then our Lord himſelfe deliuered, that is, bread and wine mixt with water: and that nothing more be offered in the ſacrifices, but of grapes and corne. This decree teſtifieth, that the ſacrifice was of bread and wine, not of the naturall body and blood of Chriſt: alſo, that Chriſt deliuered bread and wine, which ouerthroweth tranſubſtantiation: as for the name of ſacrifice, we haue ſufficiently declared how it was vſed. In the 4. of Carthage, is nothing but the name of oblation, and the conſecration of the oblation: which proueth, that the oblation was not the body of Chriſt: for the body and blood of Chriſt is not conſecrated, but the bread and wine to be a ſacrament thereof. The counterfeict tables of S. Andrew and S. Martiall, are worthy of none anſwere. Origen ſpeaking of the bread of propoſition ſayth: If theſe things be referred to the greatneſſe of the myſterie, thou ſhalt finde that this commemoration hath effect of great propitiation. If thou returne to that bread which came downe from heauen, and giueth life to this worlde, this bread of propoſition, whom God hath ſet forth to be a propitiation by faith in his blood: and if thou looke vnto that commemoration of which our Lord ſayth: Doe this in remembrance of me, thou ſhalt finde, that this is the onely commemoration, that maketh God merciſull to men. In theſe wordes he doth not call the ſacrament a ſacrifice, but a commemoration: which as it is a ſacrament of Chriſtes death, whereby onely God is reconciled vnto vs, ſo it confirmeth our faith in that reconciliation, and ſacramentally reconcileth God to men. Finally the vnlearned are to be admoniſhed, that the participle which they tranſlate here in the preſent time offering, as though Chriſt ſtill offered, is in the Greeke of the preter tenſe or time paſt, and ſhould haue been tranſlated after he hath offered, or hauing offered.

Rhem. 10 18. Now there is not.) Chriſts death cannot be applied vnto vs in that full and ample ſort as it is in Baptiſme, but once: Chriſt appointing that Large remiſſion and application to be made but once in euery man, as Chriſt died but once. for he is not meant that all ſinne ſhall ceaſe after Chriſtes ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe, nor that there ſhould be no oblation for ſinnes committed after Baptiſme, or that a man could not ſinne at all after Baptiſme, or that if he ſinned afterward, he could haue no remedie or remiſſion by Gods ordinance in the Church, which diuers falſe hoods ſundry Heretikes gather of this and ſuch like places: but onely the Apoſtle telleth the Hebrues, as he did before chap. 6. and as he doth ſtraights afterward, that if they fall now (whereunto they ſeemed very prone) to their olde lawes, and voluntarily after the knowledge and profeſſion of the Chriſtian faith by Baptiſme, commit this ſinne of incredulitie and apoſtaſie, they can neuer haue that abundant remiſſion applied vnto them by Baptiſme, which can neuer be miniſtred to them againe. And that generall full pardon he calleth here, oblation, and afterward in the 26. verſe hoſtiam pro peccato, an hoſt for ſinne.

When the Apoſtle ſeemeth to ſay, there is no remiſſion or oblation for ſinne, he alwaies meaneth that full remiſſion by Baptiſme.

Fulke. 10 The Apoſtle concludeth, that ſeeing remiſſion of ſinnes is obteyned by ỹ ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, there remaineth now no more ſacrifice for ſinne. Thereof it followeth inuincibly, ỹ the maſſe is not a ſacrifice for ſinne: to auoide which moſt cleare conſequence, you ſay moſt impudently, the full pardon obteyned in baptiſme is called an oblation for ſinne. So you wil bring in ỹ ſacrifice of baptiſme, as you doe the ſacrifice of the maſſe. Such monſtrous cõclusions you inuent, to obſcure ỹ moſt cleere light of the trueth. For it is moſt manifeſt, ỹ the Apoſtle out of ỹ text of ſcripture rehearſed immediadtly before concludeth, ỹ all oblation is nowe taken away, becauſe remiſſion of ſinnes is obteyned by Chriſtes one oblation of himſelfe vpon ỹ croſſe. So doe the auncient fathers expound this text. Chryſoſtome ſayth: Therefore he forgaue ſinnes, when he gaue the teſtament, he gaue the teſtament by his ſacrifice: if therefore he forgaue ſinnes by one ſacrifice, now there is no neede of the ſecond. Theodoret ſaith: Where there is remiſſion of theſe things, nowe there is no oblation for ſinne: for it is ſuperfluous after remiſſion is giuen. And he promiſed remiſſion ſaying: Their ſinnes and iniquities, I will no more remember. Primaſius referreth it to the abolithing of the ſacrifices of the lawe, but the text is generall of all oblation: and the ſame reaſon extendeth to al other ſacrifices that might be inuented. Photius vpon this text ſayth: What neede is there of many oblations, when that one which Chriſt offered is ſufficient to take away ſinnes? The ſacrifice of the maſſe therefore, can neuer ſtand with the trueth of this text to be a ſacrifice for ſinne.

The ſacrifice of the Maſſe.

Rhem. 11 26. If we ſinne willingly.) As the Caluiniſts abuſe other like places againſt the holy ſacrifice of the Maſſe, ſo they abuſe this as the Nouatians did before them, to proue that an Heretike, Apoſtata, or any that wilfully forſaketh the trueth, can neuer be forgiuen. Which (as is before declared in the 6. chap.) is moſt wicked blaſphemie: the meaning here of being, as is there ſaid, onely to terriſie the Hebrues, that falling from Chriſt they cannot ſo eaſily haue the hoſt of Chriſtes death applied vnto them, becauſe they cannot be baptized any more, but muſt paſſe by ſacrament all penance, and ſatisfaction, and other hard remedies which Chriſt hath preſcribed after Baptiſme in the Churches diſcipline. Therefore S. Cyrill ſayth, lib. 5. in Io. cap. 17. Penance is not excluded by theſe wordes of Paul, but the renewing by the lauer of regeneration. He doth not here take away the ſecond or third remiſſion of ſinnes (for he is not ſuch an enemie to our ſaluation) but the hoſt which is Chriſt he denieth ỹ it is to be offered againe vpon the Croſſe. So ſaith this holy Doctor. And by this place and the like you ſee, how perilous a thing it is for Heretikes and ignorant perſons to reade the Scriptures. Which by following their owne fantaſie they peruert to their damnation.

The Caluiniſts hereſie againſt remiſſion of ſinnes.

All ſinnes may be remitted by penance, but not ſo fully as by Baptiſme.

Perilous reading of the Scriptures. 2. Peter 3.

Fulke 11 By that which followeth in amplification of this ſinne it is manifeſt, that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of euery voluntary treſpaſſe, but of wilfull, obſtinate, & contumelious falling away from Chriſt, which is ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, and ſhall neuer be remitted, either in this world or in the world to come. Therefore this text fauoureth not the hereſie of the Nouatians, which denied repentance after baptiſme for any offence. But it is moſt wicked blaſphemie (you ſay) to affirme, that wilfull and generall apoſtacy can neuer be forgiuen. You muſt charge the Apoſtle then with blaſphemie, and our Sauiour Chriſt: for their wordes are plaine to that effect. But the meaning (you ſay) is onely to terrifie the Hebrues, that falling from Chriſt, they cannot ſo eaſily haue the hoſt of Chriſtes death applied vnto them. His meaning in deede is to terrifie the Hebrues, but he faineth not the danger to be greater then it is, when he ſayth, it is impoſſible for them to be renued, that haue ſinned againſt the holy Ghoſt. He wanted not wordes to haue expreſſed his meaning, if it had been onely of the hard ſacramentall penance, ſatisfaction, and other hard remedies that Chriſt hath preſcribed after baptiſme, but neuer a word of them in ỹ ſcripture: He would not haue ſaid, it is an impoſſible thing, but it is an hard matter. Yea if he had knowen how eaſily al that hard penance, ſatisfaction, and other hard remedies, may be releaſed by a generall pardon of the Pope a pena & culpa, he could not iuſtly haue terrified them with the difficultie of the remedies. For the hoſt of Chriſtes death is not more eaſily applied by baptiſme, then all penance and ſatisfaction is releaſed by a Popes pardon. Therefore all your doctrine of hard penance, ſatisfaction, and other hard remedies after baptiſme, tendeth to none other end but to aduance ỹ Popes pardō aboue ỹ paſſion of Chriſt. That which you alleage as out of S. Cyril (as I haue often told you of ỹ ſame ouer-ſight) is ỹ ſaying of Iodocus Clictouæus, who is auctor of thoſe 4. bookes of ỹ commentaries vpon Iohn, ỹ are inſerted in his workes, to ſupplie the want of ſo many bookes of Cyrillus ỹ are loſt. Wherein you, that ſo often charge vs to write & reaſon ſo vnlearnedly, ſo ignorantly, ſo foolihly, behaue your ſelues moſt ridiculouſly ignorantly, fooliſhly, vnlearnedly, & declare what iudgement you haue in the writings of the auncient fathers. But to the matter, we confeſſe with Clictouæus, that the Apoſtle doth not take away remiſſion of ſinnes tenne thouſand times committed after baptiſme, but to them that are fallen away, he denieth renuing by repentance, ſuch as is teſtified by ỹ ſacrament of baptiſme. Which hauing relation to the onely ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, hath alwayes power to aſſure vs of remiſſion of ſinnes, if we doe not by wilful falling away, and ſinning againſt ỹ holy Ghoſt, make the death of Chriſt vneffectual vnto vs.

Sinne againſt the holy Ghoſt

Popes pardon.

Finally, it is no perilous thing to reade the Scriptures (for then the Apoſtles that wrote them to be read, were auctors of the perill) but for ignorant and vngodly men raſhly to followe their fancie, in expounding of the Scriptures, and to interprete them ſo as they be contrary one to another, which in the word of trueth, is impoſſible.

Reading of the Scriptures to whom perilous

Rhem. 12 29. The bloud of the Teſtament.) *Whoſoeuer maketh no more account of the bloud of Chriſtes ſacrifice, either as ſhed vpon the Croſſe, or as in the holy Chalice of the altar (for our Sauiour calleth that alſo * the bloud of the new Teſtament) then he doth of the bloud of calues and goates, or of other common drinkes, is worthy death, and God will in the next life, if it be not puniſhed here, reuenge it with grieuous puniſhment.*

Contempt of Chriſts bloud in ỹ ſacrament.

Fulke. 12 Whoſoeuer diſhonoureth the bloud of Chriſt verily ſhed on the Croſſe, or the ſacrament thereof, which is the ſeale of the confirmation of the new Teſtament in the ſame bloud, is worthy of death temporal & eternal.

Rhem. 13 31. It is horrible.) Let all Chriſtian people doe ſatisfaction and penance for their ſinnes in this life, for the iudgements of God in the next life done by God himſelfe, of what ſort ſoeuer, whether temporall as in Purgatorie, or eternall as in Hell, be exceeding grieuous.

Penance.

Fulke. 13 Let all Chriſtian people be carefull not to commit ſinne, and of ſuch ſinnes, as through frailtie and ignorance they haue fallen into, let them be truely penitent in this life, and obteyne mercie by the onely ſatisfaction of Chriſt, or els looke for eternall damnation, by the terrible ſentence of Gods iuſtice. As for the paines of purgatorie, are but a vaine terriculament, to make men pay deere for popiſh maſſes, merites, ſatisfactions and pardons.

Rhem. 14 34. You had compaſſion.) To be merciſull to the afflicted for religion, and to be partakers of their miſeries, is a very meritorious worke, and giueth great confidence before God in the day of repayment or remuneration for the ſame.

Mercie to the impriſoned for religion.

Fulke. 14 To be merciſull to the afflicted for true religion, is a good worke, which God will doubtles largely reward of his promiſe, not of the merite thereof. Therefore no truſt is to be repoſed in the merite of good workes, but onely in the mercie of God, which forgiueth our ſinnes, and rewardeth his gifts in vs, not our merits or deſerts.

Merite.

Rhem. 34. With ioy.) If all Chriſtian men would conſider this, they would not thinke it ſo great a matter to looſe their land or goods for defenſe of the Catholike faith.

Looſe of goods for religion.

38. Liueth of faith.) Faithfull men afflicted in this life, haue their comfort in their aſſured faith and hope of Chriſts comming to deliuer them once from all theſe miſeries: and ſo by that faith and comfort they liue, whereas otherwiſe this miſerable life were a death.

Faith is ỹ comfort of the afflicted.

CHAP. XI.

Rhem. 1. He exhorteth them by the definition of faith, to ſticke vnto God, though they ſee not yet his reward: ſhewing that all the Saincts aforetime did the like, being all conſtant in faith, though not one of them receiued the promis, that is, the inheritãce in heauen: but they and we now after the comming of Chriſt receiue it together.

Fulke. 1. The Apoſtle doth not giue here a perfect definition of faith, but deſcribeth it ſo farre forth, as was neceſſarie for his purpoſe of exhortation to patience. The fulneſſe of the promiſe, neither the fathers before Chriſt, nor any ſince Chriſt, haue yet receiued in heauen, nor ſhall before the generall reſurrection, when all the elect ſhalbe made perfect together.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XI.

Rhem. 2. 5. Henoch was.) Here it appeareth that Henoch yet liueth and is not dead: againſt the Caluiniſts. See the annot. Apocal. chap. 11.

Fulke. 2. It appeareth not that Enoch yet liueth in body, more then Moſes or Elias, but that he was tranſlated by God out of the world, and died not after the common maner of men. Enoch not ſtill liuing.

Rhem. 3. 6. Rewarder to them.) We muſt beleeue that God will reward all our good workes: for he is a rewarder of true iuſtice, not an accepter or imputer of that that is not.

Fulke 3. Seeing God hath promiſed to rewarde all our good workes, which be his graces and giftes in vs, not for the merit of the workes, but for Chriſts ſake: we muſt vndoubtedly beleeue that God wil reward our good workes: yet it followeth not that we are iuſt by them, but onely by faith in the iuſtice of Chriſt imputed to vs. Where you ſay, that God is not an accepter or imputer of that which is not. It is true, if you meane that the iuſtice of Chriſt which he accepteth and imputeth to vs through faith, is true iuſtice: but if you meane that God imputeth not iuſtice vnto vs except it be in vs, you ſet your ſelfe directly againſt the Apoſtle Rom. 4. Who proueth by many Arguments, that God imputeth righteouſnes to the vngodly man, by faith without workes. Iuſtification by faith.

Rhem. 4. 22. Concerning his bones.) The tranſlation of Relikes or Saincts bodies, and the due regard and honour we ought to haue to the ſame, are proued hereby.

Fulke. 4. Ioſeph gaue commandement concerning his bones, to teſtifie his faith in the promiſe of God, for the inheritance of the land of Canaan. Whereby no ſuperſtitious tranſlation of reliques, nor idolatrous honour of Saincts bones can be proued. For Ioſeph did not commaunde his bones to be worſhipped, but to be buried in the land of promiſe. Reliques.

Rhem. 5. 26. He looked vnto.) The Proteſtants that deny we may or ought to doe good in reſpect or for reward in heauen, are hereby confuted.

Fulke. 5. You falſly belie the Proteſtants For they doe not deny that men may or ought to doe good, in reſpect of reward. But that the reſpect of Gods glorie, and their duetie, ought to moue them to doe good, rather then reſpect of reward and feare of puniſhment. Slander.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XI.

Rhem. 6. 1. Faith is.) By this deſcription of faith, and by all the commendation therof through the whole chapter, you may well perceiue that the Apoſtle knew not the forged ſpecial faith of the Proteſtants, whereby euery one of theſe new Sectmaſters and their followers beleeue their ſinnes are remitted, and that them ſelues ſhal be ſaued, though their ſectes be cleane contrarie one to an other. Not onely of a ſpecial faith.

Fulke. 6. It followeth of neceſſitie of the whole diſcourſe of the Apoſtle, that euery one of the fathers beleeued that his ſinnes were forgiuen, and that he ſhould be ſaued. For no ſinner can hope to haue reward of eternall life which God promiſeth, except he beleeue that God hath forgiuen his ſinnes, which deſerue eternal death. That ſectmaſters of contrary ſects, beleeue that they ſhalbe ſaued, it is no true faith in them grounded vpon Gods word, but a vaine perſwaſion, as is in the Turkes, Papiſts, Anabaptiſts, and ſuch like. True faith.

Rhem. 7. 1. Not appearing.) This is the praiſe of faith, ſaith S. Auguſtine, if that which is beleeued, be not ſeen. For what great thing is it, if that be beleeued, which is ſeen? according to that ſentence of our Lord when he rebuked his diſciple, ſaying: Becauſe thou haſt ſeen me Thomas, thou haſt beleeued: bleſſed are they that haue not ſeen and haue beleeued. Aug. in euang. Io. tract. 79. Which may be a rebuke alſo & a checke to al thoſe faithles ſpeaches, I would ſee him, taſt him, touch him and feele his very fleſh in the Sacrament, otherwiſe I wil not beleeue. Faith is of things not ſeen as in the B. Sacrament.

Fulke. 7. Faith, is of ſuch things (as Gods word teacheth) that are not ſeene, therefore the Catholike Church, and the perpetual continuance thereof, being an article of faith is not ſeene. But it is not ſufficient that a thing be inuiſible, to make it an article of faith: but it muſt be grounded vpon the word of God. Therefore that carnal maner of preſence, of Chriſts body & bloud in the Sacrament inuiſibly, being not taught in the Scripture, but confuted thereby, is no article of faith, but a groſſe hereſie. Yet in ſuch ſort as Chriſt ſaith, the Sacrament to be his The Catholike Church inuiſible. The real preſence.

his body and bloud, ſacramentally, to aſſure vs that we are fedde ſpiritually, with the very body and bloud of Chriſt vnto euerlatting life, becauſe it is taught it be neither ſeene with the eye, nor to be conceiued with the carnal reaſon of man, yet we muſt vndoubtedly beleeue it.

Rhem. 8. 6. He that commeth.) Faith is the foundation and ground of all other vertues and worſhip of God, without which no man can pleaſe God. Therfore if one be a Iewe, a Heathen, or an heretike, that is to ſay, be without the Catholike faith, all his workes ſhal profit him no whit to ſaluation. Nothing penſable or meritorious without faith.

Fulke. 8. Faith cauſeth our workes to be good and acceptable to God of his mercy, but not meritorious of their worthines, or of the worthines of faith. Merite.

Rhem. 9. 21. Adored the toppe of his rod.) *The learned may ſee here that the Apoſtle doth not tie him ſelf to the Hebrue in the place of Geneſis where it is alleaged, but followeth the Septuagintas, though it differ from the Hebrue: as alſo the other Apoſtles and Euangeliſts and our Sauiour him ſelf did: neither were they curious (as men now a dayes) to examine al by the Hebrue only, becauſe they writing & ſpeaking by the holy Ghoſt, knew very wel that this tranſlation * is the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt alſo, and as true, and as directly intended as the other: and therfore alſo that tranſlation continued alwaies authentical in the Greeke Church, notwithſtanding the diuerſitie therof from the Hebrue. Euen ſo we that be Catholikes, follow with al the Latin fathers the authentical Latin tranſlation, though it be not alwaies agreable to the Hebrue or Greeke that now is. But Caluin is not onely very ſaucie, but very ignorant, when he ſaith that the Septuagintas were deceiued, and yet that the Apoſtle without curioſity was content to follow them: becauſe it is euident, that * the Hebrue being then without pointes, * might be tranſlated the one way as wel as the other. Which they vnderſtood ſo wel (and therfore were not deceiued) but within three lines after, in the beginning of the next chapter, they tranſlate the ſame word, as he would haue it in this place.* Gen. 47. 31. The citations in the new Teſtament, not only according to the Hebrue, but to the Septuagintas. * Aug. de ciu. Dei li. 15. c. 14. * ἐπὶ τὸ κεφάλαιον τῆς κλίνης, bed.

The vulgar latin tranſlation.

Againe obſerue in thoſe wordes, He adored the toppe of his rod, *that adoration (as the Scripture vſeth this word) may be done to creatures, or to God at and before a creature: as at or * before the Arke of the Teſtament in old time, now at or before the crucifixe, reliks, images: & in the Pſalmes 93. 131.* Adore ye his foote ſtoole. Adore ye toward his holy mount. We wil adore toward the place where his feete ſtoode: or (which by the Hebrue phraſe is al one) Adore ye his holy mount. We wil adore the place where his feete ſtood. *as alſo * the Greeke fathers, S Damaſcene li. 1. de imaginibus, and Leontius cited of him, yea S. Chryſoſtom alſo do handel theſe places, & namely that of the Apoſtle which we now ſpeake of, interpreting the Greeke as our Latin hath, and as we do, He adored the rod or the top of his rod, that is, the ſcepter of Ioſeph now Prince of Aegypt, ſo fulfilling Ioſephs dreames which foretold the ſame* Gen. 37: *and withal ſignifying as it were by this prophetical fact, * the kingdom of Iſrael or of the ten tribes that was to come of Ioſeph by Ephraim his younger ſonne in the firſt king Ieroboam, thus the Greeke fathers. Wherevnto may be added, that al this was done in type and figure of Chriſtes ſcepter and kingdom, whom he adored by and in his Croſſe, as he did Ioſeph by or in his rod and ſcepter: and therfore the Apoſtle ſaith, he did it by faith, as hauing reſpect toward things to come. By al which it is euident, that it is falſe which the Caluiniſts teach, that we may not adore image, crucifixe, or any viſible creature, that is, we may not adore God at or by ſuch creatures, yea kneele before them: and therfore their corrupt tranſlation of this place for the ſame purpoſe is intolerable, ſaying thus,* (LEANING) vpon his ſtaffe he adored (GOD). adding no leſſe then two wordes more then is in the Greeke, which though it might be the ſenſe of the place, and S. Auguſtine ſo expounded it, yet they ſhould not make his expoſition the text of holy Scripture, ſpecially whereas he only of al the auncient fathers (as Beza confeſſeth) ſo expounded it. * Ioſ. 7, 6. Adoration of creatures, and namely of holy things. * Oecum. in collect. * 3. Reg. 11. 13. Corrupt tranſlation againſt Dulia.

Fulke. 9. The Apoſtle doeth not here rehearſe any text of the Scripture, and therefore this queſtion of following the Septuagintas is vnſeaſonably moued. It is true that the Apoſtles doe alleadge the Scripture diuers times out of the Greeke text, that was in euery mans hands, which though it differed ſometime in words frō the Hebrue, yet it did alwayes agree with it in ſenſe. But that the Septuagintaes tranſlation, where it differeth in ſenſe from the Hebrue, or the Latine when it differeth in ſenſe from the trueth of the Hebrue or Greeke, is to be receiued and followed, it is no better then to embrace errour in ſtead of trueth: and contrary to the minde of S. Auguſtine himſelf, De doct. Chriſt. lib. 2. c. 11. though a great patrone of the Septuagintas againſt S. Hierom, who acknowledged the manifold errors of that tranſlation, and corrected many of them. Neither did all the latine fathers follow your vulgar latine tranſlation, as I haue proued manifeſtly in anſwere to your Preface. Neither is the Hebrue and Greeke of the Canonical Scripture that now is, any other in ſenſe then it was alwayes, though ſome corruption or alteration might be made by the Scribes or writers, which of the learned & diligent where it is any thing material, may eaſily be perceiued. But Caluine is not only very ſaucie but very ignorant, where he ſaith the Septuagintas were deceiued. How much more ſaucie then was S. Hierom, that not in one, but in many hundred places, findeth that they were deceiued, and reformeth their errors? But wherein trow you, doeth Caluine ſhew his ignorance? Becauſe it is euident that the Hebrue being then without points, might be tranſlated, as wel the one way as the other. In deede it is like, the trāſlatour of that Greeke text, had the Hebrue without points, & ſo was deceiued, yet the Hebrue text from the beginning had vowels, without which there could be no certeintie in the reading or vnderſtanding therof. Although they that be very wel exerciſed in the reading of the text with the vowels, can afterward reade it without vowels, and giue it the points if neede be, by their knowledge of Grammar, and of the ſenſe of the text. Whereupon many bookes were copied and written without points, which went abroad commonly among the Gentiles. But where you ſay, the Hebrue being without points, might be tranſlated as wel the one way, as the other (if it were poſſible for the Engliſh doctors of Rhemes to be deceiued) I would ſay you ſhew more ignorance then Caluine. For to omit that your vulgar latine tranſlation interpreteth the text, wherof you ſpeake Gen. 47. 31. Conuerſus ad lectuli caput, Turning him ſelf to the beds head. Which he doth truly, according to the Hebrue, as you wil not deny, & there can be but one truth, (whereupon it foloweth, ỹ the Grecian tranſlating it otherwiſe was deceiued) yet it is manifeſt to them that haue but meane knowledge in ỹ Hebrue, that the Greeke trāſlation cannot be true, becauſe it addeth a pronoune ἐαυτῦ, where there is no affixe in the Hebrue. The Apoſtle therefore in this place doth not rehearſe ỹ erronious tranſlation, but as S. Auguſtine doth expound it Quæſt. in Gen. q. 162. he ſaith that Iacob by faith worſhipped God vpon the end of his ſtaffe, that is, when through weakenes of age, and ſicknes, he leaned on his ſtaffe. So alſo doth the Syrian interpreter tranſlate it. But it is a perillous corruption, that for more plaine vnderſtanding, we ſay in our tranſlation, leaning vpon his ſtaffe, making S. Auguſtines expoſition, the text of holy Scripture. This is nothing els, but impudent wrangling, for we giue the true ſenſe of the text, The Original text. Tranſlations. Cauilling.

text, agreable to the wordes thereof, which is not to be lyked the worſe, becauſe it is S. Auguſtines expoſition. Your latin tranſlation, as I ſhewed before, hath this word Conuerſus which is more then the hebrue text, yet ſeeing it is included in the meaning of the hebrue text, it were extreme folly to cauill vpon that word. But you wil haue it obſerued in theſe wordes, he adored the toppe of his rodde, that adoration may bee donne to creatures. But that tranſlation of the text, is falſe, for it leaueth out the preposition עַל, which ſignifieth ſuper, vpon, or at leaſt as S. Hierome tranſlateth it, ouer againſt, or towarde the toppe of his rodde. Therefore thus writeth Hierome againſt your obſeruation In this place, ſome without cauſe, do ſay ne, that Iacob adored the topp of Ioſeph ſceptor, meaning that honouring his ſonne he adored his power, when in the hebrue, it is redde, farre otherwiſe. And Iſrael worſhipped (ſaith he) toward the beddes head: meaning, that after his ſonne had ſworne vnto him, being ſecure of his petition, he adored God ouer againſt his beddes. Quæſt. Heb. in Gen.

But if the adoration of creatures, may not be proued by this text, you adde, that adoration may be donne to God, after a creature. Yet that wil not be proued by Iacobs worſhipping towarde the beds head, or leaning vpon his ſtaffe, which is the true ſenſe of this text. But the ſcripture in other places ſayth adore ye his footeſtoole, adore ye towarde his holy mount, or we wil adore towarde the place where his feete ſtoode, or which by the hebrue phraſe (you ſay) is alone, Adore ye his holy mount, we wil adore the place where his feete ſtoode. But the true tranſlation of theſe places, according to the hebrue phraſe is: Bow downe at or before his footeſtoole, bow downe, at or before his holy mount, we wil bow downe at his footeſtoole. It is not all one therefore, to worſhip or bow downe, at, in, before, or towarde a place, where God hath appointed his worſhip to be kept, as in the tabernacle, temple, mount Sion, or before the arke, which in thoſe places is called his footeſtoole: and to bow downe to thoſe places, or to worſhip thoſe things. Neyther doth it folow, that it is as lawfull to worſhip at or before the crucifixe, reliques, and images, as it was to worſhip at, or before the arke. For that was commanded, and appointed by God, this other is expreſly forbidden in the 2 commandement. And Chryſoſtome, Oecumenius and the reſt of the greekes, that ſuppoſe Iacob to haue worſhipped Ioſeph, they ſpeake but of a ciuil kind of worſhip, in reſpect of the kingdome of Ephraim, which ſhould be raiſed of the poſteritie of Ioſeph. Damaſcen (though he ſeeke a colour to defende the idolatrous worſhipping of the croſſe, out of this acte of Iacob) yet he denyeth that he did worſhip it with Latria, or the honour due to God. But your Popes pontificall appoynting the legates croſſe, to be caried on the right hand of the Emperours ſworde, rendreth this reaſon, quia debetur ei latria, becauſe the honour proper to God, (ſo the papiſts define Latria,) is due vnto it: De ordin. ad recip. Imper Proceſſionaliter. So that if there were any moderation in the elder ſort of them that were deceiued in this poynt, to auoyde idolatrie, it is all cleane taken away by the impudent doctrine of Antichriſt. Adoration of creatures.

Firſt Gregory allowed images to be in the church, but denyed all maner of adoration of them. lib. 7. Ep. 9. Damaſcen, allowed them a kinde of adoration, called Dulia, but in no wiſe Latria, the Pope will haue not only the images of God and Chriſt to be worſhipped with Latria, but euen the image of the croſſe. Thus by degrees, the deuill hath brought idolatrie in the groſſeſt maner, at length to be allowed for Gods ſeruice.

Rhem. 10 33. Wrought iuſtice.) Men are not iuſt by beleefe onely, as the Proteſtants affirme, but by working iuſtice. And wee may note that in all this long commendation of faith in the fathers and holy perſons, their good workes are alſo ſpecially recouted, as Rahabs harbouring the ſpies, Abrahams offering his ſonne (which their workes S. Iames doeth inculcate:) Noes making the Arke Gen. 6. Abels better oblation then Cains Gen. 4. & Heb. 11. ver. 4. and ſo forth therefore S. Clemens Alexandrinus ſaith, that the ſaid perſons and others were iuſt by faith and obedience, by faith and hoſpitalitie, by faith and patience, by faith and humilitie. Not faith onely. Iac. 2. Lib. 4. Strom. pag. 240.

The Apoſtles purpoſe then is nothing els, but to proue to the Hebrues (who made ſo great account of their Patriarches and forefathers and their famous actes) that all theſe glorious perſonages and their workes were commendable and acceptable onely through the faith they had of Chriſt, without which faith none of all their liues and workes ſhoulde haue profited them any whit: the Gentiles doing many noble actes (as heretikes may alſo doe) which are of no eſtimation before God, becauſe they lacke faith. And that is the ſcope of S. Paules Epiſtle to the Romanes, and of all other paſſages where he commendeth faith: further prouing eſpecially in this Epiſtle to the Hebrewes, that all their ſacrifices were nothing els but figures and atteſtations of the Chriſtian faith in Chriſt and his death. All which high reſolution and concluſion againſt the Iewes and Gentiles, that the Chriſtian faith is the true faith and religion, the Heretikes of our time ignorantly and brutiſhly abuſe againſt Chriſtian workes, ſacrifice, and Sacraments, which the Apoſtle meant ſpecially to commend and eſtabliſh by his high commendation of the faith in Chriſt. No workes of the Patriarkes or any other profitable, but by their faith in Chriſt. Which is alwayes the Apoſtles meaning in commending faith.

Fulke. 10. The Apoſtle ſayeth not, that men are iuſt in the ſight of God by working iuſtice, but that by faith, they wrought iuſtice, that is, brought forth good and iuſt works, which through faith were acceptable to God. And that the good workes of the Patriarkes, are in all this commendation ſpecially recompted, it proueth that fayth by which men are iuſtified before God without workes (as Saint Paul proueth at large in the Epiſtle to the Rom. & Gal.) is alwaies is fruitfull of good works, and is no dead or idle faith againſt which S. Iames in his epiſtle ſpeaketh. Neither doth Clemens Alexandrinus ſay, that the ſaide perſons were iuſt in Gods ſight by faith and obedience, faith and hoſpitalyty, faith and patience, faith and humilitie: but onely he ſheweth, that faith is alwayes declared by good workes which followe it, therefore he ſaith: Let vs take Enoch, which being founde iuſt in obedience was tranſlated: and Noe which after hee had beleeued was preſerued, and Abraham, which for faith and hoſpitality was called the friend of God and the father of Iſaake. For hoſpitalitie and true religion Lot was preſerued out of Sodom. For faith and hoſpitalitie Rahab the harlot was preſerued. For patience and faith they walked in goates ſkinnes and ſheepeſkinnes and garments wouen of camels heare, preaching the kingdome of Chriſt, &c. Marke that hee ſaith nor, that Enoch was made iuſt by obedience, but in or by obedience, found and declared to be iuſt, ſo he meaneth of the reſt whoſe workes God accepted, and rewarded through there faith. Iuſtification by faith only.

Where you acknowledge that the glorious patriarkes and all their workes, were commendable and acceptible onely through faith, we agree with you. For thereof it followeth, that they were not iuſt before God by their workes, but only by faith, whereby onely, both there perſons and there workes, were commendable and acceptable to him. And S. Paul to the Romaines doth plainely auouch iuſtification by faith without works, by imputation of iuſtice, by remiſſion of ſinnes as it is manifeſt, Chap. 3. & 4. &c. What heretikes you meane, that ignorantly and brutiſhly abuſe againſt chriſtian workes, ſacrifice and ſacraments, the commendation of true faith and religion, I know not. We acknowledge good workes, to bee the neceſſary fruits of true faith, yet as Saint Auguſtine ſaith, to followe the iuſtified man, not to goe before vnto iuſtification. We acknowledge ſuch chriſtian ſacrifices, as the Apoſtle teacheth to bee acceptable vnto god. The ſacraments of Chriſts inſtitution, wee acknowledge with due reuerence: wherefore, if your accuſation be againſt vs, it is nothing els but malicious rayling. Slander Rhem. 11 40. Without vs ſhould not.) The fathers before Chriſt could not be accompliſhed, that is, not admitted to the heauenly ioyes, viſion, and fruition of God, till the Apoſtles and other of the newe Lawe were aſſociate to them, and the way to euerlaſting glorie opened by our Lordes death and Aſcenſion. Neither ſhall either they or we be fully perfected in glorie both of body and ſoule, till the generall reſurrection: Gods prouidence being ſo, that we ſhould not one be conſummated without an other, all being of one faith, and redeemed by one Lord Chriſt. The Patriarkes and other iuſt not in heauen before Chriſt.

Fulke. 11 By this wreſted interpretation, it ſhould follow, that the fathers were not admitted to the heauenly ioyes, till the apoſtles were dead: nor before the aſcenſion of Chriſt. But the apoſtle meaneth that they and all the elect together, ſhalbe conſummated in glory at the ſecond comming of Chriſt, when they ſhalbe receiued into heauen with their bodies, as they are now in their ſoules. Wherefore, this place proueth not, that the patriarks and other iuſt mens ſoules, were not in heauen, before Chriſt came in the fleſh. The ſoules of the Patriarkes in heauen.

CHAP. XII.

Rhem. 1. By the foreſaid examples he exhorteth them to patience, 2 and by example of Chriſt himſelfe crucified, 5 and becauſe this diſcipline is an argument that they be Gods children, 9 with whoſe rodde they ſhould be much more content then with that of their carnall fathers: and becauſe it bringeth iuſtification. 12 Exhorting them therefore to plucke vp their hearts, and to take faſter footing: 18 conſidering that all being nowe ſo ſweete, and not terrible as in the old Teſtament their damnation, if they refuſe to heare, will be ſo much the greater.

Fulke. 1. There is no word in the text, to proue, that Gods chaſtiſement bringeth iuſtification, although it render to them that are exerciſed by it, the peaceable fruite of iuſtice, that is, cauſeth them to feare God, and walke quietly in his commandements, whereby they are not iuſtified in Gods ſight, but declared to be iuſt. Iuſtification.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XII.

Rhem. 2. 6. He ſcourgeth.) By this we proue that God often puniſheth the ſinnes euen of his louing children, though not with eternall damnation, yet with temporall chaſtiſements and correction: and that he diſh not alwayes together with the remiſſion of deadly ſinnes and eternall puniſhment, exempt the offender receiued to his grace, from all fatherly correction either in this life or in the next. Neither haue the Heretikes of this time any reaſon or ſcripture in the world, why they ſhould take away Gods chaſtiſement of his children in the next life, more then in this world.

Temporal puniſhment after remiſſion of ſinnes, either here, or in Purgatorie.

Fulke. 2. God ſcourgeth his children, not for ſatisfaction of his iuſtice, but to bring them to repentance, and to cauſe them to ſtande in his feare and obedience. And this chaſtiſement, he exerciſeth only in this life, which is the only time of there repentance, and reformation, which is a ſufficient reaſon, why wee acknowledge no chaſtiſement of Gods children in the next life. The ende of chaſtiſement, ſet forth in this ſcripture, extendeth not to the next life, therefore neither doth chaſtiſement it ſelfe. This apoſtle alſo teacheth, that after euery mans death, followeth his eternall iudgement: Heb.9.27. and thereby proueth, that Chriſt being once dead, can die no more, but remaineth in glory vnto eternall ſaluation of all that beleeue in him. Seeing therefore, after the warrefare, which is onely in this life, followeth the iudgement, eyther of eternall rewarde, or eternall puniſhment, there can bee no temporall chaſtiſement after this life. And beſide all other reaſons, and ſcriptures, that are brought to proue it, this one reaſon is ſufficient, that the ſcripture teacheth not any chaſtiſement of Gods children after this life.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XIII.

Rhem.2. 2 Hoſpitalitie.) Hoſpitalitie, that is, receiuing and harbouring of poore pilgrimes, perſecuted and deſolate perſons, is ſo acceptable to God and ſo honorable, that oftentimes it hath bene mens good hippe to harbour Angels inſtead of poore ſelly trauaylers. Which muſt needes be euer a great benediction to them and their families, as we ſee by Abraham and Lot, Gen. 18. & 19. (and the like fell alſo to S. Gregorie, as Io. Diaconus writeth, to whoſe ordinarie table of poore men, not only Angels but Chriſt alſo came in Pilgrimes weed. In vit. li. 1. c. 10. & li. 2. c. 22. 23.) whereof if we had no example and warrant by S. Paules wordes in this place, and many other expreſſe Scriptures of the old Teſtament, theſe ſcornfull miſcreants of this time making ſo little accounts both of good workes and ſuch miraculous entrance of Chriſt and his Angels into holy mens harbour, would make this alſo ſeeme fabulous, as they do other like things. Hoſpitalitie. Angels harboured.

Fulke. 2. That Chriſt in perſon of his humanitie came to Gregories table, we count it an hereticall fable, being againſt the articles of our faith, concerning Chriſtes aſcenſion into heauen, ſitting at the right hand of God, and ſecond comming in glory. A fable.

Rhem.3. 4 Mariage honorable.) The Apoſtle (ſayth a holy Doctor) ſayth, Mariage honorable in all, and the bed vndefiled. And therefore the ſeruants of God in that they are not maried, thinke not the good of mariage to be a fault, but yet they doubt not perpetual continencie to be better then good mariage, ſpecially in this time when it is ſaid of continencie, He that can take, let him take. De fid. ad Per. c. 3. apud Aug. in fine. *Marke the doctrine of the fathers and of the Catholike Church concerning mariage, that it is honorable, and ſo honorable, that it is a holy ſacrament, but yet * inferiour to virginitie and perpetual continencie: honorable in all, that is, all ſuch as may lawfully marrie and are lawfully maried: not in brother and ſiſter, not in perſons that haue vowed the contrary, to whom the ſame Apoſtle ſayth it is damnable.* 1. Tim. 5. v. 11. And this were the meaning of this place, if it were to be read thus, Mariage is honorable. How mariage is honorable in all, if the Apoſtle did ſo ſay, as he doth not. * 1. Cor. 7. v. 38

But to ſee how the Proteſtants in all their tranſlations, to abuſe the ſimple, doe falſifie this ſentence of the Apoſtle, to make it ſerue for the mariage of Votaries, it is notorious. Firſt, their deceit in ſupplying the verbe ſubſtantiue that wanteth, making it the Indicatiue moode thus, Mariage is honourable, &c. as though the Apoſtle affirmed all mariage to bee honourable or lawfull, where the verbe to be ſupplied ought rather to be the Imperatiue moode, Let mariage be honorable, *that ſo the ſpeach may be an exhortation or commaundement to them that be or will be maried, to vſe themſelues in that ſtate in all fidelitie, cleanlineſſe, and coniugall continencie one toward an other: as when S. Peter alſo and this Apoſtle exhort maried men to giue honour to their wiues as to the weaker veſſels, and to poſſeſſe their veſſel in honour, not in the paſſions of ignominie and vncleanlineſſe: this is honorable or chaſt mariage, to which he here exhorteth. And that it is rather an exhortation, then an affirmation, it is euident by the other partes and circumſtances of this ſ Text both before and after: all which are exhortations in their owne tranſlations, this only being in the middes, and as indifferent to be an exhortation as the reſt (by their owne confeſſion) they reſtraine of purpoſe. Our text therefore and all Catholike tranſlations leaue the ſentence indifferent * as it is in the Greeke, and as true tranſlatours ought to do, not preſuming to addict it to one ſide, leſt they ſhould reſtraine the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt to their owne particular fantaſie.* One ſhort place manifoldly corrupted by the Proteſtants. They reſtraine the ſenſe to their Hereticall fantſie. 1. Pet. 3. 1. Theſ. 4. * τίμιος ὁ γάμος ἐν πᾶσι.

Againe, our new Tranſlatours corrupt the text in that they tranſlate,* in omnibus, among all men, becauſe ſo they thinke it would ſound better to the ignorant, that Prieſts, Religious, and all whoſoeuer, may marie: where they cannot tell either by the Greeke or Latin, that in omnibus *ſhould be the maſculine gendre, rather then the neutre (as not only Eraſmus, but * the Greeke doctors alſo take it) to ſignifie that mariage ſhould be honorably kept betweene man and wife in all pointes and in all reſpects. See S. Chryſ. and Theoph. in hunc locum. For there may be many filthy abuſes in wedlocke, which the Apoſtle warneth them to take heed of, and to keepe their mariage-bed vndefiled. But the third corruption for their purpoſe aforeſayd, and moſt impudent, is, * that ſome of the Caluiniſts, for* in omnibus, tranſlate, inter quoſuis, with a marginall interpretation to ſignifie al orders, conditions, ſtates, and qualities of men. So boldly they take away all indifferencie of ſenſes, & make Gods word to ſpeake iuſt that which themſelues would, and this hereſie requireth, in which kind they paſſe al impudencie and alberaſtikes that euer were. * The English Bible 1577. * Oecum. in Collat. * Beza in no. Teſt. Graecum, an. 1565.

Fulke. 3. Such prerogatiue as the Apoſtle 1. Cor. 7. aſcribeth to virginitie aboue mariage, we acknowledge with the ancient fathers. To make mariage a Sacrament of the new Teſtament, which was inſtituted in the beginning of the worlde, it is againſt all reaſon. But you ſo honour it, in making it a Sacrament, as the Iewes honoured Chriſt in clothing him with a purple robe, for you ſay notwithſtandin, that by this holy Sacrament, The ſacred The mariage of the miniſters of the Church.

order of prieſthood is prophaned. You ſay it is honorable in all men, which may lawfully marry, or be married, therfore it is honourable in the miniſters of the Church, whom the Scripture alloweth to be maried. But in vowed perſons (you ſay) it is damnable, the Apoſtle ſayeth not ſo, but that thoſe widowes haue condemnation or iudgement, which haue forſaken the firſt fayth, which is of chriſtianitie, not of continencie. But to take it moſt ſtrongly for your ſide, that they ſinne damnably, which breake their vowe, yet mariage in them alſo is honorable, as Epiphanius teſtifieth, Hæreſ. Hieron. ad Demetr. Auguſt. de bono viduitatis, cap. 10.

But the Apoſtle (you ſay) doth not ſay that mariage is honourable in all men, and it is notorious to ſee how we doe falſifie the Scripture. It is notorious to ſee how without all ſhame you doe raile and wrangle. For what ſayeth the Apoſtle if he ſay not ſo? You ſay Firſt we vſe deceit in ſupplying the verbe ſubſtantiue that wanteth, making it the indicatiue moode. If you had but halfe ſo much learning as you take vpon you, you might ſee that the particle ἐστὶν in the wordes following, declareth the firſt wordes to be meant affirmatiuely. Agayne, the ſcope of the Apoſtle is playne, to diſſwade men from fornication and adultery, and therefore ſheweth the remedy which God hath prouided for mans iufirmitie, to be honourable and voyd of filthineſſe, therefore the verbe of the Indicatiue is more meete then of the Imperatiue moode. For that which you inferre of the exhortation to vſe mariage honourably and purely, followeth of the affirmatiue, whereby mariage is approoued by Gods ordinaunce to be ſuch, and is alſo conteined therein, as though the Apoſtle ſhould ſay, Vſe the honourable and pure remedy of mariage honourably and purely, for God will iudge fornicators and adulterers. And this text is taken affirmatiuely by Theodoret, whoſe wordes are theſe. This Law God made in the beginning. Let vs make (ſayth he) an helper for him. Therefore, when hee had faſhioned her and brought her to him, hee ioyned them together, and gaue the bleſſing of mariage, ſaying, increaſe and multiply, and fill the earth. But intemperate and vnchaſte cogitation brought in adulterie and fornication. So doth Chryſoſtome vnderſtand the wordes affirmatiuely, ſaying: When he had ſet down mariage to be honourable in all, and the bed to be vndefiled, he ſheweth that he doeth rightly inferre thoſe wordes which follow. Firſt, if mariage be graunted, the fornicator is iuſtly puniſhed. The like ſaying hath Oecumenius, to prooue that he taketh the wordes affirmatiuely. If mariage be permitted and is Lawfull to the ſatiſfying of luſt without ſinne, what colour of excuſe ſhall be to whoremongers and adulterers. Where it is to bee noted alſo, that Hentenius a papiſt tranſlateth the text, Honorabile eſt coniugium, mariage is honourable. How doe we then reſtraine the ſenſe to our hereticall fantaſie, when beſide the particle in the later part of the ſentence theſe auncient interpreters, doe all vnderſtand it affirmatiuely? And how can you call it an hereticall fantaſie, to affirme that mariage is honourable in all men, and the mariage bed vndefiled, when the ſame ſenſe doeth follow, if we ſhould read it as wordes of exhortation: Let mariage be honourable in all, &c. Verily Chryſoſtome vnderſtanding the text affirmatiuely, ſaieth that the Apoſtle fighteth agaynſt heretikes. Primaſius ſaieth: There were ſome at that time which condemned mariage, ſaying that the coniunction of mariage is vncleane, and that a man cannot be cleane which riſeth from his wiues bed. Therefore the bleſſed Apoſtle ſayth, that mariage is Lawfull which is made for loue of children, not to fulfill filthy luſt, and he doeth not onely permit it, but alſo ſaieth, that it pleaſeth God. For it is honourable mariage to marrie a wife lawfully for loue of children. Agayne he ſaieth, The mariage bed is vndefiled, and they that vſe from it are vndefiled, that is not drawing from thence any ſpot of ſinne. It is manifeſt therefore, that you would auoyd the playne ſenſe of the Scripture, which euery way muſt bee, that mariage is honourable, and the bed vndefiled to hide your hereticall and diuelish fantaſie, whereby you hold, that the ſacred order of prieſthood is prophaned thereby.

Canilling.

An other corruption you note in our tranſlations, That wee tranſlate among all men, whereas the Greeke may bee as well of the Neuter, as of the Maſculine gender, as Eraſmus doeth take it, and the Greeke Doctours alſo. But that which followeth of whoremongers and adulterers, declareth that it is to bee referred to the perſons, rather then the things. Although if you tranſlate it in all things, it is more generall, comprehending all perſons, all ſtates and all offices and conditions of men. So doeth Theophylact vnderſtand it in theſe wordes: Conſider how great regard he hath of temperaunce and continence. For before making mention of holineſſe, he ſpake of it, and agayne after thoſe wordes hee will ſpeake of fornicators and adulterers. In all therefore is not onely in men of riper age, and not in young men alſo, but in all men or in all manners and times, not in affliction onely and in reſt otherwiſe: not honourable and precious in this part, in that parte otherwiſe, but the whole throughout all is honourable. Here heretikes are made to blushe, which ſlaunder matrimonie. For beholde he nameth mariage, precious, matrimonie honourable, which preſerueth a man in temperaunce, but fornicatours and adulterers God will iudge. Here alſo with a penaltie adioyned, fornication is prohibited, for God will iudge them, that is, condemne them, and not vnworthilie. For if matrimonie bee permitted, the fornicator and adulterer are iuſtly puniſhed. The reſt of the Greeke interpreters ſayings are alreadie ſet downe, by which you ſee what vayne quarelling and wrangling you make to denie the due honour to matrimonie.

Canilling.

But the third corruption you ſay is moſt impudent, that tranſlate Inter quoſuis, to ſignifie all orders, conditions, ſtates and qualities of men. And yet that is the playne meaning of the Apoſtle, as appeareth by the puniſhment of fornicators and adulterers that followeth, and ſo is the iudgement of all the auncient fathers that expound the text, when they ſay, If marrimonie bee permitted, the fornicatour and adulterer are iuſtly punished. Els how can fornication and adulterie in all orders, conditions, ſtates and qualities of men bee iuſtly puniſhed, except marriage bee permitted in all orders, conditions, ſtates and qualities? And what greater impudence can there be then this? to ſay: Mariage is honourable in all things, and yet to except ſome orders, conditions, ſtates and qualities of men, as though they were no things, becauſe mariage is not honourable in them. The papiſtes therefore in their impudent quarelling agaynſt the trueth, to maintaine the doctrine of deuils agaynſt the honour and puritie of marriage, doe not onely paſſe all heretikes, but euen the deuils themſelues: who becauſe they haue vnderſtanding, would be aſhamed to graunt an vniuerſall, and deny the particulars thereof. And alſo in flying from the maſculine gender to the neuter, they are as ridiculous as Aeſops fiſhes, which lept out of the frying panne into the middeſt of the fire.

Rhem. 4. 7 Remember your Prelates.) We be here warned to haue great regard in our life and beliefe, to the holy fathers, Doctors and glorious biſhops gone before vs in Gods Church, not doubting but they being our lawfull Paſtours, had and taught the truth: of whom S. Auguſtine ſayd, That which they found in the church, they held faſt: that which they learned, they taught: that which they receiued of their fathers, the ſame they deliuered to their children. Cont. Iulian. li. 2. c. 10. Which reſpect to our holy forefathers in faith, is now in this wicked contempt of the Heretikes, ſo much the more to be had. See the ſaid holy doctors ſecond booke againſt Iulian the Pelagian throughout, what great account he maketh of them in the confutation of hereſies, and how farre he preferreth them aboue the proud Sectmaiſters of that time: as we muſt now doe againſt our new doctors. This place alſo is rightly vſed to proue that the Church of God ſhould keepe the memories of Saincts departed, by ſolemne holydayes and other deuout wayes of honour.

We muſt haue regard to the faith and doctrine of the fathers.

Memories and feaſtes of Saincts.

Fulke 4. We acknowledge with the Apoſtle how great regard is to be had of thoſe holy Doctors and Paſtours that haue ſpoken the worde of God to vs or to our forefathers in the Church of Chriſt. But neither the Apoſtle, nor S. Auguſtine meaneth, that we ſhould acknowledge any for lawfull biſhops, that ſpeake not the worde of God. Neither that wee ſhould admit whatſoeuer the auncient fathers that were lawfull paſtours did ſay or write, beſide or againſt the worde of God. We vſe them therefore for confutation of hereſies as S. Auguſtine did, who alſo when their auctoritie was alleaged by heretikes, acknowledged that they were none otherwiſe to bee receiued, but as they were conſonant to the holy Scriptures. Therefore, when S. Cyprians auctoritie was alleaged by the Donatiſtes, he ſayd: Nos nullam, &c. We doe no iniurie to Cyprian, when wee diſtinguiſh any writings of his whatſoeuer, from the canonicall auctoritie of the holy Scriptures. For not without cauſe with ſuch healthfull diligence, the eccleſiaſticall canon is appointed, to which certaine bookes of the Prophets and Apoſtles doe pertaine, which we dare not iudge at all, and according to which, wee may freely iudge of other writings either of faythfull men or infidel. Contr. Creſcen. lib. 2. cap. 31. And when he was preſſed by his auctoritie out of his epiſtle to Iubaianus, he anſwereth: I am not bound by the auctoritie of this epiſtle, becauſe I doe not account the writings of Cyprian, as canonicall Scriptures, but I conſider of them out of the canonicall Scriptures, and whatſoeuer in them agreeth with the auctoritie of the holy Scripture, I receiue it with his prayſe, but whatſoeuer agreeth not, I refuſe it with his leaue. So likewiſe when the heretike Pelagius alleaged the auctoritie of S. Ambroſe againſt him, he ſayth: Bleſſed Ambroſe the biſhop (ſayeth the heretike) in whoſe booke eſpecially the Romane fayth doeth ſhine, which glittered as it were a certayne flower among the Latine writers: whoſe fayth and moſt pure ſenſe in the Scriptures, not ſo much as his enemie, durſt reprehend. Behold, with what and how great prayſes, he ſetteth him foorth, who although hee was an holy and a learned man, yet is he not in any wiſe to be compared with the auctoritie of the canonicall Scripture. De grat. Chriſti. contr. Pelag. cap. 43. And when he hath rehearſed the iudgement of diuers godly fathers concerning originall ſinne, hee concludeth ſaying: I haue not rehearſed theſe things, becauſe we leane to the opinions of any diſputers, as vnto canonicall auctoritie, but that it may appeare from the beginning vnto this time, in which this new ſect ſprung, that this article of originall ſinne was kept with ſuch conſtancie with the fayth of the Church, that of them which handled the holy Scripture it was brought foorth as moſt certaine, rather to confute other errours, then that it was aſſayed to be confuted as falſe, by any man. De peccat. mer. & remiſſ. lib. 3. cap. 7. Agayne, againſt the Pelagians he ſayeth he could vſe the teſtimonies of the auncient fathers, more then hee doeth, but that it would be to long, And perhaps hee might bee thought not to haue preſumed ſo much as he ought of the canonicall Scriptures from which we ought not to be removed. De nupt. & concupiſ. lib. 2. c. 29. This iudgement of S. Auguſtine wee hold and follow concerning the writings of holy doctors.

The fathers writings and auctoritie.

But this place alſo (you ſay) is rightly vſed to proue that the Church of God ſhould keepe the memories of Saincts departed, by ſolemne holy dayes and other deuout wayes of honour. In deede this place ſheweth how we ſhould honour Saincts departed, namely by imitation of their fayth, but that we ought to keepe holy dayes or any other popiſh wayes of honouring of them this place prooueth not, neither doeth any of the auncient interpreters vſe it to that end.

Rhem. 5. 9 Not with meates.) He ſpeaketh not of Chriſtian faſtes, but of the legall difference of meates which the Hebrues were yet prone vnto: not conſidering that by Chriſtes fayth they were made free from all ſuch obſeruations of the Lawe.

Iudaicall abſtinence from meates.

Fulke. 5. Chriſtian faſtes are not meates. Hee ſpeaketh not onely againſt the Iewiſh diſtinction of meates, cleane and vncleane, but alſo againſt all other heretical and dnueliſh prohibition of meates, and preferring one kind of meat before another, for holineſſe ſake.

Prohibition of meates.

Rhem. 6. 10 We haue an altar.) He putteth them in minde by theſe wordes, that in following to much their olde Iewiſh rites, they deprined themſelues of an other manner and a more excellent ſacrifice and meate: meaning, of the holy altar, and Chriſtes owne bleſſed body offered and eaten there. of which, they that continue in the figures of the old Law, could not be partakers. This altar (ſayth Iſychius) is the altar of Chriſtes body, which the Iewes for their incredulity muſt not behold. Li. 6. c. 21. in Leuit. And the Greeke word (as alſo the Hebrue anſwering thereunto in the old teſtament) ſignifieth properly an altar to ſacrifice on, and not a metaphorical and ſpirituall altar. Whereby we prooue againſt the Heretikes, that we haue not a common table or profane communion boord, to eate mere bread vpon, but a very altar in the proper ſenſe, to ſacrifice Chriſtes body vpon: and ſo called of the fathers in reſpect of the ſayd body ſacrificed. Greg. Nazianz. in orat. de ſorore Gorgonia. Chryſoſt. demonſt. quod Chriſtus ſit Deus. Socrat. lib. 1. c. 20. 25. Auguſt. epiſt. 86. De ciuitate Dei li. 8. c. 27. & lib. 22. c. 10. Confeſſ. lib. 9. c. 11. 13. Contr. Fauſt. Manich lib. 20. cap. 21. Theophylact. in 23. Matth. And when it is called a table, it is in reſpect of the heauenly foode of Chriſtes body and blond receyued.

Material altars for the Sacrifice of Chriſts body.

Sacrificium. מִזְבֵּחַ

Fulke. 6. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh expreſly of participatiō of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, as it is manifeſt in the two verſes next following, which is by chriſtian faith, and not in the Sacrament only, wherof none can be partakers that remaine in the ceremoniall obſeruation of the Leuitical ſacrifices. Therefore this place is brutiſhly abuſed, to proue that the chriſtians haue a material aultar, as the papiſts haue many. The Apoſtle meaneth, Chriſt to be this aultar who is our prieſt ſacrifice & aultar, and not the table wheron the Lordes ſupper is miniſtred, which which is called an altar, but vnproperly, as the ſacrament is called a ſacrifice. For he ſaith, We haue an altar, which is but one, whereas the popiſh altars & communion tables are many. But Iſychius ſaith, This altar is the altar of Chriſtes body. You abuſe Heſychius, for he ſaith that the altar is the body of Chriſt it ſelfe: Such an one (ſaith he) may not come neither to the vaile nor to the altar, that is, to the body of Chriſt, to doe the miniſtery thereof. For that hath Paule, writing to the Hebrues, taught to be the vaile and the altar. The ſame he ſaith lib. 1. c. 4. Know thou that S. Paule vnderſtandeth that the intelligible altar is the Lords body, for he ſaith: we haue an altar whereof they haue no power to eat, which ſerue the tabernacle, namely, the body of Chriſt, for it is not lawfull for the Iewes to eate of it. This altar of neceſſity is in the entrance of the tabernacle of witneſſe, that is in the entrance of the heauens, becauſe we haue entrance into the heauens by him. It is manifeſt therefore that Heſychius meaneth not the popiſh altars, but the body of Chriſt in heauen, the myſterie whereof is celebrated on the Lordes table, which of the ancient fathers is called indifferently a table, as it is in deed, and an altar, as it is vnproperly. But that it is called of them a table, and was in deed a table made of boardes, and remoouable, ſet in the midſt of the people, not placed againſt a wall, I haue ſhewed ſufficiently, by the teſtimonies of the ancient fathers before.

Rhem. 7. 15. The hoſte of praiſe.) Though it may ſignifie the ſpiritual ſacrifices of praiſe and thankes-giuing of what ſort ſoeuer: yet it ſpecially may be thought to ſignifie the great Sacrifice of the B. body and bloud of Chriſt. not as vpon the Croſſe, which was but once done in bloudy ſort, but as in the Church, and new Teſtament, where it is daily done vnbloudily, being the proper hoſt of laude and thankes giuing and therfore called the Euchariſt, and being the fruite and effecte of Christ and his Prieſts lippes or wordes, that is, of conſecration: becauſe this ſacrifice is made by the force of the holy wordes. And when we reade in the pſalmes and other places of the olde Teſtament, of the hoſt of praiſe, it may be thought to be a prophecie of the new Sacrifice, and not of euery vulgar thankes giuing. And ſo the old fathers in the primitiue Church to hide the myſteries from the vnworthy or heathen, often ſpeake. What is (ſaith S. Auguſtine) a more holy ſacrifice of praiſe, then that which conſiſteth in thankes giuing, all which the faithful do know in the ſacrifice of the Church. Li. 1. cont. aduerſ. leg. & proph. c. 18. Againe, c. 20. The Church from the times of the Apoſtles by the moſt certaine ſucceſſions of Biſhops, offereth to God in the body of Chriſt the Sacrifice of praiſe. And a litle afterward, Now Iſrael according to the ſpirit, that is, the Church offereth a ſingular Sacrifice according to the ſpirit: of whoſe houſe he wil not take calues nor goates, but wil take the Sacrifice of praiſe, not according to the order of Aaron, but according to the order of Melchiſedec. See ep. 120. c. 19. & ep. 57. ad q. 1. in fine. Thus you ſee, when the holy fathers handle the Scriptures, they finde Maſſe and Sacrifice in many places, where the ignorant heretikes or the ſimple might thinke they ſpeake onely of a common thankes giuing.

The Sacrifice of the altar is the principal hoſt of praiſe and thankes giuing, therfore called, Euchariſtia.

Fulke. 7. We acknowledge that among other ſacrifices of praiſe & thankſgiuing, the celebration of the Lords ſupper, is a ſpeciall ſacrifice of praiſe and thankſgiuing for the only ſacrifice for ſinne, offered by Chriſt himſelfe vpon the croſſe, without the gates of Ieruſalem. And ſo did the ancient fathers meane, when they called it a ſacrifice, as appeareth by thoſe ſentences taken out of S. Auguſtine, which you recite, and many other in him and the reſt of the fathers. Who neuer meant that the naturall body of Chriſt was offered in ſacrifice for ſinne, or made preſent by the wordes of the prieſt, but vnto the woorthie receiuers ſpiritually by faith. Therfore they found neither the maſſe, nor the popiſh ſacrifice propitiatorie in any text of the ſcripture, where they ſpeake only of a common thankeſgiuing, nor yet the popiſh order of ſacrificing prieſthood for ſinne, when S. Auguſtine ſaith that the ſacrifice according to the order of Melchiſedech is the ſacrifice of praiſe. And doubtleſſe, if Melchiſedech did ſacrifice that bread and wine which he brought foorth, it was not for ſinne, but a ſacrifice of praiſe for the victory granted to Abraham. So that theſe ſayings of S. Auguſtine doe manifeſtly ouerthrow your popiſh propitiatory ſacrifice of the maſſe, and doe expound his meaning in other places (where he calleth the communion a ſacrifice) that he meaneth not a ſacrifice for ſinne, but a ſacrament and a ſacrifice of praiſe or thankſgiuing onely.

Sacrifice of praiſe.

The maſſe.

Rhem. 8. 16. God is promerited.) This latin word promeretur, cannot be expreſſed effectually in any one Engliſh word. It ſignifieth, Gods fauour to be procured by the foreſaid workes of almes and charitie, as by the deſerts and merites of the doers. Which doctrine and word of merites the Aduerſaries like ſo il, that they flee both here and els where from the word, tranſlating here for, promeretur Deus, God is pleaſed, more neere to the Greeke, as they pretend. Which in deede maketh no more for them then the Latin, which is agreeable to moſt auncient copies, as we ſee by Primaſius S. Auguſtines ſcholer. For if God be pleaſed with good workes and ſhew fauour for them, then are they meritorious, and then only faith is not the cauſe of Gods fauour to men.

The Proteſtants auoid the word merit. Primaſius. Good workes meritorious.

Fulke. 8. Promeretur palliuely taken, as it is by your vulgar interpreter, is no Latine word, but a barbarous terme, the Greeke word ſignifieth to be well pleaſed, and not Gods fauour to be procured by workes of almes or charitie, as by deſerts or merits of the doers. But the Greeke maketh no more for vs then the Latine (you ſay) for if God be pleaſed with good workes, and ſhew fauour for them, then are they meritorius. But where doth the text ſay that God ſheweth fauour for good workes. God is pleaſed with good workes, becauſe they are agreeable to his commandements, and he accepteth our obedience as an acceptable ſacrifice of praiſe and thankeſgiuing, for Chriſtes ſake, by whome we offer the ſame. And he rewardeth good workes for his promiſe ſake, but he ſheweth fauour or giueth grace freely, and for his owne mercies ſake in Chriſt our redeemer. The antiquitie of this terme cannot make it a true tranſlation, when it differeth from the originall tongue. Primaſius though he vſed the terme after the vulgar tranſlation, yet he vnderſtandeth it according to the truth, as among the vulgar people it was taken in his time. Therefore he ſaith: By ſuch ſacrifices and gifts of almes, Deus promeretur adipiſci, God is pleaſed to receiue them, that is, God vouchſafeth to accept ſuch ſacrifices of almes and beneficence: he ſaith not that God ſheweth his fauour, or giueth his grace for ſuch, or that they be meritorious, or procure Gods fauour, as by the deſerts and merits of the doers. So that Primaſius hath your terme, but not in your hereticall meaning.

Merits.

Rhem. 9. 17. Obey your Prelates.) There is nothing more inculcated in the holy Scriptures, then obedience of the lay people to the Prieſts and Prelates of Gods Church, in matters of ſoule, conſcience, & religion. Wherof the Apoſtle giueth this reaſon, becauſ

The Apoſtle doth inculcate obedience to becauſe they haue the charge of mens ſoules, and muſt anſwer for them: which is an infinite preeminence and ſuperiority, ioyned with burden, and requireth meruelous ſubmiſſion and moſt obedient ſubiection of all that be vnder them and their gouernement. From this obedience there is no exception nor exemption of kings nor Princes, be they neuer ſo great. If they haue ſoules, and be Chriſtian men, they muſt be ſubiect to ſome Biſhop, Prieſt, or other Prelate. And whatſoeuer he be (though Emperour of all the world) if he take vpon him to preſcribe and giue lawes of religion to the Biſhops and Prieſts, whom he ought to obey and be ſubiect vnto in religion, he ſhall be damned vndoubtedly, except he repent, becauſe he doth againſt the expreſſe word of God and law of nature. And by this you may ſee the difference of an heretical and a diſordered time, from other Catholike Chriſtiandates. For hereſie and the like damnable reuoltes from the Church of God, is no more but a rebellion and diſobedience to the Prieſts of Gods Church, when men refuſe to be vnder their diſcipline, to heare their doctrine, and interpretation of Scriptures, to obey their lawes and counſels. This diſobedience and rebellion from the Spiritual Gouernour vnder preſence of obedience to the Temporal, is the bane of our daies, and ſpecially of our Countrie, where theſe new Sectes are properly maintained by this falſe principle, That the Prince in matters of ſoule and religion may command the Prelate: which is directly and euidently againſt this Scripture and all other, that commaund the ſheepe of Chriſtes fold to obey their ſpirituall officers.

the Prieſts and Biſhops of Gods Church.

No perſon exempted from this obedience, in matters of religion.

Fulke. 9. The obedience which the Apoſtle heere requireth, we acknowledge that it ought to be yeelded by emperors and kings to the ouerſeers or paſtors of their ſoules. But heer of it followeth not, that prieſts and prelats are exempt from obedience of ciuill powers, for if they haue ſoules, S. Paule biddeth euery ſoule ſubmit himſelfe to the higher powers. Rom. 13. Nor that emperors and kings may not preſcribe and giue lawes of religion to biſhops and prieſts, whom alſo in matters of religion they ought to obey. But the auctority and obedience of ech is eſtabliſhed, & one ought not to hinder another. For neither the prince muſt preſcribe ſuch lawes of religion to biſhops as he liſteth, but ſuch as may require the onely true religion of God, to be exerciſed according to his word. And theſe lawes the biſhop is bound to obey in paine of damnation. Neither muſt the biſhop require what doctrine ſoeuer he teacheth to be accepted and beleeued of the prince, but onely that which is agreeable to the holy word of God: which true doctrine the prince is alſo bound to beleue and follow, in paine of damnation. And if any prieſt or prelate teach, or doe otherwiſe, he is to be puniſhed by the princes auctority, who hath charge to ſee both the tables of the law to be obſerued and kept of all his ſubiects, and to puniſh the offenders. Therefore there is nothing more agreeable to the word of God, and the law of nature, then that the prince ſhould be obeyed of all his ſubiects, ſpecially in matters perteining to religion and godlineſſe. For if he command or decree any thing againſt true religion, it is no more to be obeied, then the falſe doctrine of a prieſt or prelate is to be beleeued. That princes in matters of ſoule and religion may command prelats, we haue manifeſt examples in the ſcripture, of Moſes, Dauid, Salomon, Ioſaphat, Ezechias, Ioſias, who all commanded the high prieſts, and other prieſts in matters of religion, according to the word of God. Therefore it is no hereticall confuſion of the different ſtates, but the auoiding of Antichriſtian tyranny, that we teach, when we affirme that the prince is to be obeyed in all cauſes, and of all perſons, which notwithſtanding, the obedience heere commanded remaineth wholly vntouched.

Prelats not exempt from obedience to princes.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. IAMES.

Rhem. 1. THIS Epiſtle (as the reſt following) is directed ſpecially as S. Auguſtine ſaith, againſt the errour of only faith, which ſome held at that time alſo, by miſconſtruing S. Paules wordes. Yea not only that, but many other errours (which then alſo were annexed vnto it, as they are now) doth this Apoſtle here touche expreſſly.

He ſaith therfore, that not only faith, but alſo good workes are neceſſarie: that not only faith, but alſo good workes do iuſtifie: that they are acte of Religion, or ſeruice and worſhip of God: that to keepe all the commaundements of God, and ſo to abſteine from all mortall ſinne, is not impoſſible, but neceſſarie: that God is not author of ſinne, nor ſo much as of tentation to ſinne: that we muſt ſtay our ſelues from ſinning, with feare of our death, of the Iudgement, of hell: and ſtirre our ſelues to doing of good, with our reward that we ſhal haue for it in heauen. Theſe pointes of the Catholike faith he commendeth earneſtly vnto vs, in weighing vehemently againſt them that teach the contrarie errors. Howbeit he doth withal admoniſh not to neglect ſuch, but to ſeeke their conuerſion, ſhewing them how meritorious a thing that is. Thus then he exhorteth generally to all good workes, and deterreth from al ſinne. but yet alſo namely to certaine, and from certaine: as, from acception of perſons, from detraction and raſh iudging, from concupiſcence and loue of this world, from ſwearing: and, to praiers, to almes, to humilitie, confeſſion and penance: but moſt copiouſly to patience in perſecution.

Now, who this Iames was: It is not he, whoſe feaſt the Church keepeth the 25. of Iulie, which was S. Iohns brother, and whoſe martyrdome we haue Act. 12. but he, whom the Church worſhipped the firſt of Maie, who is called Frater Domini, our lordes brother, and brother to Iude, and which was the firſt Biſhop of Hieruſalem, of whom we reade Act. 15 & 21. and alſo Gal. 2. of whoſe wonderful auſteritie and puritie of life, the Eccleſiaſticall ſtories do report. Euſeb. li. 2. c. 22. Hiero. in Catologo.

Which Iames wrote this epiſtle.

Therfore as the old High-prieſt had power and charge ouer the Iewes, not only in Hieruſalem and Iurie, but alſo diſperſed in other Countries (as we vnderſtand. Act. 9. v. 1, & 2.) ſo S. Iames likewiſe, being Biſhop of Hieruſalem, and hauing care not only of thoſe Iewes with whom he was reſident there in Iurie, but of all the reſt alſo, writeth this Epiſtle, To the twelue tribes that are in diſperſion. and in them, to al Chriſtians vniuerſally diſperſed through the world. Iam. 1.

Fulke. 1. The error of only faith, againſt which S. Auguſtine writeth, was of them that thought the profeſſion of Chriſtian religion, how wickedly ſoeuer they liued, was ſufficient to ſaluation: againſt which this epiſtle and the other were written. But of Iuſtification by the mere grace of God, through faith without works, S. Auguſtine is a moſt earneſt defender againſt the Pelagian heretiks that ſprang vp in his time. And euen in that booke De fide & operibus, where he ſpeaketh of the former error, when he ſaith cap. 14. that good works doe follow him that is iuſtified, they doe not goe before him that is to be iuſtified, he ſheweth plainly, that a man is iuſtified before fore God by faith onely, and not by good works. Neuertheleſſe, we acknowledge that not faith, only, but good works alſo are neceſſary for them that are iuſtified, to declare that they are iuſt. In which ſenſe the Apoſtle teacheth that good works doe iuſtifie before men, as faith only doth iuſtifie before God. But that it is poſſible to keepe all the commandements of God, and to abſteine from all mortall ſinne, the apoſtle ſaith not, it is the diuliſh hereſie of the Pelagians, againſt which S. Auguſtine writeth his booke De perfectione iuſtitiæ contra Cæleſtium, eſpecially after the ſixteenth reaſon. We denie God to be auctor of ſinne, or of tentation to ſinne, as the Apoſtle doth, yet as a iuſt iudge he leadeth the reprobate into tentation, from which Chriſt hath taught vs to pray. To conuert them that goe aſtray, it is a good worke, greatly acceptable to God, but the Apoſtle doth not teach it to be meritorious. He exhorteth vnto repentance, and acknowledging of our ſinnes one to another, but not vnto popiſh penance or auriculer confeſſion. Finally, though S. Iames were biſhop, or had ſpeciall ouerſight ouer the church of Ieruſalem, yet he had not that power and charge ouer the Iewes that the olde high prieſt had, but ſuch as Chriſt gaue to euery one of his Apoſtles. Yea the primacie of the circumciſion was ſpecially allotted to Peter, though Iames as biſhop of Ieruſalem, had alſo a fatherly care ouer all the Chriſtian Iewes.

The Church readeth theſe Catholike or Canonical Epiſtles in order at Mattins, frō the 4 Sunday after Eaſter vntil Whitſunday.

THE CATHOLIKE EPISTLE OF IAMES THE APOSTLE.

Rhem. 1. The Proteſtants abhorre the word Catholike.

(Catholike Epiſtle.) The word Catholike though in the title of this Epiſtle & the reſt following (called The Catholike Epiſtles) it be not wholy in the ſame ſenſe, as it is in the Creede: yet the Proteſtants ſo feare and abhorre the word altogether that in ſome of their Bibles they leaue it cleane out, although it be in the Greeke, and in ſome they had rather tranſlate ridiculouſly thus, The generall Epiſtle &c. whereas theſe are famouſly knowen and ſpecifi'd in antiquitie, by the name of Catholike Epiſtles, for that they are written to the whole Church, not to any peculiar people or perſon, as S. Paules are.

Euſeb. lib. 2. hiſt. c. 22.

Fulke. 1. This title is no part of the word of God, though it be in the Greeke copies, no more then that which is written vnder the Epiſtles of S. Paule, ſhewing from whence they were written, which ſometimes is found to be vntrue, & is of your ſelues controlled in the argument vpō the firſt to the Theſſalonians, where the Greeke poſtſcript is frō Athens, which you hold was frō Corinth. Therfore the omiſſion of this title is no offence at al. And ſeeing you confeſſe it is not wholy the ſame in ſenſe as it is in the Creed, to tranſlate it as we ſpeake in the Creed, were wilfully to giue occaſion of error to the ignorant, which by tranſlating it truely, according to the meaning of the word, is eaſily auoided. But in trueth it ſignifieth the ſame heere which it doth in the Creed, that is, generall and vniuerſall. So doth Oecumenius expound this title, ſaying: Theſe epiſtles are called Catholike, that is, vniuerſall or generall, becauſe the company of our Lords diſciples doe not dedicate theſe Epiſtles to one nation or citie, diſtinctly (as Paule doth to the Romans or Corinthians) but vniuerſally to the faithfull, either to the Iewes that were diſperſed, as Peter alſo doth, or els to all Chriſtians liuing vnder the ſame faith. By this it appeareth that this title is vnproperly giuen to the ſeuen Epiſtles, which agreeth onely to fiue, for the two latter epiſtles of S. Iohn are inſcribed to two ſingular perſons, or vnto their families at the moſt. But where you ſay we abhorre the word of Catholike, it is a rotten & friuolous cauill: for how can we abhorre that word which we teach our children daily to ſay in their Engliſh Creed, and repeat ſo often in our daily common prayers?

Catholike.

CHAP. I.

We haue to reioyce in perſecution (but if we be patient, & withal abſteine from al mortal ſinne) 9 conſidering how we ſhal be exalted and crowned for it, when the perſecuter (who enricheth himſelf with our ſpoiles) ſhal fade away. 13 But if any be tempted to fall, or to any other euil, let him not ſay, God is the author of it, who is the author of al good onely. 19 Such points of the Cath. faith we muſt be content to learne without contradiction and anger, and to doe accordingly. 26 Becauſe otherwiſe we may talke of Religion, but in deede it is no Religion.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 25. Bleſſed in his.) Beatitude or ſaluation conſiſteth in wel working.

Fulke 1. Vnto eternall beatitude or ſaluation, well working is neceſſarie, in them that heare the Goſpel: yet Dauid ſaith, the beatitude of a man to be, to whom God imputeth iuſtice, without workes. Rom. 4, 6.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 2. 6. Aske in faith nothing doubting) The Proteſtants would proue by this, that no man ought to pray without aſſurance that he ſhal obtaine that which he asketh. Where the Apoſtle meaneth nothing els, but that the asker of lawful things may not either miſtruſt Gods power and habilitie, or be in diffidence and deſpaire of his mercie: but that our doubt be onely in our owne vnworthineſſe or vndue asking. What faith is required in prayer.

Fulke 2. The Proteſtants proue, that men muſt pray for nothing, but according to Gods wil and promiſe, and not to doubt of Gods trueth, in performing his promiſe. But in reſpect of our owne worthines, we ought to aske nothing. Oecumenius vpon this text, ſayth: If he haue faith, let him aske, but if he doubt, let him not aske, for he ſhall not receiue, which deſtruſteth that he ſhall receiue. Againe, When thou askeſt any thing of God, doe thou not doubt at all, ſaying with thy ſelfe: how can I aske and receiue of the Lord any thing, which haue ſinned ſo often againſt him? Thinke not theſe things, but be conuerted vnto the Lord, with thy whole heart, and aske of him without doubting, and thou ſhalt know the multitude of his mercies. Faith without doubting.

Rhem. 3. 13. Let no man ſay that he is tempted of God.) We ſee by this, that when the Scriptures (as in the Pater noſter and other places) ſeeme to ſay, that God doth ſometimes tempt vs, or leade vs into tentation: they meane not, that God is any waies the author, cauſer, or mouer of any man to ſinne, but onely by permiſſion, and becauſe by his gratious power he keepeth not the offender from tentations. Therfore the blaſphemie of Heretikes, making God the author of ſinne, is intolerable. See S. Auguſt. ſer. 9 de diuerſ. c. 9. God is not author of euil.

Fulke 3. God is no way ỹ auctor or mouer of men to ſinne: but as a iuſt iudge he not only permitteth, but alſo leadeth into tẽptation, thoſe whõ he giueth ouer vnto Satan, therfore he hath taught vs to pray, Lead vs not into tẽptation.

Rhem. 4. 13. God is not a tempter of euils.) The Proteſtants as much as they may, to diminiſh the force of the Apoſtles concluſion againſt ſuch as attribute their euil tentations to God (for other tentations God doth ſend to trie mans patience and proue their faith) take and tranſlate the word paſſiuely, in this ſenſe, that God is not tempted by our euils. Where more conſonantly to the letter and circumſtance of the wordes before and after, and as agreably * to the Greeke, it ſhould be taken actiuely as it is in the Latin, that God is no tempter to euil. for being taken paſſiuely, there is no coherence of ſenſe to the other wordes of the Apoſtle. Partial and wilful tranſlation.

* ἀπείραστος ἐστι κακῶν.

Fulke 4. The Apoſtles concluſion being plaine of it ſelfe, is more plaine, when the word is tranſlated paſſiuely. For then a reaſon is giuen why God tempteth no man to euill, becauſe he is ſo pure from euill, that he can not be tempted thereof, much leſſe be a tempter and inciter of other men vnto it. Therefore this is nothing els but a diueliſh ſurmiſe, that the Proteſtants tranſlate the word paſſiuely, becauſe they would diminiſh the force of the Apoſtles concluſion. But why then doth Hentenius a Papiſt, in his tranſlation of Oecumenius, tranſlate the word in the text paſſiuely? and Oecumenius out of the conſent of the Greeke Fathers, interprete it paſſiuely? but that the right ſignification of the word, doth require it ſo to be vnderſtood. God (ſayth he) can not be tempted of euill, according to that which is ſaid of one, (although he be a ſtranger from vs, and a ſtranger from the faith) the diuine and bleſſed nature neither ſuffereth troubles, nor offereth to other. Beſide this, except ỹ word be taken paſſiuely, the Apoſtle ſaith one thing twiſe, immediatly together, without any cauſe of ſuch vaine repetition. Whereas taking it paſſiuely, there is good reaſon & perfect coherence with ỹ words going before & after. For God is ſo far from tempting vnto euil, as his diuine nature is vncapable of any temptation of euil. For temptation to euil can not come from God, except it were firſt in him, but ſeing it cannot be in God, it cannot proceed from him. Slander. Camilling.

Rhem. 5. 15. Concupiſcence when it hath conceiued.) Concupiſcence (we ſee here) of it ſelf is not ſinne, as Heretikes falſely teach: but when by any conſent of the minde we do obay or yeld to it, then is ſinne ingendred and formed in vs. Concupiſcence of it ſelf no ſinne.

Fulke 5. We ſee there is diſtinction of concupiſcence, from actual ſinne, as of the mother from her daughter, but yet as one ſerpent conceiueth and bringeth forth an other ſerpent, ſo both the mother and daughter are ſinne, and S. Paule plainly teſtifieth, that concupiſcence is ſinne. Rom. 7. 7. Concupiſcence is ſinne.

Rhem. 6. 15. Sinne conſummate ingendreth death.) Here we ſee that not al ſinne nor al conſent vnto concupiſcence is mortal or damnable, but when it is conſummate, that is, when the conſent of mans minde fully and perfectly yeldeth to the committing or liking of the acte or motion whereunto concupiſcence moueth or inciteth vs. Not euery ſinne mortall.

Fulke 6. It cannot be concluded out of this place, that concupiſcence, or any other ſinne deſerueth not damnation: when of al ſinne in general, it is ſaid: The ſoule that ſinneth ſhal die, & ỹ wages of ſinne is death, Ezec. 18. Rom. 7. But that there be degrees of ſinne, and that actuall ſinne bringeth vnto more greeuous damnation, except there be repentance. Our Sauiour Chriſt cõdemneth luſt of the eie for adultery, & anger for murther. Math. 5. Sinnes venial.

Rhem. 7. 25. The law of perfect libertie.) The law of the Goſpel and grace of Chriſt, is called the law of libertie, in reſpect of the yoke and burden of the old carnal ceremonies, and becauſe Chriſt hath by his bloud of the new Teſtament deliuered al that obey him from the ſeruitude of ſinne and the Diuel. But not as the Libertines and other Heretikes of this time would haue it, that in the new Teſtament euery man may follow his owne liking and conſcience, and may chooſe whether he wil be vnder the lawes and obedience of Spiritual or Temporal Rulers, or no. What is the law of libertie in the New Teſtament.

Fulke 7. The Pope is ſuch a Libertine as refuſeth to be vnder any temporall ruler, or ſpirituall, yea he refuſeth to be vnder the whole Church of Chriſt on earth, but will be Head and Ruler thereof. The Pope a Libertine.

Rhem. 8. 27. Religion cleane.) True religion ſtandeth not onely in talking of the Scriptures, or onely faith, or Chriſtes iuſtice: but in puritie of life, and good workes, ſpecially of charitie and mercie done by the grace of Chriſt. This is the Apoſtolical doctrine, and far from the Heretical vanitie of this time. Good workes a part of mans iuſtice.

Fulke 8. We teach alſo, that pure religion ſtandeth not onely in wordes, but in faith, and in workes alſo, yet Chriſt only is our iuſtice, and through him we are iuſtified before God by faith without works. Rom. 3. Religion.

CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. Againſt acception of perſons. 10 From al and euery ſinne we muſt abſtaine, hauing in al our wordes and deedes, the Iudgement before our eies: wherein workes of mercie ſhal be required of vs, 14 and onely faith ſhal not auail. vs. 18 And that the Catholike by his workes ſheweth that he hath faith: whereas the Heretike hath no more faith than the Diuel, talke he of faith neuer ſo much, and of iuſtification thereby onely, by the example of Abraham Ro 4. For Abraham in deede was iuſtified by workes alſo, 25 and likewiſe Rahab.

Fulke 1. The Apoſtle teacheth in this Chapter, that ſuch a faith as is void of good works, ſhal not iuſtifie any man, and that as a man is iuſtified in the ſight of God by faith onely, ſo he muſt be declared to be iuſt or iuſtified before God and men by good workes, which are the neceſſarie effectes of a iuſtifying faith. MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem.2. 20. O vaine man.) He ſpeaketh to al heretikes that ſay, faith only without workes doth iuſtifie, calling them vaine men, and comparing them to Diuels.

Fulke 2. Then he ſpeaketh not to S. Paule, which ſayth, a man is iuſtified by faith, without workes, Rom.3. Nor to all the ancient Fathers, which hold the ſame doctrine: among which, many haue affirmed in the ſame ſenſe, that a man is iuſtified by faith onely. And ſo doe we ſay, therefore he ſpeaketh not againſt vs. But he ſpeaketh to thoſe heretikes, and Libertines, old and new, that held, that a man was iuſtified by a faith void of good workes, ſuch as is in the Deuils, and ſuch as Papiſtes compt to be the Catholike faith, namely, to acknowledge all the articles of the Creede to be true, though a man haue no truſt in the mercie of God, neither doth apply them to his owne benefite and comfort. Faith only. Popiſh faith the Diuels faith.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. In acception of perſons.) The Apoſtle meaneth not, as the Anabaptiſts and other ſeditious perſons ſometime gather hereof, that there ſhould be no difference in Commonweales or aſſemblies, betwixt the Magiſtrate and the ſubiect, the free man and the bond, the riche and the poore, betwixt one degree and an other. for, God and nature, and the neceſſitie of man, haue made ſuch diſtinctions, and men are bound to obſerue them. But is is meant onely, or ſpecially, that in ſpiritual Scripture abuſed by the Anabaptiſtes to make no diſtinction of perſons.

tual giftes and graces in matters of faith, Sacraments, and ſaluation, and leſſening the ſpiritual functions and charge of ſoule, are moſt eſteeme of a poore man or a bond man, no leſſe then of the rich man and the free, then of the Prince or the Gentleman: becauſe as Chriſt himſelf calleth al, and inuiteth al ſorts with his graces: ſo in ſuch and the like things we muſt not be partial, but count al to be fellowes, brethren, and members of one head. And therfore the Apoſtle ſaith with a ſpecial cleanſe, That we ſhould not holde or haue the Chriſtian faith with or in ſuch differences or partialities.

What the Apoſtle meaneth by acception of perſons.

Rhem.3. 10. Is made guilty of al.) He meaneth not, that whoſoeuer is a theefe, is alſo a murderer, or that euery murderer is an adulterer alſo: or that al ſinnes be equal, according to the Stoikes and the Hereſie of Iouinian: much leſſe, that he ſhal haue as great damnation that tranſgreſſeth one commaundement, as if he had offended againſt euery precept. but the ſenſe is, that it ſhal not auaile him to ſaluation, that he ſeemeth to haue kept certaine and not broken al the commaundements. ſeeing that any one tranſgreſſion of the Law, proueth that he hath not obſerued the whole, which he was bound to do, ſo farre as is required, and as is poſſible for a man in this life. S Auguſtine diſputing profoundly in his 29 Epiſtle to S. Hierom, of this place of S. Iames, expounded it thus: that he which offendeth in one, that is, againſt the general and great commaundement of loue or charitie (becauſe it is in manner al, as being the ſumme of al, the pinnacle of the Law, and the perfection of the reſt) breaketh after a ſort and tranſgreſſeth al, no ſinne being committed but either againſt the loue of God or of our neighbour.

How he that offendeth in one commaundement, is guilty of all.

Fulke 3. All men that looke to be iuſtified by the workes of the Law, are bound to keepe the law in ſuch perfection, as Gods iuſtice requireth, which is not poſſible for any mortall man in this life to performe. Therefore by this text it is proued, that no man can be iuſtified by the workes of the Law, becauſe no man can fulfill the Lawe perfectly. Aug. de pecc. merit. & remiſſ. lib. 2. c. 12. De ſp. & liter. cap. 2.

The Law can not be kept perfectly.

Rhem.4. 13. Iudgement without mercie.) Nothing giueth more hope of mercie in the next life, then the workes of almes, charitie, and mercie, done to our neighbours in this life. Neither ſhal any be vſed with extreme rigour in the next world, but ſuch as vſed no mercie in this world. Auguſt. de pec. merit. li. 2. c. 3. Which is true, not onely in reſpect of the iudgement to euerlaſting damnation, but alſo of the temporal chaſtiſements in Purgatorie, as S. Auguſtine ſignifieth, declaring that our venial ſinnes be waſhed away in this world with daily workes of mercie, which otherwiſe ſhould be chaſtiſed in the next. See epiſt. 29 a Greſaid in fine, and li. 21. de Ciu. Dei c. 27. in fine.

Workes of mercie exceeding gratiful to God.

Fulke 4. Faith in the merites of Chriſt, giueth vs more hope of mercie in the next life, then the workes of almes, charitie, &c. although theſe workes being teſtimonies of true faith, ſhall vndoubtedly be rewarded in the life to come, with euerlaſting ſaluation. And that is the meaning of S. Auguſt. De pecc. mer. & rem. lib. 2. c. 3. But that the paines of Purgatorie are to be auoided, or mitigated by ſuch workes, he ſaith not in either of the places. And becauſe you ſay, he declareth, that veniall ſinnes be waſhed away in this world, with daily workes of mercie, you ſhall heare what he ſayth, De Ciu. lib. 21. Cap. 27. againſt the perſwaſion of them, which though that no ſinnes ſhould hurt them, if they gaue almes, as though there were ſuch merite therein. Euen theſe iuſt men, which liued in ſo great holines, that they receiue other into the eternall Tabernacles, to whom they are made friendes of the mammon of iniquitie, that they ſhould be ſuch were deliuered of mercie, by him which iuſtifieth the vngodly man, in putting reward according to grace, and not according to debt. And as concerning the waſhing away of veniall ſinnes, he ſayth: What maner of life that is, and what be theſe ſinnes which doe ſo let the attaining to the kingdome of God, that yet by the merites of their holy friends they obtaine pardon, it is moſt hard to find out, and moſt dangerous to define. I for my part, vnto this time, hauing buſied my ſelfe much about them, could neuer come to the finding out of them. And perhaps they are vnknowne for this cauſe, leſt the deſire of going forward to auoid all ſinnes ſhould waxe ſlugliſhfull.

Purgatory.

Thus you ſee S. Auguſtine teacheth neither Purgatorie, nor the merite of good workes, in this place, nor yet the waſhing away of veniall ſinnes by almes, when he can not define what ſinnes they are that are purged by almes, or obtaine pardon by other mens deſertes.

Rhem.5. 14. What ſhal it profite, if a man ſay he hath faith?) This whole paſſage of the Apoſtle is ſo cleare againſt iuſtification or ſaluation by onely faith, damnably defended by the Proteſtants, and ſo euident for the neceſſitie, merite, and concurrence of good workes, that their firſt author Luther and ſuch as exactly folow him, boldly (after the maner of Heretikes) when they can make no ſhift nor falſe gloſe for the text, deny the booke to be Canonical Scripture. But Caluin and his companions diſagreeing with their Maiſters, confeſſe it to be holy Scripture. but their ſhiftes and fond gloſes I ouerpaſſe of ſo plaine places, be as impudent as the denying of the Epiſtle was in the other. who would neuer haue denied the booke, ſhortly to ſhew them ſelues Heretikes, if they had thought thoſe vulgar euaſions that the Zuinglians and Caluiniſts do vſe (whereof they were not ignorant) could haue ſerued. In both ſortes the Chriſtian Reader may ſee, that the Heretikes warning of expreſſe Scriptures and the word of God, is no more but to delude the world. whereas indeede, be the Scriptures neuer ſo plaine againſt them, they muſt either be wreſted to ſound as they ſay, or els they muſt be no Scriptures at all. And to ſee Luther, Caluin, Beza, and their fellowes, ſitters as it were in iudgement of the Scriptures, to allow or diſallow at their pleaſures, it is the moſt notorious example of Heretical pride and miſerie that can be. See their prefaces and cenſures vpon this Canonical Epiſtle, the Apocalypſe, the Macabees, and other.

The proud and impudent dealing of the Heretikes againſt this Epiſtle, becauſe it is ſo plaine againſt only faith.

Fulke 5. The whole paſſage of the Apoſtle (that I may vſe your French terme) maketh nothing againſt iuſtification by a liuely faith onely, which worketh by loue, but againſt a vaine perſwaſion of a dead faith, that is voide of good workes and not auaileable to ſaluation. Therefore, there was no cauſe why Luther ſhould reiect this Epiſtle, as he did in a maner at the firſt, but afterward vpon better conſideration, did acknowledge it, which fault was not ſo great in him, as in Euſebius, who doth abſolutely reiect it, as a baſtard, and none of the Apoſtles writing. Hiſt. Lib. 2. Cap. 29. Yet is Euſebius, notwithſtanding that his errour, allowed for a Catholike writer. That Caluine followeth not Luther in this matter, it is becauſe he acknowledgeth no maiſter of doctrine but Chriſt. It is for Papiſtes to defende all blaſphemies of Antichriſt, to whome they are ſworne: true Catholikes loue trueth onely in their deereſt friendes, and in their owne writings ſo well, that they are readie to retract them, if they finde by the worde of God, that they haue erred from the trueth. That we vſe no impudent ſhiftes or vaine gloſſes, but good and ſound diſtinctions, to declare the doctrine of this Epiſtle not to be repugnant to the holy Scripture, in other places, it ſhall appeare, when when we come to the matter. But the other (you ſay) would not haue denied the booke, if they had thought thoſe vulgar cauſions could haue ſerued. According to your owne wicked hearts: you iudge of other mens intentes which you knowe not. Might they not be deceiued by ſo cleare a cenſure of Euſebius, that it is a baſtard, with other reaſons that he alleadgeth? But by denying the Epiſtle you conclude, that they ſhewe themſelues to be Heretikes: As though Euſebius by denying the Epiſtle, ſhewed him ſelfe to be an Heretike. If Euſebius by denying the Epiſtle, did not ſhewe him ſelfe to be an Heretike, why more they? S. Hierome did not receyue the Epiſtle to the Hebrues abſolutely, and many other of the Latine Church (as he ſayth) doubted thereof, Ergo they were Heretikes? In Euang. Math. chapter 26. If any man (ſayeth he) will receiue that Epiſtle, which is written vnder the name of Paul to the Hebrues, in Epiſt. ad Tit. cap. 1. But it is not ſufficient for you to amplifie the errour of Luther (which he himſelfe afterward reformed) in refuſing this booke, but you are offended alſo with Caluine, Beza and other, for defending the auctoritie thereof, and of the Apocalypſe againſt them that alledge vaine reaſons to diſcredite them. But why ſo I pray you? They ſit as it were in iudgment of the ſcriptures, to allowe or diſalowe at their pleaſures. So doeth Antichriſt your king, not onely to giue auctoritie, but alſo to giue what ſenſe it pleaſeth him, to the bookes of holy ſcriptures. Theſe men defend the Canonicall bookes, and diſcerne them from the Apocryphall, not onely by the conſent and iudgement of the Church of God, both before Chriſt and after: but alſo by the ſpirite, where with the true bookes of God are indighted, which when it is alwayes conſonant vnto it ſelfe, diſcouereth the erroneous ſpirite of man in the Maccabees, and ſuch other Apocryphall writings.

Rhem. 6. 21. Abraham was he not iuſtified by workes?) It is much to be noted that S. Auguſtine in his booke de fide & operibus cap. 14. writeth, that the hereſie of onely faith iuſtifying or ſauing, was an olde Hereſie euen in the Apoſtles time, gathered by the falſe interpretation of ſome of S. Pauls profound diſputation in the Epiſtle to the Romanes, wherein he commended ſo highly the faith in Chriſt, that they thought good workes were not auailable: adding further, that the other three Apoſtles, Peter, Iames, Iohn, and Iude, did of purpoſe write ſo much of good workes, to correct the ſaide errour of Lege citato. onely faith, gathered by the miſconſtruction of S. Pauls wordes. Yea when S. Peter (Epiſt. 2. cap. 3.) warneth the faithfull that many things be hard in S. Pauls writings, and of light vnlearned men miſtaken to their perdition: the ſaide S. Auguſtine affirmeth, that he meant of his diſputation concerning faith, which ſo many Heretikes did miſtake to condemne good workes. And in the preface of his commentarie vpon the 31. Pſalme, he warneth all men, that this deduction vpon S. Pauls ſpeache, Abraham was iuſtified by ſayth, therefore workes be not neceſſarie to ſaluation: is the right way to the gulfe of Hell and damnation.

And laſtly, (which is in it ſelfe very plaine) that we may ſee this Apoſtle did purpoſely thus commend vnto vs the neceſſitie of good workes, and the inanitie and inſufficiencie of onely faith, to correct the errour of ſuch as miſconſtrued S. Pauls Lib. 3. 4. 4. 76 *wordes for the ſame? * the ſaid holy Doctor noteth that of purpoſe he tooke the very ſame example of Abraham, whom S. Paul ſaid to be iuſtified by faith, and declareth that he was iuſtified by good workes, ſpecifying the good worke for which he was iuſtified and bleſſed of God, to witte, his obedience and immolation of his onely ſonne. But howe S. Paul ſayth that Abraham was iuſtified by ſayth, ſee the Annotations vpon that place.* Rom. 4. ver. 1.

Onely faith an olde hereſie.

S. Iames & the reſt inculcate good workes againſt the errour of onely faith falſely gathered of S. Pauls wordes.

S. Auguſtines whole diſputation in this point very notable, and directly againſt onely faith.

Hereſies againſt good workes.

Iuſtification by faith only.

Fulke. 6. The Apoſtle (as it is playne by his whole diſcourſe) writeth againſt them, that thought to be ſaued by ſuch a fayth as is voide of good workes, and ſo is dead and no true fayth, but a fayned fayth, or els ſuch a fayth as is in deuils, namely an acknowledging that there is one God, and ſo likewiſe of all the reſt of the articles of fayth to be true, without truſt or confidence in God. Their vaine errour therefore the Apoſtle confuteth, and ſheweth that fayth, whereby a man is iuſtified before God without workes, though it haue no good workes going before: yet it hath good workes folowing, by which the iuſtified mans fayth is ſhewed, and he declared to be iuſt, or iuſtified before men.

And therefore whereas S. Paul ſheweth, that Abraham was iuſtified before God by fayth without workes, S. Iames ſheweth, that Abraham was iuſtified before men alſo through workes, that is, declared to be iuſt when he offered his ſonne. Where the ſcripture ſayth, that God tempted or proued Abraham, not that he might knowe any thing whereof he was ignorant, but that Abraham might by his obedience and workes declare before all the worlde, that he was a iuſt man, and was iuſtified, that is, declared or ſhewed to be iuſt by workes, as he was before iuſt in the ſight of God by fayth, without workes.

Nowe that S. Auguſtine ſayth, that the hereſie of onely fayth iuſtifying or ſauing, was in the Apoſtles time &c. he declareth plainely, that the hereſie was of them that thought they might be ſaued or ſanctified by ſuch a fayth as is voide of good workes. Let vs ſee therefore that poynt (ſayth he) which muſt be beaten from religious hearers, leſt with euill ſecuritie they leeſe their ſaluation, If they ſhall thinke that onely fayth doeth ſuffice to obteyne, and ſhall neglect to liue well, and to holde the way of God in good workes. Beholde this is the opinion of onely fayth, againſt which S. Auguſtine writeth, and which we, as much as Auguſtine deteſt, and accurſe vnto the depeſt pitte of hell. But that we are iuſtified before God, by fayth onely without workes, in the ſame Chapter he teacheth moſt plainely: When the Apoſtle ſayth, that he thinketh a man to be iuſtified by fayth, without the workes of the Lawe, he meaneth not that after fayth is receiued and profeſſed, the workes of iuſtice ſhould be contemned, but that euery man may knowe, that he may be iuſtified by fayth, although the workes of the Lawe haue not gone before: for they followe him that is iuſtified, they goe not before him that is to be iuſtified. And this is the doctrine of iuſtification by fayth onely, that we teache with S. Auguſtine.

Neither doe the Apoſtles, Iames, Iohn, Iude or Peter, require good workes as neceſſarie to be done of all that ſhall be ſaued, more then S. Paul himſelfe doeth in euery one of his Epiſtles, and namely in the Epiſtles to the Romanes, Galathians, and Epheſians, where he treateth moſt of iuſtification, by the meere grace of God, and fayth onely without workes: Therefore thoſe Libertines wickedly tooke offence at his writings, where he gaue none. Abraham therefore was iuſtified before God by fayth without workes, not that his faith was voide of good workes, but that God reſpected not the merite of his workes, but onely his mercie in Chriſt Ieſus, imputing his righteouſneſſe to him through fayth. Abraham was alſo iuſtified by good workes in the ſight of men, when he brought foorth the fruites of Gods grace freely giuen vnto him, and of iuſtification before God by faith without workes. For in one kinde of iuſtification it cannot be ſayde, that he was iuſtified both by faith and by workes, ſeeing the Apoſtle ſayth he was iuſtified without workes. Therefore there be two ſeuerall kindes of iuſtification, whereof theſe two Apoſtles ſpeake, the one whereby God iuſtifieth the vngodly man, imputing faith to him for iuſtice without workes, as he did to Abraham, the other whereby man declareth him ſelfe to be iuſt by the fruites of fayth, which are the workes of obedience.

Rhem.7. 22. Faith did worke with.) Some Heretikes holde, that good workes are pernitious to ſaluation and iuſtification: other, that though they be not hurtfull but required, yet they be no cauſes or workers of ſaluation, much leſſe meritorious, but are as effectes and fruites iſſuing neceſſarily out of faith. Both which fictions, falſhods, and ſlightes from the plaine trueth of Gods worde, are refuted by theſe wordes, when the Apoſtle ſayth, That faith worketh together with good workes: making faith to be a coandiutour or coperator with workes, and ſo both ioyntly concurring as cauſes and workers of iuſtification: yea afterward he maketh workes the more principall cauſe, when he reſembleth faith to the body, and workes to the ſpirit or life of man.

Heresies a. gainſt good workes.

Workes concurre with faith as cauſe of iuſtification

Fulke.7. No man that I knowe, holdeth that good workes are pernitious to ſaluation or iuſtification. But that the truſt and confidence in the merite of good workes is pernitious to ſaluation, our Sauiour Chriſt teacheth, Luke 18.9. Therefore they be not meritorious, nor the cauſes of iuſtification, yet neceſſarie to ſaluation, as the way wherein God hath prepared, that we ſhoulde trauell vnto ſaluation, and be neceſſarie effectes and fruites of a godly fayth.

Merite.

So ſayeth S. Auguſtine, Epiſt 85. A godly faith will not be without hope and charitie. De fide & oper. cap 23. Good life is inſeperable from faith which worketh by loue: Faith and charitie cannot be ſeuered a ſunder, ſayeth Beda vpon this Chapter. But all theſe fictions, falſehods, and ſlightes are refuted by theſe wordes of the Apoſtle. Howe I pray you? he ſayth fayth worketh together with good workes. Thereof we might rather conclude, that iuſtifying fayth is neuer voide of good workes: but where you ſay both ioyntly concurring as cauſers and workers of the ſame kinde of iuſtification before God: You ſay it of your owne head, the Apoſtle ſayth it not, neither can it be concluded of his wordes: yet you goe on and ſay, that he maketh workes the more principall cauſe, when he reſembleth faith to the body, and workes to the ſoule. But that the Apoſtle doth not, but reſembleth workes to the fruite, which declareth the body to haue a ſoule in it: the life of our iuſtification therefore is fayth, the fruites are good workes. The Apoſtle therefore ſayth not, that fayth wrought with his deedes in the acte of iuſtification before God, but that after he was iuſtified before God by faith imputed to him for iuſtice, his faith wrought by and with his deedes, declaring the ſame before men.

This ſheweth Beda of the two kindes of iuſtification before God by fayth without workes, and before men where faith is ſhewed by workes, writing vpon this text. Of this teſtimonie Paul to the Romanes reaſoned moſt ſtrongly, ſhewing manifeſtly, that the vertue of faith is ſo great, that it is able immediatly after he hath vnderſtood the myſteries thereof, to make of an vngodly man a iuſt man: for becauſe Abraham with great and feruent fayth beleeued God, that he was ready in his mind to doe all things that God commaunded, his faith was worthelie reputed of God, which knewe his heart for iuſtice. And that we alſo might knowe his faith, by which he was iuſtified, God tempted him, commaunding him to offer his ſonne, and his faith was perfected by his deedes, that is to ſay, by perfect execution of workes, it was proued to be in his heart. Oecumenius vpon this place ſayth, that Abraham was an image of iuſtification, which is by faith onely, when it was imputed to him for iuſtice that he beleeued, and of that iuſtification which is of workes, when he offered his ſonne vpon the altar. You ſee therefore, that the two Apoſtles ſpeake of two diuerſe kindes of iuſtification, the one by fayth onely, the other by workes, which is a declaration and tryall of the other.

Iuſtification by faith onely.

Rhem.8. 23. The freende of God.) By this alſo an other falſe and friuolus euaſion of the Heretikes is ouertaken, when they feyne, that the Apoſtle here when he ſayth, workes doe iuſtifie, meaneth that they ſhewe vs iuſt before men, and auaile not to our iuſtice before God. For the Apoſtle euidently declareth that Abraham by his workes was made or truely called the freende of God, and therefore was not (as the Heretikes ſay) by his workes approued iuſt before man only.

Workes make vs iuſt in deed before God.

Fulke.8. The Apoſtle ſayth not, that Abraham by his workes was made the freende of God, but that he was ſo knowen to men, and therefore truely called the freende of God. Neither doe we ſay, that Abraham by his workes was approued or declared to be iuſt before men onely: for he was ſo approued by God alſo. But he was iuſtified or made iuſt by God through faith onely, and not by his workes, when God imputed fayth to him for iuſtice without workes Rom.4.

Merite.

Rhem.9. 24. Not by faith onely.) *This propoſition or ſpeache is directly oppoſite or contradictorie to that which the Heretikes holde. For the Apoſtle ſayth, Man is iuſtified by good workes, and not by fayth onely. but the Heretikes ſay, Man is not iuſtified by good workes, but by faith onely. Neither can they pretende that there is the like contradiction or contrarietie betwixt Sainct Iames ſpeache and Sainct Pauls. for though Sainct Paul ſay, man is iuſtified by faith, yet he neuer ſayth, by faith onely, nor euer meaneth by that faith which is alone, but alwayes by that faith which worketh by charitie, * as he expoundeth himſelfe. Though concerning workes alſo, there is a difference betwixt the firſt iuſtification, whereof Sainct Paul ſpecially ſpeaketh: and the ſeconde iuſtification, whereof Sainct Iames doth more ſpecially treate. Of which thing * els where there is ynough ſaid.*

The Proteſtants ſay, by faith onely: S. Iames cleane contrary, Not by faith onely.

The fathers in deede vſe ſometimes this exclaſiue, ſola, onely: but in farre other ſenſe then the Proteſtants. For ſome of them thereby exclude onely the workes of Moyſes lawe, againſt the Iewes: ſome, the workes of nature and morall vertues without the grace or knowledge of Chriſt, againſt the Gentiles: ſome, the neceſſitie of externall good workes where the parties lacke time and meanes to doe them, as in the caſe of the penitent theefe: ſome, the falſe cynicas, ſectes, and religion contrary to the Catholike faith, againſt Heretikes and miſcreants: ſome exclude reaſon, ſenſe, and arguing in matters of faith and myſterie, againſt ſuch as will beleeue nothing, but that they ſee or vnderſtand: ſome, the merite of workes done in ſome before the firſt iuſtification: ſome, the arrogant Phariſaicall vaunting of mans owne proper workes and iuſtice, againſt ſuch as referre not their actions and good faith.

*See the Annot vpon the epiſtle to the Romanes c.2.v.13.

The manifold meaning of certaine fathers, when they ſay, onely

deedes to Gods grace. To theſe purpoſes the holy Doctors ſay ſome-times, that onely fayth ſaueth and ſerueth: but neuer (as the Proteſtants woulde haue it) to exclude from iuſtification and ſaluation, the cooperation of mans free will, diſpoſitions and preparations of our hartes by prayers, penance, and ſacraments, the vertues of hope and charitie, the purpoſe of well-working and of the obſeruation of Gods commaundements: much leſſe, the workes and merites of the children of God, proceeding of grace and charitie, after they be iuſtified and are nowe in his fauour: which are not onely diſpoſitions and preparations to iuſtice, but the meritorious cauſe of greater iuſtice, and of ſaluation.

Fulke. 9. This propoſition is not directly oppoſite or contradictorie to that which we holde, no more then thoſe two ſayings of Chriſt. The father is greater then I, and I and the father are one. No more is this ſaying of Sainct Iames: Abraham was iuſtified by workes, contrary to that which Sainct Paul ſayth, that he was iuſtified by fayth without workes. For both the ſayings are true in diuers reſpectes, and we beleeue both: for where the reſpect is not the ſame, there is no oppoſition or contradiction. We ſay therefore with Sainct Paul, a man is iuſtified by faith without workes, which is all one as if he ſaide, by fayth onely. And we ſay with Sainct Iames, A man is iuſtified of workes, and not of fayth onely, which ſayings in diuers reſpectes and acceptions of this worde, iuſtifying, are true. In Sainct Paul it ſignifyeth to be made iuſt by Gods imputation. In Sainct Iames it ſignifyeth to be declared iuſt, as well before men, as in the ſight of God: Faith onely.

Neither is it poſſible to reconcile the apparence of oppoſition, which is betweene the two Apoſtles ſayings, but in this maner. For to ſay (as the Papiſtes doe) that a man is iuſtified both by faith and workes, can not poſſibly ſtand with that which Sainct Paul ſayth, A man is iuſtified by fayth without workes. But Sainct Iames ſayth not, that a man is iuſtified by workes without faith, which he might as rightly ſay as Sainct Paul, without workes, if he meant of the ſame iuſtification: but he ſayth, a man is not iuſtified by faith onely.

Therefore he meaneth, that a man is not iuſtified before God by a ſolitarie faith, which is voide of good workes, but by a liuing and working faith, in ſo much that by workes alſo, he is declared to be iuſt (which is one ſignification of that terme of iuſtifying vſual in the ſcriptures, Mat. 11. 19. Lu. 7. 29. &c.) and therefore is iuſtified by workes, and not by faith onely. But you ſay, there is not the like contradiction betweene the two Apoſtles, becauſe Sainct Paul neuer ſayth: a man is iuſtified by faith onely. But when he ſayth, a man is iuſtifyed without workes, it is the ſame that we meane when we ſay, by fauh onely.

And theſe wordes of Iames, Abraham was iuſtified by workes, are in forme of ſpeache directly contradictorie to that Sainct Paul defendeth: Araham to be iuſtified by fayth without workes, or not of workes, though in ſenſe they be not: becauſe the one vſeth the worde (iuſtifie) in one ſenſe, the other in an other ſenſe.

Where you ſay Sainct Paul neuer meaneth, that by faith which is alone a man is iuſtified, we agree with you: for we holde, that a man is iuſtified by faith which worketh by loue, yet not of the merite of workes, but of the free grace of God. But concerning workes alſo, you ſay there is a difference betwixt the firſt iuſtification whereof Sainct Paul ſpeaketh ſpecially, and the ſecond whereof Sainct Iames ſpecially treateth. This difference will neuer diſcharge the Apoſtles of contradiction, that a man is iuſtifyed by workes, and that a man is iuſtifyed without workes: yea ſaued not of workes, but of grace, ſo long as you meane both theſe iuſtifications to be before God in one acception of the worde iuſtification. Beſide, that the ſcripture teacheth but one iuſtification vnto glorification and ſaluation, which is that which you call the firſt.

For that you alleadge out of the Apocalypſe 22. He that is iuſt, let him be more iuſtified, though it were meant of the ſame kind of iuſtice, yet it cannot ſerue you to ground a ſecond kind of iuſtification vpon it, becauſe compariſon of greater or leſſer, doeth not make a ſeuerall kinde. It declareth therefore an increaſe in the ſame kinde of iuſtification, and not a newe kinde of iuſtification. It is an exhortation therefore, that he which is iuſt declare himſelfe more and more to be iuſt, and increaſe in the workes of iuſtice. No iuſtification to ſaluation

The fathers yea confeſſe ſometimes (in deede very often) ſay, we are iuſtified by faith onely, or fayth onely doeth iuſtifie &c. but they haue a farre other meaning then we: and then you ſay, they exclude this and that, which is true: (for onely fayth iuſtifying, excludeth all thoſe things:) but they exclude alſo the merite of good workes, which the Apoſtle doth exclude, and that is it which we would haue. But to followe you in particulars, they neuer exclude ſay you, from iuſtification and ſaluation, the cooperation of mans free will. Onely faith. Freewill.

To paſſe ouer your pelting ſophiſtrie, in ioyning together iuſtification and ſaluation: of which although the later doe followe of the former, yet they are diuerſe things, and in reaſoning are to be diſtinguiſhed: I ſay onely fayth doeth not exclude the conſent of our will. Which of vnwilling by the grace of God is made willing, to accept iuſtification and ſaluation, but it excludeth the merite or power of mans captiue will, which without the grace of God, auaileth to nothing, but to ſinne, as S. Auguſtine often teacheth. And eſpecially he handleth this point of purpoſe, that our will in beleeuing vnto iuſtification and ſaluation, is not of that naturall freedome of will, but of Gods grace, de ſp. & liter. cap. 33. & 34.

You ſay further, they doe not exclude the diſpoſitions and preparations of our hearts by prayers, penance, and ſacraments. I anſwere, they acknowledge but one iuſtification before God vnto ſaluation, euen that whereby God iuſtifieth the vngodly, which you call the firſt iuſtification: for of the ſeconde they neuer heard, nor any Papiſt, till within theſe fewe yeeres: therefore they exclude all diſpoſition, and preparation of mens heartes by prayer or any other meanes, of which nothing can be good that proceedeth from an vngodly man, therefore can haue no cooperation with God, in iuſtifying the vngodly man by fayth onely without good workes.

You adde further, they doe not exclude the vertue of hope and charitie, the purpoſe of well working, and the obſeruation of Gods commaundements: Neither doe we exclude them from following iuſtification, and y iuſtified man, but they goe not before vnto iuſtification, or the man to be iuſtified (ſayth S. Auguſtine) as before is ſhewed, therefore in iuſtification they exclude them. Laſt of all you ſay, much leſſe they exclude the workes and merites of the children of God proceeding of grace and charitie, after they be iuſtified, and are nowe in his fauour. Seeing they acknowledge iuſtification by grace, by fayth onely without workes, although they exclude not the workes of Gods children to followe iuſtification, to the reward of eternall life, which God hath promiſed: yet in the very acte of iuſtification, which goeth before ſuch workes, they muſt needes exclude ſuch workes from iuſtifying, or being meritorious of iuſtice, which is Gods free gift in Ieſus Chriſt. A few ſentences of the fathers I will rehearſe, that their meaning may appeare to be clearely as ours is, againſt all your cauilles, Origines in Ep. ad Rom. lib. 3. cap. 3. The Apoſtle ſaith, that the iuſtification of faith alone doth ſuffice, ſo that he which beleeueth onely, is iuſtified, although he haue fulfilled no workes: wherfore it ſtandeth vs vpon, that take in hand to defend the Apoſtles writing to be perfect, and all things therein to ſtand with good order, to enquire who hath been iuſtified by faith onely, without workes. Therefore for examples ſake, I thinke that theefe is ſufficient, which being crucified with Chriſt, cryed to him from the Croſſe, Lord Ieſu remember me when thou commeſt in thy kingdome. Neither are there any good workes of his deſcribed in the Goſpel, but for this faith onely, Ieſus ſaid to him, this day thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe. Where it is to be noted, that although this theefe had no good workes going before faith: yet proceeding of faith he had as many, as the time and caſe wherein he was, permitted, namely the feare of God, acknowledging of his ſinnes, inuocation, reprehenſion of his fellowe &c. Hilarius in Math. Can. 8. It mooued the Scribes, that ſinne was forgiuen by a man: for they beheld a man onely in Ieſus Chriſt, and that to be forgiuen by him, which the lawe could not releaſe: for faith onely doeth iuſtifie. Here you ſee iuſtification by remiſſion of ſinnes: the like aſſertion he hath, Can. 21. Gregory Nazianzen affirmeth the ſame, or 22. de modeſt. in deſcept. And in car. de rebus ſuis, ſpeaking in the perſon of the Publicane, that prayed with the Phariſe, ſayth, Workes ſhall not ſaue me, but let thy grace and thy mercie drope vpon me profane man, which only hope (O King) thou haſt giuen to miſerable ſinners. Here you ſee, grace and mercie the onely hope of ſinners. Baſil. de Humil. Hom. 51. ſayth: That is a perfect and full reioycing in God, when a man doth not boaſt him ſelfe of his owne iuſtice, but knoweth himſelfe to be voide of true iuſtice, and to be iuſtified by onely faith in Chriſt. S. Ambroſe among a great number of places hath theſe wordes, in 1. Cor. cap. 1. It is ſo appointed of God, that he which beleeueth in Chriſt, ſhall be ſaued without workes, receiuing forgiuenes of ſinnes by faith alone. S. Chryſoſtome alſo often times affirmeth the ſame, and ſpeaking of Abraham he ſayth, in Ep. ad Gal. cap. 3. If he before the time of grace were iuſtified by faith, and that when he flouriſhed in good workes, much more we. In 1 Timoth. Homil. 3. he ſayth: If thou truſt vnto faith, why bringeſt thou in other things, as though faith alone ſufficed not to iuſtifie? S. Hierome againſt the Pelagianes ſayth, lib. 1. We are iuſt, when we confeſſe our ſelues to be ſinners, and our iuſtice conſiſteth not of our owne merite, but of Gods mercie. In the commentarie vpon S. Pauls Epiſtles aſcribed to Hierome, iuſtification is often attributed to faith onely: and to ſhewe that he excludeth all merite of workes he ſayth in Epiſtle ad Galat. chapter 1. By grace alone you are ſaued through faith: and chapter 2. Grace is caſt away, if fayth onely ſuffice not.

Rhem. 10 25. Rahab.) This Apoſtle alleageth the good workes of Rahab by which ſhe was iuſtified, and S. Paul (11. Hebre.) ſayth ſhe was iuſtified by faith. Which are not contrary one to the other, for both is true, that ſhe was ſaued by faith, as one ſayth: and that ſhe was ſaued by her workes, as the other ſaith. But it were vntruely ſaid, that ſhe was ſaued either by onely faith, as the Heretikes ſay: or by onely good workes, as no Catholike man euer ſaid. But becauſe ſome Iewes and Gentile Philoſophers did affirme: they, that they ſhould be ſaued by the workes of Moyſes lawe: theſe, by their morall workes: therefore S. Paul to the Romanes diſputed ſpecially againſt both, proouing that no workes done without or before the faith of Chriſt, can ſerue to iuſtification or ſaluation.

S. Paul meaneth faith, and S. Iames workes, cauſes of iuſtification: but neither by one, faith onely: nor the other, workes onely.

Fulke. 10 Rahab was iuſtified as Abraham was, before God by faith onely, through which faith ſhe brought foorth that worke which is here commended, whereby ſhe was declared to be iuſt. S. Paul to the Romanes, Galathians, Epheſians, and other, writing to Chriſtians, howe they are iuſtified and ſaued, doth not onely confute the errours of the Iewes and Philoſophers, but of the Pelagians, Papiſtes, and all other Heretikes, that teache a man to be iuſtified before God by his workes, and not by the onely grace of God through fayth.

Rhem. 11 26. Faith without workes is dead.) S. Iames (as the Proteſtants faine) ſayth that faith without good workes is no faith, and that therefore it iuſtifieth not, becauſe it is no faith. for he ſayth that it is dead without workes, as the body is dead without the ſoule, and therefore being dead hath no affinitie or efficacie to iuſtifie or ſaue. But it is a great difference, to ſay that the body is dead, and to ſay that it is no body. euen ſo is the like difference, to ſay that faith without workes is dead, and to ſay that faith without workes is no faith. And if a dead body be not withſtanding a true body, then according to S. Iames compariſon here, a dead faith is notwithſtanding a true faith, but yet not auaileable to iuſtification, becauſe it is dead, that is, becauſe it is onely faith without good workes.

Faith without workes is a true faith, but not auaileable: as the body without the fruit is a true body though it be dead.

And therefore it is a great impudencie in Heretikes, and a hard ſhift, to ſay that the faith of which the Apoſtle diſputeth all this while, is no true or properly called faith at all. It is the ſame faith that S. Paul defined and commended in all the 11. chapter to the Hebrues, and the ſame which is called the Catholike faith, and the ſame which being formed and made alike by charitie, iuſtifieth. Mary true it is, that it is not that ſpeciall faith which the Heretikes feine onely to iuſtifie, to wit, when a man doth firmely beleeue as an article of his faith, that him ſelfe ſhall be ſaued. this ſpeciall faith it is not whereof the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh. for neither he, nor S. Paul, nor any other ſacred writer in all the holy Scriptures euer ſpeake or knewe of any ſuch forged faith.

What faith the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of: and that he knewe no ſpeciall faith.

Fulke. 11 We faine no ſuch fables, as you liſt to dreame of. We ſay the Apoſtle ſpeaketh partly of a fayned fayth, which howe vaine it is, be proueth by fayned charitie: partly of that fayth which is an aſſent, that the principles of religion are true, which is a kinde of fayth, but ſuch as is in deuils, which tremble at Gods iuſtice, but doe not embrace his ſaluation, and this is voide of good workes, and is a dead fayth, not a iuſtifying fayth. It ſtandeth you vpon to make much of this fayth: for this is your popiſh fayth, not differing from the deuils fayth, therefore you charge vs with impudencie in ſaying that the faith of which the Apoſtle diſputeth, is no true, or properly called faith. Whereunto I anſwere, that if a dead man may truely and properly be called a man, then this is a true & properly called faith, which the Apoſtle calleth a dead faith: yet is it not that faith, which S. Paul affirmeth to iuſtifie without workes, though it be not without workes after it haue iuſtified. But it is the ſame (you ſay) that S. Paul defined and commended Hebr. 11. and the ſame which is called the Catholike faith. That it is not the ſame that the Apoſtle commendeth, nor the true Catholike faith, faith,it is manifeſt by this reaſon. That faith which the Apoſtle commendeth, is it by which all the Patriarkes pleaſed God,who pleaſed him not with a dead faith,nor with ſuch a faith as is in deuils: therefore it is not the ſame faith. That faith hath truſt & confidence in God,that he is a rewarder of them that ſeeke him, this faith hath not,nor without this truſt can haue that information or life by charitie,which you ſpeake of.For no man can loue God,except he firſt beleeue that he is,and that he wil be good vnto him. And that faith in deed doth iuſtifie which worketh by loue: but loue or charitie is not the forme or life of it,but a fruite and effect of it For the Apoſtle in this ſimilitude doth not make faith the body,and workes the ſoule: but workes the Argument of the life & ſoule of faith,which is truſt in God,that is lacking in the deuils,in whom is knowledge of the trueth, (that you call the Catholike faith,)which is the body onely without life,except there be truſt and confidence, which is the life of it,declaring it ſelfe by the workes as the life of a tree by leaues, flowers,and fruits. Didymus Alex. vpon this text ſaith: It is to be noted,that when faith is dead without workes,it is alſo no faith: for a dead man is not a man. But here ſome men ſaying, that the ſpirit is the cauſe whereby the body liueth, ſay it is more honourable then the body, and conſequently affirme,that workes which giue life to it,are more honourable than faith,I haue ſtudied more earneſtly to ſet forth what I thinke. For though without doubt the ſpirit is better then the body, yet without controuerſie, workes are not to be preferred before faith, ſeeing a man is ſaued by grace,not of workes, but of faith. Out of this fragment of Didymus it appeareth,that he accompted that to be no true faith which was voyd of good workes,and that he eſteemed not workes or charitie to be the ſoule or forme of faith. But you are wel aſſured,that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of the ſpecial faith which we holde onely to iuſtifie. This confeſſion(though from the deuils mouth)is true. For that faith which we teach to iuſtifie,is no dead faith,is not in deuils,is not voyd of good workes. But neither S.Paul,nor any ſacred write: (you ſay) euer ſpake or knew of any ſuch forged faith. What ſay you, is it a forged faith for euery man to beleeue the generall promiſes of God to perteine vnto him? when Chriſt ſaith: He that beleeueth and is baptized,&c. Did not Peter and euery one of the Apoſtles that beleeued and were baptized, firmely beleeue that they ſhould be ſaued? Yes verely they beleeued all,and euery one ſaid with Dauid,I haue beleeued,therefore I haue ſpoken, and they taught all Chriſtian men ſo to beleeue, and your generall faith is nothing better then infidelitie. Iudas after he had betrayed Chriſt,beleeued that he was iuſt, the deuils beleeued that he was the Sonne of God.What lacke is there in the deuils faith?You wil ſay loue,Which is true,but it is not al the trueth. For how can they loue him of whom they looke to receiue no benefite but condemnation? Therefore Iudas and the deuils lacke faith,that is truſt and confidence in God, that he is their mercifull father to ſaue them: which faith whoſoeuer hath,cannot but loue God,and all that God hath commanded to be loued for his ſake. This is therefore the onely true iuſtifying faith of all Chriſtians,not onely to knowe God to be, and Chriſt to be a Sauiour,but to beleeue that God is their God,and Chriſt is their Sauiour, according to whoſe moſt certaine and comfortable promiſes,they looke ſtedfaſtly to be ſaued.

True faith iuſtifying.

MY brethren, be not many maſters, knowing howe that we ſhall receiue the greater damnation.

13 Who is wiſe and hath knowledge among you? Let him ſhew by good conuerſation his working in mildeneſſe of wiſdom.

11 Doeth a fountaine ſende forth at one hole ſweete water, and bitter alſo?

12 Can the figge tree, my brethren, beare Oliue beries? either a vine beare figges? ſo can no fountaine giue both ſalt water, and freſh alſo.

13 Who is a wiſe man, and endued with knowledge among you? let him ſhewe his workes out of a good conuerſation with meekeneſſe of wiſdome.

14 But if ye haue bitter enuying and ſtrife in your heart, glorie not, neither be lyars againſt the trueth.

15 For ſuch wiſdome deſcendeth not from aboue: but is earthly, ſenſuall, and deuiliſh.

16 For where enuying and ſtrife is, there is ſedition, and all maner of euill workes.

17 But the wiſdome that is from aboue, is firſt pure, then peaceable, gentle, and eaſie to be entreated, full of mercie and good fruites, without iudging, without ſimulation.

Fulke 3. Man working by the grace of God, derogateth nothing from his honour. But he that thinketh he cleanſeth his heart by any ſtrength of his owne, and not by the grace of God onely, derogateth from the grace of God, which is the onely auctour of goodneſſe in vs: For of our ſelues, as of our ſelues, we are not apt to thinke any thing. 1.*Cor.*3.5. MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. V.

Rhem.2. 16 Confeſſe therefore.) The heretikes tranſlate, Acknowledge your ſinnes. &c. So litle they can abide the very worde of confeſsion.

Fulke.2. Our tranſlation is true, and agreeable to the Apoſtles meaning: as for the worde of confeſſion, and the thing it ſelfe, when it ſignifieth true confeſſion, we can well abide, and vſe many times. But you imagine that the very worde confeſſion, is ſufficient to proue the neceſſitie of auricular confeſſion, with all the Popiſh tyrannie incident thereunto. Cauilling. Popiſh confeſſion.

Rhem.3. 20 Couereth a multitude.) He that hath the zeale of converting ſinners, procureth thereby mercie and remiſsion to him ſelf: which is a ſingular grace.

Fulke.3. The Apoſtle ſayth not that he ſhall couer the multitude of his owne ſinnes, but rather of his whome he conuerteth, in ſuch ſence, as hee ſaueth his ſoule from death, namely, as a profitable inſtrument of Gods grace, and mercie, which properly conuerteth and ſaueth ſinners, and coureth ſinnes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 4. The hire.) To withholde from the poore or labourer the hire or wages that is due or promiſed to him for his ſeruice or worke done, is a great iniquitie, and one of thoſe fiue ſinnes which in holy writte be ſaide to call for vengeance at Gods hand, as we ſee here. They be called in the Catechiſme, Sinnes crying to heauen. The other foure be, Murder, Gen.18. v.20. Vſurie, Exod.22.v.27. The ſinne againſt nature, Gen.18.v.20. The oppreſsion and vexation of widowes, pupilles, ſtrangers, and ſuch like. Ib. & Exod.3.v.9. The ſinnes crying to heauen.

12. Sweare not.) He forbiddeth not all othes, as the Anabaptiſts falſly ſay. for in iuſtice and iudgement we may be by our Lawfull Magiſtrate put to ſweare, and may lawfully take an othe, as alſo for the aduantaging of any neceſſarie trueth when time and place require. but the cuſtome of ſwearing, and all vaine, light, and vnneceſſarie othes in our dayly ſpeech doe diſpleaſe God highly, and are here forbidden by the Apoſtle, as alſo by our Sauiour. Mat.5. What othes are lawfull, what are not.

Rhem.4. 14. Let him bring in the Prieſts.) The Proteſtants for their ſpeciall hatred of the holy order of Prieſthood, as els where often, ſo here they corrupt the text euidently, tranſlating Presbyteros, elders. As though the Apoſtle had meant men of age, and not ſuch as were by holy office, Prieſts. S. Chryſoſtom who knewe the ſenſe and ſignification of the Greeke worde according to the Eccleſiaſticall vſe and the whole Churches iudgement, better then any Proteſtant alme taketh it plainely for Sacerdotes, that is, Prieſts li.3.de Sacerdotio prope initium. And if they confeſſe that is is a worde of office with them alſo, though they call them Elders, and not Prieſts: then we demaund whether the Apoſtle meane here men of that function which they in their new Churches call Elders. If they ſay no, as they muſt needes (for Elders with them are not deputed ſpecially to publike preaching or adminiſtration of the Sacraments, ſuch as the Apoſtle here requireth to be ſent for) then they muſt needes graunt, that their Elders anſwere not to the function of thoſe which in the new Teſtament are called Presbyteri in Greeke and Latin, and therefore both their tranſlation to be falſe and fraudulent, and alſo their naming of their new degrees or orders to be fond and incongruous. Heretical tranſlation againſt Prieſthod. Neither their Elders (ſo called) nor their Miniſters, can be thoſe whom the Apoſtle here calleth, Presbyteros.

If they ſay their Miniſters be correſpondent to ſuch as were called Presbyteri in holy writte & in the Primitiue Church, and that they are the men whome the Apoſtle willeth to be called for to anoile the ſicke and to pray for him, why doe they not then tranſlate Presbyteros Miniſters? Which they might doe with as good reaſon, as call ſuch as they haue taken in ſtede of our Catholike Prieſts, Miniſters. Which woorde being in large acception common to all that haue to doe about the celebration of diuine things, was neuer appropriated by the vſe either of the Scripture or of the holy Church, to that higher function of publike adminiſtration of the Sacraments and Seruice, which is Prieſthood: but to the order next vnder it, which is Deaconſhip. And therefore if any ſhould bee called Miniſters, their Deacons properly ſhould be ſo termed. And the Proteſtants haue no more reaſon to keepe the auncient Greeke word of Deacon, appropriated to that office by the vſe of antiquitie, then to keepe the word Prieſt, being made no leſſe peculiar to the ſtate of ſuch onely as miniſter the holy Sacraments, and offer the Sacrifice of the Altar. But theſe fellowes follow neither Gods word nor Eccleſiaſticall vſe, nor any reaſon, but mere phantaſie, newelie, and hatred of Gods Church. And howe litle they followe any good rule or reaſon in theſe things may appeare by this, that here they auoyde to tranſlate Prieſts, and yet in their Communion booke, in their order of viſiting the ſicke they commonly name the Miniſter, Prieſt. They haue no reaſon to call their Miniſters by that name. Theſe Deacons ſhould rather be called Miniſters. They ſhould keepe the name Prieſt, as wel as deacon.

Fulke. 4. Wee tranſlate the greeke worde heere, as wee doe in other places truely, for the Elders by office, and not in age, as your owne vulgar latine tranſlator calleth them diuerſe times Seniores and Maiores natu, which you call Ancientes and Seniors. Therefore this is a rotten cauill, not worth a rotten nutte. And although Chryſoſtome following the vſuall maner of ſpeaking, called them Sacerdotes, yet if he had tranſlated this or any like text out of Greke, into the latine tongue, he ought not to haue vſed that worde Sacerdotes. Neither doth your vulgar latine interpreter, whome you holde to haue knowen the ſenſe and ſignification of that worde, as well as any Papiſt aliue, in any place tranſlate the worde heare vſed by the Apoſtle, Sacerdotes, but either Seniores, or Maiores natu, or Presbyteri: and Beda in his commentarie on this place, calleth them Seniores. But admitting that wee meane elders by office, you demaund, whether the Apoſtle meane heare, men of that function which in our Churches we call Elders. I anſwere yee, he meaneth ſuch. But that you thinke can not be ſo: becauſe Elders are not deputed ſpecially to publike prayers and adminiſtration of the ſacraments. I anſwere, although in ſome churches there be ſome Elders appoynted only to gouerne, yet is there no church, in which there bee no Elders appoynted ſpecially to publike prayers, and adminiſtration of the ſacraments: and therefore our Elders are ſuch as the apoſtle requireth to be ſent for, ſauing that they haue not the gift of healing, as thoſe had in the primitiue Church of the Iewes, and therefore your quarreling as well at our orders, as at our tranſlation is vaine. But admitting that the miniſters of our church be ſuch as the apoſtle ſpeaketh of, you demaund why we tranſlate not Presbyteros miniſters, I anſwere, becauſe the word ſignifieth Elders and not miniſters: I might by as good reaſon demand of you, why ye tranſlate not Seniores, prieſts, rather then Ancients. But wee might as well tranſlate ſo, as call them ſo you thinke, but wee know no: For in tranſlation, wee muſt looke as neere as the phraſe of writing will beare, to the proper ſignification of wordes: els why call you them Prieſts, whome in tranſlation you terme Ancients? In common ſpeach we may vſe common words, but when we are examined ſo ſtraightly of our termes, we anſwere that we call them not miniſters, meaning largely and abſolutely, but miniſters of God and of his Church, as S. Paul calleth himſelfe and his fellow miniſters. 1. Cor. 3. 5. & c. 4. 1. who was was I trow of the higheſt order. But the Deacons (you ſay) ſhould more properly be called miniſters. We cal not the Elders miniſters, as though the word were proper to them, which we acknowledge to be generall to all inferiour miniſters and ſeruitors of the church: but becauſe they are the principall miniſters of God & the Church. And yet we contend not for the terme, nor refuſe the name Prieſt, when it ſignifieth the ſame whome the apoſtle calleth Presbyteros: but when by abuſe and vaine cauillation of papiſts, it is taken to ſignifie a ſacrificer. To conclude therefore, according to the true etymologie we confeſſe the name to bee good, and doe vſe it in our ſeruice booke and otherwiſe, knowing that it implieth no ſacrificing, as you moſt fondly and ridiculouſly would enforce out of it. But in tranſlation, becauſe by common ſpeach a Prieſt was taken for a ſacrificer, & the tranſlators had no other name, whereby to call the ſacrificers of the law but prieſts, to make and obſerue that difference which the holy ghoſt alwayes obſerueth in the new teſtament, they call the one prieſts, the other Elders. But if they had called the one ſacrificers, and the other prieſts, that prieſts might haue bene knowne to differ from ſacrificers, it had bene a ſmall matter, and perhaps hindered you of this vaine quarrell.

Cauilling.

Rhem. 5. 14. Anoiling with oyle.) Here is the Sacrament of extreme Vnction ſo plainely promulgated (for it was inſtituted, as all other Sacraments of the new Teſtament, by our Sauiour Chriſt him ſelfe, and, as Venerable Bede thinketh and other auncient writers, the anoiling of the ſicke with oile Marc. 6. pertaineth thereunto) that ſome Heretikes, for the euidence of this place alſo (as of the other for good workes) deny the Epiſtle. Other (as the Caluiniſts) through their confidence of cunning ſhiftes and gloſes, confeſſing that S. Iames is the author, yet condemne the Church of God for vſing and taking it for a Sacrament. But what diſhonour to God is it (we pray them) that a Sacrament ſhould bee inſtituted in the matter of oyle, more then in the element of water? Why may not grace and remiſſion of ſinnes be annexed to the one as well as to the other, without derogation to God?

The Sacrament of EXTREME VNCTION.

But they ſay, Sacraments endure for euer in the Church, this but for a ſeaſon in the Primitiue Church. What Scripture telleth them that this generall and abſolute preſcription of the Apoſtle in this caſe, ſhould endure but for a ſeaſon? when was it taken away, abrogated, or altered? They ſee the Church of God hath alwayes vſed it vpon this warrant of the Apoſtle, who knewe Chriſtes meaning and inſtitution of it better then theſe deceiued men, who make more of their owne fonde gheſſes and coniectures, grounded neither on Scripture nor vpon any circumſtance of the text, nor any one authentic Author that euer wrote, then of the expreſſe worde of God. It was (ſay they) a miraculous practiſe of healing the ſicke, during onely in the Apoſtles time, and not long after. We aske them whether Chriſt appointed any certaine creature or external element vnto the Apoſtles generally to woorke miracles by. Him ſelfe vſed ſometimes clay and ſpittle, ſometimes he ſent them that were diſeaſed, to waſh them ſelues in waters, but that he appointed any of thoſe or the like things for a generall medicine or miraculous healing onely, that wee reade not, for in the beginning: for the better inducing of the people to faith and deuotion, Chriſt would haue miracles to be wrought by ſundry of the Sacraments alſo. Which miraculous workes ceaſing, yet the Sacraments remaine ſtill vnto the worldes ende.

The heretikes obiections againſt the fiuth Sacrament, anſwered: and withal it is proued to be a Sacrament.

Againe wee demaund, whether euer they read or heard that men were generally commanded to ſeeke for their health by miraculous meanes. Thirdly, whether all Prieſts, or (as they call them) Elders, had the gift of miracles in the primitiue Church? No, it can not be, for though ſome had, yet all theſe indifferently of whome the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, had not the gift: and many that were no Prieſts, had it, both men and women, which yes could not be called for, as Prieſts were in this caſe. And though the Apoſtle and others could both cure men and reuiue them againe, yet there was no ſuch generall precept for ſicke or dead men, as this, to call for the Apoſtles to heale or reſtore them to life againe. Laſtly, had any externall element or miraculous practiſe, vnleſſe it were a Sacrament, the promiſe of remiſſion of all kinde of actuall ſinnes ioyned vnto it? or could S. Iames inſtitute ſuch a ceremonie himſelfe, that could ſaue both body and ſoule, by giuing health to the one, and grace and remiſſion to the other? At other times theſe contentious wrangelers raile at Gods Church for annexing only the remiſſion of veniall ſinnes to the element of water, made holy by the Prieſts bleſſing thereof in the name of Chriſt, and his worde: and loe here they are driuen to holde that Saint Iames preſcribed a miraculous oile or creature which had much more power and efficacie. Into theſe ſtraites are ſuch miſcreants brought that will not beleeue the expreſſe worde of God, interpreted by the practiſe of Gods vniuerſall Church.

Remiſſion of ſinnes annexed to creatures. Holy water.

Venerable

Venerable Bede in 9. Luc, ſaith thus. It is cleere that this cuſtome was deliuered to the holy Church by the Apoſtles themſelues, that the ſicke ſhould be anointed with oyle conſecrated by the Biſhops bleſſing. See for this, and for the aſſertion and vſe of this Sacrament, S. Innocentius ep. 1. ad Decentium Eugubinum cap. 8. to. 1. Conc. & Lib. 2. de viſitatione infirmorum in S. Auguſtine cap. 4. Concil. Cabilonenſe 2. cap. 48. Conc. Wormatienſe cap. 72. to 3. Conc. Aquiſgra. c. 8. Florentinum, and other later Councels. S. Bernard in the life of Malachie in fine. This holy oile becauſe the faithfull ſawe to haue ſuch vertue in the primitiue Church, diuers caried it home and occupied it in their infirmities, not vſing it in the Sacramental ſort which the Apoſtle preſcribeth, as the Aduerſaries vnlearnedly obiect vnto vs: but as Chriſtians now doe (and then alſo did) concerning the water of Baptiſme, which they vſed to take home with them after it was hallowed, and to giue it their diſeaſed to drinke.

Holy oile bleſſed by the Biſhop

Fulke. 5. There is no cauſe, why any man ſhoulde denye this Epiſtle, as mayntayning the Popiſh Sacrament of extreeme vnction, for that it doeth not, but ſpeaketh of the vſe of the gift of healing, which was in the Primitiue Church, in the Elders of the Congregation, expreſſed by the outwarde ſigne of anoynting with oyle, as it is manifeſt, Mark. 6. 13. Whereof as Beda thinketh came the cuſtome of anoynting them that were poſſeſſed with Deuils, and the ſicke with oyle, which hee confeſſeth might bee done not onely of the Prieſtes, but alſo of euery Chriſtian in their neceſſitie, as Innocentius teacheth. Therefore, although hee allowe the ceremonie, yet hee alloweth not your Sacrament, which may bee miniſtred by none but by a Prieſt, and vnto none, but them that be in extremitie of ſickeneſſe, when health is deſpayred: yea, Beda vnderſtandeth it, to pertayne not onely to them that are ſicke in body, but alſo to them that are weake in fayth, though they bee whole in body. Commaunding (ſayth hee) him that is weake in body, or in fayth, that hee which hath ſuſteyned a greater wounde, ſhould remember to cure himſelfe with the ayde of more men, and them of the Elder ſorte neyther ſhould referre the cauſe of hys weakeneſſe, to the Younger ſort and the leſſe learned, leſt he receiue by them, any hurtfull ſpeech or counſell. You ſee therefore, that euen the cuſtome and vſe of the Ceremonie, is greatly changed from the dayes of Bede, which is but 7. or 8. hundred yeere agoe. For in the Popiſh church one Prieſt is ſufficient, young or olde, who commeth not to giue any ghoſtly counſell, but commonly when a man is paſt his ſenſes. It is certaine therefore, that in Bedes time, this anoynting was not taken for a Sacrament. But you pray vs, (as though you would begge a Sacrament of vs,) What diſhonour is it to God that a Sacrament ſhould be inſtituted in oyle more then in water &c? Verely if God had inſtituted any ſuch perpetuall Sacrament in oyle, as he hath done in water, we would nothing doubt of it. But this ſigne of anoynting was temporall, as the gift of healing whereunto it was annexed was but for a ſeaſon, and that doeth this Scripture tell vs ſufficiently, ſeeing experience teſtifieth, that the gift of healing doeth not nowe remayne. Where you ſay the Church of God hath alwayes vſed it, it is falſe: for the Greeke Church neuer receiued it to this day as a Sacrament, and for many hundred yeeres it was counted a free Ceremonie in the Latine Church, as appeareth by the Epiſtle of Innocentius, and that which Beda writeth, that it was lawfull for all Chriſtians to vſe it. But when we ſay, it pertayned to the gift of healing, you aske whether Chriſt appoynted any certaine creature or externall element vnto the Apoſtles generally to worke miracles by. I anſwere no: for with externall ſigne and without, they did miracles. Yet it appeareth, Mark. 6. 13. that he appoynted them to anoynt the ſicke with oyle that they might recouer health, though it were not neceſſarie ſo to doe at all times, when they healed the ſicke. Where you ſay, that Chriſt would haue miracles in the beginning wrought by ſundry ſacraments which remayne, the miracles ceaſſing, we finde no ſuch matter, which if it were ſo, the inſtitution and commandement of the perpetuitie of them were ſufficient for their continuance. Againe you demaunde, whether euer we redde or heard that men were generally commaunded to ſeeke for their health by miraculous meanes, Wee reade that men were commanded generally to ſeeke all ſpirituall & miraculous giftes, as long as God gaue them: and not health only, but the gift of healing alſo. 1. Cor. 12 31. cap. 14. 1. yet vnder the generall rule of ſubmitting all our requeſtes, and whole will to Gods will.

Extreme vnction.

Thirdly, you demaund, whether all Prieſts or Elders had the gift of miracles in the primitiue church. We anſwere it is not neceſſary that euery one had the gifte of healing, yet among the companie of Elders, that were in euery church, ſome doubtleſſe had, when other had which were not Elders of the Church. Or the gift might be giuen to the whole nomber, which euery one had not, as S. Paul ſpeaketh of the gift of prophecie, giuen by laying on of the hands of the elders. 1. Tim. 4. 14. Neither would the Apoſtle promiſe healh, if the gift of healing, had not bene generall in euery congregation. But though the Apoſtles had the gift to cure men and reuiue them, yet there was no ſuch generall precept, to call for the apoſtles, to heale men or reſtore them: So long as that gift continued in the church it was all mens dutie to ſeeke the vſe of it, ſo farre as it would ſtand with Gods pleaſure: Therefore as S. Paule ſetteth downe an order for the right vſe of the gift of tongues, 1. Corinth. 14. 27: ſo doeth S. Iames heare for the gift of healing. Laſtly, you aske if any externall element, or miraculous practiſe, vnleſſe it were a ſacrament, had promiſe of the remiſſion of all kinde of actuall ſinnes, ioyned to it? But neither hath the element of oyle any ſuch promiſe annexed vnto it, but the prayers of the faithfull. as 1. Iohn 5. 6. Againe you aſke whither S. Iames could inſtitute ſuch a ceremonie of himſelfe? &c. We ſay he did not inſtitute any ſuch ceremonie as you ſpeake of, nor mentioneth any ſuch, but willeth the gift of healing, to be vſed according as God had appoynted. As for the promiſe of remiſſion of ſinnes, he annexeth not to the element, but out of the generall doctrine of prayer, he ſheweth the fruite thereof to be the obteyning of remiſſion of ſinnes. But at other times you ſay, we ſtryke at the popiſh church, for annexing remiſſion of veniall ſinnes, to the element of water. Heare we are driuen to holde that S. Iames preſcribed a miraculous oyle, which had much more power and efficacie. Concerning your popiſh holy water, although it be coniured to be health of body and ſoule, which includeth not only veniall but all ſinnes: yet euen your doctrine of veniall ſinnes, is intollerable. For who gaue you authoritie, to annexe any remiſſion of ſinnes, to that or any other creature? But that you ſay, we are dryuen to holde, is falſe, for wee hold no ſuch thing, either that Saint Iames of his owne authoritie, preſcribed a miraculous oyle, or that any ſuch power or efficacie to remitte ſinnes, was in the oyle, or annexed to it. Therefore you are driuen to the ſtreights, that without ſhame fayne a ſacrament, of a ceremonie vſed only for health of bodye and are bolde to ſlander the vniuerſall Church of Chriſt, with ſuch a practiſe as neuer was receiued in the church of Chriſt, for a ſacrament. Howe the ceremonie was vſed in Bedes time, I haue ſhewed before. The teſtimonie of Innocentius and de viſitat infirm. I haue anſwered before Galathians 4. ſect. 2. Bernard writeth no more, but that Malachie was anoynted, according to the ceremonie vſed in his time. The other Councels that followe being of later yeeres, are according to the epiſtle of Innocentius. Who becauſe hee ſayth, that this anoynting may bee vſed not onely of the prieſtes, but alſo of all Chriſtians, you are driuen to a poore ſhift, in ſaying they vſed it not in that ſacramentall ſorte which the apoſtle preſcribeth: but Innocentius ſayth plainely they might vſe it lawfully, without any diſtinction of ſacramentall ſorte, as his wordes are manifeſt, which with ſmall learning, may eaſilie bee vnderſtood. But where you ſay, they vſe it as Chriſtians doe nowe the water of baptiſme, to take it home with them after it was hallowed, and to giue it to theire diſeaſed to drinke. No doubt, an holy and wholeſome medicine, or rather a vile ſuperſtitious abuſing of the ſacrament of baptiſme, as there haue bene many by coniurers and idolaters, but neuer vſed of well inſtructed Chriſtians.

As for the hallowing of the water of baptiſme, is in Gods church but to the onely vſe of baptiſme, and for the onely time of the miniſtration thereof, as is manifeſt by Iohn baptizing in Iordane, and the apoſtles of Chriſt in euery water, without any ſuperſtitious hallowing or eſtimation of the water, after it had ſerued for the vſe of baptiſme. Hallowing of the fonte.

Rhem. 6. 15. The praier of faith.) Hee meaneth the forme of the Sacrament, that is, the wordes ſpoken at the ſame time when the partie is anoiled, which no doubt are moſt auncient and Apoſtolike. Not that the word or praier alone ſhould haue that great effect here mentioned, but ioyned with the foreſaid vnction, as is plaine. The Sacramentall wordes.

Fulke. 6. Chryſoſtome vnderſtandeth it generally of prayer. De ſacerdot. lib. 3. So doth Heſychius in Leu. lib. 1. cap 2. ſaying, Prayer worketh many things, for eſpecially it healeth the paſſions of the ſoule, it cureth the woundes of the intelligible or myſticall eyes, abſoluing from ignorance and that which is ſickneſſe in deede, that is, it ſaueth the teares that come out of ſinne. For is any ſicke among you? (ſaith Iames,) let him call for &c. rehearſing this whole text. Wherefore theſe ancient fathers know neither your ſacrament, nor the formall wordes thereof.

Rhem. 7. 15. Shall ſaue.) The firſt effect of this Sacrament is, to ſaue the ſoule, by giuing grace and comfort to withſtand the terrours and tentations of the enemie, going about (ſpecially in that extremitie of death) to driue men to deſperation or diſtruſt of minde and other damnable inconueniences, the which is ſignified in the matter of this Sacrament ſpecially.

Fulke. 7. The apoſtle aſcribeth no ſauing to any ſacrament, but to the prayer of the faithfull, which how effectuall it is, he declareth afterward.

Rhem. 8. 15. Shall lift him vp.) When it ſhalbe good for the ſaluation of the partie, or agreeable to Gods honour, this Sacrament reſtoreth alſo a man to bodilie health againe, as experience often teacheth vs. Which yet is not done by way of miracle, to make the partie ſuddenly whole, but by Gods ordinarie prouidence and vſe of the ſecond cauſes which otherwiſe ſhould not haue had that effect, but for the ſaid Sacrament. This is the ſecond effect. The three effects of this Sacrament.

Fulke. 8. This perteyneth to the gift of bodily healing, for which ende your anoynting is not vſed, but in deſperation of bodily health, when death is euen at hand, neither is any man healed by your anoynting.

Rhem. 9. 15. They ſhalbe remitted him.) What ſinnes ſo euer remaine vnremitted, they ſhall in this Sacrament and by the grace thereof be remitted, if the perſons worthily receiue it. this is the third effect. S. Chryſoſtom of this effect ſaith thus: They (ſpeaking of Prieſts) do not onely remitte ſinnes in baptiſme, but afterward alſo, according to the ſaying of S. Iames. If any be ſicke, let him bring in the Prieſts &c. Li. 3. de Sacerd. prope initium. Let the Proteſtants marke that he calleth Presbyteros, ſacerdotes: that is, Prieſts, *and maketh them the onely miniſters of this Sacrament and not elders or other lay men. By all which you ſee this Sacrament of all other to be maruailous plainely ſet forth by the Apoſtle. Onely ſicke men and (as * the Greeke word giueth) men very weake muſt receiue it: onely Prieſts muſt bee the miniſters of it: the matter of it is holy oyle: the forme is prayer, in ſuch ſort as we ſee now vſed: the effects be as is aforeſaide. Yet this ſo playne a matter and ſo profitable a Sacrament, the enemie by Heretikes would wholy aboliſh.* Prieſts (and not Elders) are the miniſters of this ſacrament. * διδυσκει τις.

Fulke. 9. Chryſoſtome aſcribeth not this effect to your ſacrament, nor to the ceremonie of anoynting with oyle, but to the prayers of the Prieſts, as is manifeſt by his wordes going before, wherein hee preferreth Prieſtes as ſpirituall fathers before bodily fathers. Theſe (ſayth hee) haue often ſaued the ſoule that was ſicke, and ready to periſh, cauſing to ſome a more gentle puniſhment, other ſome not ſuffering at the firſt to fall: and this not onely by teaching or admonition, but alſo by helping with prayer. For they haue authoritie to forgiue ſinnes, not only when they regenerate vs, but afterwarde alſo: For is any ſicke among you, ſayth the Apoſtle. &c. as it followeth in the text.

You ſee Chryſoſtome (euen as the apoſtle) doeth referre this effect onely to prayer and not to the anoynting with oyle, whereof there was no vſe in his time. For the name of Prieſts, I haue anſwered ſufficiently before. Beda acknowledgeth that this ceremonie of anoynting with oyle, might bee done not onely by prieſts, but by all chriſtians: but the remiſſion of ſinnes, hee referreth to the prieſts, after they bee confeſſed by the ſicke with purpoſe of amendment. For ſinnes (ſayth he) cannot bee remitted with out confeſſion of amendment: whereby it is certaine that Beda ſeperating remiſſion of ſinnes, from the ceremonie of anoynting with oyle, did not acknowledge the anoynting with oyle to bee a ſacrament. His wordes of it are theſe: This wee reade in the goſpell, that the Apoſtles did, and nowe the cuſtome of the church holdeth, that the ſicke may bee anoynted by the Prieſtes with oyle conſecrated, and prayer going with all, that they may be healed. Neither is it lawfull for the Prieſts only, but as Pope Innocent writeth, it is lawfull for all Chriſtians, to vſe the ſame oyle by anoynting, in the neceſſitie of themſelues or other friends: which oyle yet ought not to be made, but by the Biſhops. For that he ſayth with oyle in the name of the Lorde, ſignifieth the oyle conſecrated in the name of the Lorde, or at leaſt, that when they anoynt the ſicke, they ought to call vpon the Lordes name ouer him.

Rhem. 10 16 Confeſſe therefore.) It is not certaine that he ſpeaketh here of ſacramental Confeſſion: yet the circumſtance of the letter well beareth it, and very probable it is that he meaneth of it: and Origen doth ſo expound it ho. 2. in Leuit. & Ve- uerable Bede writeth thus, In this ſentence (ſaith he) there muſt be this diſcretion, that our daily and litle ſinnes we confeſſe one to an other, vnto our equals, and beleeue to be ſaued by their daily prayer. but the vncleanneſſe of the greater leproſie let vs according to the law open to the Prieſt, and at his pleaſure in what maner and how long time hee ſhall commaund, let vs be carefull to bee purified. But the Proteſtants fleeing from the very word confeſſion in deſpite of the Sacrament, tranſlate thus, Acknowledge your faultes one to an other. They doe not well like to haue in one ſentence, Prieſts, praying ouer the ſicke, anoiling them, forgiuing them their ſinnes, confeſſion, and the like. Confeſſion. In hunc locum

Fulke. 10 The Scripture neuer ſpeaketh of Sacramentall confeſſion, as you call it, and the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh of mutuall confeſſing or acknowledging of our treſpaſſes one agaynſt another, not of our ſinnes to a prieſt. Neither doth Origen expound this text of confeſſion, but the two verſes before of remiſſion of ſinnes by heartie repentance, and confeſſing of ſinnes before God, or at leaſt openly before the Church. There is yet (ſayth he) the ſeuenth kind of remiſſion of ſinnes, though very hard and labourſome, when the ſinner waſheth his bed with teares, and his teares are made his bread day and night, and when hee is not aſhamed to declare his ſinnes to the prieſt of the Lord, and to ſeeke medicine according to him which ſayth: I haue ſayd, I will pronounce mine iniuſtice againſt my ſelfe to the Lord, and thou haſt remitted the impietie of my heart. In whom alſo that is fulfilled which the Apoſtle ſayth: If any bee ſicke, let him call the Elders of the Church, and let them lay their handes on him, anoynting him with oyle in the name of the Lord, and the prayer of faith ſhall ſaue the ſicke, and if he haue bene in ſinnes, they ſhall be remitted to him. That which Beda ſayeth of opening our greater leproſie vnto the Prieſt, and abiding his iudgement, prooueth not the neceſſitie of auricular confeſſion to bee of Gods lawe, nor of this text, which he acknowledgeth to pertaine to mutuall confeſſion. And ſo the word ἀλλήλους doeth plainly ſignifie, whereby we may as well prooue, that the Prieſtes are bound to confeſſe themſelues to the lay men, as you can prooue, that the lay men are bound to confeſſe themſelues to the Prieſtes. Therefore this text pertaineth to mutuall acknowledging of mens treſpaſſes and reconciliation and prayer. Finally, wee like well the text, when it is not poyſoned with your hereticall gloſes, of Sacramentes, of anoyling and ſhrift, which are farre from the Apoſtles words and meaning. Popiſh confeſſion.

Rhem. 11 17 He prayed) The Scriptures to which the Apoſtle alludeth, make no mention of Elias prayer. therefore he knew it by tradition or reuelation. Whereby we ſee that many things vnwritten be of equal truth with the things written. Truthes vnwritten and knowen by tradition.

Fulke. 11 When Elias denounceth to Achab that there ſhall be neither rayne nor dewe, but according to his word, 1.Reg.17.1. It is eaſie to gather his prayer both before and after the drought: And although many things are true that are not written, yet thoſe things that are written in the Scripture are ſufficient for our inſtruction. Vnwritten verities.

Rhem. 20 Maketh to be conuerted.) Here we ſee the great reward of ſuch as ſeeke to conuert Heretikes or other ſinners from errour and wickednes: and how neceſſarie an office it is, ſpecially for a Prieſt. Conuerting of ſoules.

Rhem. 12 20 Shall ſaue.) We ſee, it derogateth not from God, to attribute our ſaluation to any man or Angel in heauen or earth, as to the workers thereof vnder God, by their prayers, preaching, correction, counſell, or otherwiſe. Yet the Heretikes are ſo fooliſh and captious in this kind, that they cannot heare patiently, that our B. Lady or others ſhould be counted meanes or workers of our ſaluation. Our ſaluation attributed to men, without derogation to Chriſt.

Fulke 12. We can not abide your blaſphemies, aſcribing to the B. virgine Mary that which is proper to Chriſt. So farre foorth as ſhe was a meane of our ſaluation, by conceiuing and bringing forth the Sauiour of the world, we doe acknowledge it, as in theſe ſpeaches. But that ſhe or any other creature, is now Our life, our ſaluation, our hope, our Mediatour, or any ſuch thing, we abhorre as blaſphemous againſt the glory of our onely Mediator and aduocate, life, hope and ſaluation Ieſus Chriſt. Wherefore, when you cannot prooue, that God hath made her or any other Saint, inſtruments of our ſaluation by their interceſſion, theſe formes of ſpeach will not ſerue to excuſe your idolatrie and blaſphemie. Blaſphemie. Inuocation of Saincts.

THE ARGVMENT OF BOTH THE EPISTLES OF S. PETER, THE FIRST, AND THE SECOND.

Rhem. 1. OF S. Peter we read at large, both in the Goſpels and in the Actes of the Apoſtles: and namely, that Chriſt deſigned him, and alſo made him his vicar (as S. Mathew for that cauſe in the catalogue of the Apoſtles, calleth him Primus, the firſt, and all antiquitie, Princeps Apoſtolorum, the Prince of the Apoſtles) and that he accordingly executed that office after Chriſtes departure, hauing the Church firſt among the Iewes in Hieruſalem and in all that countrey and coaſtes about, as Chriſt alſo himſelfe before had preached to the Iewes alone. c.10.v.2.

*But preaching at length to the Gentiles alſo, according to Chriſtes commiſſion (Math.28. v.19.) and being now come to Rome, the head citie of the Gentiles, from thence he writeth this Epiſtle to his Chriſtian Iewes, hauing care of them in his abſence, no leſſe then when he was preſent: and not to the Iewes that were at home, (belike becauſe they had S. Iames, or his ſucceſſour S. Simon Cleophae, reſident with them) but * to them that were diſperſed in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, and Bithynia.* 1.Pet.1.

And that he writeth it from Rome, himſelfe ſignifieth, ſaying: The Church that is in Babylon ſaluteth you. Where by Babylon he meaneth Rome, as all antiquitie doth interprete him: not, that he ſo calleth the Church of Rome, but the heathen ſtate of the Romane empire, which then, and 300. yeeres after, vnto the converſion of Conſtantinus the Emperour, did perſecute the elect Church of Rome, in ſo much that the firſt 33. Biſhops thereof vnto S. Silueſter, were all Martyrs.* 1.Pet.5. *See the Annotation, 1. Pet.5.v.13.

For the matter whereof he writeth, himſelfe doth ſignifie it in theſe wordes: This 2oe the ſecond Epiſtle I write to you, my deereſt, in which (Epiſtles) I ſtirre vp by admonition your ſincere minde, that you may be mindfull of thoſe wordes, &c. So he ſayth thereof both together. And againe of the firſt to the ſame purpoſe, in an other place: I haue briefly written, beſeeching and teſtifying that this is the true grace of God wherein you ſtand. For, there were at that time certaine Seducers (as S. Auguſtine alſo hath told vs) who went about to teach* Onely faith, as though good workes were not neceſſarie nor meritorious. there were alſo great perſecutions, to compell them with terrour to deny Chriſt and all his religion. He therefore exhorteth them accordingly, neither for perſecution, neither by ſeduction to forſake it: though in the firſt, his exhortation is more principally againſt perſecution: and in the ſecond, more principally againſt ſeduction. The firſt epiſtle is noted to be very like to S. Pauls epiſtle to the Epheſians, in wordes alſo, and ſo thicke of Scriptures, as though he ſpake nothing els.

1.Pet.5.

*See the Annotation vpon S. Iames epiſtle c.2.v.21.

The time when the firſt was written, is vncertaine: the ſecond was written a little before his death, as is gathered by his wordes in the ſame. c.1. v.14.

Fulke. 1. We neuer read that Chriſt made S. Peter his vicar. S. Mathew calleth him firſt, in order of the catalogue not in auctoritie or dignitie. The ancient fathers alſo aſcribe to him a primacie of order among the Apoſtles, not of power or auctoritie. And all the Apoſtles ioigned together in planting the Church among the Iewes in Ieruſalem, and the Gentiles abroad according to Chriſtes commiſſion. Math. 28. But whether from Rome, (as it is not like) or from Babylon (as the word is, either in Syria or AEgypt) being the chiefe Apoſtle of the Iewes, hee writeth to them that were diſperſed in the Eaſt partes of the world, in ſuch prouinces as hee nameth. To prooue that he writeth from Rome, it is a ſimple argument, that he ſendeth ſalutation from Babylon, and as ſimple a commendation of Rome to be figuratiuely called Babylon. True it is, that moſt of the ancient writers are of that minde, following the receiued opinion, that Peter was at Rome, but there is no reaſon why Peter writing from Rome, ſhould ſend ſalutations from Babylon, ſeeing Paul writing to the Romanes, did not call them Babylonians, but Romanes, or the Saincts at Rome. The Seducers whereof S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh, taught that good workes were altogether needleſſe for chriſtian men, as though they might be ſaued by a vayne profeſſion of faith. But he neuer findeth fault with them that hold good workes not to be meritorious of ſaluation. But contrarywiſe writeth many bookes againſt the Pelagians that hold that error.

CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. He comforteth them in their perſecutions (being now by Baptiſme made the children of God) with the hope of their heauenly inheritance: 6 ſhewing how meritorious it is for them to be ſo conſtant in fayth, 10 and confirming them therein with the authoritie of the Prophets and of the Holy Ghoſt. 15 Exhorting them to liue alſo accordingly in all holineſſe, 15 conſidering the holines of God, the vprightnes of his iudgement, the price of their redemption by Chriſt, 22 and the vertue of the ſeed in them (Which is grace regeneratiue in Baptiſme) foretold by the Prophet alſo.

Fulke. 1. The Apoſtle neuer teacheth the conſtancie of faith, nor any fruite of faith to be meritorious, but he ſheweth the reward of conſtancie to be according to Gods promiſe, by the merite of Chriſt onely.

PETER an Apoſtle of Ieſus Chriſt, to them that dwell here and there as ſtrangers throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Aſia, and Bithynia:

6 Wherein you ſhal reioyce, a litle now if you muſt be made heauie in diuers tentations:

7 That the probation of your faith much more pretious then golde (which is proued by the fire) may be found vnto prayſe and glory and honor in the reuelation of IESVS Chriſt:

8 Whom hauing not ſeene, you loue: in whom now alſo not ſeeing you beleue: and beleuing you reioyce with ioy vnſpeakable and glorified,

10 Of the which ſaluation the Prophets inquired and ſearched, which prophecied of the grace to come in you,

11 Searching vnto which or what maner of time the Spirite of Chriſt in them did ſignifie: foretelling thoſe paſſions that are in Chriſt and the glories folowing:

12 To whom it was reuealed, that not to themſelues, but to you they miniſtred thoſe things which now are told you by them that haue euangelized to you, the holy Ghoſt being ſent from heauen, on whom the Angels deſire to looke.

7 That the triall of your fayth beyng much more precious then gold that periſheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found to bee vnto you vnto laud, honour, and glory, at the appearing of Ieſus Chriſt,

8 Whom ye haue not ſeene, & yet loue him, in whom euen now though ye ſee him not, yet doe ye beleeue him, and reioyce with ioy vnſpeakeable and glorious:

9 Receiuing the end of your faith, euen the ſaluation of your ſoules.

10 Of which ſaluation haue the Prophetes enquired and ſearched diligently, which prophecied of the grace that ſhould come vnto you:

11 Searching when or what time the ſpirit of Chriſt which was in them ſhould ſignifie, which ſpirit teſtified before the paſſiõs that ſhould happen vnto Chriſt, and the glory that ſhould follow after.

12 Vnto which Prophets it was alſo reuealed, that not vnto themſelues, but vnto vs, they ſhould miniſter the things which are now ſhewed vnto you of them, which by the holy Ghoſt ſent downe from heauen, haue in the Goſpel preached vnto you, the things which the Angels deſire to behold.

13 Wherefore girde vp the loynes of your minde, be ſober, and truſt perfectly on the grace that is brought vnto you by the reuelation of Ieſus Chriſt:

14 As obedient children, not faſhioning your ſelues vnto the former luſtes of your ignorance:

18 For as much as yee knowe, how that yee were not redeemed with corruptible things, as ſiluer and golde, from your vayne conuerſation, which ye receyued by the tradition of the fathers:

*19 But with the precious bloud of Chriſt, as of a Lambe vndefiled, and without ſpot: Heb.9.14. 1.iohn 1.7. apoc.1.5.

20 Which was ordeined before hand, euen before the world was made, but was declared in the laſt time for your ſakes:

21 Which by him are faithfull in God, who raiſed him from the dead, and hath giuen him glory, that your faith & hope might be in God.

22 Making your ſoules chaſte in obedience of charitie, in the ſincere loue of the fraternitie from the hart loue ye one an other earneſtly:

23 Borne againe not of corruptible ſeed, but incorruptible by the word of God who liueth and remaineth for euer.

Eſa.40,6. 24 For al fleſh is as graſſe: and al the glorie thereof as the floure of graſſe, the graſſe is withered, and the floure thereof is fallen away.

25 But the word of our Lord remaineth for euer, and this is the word that is euangelized among you.

21 Which by his meanes do beleeue on God that raiſed him vp from the dead, and gaue him glory, that ye might haue fayth and hope toward God:

22 Euen ye which haue purified your ſoules, through the ſpirite in obeying the trueth, * with brotherly loue vnfaigned, ſee that ye loue one an other with a pure heart feruently: Rom.12.10.

23 For ye are borne a new, not of corruptible ſeede: but of incorruptible, by the worde of God, which liueth and laſteth for euer.

24 For all fleſh is as graſſe, and all the glory of man is as the floure of graſſe: the graſſe withereth, and the floure falleth away:* Eſa.40.6. eccle.14.18. iam.1.10.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 2. 9. ᶜ Kingly prieſt.) The Proteſtants can no more gather of this, that al Chriſtians be prieſts: then, that al be kings: as is moſt plaine Apocalyp. 1, 6. and 5, 10. Thou haſt made vs a kingdom (or kings) and prieſts.

Fulke. 2. We acknowledge that all Chriſtians be aſwell ſpirituall kings as ſpirituall ſacrificing prieſts, vnder Chriſt their head, the only king of glory, and eternall prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech. The kingdom & prieſthood of all Chriſtians.

Rhem. 3. 13. Humane creature.) So is the Greeke. but the Proteſt. in fauour of temporal lawes made againſt the Cath. religion, tranſlate is very falſely thus, to al maner ordinance of man: them ſelues boldly reiecting Eccleſiaſticall decrees as mens ordinances.

Fulke. 3. The Proteſtants meane not by all maner ordinances of men, euery law made by a man, but euery ordinance or creation of the prince, or the prince by what ordinance or humane creation ſoeuer he doe reigne, as you your ſelues interpret it, either by ſucceſſion, election, or how ſoeuer.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 4. 5. Spiritual hoſtes.) Here we ſee, that as he ſpeaketh of ſpirituall hoſtes, which euery Chriſtian man offereth, ſo he ſpeaketh not properly of prieſthod, when he maketh al Prieſts, but of a ſpirituall prieſthod. which ſpirituall prieſthod was alſo in al the Iewes: but the prieſthod (properly ſo called) was onely in the ſonnes of Aaron, and they offered the ſacrifices (properly ſo called) which none beſides might offer. Spirituall hoſtes and Prieſts.

Fulke. 4. He ſpeaketh of the ſacrificing prieſthood which remaineth now in the church, not of the miniſtring or gouerning prieſthood of the church, which is not properly the office of ſacrificing, but of preaching, miniſtring of the ſacraments, praying and ſuch like exerciſes. Spirituall prieſthood.

Rhem. 13. Be ſubiect.) *Not onely our Maiſter Chriſt, but the Apoſtles and al Chriſtians were euer charged by ſuch as thought to bring them in hatred with Princes, with diſobedience to kings and temporal Magiſtrates. therfore both * S. Paul and this Apoſtle do ſpecially warne the faithful, that they giue no occaſion by their il demeanure to ſecular Princes, that the Heathen ſhould count them diſobedient or ſeditious workers againſt the States of the world.* Obedience to temporal princes. Ro.13.

Rhem. 5. 13. To euery humane creature.) *So he calleth the temporal Magiſtrate elected by the people, or holding their ſouerainty by birth and carnal propagation, ordained for the worldly wealth, peace, and proſperitie of the ſubiects: to put a difference betwixt that humane Superiority, and the ſpiritual Rulers and regiment, guiding and gouerning the people to an higher end, and inſtituted by God him ſelf immediatly. for Chriſt did expreſly conſtitute the forme of regiment vſed euer ſince in the Church. He made one the cheefe placing Peter in the Supremacie: he called the Apoſtles and Diſciples, giuing them their ſeuerall authorities. Afterward * God guided the lot for choiſe of S. Matthias in Iudas place: and the Holy Ghoſt expreſly and namely ſeuered and choſe Paul and Barnabas vnto their Apoſtolical function: and generally the Apoſtle ſaith of al ſpiritual Rulers,* The holy Ghoſt hath placed you to rule the Church of God. God inſtituted the Spirituall gouernement in more excellent maner then the temporal. Act.1. Act.20.

And although al power be of God, & kings rule by him, yet that is no otherwiſe, but by his ordinarie concurrence, and prouidence, whereby he procureth the earthly commodity or wealth of men, by maintaining of due ſuperiority and ſubiection one towards an other, and by giuing power to the people and Commonwealth to chooſe to them ſelues ſome kinde or forme of Regiment, vnder which they be content to liue for their preſeruation in peace and tranquillity. But Spirituall ſuperiority is far more excellent, as in more excellent ſort depending, not of mans ordinance, election, or (as this Apoſtle ſpeaketh) creation, but of the Holy Ghoſt, who is alwaies reſident in the Church (which is Chriſts body myſtical, and therfore an other maner of Commonwealth then the earthly) concurring in ſingular ſort to the creation of al neceſſarie Officers in the ſaid Church, euen to the worlds end, as S. Paul writeth to the Epheſians. Eph.4.

*Leſt therfore the people, being them in ſo preciſe ſort alwaies warned of the excellencie of their Spiritual gouernours * and of their obedience toward them, might neglect their duties to Temporal Magiſtrates, ſpecially being infidels, and many times tyrants and perſecutors of the faith, as Nero and other were then: therfore S. Peter here warneth them to be ſubiect, for their bodies and goods and other temporal things, euen to the worldly Princes both infidels and Chriſtians, whom he calleth humane creatures.* Hebr.13.

Fulke. 5. Although there be great difference betweene the gouernment of princes, and of eccleſiaſticall gouernors, yet the Apoſtle calleth not princes humane creation, as though they were not alſo of Gods creation (for there is no power but of God) but that the forme of their creation is in mans appointment: the other is only of Gods aſſignement, and according to his inſtitution. But that Chriſt made one cheſe in authoritie ouer all the Church, and placed Peter in that ſupremacy, it is falſe, and can neuer be prooued out of the holy ſcripture. And the power of princes is ſo of God, that beſide his ordinary concurrence and prouidence, it is by his law commaunded to be obeyed, and the prince appointed how he ſhould gouerne. Not onely to procure the earthly commodity of his ſubiectes, but much rather to extend his authoritie to the ſpirituall benefit of their ſoules, in eſtabliſhing, by his power and lawes, the true religion, and the right exerciſes thereof, and puniſhing the offenders. As all godly princes, of whom we reade in the ſcripture, haue done, to Gods glorie, and their immortall praiſe. And although the ſpirituall ſuperioritie be in an other kinde much more excellent, yet euen all ſpirituall ſuperiours are bound to obey the Prince, not onely in thinges temporall, Peters primacie. The power of ciuill princes.

temporall, but much more in matters of religion, ſo long as they be agreeable to the law of God. Againſt which if any thing be decreed or commanded, either in the common weakh or in the church, it is not to be obeyed of any man. But if ciuill princes (though they be heathen) command any thing agreeable to Gods law, as Cyrus, Darius, Artaxerxes, they are to be obeyed, much more being Chriſtians, as Conſtantine, Valentinianus, Theodoſius, &c.

Rhem. 6. 13. To the king as excelling.) Some ſimple heretikes and others alſo not vnlearned, as the Leginning, for lacke of better places, would haue proued by this, that the king was head of the Church, and aboue al Spiritual rulers: and to make it ſound better that way, they falſely tranſlated it, To the king as the cheefe head. in the Bible of the yere 1562. But it is euident that he calleth the king the precellent or more excellent in reſpect of his Vicegerents, which he calleth Dukes or Gouernours that be at his appointment: and not in reſpect of Popes, Biſhops, or Prieſts, as they haue the rule of mens ſoules: who could not in that charge be vnder ſuch Kings or Emperours as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of: no more then the kings or Emperors then, could be heads of the Church, being Heathen men and no members thereof, much leſſe the cheefe members. See a notable place in S. Ignatius ep. ad Smyrnenſes, where he exhorteth them firſt to honour God, next the Biſhop, and then the king.

Here t. tranſlation.

The Kings excellencie of power is in reſpect of the nobilitie and lay magiſtrates vnder him.

This is an inuincible demonſtration, that this text maketh not for any ſpiritual claime of earthly kings, becauſe it giueth no more to any Prince then may and ought to be done and graunted to a Heathen Magiſtrate. Neither is there any thing in al the new Teſtament that proueth the Prince to be head or cheefe gouernour of the Church in ſpiritual or Eccleſiaſtical cauſes, more then it proueth any heathen Emperour of Rome to haue been, for they were bound in temporal things to obey the heathen being lawful kings, to be ſubiect to them euen for conſcience, to kepe their temporal lawes, to pay them tribute, to pray for them, and to doe al other natural duties: and more no ſcriptures binde vs to doe to Chriſtian kinges.

Chriſtian princes haue no more right to be ſupreame heads in ſpiritual cauſes, then the Heathen.

Fulke. 6. The king is called moſt excellent, not only in reſpect of his dukes or other gouernours his vicegerents, but alſo in reſpect of all his ſubiects, and therefore might be called chiefe head of them, although the tranſlation be more proper, The chiefe or moſt excellent. Therfore S. Peter calling the king the chiefe, ſubmitteth himſelfe alſo, and all his fellow apoſtles, vnder his auctority, neither doth he write to the people onely, but to all the Church in generall. Therefore neither popes, biſhops, nor any prieſts, can haue exemption from the obedience due to their ciuill princes and ſupreame Lords. But you thinke to haue a ſtarting hole, that the cleargie could not be vnder ſuch princes as the apoſtle ſpeaketh of: as though he ſpake not of all princes that then were, and ſhould be to the end of the word. Or elſe, belike, becauſe he ſpeaketh onely of heathen princes, there is nothing due by this text to Chriſtian princes. But he ſpeaketh of the auctoritie, not of the perſons, or their vertues or vices. But the kings and emperors then (ſay you) could be no heads of the Church, being heathen men, and no members thereof, much leſſe the chiefe members. I anſwere, although the metaphoricall name of heads did not agree to them, becauſe they were no members, yet were they by Gods ordinance, and ought to haue beene gouernors and protectors of the church, as all Chriſtian kings are, or ought to be. But Ignatius ad Smyrnenſes, exhorteth to honour the king after the biſhop, correcting the ſaying of Salomon, which he alleageth, Pou. 24. 21. as though Salomon had forgotten the high prieſt. My ſonne (ſaith he) Honor God and the king. But I ſay, honor God in deed, as the cauſe and Lord of all, and the biſhop, as high prieſt, bearing the image of God, according to gouernement, of God, but according to prieſthood, of Chriſt: and after him, it behoueth alſo to honor the king. Theſe wordes ſhew out of what ſhoppe this epiſtle of Ignatius came, who was a man of greater religion, then that he would haue corrected the ſcripture in Salomon or in Peter: both commanding the king to be honoured next vnto God.

The kings ſupremacy.

And although it might ſeeme to be excuſed by the different auctoritie and excellencie of the biſhop, yet it is not tollerable, after the Holy ghoſt hath ſaid, Honor God and the king, to ſay, but I ſay, Honor God and the biſhop, and after him the king. But this is (as you write) an inuincible demonſtration that this text maketh not for any ſpirituall claime of earthly kings, becauſe it giueth no more to any prince then may or ought to be done vnto an heathen magiſtrate. As though obedience is not to be giuen to an heathen magiſtrate, if he command or decree any thing, euen in religion, agreeable to the true honor & ſeruice of God: as Cyrus did for building vp the temple Ezra. 1. Darius, both for continuing of the building, & for ſacrifice to be offered in it. Ezra. 6. As Artaxerxes did for reformation of the church, according to the law of God, by the miniſtery of Ezra the learned & godly prieſt. Ezr. 7. & cap. 8. As Nebuchadnezer, for the glory of God, after he was reſtored to his kingdome. Dan. 4. As Darius the Median did, that men ſhould reuerence the God of Daniel. Dan. 6. Maximianus and Diocletian, that Chriſtians ſhould exerciſe their religion, build oratories and poſſeſſe them. Euſeb. lib. 8. 19. Licinius, that Chriſt ſhould be worſhipped. lib. 9. c. 9. So inuincible be popiſh demonſtrations. But there is not any thing in the new teſtament (you ſay) that proueth the Chriſtian prince to be ſupreame gouernour in eccleſiaſticall cauſes more then heathen emperors. What if there were not? is not the auctoritie of the ſcripture of the olde teſtament ſufficient? where both the duety of a king is deſcribed, to gouerne according to the law of God, and the practiſe is declared in Dauid, Salomon, Ioſaphat, Ezechias, Ioſias, which exerciſed ſupreame gouernement in cauſes eccleſiaſticall, and ouer the high prieſts themſelues: beſide ſo many prophecies of the auctoritie of kings to be protectors of the church, and ſetters forth of true religion. But euen thoſe places of the new teſtament, that require obedience to princes, doe prooue their ſouereigne auctoritie in all cauſes, and ſpecially the prayers appointed to be made for kings, that vnder them we may lead a peaceable life in all godlineſſe and honeſty, declare that it is their duetie to procure religion by their auctoritie, as well as ciuill honeſtie. Therefore though heathen princes abuſed their auctoritie, to perſecute the church and religion of Chriſt, yet were they ſet vp of God, aſwell to maintaine by their lawes and auctoritie true religion and the church, as publike honeſtie and the commonwealth. For they are appointed for the praiſe of them that doe well, and for the puniſhment of euill doers, therefore for the aduancement of true religion and the ſuppreſſion of hereſies. S. Auguſtine alſo teſtifieth, that Chriſtians kings ſerue God, both as they are Chriſtians and alſo as they are kings, in making lawes of eccleſiaſticall matters. Ep. 50. And ſo held all the ancient godly fathers, as we haue declared in other places.

Rhem. 8. 18. But alſo the waiward.) The Wicleſiſtes and their followers in theſe dayes, ſometimes to moue the people vnto ſedition, hold and teach that maiſters and magiſtrates loſe their authoritie ouer their ſeruants and ſubiects, if they be once in deadly ſinne, and that the people in that caſe needs not in conſcience obey them. Which is a pernicious and falſe doctrine, as is plaine by this place, where we be expreſſly commanded to obey euen the il conditioned, which muſt be alwaies vnderſtood, if they commaund nothing againſt God. for then this rule is euer to be folowed. We muſt obey God rather then men. Act. 5. 29.

Deadly ſinnes of Princes or Superiors exempt not the ſubiects from obedience, as Wicleffe held.

Fulke. 8. This was a leud ſlander againſt Wickleffe, who held no ſuch doctrine. For both he obeyed, and taught obedience to the kings, Edward the third and Richard the ſecond, in whoſe time he liued, which two princes all men know to haue committed deadly ſinne, yea ſome heinous and notorious ſinnes. So is it a ceſtable ſlander againſt vs, whom you call followers of Wickleffe, for none of vs euer held or taught any ſuch ſeditious & traiterous opinions. But your hereſie commeth neereſt to this opinion, which hold that the pope hath auctoritie to depoſe lawfull kings from their thrones at his pleaſure: which holde them for no princes de iure, that by the popes bull are declared to be depriued: which finally, ſend and ſuborne daily moſt helliſh traitors to murther their ſouereigne and moſt lawfull princes, and ſtirre vp forrein ſtates to inuade their dominions.

See the ſaid Epiſtle, where alſo he inſinuateth other expoſitions for explication of the manifold difficulties of this hard text, which were to long to rehearſe, your ſpecial purpoſe being onely to note briefely the things that touche the controuerſies of this time. Purgatorie.

Fulke 2. The place we confeſſe to be hard, but yet not ſo hard of it ſelfe, as it is to them that haue a preiudicate opinion in their mindes, of Chriſtes deſcending into Hell after his death. But firſt here is no mention of the ſoule of Chriſt, nor of deſcending, but of his ſpirite, comming and preaching: not to the godly that were in priſon, but to them that were ſometimes diſobedient, which are ſtill in priſon: not to their deliuerance, but to their deſtruction. The Apoſtle therefore meaneth by this moſt ancient example, to ſhewe that Chriſt had alwaies care of his Church, and therefore in the ſame ſpirite, by which he was raiſed to life after he was dead, he came of olde time, and preached deſtruction to the reprobate, euen in the daies of Noe, who for that they contemned his preaching, are now damned ſpirites in priſon. And at the ſame time appointed Noe to make the Arke for ſafegard of him ſelfe, and the ſmal companie of the Church, and in the ſame preſerued his Church from deſtruction by water, wherein is alſo a notable figure of our ſaluation by Baptiſme. And that he ſpeaketh of Chriſtes diuine ſpirite, and not of his humane ſoule, it is manifeſt by that he ſayth, he came in the ſame ſpirite by which he was made aliue, or reſtored to life, which was not his humane ſoule, but his diuine power, by which his ſoule was ioined againe to his body. As S. Paule concludeth, that he was declared to be the ſonne of God in power, according to the ſpirite of ſanctification, by his reſurrection from the dead, that is by raiſing him ſelfe from death by his diuine ſpirite and eternall power. For his humane ſoule did not returne to his bodie of it ſelfe, but by power of his diuine and eternall ſpirite. But now, let vs ſee what you bring to cleere the place from difficultie. Firſt, you ſay, S. Auguſtine confeſſeth the text to be hard to vnderſtand, ſo doe we: but his doubtes and other ancient Fathers iudgements, haue helped vs ſomewhat to the right vnderſtanding. But where you ſay, that S. Auguſtine findeth him ſure of this, that Chriſtes deſcending into Hell in ſoule after his death, is plainly proued thereby, it is falſe. Chriſtes deſcending into Hell. Rom. 1.

For although he doe acknowledge, that the ſoule of Chriſt after his death was in Hell, yet that he was ſo in Hell, as you define, and for that purpoſe, to deliuer the Patriarkes, he doth not affirme. But contrariwiſe he ſayth: I could neuer finde the word Hell in the Scripture, taken in good part, which if it be neuer read in the diuine authorities, verely that boſome of Abraham, that is, that habitation of quiet reſt, is not to be beleeued to be any part of Hell. The deſcending of Chriſt into Hell, to be according to the Scriptures, there is no doubt, but in what ſenſe and ſort, and to what ende or benefite of the Church, the queſtion is. Therefore Calvine and his followers are no Infidels, which both acknowledge the deſcending of Chriſt into Hel, and ſhew the vſe and ende thereof, to extend to the whole Church of God.

Athanaſius apud Epiphanium ſayth: That the word him ſelfe went and preached to the ſpirites, that is, the diuine nature of Chriſt, & not his humane ſoule. And De incarn. verbi Dei, he ſayth: That wicked one the Deuill, which is wont to aſſault vs with the force of death, the ſorowes of death being looſed, is left alone altogether dead.

Cyrillus in deede vpon this place, gathereth Chriſtes deſcending not by power of his diuinitie only, but alſo in ſoule vnto Hell. But Oecumenius doth not ſo conclude: but ſheweth, that the effect of Chriſts death and reſurrection, extended to all that were dead before Chriſt. But whereas it ſeemeth he doth hold that Chriſtes preaching to them after their death, ſupplied that which they lacked in their life, it hath no ground in the text, which ſpeaketh only of Chriſtes preaching in ſpirite to the diſobedient.

S. Auguſtine therefore doth better to doubt of the vnderſtanding of the text, then to gather more then the wordes thereof will yeelde. And yet where he ſayth, he doubteth not, but that Chriſt performed the benefite of ſaluation, to ſome that were in the paines of Hell, he affirmeth not Purgatorie, whereof he affirmeth in other places that it may be doubted of, and either be founde, or els be ſtill vnknowne. Enchir. Cap. 69. But Beda (no doubt, out of more ancient Fathers, peraduenture out of Athanaſius, whoſe iudgement of this text alſo he citeth) thus interpreteth theſe wordes of S. Peter. He which in our times comming in the fleſh, preached the way of life to the worlde, euen he him ſelfe alſo came before the floode, and preached to them which then were vnbeleeuers, and liued carnally. For euen he by his holie ſpirite, was in Noe, and the reſt of the holie men which were at that time, and by their good converſation, preached to the wicked men of that age, that they might be converted to better maners. You ſee therefore that our expoſition is not new, which ſo many hundred yeeres agoe, was deliuered by that reuerent Father Beda, who though in ſome thinges he were caried away with the errours and corruptions of his time, yet had he a care to interprete the Scriptures as neere as he could, according to the writings of the elder Fathers that were before him.

Rhem. 3. 20. Incredulous ſometime.) They that take the former wordes, of Chriſtes deſcending to Hel, and deliuering certaine there detained, do expound this, not of ſuch as died in their infidelitie or without al faith in God, for ſuch were not deliuered: but either of ſome that once were incredulous, and afterward repented before their death: or rather and ſpecially of ſuch as otherwiſe were faithful, but yet truſted not Noes preaching by his worke and word, that God would deſtroy the world by water. Who yet being otherwiſe good men, when the matter came to paſſe, were ſorie for their errour, and died by the flood corporally, but yet in ſtate of ſaluation, and being chaſtiſed for their fault in the next life, were deliuered by Chriſtes deſcending thither, and not they onely, but al others in the like condition. For the Apoſtle giueth theſe of Noes time but for an example. What were the incredulous perſons of whom the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh.

Fulke 3. They that take theſe wordes of Chriſtes deſcending into Hell, and adde further, that Chriſt by his deſcending, deliuered the captiue ſoules, are driuen to inuent many things beſide the booke, of their owne heads. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh only of the vnbeleeuers and diſobedient in the daies of Noë, not to ſhew their deliuerance, but their iuſt damnation, affirming that 8 perſons only were ſaued by water, the reſt periſhing, which is to be vnderſtood both of their bodies and of their ſoules. For Beda reiecteth the opinion of one man, that thought ſome comfort ſhould come to them that had been vnbeleeuers in the daies of Noe, as contrary to the Catho-like faith: becauſe Chriſt by his deſcending to Hell, deliuered none but the faithfull, neither preached to the ſowles that are out of their bodies, and ſhut vp in Hell priſon, for their wickednes, but in their life, either by him ſelfe, or by the examples and words of the faithfull, he daily ſheweth the way of life. Oecumenius alſo out of Gregorie, ſheweth, that their diſobedience and condemnation was teſtified by the Scripture, before Chriſt came in the fleſh, and that ſaluation was preached to men from the beginning, but deſpiſed, becauſe of their declining vnto vanitie and pleaſure.

Rhem. 4. 21. Of the like forme) The water bearing vp the Arke from ſinking, and the perſons in it from drowning, was a figure of Baptiſme, that likewiſe ſaueth the worthie receiuers from euerlaſting periſhing. As Noe (ſaith S. Auguſtine) with his, was deliuered by the water and the wood, ſo the familie of Chriſt by Baptiſme ſigned with Chriſtes Paſſion on the Croſſe. Li. 12. Cont. Fauſtum c. 14. Againe he ſaith, that as the water ſaued none els of the Arke, but was rather their deſtruction: ſo the Sacrament of Baptiſme receiued out of the Catholike Church at Heretikes or Schiſmatikes hands, though it be the ſame water and Sacrament that the Catholike Church hath, yet profiteth none to ſaluation, but rather worketh their perdition. Which yet is not meant in caſe of extreme neceſſitie, when the partie ſhould die without the ſaid Sacrament, except he tooke it as an Heretikes or Schiſmatikes hand. Neither is it meant in the caſe of infants, to whome the Sacrament is cauſe of ſaluation, they being in no fault for receiuing it as the hands of the vnfaithfull, though their parents and frendes that offer them vnto ſuch to be baptized, be in no ſmal fault. S. Hierom to Damaſus Pope of Rome, compareth that See to the Arke, and them that communicate with it, to them that were ſaued in the Arke: al other Schiſmatikes and Heretikes, to the reſt that were drowned.

Baptiſme receiued of Heretikes or Schiſmatikes, when damnable, when not.

Ep. 57.

Fulke 4. There is no neceſſitie ſo extreme, that ſhould driue men to ſeeke Baptiſme of Heretikes, that be out of the Church. For we muſt not doe euill, that good may come thereof. Neither is baptiſme an efficient cauſe of ſaluation vnto infantes, but a ſeale of Gods ſpirite, regenerating them to eternall life. S. Hierome in the place quoted, compareth the Church, and not the See of Peter, to the Arke of Noe. And that he deſired them to communicate with the See of Rome, it was becauſe Damaſus was a true Catholike. But in the daies of Liberius his predeceſſor, that ſubſcribed to the Arrians, and helde Councels againſt the Catholikes, he was in the Arke of Chriſt, that was out of the Communion of the See of Rome, at leaſt of him that ſate in it.

Rhem. 5. 21. The examination of a good conſcience.) The Apoſtle ſeemeth to allude here to the very forme of Catholike Baptiſme, conteining certaine interrogatories and ſolemne promiſes made of the articles of the Chriſtian faith, and of good life, and of renouncing Satan and al his pompes and workes. which (no doubt) howſoeuer the Caluiniſts eſteeme of them, are the very Apoſtolike ceremonies vſed in the miniſtration of this Sacrament. See S. Denys in fine Ec. hierarchiæ. S. Cyril li. 12. in Io. c. 64. S. Auguſtine ep. 23. S. Baſil de Sp. ſancto c. 12. and 15. S. Ambroſe de ijs qui myſterijs initiantur c. 2. 3. 4.

Fulke 5. Beza acknowledgeth, that the Apoſtle alludeth to the interrogatories of the Catechiſtes, and the anſweres of them that were to be baptiſed. Which ſtipulation & ſolemne promiſes, are neceſſarie to be acknowledged, that Baptiſme be effectuall in them that are of age. And although they be not alwaies neceſſarie to be expreſſed in the forme of Baptiſme, yet are they included in the doctrine thereof.

CHAP. IIII.

Beda vnderſtandeth it of them that are ſpiritually dead. So great care, ſo great loue, and ſo great deſire, hath God to mortifie vs in the fleſh, and to quicken vs in the ſpirite, that he commaunded to preach the word of faith to them alſo, which haue been wrapped in greater crimes, and are worthily to be named among the dead, as riot, luſt, drunkennes, gluttonie, bibbing, and vnlawfull worſhipping of idols, that they which ſo liuing iudged, that is, condemned, and caſt away carnall deſires, may liue ſpiritually, and waite for life euerlaſting with them, whom the grace of the Goſpell found liuing innocently. The ſame interpretation of diuerſe ancient Fathers, hath Oecumenius.

ANNOT.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem.2. 9. Charitie coureth.) Faith onely cannot iuſtifie, ſeeing that charitie alſo doth cauſe remiſſion of ſinnes. And ſaying charitie, he meaneth loue and charitable workes toward our neighbours, vnto which workes of mercie the Scriptures doe ſpecially attribute the force to extinguiſh all ſinnes. See S. Auguſtine c.69. Enchiridij and tract.1.in epiſt.1.Io.cap.1. and venerable Bede vpon this place. And in the like ſenſe the holy Scriptures cõmonly commend vnto vs almes & deedes of mercie for redemption of our ſinnes. Prouerb.c.10.Eccleſiaſtici 12.v.2.Danielis c.4.v.24.

Not onely fayth. Workes of mercie.

Fulke. 2. The Apoſtle ſayth not, that Charitie doth cauſe remiſſion of ſinnes, but that it is the propertie of Charitie (as Salomon ſayth) to hide and couer the multitude of our neighbours offences, as on the contrary ſide of hatred, to ſtirre vp brawling and diſcouering or opening of many offences, that otherwiſe ſhould be hidden. Prouerb.10.12. S. Auguſtine Ench.c.69. ſayth no more, but that Chriſt pronounceth, that he will impute the fruite of almes onely, in the laſt iudgement, which is nothing to the queſtion of iuſtification, ſeeing men come to the laſt iudgement, iuſtified or condemned: the effectes whereof appeare in their liues, charitable or vncharitable. The ſame meaneth Beda, that they ſhall obteine mercie which haue ſhewed mercie, as we are taught to pray: Forgiue vs as we forgiue. Neither doth the ſcripture any where commend almes or mercie, for redemption of our ſinnes by the merite thereof. The ſaying of Salomon is plaine of an other matter, as I haue ſhewed before. The text of Daniel is not, Redeeme, but Breake of thy ſinnes, that is, change thy cruelue into mercie. The ſonne of Syrach promiſeth reward vnto Charitie and mercie, but no redemption from ſinne by the merite of the worke: therefore theſe places were idlye quoted.

Merite.

Rhem. 17. That iudgement beginne.) In this time of the newe Teſtament, the faithfull and all thoſe that meane to liue godly (ſpecially of the Clergie) muſt firſt and principally be ſubiect to Gods chaſtiſements and temporall afflictions, which are here called iudgement. Which the Apoſtle recordeth for the comfort and confirmation of the Catholike Chriſtians, who were at the time of the writing hereof, exceedingly perſecuted by the heathen Princes and people.

The beſt men moſt afflicted in this life.

Rhem.3. 18. If the iuſt) Not that a man dying iuſt and in the fauour of God, can afterward be in doubt of his ſaluation, or may be reiected of God: but that the iuſt being both in this life ſubiect to aſſaults, tentations, troubles, and dangers of falling from God and looſing their ſtate of iuſtice, and alſo oftentimes to make a ſtrait counte, and to be temporally chaſtiſed in the next life, cannot be ſaued without great watch, feare, and trembling, and much labouring and chaſtiſement. And this is farre contrary to the Proteſtants doctrine, that putteth no iuſtice but in faith alone, maketh none iuſt in deede and in trueth, teacheth men to be ſo ſecure and aſſured of their ſaluation, that he that hath liued wickedly all his life, if he onely haue their faith at his death, that is, if he beleeue ſtedfaſtly that he is one of the elect, he ſhall be as ſure of his ſaluation immediatly after his departure, as the beſt liuer in the world.

The iuſt man himſelfe is hardly ſaued.

Againſt the vaine fantitie of onely fayth.

Fulke.3. The iuſt, though he be aſſured of the fauour of God through faith in his promiſes, yet cannot be ſaued without great labour and contention againſt ſinne, which he knoweth to be neceſſarie for him. Not that he is in danger to fall from God, or the ſtate of iuſtice, or afraide of purgatorie: but becauſe God hath made the way to eternall life ſtreight and hard, through continuall mortification of the fleſh, and bearing of the croſſe of Chriſt patiently. And this is nothing contrary to the doctrine of the Proteſtants, who although they thinke a man to be iuſtified before God by faith without workes, as the Scripture teacheth Rom.3: Yet they acknowledge, that there is alſo a iuſtice of workes (though vnperfect) which is a neceſſarie fruite and effect of iuſtification by fayth onely. They teache alſo, that men are iuſt in deede and in trueth, yea and perfectly in the ſight of God by Chriſtes iuſtice imputed to them by fayth, & giuen vnto them by God, by vertue of which gift they claime it as their owne: and that men are in part declared to be iuſt by good workes, or iuſtice inherent. They teache none other aſſurance of ſaluation, but that which is grounded vpon the promiſes of God, which can neuer fayle. Concerning him that hath liued wickedly, and repenteth at his death, they teache according to the Scripture, that if he beleeue with his heart, and confeſſe with his mouth, he ſhalbe ſaued Rom.10.

Certeintie of ſaluation.

And as our Sauiour Chriſt ſayth, he that beleeueth in me, commeth not into condemnation, but is tranſlated from death to life Ioan.5.24. Yet they teach no man to defeare repentance which is the gift of God, and therefore men cannot be aſſured that God will giue it at their death: ſeeing commonly as men liue, ſo they die, and it is a rare example (as of the theefe on the croſſe) that men ſhall haue repentance and fayth at their death, which haue neglected them in their life. But to imagine purgatorie for ſuch without the auctoritie of the Scripture, they dare not: ſeeing they knowe the Lord of the vineyard may doe with his owne what he will, and giue vnto thoſe laſt, as much as vnto the firſt, though the hypocriticall papiſtes repine neuer ſo much at it. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem.1. 1. Seniors.) Though the Latine, Senior, be not appropriated to holy order by vſe of ſpeache, neither in the Latine nor in our language: yet it is plaine that the Greeke worde Presbyter, which the Apoſtle here vſeth, is here alſo (as commonly in other places of the newe Teſtament) a worde of Eccleſiaſticall office, and not of age, and is as much to ſay as Prieſt or Biſhop. For the Apoſtle himſelfe being of that order ſpeaketh (as by his words it is plaine) to ſuch as had charge of ſoules, ſaying, Feede the flocke of God which is among you. Becauſe we followe the vulgar Latine tranſlation, we ſay Seniors: and Senior: whereas otherwiſe we might and ſhould ſay according to the Greeke, The Prieſtes therefore I beſeech, my ſelfe a fellow-prieſt with them. So doth S. Hierom reade (Presbyteros compresbyter) and expound Ep. 85. So interpreteth Eraſmus, and Beza himſelfe. Senior in the vulgar tranſlation is often Prieſt or Biſhop. See Act. 15.

Fulke.1. We know that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of Elders by office: and yet your vulgar Latin interpreter calleth them Seniores, that is, Elders. Which iuſtifieth our tranſlation, from your childiſh cauilling, which is to no end, but that vnder the vaine ſhadowe of applying the word Prieſt, to ſignifie a Sacrificer, you might beare the ignorant in hand, that the Elders or Prieſtes of the newe Teſtament, be ſacrificers as your popiſh Prieſtes are. Cauilling.

Rhem. 3. Ouerruling.) Not ſuperioritie, preeminence, ſoueraintie, or rule on the one ſide, nor obedience, ſubiection, and inferioritie on the other ſide, be forbidden in the Clergie: but tyrannie, pride, and ambitious domination be forbidden, and humilitie, meekneſſe, moderation are commended in Eccleſiaſticall Officers. the Greeke word here of ruling or ouerruling, being the ſame that our Sauiour vſeth in the Goſpel of the tyrannicall rule of ſecular heathen Princes, ſaying to his Apoſtles, that it ſhall not be ſo among them: according as here the prince of the Apoſtles teacheth his brethren the Eccleſiaſticall rulers. Not Superioritie but tyrannie, and lordlineſſe is forbidden in the Clergie.

Rhem.2. 3. The Clergie.) Some of the Engliſh new tranſlations turne it corruptly, Pariſhes: others, heritages: both, to auoide the moſt known, true, and common word in all Chriſtian languages, to wit, Clergie, a worde, by vſe of all antiquitie, and agreeably to the holy Scriptures, made proper to the Spiritualty or Clergie: though in an other more vulgar acception it Here. tranſlation.

may agree to all Chriſtes choſen heritage, as well of lay people as Prieſtes, which the Proteſtants had rather ſolowe, becauſe they will haue no difference betweene the Laity and the Clergie. But the holy fathers farre otherwiſe euen from the beginning. Whereof ſee S. Cyprian ep. 4. 5. 6. &c. And S. Hierom ep. 2. to Nepotianus c. 5. where he interpreteth this worde. Therefore (ſaith he) Clericus, that is, a Clergie man, which ſeruete ỹ Church of Chriſt, let him firſt interprete his name, and the ſignification of the name being declared, let him endeuour to be that which he is called. If κληρος (Clerus) in Greeke, be called in Latine, Sors, therefore are they called Clerici, that is, Clergie men, becauſe they are of the lot of our Lord, or becauſe our Lord himſelfe is the lot or portion of Clergie men &c. The name of Clergie and Clerke.

Which calling no doubt was taken out of the holy Scriptures. Num. 18. and Deut. 18. where God is called the inheritance, lot, and portion of the Prieſtes and Leuites: and now when men be made of the Clergie, they ſay, Dominus pars hæreditatis meæ, that is, Our Lord is ỹ portion of mine inheritance. but ſpecially out of the new Teſtament, Act. 1, 17. 25. and 8, 21. Where the lot or office of the Eccleſiaſticall miniſterie is called by this word κληρος, Clerus. See in Venerable Bede the cauſe why this holy ſtate being ſeuered by name from the Laity, doth weare alſo a crowne on their head for diſtinction. Lib. 5. hiſt. Angl. cap. 22. κληρονομία. κληρος μερὶς. Prieſtes crownes.

Fulke. 2. The word ſignifieth properly the heritages or lottes, and the Apoſtle meaneth the ſeuerall diuiſions ouer which the Elders had charge, and not the miniſters of the Church onely, cõmonly called the Clergie. As for the name of Clergie, and Clerke, when it is not a proud excluding of the reſt of Chriſtians from the Lords inheritance, but ſignifieth the ſpeciall lot and charge of them, that ſerue in the miniſterie of the worde and ſacraments, we can well abide and uſe it often. But where you ſay, we will haue no difference betweene the laity and Clergie, it is an impudent ſclander without any collor: But that the Apoſtle meaneth the whole Congregation committed to their charge, by this worde, Bede declareth plainely. Oecumenius ſayth it ſignifieth the holy company or Congregation, and the text is plaine, adding that they ſhould be an example to the flocke, and not exerciſe tyrannie ouer it. Slander.

Concerning the ſhauen crowne, Beda in ỹ place quoted, reheaſeth an Epiſtle of one Ceolfrid an Abbot vnto Naitan king of the Pictes, wherein without any great contention, he reaſoneth of the diuerſitie of ſhauing vſed in the Romiſh Church, and in the Scottiſh Church, before it receiued the Romiſh rites. Calling the Romiſh faſhion, the ſorme of S. Peter, the Scottiſh, of Simon Magus, without any teſtimonie of antiquitie to warrant ỹ he ſayth, eyther of the one or ỹ other: But ỹ any ſuch ſhauing is neceſſary for diſtinction of the Clergie or the laity, neither Bede nor Ceolfride doth teach in that place, nor ſheweth any good cauſes why it ſhall ſo be. Shauen crownes.

Rhem. 3. 4. Crowne of glorie.) As life euerlaſting ſhall be the reward of all the iuſt, ſo the preachers and Paſtors that doe well, for their doing ſhall haue that reward in a more excellent degree, expreſſed here by theſe wordes, Crowne of glorie. according to the ſaying of Daniel c. 12. They that ſleepe in the duſt of the earth, ſhall awake, one ſort to life euerlaſting, others to euerlaſting rebuke. ſuch as be learned, ſhall ſhine as the brightneſſe of the firmament: and ſuch as inſtruct many to iuſtice, ſhall be as ſtarres, during all eternitie. The heauenly crowne of Doctors and preachers.

Fulke. 3. The faithfull preachers ſhall haue their crowne of glory, not for the merite of their workes, but of the mercie of him that promiſeth to the greater labourers, greater reward. Merite.

Rhem. 4. 31. That is in Babylon.) The Proteſtants ſhewe themſelues here (as in all places where any controuerſie is, or that maketh againſt them) to be moſt vnhoneſt and partiall handlers of Gods worde. The auncient fathers namely S. Hierom in Catalogo de ſcriptoribus Eccleſiaſticis, verbo Marcus: Euſebius li. 2. c. 14. hiſt. Occumenius vpon this place: and many more agree, that Rome is meant by the word Babylon, here alſo as in the 16. and 17. of the Apocalypſe: ſaying plainely, that S. Peter wrote this Epiſtle at Rome, which is called Babylon for the reſemblance it had to Babylon that great citie in Chaldæa (where the Iewes were captiues) for magnificence, Monarchie, reſort and confuſion of all peoples and tongues, and for that it was before Chriſt and long after, the ſeate of all Ethnike ſuperſtition and idolatrie, and the ſlaughter houſe of the Apoſtles and other Chriſtian men, the heathen Emperours then keeping their chiefe reſidence there. See S. Leo. Ser. 1 in Nati. Petri & Pauli. S. Peter writeth from Babylon, that is, Rome. Why Rome was called Babylon.

This being moſt plaine, and conſonant to that which foloweth of S. Marke, whom all the Eccleſiaſticall hiſtories agree to haue been Peters ſcholer at Rome, and that he there wrote his Goſpel: yet our aduerſaries fearing hereby the ſequele of Peters or the Popes ſupremacie at Rome, deny that euer he was there, or that this Epiſtle was written there, or that Babylon doth here ſignifie Rome: but they ſay that Peter wrote this Epiſtle at Babylon in Chaldæa, through they neuer reade either in Scriptures or other holy or prophane hiſtorie, that this Apoſtle was euer in that towne, but ſee their ſhameles partiality here. Babylon (ſay they) is not taken for Rome, becauſe it would folow that Peter was at Rome &c. but in the Apocalypſe where all euil is ſpoken of Babylon, there they will haue it ſignifie nothing els but Rome, and the Romane Church alſo, not (as the fathers interprete it): the temporall ſtate of the heathen Empire there. So doe they folowe in euery worde no other thing but the aduantage of their owne hereſie. See the Annot. vpon the laſt to the Romanes v. 16. and vpon the 17. of the Apocalypſe. v. 9. The Proteſtants wil haue Babylon to ſignifie Rome in other places but not here.

And as for their wrangling vpon the ſupputation of the time of his going thither, and the number of yeres that he was there, and the diuerſitie that ſeemeth to be in the Eccleſiaſticall writers concerning the ſame, reade B. Fiſher and other that ſufficiently anſwere all ſuch cauils. And if ſuch contentious reaſoning might take place, we ſhould hardly beleeue the principall things recorded eyther in Eccleſiaſticall hiſtories, or in the Scriptures themſelues. Concerning the time of Chriſtes fleeing into Aegypt, of the comming of the Sages to adore him, yea of the yeres of his age, and time of his death, all auncient writers doe not agree, and concerning the day of his laſt ſupper and inſtitution of the holy Sacrament, there is diuerſitie of opinion. Shall we therefore inferre that he neuer died, and that the other things neuer were? Can the Heretikes accord all the hiſtories that ſeeme euen in holy Scripture to haue contradiction? Can they tell vs certainely, when Dauid firſt came to Saul, and the like doubt they whether the world was euer created, becauſe the count of the yeeres is diuers? Doe they not beleeue that Paradiſe euer was, becauſe no man knoweth where it is? and ſuch other like things infinite to rehearſe? Which when they were done, were plaine and knowen things in the world: and now for vs to call them to an account, after ſo many yeeres, ages, and worldes, is but for oſtentation and plaine infidelitie. And this ſect of the proteſtants ſtanding only vpon deſtruction, and negatiues, and dealing with our religion euen as Iulian, Porphyrie, and Lucian did, is in an eaſie thing for them to beſtowe their time in picking of quarels. The Proteſtants wrangle about the time of Peters being at Rome. Many things moſt true (euē in ỹ ſcriptures) are not agreed vpon concerning the time.

Fulke. 4. The Proteſtants are more your friends then they haue thanks for their labor, ỹ would deliuer Rome from ſo infamous a name: But you are content that Rome be the See of Antichriſt, ſo you may haue Peter at Rome. Rome Babylon.

Concerning which point we ſtriue not much, but yet we muſt needes ſay that the ſcripture proueth it not, nor this place, although the auncient writers agree, that Babylon is here (as in the Reuelation) taken for the Citie of Rome. For why ſhould not Peter date his Epiſtle at Rome? or ſend ſalutations from ỹ Church of Rome: as S. Paul writeth his Epiſtle to the Rome. But ſeeing you will needes haue Rome to be Babylon in this place, as Apoc. 16. and 17. you cannot auoide the See of Antichriſt from the Citie of Rome. For the holy Ghoſt in the Reuelation, ſpeaketh not onely of the perſecution of the heathen Emperours, but alſo of the whoriſh inticements vnto falſe doctrine, and of the perſecution rayſed by the falſe prophet from Babylon, which without controuerſie ſignifieth the crueltie and craft of Antichriſt, ſitting in the temple of God. That Peter was at Rome, it maketh nothing to proue his ſupremacie, which you cannot aſcribe to the Pope, more then to the Biſhop of Antioch, if Peter had any ſuch in his perſon. As for the vncerteyntie of the time of Peters comming to Rome, and his continuance there, muſt needes make the matter doubtfull, and no article of our beleefe. But you obiect, that there is as great vncertaintie of principall things conteyned in the Scriptures: as of the time of Chriſts fleeing into Egypt: yet may we not thereof inferre, that thoſe things neuer were. No ſyr, becauſe ỹ ſcriptures doth plainely teſtifie, that thoſe things were, but the time when, is not materiall. But of Peter the ſcripture doth not teſtifie that he was there, for if it did, we would not regarde the diuerſitie of opinions concerning the time when. Where you aske whether we can accord all the hiſtories of the holy Scripture that ſeeme to haue contradiction? God be prayſed we can. Where you further aske, whether we can tell when Dauid came firſt to Saul, we can tell ſo much as the holy Ghoſt hath ſet downe of his comming to Saul: if he came to him before, we haue not to doe with it. Your other queſtions of the creation of the world, of Paradiſe, & ſuch like, are vaine and friuolous, when we haue the moſt certeyne teſtimonies of ſcripture that they were. Shewe vs the like that Peter was at Rome, and we will as certeynely beleeue that Peter was at Rome, as we beleeue that Chriſt is in heauen. But if you haue nothing but this allegoricall ſurmiſe, to proue a matter of fact and ſtorie, you muſt pardon vs for taking it as an article of our fayth: and yet as an indifferent matter we admit it for the teſtimonie of auncient writers. That our religion ſtandeth onely vpon deſtruction and negatiues, it is a ſenſeles ſclander: for it ſtandeth as true religion ought to doe, in affirming and building of all that is true, and in deſtruction and deniall of all hereſie and falſehood.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PETER THE APOSTLE.

CHAP. I.

How much God hath done for them, making them Chriſtians: 5 and that they againe muſt doe their part, not hauing onely faith, but all other vertues alſo and good workes, that ſo they may haue the more aſſurance to enter into the kingdome of heauen. 13 And that he is ſo carefull to admoniſh them, knowing that his death is at hand, knowing alſo moſt certainely the comming of Chriſt by the witneſſe of the Father him ſelfe, as alſo by the Prophets. Concerning whom he warneth them that they folowe not priuate ſpirites, but the holy Ghoſt (ſpeaking now in the Church.)

The tranſlation of Rhemes.

SIMON Peter ſeruant and Apoſtle of IESVS Chriſt, to them ỹ haue obtayned equall fayth with vs in the iuſtice of our God & Sauiour IESVS Chriſt.

2 Grace to you and peace be accompliſhed in the knowledge of God and Chriſt IESVS our Lord.

3 As al things of his diuine power which pertaine to life and godlines, are giuen vs by ỹ knowledge of him which hath called vs by his owne proper glory & vertue, 4 By whō he hath giuē vs moſt great and pretious promiſes: that by theſe you may be made partakers of the diuine nature, fleeing the corruption of ỹ concupiſcence which in in ỹ world.

5 And you employing al care, miniſter ye in your faith, vertue: & in vertue knowledge:

6 And in knowledge abſtinence: and in abſtinence, patience: and in patience, pietie.

7 And in pietie, loue of the fraternitie: and in the loue of the fraternitie, charitie.

The tranſlation of the Church of England.

SIMON Peter, a ſeruant and an Apoſtle of Ieſus Chriſt, to them which haue obtayned like precious fayth with vs, through the righteouſneſſe of our God and Sauiour Ieſus Chriſt.

2 Grace and peace be multiplied vnto you, through the knowledge of God, and of Ieſus our Lord,

3 According as his godly power hath giuen vnto vs all things that pertaine vnto life and godlineſſe, through the knowledge of him that hath called vs vnto glorie and vertue:

4 By the which are giuen vnto vs excellent and moſt great promiſes, that by the meanes thereof, ye might be partakers of the godly nature, if ye flee the corruption of worldly luſtes.

5 And hereunto giue all diligence, in your faith miniſter vertue, in vertue knowledge.

6 In knowledge temperance, in temperance patience, in patience godlineſſe,

7 In godlineſſe brotherly kindneſſe, in brotherly kindneſſe charitie.

8 For

8 For if theſe things be preſent with you, and abound: they ſhal make you not vacant, nor without fruite in the knowledge of our Lord IESVS Chriſt.

9 For he that hath not theſe things ready, is blinde, and groping with his hand, hauing forgotten the purging of his old ſinnes.

10 Wherfore, brethren, labour the more that ‖ by good workes you may make ſure your vocation and election. for, doing theſe things, you ſhal not ſinne at any time.

11 For ſo there ſhal be miniſtred to you aboũdantly an entrance into the euerlaſting kingdom of our Lord and Sauiour IESVS Chriſt.

12 For the which cauſe I wil begin to admoniſh you alwaies of theſe things: and you in deede knowing and being confirmed in the preſent truth.

13 But I thinke it meete as long as I am in this tabernacle, to ſtirre you vp by admonition:

14 Being certaine that the laying away of my tabernacle is at hand, according as our Lord IESVS Chriſt alſo ſignified to me.

15 And I wil doe my diligence, you to haue often ‖ after my deceaſe alſo, that you may keepe a memorie of theſe things.

16 For, not hauing folowed vnlearned fables, haue we made the power and ‖preſence of our Lord IESVS Chriſt knowen to you: but [c] made beholders of his greateneſſe.

17 For, *he receiuing from God his father honour and glorie, this maner of voice comming downe to him frõ the magnifical glorie, This is my beloued ſonne in whom I haue pleaſed my ſelf, heare him.

18 And this voice we heard brought from heauen, when we were with him in the holy mounte.

19 And we haue the prophetical word more ſure: which you doe wel attending vnto, as to a candel ſhining in a darke place, vntil the day dawne, and the day ſtarre atiſe in your hartes:

20 Vnderſtanding this firſt that no prophecie of ſcripture is made by ‖priuate interpretation.

21 For, *not by mans wil was prophecie brought at any time: but the holy men of God ſpake, inſpired with the holy Ghoſt.

8 For if theſe things be among you, and bee plenteous, they make you that yee neither ſhall be idle, nor vnfruitfull in the knowledge of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt.

9 But he that lacketh theſe things, is blinde, and cannot ſee farre off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his olde ſinnes.

10 Wherefore, brethren, giue the more diligence: for to make your calling and election ſure: for if yee doe ſuch thinges, yee ſhall neuer fall.

11 Yea and by this meanes an entring in ſhall be miniſtred vnto you abundantly, into the euerlaſting kingdome of our Lord and Sauiour Ieſus Chriſt.

12 Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you alwayes in remembrance of ſuch thinges, though ye know them your ſelues, and be ſtabliſhed in the preſent trueth.

13 Notwithſtanding I thinke it meete, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to ſtirre you vp, by putting you in remembrance:

14 Knowing that ſhortly I muſt put off this my tabernacle, euen as our Lorde Ieſus Chriſt* ſhewed me.* Iohn 21.19.

15 I will euer alſo giue my diligence, that yee may haue wherewith to ſtirre vp the remembrance of theſe things after my departing.

*16 * For we haue not followed deceitfull fables, when wee opened vnto you the power and comming of our Lorde Ieſus Chriſt, but with our eyes we ſawe his Maieſtie:* 1.Cor.1.17.

*17 Euen then verily when he receiued of God the Father honour and glory, and when there came ſuch a voyce to him from the excellent glorie: This is my deare beloued Sonne in whome I delight. Matth.17.5.

18 This voyce wee heard come from heauen, when we were with him in the holy mount.

19 Wee haue alſo a right ſure worde of prophecie, whereunto if yee take heede, as vnto a light that ſhineth in a darke place, ye doe well, vntill the day dawne, and the day ſtarre ariſe in your hearts.

20 So that yee firſt knowe this, that no prophecie in the Scripture is of any priuate † motion. †Or, interpretation.

21 For the prophecie came not in olde time by the will of man: but holy men of God, ſpake as they were mooued by the holy Ghoſt.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 2. 10. By good workes.) Here we ſee, that Gods eternal predeſtination and election conſiſteth with good workes: yea that the certainty and effect thereof is procured by mans free will and good workes, and that our well doing is a meane for vs to attaine to the effect of Gods predeſtination, that is, to life everlaſting. and therfore it is a deſperate folly and a great ſigne of reprobate perſons, to ſay, If I be predeſtinate, doe what I will, I ſhal be ſaued. Nay, the Apoſtle ſaith, If thou hope to be one of the predeſtinate (for know it thou canſt not) do well, that thou maiſt be the more aſſured to attaine to that thou hopeſt. or, make it ſure by good workes. Th. Proteſtants in ſuch caſes not much liking theſe wordes, by good workes, though the Latin haue it vniverſally, and ſome Greeke copies alſo, as Beza confeſſeth, leaue them out in their tranſlations, by their wonted fidelitie.

Good workes muſt concurre with Gods predeſtination to the effecte thereof.

διὰ τῶν καλῶν ἔργων.

Fulke. 2. There is no queſtion but Gods eternall predeſtination conſiſteth with good workes, though God predeſtinated vs freely without regarde of the merite of our workes, which are an effect and ende of Gods election, not the cauſe that mooued him to chuſe vs. For he choſe vs (ſaith S. Paul) that we might be holy. Epheſ. 1. Not for that we were or ſhould be holy. And this place ſheweth, that the election of God, (which is moſt certaine in him, and in it ſelfe,) is made knowen and certaine to vs by good workes, whereunto God hath appointed vs. Not that it is grounded vpon our will, or workes, which are good becauſe God of his grace before the worlde was made hath choſen vs, and in time called vs, and giuen his Spirite by which we are not onely willing, but moſt thankefully embrace his grace, and knowe his fatherly loue toward vs. For if by his Spirit we knowe that God is our Father, as the Apoſtle teacheth Rom. 8, wee knowe alſo, that we are predeſtinate to his inheritance in Chriſt, which knowledge is confirmed by the workes of obedience, which are the fruites of the ſpirit of adoption. But if we can not knowe it, (as you ſay) but onely hope with ſuch an hope, as is vncertaine and may be confounded, in vaine ſhould the Apoſtle exhort vs to make our election ſure by good workes. If in any tranſlation good workes be left out, it is becauſe they were left out of the text which we tranſlated, yet we alwayes confeſſe, that the circumſtance of the place, doeth of neceſſitie require, that good workes be vnderſtood, though they be not expreſſed in the text.

Certaintie of ſaluation.

Rhem. 3. 15. After my deceaſe alſo.) Theſe wordes though they may be eaſily altered by conſtruction into diuers ſenſes not vntrue, yet the correſpondence of the partes of the ſentence going before and following, giue moſt plaine this meaning, that, as during his life he would not omit to put them in memorie of the things he taught them, ſo after his death (which he knew ſhould be ſhortly) he would not faile to endeuour that they might be mindefull of the ſame. Signifying that his care ouer them ſhould not ceaſe by death, and that by his interceſſion before God after his departure, he would doe the ſame thing for them, that he did before in his life by teaching and preaching. This is the ſenſe that the Greeke Scholies ſpeake of, and this is moſt proper to the text, and conſonant to the old vſe of this Apoſtle and other Apoſtolike Saincts and fathers of the primitiue Church.

The hereſikes (according to their cuſtom) exclude this ſenſe altogether by their falſe tranſlation. Oecum. in hunc loc. Gagn.

Yea it was a common thing in the primitiue Church among the auncient Chriſtians, and alwaies ſince among the faithful, to make couenant in their life time, that whether of them went to heauen before the other, he ſhould pray for his freinde and fellow yet aliue. See the Eccleſiaſtical hiſtorie of the holy virgin and Martyr Potamiena, promiſing at the houre of her Martyrdom, that after her death ſhe would procure mercie of God to Baſilides one of the ſouldiars that ledde her to execution, and ſo ſhe did. Fulke 3. The Apoſtles meaning is plaine, and need not to be drawen into diuers ſenſes, that he perfourmeth in writing this Epiſtle, that they may haue remembrance of theſe things after his departure, & not that he will make interceſſion to God for them after his death. Neither doeth Oecumenius ſpeake of ſuch a ſenſe, but rehearſeth onely the opinion of him, that would ſhew out of this place, that the Saincts after their death doe remember thoſe things, which they haue don here for them that are aliue. Where it is manifeſt, that he ſpeaketh no word of interceſſion. For of the true ſenſe of the text it folowcth. Other men handling that which is ſpoken ſimply, doe thus vnderſtand it: I wil doe my diligence, that you may haue alwayes after my departure, to remember theſe things. That is, marueile ye not, neither thinke much of the continuall mention of theſe things. For I doe it not condemning your rudenes, but by continuall doctrine of theſe things, I giue you a continuing and immouable ayde of them, that being confirmed therewith, you may haue euen after my death, a liuely and indeleable or perpetual doctrine of them. Nowe whether the ſaincts in heauen doe pray for vs, the Scripture doth no where teach vs, and therefore it is a point whereof without danger we may be ignorant. That the counterfect Clement writeth of the matter, it is as much to be regarded, as his charge in the ſecond Epiſtle, that myſe donge be not found in the Pixe. For who would thinke, that Clemens would write of ſuch bables to ſo high an Apoſtle, of whom he was more meete to learne & to be admoniſhed? Leo in deede 500. yeres after, aſcribeth much to the prayers of S. Peter for him, which argueth more his humilitie, then it proueth the matter whereof the Scripture doeth not informe vs. That many of the auncient fathers helde this opinion, that the ſaincts departed doe pray for vs, we deny not: but we require vpon what auctoritie of the holy Scripture, they grounded this their opinion? For the opinion of good men without the word of God, is not ſufficient for vs to builde our faith vpon, ſeeing it is certaine, that euery one of thoſe fathers, held ſome one priuate opinion or other, which all men confeſſe to be erronious. As Cyprian his opinion of rebaptiſme. Hierom of Peter vniuſtly reprehended. Auguſtine of the neceſſitie of the Communion for infants. Chryſoſtome of procuring helpe to the damned, &c. All which errors may be defended with this Argument of yours, they knew the meaning of the Scriptures and the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt, better then theſe new interpreters. But if it were proued that the ſaincts departed doe pray for vs, yet haue we no warrant out of the Scriptures to pray to them. Neither can it be proued that any of the fathers for 300. yeeres after Chriſt, did made their prayers to any, but onely to God by Ieſus Chriſt. But in them of later time, there is ſome mention of praying vnto them. Yet doeth not S. Auguſtine pray to S. Cyprian in that place, where you ſay he deſireth to be holpen by his prayers, but deſiring to be ioyned to his charitie, he hopeth that being ayded by his prayers, hee ſhall learne by his writings, in what great peace God gouerned his Church by him. Hilary in pſ. 124. ſpeaketh neither of ſaincts praying for vs, nor of praying to them, but ſaith: that the Church hath no ſmall ayde in the Apoſtles or in the Patriarkes and Prophets, or rather in the Angels, which compaſſe about the Church with a certaine garde. The ayde therefore he meaneth, is the example and doctrine of the ſaincts departed, and the miniſterie of the Angels. In Nazianzen, Baſil, and Chryſoſtome, there is ſome mention of the inuocation of ſaincts, to helpe with their prayers: But that which is alleadged for Athanaſius and Ephrem, is falſe and counterfect ſtuffe. Theodoret alſo ſpeaketh of prayers vnto martyrs: But where is either commaundement, example or allowance of ſuch prayer out of the Scripture? Therefore this is nothing els, but a litle droſſe of humane fragilitie, which can be no preiudice againſt the trueth. And it is no marueile, if thoſe fathers being exerciſed in confuting both of the Gentiles, and alſo of great hereſies, did not at the firſt eſpie what the ſpirit of Antichriſt went about, in thoſe matters of inuocation of ſaincts & prayer for the dead, which had a ſhewe of pietie, and yet proceeded of the efficacie of error: when our Sauiour Chriſt prophecieth, that the illuſions of Antichriſt ſhould be ſo great, that if it were poſſible, the very elect ſhould be deceiued. It is a ſmall glory for the Papiſts, to ioyne with ſome of the fathers, in one or two errors nor of the greateſt weight, when they haue all the fathers againſt them, in ſo many articles of chiefeſt importance, as is declared throughout theſe Annotations. And for inuocation of Saincts, See 1. Tim. 2. ſect. 4.

As not onely Prophets, but alſo falſe-prophets were in the old Teſtament, ſo now likewiſe there ſhal be Maiſters of Hereſie, to the damnation of them ſelues, and of their followers. 4 And of their damnation he pronounceth by examples (as he comforteth the vertuous Catholikes or true beleeuers with the example of Lot) becauſe of their railing at their Superiors and Prelates, their blaſphemie of Catholike doctrine, their voluptuous liuing, their lecherie, their couetouſnes, their manner of ſeducing, and the perſons ſeduced, 20 for whom it had been leſſe damnable, if they neuer had been Chriſtians.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem.1. 2. Many ſhall follow.) Heretikes (of whome he prophecieth here) doe gaine ſcholers, by preaching libertie, and by their owne licentious life, which is ſpecially ioyned to the hereſie of theſe daies.

Fulke. 1. Our doctrine is farre from carnall liberty, which dayly teach mortification, euen of our luſtes and ſinnefull deſires. What our life is, God and the world doth know. If it were not honeſter then the lyues of many Popes and Cardinalles, it were pitie we liued. But Popiſh doctrine that teacheth the ſinfull luſt of the fleſh to be no ſinne, and great ſinnes to be veniall ſinnes, that hath ſo many eaſie wayes to purge and pardon mortall ſinnes, yea the ſinne againſt the holy ghoſt, and generall apoſtaſie, and obſtinate contumelye of God, not onely in this life, but after men be dead, is the very doctrine of carnall libertie: and there life agreeth thereunto. For to whome treaſon, rebellion, and murther of their naturall ſoueraigne Lady and Queene is not onely lawful, but alſo meritorious, what kinde of impietie will their cauterized conſcience be afraide of? Carnall liberty in Poperie.

Rhem. 2. 3. With feined wordes.) All the ſweete wordes of heretikes, ſpeaking much of the word of the Lorde, the Goſpell, IESVS, CHRIST &c. are but termes of art to bie and ſell poore mens ſoules.

Fulke. 2. The wordes of Papiſts, the holy Church, the Catholike Church, orders of religion, chaſtetye, faſting, &c. are ſuch ſweete wordes.

Rhem. 3. 19. Promiſing them libertie.) Who euer promiſed more libertie to their followers then Luther Caluin, and the like, taking away penance, faſting, continencie or chaſtitie, keeping of vowes, neceſſitie of good workes (becauſe faith doeth all) obedience to Eccleſiaſticall paſtors and Counſels, and ſuch like?

Fulke. 3. Who euer taught leſſe carnall libertie, then Luther and Caluine? which taught mortification according to the ſcriptures, whereof the people neuer heard in poperie. Who take not away repentance, but require it to be continuall. Who exhort to faſting, though they teach not the doctrine of deuils by brohibition of meates. Who require chaſtitie of all men, eyther in holy matrimonie, or in true and not fayned continencie. Who take away no keeping of vowes that be lawfully made, and poſſible to be kept. Who teach good works to be neceſſarie effects of a iuſtifying fayth, without which, no man ſhall be ſaued, that is iuſtifyed by faith onely. Who teach obedience vnto eccleſiaſticall paſtors and chriſtian councels, and teach eccleſiaſticall paſtors alſo, to be obedient to ciuill powers, ſtirre not vp the people to ſedition, treaſon and murther of their ſoueraigne, as the Papiſts of Rhemes haue done, following there forefathers the ancient Heretikes, that deſpiſe auctoritie, and would be rulers them ſelues, but ſubiect to no man. Carnal liberty.

CHAP. III.

Theſe two Epiſtles he writeth to confirme them in the Apoſtles doctrine, and warneth them of ſcorners that ſhall come, and denie Domeſday. 5 Whoſe vaine argument he anſwereth, and giueth the reaſon of Gods ſo long patience, 10 exhorting to all holineſſe of life in reſpect of that terrible day. 16 Finally giuing warning of ſuch as miſinterprete S. Paules Epiſtles and the other Scriptures, and that we muſt not for any thing fall from the true faith.

THis loe the ſecond epiſtle I write to you my deereſt, c in which I ſtirre vp by admonition your ſincere minde:
c in quibus.

2 That you may bee mindefull of thoſe wordes

THis is the ſecond Epiſtle that I nowe write vnto you, dearely beloued, wherwith I ſtirre vp and warne your pure mindes,

2 To be mindefull of the wordes which were wordes which I tolde you before from the holy Prophets, and of your Apoſtles of the precepts of our Lord and Sauiour.

2.Tim.4, 1.Iude,18. 3 Knowing this firſt, that *in the laſt daies ſhall come mockers in deceit, walking according to their owne concupiſcences,

4 Saying, Where is his promiſe or his comming? For ſince the time that the fathers ſlept, all things doe ſo perſeuêre from the beginning of creature.

5 For they are wilfully ignorant of this, that the heauens were before, and the earth, out of water, and through water conſiſting by the word of God:

6 By the which, that world then, being ouerflowed with water periſhed.

7 But the heauens which nowe are, and the earth, are by the ſame word kept in ſtore, reſerued to fire vnto the day of iudgement and of the perdition of the impious men.

Pſal.89,4. 8 But this one thing be not ignorant of, my deereſt, that *one day with our Lord is as a thouſand yeeres, and a thouſande yeeres as one day.

9 Our Lorde ſlacketh not his promis, as ſome doe eſteeme it: but hee doth patiently for you, *not willing that any periſh, but that al returne to penance.

Ezec.33, 1.Tim.2. 10 And *the day of our Lord ſhall come as a theefe in the which the heauens ſhall paſſe with great violence, but the elements ſhal be reſolued with heate, and the earth and the works which are in it, ſhall be burnt.

Mt.24. 1.Theſ.5. Apoc.3.

11 Therefore wheras all theſe things are to bee diſſolued: what maner of men ought you to be in holy conuerſations and godlineſſes, 12 Expecting and haſting vnto the comming of the day of our Lorde, by which the heauens burning ſhal be reſolued, and the elements ſhall melt with the heate of fire?

Eſa.65,17. Apo.21,1. 13 But wee expect *new heauens and a newe earth according to his promiſes, in which iuſtice inhabiteth.

14 For the which cauſe my deereſt, expecting theſe things, labour earneſtly to be found immaculate and vnſpotted to him in peace.

Ro,2.4. 15 And *the longanimitie of our Lorde, doe yee account ſaluation, as alſo our moſt deere brother Paul according to the wiſdome giuen him hath written to you:

16 As alſo in al epiſtles, ſpeaking in them of theſe things, in the which are ‖certaine things hard to bee vnderſtoode, which the vnlearned tolde before of the holy Prophets, and alſo the ‖commandement of vs, which be Apoſtles of the Lord and Sauiour: ‖Or, doctrine.

*3 Knowing this firſt, that there ſhall come in the laſt dayes mockers, walking after their owne luſtes, 1.Tim.4.1. 2.tim.3.1.

4 And ſaying, Where is the promiſe of his comming? For ſince the fathers fell a ſleepe, all things continue alike from the beginning of the creation.

5 For this they knowe not (and that wilfully) how that the heauens were of olde, and the earth conſiſting of the water and by the water, by the worde of God:

6 By the which things the worlde that then was periſhed, being then ouerrunne with water.

7 But the heauens and earth which are now, be kept by his word in ſtore, and reſerued vnto fire againſt the day of iudgement and perdition of vngodly men.

*8 Dearely beloued, bee not ignorant of this one thing, howe that one day is with the Lorde as a thouſande yeeres, and a thouſand yeeres as one day, Pſalm.90.4.

*9 The Lord that hath promiſed, is not ſlacke (as ſome men count ſlackeneſſe) * but is patient touwarde, foraſmuch as hee woulde haue no man loſt, but will receiue all men to repentance.* 1.Tim.2.4.

*10 Neuertheleſſe, the day of the Lorde will come as a thiefe in the night, in the which the heauens ſhall paſſe away with a great noyſe, and the elementes ſhall melt with feruent heate, the earth alſo, and the workes that are therein, ſhall be vtterly burned. Matth.24. 1.theſ.5.2. apoc.3.3.

11 Seeing then that all theſe things ſhall periſh, what maner perſons ought yee to bee in holy converſation and godlineſſe,

*15 * And ſuppoſe that the long ſuffering of the Lorde is ſaluation, euen as our dearely beloued brother Paul alſo, according to the wiſedome giuen vnto him, hath written vnto you.* Rom.2.4.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. 16. Certaine things hard.) This is a plaine text to conuince the Proteſtants, who (as all heretikes lightly doe and did from the beginning) ſay the Scriptures be eaſie to vnderſtand, and therefore may bee not onely read ſafely, but alſo expounded boldly of all the people, as well vnlearned as learned: and conſequently euery one by himſelfe and his priuate ſpirit, without reſpect of the expoſitions of the learned fathers, or expectation of the Churches, their Paſtors and Prelates iudgement, may determine and make choiſe of ſuch ſenſe as himſelfe liketh or thinketh agreeable. For this is partly their ſaying, partly the neceſſarie ſequele of their fooliſh opinion, which admitteth nothing but the bare Scriptures. And Luther ſaide that the Scriptures were more plaine then all the fathers commentaries: and ſo all to be ſuperfluous but the Bible. Præfat. aſſert. art. damnat. The hereticall proud ſpirit of priuate interpretation of Scriptures.

*Againſt all which Diueliſh and ſeditious arrogancie, tending to make the people eſteeme them ſelues learned or ſufficient without their Paſtors and ſpirituall rulers helpe, to guide them ſelues in all matters of doctrine and doubtes in religion, the holy Apoſtle here telleth and forewarneth the faithfull, that the Scriptures be full of difficultie, and ſpecially S. Paules epiſtles of all other partes of holy write, and that ignorant men ad vnſtable or phantaſticall fellowes puffed to and fro with euery blaſt of doctrine and hereſie, abuſe, peruert, and miſconſter them to their owne damnation. And * S. Auguſtine ſaith, that the ſpeciall difficultie in S. Pauls epiſtles, which ignorant and euill men doe ſo peruert and which S. Peter meaneth, is his hard ſpeach and much commendation of that faith which he ſaith doth iuſtifie, which the ignorant euen from the Apoſtles time, and much more now, haue and do ſo miſconſter, as though he had meant that onely faith without good workes could iuſtifie or ſaue a man. Againſt which wicked collection and abuſe of S. Pauls wordes, the ſaid father ſaith, all theſe Canonicall or Catholike epiſtles were written.* The Scriptures be hard, namely S. Paules epiſtles ſpecially where he ſpeaketh of iuſtification by faith. De fid. & op. c. 14.

'But the Heretikes here to ſhift of the matter, and to creepe out after their faſhion, anſwere, that S. Peter ſaith not, S. Pauls epiſtles be hard, but that many things in them are hard. Which may be to the Catholikes an example of their ſophiſticall euaſions from the euidence of Gods word. As though it were not all one to ſay, Such an author or writer is hard: and There be many things in that writer hard to be vnderſtood. For, whether it be that the argument and matter be high and paſt vulgar capacitie, as that of prædeſtination, reprobation, vocation of the Gentiles, and iuſtifying faith: or whether his manner of ſtile and writing be obſcure: all proue that his epiſtles be hard, and other Scriptures alſo: becauſe S. Peter here affirmeth that by reaſon of the difficulties in them, whether in the ſtyle or in the depth of the matter, the ignorant and vnſtable (ſuch as Heretikes be) do peruert his writings, as alſo other Scriptures, to their owne damnation. Wherely it is plaine that it is a very dangerous thing for ſuch as be ignorant, or for wilde witted fellowes, to reade the Scriptures. For ſuch conditioned men be they that become Heretikes, and through ignorance, pride, and priuate phantaſie, meeting with hard places of S. Pauls epiſtles or other Scriptures, breede Hæreſies. The Proteſtants idle diſtinction betweene difficultie in the Epiſtles and difficultie in the things. The Greeke copies, haue both, ſome ἐν αἷς, in which things: ſome ἐν αἷς, in which epiſtles. Not only the matter but the ſtyle of the Scriptures is hard. Pſal. 118. Act. 8. Leu. 24. v. 45.

And that not onely the things treated of in the holy Scriptures, but alſo that the very manner of writing and enditing thereof, is high and hard, and purpoſely by Gods prouidence appointed to be written in ſuch ſort, ſee S. Auguſtine li. 2. de doct. Chriſt. c. 6. and ep. 119. S. Ambroſe ep. 44. in principio. S. Hierom to Paulinus ep. 103. c. 5. 6. 7. who alſo (ep. 65. c. 1) ſaith, that in his olde age when he ſhould rather haue taught then be taught, he went as far as Alexandria, onely to heare Didymus, and to haue his helpe for the vnderſtanding of the Scriptures, and confeſſeth with great thankes to the ſayd Didymus, that he learned of him that which before he knewe not. Dauid ſaith, Giue me vnderſtanding and I will ſearch thy lawe. The Eunuche in the Actes ſaid, Howe can I vnderſtand without an interpreter? The Apoſtles, till Chriſt opened their ſenſe to vnderſtand the ſcriptures could not vnderſtand them. The holy Doctors by continuall ſtudie, watching, faſting, and praying, had much a doe to vnderſtand them: that great clarke S. Auguſtine confeſſing in the foreſaide epiſtle 119. c. 21. that there were many moe things that he vnderſtood not, then that he vnderſtood. The Heretikes ſay the fathers did commonly erre, and howe could ſuch great wiſe learned men be deceiued in reading and expounding the Scriptures, if they were not hard? and if they were hard to them, howe are they eaſie to theſe new maiſters the Heretikes? finally, why doe they write ſo many newe gloſſes, ſcholes, commentaries, as a cart cannot carrie? Why do Luther, Zuinglius, Caluin, and their Companions agree no better vpon the interpretation of the Scriptures, if they be not hard? whereat ſtumbled all the olde heretikes and the new, Arius, Macedonius, Vigilantius, Neſtorius, Eutyches, Berengarius, Wicleffe, Proteſtants, Puritanes, Anabaptiſts, and the reſt, but as the hardnes of the Scriptures? They be hard then to vnderſtand, and Heretikes peruert them to their owne damnation.

Fulke. 1. This is a playne matter, to conuince the papiſts of impudent lying and ſlandering. For which of the Proteſtants doth not acknowledge, that there be certaine places in the ſcripture hard to be vnderſtoode? and who doth ſay that the ſcriptures may be expounded boldly, as well of the vnlearned as the learned? Finally howe impudent a ſlander it is, that we expounde the ſcriptures without reſpect of the expoſition of the learned fathers, (beſide al other experience) let theſe annotations teſtifie, wherin it is plaine, that the ancient fathers do auowe in a manner, all interpretations of ours, that you miſlike. That all the people ſhould haue no regard of there paſtors iudgement, or the Churches auctoritie, it is a falſehoode, without any colour or ſhew of truth. Yet all this you ſay is partly our ſaying, partly the neceſſary ſequel of our fooliſh opinion, which admitteth nothing, but the bare ſcriptures. We admit nothing in deede of man, as æquall in auctoritie with the holy ſcriptures, which are the word of God. But his holy ſpirite, by which they were written, and which ſpeaketh in the ſcriptures, ſlander. Interpretation of the Scriptures.

ſcriptures,and in the godly interpretors agreable to the ſcriptures we humbly admitte. Alſo we admitte no doctrine which hath not auctoritie and ground,and which may not bee proued, either by manifeſt wordes, or by neceſſarie concluſion out of the wordes of the holy ſcriptures.And in this our fooliſh opinion,which we haue gathered of the fooliſhnes of preaching of the Goſpel, we eſteeme to be more true wiſedome, then in all vaine knowledge falſely ſo called of infidels & heretikes. And of this opinon we are ſure, that ſuch abſurdities,as you obiect againſt vs, you are neuer able to conclude, in any good and lawfull forme of argument. If Luther ſayd the ſcriptures be more cleare then all the fathers commentaries,he ſaid no more then the ſcriptures ſay of themſelues,which in themſelues,are light and not darkeneſſe,to our ſeete. Yet it followeth not, that all commentaryes of the fathers are ſuperfluous, which are framed to take away the darkeneſſe from our eyes,that we may ſee the light of the ſcriptures. But concerning the hardnes or eaſineſſe of the ſcriptures, we ſay. There are many things in the ſcriptures hard to bee vnderſtoode, yet whatſoeuer is neceſſarie to bee knowen,is plainely ſet forth and eaſily to be vnderſtood,of them that will reade diligently, marke attentiuely, pray heartily, and iudge humbly. Againſt this opinion, if you can ſay any thing, let vs heare it in your next replye,for heare you ſay nothing. You ſlander vs of diueliſh and ſeditious arrogancie, to make the people eſteeme themſelues learned, or ſufficient without there Paſtors to guide them in all matters,and doubtes of religion: but the Lorde knoweth that you ſlander vs. For wee plainely proteſt, that whoſoeuer deſpiſeth the ordinarie miniſterie of the word, which God hath eſtabliſhed in his church for the direction of vs in trueth and loue: ſhal neuer attaine to true knowledge, no, though he were otherwiſe neuer ſo well learned, much leſſe, if he be ignorant and vnlearned. And yet ye ſay vntruely, that the Apoſtle here affirmeth all the ſcriptures, or euen Pauls epiſtles to be full of difficulty,or that hee would in reſpect of the difficultie of them, diſcourage or diſſwade the people, from reading and ſtudying of them. For in the firſt chapter,he commended the faithfull, for their diligent attention vnto the ſcriptures of the olde teſtament,which are more obſcure in the chiefe myſteries of ſaluation then theſe of the new teſtament, and yet hee compareth them to a candle, ſhining and giuing light in a darke place. Hee forbiddeth not therefore the right vſe, but the raſhe abuſe of the ſcriptures,by proud,vnlearned, and vnconſtant men, which peruert them when they are neuer ſo plaine, to their owne deſtruction.But S. Auguſtine (you ſay) ſayth,that the ſpeciall difficultie in S.Pauls epiſtles, which S.Peter meaneth,is his hard ſpeach, and much commendation of that fayth which he ſayth doth iuſtifie,as though he ment that onely fayth,without good workes could iuſtifie, or ſaue a man. But in trueth. S. Auguſtine ſayth not ſo. But that S.Peter knowing that ſome wicked men, tooke occaſion of certaine ſomewhat darke ſentences of the Apoſtle Paul, that, (as though they were ſecure of ſaluation which is by faith,) they cared not to liue well, he ſayth that certaine things in his epiſtles, are very harde to be vnderſtoode,which men peruerted, as they did other ſcriptures to their owne deſtruction: whereas that Apoſtle was of the ſame minde, that the reſt of the Apoſtles were concerning ſaluation, which is not giuen, but to them that liue well. By this it is manifeſt, that S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh not againſt the doctrine of iuſtification before God, by faith without workes, which the Apoſtle Paul doth ſo largely, ſo purpoſely, ſo diligently ſet forth,and confirme by ſo many arguments, that no doctrine is more cleare in all the ſcriptures: but hee ſpeaketh againſt the peruerſeneſſe of them that abuſed this doctrine, as though the apoſtle had meant, that good workes were needeleſſe for a iuſtified man, and that the faith whereof he ſpake, were ſuch a fayth as is in diuels, which is, or may be voide of good workes.For he himſelfe in the ſame chapter acknowledgeth,that a man is iuſtified by fayth without workes,as his wordes are manyfeſt. When the Apoſtle ſayth, he thinketh a man to be iuſtified by faith without the works of the Law,he meaneth not that fayth being receiued and profeſſed,the workes of iuſtice ſhould be contemned, but that euery man may knowe that he may be iuſtified by fayth, although the workes of the lawe haue not gone before. For they follow the man that is iuſtified,they go not before to iuſtifie him. Wherfore to roote out the error of them that thought a dead fayth which is without workes, was ſuffucient to iuſtifie,he ſayth,theſe generall epiſtles of Peter, Iames, Iohn and Iude were written, which we doe not denie. But yet it followeth not thereof, that thoſe hard places whereof S. Peter here ſpeaketh,were his harde ſpeech and much commendation of fayth,vnto which euery one of the apoſtles doth aſcribe as much as he, and S. Paul to good workes, as much as they. But you ſay we ſhift of the matter,in anſwering that S. Peter ſayth not that S. Pauls epiſtles be harde,but that many things in them are heard, wherein you vſe your accuſtomed maner of creeping away, by impudent lying and ſlandering For we ſay not, that S. Peter affirmeth, that many things in them are hard, but ſome things, which may be true of a fewe things. And it is not all one to ſay: Such a writer is harde, and there be ſome things in that writer hard to be vnderſtood. And as concerning the argument and matter of the ſcriptures, wee confeſſe, that for the moſt and cheefeſt matters, it is not only hard, but vnpoſſible to be vnderſtood of the naturall man: yet to the ſpirituall man, which is taught of Gods ſpirit, all the deepe myſteries of God are opened and made plainely knowen. 1.Cor 2. But we ſpeake of the vnderſtanding of the wordes,which in ſome places is hard, yet in many very plaine and eaſie to be vnderſtood (though not beleeued,) euen of the naturall man that ſeeketh not wilfully to peruert them to his owne deſtruction. Wherefore it is no dangerous thing,for ignorant men or for wilde wicked fellowes to reade the ſcriptures, out of the which they may learne to haue true knowledge, and become ſtayed in their wits. But it is dangerous for ſuch,proudly,raſhly,& vnreuerently to iudge of the ſcriptures, & to draw them to their own fantaſies, for that breedeth hereſies euen in the learned. But that not only the matter,but the ſtile of the ſcriptures is hard, you quote diuerſe ancient fathers,which proueth not that all the ſcriptures are harde,though ſome be,or that they are all written in ſo high a ſtile, as the vnlerned cannot atteyne to the vnderſtanding of any of them. Where as contrariwiſe, they are for the moſt part written in a lowe and vulgar ſtile,the holy ghoſt condeſcending to the weakeneſſe of our vnderſtanding, ſo that the great and high myſteries of God are often expreſſed in very playne,baſe and ſimple phraſes of wordes. But to come to your teſtimonies. S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh directly againſt you, ſaying. The holy ghoſt hath magnificently and lofſomely,ſo tempered the holy ſcriptures,that by open and plaine places,he might prouide againſt hunger,by more obſcure places hee might wipe away lothſomenes. For nothing almoſt is found out of thoſe darke places, which is not fetched elſe where to be vttered moſt plainely. Againſt which ſaying, it is not contrary, that in his epiſtle to Ianuarius which ſuppoſed that he knew all things,he ſayth humbly of himſelfe,there were more things in the ſcriptures which he knew not,then which he knew.For he meaneth not of things neceſſary to ſaluation(of which he would not profeſſe ſo great ignoraunce)but of other by-queſtions which may be mooued infinitely, and not alwayes eaſie to bee determined out of the Scriptures. S. Ambroſe ſayth, The Scripture is a ſea hauing in it deepe ſenſes, the height of prophetical myſteries,into which ſea many riuers haue runne. Therefore there be alſo ſweete riuers and cleare, there be alſo faire ſprings that yeeld forth water vnto eternall life, there be alſo good ſpeaches, as hony combs,acceptable ſentences,which may refreſh the minde of the hearers with ſpirituall drinke, and deight them with the ſweetneſſe of morall precepts. Diuers therfore are the ſtreames of the holy Scripture. Thou haſt that thou mayeſt drinke firſt,and ſecond,and laſt. It is manifeſt therfore that S. Ambroſe acknowledgeth not only the hardneſſe of ſome things,but alſo,the eaſineſſe and clearenеſſe of all things neceſſary to eternall life. Hierome to Paulinus noteth certaine difficult places in the Prophets: and who will miſlike him, that he deſired to learne of Didymus? the beſt learned may encreaſe in knowledge. Dauid prayed for vnderſtanding. The Eunuch required an interpreter. And we alſo affirme,that prayer is neceſſary for all men,and an interpreter requiſite for the vnlearned, that will come to the right vnderſtanding of the Scripture. Finally,that ſtudie,watching,faſting and prayer, be good and neceſſary means to attaine to the vnderſtanding of ſuch matters as be difficult in the Scriptures. But further you obiect that we ſay,The fathers did commonly erre: We ſay in deed they did ſometimes erre,and except you ſay they did commonly erre in expoſition of the Scriptures, you muſt acknowledge that you doe commonly erre in expounding them, for their expoſitions are commonly contrary to yours,and agreeable to ours, as I haue ſhewed in very many of theſe annotations. But hereof you inferre, that the Scriptures were hard,or els they being ſo wiſe and learned,could not haue erred. We deny not but the Scriptures are in ſome places very hard, yet all error ariſeth not of the hardneſſe of the Scriptures, but oftentimes of the weakneſſe of mens vnderſtanding, eſpecially when they will not ſeeke the meaning of the Scriptures in the Scriptures,but bring a preiudicate opinion not grounded on the Scriptures,to expound them according to that opinion,and ſo the fathers ſometime doe erre. But if they were hard to the fathers,how are they eaſie to vs? They are made ſo much the more eaſie to vs, as they haue ſearched out the true ſenſe of them before vs.Sometimes alſo by their going awry,we may better ſee the right pathe. In ſome things the knowledge of the tongues which many of them lacked, helpeth vs. Finally,we ſee how dangerous it is to follow mans iudgement in the Scriptures, we build vpon no ſenſe, as certaine in the Scriptures which is not prooued by the very text it ſelfe, or conference of other places of Scripture,to be the true and proper ſenſe of the holy ghoſt: So are we ſcholers of the Scriptures,and not arrogant maſters, which commaund the ſenſe of the Scriptures to ſerue their owne fantaſtical opinions. As the Pope doth, who neither acknowledgeth the ſufficiencie of ỹ Scriptures, nor will haue them expounded any otherwiſe,but that he may retaine his Antichriſtian auctoritie,though it be neuer ſo contrary to the plaine & euident ſenſe of them,yea to the very expreſſe wordes,which be ſo plaine,as that they need no interpretation. As for the multitude of commentaries (though ſome might well be ſpared)is not becauſe the Scriptures are hard in all places,but becauſe Gods gifts are diuers in many men, all which conferring their ſtudie to the interpretation of difficulties, doe the more explane the Scriptures to the vnlearned or vnexerciſed: and alſo in profitable collection out of places eaſie to be vnderſtood,doe confirme the faith, and inſtruct the faithfull in many particularities, which are not alwayes obſerued of euery one that readeth the text, and yet are neceſſarily deduced out of it. Concerning the diſagreement betweene Luther and Zuinglius, it is not in many things,nor thoſe the principall, ſo that if it grew vpon ſome difficultie of the wordes of the Scripture,as partly it did,the whole Scripture is not thereby prooued to be difficult, although a preiudicate opinion did more hurt in that caſe,then the difficultie of the Scriptures. Finally,the hardneſſe of the Scriptures,is not the cauſe of ſo many hereſies, but the malice of Sathan, that ſtirreth vp ſuch proud and contentious inſtruments. In which number in ſtead of Wickliffe and the Proteſtants,we may rightly place the Pope and the papiſts.

THE ARGVMENT OF S. IOHNS THREE EPISTLES.

OF S. Iohn was ſayd in the Argument before his Goſſel. Now here folow his three Epiſtles: one to all Catholikes (though some auncients do call it, Ad Parthos:) the other two being very ſhort, vnto a certaine Lade,and to one Gaius. The effect of all is,to witneſſe vnto them the certaintie of the Catholike faith, and to exhort them to continue ſtill in it:alſo to loue the Catholike Church. and ſo,neither to become heretikes,nor Schiſmatikes: but rather to auoyd all ſuch,as the forerunners of Antichriſt,and to remember, that Catholikes need not to goe to ſchole to any ſuch Maſters,hauing at home in the Catholike Church, the doctrine of the holy Ghoſt himſelfe, who was giuen to the Church viſibly in the beginning,to lead her into all truth,and to continue with her for euer. Therefore he ſayth: That which you haue heard from the beginning,let it abide in you. Likewiſe a litle after,v.27. and 1p.2.v.6. This is the commaundement,that as you haue heard from the beginning,you walke in the ſame, becauſe many ſeducers are gone out into the world,and v.8 and 9.

*Higinus ep. 1.to.1.Concil. Auguſt.li.2. Euang. quæſt. q.39.

1.Ioh.2.v.24.

And not only thus in generall,but alſo in particular he expreſſeth the pointes which the heretikes did then call in queſtion. Some were about Chriſt himſelfe. for they denied that IESVS is Chriſt,that he is the very ſonne of God, that he is incarnate. Ep.1.c.2.v.22.And Ep.2.v.7. And againſt ſuch it was that he wrote his Goſpel alſo,as he there ſignifieth.Ioh.20.v.31. Other points are about our iuſtification againſt onely faith,and for good workes, as alſo S. Aug. noted, whoſe wordes were cited before. Herevpon he ſayth: If we ſay,we haue ſocietie with God,and walke in darknes,we lie.Epiſt.1.c.1. Againe, He that ſayth he knoweth God,and keepeth not his commandements,is a lier.Againe, This is the charitie of God, that we keepe his commaundements,and his commaundements are not heauie. Finally, Children let no man ſeduce you,he that doth iuſtice,is iuſt,euen as he is iuſt.Epiſt.1.c.3.v.7.8.9. Likewiſe c.2.v.29 and in deed in all the three Epiſtles throughout,he doth inculcate good workes and keeping the commandements againſt the hereſie of only faith.

1.Ioh.2.& 5.

Fulke.1. S.Iohn in none of his Epiſtles,doth ſpeake any word againſt iuſtification by faith onely,as we teach it according to the Scriptures,but againſt the impietie of them, that thought a iuſtifying fayth, could be ſeperated from good workes.Which he declareth to be impoſſible, yet aſcribeth our ſaluation wholy, to the mercy of God in Ieſus Chriſt apprehended by faith, which ouercommeth the world,whereby we know that we haue eternall life,which beleeue in the name of the ſonne of God,1.Iohn 5. And therefore are iuſtified before God by faith only without workes, not by a faith which is voyd of good workes, (from which the iuſtifying fayth can neuer be ſeperated)but becauſe works which follow a iuſtified man,cannot be the cauſe of his iuſtificatiō. Iuſtification by faith only.

THat which was from the beginning,which we haue heard,which we haue ſeen with our eyes, which we haue looked vpon, & our hands haue handled of the word of life:

2 (And the life was manifeſted: and we haue ſeen,and doe teſtifie, and declare vnto you the life eternall which was with the Father,and hath appeared to vs)

3 That which we haue ſeene and haue heard, we declare vnto you, that ‖you alſo may haue ſocietie with vs, and our ſocietie may be with the Father and with his Sonne IESVS Chriſt.

5 And this is the annuntiation which we haue heard of him, and declare vnto you, That *God is light, and in him there is no darkeneſſe. Io.8,12.

6 If wee ſhall ſay that we haue ſocietie with him,and walke in darkeneſſe: we lie, and do not the truth.

7 But if we walke in the light, as he alſo is in the light: we haue ſocietie one toward an other,and*¶the bloud of IESVS Chriſt his ſonne cleanſeth vs ‖from all ſinne. Heb.9. 1.Pet.1. Apo.1.

8 *If we ſhal ſay ‖that we haue no ſinne, we ſeduce our ſelues,& the truth is not in vs. 3.Reg.8,46. 2.Par.6,36.

9 If we confeſſe our ſinnes: he is faythful and iuſt,for to forgiue vs our ſinnes, and to cleanſe vs from al iniquitie.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 2. 3 You haue ſocietie.) S. Iohn ſheweth manifeſtly, that whoſoeuer deſire to be partakers with God, muſt firſt be vnited to the Churche ſocietie, learne that fayth, and receiue thoſe Sacraments, which the Diſciples receiued of the Truth it ſelfe, No ſaluation but in the Societie of the Church.

ſelfe, conuerſans with them in fleſh. So ſaith Venerable Bede vpon this place. Whereby we ſee there is no ſocietie with God in ſectes or ſchiſmes, nor any where but in the vnitie, fellowſhip, and communion of that Church which can prooue it ſelfe to deſcend from the Apoſtles.

Fulke. 2. That Church can prooue it ſelfe to deſcend from the Apoſtles, which can prooue, that it holdeth the doctrine and faith of the Apoſtles, and none other. But that Church hath no communion with the Apoſtles, which hath onely ſucceſſion of perſons and places, without continuance in the doctrine of the Apoſtles. Such is the popiſh church and all hereticall aſſemblies, what other deſcent from the Apoſtles ſo euer, they vaunt that they can proue. And if the popiſh church could iuſtifie her faith and doctrine by the ſcriptures, ſhe would neuer flie to ſuch vaine arguments, of ſucceſſion of perſons, & apoſtolike chaires, which ſhe knoweth well to be in other churches, which yet ſhe doth not acknowledge to be catholike or true churches. Succeſſion.

Rhem. 3. 7 The blood of Ieſus.) Whether ſinnes be remitted by prayers, by faſting, by almes, by faith, by charitie, by ſacrifice, by Sacraments, and by the Prieſts (as the holy Scriptures do plainly attribute remiſſion to euery of theſe) yet none of al theſe do otherwiſe remit, but in the force, by the merite and vertue of Chriſtes blood: theſe being but the appointed meanes and inſtruments by which Chriſt will haue his holy blood to worke effectually in vs, which meanes whoſoeuer contemneth, defrauds himſelfe of the commoditie of Chriſtes owne blood, and continueth ſtill in ſinne and vncleanneſſe, vnleſſe he himſelfe neuer ſo much of Chriſtes death. Which point let the Proteſtants marke wel, and ceaſe to beguile their poore deceiued followers, perſwading them that the Catholikes derogate from Chriſtes blood, or ſeeke remiſſion otherwiſe then by it, for that they vſe humbly the meanes appointed by Chriſt to apply the benefit of his holy blood vnto them. Many meanes & inſtruments of remitting ſinne, but al by the force and merite of Chriſts bloud applied by them.

Fulke. 3. The Scripture doeth no where aſcribe the purging or cleanſing vs from our ſinnes to any of theſe things which you name, but onely to the merite of Chriſt his death and bloodſheding, the benefit whereof is applied to vs by fayth only, and not by faſtings, almes, or any worke of charitie. Our fayth is planted and confirmed (as by Gods inſtruments) by the preachers of his word, who teſtifie and aſſure vs in his name, that our ſinnes are forgiuen vs for Chriſtes ſake, and for more confirmation of our fayth, doe adde the Sacraments, which are the ſeales of his grace, by which fayth we call vpon God (now that we are reconciled by Chriſt) our moſt mercifull father to obtaine remiſſion of our ſinnes, and all other his benefits in the merites and worthineſſe of Chriſtes death onely. As for all other workes proceeding of fayth, as loue, almes, faſting, and all the ſpirituall ſacrifices that we offer, be acceptable to God by Ieſus Chriſt, and not by merite of the works. But as for ſacrifice for ſinne, we haue none, but the lambe of God once offered, whoſe blood purgeth vs from all ſinnes. And therefore the papiſts ſetting vp an other ſacrifice then that which Chriſt himſelfe did offer once for all, and beſide ſeeking remiſſion of ſinnes, by ſo many other meanes as God hath neuer appoynted, to apply the benefite of Chriſtes death by them: can neuer excuſe themſelues of derogating from Chriſtes bloud, or ſeeking remiſſion otherwiſe then by it. To omit all other blaſphemies, what chriſtian heart doeth not tremble, to heare them defend this prayer of their popiſh church? By the bloud of Thomas which hee for thee did ſpend, make vs Chriſt to climbe whether Thomas did aſcend. Is this nothing els but humbly to vſe the meanes appoynted by Chriſt to applie the benefite of his bloud vnto them? But of theſe matters more at large in other places. Merite. The ſacrifice of Chriſtes death.

Rhem. 4. 7 From al ſinne.) From original and actual, venial and mortal, a culpa & pœna, that is, from the fault & the paine due for the ſame. V. Bede ſayth, that Chriſtes Paſſion doth not onely remit in Baptiſme the ſinnes before committed, but al other afterward alſo done by frailtie: yet ſo, if we vſe for the remiſſion of them, ſuch meanes as be requiſite & as Chriſt hath appointed, whereof he reckeneth ſome. Bede vpon this place. See S. Auguſtine alſo vpon this place to. 9. and S. Hierome, li. 2. con. Pelag. c. 3. Al remiſſion of ſinnes is by the Paſſion of Chriſt though by ſecundarie meanes alſo.

Fulke 4. If the bloud of Chriſt doe cleanſe vs from all ſinne not onely committed before baptiſme, but alſo committed of frailtie ſince baptiſme (as Bede ſayth rightly) where be your ſatiſfactions by workes or paines ſuffred in this life, or in purgatory after this life, to purge men of their ſinnes, or to ſatiſfie Gods iuſtice? But you adde a condition: Yet ſo, if we vſe for the remiſſion of them, ſuch meanes as be requiſite, and as Chriſt hath appoynted, whereof Beda reckoneth ſome. To apply the remiſſion of our ſinnes by Chriſtes death, are not required any merites or ſatiſfactions of our works, nor Sacraments of the worke wrought, but the ſacraments to confirme faith, of which followeth neceſſarily repentance and fayth. The wordes of Beda are theſe, Whatſoeuer after baptiſme by daily frailtie we haue committed, the grace of the ſame our redeemer remitteth vnto vs: eſpecially when among the works of iuſtice which we doe, we doe humbly euery day confeſſe our errours vnto him, when we receiue the Sacraments or myſteries of his bloud, when forgiuing our debters we pray that our debts may be forgiuen vs, when being mindfull of his paſſion, we doe willingly ſuffer any aduerſitie. Theſe doth not Beda ſay to be meanes for the remiſſion of ſinnes, but to be vſed of all them that obtaine remiſſion of ſinnes by the blood of Chriſt, as dueties of thankfulneſſe, not as merites of forgiueneſſe. S. Auguſtine alſo vpon this text acknowledgeth all ſinnes committed before baptiſme, and after to be purged by the bloud ſheding of Chriſt vpon the croſſe, but of the meanes to apply the ſame vnto vs he ſpeaketh not. S. Hierome ſayth: That which is written: And the bloud of Chriſt doth cleanſe vs from all our ſinnes, is to be vnderſtood, as well in the confeſſion of baptiſme, as in the mercy of repentance. Therefore the bloud of Chriſt without our merite and ſatiſfaction, or other purgation doth cleanſe vs from ſinne, as well in repentaunce, as in baptiſme. The contrary of which doctrine, is the ground of your meritorious and ſatiſfactorie workes, popiſh penance, ſatiſfaction, purgatory, popes pardons, maſſes and ſuch like matters derogatory to the blood of Chriſt. Satiſfaction. Purgatory.

Rhem. 5. 8 That we haue no ſinne.) We gather by theſe wordes and the former, that there be two ſortes of ſinnes: one mortal, excluding vs from light and the ſocietie of God: an other venial, which is found euen in thoſe that walke in the light, and are in the ſocietie of God. Alſo we note againſt the Pelagians, that we be truly called the ſonnes of God, and ſo iuſt in deede, though we be not without all ſinnes, euery one of vs, as well iuſt as vniuſt, being taught and bound to confeſſe our offences, and to aske pardon daily of God, by this petition of the Pater noſter, Forgiue vs our debtes. Therefore S. Auguſtine li. de natura & grat. c. 36. reckeneth vp all the holy Patriarches, Prophets, and renowmed iuſt perſons, to haue bene ſinners, euen when they were in grace and iuſtice: excepting alwayes our B. Ladie, De qua propter honorem Domini, nullam prorſus, cùm de peccatis agitur, habere volo quæſtionem. of whom, ſayth he, for the honor of our Lord, when we talke Some ſinnes veniall. A man may be truely iuſt, no withſtanding venial ſinnes.

of ſinnes, I will haue no queſtion. *And Pelagius aſking what ſinnes Abel and ſuch iuſt men did commit, *S. Auguſtine anſwereth, that they might laugh ſometime immoderately, or iuſt to much, or couet ſomewhat intemperately, or plucke fruit ouer greedily, or in eating take ſomewhat more then afterward was well digeſted, or haue their intention in time of prayer ſomewhat diſtracted, and ſuch like, thus in ſenſe S. Auguſtine. Whereby wee may learne which be veniall ſinnes, that conſiſt with true iuſtice and cannot alwayes be auoided euen of holy men in this life. In the booke De fide ad Petrum, cap. 41. are excepted from this common rule of ſinners, the children which be newly baptized and haue not yet vſe of reaſon to ſinne either mortally or venially.

S. Auguſtine excepteth our B. Ladie from ſinners. Examples of venial ſinnes. *c. 38. *de dono perſeuerant. c. 2.

Fulke. 5. The ſcripture ſaith plainly that the reward of all ſinne is death, and the curſe of God, therefore as heretikes you gather, to confirme your hereſie, that which the Scripture teacheth not. For all ſinnes are pardonable to the penitent and faithfull, and without fayth and repentaunce, euen the leaſt and lighteſt ſinnes are damnable and deadly. Therefore by workes no man can be iuſt, but by faith onely in Chriſt, and through remiſſion of ſinnes, ſeeing all haue ſinned and are iuſtified freely: and that doth S. Auguſtine teach of all that euer were iuſt before God, not excepting the virgine Mary, although in contention with the heretikes, he will haue no queſtion concerning her, for the honor of Chriſt. For he acknowledgeth the Scripture to be true without exception, that ſayth, All haue ſinned, Rom. 3. 9. And De Gen. ad liter. 10. cap. 18. he affirmeth that her body came of the Propagation of ſinne. And where as Pelagius affirmed that Abel is called iuſt in the Scriptures, and no ſinne is mentioned that he committed. S. Auguſtine proueth that it is a vayne argument againſt the Scripture which pronounceth generally that all men haue ſinned, and are deſtitute of the glory of God, to ſay, Abel had no ſinne becauſe there is none particularly mentioned. Therfore although he had no hainous ſinnes, yet he might haue leſſe ſinnes, ſuch as he rehearſeth, which prooue that he was not iuſt by workes before God, but by faith. For ſeeing the loue of God is the onely iuſtice of the law, and that was not perfect in Ael, becauſe it might be increaſed, Auguſtine concludeth, that Abel was not perfectly iuſt, and therefore it is the onely grace of God, whereby Abel was iuſt in his ſight, and not by the merite of his workes. By which the reſt of the Patriarkes alſo were iuſt, whoſe great ſinnes are rehearſed, that you can not deny to be mortall, as drunkennesſe in Noe, lying in Abraham and Iſack, infidelitie in Moſes, curſing of his day in Iob, adulterie in Dauid, denying his maiſter in Peter, and forſaking of him in all the reſt of the Apoſtles. Auguſtine therefore doth not ſerue your pelting diſtinction, by rehearſing what ſmall ſinnes might be in Abel although the Scripture calleth him iuſt, becauſe he was a man, in whom the fleſh did rebell againſt the ſpirite. For although by the grace of God hee abſteined from the moſt grieuous ſinnes, yet declareth that he was not voyd of ſinne, and therefore not iuſt by workes before God, but by grace and faith in Chriſt. Therefore he affirmeth, That this is the onely hope of all the godly, groning vnder this burden of corruptible fleſh, and in the infirmitie of this life, that we haue one mediatour Ieſus Chriſt the iuſt, and he is the propitiation for our ſinnes. Cont. 2. epiſt. Pel. ad Bonifac. lib. 3. c. 5. Therfore he ſetteth downe as one of the three principles which the catholike Church doeth hold againſt the Pelagians. That no man doth liue in this corruptible body, in how great iuſtice ſo euer, without any ſinnes whatſoeuer. De bono vel dono perſeuer. c. 2. S. Auguſtine therefore acknowledgeth that there be ſome ſinnes greater then other, as we doe, but he acknowledgeth no ſinne ſo ſmall, but it deſerueth death, if God ſhould deale in iuſtice againſt vs. For why did the Catholike Church hold, that no man in what iuſtice ſo euer, was voyd of ſinne? but to confute the Pelagians which taught iuſtification before God by good workes. Which they did with more ſhew of reaſon then the papiſtes, when they held that a man might liue without ſinne. Where as the papiſtes confeſſing that a man cannot liue without ſinne, doe neuertheleſſe affirme, that he is iuſt before God by his workes, which are euery one imperfect, and ſhort of the loue of God, in which onely that kind of iuſtice doeth conſiſt, as S. Auguſtine ſaith. And thinke to ſhift of the matter by a vaine diſtinction of mortal and venial ſinnes, which the ſcriptures know not, and it is inuented for nothing els, but to obſcure the grace of God, by which onely we are iuſtified through faith in the death and merites of Chriſt. Fulgentius in his booke De fide ad Petrum, excepting infants newly baptized, as liuing without ſinne, meaneth of ſuch ſinnes, as are committed by deliberation & purpoſe, not ſuch as riſe of their corrupt nature, which are alſo ſinne, though not imputed to the elect: but of the diſtinction of mortalitie or venialtie, he ſpeaketh nothing.

CHAP. II.

If any ſinne mortally, he muſt not diſpaire. 3 To know God rightly, is not to beleeue onely, but to keepe his commandements: 7 and that this is no new doctrine, but the very primitiue, though a new life it is. 9 Therefore he that beleeueth muſt alſo loue his brethren: 12 and that men muſt not loue the world, but doe that which God willeth. 18 Many are gone out of the Church and become Seducers, al the miniſters of Antichriſt: but true Chriſtians muſt continue in their old fayth, conſidering the reward, and that they need not goe to ſchole to any heretike, the holy Ghoſt himſelfe being the ſcholemaiſter of the Church. 29 he doth earneſtly inculcate iuſtice and good workes.

MY litle children, theſe things I write to you, ‖ that you ſinne not. But and if any man ſhall ſinne, we haue ‖ an [c] aduocate with the Father, IESVS Chriſt the iuſt.

2 And hee is the propitiation for our ſinnes: and not for ours onely, but alſo ‖ for the whole worlds.

3 And in this we knowe that we haue knowen

MY little children, theſe things write I vnto you, that ye ſinne not. And if any man ſinne, we haue an aduocate with the father, Ieſus Chriſt the righteous.

2 And hee is the atonement for our ſinnes, not for our ſinnes onely, but alſo for the ſinnes of all the world.

3 And hereby we are ſure that we know him, if

knowen him, if we obſerue his commaundements.

4 ‖ He that ſaith he knoweth him, & keepeth not his commaundements: is a lier and the truth is not in him:

5 But he that keepeth his word, in him in very deede the charitie of God is perfited: in this we know that we be in him.

6 He that ſaith he abideth in him: ought euen as he walked, him ſelf alſo to walke.

7 My deereſt, I write not a new commandement to you, but an old commandement which you had from the beginning. The old commaundement is the word which you haue heard.

Io.13.34. 15,12. 8 Againe * a new commandement write I to you, which thing is true both in him and in you: becauſe the darkeneſſe is paſſed, and the true light now ſhineth.

9 He that ſaith he is in the light, and hateth his brother: is in the darkneſſe euen vntil now.

1 Io.3,14. 10 * He that loueth his brother, abideth in the light, and ſcandal is not in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother: is in the darkneſſe, and walketh in the darkneſſe, and knoweth not whither he goeth, becauſe the darkenes hath blinded his eies.

12 I write vnto you litle children, becauſe your ſinnes are forgiuen you for his name.

13 I write vnto you fathers, becauſe you haue knowen him which is from the beginning, I write vnto you yong men, becauſe you haue ouercome the wicked one.

14 I write to you infantes, becauſe you haue knowen the Father. I write vnto you yong men, becauſe you are ſtrong, and the word of God abideth in you, and you haue ouercome the wicked one.

15 Loue not the world, nor thoſe things which are in the world. If any man loue the world, the charitie of the Father is not in him, ‡ How al ſinne and tentation proceed of the three, ſee S. Thomas Summe. 1. 2. quæſt. 77. art. 5. 16 Becauſe ‡ al that is in the world, is the concupiſcence of the fleſh, and the concupiſcence of the eies, and the pride of life, which is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And the world paſſeth and the concupiſcence therof. But he that doeth the wil of God, abideth for euer.

c ὁ ἀντίχριστος. 18 Litle children, it is the laſt houre, and as you haue heard, that c Antichriſt commeth: now there are become ‖ many antichriſtes: whereby we know that it is the laſt houre.

19 ‖ They

if we keepe his commandements.

4 He that ſaith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandements, is a liar, and the ‖ veritie is not in him. ‖ Or, truth.

5 But who ſo keepeth his word, in him is the loue of God perfect in deed: Heereby know we that we are in him.

6 He that ſaith he abideth in him, ought him ſelfe to walke, euen as he walked.

7 Brethren, I write no new commandement vnto you, but an olde commandement which yee haue heard from the beginning. The olde commandement, is the word which yee haue heard from the beginning.

8 Againe, a newe commandement I write vnto you, that is true in him, and the ſame is true alſo in you, for the darkeneſſe is paſt, and the true light now ſhineth.

9 He that ſaith that he is in the light, and yet hateth his brother, is in darkeneſſe euen vntill this time.

*10 * Hee that loueth his brother, abideth in the light, and there is none occaſion of euill in him.* 1 Ioh.3.14.

11 He that hateth his brother, is in darkeneſſe, and walketh in darkeneſſe: and cannot tell whither he goeth, becauſe that darkeneſſe hath blinded his eyes.

12 Babes I write vnto you, becauſe your ſinnes are forgiuen you for his names ſake.

13 I write vnto you fathers, becauſe ye haue knowen him that is from the beginning. I write vnto you yong men, becauſe ye haue ouercome the wicked.

14 I write to you litle children, becauſe yee haue knowen the father, I haue written to you fathers, becauſe ye haue knowen him that is from the beginning, I haue written vnto you yong men, becauſe ye are ſtrong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye haue ouercome the wicked.

15 See that ye loue not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man loue the world, the loue of the father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, as the luſt of the fleſh, and the luſt of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the father, but of the world.

17 And the world paſſeth away, and the luſt thereof: but he that fulfilleth the will of God, abideth for euer.

18 Litle children, it is the laſt time: and as ye haue heard how that antichriſt ſhall come, euen now there are many antichriſts: wherby we know that it is the laſt time.

19 They

19 ‖ They went out from vs: but ‖ they ‡ were not of vs. for if they had been of vs, they would surely haue remained with vs: but ‖ that they may be manifest that they are not al of vs.

20 But you haue [c] the vnction from the Holy one, and ‖ know al things.

21 I haue not written to you as to them that know not the truth, but as to them that know it: and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is a lier, but he which denieth that IESVS is not Christ? This is Antichrist which denieth the Father and the Sonne.

23 Euery one that denieth the Sonne, neither hath he the Father. He that confesseth the Sonne, hath the Father also.

24 You, that which you haue ‡ heard frō the beginning, let it abide in you. If that abide in you which you haue heard from the beginning, you also shal abide in the Sonne and the Father.

25 And this is the promis which he promised vs, life euerlasting.

26 These things haue I written to you concerning them that seduce you.

27 And you, the vnction which you haue receiued from him, let it abide in you. And you haue no neede that any man teach you: but as his vnction teacheth you of al things, and it is true, and it is no lie. And as it hath taught you, abide [c] in him.

28 And now litle children abide in him: that when he shal appeare, we may haue cōfidence, and not be confounded of him in his comming.

29 If you know that he is iust, know ye that euery one also ‡ which doeth iustice, is borne of him.

19 They went out from vs, but they were not of vs: For if they had beene of vs, they would no doubt haue continued with vs: But ‖ that it might appeare that they are not all of vs.

‖ Or, this commeth to passe.

20 Neuertheles, ye haue an anointing of him that is holy, and ye know all things.

21 I haue not written vnto you as though ye knew not the trueth: but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the trueth.

22 Who is a lier, but he that denieth that Iesus is Christ? the same is Antichrist, that denieth the father and the sonne.

23 Whosoeuer denieth the sonne, the same hath not the father: But he that knowledgeth the sonne, hath the father also.

24 Let therfore abide in you, that same which ye heard from the beginning: if that which ye haue heard from the beginning shall remaine in you, ye also shal continue in the sonne, and in the father.

25 And this is the promise that he hath promised vs, euen eternall life.

26 These things haue I written vnto you, cōcerning them that deceiue you.

27 And the annointing which ye haue receiued of him dwelleth in you: and ye need not that any man teach you, but as the same annointing teacheth you of all things, and it is true, and not lying: and as it taught you, ye shall abide in it.

28 And now babes, abide in him: that when he shall appeare, we may be bolde, and not be ashamed ‖ of him at his comming.

‖ Or, before.

29 If ye know that he is righteous, know also that euery one which doth righteousnes, is borne of him.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. 19. Were not of vs.) They were of vs for the time, that is, of and in the Church: otherwise they could not haue gone out. but they were not of the constant sort, or of the elect and predestinat: for then they had tarried within, or returned before their death.

Fulke. 1. The text saith, they were not of vs, you say, they were of vs, which the scripture neuer saith, but to maintein your heresie of the sacraments giuing grace ex opere & operato, euen to the reprobate, you dare speake contradictorie to the Holy ghost. The reprobate therefore are in the visible church, but neuer be members of the body of Christ, which is the catholike church. They should not haue gone out (saith S. Augustine) if they had beene of vs, before they went out: therefore they were not of vs. Againe, many that are not of vs, receiue the sacraments with vs.

Opus operatum work wrought. The reprobate no members of the church.

Rhem. 2. 24. Heard from the. Keepe that firmely & constantly which you haue heard euen from the beginning, by the mouth of the Apostles: and not that only which you haue receiued by writing.

Fulke. 2. All that they heard of the apostles is contained in the holy scriptures, which are able to make a man wise vnto saluation, by faith in Iesus Christ. 2. Tim. 3. 15.

Rhem. 3. 29. Which doth iustice.) We see it is Apostolical doctrine, that men may do or worke iustice, and that so doing they be iust by their workes proceding of Gods grace, and not by faith or imputation only.

Fulke. 3. We see that no man doth iustice but he that is borne of God, that is, which is iustified by faith, and regenerated by Gods spirit, without his merit or works. But we see not, that by the merit of this iustice, any man is iust before God, but only by the iustice of Christ imputed to him, of whose grace he hath power to doe this iustice. Of both these iustices S. Augustine speaketh vpon this text. Our iustice is now of faith: perfect iustice is not but in angels. Againe: The beginning of our iustice is the confession of our sinnes. Hast thou begun not to defend thy sinne?

Merit.

now thou haſt begun iuſtice, and it ſhall be made perfect in thee, when thou ſhalt delight to doe nothing els, when death ſhall be ſwallowed vp in victorie.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 4. 1. That you ſinne not.) S. Iohn (ſaith V. Bede vpon this place) is not contrarie to him ſelf, in that he ſeeketh here to make them without ſinne, whom he ſaid in the laſt chapter could not be without al ſinnes. But in the former place he warned vs only of our frailety, that we ſhould not arrogate to our ſelues perfect innocencie: here he prouoketh vs to watchfulneſſe and diligence in reſiſting and auoiding ſinnes, ſpecially the greater, which by Gods grace may more eaſily be repelled.

Fulke. 4. The wordes of Beda are theſe: He is not contrarie to himſelfe, which ſayd before, that we could not liue without ſinne, and now ſaith, he writeth vnto vs that we ſhould not ſinne. But there he admoniſhed vs neceſſarily, prouidently, and wholeſomly of our frailty, leſt any man ſhould pleaſe himſelfe, as though he were innocent, and by extolling himſelfe of merits, ſhould the rather periſh: heere conſequently he exhorteth, that if we cannot be without all faults, yet we ſhould endeuour as much as we are able, leſt we our ſelues ſhould liue negligently, after the frailtie of our condition: but ſhould fight watchfully and manfully againſt all vices, eſpecially the greater and more open vices, which by the Lords helpe we may more eaſily ouercome or auoid.

Merit.

All ſinners.

Rhem. 5. 1. An aduocate.) The calling and office of an Aduocate, is in many things proper to Chriſt, and in euery condition more ſingularly and excellently agreeing to him then to any Angel, Saint, or creature liuing, though theſe alſo be rightly and truely ſo called, and that not only without al derogation, but much to the honour of Chriſts aduocation. To him ſolo and onely it agreeth to procure vs mercie before Gods face, by the generall ranſom, price, and paiment of his bloud for our deliuerie, as is ſaid in the ſentence folowing, And he is the propitiation for our ſinnes, and not for ours onely, but for the whole worlds. In which ſort he is our onely aduocate, becauſe he is our onely redeemer. and hereupon he alone immediatly, by and through him ſelf, and without the aide or aſſiſtance of any other, man or Angel, in his owne name, right, and merites, confidently dealeth in our cauſes before God our iudge, and ſo procureth our pardon, which is the higheſt degree of aduocation that can be.

How Chriſt is our only Aduocate.

Al which notwithſtanding, yet the Angels, and Saints, and our fellowes aliue, may and do pray for vs, and in that they deale with God by interceſſion to procure mercie for vs, may iuſtly be called our aduocates: not ſo as Chriſt is, who demaundeth al things immediatly by his owne merits, but as ſecondary interceſſors, who neuer aske nor obtaine any thing for vs, but per Chriſtum Dominum noſtrum, by and through Chriſt our common Lord, Aduocate, and Redeemer of mankinde. And beholde how S. Auguſtine (tract. 1 in ep. 1o. vpon theſe very words) preuented the Heretikes cauillations. Sed dicit aliquis &c: But ſome man wil ſay, Do not the Saincts then pray for vs? do not Biſhops then or Prelates and Paſtors pray for the people? Yes, ſaith he: Marke the Scriptures, and you ſhal finde that the Apoſtles prayed for the people, and againe deſired the people to pray for them, and ſo the head praieth for al, and the members one for an other. And likewiſe (leſt the Heretikes ſhould ſay, there is a difference betwixt the liuing & the dead in this caſe) alſo the ſame holy father writeth vpon the 85 Pſalme in fine. Our Lord Ieſus Chriſt doth yet make interceſſion for vs, al the Martyrs that be with him, pray for vs: neither wil their interceſſion ceaſe, til we ceaſe our gronings.

How Angels, Saincts, & men aliue are our aduocates.

Saincts in heauen pray for vs.

In this ſenſe therfore whoſoeuer praieth for vs, either aliue or dead, is our aduocate. as S. Auguſtine (ep. 59 to Paulinus circa med.) calleth Biſhops, the peoples aduocates, when they giue them their benediction or bleſſing. So doth the holy Church call our B. Lady our aduocate, by the very wordes of S. Irenæus that you may ſee ſuch ſpeaches be no new inuentions of the later ages, but Apoſtolical. The obedient Virgin MARIE (ſaith he) is made the aduocate of the diſobedient virgin Eue. *And to confound the Proteſtants plainely, in that they thinke or preſend that the aduocation or patronage of Saincts ſhould be iniurious to Chriſt, remember that * our Sauiour acknowledgeth Angels to be deputed for the protection (which is nothing els but aduocation) of infants before the face of God, beſides the plaine examples in the old Teſtament* Gen. 48. v. 16. Tob. 5. v. 27. & c. 12. v. 12. Dan. 10. And this was one'y the Catholike Church, but the very Engliſh Proteſtants them ſelues in their ſeruice booke and in the Collect of Michelmas day, profeſſe, and pray for the ſame protection or aduocation of Angels, and defend the ſame againſt their younger brethren the Puritanes.

Irem. li. 3. c. 33. & li. 5 poſt med.

The B. virgin is our aduocate.

D. Hiero. in Mat. c. 18.

Angels are our protectors.

Fulke. 5. The ſcripture neuer calleth any angell, ſainct, or creature liuing or dead our aduocate with the father, but only Ieſus Chriſt, therfore none can be ſo called without derogation to his office to whom it is proper. S. Auguſtine ſaith, If S. Iohn had offered himſelfe to be mediator or aduocate as Parmenian placed the biſhop mediator betweene the people and God, he ſhould be no true apoſtle but antichrift. Cont. ep. Parm. lib. 2. c. 8. But forasmuch as the word Aduocate is borrowed of lawyers, & ſignifieth him that is to plead the iuſtice of his clients cauſe, not euery one which may or doth pray for vs, can be called our aduocate, but he onely that can plead his iuſtice, which he hath giuen vs before God his father, to obteine mercy for vs. Therefore if angels and ſaincts departed doe pray for vs, which we know not by the ſcriptures, as we know that our brethren aliue doe pray for vs: yet are they no aduocates of ours, but petitioners & intreaters for vs, nor no mediators, by whoſe worthineſſe we may looke to obteine remiſſion of our ſinnes. Neither doth S. Auguſtine ſay any thing againſt vs, when he ſaith that the ſaincts liuing, the biſhops or paſtors doe pray for vs. For they pray not as aduocates, but as felow members, nor yet the ſaincts departed (if they doe pray for vs) dare vſurpe the office of Chriſt, to be aduocates to plead their iuſtice or merits for vs, as you in your blaſphemous prayers to them doe often require them. And therfore you labor in vaine, by ſeeking out certeine places of the fathers, where the word Aduocate is vſed in another ſenſe, to couer the wickedneſſe of your multitude of aduocates ſet vp to obteine mercy by their merits, either with Chriſt or without him. S. Auguſtine calleth not the biſhops the peoples aduocates abſolutely, which reproueth Parmenian for calling the biſhop the peoples mediator, vnderſtanding mediator for the ſame that is called aduocate in this place: but he ſaith the Prelates as it were aduocates doe offer to the moſt mercifull power of God, thoſe whom they haue vndertaken by impoſition of hands.

Chriſt our only aduocate.

You ſee he doeth not call them abſolutely or properly aduocates, but ſheweth wherein they reſemble aduocates, not in that principall point of the aduocates office, whereof the Apoſtle heere ſpeaketh. Neither doth your Popiſh Church call the virgine Mary your aduocate, in ſuch ſenſe as Irenæus or his interpretour, calleth her the aduocate of Eue: For Irenæus meaneth, neither in reſpect of her merits merits nor of her prayers, that Mary is made the aduocate of Eue, but that by her obedience vnto the word of God, ſhe conceiued Chriſt the ſauiour of all men, as Eue by her diſobedience deceiued Adam, in whome deſtruction came vpon all men. But to confound the Proteſtants plainely, Chriſt acknowledgeth angels to be deputed for the protection of infants, and in other places the protection of all the faithfull is aſcribed to them. A plaine confuſion. The angels are appointed to the protection of the faithfull, therefore not onely they, but ſaincts departed alſo be our aduocates. As though the angels could not protect the elect againſt their aduerſaries, except they were their aduocates alſo with God the father, to purchaſe remiſſion of ſinnes for them. But the Proteſtants themſelues (you ſay) pray for the protection and aduocation of angels: In deed we pray to God that he will protect vs by the miniſtery of his holy angels, becauſe we read in the ſcriptures that the angels are Gods miniſters for the defence of his choſen. But for the aduocation of angels, that is, that they may be our aduocates, we pray not, neither are you able to prooue that the miniſtery of defence or protection is all one with aduocation: nor that although protection of vs be deputed to angels, that it is alſo deputed to ſaincts departed, who as they are of diuers natures, ſo they are not deputed to the ſame ſeruice or miniſterie. Chriſt therefore (as S. Auguſtine ſaith vpon this place) is our aduocate, indeuour that thou ſinne not: but if of infirmitie of this life, ſinne haue crept vpon thee, immediatly looke to it, immediatly let it diſpleaſe thee, immediatly condemne it, and when thou haſt condemned it, thou ſhalt come ſecurely to the iudge, there thou haſt an aduocate, be not afraid, leſt thou ſhouldeſt leeſe the cauſe of thy confeſſion. For if a man in this life doth ſometime commit himſelfe to an eloquent tongue, and periſh not, thou committeſt thy ſelfe to God the word, and ſhalt thou periſh? Crie, we haue an aduocate with the father. Beholde Iohn himſelfe keeping humilitie, certeinly he was a iuſt man, and a great perſon, which drunke the ſecrets of myſteries of our Lords breſt: he couched he which by drinking of our Lords breſt, vttered his diuinity, ſaying: In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, euen he, being ſuch a man, ſayd not, you haue an aduocate with the father, but if any man ſhall ſinne (ſaith he) we haue an aduocate: he ſayd not you haue, nor you haue me, neither ſaith he, you haue Chriſt himſelfe, but he ſet Chriſt, not himſelfe to be an aduocate, and ſaid, we haue, not you haue. He had rather place himſelfe in the number of ſinners, that he might haue Chriſt his aduocate, then that he ſhould place himſelfe to be an aduocate in ſtead of Chriſt, and to be found among the proud that are to be damned. Brethren, we haue Ieſus Chriſt the iuſt himſelfe to be our aduocate, he is the propitiation for our ſinnes: he that held this hath made no hereſie, he that held this hath made no ſchiſme. For when are ſchiſmes made? when men ſay, we are iuſt, we ſanctifie the vncleane, we iuſtifie the vngodly, we aske, we obteine: but who ſaid Iohn? If any man haue ſinned, we haue an aduocate with the father, Ieſus Chriſt the iuſt. But ſome man will ſay, then doe not holy men aske for vs? then doe not biſhops and ouerſeers aske for the people? But marke the ſcriptures, and ſee that ouerſeers alſo commend themſelues to the people. For the apoſtle ſaith to the people: Praying alſo for vs. The apoſtle prayeth for the people, the people prayeth for the apoſtle: we pray for you brethren, and pray you alſo for vs, let all the members pray one for another, let the head make interceſſion for all. You ſee then that the mutuall duety of the members praying one for another, doth differ from the aduocation of Chriſt, which is the head, and who only pleadeth iuſtice for vs, as an aduocate with the father, to whom we may be bolde to come without mediation or aduocation, and much leſſe merits and ſatisfaction of any other.

Rhem. 6. 2. For the whole worlds.) S. Auguſtine gathered hereof againſt the Donatiſtes, & al other Heretikes, that would driue the Church into corners or ſome certaine countries, from the vniuerſalitie of al Nations (whereof it was named by the Apoſtles, Catholike) that the true religion, and Church, and conſequently the effect of Chriſts propitiation, death, and aduocation, pertaineth not to one age, nation, or people, but to the whole world. S. Auguſtine vpon this place to. 9. tract. 1 in ep. Io. The Catholike Church is the only true Church.

Fulke. 6. As the Donatiſts would driue the church into Africa, ſo the papiſts into Europe, in a part whereof onely their popiſh doctrine reigneth. Papiſts are Schiſmatikes.

Rhem. 7. 4. He that ſaith he knoweth.) To know God here, ſignifieth (as it doth often in the Scriptures) to loue, that is, as in the laſt chapter, to be in ſocietie with him, and to haue familiar and experimental knowledge of his graces. If any vaunt them ſelues thus to know God, and yet keepe not his commaundements, he is a lier, as al Caluiniſtes and Lutherans, that profeſſe themſelues to be in the fauour of God by onely faith: affirming, that they neither keepe, nor poſſibly can keepe his commaundements. Not only faith

Fulke. 7. A vaine cauill, we affirme that we neither keepe, nor poſſibly can keepe Gods commandement perfectly, for then we might truly ſay we haue no ſinne, which no man can ſay. Yet by his grace, not of our ſtrength, we keepe his commandements (which are charitie ſaith S. Auguſtine) though not in ſuch perfection as his iuſtice requireth, yet in ſuch meaſure as his mercy in Chriſt accepteth. If papiſts affirme that they keepe Gods commandements ſo perfectly that they ſinne not, they deceiue themſelues, and the truth is not in them. Cauilling.

Rhem. 8. 18. Many antichriſts.) The holy Apoſtle S. Iohn (ſaith S. Cyprian) did not put a difference betwixt one hereſie or ſchiſme and an other, nor meant any ſort that ſpecially ſeparated them ſelues, but generally called al without exception, antichriſtes, that were aduerſaries to the Church, or were gone out from the ſame. And a little after, It is euident that al be here called antichriſtes, that haue ſeuered them ſelues from the charitie and vnitie of the Catholike Church. So writeth he ep. 76. nu. 1 ad Magnum. Whereby we may learne, that al Heretikes, or rather Archheretikes be properly the precurſors of that one and ſpecial Antichriſt, which is to come at the laſt end of the world, and which is called here immediatly before, ἐξαίρετος, that peculiar and ſingular Antichriſt. Al Heretikes are antichriſts the forerunners of the great Antichriſt.

Fulke. 8. We learne by this, that Antichriſt is no ſingular man, but the greateſt hereſie and pride maketh that great and ſpeciall Antichriſt, of whom the Apoſtle ſpeaketh. 2. Theſſ. 2. Antichriſt no ſingular man only.

Rhem. 9. 19. They went out from vs.) An euident note and marke, whereby to conuince al Heretikes and falſe teachers, to wit, that being once of the common Catholike Chriſtian fellowſhip, they forſooke it, and went out from the ſame. Simon Magus, Nicolas the Deacon, Hymeneus, Alexander, Philetus, Arius, Macedonius, Pelagius, Neſtorius, Eutyches, Luther, Caluin, and the like, were of the common ſocietie of al vs that be Chriſtian Catholikes, they went out from vs whom they ſaw to liue in vnitie of faith and religion together, and made themſelues new conuenticles, therefore they were (as the Apoſtle here ſheweth) antichriſtes, and we and al that abide in the auncient fellowſhip of Chriſtian religion, that went not out of their fellowſhip, in which we neuer were, nor out of any other ſocietie of knowen Chriſtians, can not be Schiſmatikes or Heretikes, The marke of al heretikes is, their going out of the Catholike ſocietie.

Heretikes, but muſt needes be true Chriſtian Catholike men. Let our aduerſaries tel vs, out of what Church we euer departed, when, and where, and vnder what perſons it was that we reuolted, as we can tel them the yere, the places, the Ringleaders of their reuolt.

The Catholikes cannot be proued to haue gone out.

Fulke 9. The Pope and Papiſtes are gone out from the Catholike Church of Chriſt, into the malignant and Antichriſtian Church of Rome, becauſe they abide not in the ancient fellowſhip of Chriſtian religion taught by the Apoſtles, and receiued in the Primitiue Church. From whence Boniface the third went out manifeſtly, and by Gregories iudgement, became Antichriſt, when he bought for a great ſumme of money, of Phocas the traitor and murderer, that vſurped the Empire, the title of vniuerſall Biſhop, and head of the Church, which prophane and Antichriſtian title, none of his Predeceſſors (as Gregorie teſtifieth) would euer vſe before him. From that time, the Pope hath openly exerciſed tyrannie in the Church of God, and daily more and more increaſed in pride and impietie, vntill he had vtterly obſcured the doctrine of ſaluation, in the greateſt number of men, the remnant only excepted, which according to Gods election, were alwaies preſerued. Luther and Caluine therefore, went not out of the Catholike Church, but being called by the ſpirite of God, and his word in the Scripture, they came out of Babylon into the Church of Chriſt. Apoc. 18. 4. They came from the Papiſtes, therefore, as S. Auguſtine came from the Manichees, and many other godly men, that haue beene reclaimed out of hereſies, wherein they had beene borne and bredde, and noſeled vp from their youth. Which Heretikes with as great equitie as you, might abuſe this text againſt them, and ſay, they went out from them. That you can tell the yeere, the places, and the Ringleaders of our reuolt, it is a vaine bragge. For we haue not reuolted from Chriſt and his Church, but from Antichriſt, and his ſlauiſh armie of Popiſh Prieſtes, prophecied of by Gregorie, which was performed in his next ſucceſſor ſaue one. See 2. Theſſ. 2. in diuerſe ſections, the Pope proued to be the great Antichriſt, vnto whom the reuolt was made from Chriſt and his faith.

The Pope Antichriſt.

Rhem. 10 19. They were not of vs.) He meaneth not, that Heretikes were not, or could not be in or of the Church, before they went out or fel into their hereſie or ſchiſme: but partly that many of them which afterward fal out, though they were before with the reſt, and partakers of al the Sacraments with other their fellowes, yet in deede were of naughtie life and conſcience when they were within, and ſo being rather as ill humors and ſuperfluous excrements, then true and liuely partes of the body, after a ſort may be ſaid not to haue been of the body at al. So S. Auguſtine expoundeth theſe wordes in his commentarie vpon this place. tract. 3. but elswhere, more agreably as it ſeemeth, that the Apoſtle meaneth, that ſuch as wil not tarie in the Church, but finally forſake it to the end, in the preſcience of God, and in reſpect of the final benefite they ſhal haue by their temporal ſmal abode there, be not of or in the Church, though according to the preſent ſtate, they are truely members thereof. Li. de corrept. & gr. c. 9. & de dono perſeuer. c. 8.

How Heretiks are of the Church, before they fal.

Fulke 10. Heretikes and other reprobates, may be in the outward ſocietie or fellowſhip of the Catholike Church, but they can neuer be true members of the Catholike Church of Chriſt, which is the number of Gods elect, the members of the body of Chriſt. So ſayth S. Auguſtine: Many that are not of vs, receiue the Sacraments with vs. They receiue Baptiſme with vs, they receiue with vs that which the faithfull doe know, the bleſſing and Euchariſt, and whatſoeuer is in the number of the holy Sacraments. They take the communication of the altar it ſelfe with vs, and yet they are not of vs: triall proueth that they are not of vs. You ſee that neither the receiuing of Baptiſme, nor of the Lordes Supper, which he calleth the communication of the altar, can make them of vs, which are none of vs, therefore the Sacraments are ſeales of Gods grace in the elect, they doe not giue grace of the worke wrought. Oecumenius expounding this place, ſayth: They were not of vs, that is, of the lotte of them which are ſaued. Neither doth Auguſtine in the other places which you quote, gainſay this, but confirmeth it. There are ſome, which are called of vs the ſonnes of God, for the grace which they haue receiued but temporally, yet they are not of God, of whom Iohn ſayth, they went out from vs, but they were not of vs, &c. that is, when they ſeemed to be among vs, they were not of vs. Againe, they were in good, but becauſe they continued not therein, that is, they continued not to the end, they were not (ſayth he) of vs, euen when they were with vs, that is, they were not of the number of the ſonnes, euen when they were in the faith of the ſonnes: becauſe they that are the ſonnes in deede, are foreknowen and predeſtinated, to be conformable to the image of his ſonne, and are called according to purpoſe, that they may be elect. For the ſonne of promiſe periſheth not, but the ſonne of perdition. Theſe men therefore were of the many that are called, but of the few that are choſen, they were not. You ſee therefore the Catholike Church, which is the body of Chriſt, conſiſteth onely of the elect, and predeſtinate vnto eternall life, of which number they are none, that beleeue for a time, and after fall away, for ſuch were neuer of the Church, though they were in it. In the other place: De dono perſeuer. c. 8. he vnderſtandeth them onely to be of vs, which are predeſtinate to life. The Pelagian proceedeth, and ſayth: Why hath he not graunted to ſome which worſhipped him with a good intent or faith, to continue to the ende? Why thinkeſt thou? but becauſe he doth not lye, which ſayth: they went out from vs, but they were not of vs, for if they had beene of vs, they ſhould (or would haue) taried with vs. You ſee, that S. Auguſtine neuer ſayth, that the reprobate are truely members of the Catholike Church or body of Chriſt, although they be for a time in the viſible Church, partakers of the Sacraments, haue ſome taſte of the grace of God, and ſome temporall faith for a ſeaſon, but neuer continue therein to the ende.

The reprobate are no true members of the Catholike Church.

Rhem. 19. That they may be manifeſt. God permitteth hereſie to be, that ſuch as be permanent, conſtant, and choſen members and children of the Catholike Church, onely known to God before, may now alſo be made manifeſt to the world, by their conſtant remaining in the CHVRCH, when the winde and blaſt of euery hereſie or tentation driueth out the other light and vnſtable perſons.

By hereſies conſtant Catholikes are known.

Rhem. 11 20. Know al things.) They that abide in the vnitie of Chriſtes Church, haue the vnction, that is, the holy Ghoſt, who teacheth al truth. not that euery member or man thereof hath al knowledge in him ſelf perſonally, but that euery one which is of that happie ſocietie to which Chriſt promiſed and gaue the Holy Ghoſt, is partaker of al other mens giftes and graces in the ſame holy Spirit, to his ſaluation. Neither needs any to ſeeke truth at Heretikes handes or others that be gone out, when it is within them ſelues and onely within them ſelues in Gods Church. If thou loue vnitie (ſaith S. Auguſtine) for thee alſo hath he, whoſoeuer hath any thing in it, take away enuie, it is thine which I haue, it is mine which thou haſt. &c. Tract. 32. in Euang. Ioan.

Euery good Catholike is ſufficiently taught by the Church to ſaluation.

Fulke 11. S. Auguſtine vnderſtandeth this, of the inward teaching by the holy Ghoſt, which muſt concurre w̃ the outward miniſterie of the Church, that it may be profitable. It is the inward maiſter (ſaith he) that teacheth, Chriſt teacheth, his inſpiration teacheth, where his inſpiration and vnction is not, words ſound in vaine outwardly. So ſayth Beda: Except the ſpirite be preſent in the heart of the hearer, the ſpeach of the teacher is in vaine. No man therefore aſcribeth to man which teacheth, that he vnderſtandeth out of the mouth of him that ſpeaketh. For except there be one that teacheth within, the teachers tongue laboureth in vaine without. S. Iohn meaneth not therfore, that the implicite faith of the Papiſtes is ſufficient, but that true Chriſtians haue diſtinct knowledge of all thinges neceſſarie to ſaluation, both by the outward preaching of the word, and by the inward vnction of the ſpirite. Faith implicite.

CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. It is not for the ſonne of God, to ſinne mortally, but for the ſonnes of the Diuel, whereby they are knowen one from another, and not by onely faith. 11 True faith is, that we alſo loue our brethren, giuing both our life and ſubſtance for them. 19 Such vnfeined loue may haue great confidence before God. 23 becauſe the keeping of his commaundements doth much pleaſe him, which conſiſt in faith and charitie.

Fulke 1. To continue in heinous ſinnes, is diueliſh, and not beſeeming the children of God. Yet by euery greeuous fall they are not knowen to be the ſonnes of the Deuill. Dauid, although by the Deuils ſuggeſtion, he had committed adulterie and murther, yet was he not thereby knowen to be the Deuils ſonne, but a diſobedient ſonne of God, whom by his mercie and chaſtiſement, he called to repentance.

SEe what maner of charitie the Father hath giuen vs, that we ſhould be named and be ‡ the ſonnes of God. For this cauſe the world doth not know vs, becauſe it hath not knowen him.

‡ Not by nature, as Chriſt is: but by grace and adoption.

2 My deereſt, now we are the ſonnes of God: and it hath not yet appeared what we ſhal be. We know that when he ſhal appeare, we ſhal be like to him: becauſe we ſhal ᶜ ſee him as he is.

ᶜ How we ſhal ſee God, and be like vnto him in the next life. See S. Auguſtine ep. 111. 112. & li. 22. de ciuit. Dei c. 29.

3 And euery one that hath this hope in him, ‡ ſanctifieth him ſelf, as he alſo is holy.

4 Euery one that committeth ſinne, committeth alſo iniquitie: and ‖ ſinne is iniquitie.

Eſ. 53, 4.

5 And * you know that he appeared to take away our ſinnes: * & ſinne in him there is none.

1. Pet. 2, 24.

6 Euery one that abideth in him, ‖ ſinneth not: and euery one that ſinneth, hath not ſeen him, nor knowen him.

7 Litle children, let no man ſeduce you. ‖ He that doeth iuſtice, is iuſt: euen as he alſo is iuſt.

Io. 8, 44.

8 * He that committeth ſinne, is of the deuil: becauſe the deuil ‖ ſinneth from the beginning. For this, appeared the Sonne of God, that he might diſſolue the workes of the deuil.

9 Euery one that is borne of God, committeth not ſinne: becauſe his ſeede abideth in him, and he can not ſinne becauſe he is borne of God.

10 In this are the children of God manifeſt, and the children of the deuil. Euery one that is not iuſt, is not of God, and he that loueth not his brother.

The Epiſtle for S. Polycarpus, Ian. 26. Io. 13, 35.

11 Becauſe this is the annuntiation, which you haue heard from the beginning, * That you loue one an other.

BEhold what charitie the father hath ſhewed vs euen that we ſhould be called the ſonnes of God: for this cauſe the world knoweth vs not, becauſe it hath not knowen him.

2 Dearely beloued, nowe are we the ſonnes of God, and yet it doeth not appeare what we ſhall be: But we know that when he ſhall appeare, we ſhall be like him: for we ſhall ſee him as he is.

3 And euery man that hath this hope in him, purgeth him ſelfe, euen as he alſo is pure.

4 Whoſoeuer committeth ſinne, tranſgreſſeth alſo the law: for ſinne is the tranſgreſſion of the lawe.

*5 And ye know that he appeared to * take away our ſinnes, and in him is no ſinne.* Eſai. 53. 5. 1. Pet. 2. 22.

6 As many as abide in him, ſinne not: whoſoeuer ſinneth, hath not ſeene him, neither knowen him.

7 Babes, let no man deceiue you: he that doeth righteouſneſſe, is righteous, euen as he is righteous.

*8 * He that committeth ſinne, is of the deuil, for the deuill ſinneth ſince the beginning: For this purpoſe appeared the ſonne of God, to looſe the workes of the deuill.* Iohn 8. 44.

9 Whoſoeuer is borne of God, ſinneth not: for his ſeede remaineth in him, and he cannot ſinne, becauſe he is borne of God.

10 In this are the children of God knowen, and the children of the deuill: whoſoeuer doeth not righteouſneſſe, is not of God, neither he that loueth not his brother.

*11 * For this is the tidings that ye heard from the beginning, that ye ſhould loue one another.* Iohn 13. 34.

Gen.4,8. 11 Not as * Cain, who was of the wicked one, and killed his brother. And for what cause killed he him? Becauſe his workes were wicked: but his brothers, iuſt.

The 1. ſonday after the 2. Sunday after Penteco. 13 Maruel not brethren, if the world hate you.

14 We know that we are tranſlated from death to life, becauſe we loue the brethren. He that loueth not, abideth in death.

15 Whoſoeuer hateth his brother: is a murderer. And you know that no murderer hath life euerlaſting abiding in him ſelf.

Io.15,13. 16 * In this we haue knowen the charitie of God, becauſe he hath yelded his life for vs: and we ought to yeld our liues for the brethren.

Ia.2,15. 17 * He that ſhal haue the ſubſtance of the world, and ſhal ‡ ſee his brother haue neede, and ſhal ſhut his bowels from him: how doth the charitie of God abide in him?

‡ Euery man is bound to giue almes according to his ability, when he ſeeth his brother in great neceſſity.

18 My litle children, let vs not loue in word, nor in tongue, but in deed & truth.

19 In this we know that we are of the truth: and in his ſight we ſhal perſuade our hartes.

20 For if our hart do reprehend vs: God is greater then our hart, & knoweth al things.

21 My deereſt, if our hart do not reprehend vs, we haue confidence toward God.

Mat.21. Io.14. 1.Io.5. 22 And * whatſoeuer we ſhal aske, ‖ we ſhal receiue of him: becauſe we keepe his commaundements, and doe thoſe thinges which are pleaſing before him.

Io.17,3.13, 34. 23 And * this is his commaundement, that we beleeue in the name of his ſonne IESVS Chriſt: and ‡ loue one an other, as he hath giuen commaundement vnto vs.

Io.14,23. 24 And * he that keepeth his commaundements, abideth in him, and he in him. And in this we know that he abideth in vs, by the Spirit which he hath giuen vs.

12 *Not as * Cain which was of the wicked, and ſlew his brother: And wherefore ſlew he him? becauſe his owne workes were euill, and his brothers righteous.* Gen.4.8.

13 Maruell not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

14 We knowe that we are tranſlated from death vnto life, becauſe we loue the brethren: he that loueth not his brother, abideth in death.

15 *Whoſoeuer hateth * his brother, is a manſlear: and ye know that no manſlear hath eternal life abiding in him.* Leuit.19.17.

16 Hereby perceiue we loue, becauſe he layd downe his life for vs: and we ought to lay downe our liues for the brethren.

17 * But whoſo hath this worldes good, and ſeeth his brother haue neede, and ſhutteth vp his compaſſion from him: how dwelleth the loue of God in him? Luke 3.11.

18 My babes, let vs not loue in word, neither in tongue, but in deede and in veritie.

19 Hereby we know that we are of the truth, and ſhall aſſure our hearts before him.

20 For if our heart condemne vs, God is greater then our hearte, and knoweth all thinges.

21 Dearely beloued, if our heart condemne vs not, then haue we boldneſſe toward God.

22 *And * whatſoeuer we aske, we receiue of him, becauſe we keepe his commaundements, and doe thoſe thinges which are pleaſing in his ſight.* Mat.21.12. iohn 15.7.

23 * And this is his commaundement, that we ſhould beleeue on the name of his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt, and loue one another, as he gaue vs commaundement. Iohn.6.29.

24 * And he that keepeth his commaundements, dwelleth in him, and he in him: and hereby we knowe that he abideth in vs, euen by the ſpirit which he hath giuen vs. Iohn.13.34.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem.2. 3. Sanctifieth him ſelf.) This teacheth vs that man ſanctifieth him ſelf by his free wil working together with Gods grace. S. Auguſtine vpon this place.

Fulke 2. S. Auguſtine meaneth, that our will being enlarged by Gods ſpirite, conſenteth to the grace of God, not that it is free by nature: his wordes are theſe: Thou ſeeſt he hath not taken away free will, when he ſayth he ſanctifieth him ſelfe, who doth ſanctifie vs but God? But God doth not ſanctifie thee, being vnwilling. Therefore in that thou ioyneſt thy will to God, thou doeſt ſanctifie thy ſelfe. Thou doeſt ſanctifie thy ſelfe, not by thy ſelfe, but by him which came, that he might do it in thee. He doth not therefore ſet out the ſtrength of mans will, but ſheweth, that the conſent thereof to Gods grace, is wrought by God, and is not in the power of man. For it doth not helpe the Pelagian hereſie (ſaith Beda,) that it is ſaid, of a man, he ſanctifieth himſelfe, as though any man without Gods helpe, by free will could ſanctifie himſelfe. Free will.

Rhem.3. 23. Loue one an other.) Leſt any man ſhould thinke by the wordes next before, onely faith in Chriſt to be commaunded vnto vs, he addeth, to ioyne to faith the commaundement of charitie or loue of our neighbour.

Fulke 3. We read not that only faith is commaunded, but that only faith iuſtifieth before God, and that by faith all workes of charitie pleaſe God, and not by the merite or worthines of them. Heb.11. Slander.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem.4. 4. Sinne is iniquitie.) Iniquitie is not taken here for wickednes, as it is commonly vſed both in Latin and in our language, guage,as is plaine by the Greeke word ἀνομία,ſignifying nothing els but a ſwarning or declining from the ſtraight line of the law of God or nature.So that the Apoſtle meaneth,that euery ſinne is an iniquitie or diſcord from the rule of the law: but not contrarie,that euery ſuch ſwarning from the law, ſhould be properly a ſinne, as the Heretike do untruely gather, to proue that concupiſcence remaining after Baptiſme is a very ſinne, though we neuer giue our conſent vnto it. And though in the 5 chapter folowing verſ.17.the Apoſtle turne the ſpeache, affirming euery iniquitie to be a ſinne, yet there the Greeke word is not the ſame as before, ἀνομία,but ἁμαρτία by which it is plaine, that there he meaneth by iniquitie, mans actuall and proper tranſgreſſion which muſt needes be a ſinne. See S. Auguſtine cont. Iulian.l.5.c.3.*S.Ambr.*l.de Apologia Dauid c.13.

Concupiſcence remaining after Baptiſme is no ſinne,without conſent.

Fulke 4. If ſinne be euery tranſgreſſion of the Law, it followeth that euery tranſgreſſion of the Law is ſinne, and ſo meaneth the Apoſtle by the word ἀνομία,as wel as by the word ἁμαρτία.For all ſinne is vniuſtice,and all vniuſtice is ſinne: therefore your vulgar Interpretor tranſlateth both the wordes by one Latine word Iniquitas. Yea S. Auguſtine vpon this text,ſaith: Let no man ſay ſinne is one thing, iniquitie is an other thing, I am a ſinneleſſ man, but I am not vniuſt: euery one that doth commit ſinne, doth commit iniquitie, for ſinne is iniquitie, what then ſhal we doe with our ſinnes and iniquities? You ſee plainly S. Auguſtine taketh iniquitie to be as large as ſinne,and all iniquitie to be ſinne,as all ſinne is iniquitie.Beda hath not only the ſame words of S.Auguſtine,but alſo he addeth: All that ſinne are guiltie of preuarication or tranſgreſſion of the Law, that is not only they which contemne the preceptes of the written Law giuen vnto them,but they alſo,which either of infirmitie, or of negligence,or of ignorance,corrupt the innocencie of the naturall Law,which we all receiued in the firſt man that was created. You ſee Beda,not only taketh all to be ſinne, which is iniquitie,and is contrarie to the equitie of Gods Law, but alſo that he compteth euen the corruption of innocencie, which is of infirmitie, to be ſinne,therefore all concupiſcence that is contrarie to the Law of God,which S.Paule expreſly called ſinne, Rom. 7. 7.Which ſeeing the Scripture neuer dereth to be ſinne in them in whom it is pardoned,what hereticall madneſſe is it, to wreſt the Scriptures, to maintaine your owne falſe poſitions? Oecumenius both in this place,& in 1. Iohn. 5. interpreteth iniquitie to be the ſame that ſinne, as ſinne is iniquitie.We muſt know (ſaith he) that ἀνομία,that is,ſinne,is a falling from that which is good, ἀνομία,that is, iniquitie,is a tranſgreſſion of the Law that is giuen.And both of theſe hath this beginning,namely ſinne is a degenerating from that which is good,iniquitie to doe againſt the Law that is ſet. And they agree the one with the other, and are about the ſame thing.For he which ſinneth,erreth from the marke,which is according to nature,and in nature is ſelfe. For the ſcope or marke of mans nature,is to liue according to reaſon, farre from vnreaſonableneſs. Likewiſe, he that doth vniuſtly,offendeth about the Law giuen in nature,being affected intemperately. Therefore the Diſciple of our Lord hath rightly changed the one into the other,or vſed them both for one. And 1.Iohn 5.he ſayth: The Apoſtle maketh a plaine diuiſion of ſinne,as it were from the generall ſinne,and ſaith: All iniquitie is ſinne,whether it be vnto death, or not. So ſayth Beda vpon that place: There is ſo great diuerſitie of ſinnes,that whatſoeuer diſagreeth from the rule of equitie, is numbred among ſinnes. S.Auguſtine cont. Iul. Lib. 5. c. 3. ſayth. Concupiſcence of the fleſh, againſt which the good ſpirite luſteth, is both ſinne, becauſe there is in it diſobedience againſt the gouernment of the minde, and alſo a puniſhment of ſinne, becauſe it was rendred to the merites of the diſobedient,and it is alſo the cauſe of ſinne,by defection of him that conſenteth, or by contagion of him that is borne. You ſee S. Auguſtine ſayth expreſly,it is ſinne, and whereſoeuer he ſeemeth to deny it to be ſinne,he meaneth either becauſe it is ſinne of an other kind, then that whereto conſent is giuen: or els becauſe it is not imputed to them that be regenerated. S. Ambroſe in Apologia Dauid, ſayth nothing to this purpoſe. But in his booke De Paradiſo Cap. 8. he ſayth out of this text: What is ſinne, but a tranſgreſſion of the Lawe of God, and diſobedience of the heauenly commandements? And touching concupiſcence,that it is ſinne, he ſayth in his Comm.vpon the Ep.to the Rom. c. 7. He hath not diſcerned this concupiſcence from ſinne, but ioyned it to,ſignifying, that when there was not ſo much as any ſuſpition, that this thing was not lawfull before God,I knewe (ſayth he) that it is ſinne.

Concupiſcence is ſinne.

Rhem.5. 6. Sinneth not.) Iouinian and Pelagius falſely (as Heretikes vſe to doe) argued vpon theſe wordes,and thoſe that folow verſ.9: the one,that the baptized could ſinne no more: the other,that no man being or remaining iuſt could ſinne. But among many good ſenſes giuen of this place,this ſeemeth moſt agreable, that the Apoſtle ſhould ſay, that mortall ſinne doth not conſiſt together with the grace of God,and therfore can not be committed by a man continuing the ſonne of God, and ſo is the like ſpeache in the 9 verſe folowing to be taken.See S.Hierom li.2 cont.Iouinianum c.1.

Hereticall expoſition of Scriptures. No man in grace ſinneth mortally.

Fulke 5. Vnderſtanding mortall ſinne as you doe,for euery tranſgreſſion that deſerueth death,as euery acte of adulterie,&c.Your expoſition is as hereticall, as any that Iouinian or Pelagius made: whereof it ſhould follow, that Dauid was not the ſonne of God,when he committed adulterie, and conſequently none of the predeſtinate.Therefore Auguſtine and Beda doe briefly expound this text, ſaying: In ſo much as he abideth in him, in ſo much he ſinneth not, but no man abideth in him perfectly, therefore no man is free from ſinne,but in part. Againe,S. Auguſtine ſayth: Hath not this man beleeued which ſinneth? If he haue beleeued,as pertaining to his faith,he ſinneth not. Didymus ſayth: He that conſiſteth in Chriſt which is iuſtice and ſanctification, offendeth not. Auguſtine alſo vpon the 9 verſe,ſayth: There is a certaine ſinne,which he can not commit, which is borne of God, which being not committed,other ſinnes are looſed,which being committed,other ſinnes are confirmed: meaning,that he which is borne of God,can not be void of loue toward his neighbour, though he ſinne particularly againſt the rule of charitie. The ſame meaneth Hierom againſt Iouinian,that in as much as we are the children of God,we neither commit ſinne,nor can commit ſinne,though in reſpect of our frailtie,becauſe our renouation is not perfect,all the children of God doe ſinne often Therefore he ſinneth not according to the Apoſtles meaning, in whom ſinne doth not raigne,although he fall often,and haue need to ſay euery day,forgiue vs our treſpaſſes.

The elect regenerate ſinne not to death how.

Rhem. 6. 7. He that doeth iuſtice.) He doth inculcate this often,that mans true iuſtice or righteouſnes conſiſteth in doing or working iuſtice,and that ſo he is iuſt,and bideth them not to be ſeduced by Heretikes,in this point.

True iuſtice.

Fulke 6. But no man doth iuſtice perfectly,therefore no man is iuſt in Gods ſight by doing iuſtice,but by faith. So ſayth S Auguſtine vpon this text: He ſanctifieth and purifieth vs,as he is holy or pure,he is holy by eternitie,we are holy or pure by faith.We are iuſt,as he is iuſt,but he is iuſt in vnchangeable perpetuitie,we are iuſt by beleeuing in him,whom we haue not ſeene,that we may at length ſee him. And euen when our iuſtice ſhal be perfect,when we ſhal be made equal to the Iuſtification by workes.

Angels

Angels, neither ſhall we be equall to him &c. Oecumenius vpon this text ſaith. God prouiding for his creature, being made inſtice and ſanctification, was manifeſted in the world, that he might take away the workes of the deuil which is ſinne.

Rhem. 8. Sinneth from ỹ beginning.) The deuil was created holy and in grace, and not in ſinne: but he fell of his owne free will from God. Therefore theſe words, from ỹ beginning, may be interpreted thus, from the beginning of ſinne, and ſo the Apoſtle will ſay, The deuil committed the firſt ſinne. So S. Auguſtine li. 11. de ci. Dei. c. 15. expounded it. The moſt ſimple meaning ſeemeth to be, that he ſinned from the beginning of the world, not taking the beginning preciſely for the firſt inſtant or moment of the creation, but ſtraight vpon the beginning, as it muſt needes alſo be taken in S. Iohns Goſpel c. 8. 44. How the deuil ſinned from the beginning.

Rhem. 7. 22. We ſhall receiue, becauſe.) Let the Proteſtants be aſhamed to ſay, that we obtaine all of God by onely fayth, the Apoſtle here attributing it to the keeping of Gods commandements. Note here alſo that Gods commandements are not impoſſible to be kept, but were then, and are now obſerued of good men. Not onely fayth.

Fulke. 7. The Apoſtle doth not attribute the graunting of our requeſts to ỹ merite of our workes, or keeping of Gods cõmandements, but ſheweth ỹ charitie, or the keeping of Gods commandements is inſeperable from faith, by which we haue confidence to be heard in our prayers for Ieſus Chriſts ſake. Therefore Beda ſaith vpon this text: When Iohn had ſaid, whatſoeuer we ſhall aske, we ſhall receiue of him, becauſe we keepe his commandements: he addeth immediatly. And this is his commandement, that we beleeue in the name of his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt, and loue one an other, as he hath giuen vs commandement. Firſt he ſetteth downe his commandement in the ſingular number, and then conſequently he addeth two commandements: namely faith and loue, becauſe theſe two cannot be ſeperated one from the other. Merite.

Where you note further, that Gods commandements are no: impoſſible to be kept, but were then and now obſerued of good men. We confeſſe they are not impoſſible to be kept in ſome meaſure, but perfectly there was neuer any that kept them, nor euer any that could keepe them, but onely Ieſus Chriſt. S. Hierom againſt the Pelagians ſayth: God commanded things poſſible, and that I confeſſe: but all theſe poſſible things euery one of vs cannot haue, not through weakneſſe of nature, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſclander God, but through wearineſſe of mind, which cannot haue all vertues together and alwayes. Cont. Pel. li. 1. S. Auguſtine ſaith: No man in this life hath been, is, or ſhalbe of perfect inſtice. De ſp. & lit. c. 35. Againe: The greater our knowledge is, ſo much the greater ſhalbe our loue: Therefore looke how much there wanteth now to our loue, ſo much we muſt beleeue to be wanting to perfect inſtice cap. 36. The commandements impoſſible.

CHAP. IIII.

We may not beleeue all that boaſt of the ſpirit, but trie them, whether they teach Catholike articles of the faith (namely the incarnation of Chriſt:) whoſe doctrine be not worldly, and themſelues diſobedient hearers of the Apoſtles. 7 We muſt loue one an other, conſidering the exceeding loue of God in ſending his ſonne to ſaue vs. 17 An argument of perfect charitie: ie, if we haue nothing in our conſcience to feare in the day of iudgement. 19 And an argument that we loue God ie, if we loue our brethren.

MY deereſt, ‖ beleeue not euery ſpirit, but ‖ proue the ſpirites if they be of God: becauſe many falſe prophetes are gone out into the world.

2 In this is the ſpirite of God knowen, ‖ euery ſpirit that confeſſeth IESVS Chriſt to haue come in fleſh, is of God:

3 And euery ſpirit ‖ that diſſolueth IESVS, is not of God: and this is [c] Antichriſt, of whõ you haue heard that he commeth, and nowe he is in the world.

[c] τὸ τοῦ ἀντιχρίστου.

4 You are of God, litle children, & haue ouercome him. becauſe greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the world.

5 They are of the world: therefore of the world they ſpeake, & ỹ world heareth them.

Io. 8. 47. 10, 27.

6 We are of God. *He ỹ knoweth God, heareth vs. he that is not of God, heareth vs not. ‖ in this we know the ſpirit of truth, and the ſpirit of errour.

7 My deereſt, let vs loue one an other: becauſe charitie is of God. And euery one that loueth, is borne of God, and knoweth God.

The Epiſtle vpon the firſt Sunday after Pentecoſt. Io. 3, 16.

8 He that loueth not, knoweth not God: becauſe God is charitie.

9 *In this hath ỹ charitie of God appeared in vs, becauſe God hath ſent his only begotten ſonne into ỹ world, that we may liue by him.

10 In this is charitie: not as though we haue loued him, but becauſe he hath loued vs, Deerely beloued, beleeue not euery ſpirit, but proue the ſpirites whether they are of God, or not: for many falſe prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby ſhall ye knowe the ſpirit of God: Euery ſpirite that confeſſeth that Ieſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh, is of God:

3 And euery ſpirite which confeſſeth not that Ieſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh, is not of God, and this is that ſpirit of Antichriſt, of whom ye haue heard howe that he ſhould come: and euen nowe already is he in the world.

4 Litle childrẽ, ye are of God, and haue ouercome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the world.

5 They are of the world, therefore ſpeake they of the world, and the world heareth them.

*6 We are of God, he that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe we the ſpirit of veritie, and the ſpirite of errour. Iohn 3. 16.

7 Dearely beloued, let vs loue one another, for loue commeth of God: and euery one that loueth, is borne of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loueth not, knoweth not God: for God is loue.

*9 * In this appeareth the loue of God to vs-ward, becauſe God hath ſẽt his only begottẽ ſonne into the world, that we might liue through him.* Iohn 8. 47.

10 Herein is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs, and ſent his ſonne to be the a-vs,& ſent his ſõne a propitiatiõ for our ſinnes.

11 My deereſt, if God hath ſo loued vs: we alſo ought to loue one an other.

12 *God ‡no man hath ſeene at any time. If we loue one an other, God abideth in vs, and his charitie in vs is perfited.

13 In this we know that we abide in him, and he in vs: becauſe he of his Spirit hath giuen to vs.

14 And we haue ſeene, and doe teſtifie, that the Father hath ſent his Sonne the Sauiour of the world.

15 Whoſoeuer ſhall confeſſe that IESVS is the Sonne of God, God abideth in him, and he in God.

16 And we haue knowen and haue beleeued the charitie, which God hath in vs. God is charitie: and he that abideth in charitie, abideth in God, and God in him.

17 In this is charitie perfited with vs, ‖that we may haue cõfidence in the day of iudgement: becauſe as he is, we alſo are in ỳ world.

18 ‖Feare is not in charitie: but perfect charitie caſteth out feare, becauſe feare hath painefulneſſe. and he that feareth, is not perfect in charitie.

19 Let vs therefore loue God, becauſe God firſt hath loued vs.

20 If any man ſhall ſay, that I loue God: & hateth his brother, he is a lier. For he that loueth not his brother whom he ſeeth: God whom he ſeeth not, howe can he loue?

21 *And this commandement we haue from God: that he which loueth God, loue alſo his brother.

‡No man in this life, nor with corporall eies, can ſee the proper eſſence or ſubſtance of the Deitie. See S. Auguſt. ad Paulin. de videndo Deo. ep. 112.

Io.13,34. 15,12.

greement for our ſinnes.

11 Dearely beloued, if God ſo loued vs, we ought alſo to loue one another.

*12 No man hath ſeene God at any time. If we loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfect in vs. 1.Io.1.12. 1.tim.6,16.

13 Hereby knowe we that we dwell in him, and he in vs: becauſe he hath giuen vs of his ſpirite.

14 And we haue ſeene, and doe teſtifie that the father ſent his ſonne to be the ſauiour of the world.

15 Who ſoeuer confeſſeth that Ieſus is the ſonne of God, in him dwelleth God, and he in God.

16 And we haue knowen and beleeued the loue that God hath to vs. God is loue, and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein is the loue perfect in vs, that we ſhoulde haue boldneſſe in the day of iudgement: For as he is, euen ſo are we in this world.

18 There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue caſteth out feare: for feare hath painefulneſſe. He that feareth, is not perfect in loue.

19 We loue him, for he loued vs firſt.

20 If a man ſay, I loue God, and yet hate his brother, he is a liar: For howe can he that loueth not his brother whom he hath ſeene, loue God whom he hath not ſeene?

*21 And this commaundement haue we of him, that he which loueth God, ſhould loue his brother alſo. Ioh.13.24. and 15.12.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. Beleeue not euery ſpirit.) That is, Receiue we euery doctrine of ſuch as boaſt themſelues to haue the ſpirit. For there be many falſe prophets, that is to ſay, Heretikes, which ſhall goe out of the Church, and chalenge the ſpirit, and vaunt of Gods word, Scripture, and Goſpel, which in deede be ſeducers. Heretical boaſting of the ſpirit.

Rhem. 1. 1. Proue the ſpirites.) It is not meant by this place, as the Proteſtants would haue it, that euery particular perſon ſhould of himſelfe examine, trie, or iudge who is a true or falſe doctor, and which is true or falſe doctrine. But the Apoſtle here would euery one to diſcerne theſe diuerſities of ſpirites, by taking knowledge of them to whom God hath giuen the gift of diſcerning ſpirites and doctrines (which S. Paul expreſſe ſaith is giuen but to ſome, and not to euery one, 1.Cor.12.) and by obeying the Church of God, to whom Chriſt hath giuen the Spirit of truth. And this is only the ſure way to proue the ſpirites and doctrines of theſe dayes. And all they that would bring vs from our paſtors and the Churches iudgement, to our owne priuate triall, ſeeke nothing elſe but to driue vs to miſerable vncertaintie in all our beleefe, as Caluin doeth, who vpon this place ſayth, that priuate men may examine the generall Councels doctrines. The Church only, not euery priuate man, hath to proue and diſcerne ſpirites. Io.14.16. Caluine.

Fulke. 1. The Apoſtle meaneth, that not onely the whole Church together, but that euery man for himſelfe, though not of himſelfe, or by himſelfe onely, but by ſuch rules as the ſcripture ſetteth downe, ought to trye whether the ſpirit be of God, before he giue credit to it. But you obiect that S. Paul ſayth expreſly, the gift of diſcerning ſpirites and doctrines, is not giuen to all, but to ſome. And I anſwere, that miraculous gift is giuē to none that I know in theſe dayes, more then the gift of healing, of interpretation of tongues, &c. But here the Apoſtle deliuereth a generall doctrine that concerneth euery one of the faithfull, as he will auoide ſeducing and deceites of falſe teachers. Where you adde, euery one muſt proue the ſpirites by obeying the Church, it is a very vncerteyne tryall, when the queſtion is, where & with whom the Church is: for all heretikes make as great claime to the Church, as to the trueth. But you would make ſure worke, that men without further tryall ſhould receiue and obey you, becauſe you ſay you are the Church and in the Church, you onely haue the gift of diſcerning ſpirites and doctrines. But they that would haue euery man to trye the ſpirites by ſuch rules as the Apoſtle ſetteth downe, doe not bring men from their paſtors, and the Churches iudgement: but to approue the iudgement of their paſtors (if they be true paſtors) and of the Church, if it be the true Church. Yea they ſeeke to bring all men to ſuch certeyntie of their beleefe, ỳ they may know it is grounded vpon the holy ſcriptures. Tryall of ſpirites.

And

And if the decrees of Councels were not to be examined by this rule alſo, we ſhould (as Caluine ſayth) accept many errours in ſtead of truethes: ſeeing many Councels both prouinciall & generall haue erred. And what company of men ſince the Apoſtles, are of greater credite then the Apoſtles themſelues? yet the holy Ghoſt commendeth them in the Actes of the Apoſtles, which examined the doctrine of the Apoſtles by the Scriptures Actes 17.11.

Rhem.2. 2. Euery ſpirit that confeſſeth.) The Apoſtle ſpeaketh according to that time, and for that part of Chriſtian doctrine which then was ſpecially to be confeſſed, taught, and maintayned againſt certaine wicked Heretikes, Cerinthus, Ebion, and the like, that taught wickedly againſt the perſon and both natures of Chriſt IESVS. The Apoſtle therefore giueth the faithfull people this token to knowe the true teachers of thoſe dayes from the falſe. Not that this marke would ſerue for all times, or in caſe of all other falſe doctrines, but that is was then a neceſſarie note. As if a good Catholike writer, Paſtor, or parents would warne all their owne in theſe dayes to giue eare onely to ſuch teachers as acknowledge Chriſt our Sauiour to be really preſent, and ſacrificed in the B. Maſſe, and that all ſuch are true preachers and of God, the reſt to be of the Deuill, or to be counted the ſpirit of Antichriſt. Which ſpirit of Antichriſt (he ſaith) was come euen then, and is no doubt much more nowe in all heretikes, all being precurſors of that great Antichriſt which ſhall come towards the later end. To confeſſe or deny any article which the Cath. Church teacheth, is at all times a certaine marke of Catholike or heretike.

Fulke.2. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh for all times, giuing a generall note to diſcerne all falſe doctrine concerning Chriſt, which eyther is in denial of his perſon, or of his offices. And this marke will ſerue for al times, and in caſe of all falſe doctrine, which is againſt the true fayth of Ieſus Chriſt. And by this all Chriſtians may diſcerne the Pope to be Antichriſt, and the Papiſtes to be Heretikes. Becauſe that although they confeſſe in wordes the perſon of Chriſt, (which diuers Heretikes denied,) yet they denie the offices of Chriſt, for which end he did become that perſon God and man: namely, to be our onely ſpiritual king, prophet & prieſt, ſauiour, mediator, aduocate, redeemer, iuſtice, ſanctification, wiſdome &c. And ſo doth S. Auguſtine vnderſtand this marke, to conuince all Heretikes and Schiſmatikes, becaule not onely the perſon that came, but the ende for which he came muſt be conſidered, or els all Heretikes will after a ſort, in tongue and wordes confeſſe, that Ieſus Chriſt came in the fleſh. But let vs inquire (ſaith S. Auguſtine) wherefore Chriſt came in the fleſh, and we ſhall finde who they are which denieth him to haue come in the fleſh: for if you giue heede to their tongues, you ſhall heare many Heretikes confeſſing that Chriſt came in the fleſh, but the truethconſenteth them wherefore Chriſt came in the fleſh &c. The like in effect ſaith Didymus vpon this text. And the text is plaine that the Apoſtle teacheth to diſcerne the ſpirit of Antichriſt, which was not proper to his age, but was to be reuealed after his time. Therefore your example of him that teacheth Chriſt to be really preſent and ſacrificed in the maſſe, is a note to diſcerne an Antichriſtian teacher, not a true ſpirite: for it is both againſt the trueth of his body, and alſo againſt the dignitie of his eternall prieſthod. The Pope is Antichriſt, the Papiſtes Heretikes by this rule.

Rhem.3. 3. That diſſolueth.) To diſſolue, looſe, or ſeparate IESVS a ſunder, was proper to all thoſe olde Heretikes that taught eyther againſt his Diuinitie, or Humanitie, or the Vnitie of his perſon, being of two natures, as Cerinthus, Ebion, Neſtorius, Eutyches, Manes or Manichæus, Cerdon, Apelles, Apollinaris and the like. And this is one place by which we may ſee that the common Greeke copies be not euer authenticall, and that our olde approued tranſlation may not alwayes be examined by the Greeke that nowe is, which the Proteſtants onely followe: but that is is to be preſuppoſed, when our old Latin text differeth plainely from the Greeke, that in olde time eyther all or the more approued Greeke reading was otherwiſe, and that often the ſaid Greeke was corrupted then or ſince by Heretikes or otherwiſe. For of the Greekes, S. Irenæus lib.3. cap.18: among the Latine fathers S. Auguſtine tract 6. in fine, S. Leo ep.10. cap.5, and Venerable Bede did reade as we doe, and this reading maketh more againſt the ſaide Heretikes, then that which the common Greeke nowe hath, to wit, euery ſpirit that confeſſeth not Chriſt to haue come in fleſh, is not of God, which is alſo in effect ſaid before ver.2. And that therefore it was corrupted and altered by Heretikes, ſee the wordes of Socrates alſo a Greeke writer, very agreeable to this purpoſe. Neſtorius (faithhe) being eloquent by nature, which is often in Heretikes, accounted him ſelfe therefore learned, and diſdayned to ſtudie the olde interpreters, counting him ſelfe better then them all: being ignorant that in S. Iohns Catholike epiſtle the olde (Greeke) copies had, EVERY ONE THAT DISSOLVETH IESVS, IS NOT OF GOD. So ſayth he, adding moreouer that ſuch as would ſeparate the diuinitie from the diſpenſation of Chriſtes humanitie, tooke out of the olde copies this ſenſe. for which the olde expoſitours noted that theſe which would looſe IESVS, had corrupted this Epiſtle. See alſo the Tripartite lib. 12. cap.4. Many old heretikes that diſſolued Chriſt. The Greeke text corrupted by olde heretikes. Li.7.c.33.

Fulke.3. It cannot be proued by this place, that the Greeke text which here differeth from the Latine, is corrupted. And although Socrates report that Neſtorius did thus corrupt it, yet his report is proued falſe, becauſe Cyprian, who was almoſt two hundred yeeres before Neſtorius, did reade as the Greeke copies are nowe, as I haue ſhewed in anſwere to your Preface Sect.36. So did Didymus Alexand. in his comment vpon this text. Howe Irenæus did reade it is not certeyne, becauſe his interpretour being of latter time doeth followe for the moſt part the vulgar Latine text in his allegations of the ſcripture: S. Auguſtine readeth according to the Greeke and the Latine alſo. Didymus alſo interpreteth after both: for Leo and Bede that were of later times, it is not ſo materiall if they follow the vulgar Latine, the ſenſe whereof is conteyned in the Greeke. The Greeke text not corrupted.

Rhem.4. 6. In this we knowe.) This is the moſt ſure and generall marke to knowe the true ſpirites and prophets from the falſe: that thoſe which be of God, will heare and obey their Apoſtles and lawfull paſtors ſucceeding the Apoſtles, and ſubmit themſelues to the Church of God: the other, that be not of God, will not heare eyther Apoſtle, paſtor, or Church, but be their owne iudges. A ſure marke of true or falſe teachers.

Fulke.4. They ſucceede not the Apoſtles that teache not their doctrine, but they are true Prophets which are able to iuſtifie all that they teach by the writings of the Apoſtles, and teache the ſame doctrine that the Apoſtles taught. Contrariwiſe, they heare not the Apoſtles, whoſe doctrine agreeth not with the ſcripture of the Apoſtles. And by this marke wee knowe vndoubtedly, that the Papiſtes are ſpirites of errour and not of trueth. Succeſſion.

Rhem.5. 17. That we may haue confidence.) Confidence called in Latine Fiducia, is neither all one with faith, nor a perſuaſion infallible that maketh a man no leſſe ſecure and certaine of his ſaluation, then of the things that we are bounde to Against the Proteſtants beleeue as the Proteſtants falſely teach: but it is onely a hope well corrob. rated, confirmed, and ſtrengthened vpon the promiſes and grace of God, and the parties merites. And the wordes both folowing and going before, proue alſo euidently againſt the Proteſtants, that our confidence and hope in the day of iudgement dependeth not onely vpon our apprehenſion of Chriſtes merites by fayth, or vpon his grace and mercie, but alſo vpon our conformitie to Chriſt in this life, in charitie and good workes. And that is the doctrine of S. Peter when he ſaid, Labour, that by good workes you may make ſure your vocation and election. and S. Pauls meaning, when he ſaid, I haue fought a good fight, there is layd vp for me a crowne of iuſtice, which our Lord will render to me in that day, a iuſt iudge.

ſpeciall faith and preſumptuous ſecuritie of ſaluation 2. Pet. 1. 10. 2. Tim. 4. 7.

Fulke. 5. Confidence whereof the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh, is a neceſſarie effect of iuſtifying faith, whereof the Apoſtle ſayth: being iuſtified by fayth, we haue peace with God by our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, by whom we haue acceſſe through fayth &c. Rom. 5. 1. For want of which iuſtifying fayth and confidence, the deuils, although they beleeue, yet they doe tremble Iac. 2. And by this we ought to be as certeine of our ſaluation, as of any other thing that God hath promiſed, or which we are bound to beleeue. Seeing the ſame trueth is in the performance of Gods promiſes, concerning our ſaluation, which is in the report of things done by God or Chriſt toward our ſaluation. Therefore to doubt thereof in reſpect of Gods trueth, is blaſphemous againſt ỹ immutabilitie of his trueth. And therefore though the godly be aſſaulted of their infirmitie and of Satans temptation, to doubt often times of their ſaluation, yet they muſt oppoſe the certeyntie of Gods trueth againſt ſuch aſſaultes, and holding faſt the promiſes of God, aſſure them ſelues of the effect of them. But with you it is onely an hope, whereby you meane an vncerteyne hope that may be deceiued, and confound him that ſo hopeth.

Confidence and certeyntie of ſaluation.

This may well be the hope of the Papiſtes, but the hope of Chriſtians is moſt certeyne, and confoundeth not, becauſe the loue of God is powred forth into our hearts by his ſpirite which he hath giuen vs Rom. 5. 5. But to examine the other part of your definition, you ſay it is well corroborated, confirmed, and ſtrengthened, vpon the promiſes and grace of God, and the parties merites We ſee now what maketh the vnſufficiencie, what maketh the vncerteyntie, not the promiſe or grace of God: (for the giftes of God are without repentance) but the parties merites, according to which the promiſe and grace of God (with you) is effectuall. And ſo you denie the promiſes of God to be founded in his meere grace, and his grace alſo you deny to be grace, ſeeing it is not effectuall but by merite of workes: for grace is no grace (ſayth the Apoſtle) if it be of workes Rom. 11. 6. So are you no leſſe enemies of the grace of God, then the Pelagians. And here we ſee what a poyſon of true fayth mens merites are, that though a mans hope be well corrob. rated, confirmed, ſtrengthened, not vpon them onely, but vpon them and vpon God, promiſes and grace, yet it is but onely an hope, and no certeyntie or aſſurance of ſaluation. But the wordes both folowing and going before, proue euidently againſt the Proteſtants, that our confidence and hope in the day of iudgement, dependeth not onely vpon apprehenſion of Chriſtes merites by fayth, or vpon his grace and mercie, but alſo vpon our conformitie to Chriſt in this life, in charitie and good workes. Verely if it depend not onely vpon Chriſtes grace, but vpon our workes, it dependeth not at all vpon his grace: If of grace (ſayth the Apoſtle) it is not at all of workes: for els grace is become no grace, if of workes, it is not at all of grace, for els worke ſhould be no worke, Rom. 11. 6. Wherefore except we will exclude the grace of Chriſt altogether, we muſt holde that our confidence and hope dependeth onely vpon his grace and mercie. My whole hope (ſayth S. Auguſtine) is nothing els but thy exceeding great mercie. Confeſſ. li. 10. c. 29. What ſayth the Apoſtle then in this place againſt the Proteſtants? He ſayth that by this, charitie is perfected in vs, that as he is, ſuch ſhould we be in the world, that we may haue confidence in the day of iudgement: becauſe charitie is an argument of fayth, by which we conclude that we haue true fayth, as we may conclude the cauſe by the neceſſarie effectes thereof. Not that this imperfect charitie which we haue in this life, is a cauſe of this ſecuritie or confidence, but an argument of faith, by which we haue confidence in the meere grace and mercie of God, exhibited to vs in Chriſt, and not in the merite of our vnperfect charitie. And ſo meaneth S. Peter, that we ſhould make ſure our election and vocation by good workes, that is, confirme our fayth of Gods election by the effectes of fayth, and ſo make it ſure to our ſelues and our owne knowledge, which is moſt certeyne of it ſelfe, and is of meere grace and not of workes, as the Apoſtle ſaid Rom. 11. 6.

Neither doth S. Paul truſt in the merite of his workes, to receiue a crowne of glorie, but in the certeyntie of Gods promiſe, which he is moſt iuſt to performe, as he is moſt gratious in promiſing. Our conformitie therefore with Chriſt in this life in charitie and good workes, though farre from compariſon in equalitie or perfection of Iuſtice, is a thing neceſſarily adioyned to our ſaluation, but no cauſe thereof, being a fruite of the ſpirite of adoption, which is giuen vs according to Gods election and predeſtination, as S. Paul teſtifieth ſaying: Whom he hath foreknowen he hath predeſtinated to be conformable to the image of his ſonne Rom. 8. 29. And thoſe are the children of God, which haue not receiued the ſpirite of bondage to feare, but the ſpirite of adoption, to crie boldly, Abba, Father, and to be aſſured of the heauenly inheritance with Chriſt, with whom they are conformable in ſuffering, that they may be partakers with him in glorie Rom. 8. 15. Therefore the Apoſtle in the 13. 14. and 15. verſes before, ſheweth the cauſe whereupon this confidence is grounded: namely, the ſpirite of adoption and fayth in the merites of Chriſt in this verſe, and that which followeth, he ſheweth the effectes of the ſame ſpirite and fayth, by which we may knowe that we haue the ſpirite and true fayth, and ſo haue confidence in the day of iudgement.

Rhem. 6. 18. Feare is not in charitie.) The Heretikes very falſely vnderſtand this place ſo, that Chriſtian godly men ought to haue no doubt, miſtruſt, or feare of hell and damnation. Which is moſt euidently againſt the Scriptures, commanding euery where vnto vs the awe and feare of God and his iudgements. Feare him (ſaith our Sauiour Matth. 10. that can caſt body and ſoule into hell. And Pſal. 118. Pearce my fleſh with thy feare. Which feare of Gods iudgements cauſed S. Paul and all good men to chaſtiſe their bodies, leſt they ſhould be reprobate and damned. And the wiſe man for this cauſe affirmeth him to be happie, that is euer feareſull. And holy Iob ſayth, I feared all my workes. And the Apoſtle, With feare and trembling worke your ſaluation. Which kind of feare is euen in the iuſteſt men and moſt full of charitie, conſiſting well with the ſame vertue, and is called Filialis timor, becauſe it is ſuch as the good childe ought to haue towarde his father.

The feare of God in iuſt men, conſiſteth with charitie. 1. Cor. 9. Pro. 28. Iob 6. 9. Phil. 2.

But there is a kinde of feare which ſtandeth not with charitie, and is cleane againſt hope alſo, that which bringeth ſuch perplexitie and anxietie of conſcience, that it induceth a man to miſtruſt or deſpaire of Gods mercies. That ſeruile feare alſo which maketh a man ofte to leaue ſinning and to doe the externall workes of iuſtice: not for any loue or delight he hath in God or his lawes, but onely for feare of damnation, though it be not il in it ſelf, but very profitable, as that which leadeth toward the loue of God, yet it ſtandeth not with charitie neither, but is daily more and more leſſened, and at length quite driuen out by charitie. Of theſe kinde of feares then the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, and (as ſome expound) of the feare of men alſo, of which our Sauiour ſaith, Mat. 10. Feare not them that kil the body. What feare agreeth not with charitie. Seruile feare is not il.

Fulke. 6. The very context doth ſhew, that feare is contrary to confidence in the day of iudgement, whereof he ſpeaketh in the former verſe. And ſo doth S. Auguſtine vnderſtand it, ſaying: Now of the ſame confidence, ſee what he ſaith: Whereby is charitie vnderſtoode to be perfect? feare is not in charitie: What ſhall we then ſay of him which hath begonne to feare the day of iudgement? If charitie were perfect in him, he ſhould not feare. Neuertheleſſe, he ſheweth this feare to be firſt neceſſarie, as to make way for charitie to enter, as a briſtle or nedle doeth for a threed, which threed being entred, driueth out the briſtle. He acknowledgeth alſo the continuall feare & reuerence of God, which is neuer ſeparated from Gods children, and very well agreeth with charitie, whereunto pertaine theſe textes of Scripture, which without cauſe you heape vp againſt vs, as though we denied that feare to be neceſſary for all Gods children, whereas we ſpeake of that feare which bringeth perplexitie and anxietie of conſcience, which is contrary to confidence in the day of iudgement. For he that is not aſſured that his ſinnes are forgiuen by the merites of Ieſus Chriſt, can haue no quietnes of conſcience, or confidence in the day of iudgement. But he that by Gods ſpirit, through a liuely faith (which by vnfained charitie he knoweth that he hath) is aſſured of the remiſſion of his ſinnes by the merits of Chriſtes death, and that the righteouſnes of Chriſt is giuen to him by God, whereby he is iuſtified before God: he trembleth not at the day of iudgement, in which he is ſure he can not be condemned, but loueth & deſireth the comming of Chriſt vnto iudgement. Wherein he is certaine to receiue the crowne of eternall glory due to the iuſtice of Chriſt, and freely giuen to him by God, whom as an obedient childe he loueth and his brethren, as he hath commanded. Contrarywiſe, he that trembleth at the iudgement of Chriſt as the deuils doe, neither loueth God vnfainedly, whome he feareth as the deuils feare him, and not as his children feare him, nor hath a true and liuely faith, of which commeth true and perfect loue which caſteth out feare, that hath torment in it. And here is to be marked, that the Apoſtle in this and ſuch like places by perfect charitie meaneth not that which hath no defect, but that which is vnfained and accompliſhed in the effects of loue, and is like to the loue wherewith God loueth vs. Which hath ſhewed it ſelfe in deede, by giuing his Sonne to die for vs, ſo that the compariſon (as Auguſtine often ſheweth vpon the like textes) is not in quantitie or equalitie, but in ſimilitude and qualitie only. For els no charitie can be perfect, no not the charitie of Angels, as S. Auguſtine ſheweth, in Ioan. Tr. 4. Popiſh feare.

They that loue God, muſt loue his naturall ſonne IESVS, and his ſonnes by adoption, and keepe his commandements, which to the regenerate are light. 4 But not, vnles they continue in the Catholike faith, namely of this article, that IESVS *is the ſonne of God, and therfore able to giue vs life euerlaſting, 14 and al our petitions, 16 and our prairs for al our brethren that ſinne not vnto death, dying in their mortal ſinnes by impenitence. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 1. 3. His commandements are not heauie.) How can the Proteſtants ſay that Gods cõmandements can not poſſibly be kept in this life, ſeing the Apoſtle ſaith, they be not heauie: an Chriſt ſaith, his yoke is ſweete, & his burden light? See for the full vnderſtanding of this Text, S. Auguſtine de perfectione iuſtitiæ c. 10. The Heretikes in fauour of their fleſhly libertie, rather make Gods His commaundements are not greuous: then, are not heauie.

The commandements poſſible to be kept. Mat.11.30. Heret: naua-tion.

Fulke. 1. Seeing our Engliſh word grieuous commeth of the latin word grauis, which is not only weightie, but alſo troublesome, it better anſwereth both the Greeke & Latine, then the word heauie, which is properly that which is of great weight. And the ſame worde bein⁹ both in the Greeke and Latine 1. Cor. 10.v.18. You your ſelues tranſlate Gra, his epiſtles are ſore and valorous, but in effect there is no great difference. Wee acknowledge that Gods Commaundements are not heauie to him that is borne of God, which ouercommeth the worlde by faith. Otherwiſe the yoke of the Lawe, is ſuch a burden (as the Apoſtle confeſſeth) as neither we nor our fathers were able to beare, but beleeue to be ſaued by the grace of our Lorde Ieſus Chriſt. Actes 15. 10. 11.

Cauillers.

The Commandements are not heauie.

Who

Who hauing taken away the curſe of the Lawe, and ſatiſfied for our tranſgreſſions of the Lawe, hath alſo giuen vs grace to loue the Lawe and commaundements of God, and in ſome weake meaſure to obſerue them. So that the curſe being taken away, our tranſgreſſions anſwered in Chriſt, and our hearts framed by his grace to loue his commaundements, and ſome ſtrength giuen vs to keepe them, they are not heauie, they are not burdenous or grieuous, and the yoke of Chriſt is ſweete, and his burden light vnto vs. Who chargeth vs not with the vntollerable burthen of the Lawe, but eaſeth and refreſheth all them that labour and are heauie loden with it. And therefore the Proteſtants ſtill affirme, that in ſuch perfection as the iuſtice of God requireth, Gods commaundements cannot poſſibly be fulfilled in this life by any man, except our Sauiour Chriſt. Yet to him whoſe ſinnes are pardoned by his grace, and he is borne againe by his ſpirit, his Commandements are not burdenous. Not becauſe they can be perfectly fulfilled, but becauſe ſtrength is giuen to keepe them in part, and the tranſgreſſions of frailtie, are pardoned through Chriſt. S. Auguſtine de perfect. iuſtit. whither you ſend vs for the vnderſtanding of this text, ſaith: For none other cauſe the Scripture affirmeth that Gods commaundements are not heauie, but that the ſoule which feeleth them to be heauie, may vnderſtand that it hath not yet receiued ſtrength, to which the Lords precepts are ſuch as they are commended, namely light and ſweete, and that he might pray with groning of his will, that he may obteine the gift that maketh them eaſie. Againe, they are cõmended not to be heauie, that to whom they are heauie, he may vnderſtand that he hath not yet receiued the gift by which they may not be heauie, and that he ſhould not thinke hee doeth fulfill them, when he doeth them ſo, that they be heauie. For God loueth a cheerefull giuer, and yet when he feeleth them to be heauie, he may not be broken in deſpairing. But be compelled to ſeeke, to aske, to knocke. Therefore let vs heare in theſe teſtimonies which he hath ſet downe afterward, God commending his precepts not to be heauie, that the cõmandements of God (ſaith Caleſtius the Pelagian heretike) are not onely not impoſſible, but alſo not heauie or burthenous. Then follow thoſe textes in order which the Papiſts abuſe againſt vs, as their fathers the Pelagians did againſt S. Auguſtine, among which this text is one. To which S. Auguſtine thus anſwereth: If they did vnderſtand that in Deuteronomie (as the Apoſtle Paul alleadgeth it) that with the heart men beleeue to iuſtice, with the mouth confeſſion is made to ſaluation: becauſe the whole haue no neede of the Phiſition but the ſicke, they ſhould be admoniſhed by this teſtimonie of the Apoſtle Iohn, which for this purpoſe he hath placed laſt. This is the charitie of God, &c. that to the loue of God the Commandement is not heauie, which is not powred forth into our heartes but by the holy Ghoſt yet to the will of man ly giuing to which more then they ought, they are ignorant of the iuſtice of God, which loue yet ſhall then be perfected, when all painefull feare is departed.

Rhem. 2. 7. Three which giue teſtimonie.) *An expreſſe place for the diſtinction of three perſons, and the vnitie of nature and eſſence in the B. Trinitie: againſt the Arians and other like Heretikes, who haue in diuers ages found themſelues ſo preſſed with theſe plaine Scriptures, that they haue (as it is thought) altered and corrupted the text both in Greeke and Latin many waies: euen as the Proteſtants handle thoſe texes that make againſt them. But becauſe we are not now troubled with Arianiſme ſo much as with Caluiniſme, we neede not ſtand vpon the varietie of reading or expoſitions of this paſſage. See S. Slander.

Rhem. 3. 16. A ſinne to death.) A ſinne to death is another thing then a mortal ſinne, for it is that mortal ſinne onely, wherof a man is neuer penitent before his death, or in which he continueth til death, & dieth in it. I affirme (ſaith S. Auguſtine de corrept. & grat. c. 12) that a ſinne to death is to leaue faith working by charitie euen til death. So likewiſe in the words before, a ſinne not to death, is not that which we call a venial ſinne, but any that a man committeth and continueth not therein til death.

What is a ſinne to death.

Fulke 3. The Apoſtle meaneth of ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, for which no man ought to pray, becauſe Chriſt hath teſtified that it is irremiſſible. And although final impenitencie be alſo a ſinne to death & foloweth ỹ other, yet the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not thereof in this place, but of ſuch a ſinne as we ſee a man cõmit in this life. Beda therefore thus writeth vpon this text: Here ariſeth a great queſtion, becauſe S. Iohn ſheweth plainly, that there are certaine brethren for whom we are not cõmanded to pray, whereas our Lord commandeth vs to pray euen for our perſecuters, which queſtion cannot otherwiſe be anſwered, except we cõfeſſe that there are ſome ſinnes in the brethren, which are more grieuous then the perſecution of enemies. Therefore the ſinne of a brother to death, is when after the acknowledging of God, which is giuen him by the grace of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, a man doth oppugne or fight againſt the brotherhod, & is ſtirred and tyſſed by the firebrands of enuie, againſt the grace it ſelf, wherby he is reconciled to God. A ſinne not vnto death is, if any man hath not eſtranged his loue frõ his brother, but by ſome infirmitie of minde hath not ſhewed the offices due to the brotherhode. Wherefore our Lord ſaid vpon the Croſſe, Father forgiue them, becauſe they know not what they doe. For hauing not beene made partakers of the grace of the holy Ghoſt, they had not yet entred into the fellowſhip of the holy brotherhod. And bleſſed Stephen prayeth for them by whome he was ſtoned, Becauſe they had not yet beleeued Chriſt, neither did they yet fight againſt the common grace. But the Apoſtle Paul for this cauſe I beleeue, prayeth not for Alexander, becauſe he had beene a brother and had ſinned to death, that is by the firebrands of enuie, he had fought againſt the brotherhod. But for them which had not broken of their loue, but fainted through feare, he prayeth that it may be forgiuen them. For ſo he ſaith: Alexander the Coppерſmith hath done me much euill, the Lord reward him according to his workes. Whom then alſo auoyde, for he hath greatly reſiſted our ſayings. Afterward he addeth them for whom he prayeth, ſaying thus: In my firſt defence no man ſtoode with me, but all forſooke me, let it not be imputed to them. Sinne vnto death alſo, may be taken for ſinne continuing to death, for which he forbiddeth any man to aske. For that ſinne which is not corrected in this life, the pardon therof is in vaine asked after death. But if we looke diligently to thoſe words that follow, the former ſenſe ſeemeth to agree more to the tenor of this text. And this former ſenſe in the very ſame wordes is giuen by S. Auguſtine De ſermone Domini in monte, lib. 1. prope finem: Wherefore that hee ſaith, De correct. & gra. c. 12. is thus to be vnderſtoode, that to forſake faith which worketh by loue, is a ſinne vnto death: for hee ſaith in the ſame place, that ſeeing that ſinne is not expreſſed, many and diuers things may be thought of it.

Sinne againſt the holy Ghoſt.

Rhem. 4. 16. For that I ſay not.) If the ſinne to death whereof he ſpeaketh, be the ſame wherein a man dieth without repentance, according to S. Auguſtines wordes before rehearſed: then the praier which he ſpeaketh of, muſt needes be praier for the dead. Becauſe he ſpeaketh of praying, or not praying, for them that died in deadly ſinne, exhorting vs to pray, and encouraging vs to doe it with confidence to be heard, if we pray, for them that departed this life not in deadly ſinne. and contrariwiſe in Prayer for the dead.

neuer diſſuading and diſcouraging vs from praying for ſuch as continued in wickednes euen to their liues end. And S. Auguſtine ſetteth downe the Churches practiſe agreeable to the Apoſtles meaning, li. 21. c. 24. de Ciuit. Dei. If there be any (ſaith he) that perſiſt til death in impenitence of hart, doth the Church now pray for them, that is, for the ſoules of them that ſo are departed? So ſaith he. And this is the cauſe that Concilium Bracharenſe primum cap. 34. forbiddeth to pray for ſuch as die in deſperation, or kil themſelues: and the reaſon, why the Church forbeareth to pray for Heretikes that die in their hereſie, or maintaine hereſie vnto death and by their death. Some of the dead may not be praied for.

And that the place is moſt properly or onely meant of praying for the departed, this ſemineth, that neither the Church nor any man is debarred here from praying for any ſinner yet liuing, nor for the remiſſion of any ſinne in this life: all ſinnes (of what ſort ſoeuer) being pardonable, ſo long as the committers of them be in caſe and ſtate to repent: as they be, ſo long as they be in this world. And we ſee that the Church praieth, and is often heard, for Heretikes, Iewes, Turkes, Apoſtats, and whats other infidels or il men ſoeuer, during their liues. And it is great blaſphemie that the Caluiniſtes vtter vpon this place: to wit, that Apoſtaſie and certaine other ſinnes of the reprobate, can not be forgiuen at all in this life. Which they holde, onely to auoide the ſequele of praying for the dead vpon theſe wordes of S. Iohn, beſides that they muſt take vpon them preſumptuouſly, to know and diſcerne of Gods ſecretes, who be reprobate, and who be not, and according to that, pray for ſome, and not for other ſome. all which is moſt wicked and abſurd preſumption. It is proued that the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of praying for the dead. The Caluiniſts blaſphemie, to ouoid this ſenſe of the Apoſtle.

As for their allegation, that S. Ieremie the Prophet was forbidden to pray for the Iewes, and warned that he ſhould not be heard, Cap. 7. 11. 14: there is great difference. firſt, he had a reuelation by the wordes of God, that they would continue in their wickednes, as we haue not of any certaine perſon, whereof S. Iohn here ſpeaketh. ſecondly, Ieremie was not forbidden to pray for the remiſſion of their ſinnes, nor had denial to be heard therein for any mans particular caſe, whereof the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh: but he was told that they ſhould not eſcape the temporal puniſhment and affliction which he had deſigned for them, and that he would not heare him therein.

Fulke. 4. By that which is ſaid before in the laſt Section, it may appeare vpon howe weake a foundation, prayer for the dead is grounded. The ſinne whereof S. Iohn ſpeaketh, is not that onely nor ſpecially which S. Auguſtine ſaith to be a ſinne vnto death, but that which Chriſt ſaith to be the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, which ſhall neuer be forgiuen, ſuch as was the ſinne of Iudas, of the Phariſees, and of Alexander the Copperſmith. And yet it is a ſorie Argument that ſhould be drawen of this place (if it were ſo to be vnderſtood.) Some of the dead may not be praied for, as they that die without repentãce, Ergo all the reſt may be prayed for. Which is as good as this, Alexander the Copperſmith might not be prayed for after his death, Ergo Iudas and the Phariſees might be prayed for after their death: which might not be prayed for when they were aliue. But that the text cannot be vnderſtoode of praying for the dead, it is manifeſt by the very wordes. For he ſaith not, If any man ſhall ſee that his brother hath ſinnned not to death: but if any ſhall ſee his brother ſinning, which proueth that his brother is aliue. for he ſinneth not when he is dead, neither can a man ſee him ſinning when he is dead. So the text is, Hee ſhall giue life to them that doe ſinne not vnto death, therefore the plaine wordes of the text are, that the man ſinneth to death, or ſinneth not to death, which is not to be prayed for, or which is to be prayed for. But who ſo not onely ſinneth, but alſo is ſeene to ſinne or ſinning, whether to death or not to death, is aliue and not dead, therefore prayer is to be made by this text, for him that is aliue, and not for him that is dead. Prayer for the dead.

Nowe let vs ſee how you conuince that this place is moſt properly or onely, meant of praying for the dead. Becauſe (ſay you) neither the Church nor any man is debarred here from praying for any ſinner yet liuing, nor for the remiſſion of any ſinne in this life. A proper conuiction and a learned Argument, when that is taken for a reaſon, which is the whole matter in queſtion. But howe proue you that no man is debarred from praying for any ſinner yet liuing? You anſwere, All ſinnes are pardonable, ſo long as the committers be aliue, for ſo long they are in caſe to repent. But our Sauiour Chriſt ſaith, That he that ſinneth againſt the holy Ghoſt, and the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt ſhall not be pardoned in this worlde, nor in the worlde to come. And the Apoſtle ſaith, It is impoſſible for them that fall away after they haue beene lightened, &c. to be renued by repentance. Matth. 12. 31. Hebr. 6. 4. &c. Therefore that you ſay is falſe. Sinne againſt the holy Ghoſt.

You adde further, That the Church prayeth and is often heard for Heretikes, Iewes, Turkes, Apoſtats and other wicked whatſoeuer during their liues. I anſwere, the true Church prayeth not for them that ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, or be ſuch Apoſtataes of whome the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, by any generall entendment of her prayers, nor for any ſpeciall perſons knowen to be ſuch, and if ſhe ſhould pray for them, ſhe ſhould not be heard to obtaine pardon for them, which cannot and will not repent. But it is a great blaſphemie to ſay, (ſay you) that Apoſtaſie, and certaine other ſinnes of the reprobate, can not be forgiuen at all in this life. If it be blaſphemie to ſay that Chriſt himſelfe and his Apoſtles ſaid, What is it to ſpeake contradictorie to them as you doe? The ſinne or blaſphemie againſt the holy Ghoſt ſhall neuer be forgiuen ſaith Chriſt, it ſhall ſometimes ſay you. It is impoſſible for ſuch to be renued by repentance (ſaith the Apoſtle,) it is not impoſſible for any, ſay you. And if we holde this onely to auoyde the ſequele of praying for the dead vpon theſe wordes, Why did not S. Paul pray for Alexander the Copperſmith, but againſt him? Why doe Auguſtine and Bede interprete the text of them, that of enuie and malice oppugne the grace of God and the brotherhode? Why doeth Oecumenius expound it of them that ſhew no conuerſion, though they be liuing? Yea of them that be mindeful of iniuries, Beſides this (you ſay) we muſt take vpon vs preſumptuouſly to knowe and diſcerne of Gods ſecrets, who be reprobate and who not. But it is no preſumption in the intention of our prayers to except all the reprobate, as our Sauiour Chriſt doeth expreſly, Ioan. 17. 9. And if any doe manifeſtly ſhewe himſelfe to be ſuch an one, by blaſpheming the holy Ghoſt, or by wilfull and malitious obſtinacie, it is no preſumption to ceaſe praying for him, but it is lawfull to pray God to confound them, as Dauid doeth the malitious enemies of Chriſt, Pſalme 109. As S. Paul prayeth againſt Alexander, 2. Timoth. 4. 14. And the Church prayed againſt Iulian the Apoſtata, Theodoret. Hiſt. lib. 4. cap. 9. & 17. & 19. By which it may appeare howe vainely you cauil about Ieremie, who was forbidden to pray for the people: for as their obſtinacie was reuciled to Ieremie, ſo the wickednes of ſome ſheweth it ſelfe openly, of whome S. Iohn ſpeaketh that they ſinne vnto death. That he was not forbidden to pray for remiſſion of their ſinnes, but for releaſe of their puniſhment, it is a vaine diſtinction: for if they would or could haue repented of their

ſinnes, the Prophet might aſſure them, that they ſhould eſcape the puniſhment, and ſo he doth aſſure them. cap.26.13. I will conclude therefore with the ſaying of S. Auguſtine in the place before mentioned, De ſerm: Dom. in monte. lib.1. This difference of ſinnes, diſtinguiſheth Iudas betraying, from Peters denying: not that we muſt not pardon him that repenteth, leſt we come againſt that ſaying of our Lord, wherein he commandeth that we muſt alwayes pardon our brother, deſiring that his brother would forgiue him: but becauſe there is ſo great a filthines of that fault, that he can not ſubmitte him ſelfe to the humilitye of entreating, although he be compelled of an euill conſcience, both to acknowledge his ſinne, and alſo to vtter it. For when Iudas had ſayde, I haue ſinned, in that I haue betrayed innocent blood, he runne ſooner of deſperation to the rope, then of humilitie to aſke pardon. Wherefore it is much to be regarded, to what kinde of repentance, God giueth pardon. For many much ſooner doe confeſſe that they haue ſinned, and are ſo angry with themſelues, that they would vehemently that they had not ſinned: but yet they lay not downe there life, to make there heart humble and obediente, and to deſire pardon: which affection of the minde, it is to be beleeued, that they haue alreadie of their condemnation, for the greatneſſe of their ſinne. And this peradventure is to ſinne againſt the holy ghoſt, that is after grace of the holy ghoſt receiued, to oppugne the brotherly charitie, by malice and enuie, which ſinne our Lord ſayeth, not to be forgiuen in this world nor in the world to come.

Rhem.5. 21. From idoles.) It is ſo knowen a treacherie of Heretikes to tranſlate idola images (as here and in a number of places ſpecially of the Engliſh Bible printed the yeere 1562.) that we neede not much to ſtand vpon it. As this alſo is ſeene to all the world, that they doe it of purpoſe to ſeduce the poore ignorant people, and to make them thinke, that whatſoeuer in the Scriptures is ſpoken againſt the idols of the Gentiles (which the Prophet calleth Simulachra Gentium*) is meant of pictures, ſacred images, and holy memories of Chriſt & his Saincts. Againſt ſuch ſeducers the ſecond ſacred Councel of Nice called the ſeuenth Synode, decreeth thus Act.4.Pag.122.* Quicunque ſententias ſacræ ſcripturæ de Idolis, contra venerandas imagines adducunt, anáthema. Qui venerendas imagines idola appellant, anáthema. Qui dicunt q Chriſtiani adorant imagines vt Deos, anáthema, that is, Anáthema to all them that bring the ſentences of holy Scripture touching idols, againſt the venerable images, Anáthema to them that call the venerable images, idols. Anáthema to them that ſay, Chriſtians adore images as gods.

Heret. tranſlation againſt ſacred images. Pſal.113. The 2 Councel of Nice pronounceth anáthema, that is, a curſe againſt the Caluiniſts. Edit. Colon. an.1567.

Nowe in their later tranſlations the Heretikes perceiuing that the world ſeeth their vnhoneſt dealing corrected them ſelues in ſome places, and in this place haue put idols, in the text: but to giue the people a watchword that the Churches images are to be compriſed in the word idola, they haue put* images, in the margent. But concerning this matter, it is moſt euident that neither euery idol is an image, nor euery image an idol: and that howſoeuer the origene or etymologie of the word idol, may be taken in the Greeke, yet both the words and the things be in truth and by the vſe of all tongues, farre differing. The great dragon that the Babylonians adored (Dan.14.) was an idol, but not an image: the Cherubins in Salomons temple were images, but not idols. and the face of the Queene in her coine or els where, as Ceſars face vpon the coine that Chriſt called for, is an image, but not an idol. and the Heretikes dare not tranſlate that text of ſcripture thus, Whoſe idol is this ſuperſcription? nor call the Queenes image, the idol of the Queene: nor Chriſt, the idol of his father: nor woman the idol of the man: nor man, the idol of God, all which in Scripture be named images for all that, and bee ſo indeede, and not idols. Which conuinceth, that the Heretikes be falſe and corrupt tranſlatours in this place and other the like, confounding theſe two words as if they were all one.

Sacred images in Churches, by Gods owne warrant. Exod.25.

*But as for the hauing of images or portraits of holy things, not only in priuat houſes, but alſo in Churches, God him ſelfe doth warrant vs, who commanded euen the Iewes themſelues (a people myſt prone to idolatrie, and that after he had giuen them a ſpeciall precept of not hauing, making, or worſhipping of idols) to make the images of Angels (the Cherubins) and that in the ſoueraine holieſt place of adoration that was in the Temple, and about the Arke, yea and in reſpect of which ſacred images partly, they did (as S. Hierom ſaith ep.17.c.3.) ſo great reuerence to the holy place called Sancta ſanctorum. If they then were warranted and commaunded to make and haue in ſo great reuerence the images of mere ſpirites or Angels, whoſe naturall ſhape could not be expreſſed: howe much more may we Chriſtians haue and reuerence the images of Chriſt, his Mother, the Apoſtles and other Saincts, being men, whoſe ſhape may be expreſſed? So doth the ſaid Nicene Councel argue againſt the Heretikes which at that time were the Aduerſaries of images.

The 2 Councel of Nice was gathered againſt Image breakers.

And note here, that eight hundreth yeres agoe, they were ſtraights counted Heretikes that began to ſpeake againſt images, & that Councel was called purpoſely for the, and condemned them for Heretikes, & confirmed the former auncient reuerence and vſe of ſacred images. which began euen in our Sauiours time or litle after, when good religious folke for loue and reuerence made his image, namely the woman that he healed of the bloudy fluxe. which image was alſo approued by miracles as the Eccleſiaſticall hiſtorie telleth, and namely Euſebius Eccl.hiſt.lib.7, c.14. who alſo witneſſeth that the images of Peter and Paul were in his daies. as you may ſee alſo in S. Auguſtine* (li.d.conſenſ Euangeliſt.c.10. that their pictures commonly ſtoode together in Rome, euen as at this day. Of our Ladies image ſee S. Gregorie li.7.ep.5.indict 2.ad Ianuar. & ep.53. In whome alſo (li.7.ep.109.) you may ſee the true vſe of images, and that they are the bookes of the vnlearned, and that the people ought to be inſtructed and taught the right vſe of them, euen as at this day good Catholike folke doe vſe them to helpe and increaſe their deuotion, in all Catholike Churches: yea the Lutherans themſelues retein them ſtill. S. Damaſcene wrote three bookes in defenſe of ſacred images againſt the ſore ſaid Heretikes.

The vſe and fruite of holy images.

Fulke.5. It is well knowen, to them that haue but meane knowledge in the greeke tongue, that the word which the apoſtle vſeth, when the apoſtle did write, was taken for the ſame that we call an image, and heare to all the Dictionaries olde and new beare witneſſe. Therfore it was no corruption to tranſlate in this place, and much leſſe in many other places of the ſcripture, out of the hebrew tongue, Images or Idols indifferently: as I haue ſhewed at large in my defence of our tranſlations againſt Greg. Martyn. cap.3. throughout. Therefore ſayth Tertullian vpon this text: little children (ſayth Iohn) keepe your ſelues from idols not now from idolatrie, that is as it were from the ſeruice, but from the idoles that is from the verie image of them. Ab ipſa effigie eorum. And ſeeing you worſhip your popiſh images, as groſſely as the Gentiles worſhipped their images, that which is ſpoken againſt hethenith idols and idolatrie, is rightly applyed againſt popiſh idoles and idolatrie. And therefore wee regarde not the curſes, of that blaſphemous and idolatrous councell of Nice the ſecond, but oppoſe againſt it, and all the defenders, of it, the curſes of God himſelfe. Deut.27.15. Curſed be hee whoſoeuer ſhall make a carued image &c. and pſ.97.7. Confounded be all they that worſhip grauen images.

Where you ſay in our latter tranſlations, we haue corrected our vnhoneſt dealing, it is falſe: for we haue freely vſed the one worde or the other, as there is no difference of them in thoſe places. And although the vſe of our Engliſh ſpeach, hath made the name of Idole odious, and of image indifferent: yet neither the greeke worde εἰδωλον nor the latine word Simulachrum, which your vulgar latine interpreter vſeth in this place, hath any ſuch odious ſignification, as the worde idole hath in the engliſh. For Lactantius calleth men Viua Dei ſimulachra, the liuing images of God. De vero Dei cultu. lib.6.c.13. And de origin.err.lib.2.c.2. hee hath a whole chapter de Simulachris & vero Dei ſimulachro, of images and of the true image of God. And Arnobius or Minutius Felix cont. gent. lib.8. ſayth, Dei homo ipſe ſimulachrum, Man himſelf is the image of God. S. Ambroſe alſo in 1 Cor.10. ſimulachrum verè nihil eſt quia imago videtur rei mortuæ. A ſimilitude is nothing in deede, becauſe it ſeemeth to be an image of a dead thing. In pſ.45. he ſayth, the Prophet did not compare God, imaginibus terreis & ſcrupeis, to images or ſimilitudes made of earth or ſtone. S. Auguſtine vſeth the name of image and ſimulachrum, for all one, Cont. Fauſt lib. 22.c.17. Cum ex deſiderio mortuorum conſtituerentur imagines, vnde ſimulachrorum vſus exortus eſt. When for deſire or loue of the dead images were made whereof the vſe of ſimulachres or Images did ariſe. And octogint quæſt. Q.78. which is intituled De ſimulachrorum pulcritudine, of the beautie of images he aſcribeth to God, the cunning by the which they are made beautifull. Iſidorus originum lib.8. ſayth, Simulachra finxerunt, vt haberent aliquid ex imaginum contemplatione &c. They made the counterfeits or images of men, that they might haue ſome comfort in beholding their images. By theſe and many other teſtimonies of Latine writers, it is manifeſt, that Simulachrum is not taken alwayes in the euill part, but ſignifieth an image, which is indifferent, to an image lawfull and vnlawful. Therefore you profeſſing to tranſlate the latine, and not the greeke, to colour you ſhamefull worſhipping of idoles, doe bewray your vnhoneſt dealing, in rendring for the word Simulachra, idols, where you ſhould haue ſayde Images, as ſome of our tranſlations haue.

Nowe for hauing the images of holy things in churches, you ſay God himſelfe doth warrant vs, who commaunded the Iewes to make the Cherubines. So that by that commandement belike, hee abrogated the ſecond commaundement, in which hee forbade all making and worſhipping of images. But wee muſt not ſo thinke: for that ſecond commandement, is the eternall lawe of God, wherein he forbiddeth vs to make to our ſelues, any grauen image, yet denieth not, but he may commaund what images he thinketh good himſelfe for the vſe of religion. By the ſame reaſon you may ſay, and the olde Idolaters defended their horrible murther and Idolatrie. That God doth warrant vs to kill our children and to offer them in ſacrifice, becauſe hee commanded Abraham ſo to do: or God warranteth euery priuate man to kill an offender, becauſe he commandeth the magiſtrate to put to death heynous offenders, but of this argument ſee more In Heb.ca.9, ſect.4. But S. Hierom addeth great force to this argument ſaying that in reſpect of thoſe ſacred images partly, they did ſo great reuerence to the holy place, called ſancta ſanctorum. Paula and Euſtochium in deede ſay, that the Iewes did in times paſt, reuerence the Holy of holies, becauſe there were the Cherubines, and the propitiatorie, and the arke of the teſtament, Manna, the rodde of Aaron, and the golden altar. The meaning is, they had great eſtimation of that place, becauſe there were ſo many holy myſteries of their religion. Not that they worſhipped the place, in reſpect of the images which they neuer ſawe, but becauſe all thoſe things, were ſacraments of gods preſence, and monuments of his great workes and mercy towards them.

But if they were commaunded to make, theſe reſemblances according to ſuch forme, as was perſcribed by God, it followeth not, that we which are forbidden to make images in any vſe of religion, are warranted contrary to that generall commandement to make any images, by that ſpeciall precept which perteyned onely to them and that time, and for thoſe images only, not to be worſhipped, nor to bee ſeene of any, but only of the high Prieſt, once in the yere. As for the ſeconde councell of Nice, that was gathered by an Idolatreſſe and wicked woman, to ouerthrowe the godly councels of Conſtantinople and Epheſus, by the which the hauing in churches, and worſhipping of images was condemned: can bee no warrant for ſo foule an abuſe ſo expreſſely contrary to the manifeſt word of God. And that falſe councel was condemned in the Weſt, by a councel held at Frankford, as Carolus Magnus in his booke againſt Images, doth teſtifie. The ſame witneſſeth Ado Viennenſis in Anno. 727. towarde the ende. The falſe ſynod which the Greekes call the ſeuenth, was there alſo, (meaning at Frankford) vtterly abbrogated. The ſame is teſtified by other ancient writers. For the ſtory reported by Euſebius ſee Matth.8. ſection the ninth. For the images of Peter and Paul mentioned in Saint Auguſtine, the trueth is, they were neither in the Churches, nor ſet up to be worſhipped, but paynted vpon walles in diuers places of Rome, whereupon certaine heathen Sorcerers feyned that bookes were made of magike by Chriſt, and deliuered to Peter and Paul. But ſo (ſayth Saint Auguſtine) they were worthie to be deceiued, which ſought Chriſt and his Apoſtles, not in holy Scriptures, but in paynted walles, and no marueile if they being ſuch fayners were deceiued by paynters. De conſenſ.Euang.lib.1.c.10. You ſee therefore howe S. Auguſtine accompted of ſuch images in his time.

But in Gregoryes time, which was about two hundreth yeeres after, they were gotten into the Church to be lay mens bookes, which the ſcriptures call the doctrine of lyes, as S. Auguſtine ſayde they were to thoſe ſorcerers. And then the people began to worſhipp them, for which cauſe Serenus Biſhop of Maſſilia in Fraunce, brake them in pieces in his dioceſſe. For which fact hee was reproued by Gregorie, who yet commendeth him, that he forbadde the worſhippe of images. lib.7.Ep.119. and Lib.9.Ep.9. where hee ſayth. That you forbade them to be worſhipped, we haue altogether commended you, but that you brake them we did reprehend you. That the Lutherans reteyne images, it can not be defended by the worde of God, though they deteſt the woſhipping of them, and it cannot bee without danger of idolatrie, if the Paſtors bee not diligent to teach their people to beware of it. See more of images. Matth.8. ſect.9. Act.17. ſect.5. Heb.9 ſect.4. Abac.2.18.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF IOHN THE APOSTLE.

He commendeth the lady and her ſonnes for continuing in the olde faith, bidding them ſo to doe hereafter alſo, leſt they loſe the reward of their workes in the day of iudgement: and to loue the true beleeuers, but with Heretikes to haue no ſocietie: expreſſing alſo the points then in controuerſie.

The tranſlation of Rhemes.

THE Senior to the lady Elect & her children whome I loue in truth, and not I onely, but alſo all that haue knowen the truth,

2 For the truth which abideth in vs, and ſhal be with vs for euer.

3 Grace be with you, mercie, peace from God the Father, and from Chriſt IESVS the ſonne of the father in truth, and charitie.

4 I was exceeding glad, becauſe I haue found of thy children walking in truth, as we haue receiued commãdement of the Father.

5 And now I beſeech thee Lady, not as writing a new commandement to thee, but that which wee haue had ‖ from the beginning, *that we loue one an other.

6 And this is charitie, that we walke according to his commaundements. For this is the commandement, that as you haue heard from the beginning, you walke in the ſame:

7 Becauſe many ſeducers are gone out into the world, which doe not confeſſe IESVS Chriſt to haue come into fleſh: this is a ſeducer and an antichriſt.

8 Looke to your ſelues, that you loſe not the things which you haue wrought: but that you may receiue a full ‡ reward.

9 Euery one that ᶜ reuolteth, and perſiſteth not in the doctrine of Chriſt: hath not not God. He that perſiſteth in the doctrine: the ſame hath both the Father, & the Sonne.

10 If *any man come to you, and bring not ‖ this doctrine: ‖ receiue him not into the houſe, ‖ nor ſay, God ſaue you, vnto him.

11 For hee that ſaith vnto him, God ſaue you, communicateth with his wicked works.

12 Hauing moe things to write vnto you: I woulde not by paper and inke: for I hope that I ſhall bee with you, and ſpeake mouth to mouth: that your ioy may be ful.

13 The children of thy ſiſter elect ſalute thee.

‡ Reward for keeping faſt the Catholike faith.

ᶜ To go backe or reuolt from the receiued truth and doctrine Apoſtolicall, is damnable.

The tranſlation of the Church of England.

THe elder vnto the elect Lady and her children, whome I loue in the trueth, and not I onely, but alſo all that haue knowen the trueth:

2 For the truthes ſake which dwelleth in vs, and ſhalbe with vs for euer:

3 Grace bee with you, mercy, and peace from God the father, and from the Lorde Ieſus Chriſt, the ſonne of the father in trueth and loue.

4 I reioyced greatly that I found of thy children walking in trueth, as wee haue receiued a commandement of the father.

5 And nowe I beſeech thee, Lady, not as though I wrote a new commandement vnto thee: but that ſame which wee haue had from the beginning, that we ſhould loue one another.

6 And this is the loue, that we ſhould walke after his commandements: This is the commandement, that as yee haue heard from the beginning, ye ſhould walke in it.

7 For many deceiuers are entred into the world, which confeſſe not that Ieſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh. This is a deceiuer, and an Antichriſt.

8 Looke on your ſelues, that wee loſe not that we haue wrought: but that wee may haue a full reward.

9 Whoſoeuer tranſgreſſeth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Chriſt, hath not God: Hee that endureth in the doctrine of Chriſt, hath both the father and the ſonne.

*10 If there come any vnto you, and bring not this learning, * him receiue not to houſe, neither bid him God ſpeede.* Rom.16.17

11 For he that biddeth him God ſpeede, is partaker of his euill deedes.

12 Hauing many things to write vnto you, I would not write with paper and inke: but I truſt to come vnto you, and ſpeake with you mouth to mouth, that your ioy may be full.

13 The ſonnes of thy elect ſiſter greete thee, Amen.

ANNOTATIONS.

Rhem.1. 6. From the beginning.) This is the rule of a Chriſtian Catholike man, to walke in that faith and worſhip of God which he hath receiued from the beginning. Which is, that which we now call according to the Scriptures, the tradition of the Apoſtles: that which is come to vs from man to man, from Biſhop to Biſhop, and ſo from the Apoſtles. So ſhall a faithful man auoide ſeducers that riſe vp in euery age, teaching newe doctrine. To hold faſt the old receiued faith.

Fulke. 1. Wee can haue no certaine knowledge, what was the fayth and worſhippe of God in the beginning, but by the holy ſcriptures. Nor what was the tradition of the Apoſtles, but by the writing of the Apoſtles, which Ignatius in his time affirmed, for certeyntie, to bee committed to writing. Euſeb. lib. 3. cap. 35. For there can bee no certeinty in receiuing from man to man, from Biſhoppe to Biſhoppe, ſeeing a doctrine may bee ſo receiued for a thouſande yeeres and more, and yet bee ſhort of the beginning. Yea, there were Heretikes euen in the Apoſtles time as Cerinthus, Hebion, the Nicolaites, Simon Magus &c. whoſe hereſie, if it had bene deliuered from man to man euer ſince that time, yet was not from the beginning, but is confuted by the writings, of the Apoſtles, not to haue come from the Apoſtles. They therefore teach newe doctrine, which are not able to proue there doctrine by the holy ſcriptures, and the doctrine of the holy ſcriptures is ancient, though men can not ſhewe, by what ſucceſſion of men it came vnto vs.

The ſufficiencie of the Scriptures.

Rhem. 2. 10. This doctrine.) The Apoſtles, and true Paſtors their lawfull ſucceſſors, and the Church of God in holy Counſel, vſe to ſet downe the true doctrine in thoſe pointes. Which Heretikes call into controuerſie. Which being once done and declared to the faithfull, they needs no other marke or deſcription to knowe an Heretike or falſe teacher by, but that hee commeth with an other doctrine then that which is ſet downe to them. Neither can the Heretikes ſhift themſelues, as nowe a daies they would doe, ſaying, ô let vs firſt be proued Heretikes by the Scriptures, let them define an Heretike. No this is not the Apoſtles rule. Many a good honeſt ſhepharde knoweth a woolfe, that cannot define him. but the Apoſtle ſaith, If he bring not this ſet doctrine he is a ſeducer. So holy Church ſaith now, Chriſt is really in the B. Sacrament, vnder forme of bread and wine &c. If therefore he bring not this doctrine, he is a ſeducer, and an Heretike, and we muſt auoide him, whether in his owne definitions and cenſures he ſeeme to him ſelfe an Heretike or no.

To bring wilfully an other doctrine then the Catholike Church ſaith downe, is alwaies a marke of ſeducers and Heretikes.

Fulke. 2. The doctrine whereof S. Iohn ſpeaketh, is that which he and the reſt of the apoſtles preached: the ſumme whereof, is conteyned in the holy ſcriptures. The Apoſtles (ſayth Irenæus) preached the Goſpel, and after by the will of God, they deliuered it vnto vs in the ſcriptures, which ſhould be the foundation and pillar of our fayth. Lib. 3. cap. 1. Therefore whatſoeuer the miniſters of the Church, that haue ſucceeded the apoſtles haue ſet down in councels, or otherwiſe, is ſo to be taken for true doctrine, as it agreeth with the preaching of the Apoſtles, conteyned in their writings. For not all that is ſet downe in councel is true, ſeeing councels both prouinciall & generall may erre & be corrected the latter of the former, (as S. Auguſtine ſayth) when by any triall of things, that is opened, which before was ſhut, & that is knowen, which before was hidden. This writeth he when by the Donatiſtes he was preſſed with the authority of a councel holden in Africa, for rebaptizing them, that had ben baptized by Heretikes. De bapt. Con. Donat. cap. 2. But you ſay it is not the apoſtles rule, that an Heretike ſhould be conuinced by the ſcriptures. Yes verely, for the doctrine wherof he ſpeaketh, is ỹ doctrine of Chriſt, as it appeareth in the ninth verſe, & the doctrine of Chriſt is conteined in the ſcriptures, as he himſelf ſaith. Search the ſcriptures, for they beare witneſſe of me. Iohn 5.39. And the Apoſtles, which taught the whole doctrine of Chriſt, taught nothing concerning Chriſt but that which is conteyned in the ſcriptures. Act. 26. 22. Rom. 1. 2. 2. Tim 3. 14. & 15. Therefore it is the Apoſtles rule, that an heretike ſhould be conuinced by the holy ſcriptures, ſeeing wee haue no other certeine teſtimonie, what was the doctrine of Chriſt & the Apoſtles, as S. Auguſtine ſheweth, in the place aboue noted. That many an honeſt Shepheard, knoweth a wolfe, that cannot define him, it is a fond argument, to proue that an heretike is not to be conuinced by the ſcriptures. For a natural & bodily wolfe, may be knowen by certaine markes though not by the ſcripture or his diffinition, but a ſpirituall woolfe or heretike, muſt bee knowen by ſuch markes and notes, as are ſet downe in the holy Scriptures, though euery man be not able to make a ſcholaſticall definition of an Heretike.

The ſufficiencie of the Scripture.

Councels may erre.

Therefore he that bringeth not the doctrine of Chriſt, ſet downe in the ſcriptures, is a ſeducer, not hee that bringeth not ſuch doctrine, as the Pope hath not ſet downe in his decrees, or in his counterfeit Councels. Neither doeth the holy Church ſay now, Chriſt is realy preſent &c. but the prophane ſynagogue of Sathan, and the Church of Antichriſt maynteineth that hereſie, contrary to the holy Scriptures, and the articles of Chriſtes incarnation, aſcenſion, and ſitting at the right of God in heauen.

Rhem. 3. 10. Receiue him not.) Though in ſuch times and places where the communitie or moſt part bee infected, neceſſitie often forceth the faithfull to conuerſe with ſuch in worldly affaires, to ſalute them, to eate and ſpeake with them, and the Church by decree of Counſell, for the more quietneſſe of timorous conſciences prouideth, that they incurre not excommunication or other cenſures for communicating in worldely affaires with any in this kinde, except they bee by name excommunicated or declared to bee Heretikes: yet euen in worldly converſation and ſecular affaires of our life, wee muſt them as much as wee auoide may, becauſe their familiaritie is many waies contagious and noyſome to good men, namely to the ſimple: but in matter of religion, in praying, reading their bookes, hearing their ſermons, preſence at their ſeruice, partaking of their Sacraments, and all other communicating with them in ſpirituall things, it is a great damnable ſinne to deale with them.

When and wherein to converſe with Heretikes, is tolerable: when and wherein, it is damnable.

Fulke. 3. That Church which decreeth any other communication with heretikes and infidels, then the ſcripture heare alloweth and elſe where to be lawfull, ſheweth it ſelfe to be the Church of Antichriſt. And heare you may gather, what good ſubiectes the Papiſts bee to our ſouerayne Lady the Queenes Maieſtie, whome they they take by the blaſphemous bull, and Antichriſtian auctoritie of Pope Pius the fifth to bee excommunicated. And what loyal duetie they yelde vnto her maieſtie, by the diueliſh diſpenſation of Pope Gregory the 13. procured by two errant traytorous Ieſuites Campion and Perſons, of which the one hath ſuffered according to his demerites, the other remayneth, for what purpoſe God knoweth.

The Papiſts are good ſubiectes.

Rhem. 10. Nor ſay, God ſaue you.) S. Irenæus (li. 3. c. 3.) reporteth a notable ſtorie of this holy Apoſtle touching this point, out of S. Polycarpus, which is this. There be ſome (ſayeth he) that haue heard Polycarpe ſay that when Iohn the diſciple of our Lord was going to Epheſus, into a bath, to waſh him ſelfe, & ſaw Cerinthus the heretike within the ſame, he ſuddenly ſkipt out, ſaying that he feared leſt the bath ſhould fall, becauſe Cerinthus the enemie of truth truth was within. So ſaith he of S. Iohn, and addeth alſo a like worthy example of Polycarpe himſelfe: who on a time meeting Marcion the Heretike, and the ſayd Marcion calling vpon him, and asking him whether he knew him not: Yes, quoth Polycarpe, I know thee for Satans ſonne and heire. So great feare (ſaith S. Irenæus) had the Apoſtles & their diſciples to communicate in word only, with ſuch as were adulterers or corrupters of the truth: as S. Paul alſo warned, when he ſaid, A man that is an Heretike, after the firſt & ſecond admonition auoid. So far Irenæus. If then, to ſpeake with them or ſalute them, is ſo earneſtly to be auoided according to this Apoſtles example and doctrine: what a ſinne is it to flatter them, to ſerue them, to marrie with them, and ſo foorth?

S. Iohn would not be in one bath with Cerinthus the Heretike.

He commendeth Gaius, for continuing in the truth, and for ſuſteining or ſuccouring true preachers, 9 taxing Diótrepes for the contrary, and praiſing Demétrius.

The tranſlation of Rhemes.

THE Seniour to Gaius the deereſt, whom I loue in truth.

2 My deereſt, concerning all things I make my prayer that thou proceed proſperouſly, and fare wel, as thy ſoule doth proſperouſly.

3 I was exceeding glad when the brethren came, & gaue teſtimonie to thy truth, euen as thou walkeſt in truth.

[‖] pleaſure. χαρὰν, χάριν.

4 Greater[‖] thanke haue I not of them, then that I may heare my children do walke in truth.

‡ A great grace to be beneficial to ſtrangers, ſpecially to them that be of our Catholike faith and ſuffer for the ſame.

5 My deereſt, thou doeſt faithfully whatſoeuer thou workeſt on the brethren, ‡ and that vpon ſtrangers.

6 They haue rendred teſtimonie to thy charitie in the ſight of the Church: whom, thou ſhalt doe wel, bringing on their way in maner worthie of God.

7 For, for his name did they depart, taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to receiue ſuch: that we may be coadiutors of the truth.

[b] It ſeemeth (ſaith S. Bede) he was an Arch heretike or proud Seſt-maiſter.

9 I had written perhaps to the Church: but he that loueth to beare [b] primacie among them, Diótrepes doth not receiue vs.

[c] commonebo. Vulgatus. [c] That is, I wil rebuke them & make them knowen to be wicked. Bede.

10 For this cauſe, if I come, [c] I wil aduertiſe his workes which he doth: with malicious words chatting againſt vs, & as though theſe things ſuffiſe him not: neither himſelf doth receiue the brethren, and them that do receiue, he prohibiteth, and caſteth out of the Church.

11 My deereſt, do not imitate euil, but that which is good. He that doth wel, is of God: he that doth il, hath not ſeene God.

12 To Demetrius teſtimonie is giuen of al, and of the truth it ſelfe, yea and we giue teſtimonie: and thou knoweſt that our teſtimonie is true.

THE elder vnto the welbeloued Gaius, whom I loue in the trueth.

2 Beloued, I wiſhe in all things that thou proſpereſt and faredſt well, euen as thy ſoule proſpereth.

3 For I reioyced greatly when the brethren came, and teſtified of the trueth that is in thee, how thou walkeſt in the trueth.

4 I haue no greater ioy, then for to heare how that my ſonnes walke in veritie.

4 Beloued, thou doeſt faythfully whatſoeuer thou doeſt to the brethren, and to ſtrangers:

6 Which haue borne witneſſe of thy charitie before the church: whom if thou bring forwards on their iourney after a godly ſort, thou ſhalt doe well.

7 Becauſe that for his names ſake they went foorth, taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to receiue ſuch, that we might be helpers to the trueth.

9 I wrote vnto the church: but Diotrephes which loueth to haue the preeminence among them, receiueth vs not.

10 Wherefore if I come, I will declare his deedes which he doeth, ieſting on vs with malicious wordes: and not content therewith, neither he himſelfe receiueth the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and thruſteth them out of the Church.

11 Beloued, followe not that which is euill, but that which is good. Hee that doeth well, is of God, but he that doeth euill, hath not ſeene God.

¶The end of the third Epiſtle of S. Iohn.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE EPISTLE OF S. IVDE.

Rhem. 1. IN the Goſpel theſe are called Fratres Ieſu, the brethren of Ieſus: Iames and Ioſeph, and Simon, and Iude. Mat. 13.
Their father is called Alphæus, where Iames is termed, Iames of Alphæus: and their mother, Maria Iacobi minoris. Marie the mother of Iames the yonger and of Ioſeph. Which Marie in another place being called Maria Cleophæ, we perceiue their father was named both Alphæus and alſo Cleophas. And that this Cleophas was brother to Ioſeph our Ladies husband. Hegeſippus telleth vs. Therefore becauſe Ioſeph was called the father of Chriſt, his brothers children, were called the brethrē, that is (according to the cuſtome of the Scripture alſo) the kinſmen of our Lord: and not becauſe they were the children of Ioſeph himſelfe by an other wife, much leſſe (as Helvidius the heretike did blaſpheme) by our B. Lady the perpetual virgin MARIE. Howbeit ſome good authors ſay, that their mother Marie was the naturall ſiſter of our Lady, and that therefore they are called, Fratres Domini, the brethren of our Lord. Mat. 10. Mat. 13. Ioh. 19. Euſeb. hiſt. li. 3. c. 10.

However that be, three of them are reckened among the 12 Apoſtles, Iames, and Simon Cananeus, and Iude. Yea & that they were ſomewhat more then Apoſtles, though leſſe then Peter, S. Paul ſignifieth, where he ſaith ſpeaking of himſelfe and Barnabas: As alſo the other Apoſtles, and the brethren of our Lord, and Cephas. 1. Cor. 9. Luc. 6. Mat. 10.

And as S. Luke calleth this Iude, Iude of Iames, ſo he calleth himſelfe in this Epiſtle of his, Iude the ſeruant of Ieſus Chriſt, and the brother of Iames. S. Matthew and S. Marke doe call him Thaddæus, as Lebbæus alſo in the Greeke. His feaſt and his brother Simons together, the Church keepeth Octob. 28. called Simon and Iudes day. Mat. 10. Mar. 3.

*His Epiſtle is an Inuective againſt all heretikes (as it were a Commentarie of 2. Pet. 2.) and namely (as S. Aug. hath told vs) againſt thoſe, which miſconſtred S. Pauls Epiſtles and held Only faith, whom he calleth therefore, Men that transferre or peruert the grace of God into riotouſnes, v. 4. exhorting Catholikes to bee conſtant and vnmoueable from their old faith, and to contend for the keeping thereof, v. 3. and v. 20. For heretikes (ſaith he) ſegregate themſelues from the Church and from her faith. v. 19. pag. 379. 64.

Fulke. 1. S. Paule doth not ſignifie that the Lordes brethren were in auctoritie, ſomewhat more then the Apoſtles, or leſſe in auctoritie then Peter, when he ſayth that the other Apoſtles, and the brethren of our Lord and Cephas, did lead about their wiues. But he ſignifieth that in reſpect of their carnall alliance or kindred, they were alſo ſpecially regarded, and Peter in reſpect of his primacie ouer the circumciſion. And where as you wil not graunt that the Apoſtles caried their wiues about with them, but other ſtrange women. Hegeſippus teſtifieth of S. Iude that he was a maried man, and had children, when he ſheweth that his childrens children or nephewes (that is, the ſonnes of his ſonne or ſonnes were perſecuted by Reuocatus in the dayes of Domitian. Euſeb. Lib. 3. cap. 20. Then who would thinke that Peter and Iude both proued to haue wiues, the one by Scripture, the other by good ſtory, would eary ſtrange women about with them, and not their owne wiues? which could not be but offenſiue, both to the Iewes and to the Gentiles, and to the church of God, which giuing of offence the Apoſtles condemned and forbade in all other. That which S. Auguſtine ha[d] told vs that he writeth againſt thoſe which miſconſtred S. Pauls epiſtles, and held onely fayth, pertaineth not vnto vs, for we hold not that only fayth to be ſufficient which hath no good works, but that faith only doth iuſtifie without works, although it be neuer voyd of good workes. And this doctrine taught ſo largely by S. Paule, and ſo plainely, none of the other Apoſtles doeth gainſay, nor S. Iude in this epiſtle. The old fayth which he exhorteth the Chriſtians to keepe, is not the popiſh fayth which is of later inuention, but the fayth and doctrine of Chriſt ſet foorth in the holy ſcripture. The Apoſtles maried men. Only faith.

THE CATHOLIKE EPISTLE OF IVDE THE APOSTLE.

He exhorteth them to ſtand to their old faith, ſhewing them by examples, that it is damnable not to continue and be conſtant: 8 inueighing againſt the lecherie, blaſphemie, apoſtaſie, banketing of the heretikes. 14 and that their damnation was long foretold. 17 Catholikes therfore to be vnmoueable, to reproue the obſtinate, to recouer al not deſperate, to conforme the weake, and to liue themſelues vertuouſly and without mortal ſinne, which by Gods grace they may doe.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 8 Deſpiſe dominion.) Such be heretikes that will not be ſubiect to any ſuperior, or that refuſe to obey the lawes either of Spirituall or Temporal rulers, in which kind (ſpecially in blaſphemīg the ſupreme Spirituall Magiſtrate) the Proteſtants doe offēd.

Fulke. 1. The pope an heretike by the papiſts rule. Such an heretike and worſe then an heretike is Antichriſt the Pope, which will not be ſubiect to any ſuperior, and which refuſeth to obey any law, either of ſpirituall or temporall rulers, no not the decrees of a generall councell, although he himſelfe haue once approued them, as Martine 5. did the councell of Conſtance, and Eugenius the 4. the councell of Baſill. Yet both refuſed to obey the law or decree of the councell, which defineth that the generall councell is aboue the Pope. Such an heretike is the Pope, and ſo greatly deſpiſeth dominion, and blaſphemeth maieſtie, that with moſt vile termes he doeth take vpon him to depriue kings of their royall dignitie which they haue by lawfull ſucceſſion and election, and approbation of all their ſubiects, and diſchargeth their ſubiects of their loialtie and obedience vnto their ſoueraigns. As Pius 5. did in that hereticall and Antichriſtian bull, giuen out againſt Queene ELIZABETH the moſt honourable prince in all Chriſtendome. Such heretikes are the Pope and the Rhemiſh papiſts, as ſuborne horrible traitors, and murtherers, to murther their ſayd moſt gracious and honorable ſoueraigne: and that with ſuch abhominable hypocriſie, that they did ſet out a printed booke, declaring it vnlawfull to kill her maieſtie for none other ende, but to make her maieſtie and the councell, ſecure and out of ſuſpicion of them, that they might with more opportunitie, accompliſh their traiterous deuiſed murther. As was openly confeſſed and prooued, at the araignment of Babington, Ballard, and the reſt of thoſe helliſh monſters. Alſo the letters of Cardinall Como written to Parrie, doe teſtifie of the Popes approbation of that moſt vile and deteſtable treaſon, and murther intended.

ANNO-

ANNOTATIONS.

Rhem. 2. 9. For the body of Moyſes.) When, why, or how this altercation or combat was betweene S. Michael and the Diuel about Moyſes body, no man can declare, only this we ſee that many truthes and ſtories were kept in the mouthes and harts of the faithful, that were not written in Scriptures canonical, as this was among the Iewes. Truthes vnwritten, and knowen by tradition.

Fulke. 2. The body of Moſes was buried by God, as appeareth Deut. 34. 6. that no man ſhould know where his ſepulchre was. Therfore it is like that this altercation was immediatly before that time, when the deuill deſired to haue the body of Moſes diſcouered, that it might be abuſed to idolatry. As it hath alwayes beene the practice of ſatan to perſecute the ſaincts while they liue, and to make idols of their bodies when they are dead. That ancient father which wrote the booke De mirabilibus ſacræ ſcripturæ, which goeth vnder the name of S. Auguſtine lib. 2. c. 35. writeth thus of the body of Moſes: For two cauſes, as wiſe men ſay, no man was priuie of his death, nor of his ſepulchre. That no man ſhould ſee that face, which had ſhined through the familiaritie of the Lordes ſpeech vnto him, ſtricken downe or dimmed with the heauineſſe of death. And leſt the people of Iſrael, if they had knowen where his ſepulchre was, ſhould haue adored it. Wherfore as moſt men thinke, he caried away with him the rod, wherewith he had done wonders, leſt it ſhould haue beene adored: ſeeing the children of Iſrael, did afterward adore the ſerpent which he made. Superſtition mocked.

Where you gather that many trueths and ſtories were kept in the mouthes and harts of the faithfull, that were not written in the ſcriptures canonicall. It is true, yet that prooueth not that the ſcripture canonicall did not conteine all doctrine neceſſarie to ſaluation. And euen the doctrine heere taught is expreſſed in the canonicall ſcriptures Deut. 34. 6. and Zacharie. 3. 2. though ſome circumſtances might be receiued of tradition, as the names of Iannes and Iambres. 2. Tim. 3. 8. And yet Beda thinketh that the body of Moſes in this place might be taken for the people of Iſrael, of whome Moſes had beene head, whome Satan deſired to reteine in captiuitie, when Ieſus prayed for their deliuerance. Zach. 3. and ſo doe ſome late interpretors thinke. Vnwritten veretes. The ſufficiencie of the ſcripture.

Rhem. 3. 10. They blaſpheme.) He ſpeaketh of Heretikes, who being ignorant in Gods myſteries and the diuine doctrine of his Church, when they can not reprooue the things, then they fall to execrations, irriſions, and blaſphemies againſt the Prieſts, Church, and Sacraments, and whatſoeuer is godly. Ignorance maketh Heretiks blaſpheme.

Fulke. 3. Such heretikes are the papiſts, which when they cannot reprooue by the ſcripture, the heauenly doctrine taught by Luther, Caluine, and other godly and learned teachers, they inuent ſuch monſtrous ſlanders and lies againſt them, to deface their perſons, as no man of reaſon can thinke they ſhould euer haue beene ſuffered to liue in any ſocietie of men (being no tyrants but meane ſubiects) if their maners had beene ſo vngodly as theſe ſhameleſſe heretikes doe blaſpheme. Beſide that ſome of their ſlanders are vnpoſſible, as that Luther ſhould be begotten of a deuill &c. which yet the proud cenſurer of maiſter Charke is not aſhamed to defend. As for their common ſcornings, execrations, and ſlanders of the true church and faithfull paſtors of the ſame, with the ſacraments and whatſoeuer is godly and agreeable to the holy ſcripures, as the communion table, the marriage of the miniſters, the ſinging of pſalmes &c. are ſo well knowne, that I need not ſtand to repeat them. The papiſts be heretikes by their owne deſcription.

Rhem. 4. 11. Cain, Balaam, Corè.) The Apoſtle would haue Heretikes ſpecially to be knowen by the reſemblance they haue, firſt to Cain, in that for enuy that his brothers ſeruice and ſacrifice was accepted and his reiected, ſlewe his ſaid brother, and was a fugitiue from the face and citie of God, which is the Church. Secondly, by their reſemblance to Balaam: who for money was induced to curſe Gods people, as couetouſnes is commonly the cauſe that firſt maketh Heretikes and falſe Prophets. whereupon S. Auguſtine ſaith, He is an Heretike that for temporal commodities ſake either coineth or foloweth new opinions. S. Auguſt. li. de Vtil. cred. cap. 1. And laſtly by the reſemblance they haue with the auncient & notorious Schiſmatike Corè, and his companions, who forſooke the ordinarie Prieſthod appointed by God, and would needes doe ſacrifice them ſelues without lawful calling. Heretikes reſembled to Cain, Balaam and Corè.

Such in deede be al Heretikes, & ſuch be al their ſacraments, ſeruice, and offices in their Church, as Cores were in his ſchiſmatical tabernacles. And as pride was the cauſe of his reuolting from the obedience of Moyſes and Aaron his Prieſts & true Gouernours: ſo is intolerable pride the cauſe of al Heretikes forſaking their lawful Paſtors and Rulers, and namely of forſaking Chriſtes owne Vicar in earth, our true Aaron, as S. Bernard calleth him. De conſid. li. 2. cap. 8. To al ſuch forſakers the Apoſtle here giueth the curſe and Væ due to the ſaid three, Cain, Balaam, and Corè, and telleth them that the Horrour of darkenes and eternal damnation is prouided for them: moſt liuely deſcribing al Heretikes (as in ſome we ſe to our woe haue experience by their maners in our daies) in al this paſſage euen to the end of the epiſtle.

Fulke. 4. The crueltie of Cain, the couetouſneſſe of Balaam, and the vſurpation of the prieſthood of Core, did neuer agree to any heretikes more properly, then to the papiſts. Who in murthering Gods ſaincts, farre paſſe all other heretikes: in couetouſneſſe had preuailed ſo much, that they became lordes of the earth: in vſurpation of the prieſthood farre paſſe the arrogancie of Core. Seeing they make claime to the prieſthood according to the order of Melchiſedech, which is peculiar to the perſon of our ſauiour Chriſt, of whoſe prieſthood, Aaron (whom Core and his fellowes would haue diſplaced) was but a ſhadow and figure. And as pride was the cauſe of Cores reuolting from the obedience of Moſes and Aaron, ſo much more is it the cauſe of the popes reuolting from the obedience of the emperour, and of the generall councell, and of arrogating to himſelfe to be Chriſtes owne vicar, without any ſcripture of deputation from Chriſt. Howſoeuer Bernard being deceiued by his inchantments, in his booke of conſideration, doth inconſiderately call the pope Aaron in dignitie, yea in order Melchiſedech, in vnction Chriſt, yet in the ſame booke he ſaith, he is not made ſuperiour to haue dominion, yea he bidderh the pope learne, that he had neede of a ploughſtaffe, not of a ſcepter. Againe he ſaith, Dominion is foebidden the Apoſtles. Goe thou and vſurpe if thou dareſt, either exerciſing dominion the Apoſtleſhippe, or exerciſing the Apoſtleſhippe dominion. Thou art plainelie forbidden from either of both, if thou wilt haue both alike together, thou ſhalt leeſe both. Or elſe thinke not that thou art excepted from the number of them, of whom God complaineth thus, They reigned but not of me, They were princes but I knew them not. The papiſts Cainits, Balaamits, Corits.

This

This and much more writeth Bernard againſt the antichriſtian tyranny & vſurped auctoritie of the pope, although he yeelded to his antichriſtian titles, and thought alſo more highly of his dignity then the ſcripture doth allow him. S. Iude therfore, deſcribing all heretikes, doth comprehend eſpecially antichriſt and his miniſters, as Beda ſaith: who ſhall iuſtly be caſt into eternall darkeneſſe of tormentes, becauſe they brought into the church of God the darkneſſe of errors vnder the name of light.

Rhem. 5. 16. These are they which ſegregate them ſelues.) The conditions of Heretikes in the later daies, that is, euer ſince Chriſts time, not of theſe onely of our age. For there were many that forſooke Gods Church and ſegregated them ſelues from the fellowſhip of the faithful euen in the primitiue Church: that we may the leſſe maruel at theſe mens ſegregating them ſelues, and going out from the reſt into ſeuerall ſectes, which S. Auguſtine therfore calleth Segregations. — All Heretikes ſegregate them ſelues.

Fulke. 5. We haue not ſegregated our ſelues from the church as heretikes, but from heretikes as true catholikes alwayes haue done. We haue gone out of Babylon as the Holy ghoſt hath commanded all the faithfull, after her wickednes is openly diſcouered Apoc. 18. that we ſhould not communicate with her ſinnes, nor be partakers of her plagues. The pope therfore & his miniſters haue ſeparated themſelues from the vnity of the catholike church, to maintein his antichriſtian primacy, as Beda ſaith of the rebellion of Core: Quicunque &c. whoſoeuer through deſire of vndue primacy doe diuide themſelues from the vnity of the holy church, knowing and foreſeeing how great miſchiefe they take in hand, doe go downe to the hell of wickednes. So did pope Boniface the third, which not ignorantly (for by his predeceſſor Gregory, he was taught how great miſchiefe he tooke in hand) but of antichriſtian pride, bought the primacy for a great ſumme of mony, of the murthering vſurper of the empire Phocas, and ſeparated himſelfe from the vnitie of the catholike church, and ſo deſcended with the reſt of his ſucceſſors, and all their miniſters into an hell of wickednes. Beholde theſe are they among others in our dayes, which doe ſegregate themſelues, as their predeceſſors did before them, being ſenſuall and void of the ſpirit of God. — The pope is gone out of the church.

THE ARGVMENT OF THE APOCALYPSE OF S. IOHN.

Rhem. 1. WHAT which the old Teſtament foretold of Chriſt him ſelf, the Apoſtles could report the fulfilling thereof in the new Teſtament, by way of an hiſtorie, euen from his Conception to his Glorification. But of his Church, they could not doe the like: becauſe in their time it did but beginne: being to continue long after them, euen to the end of the world, and then at length to be glorified, as Chriſt her Spouſe alreadie is. Hereupon God would haue S. Luke to report in the Actes of the Apoſtles, the ſtorie of the Churches beginning. and for the reſt of it to the end, (that we might receiue this benefite alſo by the Apoſtles handes) he would S. Iohn to tell vs of it in this booke by way of a propheſie.

Of which booke S. Hierome ſaith: The Apocalypſe of S. Iohn hath as many ſacraments or myſteries, as wordes. Yea more then that, In euery word there are hid manifold and ſundrie ſenſes. Therfore it is very litle that can here be noted, in reſpect. Yet to giue the good Catholike (whoſe comfort is here) ſome litle helpe, the booke may be deuided into fiue partes. — Hier. ad Paulin.

1 part. The firſt (after the Proeme) conteineth ſeuen Epiſtles from Chriſt now in glorie, to ſeuen Churches of Aſia, or (for, theſe he maketh al one) to the ſeuen Biſhops of thoſe Churches: meaning not to thoſe only, but to al his Churches and Biſhops throughout the world: ſaying therefore in euery one of them, to al in general: He that hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to the Churches. As alſo in euery one he exhorteth vs to fight manfully (in this ſpiritual warfare of ours againſt ſinne) for the victorie, and in euery one accordingly promiſeth vs a reward in heauen. But before this, in the beginning of euery one, he partly commendeth, partly reprehendeth, and exhorteth to penance. Where this is much to be noted, and feared, that among ſo many, he reproueth ſomewhat in al, ſaue only in two, which are the ſecond and the ſixt. In the beginning alſo of euery one, he taketh ſome peece out of the viſion going before, to frame therof his ſtyle agreably to the matter of eche Epiſtle. — Ca. 1. 2. 3.

2 After this admonition to Paſtors and their flockes: the ſecond part ſoloweth, wherein the Church and whole courſe therof from the beginning to the end, is expreſſed in the opening of a booke in Gods hand, and the ſeuen ſeales therof, by Chriſt. for the which, he ſeeth praiſe ſung now in heauen and earth, not only to the Godhead, as before, but alſo (after a new maner) to Chriſt according to his Manhod. And here, when he is come to the opening of the laſt ſeale, ſignifying Domeſday, he letteth that matter alone for a while, and to ſpeake more fully yet of the ſaid courſe of the Church he bringeth in an other pagent (as it were) of ſeuen Angels with ſeuen Trumpets. The effect of both the Seales and Trumpets, is this: That the Church beginning and proceding, there ſhould be raiſed againſt it, cruel perſecutions, and peſtilent hereſies: and at length after al hereſies, a certaine moſt blaſphemous Apoſtaſie, being the next preparatiue to the comming of Antichriſt: After al which, Antichriſt him ſelf in perſon ſhal appeare in the time of the ſixt ſeale, and ſixt trumpet, perſecuting and ſeducing (for the ſhort time of his reigne) more then al before him. The Church notwithſtanding ſhal ſtil continue, and wade through al, becauſe Chriſt her Spouſe is ſtronger then al theſe aduerſaries. who alſo ſtraight after the ſaid ſixt time, ſhal in the ſeuenth, come in maieſtie and iudge al. — Ca. 4. to the 8.

3 Of the which iudgement, differring yet a while to ſpeake at large, he doth firſt in the third part intreate more fully of the Deuils working by Antichriſt and his companie againſt the Church, that the iuſtice of Chriſt afterward in iudging, may be more manifeſt. — C. 12. 13. 14.

4 At length therfore in the fourth part he commeth to the ſeuen laſt plagues, the ſeuenth of them conteining the final damnation of the whole multitude, ſocietie or corps of the wicked, from the beginning of the world to the end. Which multitude, in the Goſpel and firſt Epiſtle of this ſame S. Iohn (as alſo in the other Scriptures commonly) is often called Mundus, the word. and here he calleth it partly, Meretricem, a whore or harlot, becauſe with her concupiſcence ſhe entiſeth the carnal and earthly men away from God: partly, Ciuitatem Babylon, the Citie of Babylon, becauſe it maketh warre againſt Hieruſalem the Citie of God, & laboureth to hold Gods people captiue in ſinne, as it was ſhadowed in Nebuchadnezzar and — C. 15. to 21. — 1 Io. 2. Apoc. 17.

and his Babylonians, leading & holding the Iewes with their Hieruſalem, in captiuitie, vntil Cyrus (in figure of Chriſt) deliuered them. But whether al theſe ſeuen plagues ſhould be vnderſtood (as the ſeuenth) of Domeſday it ſelf, it is hard to define. More like it is, that the firſt ſixe are to goe before Domeſday: but whither corporally and litterally, (ſo as Moſes plagued Egypt) or rather ſpiritually, it is more hard to define. Yet it ſeemeth more eaſie, to vnderſtand them corporally, as alſo the plagues wherewith Elias and his fellow ſhal in the time of Antichriſt plague the wicked (which peraduenture ſhal be the ſame laſt plagues) whereof we reade in this booke c. 11. v. 6. But not contents to haue deſcribed thus the damnation of the whole adulterous and blouddy ſocietie, he doth alſo expreſly report of their three grand Captaines damnation, which are theſe, Antichriſt, and his Falſeprophet, and the Deuil him ſelf the author of al this miſchiefe.

5 Finally, on the other ſide, in the fifth part he reporteth the vnſpeakeable and euerlaſting glorie, that the Church after al this ſuffering ſhal by Chriſt her glorious Spouſe be aſſumpted vnto. And ſo he concludeth the booke. C.21.22.

Fulke. 1. As this booke conteineth a prophecie of the ſtate of the church vntill the end of the world, ſo it is no maruell if many thinges ſeemed obſcure to the ancient fathers, before they were fulfilled, which are now cleere and euident to vs, after they be accompliſhed. Yet concerning antichriſt & his citie where he ſhould reigne, the apoſtle doth ſo plainely deſcribe them, that many of the ancient fathers did ſee plainely that he ſhould be a Romane tyrant, and haue his chiefe ſee at Rome: as I haue declared vpon 2. Theſſ. 2. And the diſcription of Babylon cap. 17. with the angels interpretation, is ſo euident of Rome, that it is extreme impudency to denie it, or to ſhift it off vnto the whole multitude and corps of the wicked, as more plainely ſhall appeare when we come to the annotations vpon that chapter. That Elias ſhall come any more in perſon, it is a vaine ſurmiſe vpon the eleuenth chapter, where it is ſaid, that notwithſtanding the greateſt tyranny of antichriſt, yet God will giue ſtrength to his two witneſſes, which ſignifieth the ſmall number, and yet ſufficient, to be accepted of them that ſhall oppoſe themſelues againſt the crueltie and pride of antichriſt. And euen as the Phariſees deceiued the Iewes, concerning the comming of Elias, that they ſhould not acknowledge Chriſt to be come, becauſe Elias was not come in perſon, though he were come in ſpirit and office, ſo their ſucceſſors the papiſts deceiue the ignorant, that they ſhould not acknowledge the manifeſtation of antichriſt, vnder pretence that Elias is not yet come in perſon, with his fellow Enoch. Of whoſe perſonall returne the ſcripture ſpeaketh nothing, but of two witneſſes, repreſenting the ſmall number, yet the lawfull teſtimonie of them that gaue their liues for the goſpell of Chriſt, and for admoniſhing the church of the deceits and tyrannie of antichriſt. Rome the ſeat of antichriſt.

The church readeth this booke at Mattins frō the 3 Sūday after Eaſter vnto the 4.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. 1.

Rhem. 2. 1. APOCALYPSE.) Of the Apocalypſe thus writeth the auncient father Denys, Biſhop of Corinth, as Euſebius alleageth him li. 7. c. 20. hiſt. Eccl. Of this booke (ſaith he) this is my opinion, that the matter thereof is far more profound then my wit can reache vnto, and I doubt not but almoſt in euery ſentence of it, there lieth hidden a certaine ſenſe exceding myſtical and maruelous, which though I vnderſtand not, yet I conceiue that vnder the wordes there is a deepe meaning, and I meaſure not the matter by reaſon, but attribute al to faith, taking it to be more high and diuine, then I can by cogitation compriſe: not reproouing that which I vnderſtand not, but therfore I admire with reuerence, becauſe my wit can not attaine to it. Againe S. Auguſtine ſaith, that in the Apocalypſe many things are obſcurely ſpoken, to exerciſe the minde of the reader: and yet ſome few things left euident, that through them a man may with labour ſearche out the reſt. ſpecially for that the author ſo repeateth the ſame things in diuers ſortes, that ſeeming to ſpeake of ſundry matters, in deede is found but to vtter the ſame things diuers waies. li. 20. de Ciuit. Dei c. 17. Which we ſet downe here in the beginning, to warne the good Chriſtian reader, to be humble and wiſe in the reading both of al other holy Scriptures, and namely of this diuine and deepe prophecie: giuing him further to vnderſtand, that we wil in our Annotations, according to our former traile and purpoſe, onely or cheefely note vnto the ſtudious, ſuch places as may be vſed by Catholikes, or abuſed by Heretikes, in the controuerſies of this time, and ſome other alſo that haue ſpecial matter of edification, and that as breefely as may be, for thas the volume grow to great.

An admonition to the reader concerning the difficultie of this booke.

Fulke 2. Among thoſe things that are ſo euident by S. Auguſtines confeſſion, in this prophecie, there is nothing more cleare, then Rome to be that whore of Babylon, and the chiefe citie of Antichriſts dominion. In ſo much that S. Auguſtine calleth Rome the Weſterne Babylon, the ſecond Babylon, an other Babylon, the daughter of the former Babylon, the earthly citie, as it is oppoſite to the citie of God. De ciuitat. lib. 16. c. 17. lib. 18. c. 2. 22. & 27. The ſame was acknowledged by moſt of the ancient Fathers, Irenæus, Tertullian, Victorinus, Ambroſe, Hierome, Primaſius, Arethas, Ambroſius Auſbertus, as in due place is ſhewed. Which if it were euident by the wordes and circumſtance of the text, when the prophecie was not yet fulfilled, how much more manifeſt is it now, when we ſee the performance of that which ſo long before was deſcribed?

Rome is Babylon.

Rhem. 3. 4. To the 7 Churches.) That certaine numbers may be obſerued as ſignificatiue and myſtical, is in plaine by many places of holy Scripture, and by the auncient Doctors ſpecial noting of the ſame to many purpoſe. Wherby, we ſee the reaſon of our Aduerſaries, in condemning generally al religious reſpect of certaine numbers in our prayers, faſtes, or actions. Namely the number of Seuen, is myſtical, and prophetical, perfect, and which (as S. Auguſtine ſaith) the Church knoweth by the Scriptures, to be ſpecially dedicated to the holy Ghoſt: and to appertaine to ſpirituall mundation. as in the Prophets appointing of Naaman to waſh ſeuen times in Iordan, and the ſprinkling of the blood ſeuen times againſt the tabernacle, the queſt. in numer. q. 33. See li. 5. c. 5. de Gen. ad lit. & li. 5. quæſt. in Deuter. q. 42. Al theſe viſions ſtand vpon Seuen, ſeuen Churches, ſeuen Angels, ſeuen ſtarres, ſeuen ſpirites, ſeuen candleſtickes, ſeuen lampes, ſeuen trumpets, ſeuen vials, ſeuen hornes of the Lambe, ſeuen hilles, ſeuen thunders, ſeuen heades of the Dragon ſignifying the Diuel; ſeuen of the beaſt that is, Antichriſt. ſeuen of the beaſt that the harlot rid vpon: finally the number alſo of the viſions is ſpecially marked to be ſeuen, in this booke. and euery time that this number is vſed in this prophecie, it hath a myſterie and a more large meaning, then the nature of that number is preciſely and vulgarly taken for. As when he writeth to ſeuen Churches, is is to be vnderſtood of al the Churches in the world: as the ſeuen Angels, for al the Angels or gouernours of the whole Catholike Church: and ſo forth in the reſt, becauſe the number of Seuen, hath the perfection of vniuerſalitie in it. as S. Auguſtine ſaith li. 5 quæſt. in Deuter. q. 42.

Numbers myſtical.

The number of ſeuen myſtical: ſpecially in this booke.

Fulke 3. That certaine numbers in the Scripture are noted to be ſignificatiue and myſticall, we acknowledge by many places in the Scriptures, eſpecially in the Prophets. But hereof it followeth not, that there muſt be a ſuperſtitious reſpect of numbers in our prayers, faſtes, or other actions, which is not preſcribed or appointed to vs by the holy Ghoſt. For albeit the numbers of ſeuen, of ten, and ſome other, are often repeated in this prophecie, and other, to deſcribe ſome myſteries of godlines, and ſome alſo of wickednes: it is no reaſon that we ſhould imagine, that prayers, or faſtes, numbred by ſeuens and by tennes, or any like numbers, ſhall be more acceptable to God, which ſmelleth more of heathenith Phariſaicall and Pythagoricall vanitie, then of Chriſtian religion. For one prayer, or other action of pietie, or two or fower, or eight, or nine, performed of faith and true deuotion, are more acceptable then all the Roſaries, Lady Pſalters, and other like ſuperſtitious repetitions, conſiſting vpon ſeuens or tennes, or any other myſticall numbers, which God regardeth not, but the faith and charitie out of which ſuch actions of religion or loue doe proceede. But that in prayers, faſtes, and other actions, a religious reſpect is to be had, you proue out of Auguſtine, which ſayth, that ſeuen, which is a number of perfection, the Church knoweth to be ſpecially dedicated to the holye Ghoſt, and to appertaine to ſpirituall mundation. In deede S. Auguſtine ſayth: De gen. lib. 5. c. 5. That the Scripture conſtendeth, and the Church knoweth, that the number of ſeuen is quodam modo, after a ſort dedicated to the holy Ghoſt: which he ſpeaketh of the reſte of the ſeuenth day, which the Church obſerueth according to the Scripture. What is this to commend a religious reſpect of this number, in praying, faſting, or other actions? In the ſeconde place, Quæſt. in Num. cap. 33. ſpeaking of Eleazars ſprinkeling of the bloude of the Sacrifice propitiatorie ſeuen tymes. He ſayeth: Therefore it was ſeuen tymes, becauſe that number is fitte ſomewhat to cleanſing. Whereby he meaneth, that the number of ſeuen, vſed in the Ceremoniall cleanſing of the law, did ſignifie perfect clenſing by the ſacrifice propitiatorie of Chriſt, not that there is any vertue of clenſing in the number, or that our praiers or faſtings numbred by ſeuen, be more pure, then if they be numbred by ſixe, or nine, or then if there be no reſpect of the number, but of the affection of him that praieth or faſteth. In the 3. place, Quæſt. in Deut. lib 3. c. 22. He ſheweth that the number of ſeuen is a perfect number, conſiſting of three and fower, the firſt whole odde number, and the firſt whole euen number. But he ſayth no worde to approue this religious reſpect of numbers, in praying, or faſting, or other actions, whereof you ſpeake. Therefore in theſe allegations and quotations, you doe nothing els but abuſe your Reader, for S. Auguſtine hath no ſuch meaning, of the ſuperſtitious obſeruation of numbers, to commend prayers and faſtings, or other Chriſtian actions.

Rhem. 4. 4. From the 7 ſpirites.) The holy Ghoſt may be here meant, and ſo called for his ſeuenfold giftes and graces, as ſome expoſitours thinke. but is ſeemeth more probable that he ſpeaketh of the holy Angels, by comparing this to the like in the 5 Chapter following: where he ſeemeth to cal theſe, the ſeuen ſpirites ſent into al the world, as S. Paul to the Hebrues (c. 1, 14.) ſpeaketh of Angels. and ſo the Proteſtants take it in their commentaries: which we note, becauſe therevpon they muſt needes confeſſe that the Apoſtle here giueth or wiſheth grace and peace, not from God onely, but alſo from his Angels: though that benediction commeth one way of God, and an other way of his Angels or Sainctes, being but his creatures. And ſo they may learne, that the faithful often ioyning in one ſpeache, God and our Lady, our Lord and any of his Sainctes, to helpe vs or bleſſe vs, is not ſuperſtitious, but an Apoſtolical ſpeache, and ſo the Patriarch ſaid (Gen. 48. v. 16.) The Angel that deliuereth me from al euils, bleſſe theſe children. See the Annot. Act. 15, 28.

Grace & peace from God and the holy Angels.

God and our Lady ſaue vs, and the like.

Fulke 4. Firſt, all the ancient Interpretors in a manner, vnderſtand the ſeuen ſpirites, to be the holy Ghoſt, who in his ſeuenfold giftes or operations, is knowen in the Church. But to admit, that they ſignifie the whole number of the bleſſed Angels that waite about the throne of God, as cap. 5. as Arethas, and ſome Proteſtants (as you ſay) in their Commentaries vpon this text doe take it: yet it followeth not, that we muſt confeſſe, that the Apoſtle here giueth, or wiſheth grace and peace, not from God onely, but alſo from the Angels, as auctors of this grace, or peace, together with God, or any meanes to procure it by their merites or worthines, but as miniſters of Gods will and pleaſure, appointed for their ſakes, that ſhall inherite ſaluation, Heb. 1, 14. Therefore thus writeth Arethas vpon this text. Some haue taken the ſeuen ſpirites to be the ſeuen operations of the holye Ghoſt, but it is more probable, to take them for Angels, not that they are comprehended with the Almightie Trinitie, or that we muſt thinke them to be of equall honour with it, but becauſe they ſerue and obey him, if we muſt beleeue the Prophets, teſtifying that all things ſerue him, and Daniel the progenitor of God, ſaying: Bleſſe God all ye Angels, being mightie in power, which fulfill his worde. And certainly to ſay, that to comprehend the diuinitie and the nature of Angels, is to ſhewe an equalitie of honour, betweene the Almightie Trinitie, which is the auctor of all creatures, and a miniſteriall ſubſtance, is not the part of one that hath vnderſtanding, or but meane vnderſtanding, but of him that is ignorant, as I thinke, that this creature delighteth to ſtande by the Lorde, and to miniſter vnto him: which forme of ſpeache Paule alſo vſing in his Epiſtle to Timothy, ſpeaketh in this manner: I charge thee in the ſight of God, and his elect Angels. And this ſaying is of one that followeth the ſame. But alſo to adde in this place, which are in the preſence of the throne of God, it is a ſpeache of him that teſtifieth their miniſteriall order, not their equall honour.

Angels ſeruants. Chriſt onely Mediator.

First therefore the Apoſtle giueth no grace or peace, but prayeth for grace and peace, to be giuen onely by God for Ieſus Chriſtes ſake, though in diſpenſing of the ſame, for the ſaluation or preſeruation of his elect, he vſe the miniſterie or ſeruice of Angels, and therefore prayeth for Gods benefites to be beſtowed vpon the Church, by ſuch miniſterie of the holie Angels, as he hath appointed. Who continually wayte vpon the throne of God, to receiue and execute his commaundements, for the benefite and preſeruation of his Church. Therefore they are adioyned as ſeruants vnto their Lord, for their miniſteries ſake, in which reſpect they are named alſo before our Sauiour Chriſt, for that they be onely Miniſters, and not meritorious cauſes of Gods bleſſings vnto his Church, as our and their Lorde Ieſus Chriſt is. Therefore God onely is auctor of grace and peace, diſpenſing the ſame in ſome manner by the ſeruice of his Angels, but not for their merites or worthines, but onely for the worthines and merites of Ieſus Chriſt, who hath loued vs, and waſhed vs from our ſinnes, &c. as it followeth in the text. Therefore thoſe ſuperſtitious prayers of the Papiſtes, God and our Ladie helpe, our Lorde and his Sainctes helpe, or bleſſe, are nothing like to this prayer of the Apoſtle. For although God vſe the miniſterie of Angels, in diſpenſing of his graces and bleſſings, for the preſeruation of his Church, (as he doth alſo the miniſterie of men vpon earth,) yet he vſeth not the miniſterie of the bleſſed Virgine Marie, or of the Sainctes departed out of this life, for any ſuch purpoſe: and much leſſe doth graunt his graces or bleſſings, for the merites or worthines either of Angels, or of Sainctes, as Papiſtes in their prayers deſire to obteine them, not by the miniſterie of Angels, nor by the prayer of Sainctes onely, but for their merites and worthines. Therefore the Angell whereof Iacob ſpeaketh, whether it ſignifie Chriſt, or the Miniſter by which Chriſt did protect him, is nothing like to the Popiſh prayers which deſire grace, bleſſing, and ſaluation, by the merites of bleſſed Marie, by the merites of ſuch a Sainct, by the blood of Thomas, and ſuch like.

Rhem. 5. 6. A kingdom and Prieſts.) As al that truely ſerue God, and haue the dominion and ſuperioritie ouer their concupiſcences and whatſoeuer would include them to ſinne, be kings: ſo al that employ their workes and them ſelues to ſeruice God and offer al their actions as an acceptable ſacrifice to him, be Prieſts. Neuertheleſſe, as if any man would therevpon affirme that there ought to be no other earthly powers or kings to gouerne in worldly affaires ouer Chriſtians, he were a ſeditious Heretike, euen ſo are they that vpon this or the like places where al Chriſtians be called Prieſts in a ſpiritual ſort, would therefore inferre, that euery one is in proper ſignification a Prieſt, or that al be Prieſts alike, or that there ought to be none but ſuch ſpiritual Prieſts. for it is the ſeditious voice of Core, ſaying to Moyſes and Aaron, Let it ſuffice you, that al the multitude is of holy ones, and the Lord is in them. Why are you extolled ouer the people of the Lord? Num. 16.

How al Chriſtians be both kings and Prieſts.

Fulke 5. As the ſpiritual kingdome and Prieſthood of Gods children, taketh not away the eternall kingdome and Prieſthood of Chriſt, ſo neither the earthly kingdomes of the worlde, nor the Eccleſiaſticall Elderſhip or miniſteminiſterie of the Church. And yet all true Chriſtians are Prieſtes alike, becauſe there is none other ſacrificing Prieſthood, leſt but the eternall Prieſthood of Chriſt, and the ſpirituall Prieſthood of all his Sainctes. Wherefore you doe nothing but cauill in this place, as in many other, vpon the ambiguitie of this Engliſh word Prieſt, and Prieſthood, which according to the Etymologie from the Greeke worde whence it is deriued, ſignifieth the Elderſhip and Elders of the Church: but according to the common vſe of ſpeach, is taken for a ſacrificer, and the office of ſacrificing. Wherefore if you did write theſe notes in Laune or Greeke, euery childe might ſee your vnlearned collection. The worde which the holy Ghoſt here vſeth, is ἱερεῖς, in Latine Sacerdotes, in Engliſh Sacrificers: this office of ſacrificers and ſacrificing, we ſay, and boldly ſay, is either ſingular to Chriſt, in reſpect of his ſacrifice propitiatorie, and all other partes of his holy office, perteining to our perfect reconciliation and redemption, or els it is common to all true Chriſtians, in reſpect of their ſpirituall ſacrifices of praiſe, and thankes giuing. Neither is this worde euer applied in the New Teſtament, to any Eccleſiaſticall order, and function of men, but they be called Epiſcopi, Presbyteri, Diaconi, Miniſtri, Præpoſiti, Doctores, and ſuch like, that is, Ouerſeers, Elders, Miniſters, Gouernours, Teachers, &c. But neuer are they called more then any other Chriſtian men or women, ἱερεῖς, Sacerdotes, that is, Sacrificers, or ſacrificing Prieſtes. Therefore if the Scripture ſpeake properly and truely, all Chriſtians are ſacrificers alike, and onely Chriſt is our eternall high ſacrificer, or ſacrificing Prieſt. Wherefore they that vſurpe that ſacrificing Prieſthood, which is peculiar to him, doe much more ſhew them ſelues ſeditious rebels, then Core, who challenged the figuratiue and temporall ſacrificing Prieſthood of Aaron, which was but a ſhadow of the true and eternall ſacrificing Prieſthood of Chriſt. As for the holy Eccleſiaſticall offices, of miniſterie and gouernment of the Church, we know they be not common to all, but vnto thoſe only, that are lawfully ordeined vnto them.

Cauilling diſcouered.

Rhem. 6. 10. On the Dominical day.) Many notable pointes may be marked here. firſt, that euen in the Apoſtles time there were daies deputed to the ſeruice of God, and ſo made holy and different, though not by nature, yet by vſe and benediction, from other profane or (as we cal them) worke-daies.

Secondly, that the Apoſtles and faithful abrogated the Sabboth which was the ſeuenth day, and made holy day for it, the next day following, being the eight day in coumt from the creation: and that without al Scriptures, or commaundement of Chriſt that we: eade of, yea (which is more) not onely otherwiſe then was by the Law obſerued, but plainely otherwiſe then was preſcribed by God him ſelf in the ſecond commaundement, yea and otherwiſe then he ordained in the firſt creation, when he ſanctified preciſely the Sabboth day, and not the day following. Such great power did Chriſt leaue to his Church, and for ſuch cauſes gaue he the holy Ghoſt to be reſident in it, to guide it into al trueties, euen ſuch as in the Scriptures are not expreſſed. And if the Church had authoritie and inſpiration from God, to make Sunday (being a worke-day before) an euerlaſting holy day: and the Saturday, that before was holy day, now a common worke day: why may not the ſame Church preſcribe and appoint the other holy feaſtes of Eaſter, Whitſuntide, Chriſtmas, and the reſt? for the ſame warrant ſhe hath for the one, that ſhe hath for the other.

Difference of holy daies and worke daies. Sunday made holy day by the Apoſtles and the Churches auctoritie. Other feaſtes ordained by the Church.

Thirdly, it is to be noted that the cauſe of this change was, for that now we Chriſtians eſteeming more our redemption, then our firſt creation, haue the holy day which was before for the remembrance of Gods accompliſhment of the creation of things, now for the memorie of the accompliſhment of our redemption. Which therfore is kept vpon that day on which our Lord roſe from life to death, which was the day after the Sabboth, being called by the Iewes, vna or prima Sabbathi, the first of or after the Sabboth. Mat. 28. Act. 20. 1. Cor. 16. Fourthly, it is to be marked, that this holy day by the Apoſtles tradition alſo, was named Dominicus dies, our Lordes day, or, the Dominike, which is alſo an old Eccleſiaſtical word in our language. for the name Sunday is a heathenish calling, as al other of the weeke daies be in our language: ſome impoſed after the names of planets, as in the Romans time: ſome by the name of certaine Idols that the Saxons did worſhip, and to which they dedicated their daies before they were Chriſtians. Which names the Church vſeth not, but hath appointed to cal the firſt day, the Dominike, after the Apoſtle here: the other by the name of Feries, vntil the laſt of the weeke, which ſhe calleth by the old name, Sabboth, becauſe that was of God, and not by impoſition of the heathen. See the marginal Annotation Luc. 24. 1.

As Saturday wasin memorie of the creation, ſo Sunday of Chriſts reſurrection. The Church vſeth not the Heathenish names of daies: but Dies Dominicus, feria, Sabbatum.

Laſtly obſerue, that God reuealeth ſuch great things to Prophets, rather vpon holy daies, and in times of contemplation, faſting, and prayer, then on other profane daies. and therfore as S. Peter (Act. 10.) had a reuelation at the ſixt houre of prayer, and Zacharie (Luc. 1.) at the houre of incenſe, and Cornelius (Act. 10.) when he was at his prayers the ninthe houre, ſo here S. Iohn noteth that he had al theſe maruelous viſions vpon a Sunday.

God giueth greater grace at holy times of prayer and faſting.

Fulke 6. That the Lordes day was ſanctified in ſteede of the Iewiſh Saboth, for the aſſemblies of the faithfull to the publike exerciſes of religion, we learne by this place. But that there were any other holy daies beſide this, we finde not in the Scriptures.

Secondly, the Apoſtles did not abrogate the Iewiſh Saboth, but Chriſt him ſelfe by his death, as he did all other ceremonies of the Lawe, that were figures and ſhadowes of things to come, whereof he was the body, and they were fulfilled and accompliſhed in him, and by him. And this the Apoſtles knewe, both by the Scriptures, and by the worde of Chriſt, and by his holy ſpirite. By the Scripture alſo they knewe, that one day of ſeuen, was appointed to be obſerued for euer, during the worlde, as conſecrated and hallowed to the publike exerciſes of the religion of God, although the ceremoniall reſte, and preſcript day according to the Lawe, were abrogated by the death of Chriſt. Nowe for the preſcription of this daye, before any other of the ſeuen, they had without doubt, either the expreſſe commaundement of Chriſt, before his aſſention, when he gaue them precepts concerning the kingdome of God, and the ordering and gouernment of his Church, Act. 1, 2. or els the certaine direction of his ſpirite, that it was his will and pleaſure it ſhould ſo be, and that alſo according to the Scriptures. Seeing there is the ſame reaſon of ſanctifying that day, in which our Sauiour Chriſt accompliſhed our redemption, and the reſtitution of the worlde by his reſurrection from death, that was of ſanctifying the day, in which the Lorde reſted from the creation of the world: where you ſaye, it was otherwiſe preſcribed by God him ſelf in the ſeconde commaundement: Firſt, I meruaile what accompt you followe of the tenne Commaundements, when this Commaundement of the Sabboth, both in the 20. of Exodus, and the fifth of Deuteronomie is the fowerth Commaundement. And although you leaue out the commaundement againſt idolatrie, becauſe it ſhould be too manifeſt a conuiction of your impietie, yet I ſee not how you can make the commaundement of the Saboth, the ſecond commaundement, except you will alſo exclude the third commaundement againſt the taking of the name of God in vaine. But to let this paſſe as a groſſe ouerſight, I anſwer to the matter, the preſcript of the day, as of the maner of reſt, and other rites in obſeruing thereof, was ceremoniall, as circumciſion, bloud, ſtrangled, and the ſacrifices inſtituted from the beginning of the world, and therefore abrogated together, with the ceremonies firſt inſtituted in mount Sina. Wherefore this abrogation of the Iewiſh Saboth, and inſtitution of the Lordes day, doth not proue any power in the Church, to abrogate any thing preſcribed by God in the Scriptures, or to inſtitute any thing of like nature, and neceſſitie of obſeruing, beſide the Scriptures. For although the Church in daies or times, which are indifferent, may take order for ſome other daies or times, to be ſolemnized for the exerciſes of religion, or that the remembrance of Chriſtes natiuitie, reſurrection, aſcenſion, or the comming of the holy Ghoſt, may be celebrated either on the Lordes day, or any other time: yet there is great difference betweene the auctoritie of the Church in this caſe, and the preſcription of the Lordes day, by the Apoſtles. For the ſpeciall memories of thoſe thinges are indifferent of their nature, either to be kept on certaine daies, or left to the diſcretion of the Gouernours of the Church, to be celebrated as any other occaſion ſhall be offered. Neither if they be aſſigned to certaine daies in the yeare, is it neceſſarie they ſhould be kept on thoſe daies, which they are now vſed, rather then on other daies, in which they haue of olde been vſed. Yea the Pope hath taken vpon him of late, to alter all thoſe feſtiuall daies, that for many hundred yeeres haue beene obſerued otherwiſe. But to change the Lordes day, and to keepe it on Munday, Tueſday, or any other day, the Church hath none auctoritie. For it is not a matter of indifferencie, but a neceſſarie preſcription of Chriſt him ſelfe, deliuered to vs by his Apoſtles. The Church therefore, hath promiſe to be ledde into all truth, ſo ſhe follow the rule of truth, which is the worde of God, expreſſed in the holy Scriptures. Not that ſhe hath the ſame aſſurance of Gods ſpirite, which the Apoſtles had, who were ſo directed thereby, that although they were fraile men, by nature ſubiect to errour, yet they could not decline in their writings and ordinances for the Church, from the truth, or the holy Scriptures. Wherefore the Church hath not nowe the ſame warrant of the ſpirite which the Apoſtles had, neither may ſhe alter any thing that they (as the Embaſſadours of Chriſt,) haue preſcribed to be perpetuall, nor make any thing neceſſarie by nature, which they haue left indifferent. Auctoritie of the Church.

Thirdly, the cauſe of this change, was not our eſtimation that either we haue, or ought to haue of our redemption aboue our creation, but the ordinance of God, who as firſt he ſanctified the reſt from creation, for the glorie of that worke: ſo now alſo he ſanctifieth the day of the reſtitution of the world, for his glorie of the accompliſhment of our redemption. Moreouer, as the name of Sunday and the reſte, is of the Heathenish beginning, and therefore were better to be otherwiſe termed, as the firſt, the ſecond, the third from the Lordes day, as the Iewes called their daies from the Saboth: ſo your terme of feries, is no leſſe Heathenish, then the common Engliſh names, being taken not out of the Scriptures, but from the Heathenish terme of Feria, and Feriæ, as witneſſeth Iſidorus Orig. lib. 6. And Sextus Pompeius de verbis veteribus, ſayth: that Feria was called à feriendis victimis, of ſtriking the Heathenish ſacrifices.

Your laſt obſeruation, that God reuealeth ſuch great things, rather vpon holy daies, or giueth grace at holy times, is friuolous, for not in reſpect of the holines of the day, or time, he giueth reuelations, or his graces, but according to his pleaſure. Times of prayer, contemplation, and other godly exerciſes, he chuſeth often, not for the worthines of the times, but for the better diſpoſition of his ſeruants in ſuch exerciſes, to receiue them. And yet there is nothing perpetually obſerued in this matter. God appeared to Moſes, keeping of ſheepe, Exod. 3. To Amos following his herd, Amos 7. To the Prophets commonly in their ſleepe.

Rhem. 7. 13. Veſted in a Prieſtly garment.) He appeared in a long garment or veſtiment proper vnto Prieſts (for ſo the word podéres, doth ſignifie, as Sap. 18, 24) and that was moſt agreable for him that repreſented the perſon of Chriſt the high Prieſt, and appeared to Iohn being a moſt holy Prieſt, and who is ſpecially noted in the Eccleſiaſtical hiſtorie for his Prieſtly garment called, pétalon or lámina. Euſeb. li. 3 hiſt. Eccl. c. 25. & li 5. c. 23. Prieſtly garments.

Fulke 7. S. Iohn was an Elder of the Church, as he calleth him ſelfe, Epiſt. 2. & 3. But he was no ſacrificer or ſacrificing Prieſt. Neither is he noted for his Prieſtly garment: for Petalon ſignifieth a plate, or brouch, and not a garment, except you will ſay a brouche is a garment. Nowe that Petalon which Polycrates, (as Euſebius reporteth) ſaith, that S. Iohn did beare, is not to be vnderſtood grãmatically, as though S. Iohn did weare ſuch a plate in his cappe or harte, but it is a figuratiue alluſion, vnto that plate of gold, which the high Prieſt of the law did weare vpon the ornament of his head, in which was grauen theſe wordes, The holines of the Lorde. Therefore he ſaith, (in reſpect of the diuine knowledge and holines, that was in this Apoſtle Iohn,) that he leaned vpon the Lordes breaſt, and was made the Prieſt that bare the Petalon or plate. Which if the Papiſtes will haue to be literally and abſolutely vnderſtoode, that S. Iohn was a Prieſt, and ware the Prieſtly garment, they muſt acknowledge, that he was the high Prieſt. For this Petalon or plate, was for none other to weare, but onely for the high Prieſt, as it is manifeſt by Exod. 28, 3. and c. 39. 30. Then if Iohn were the high Prieſt of Chriſtian religion, as Aaron and his ſucceſſors were of the Iewiſh people, it followeth, that Iohn was aboue Peter, and all the Apoſtles, in this dignitie of the high Prieſtes office. Which thing rather then the Papiſts wilgraunt, I dare ſay, they will acknowledge, that Iohn was not a ſacrificing Prieſt, nor did weare that Prieſtly ornament, which was proper to the high Prieſt only. What Prieſt S. Iohn was.

Rhem. 8. 20. The ſeuen ſtarres.) The Biſhops are the ſtarres of the Church, as the Churches themſelues are the golden candleſticks of the world: no doubt to ſignifie, that Chriſt preſerueth the truth onely in and by the lawful Biſhops and Catholike Church, and that Chriſts truth is not to be ſought for, in corners or conuenticles of Heretikes, but at the Biſhops handes, and Mat. 5. 15. * vpon the candleſticke which ſhineth to all in the houſe. The true religion manifeſt as the light on a candleſticke.

Fulke 8. The ordinarie meanes of continuance of the truth, (though not the only meanes,) is by the teaching of the Biſhops, and Elders of the Church. Therefore when the Biſhops and Prieſtes of the Popiſh Church, were Succeſſion.

were for the moſt part dombe dogges, and ignorant aſſes, that had no knowledge to teache, or els were teachers of errour and darkenes, rather then of trueth and light, no meruaile, though the golden candleſtickes were remoued from Rome, and other places, where in auncient time they were ſet: ſo that ignorance and hereſie ſo mightily preuailed, as in the kingdome of Antichriſt. For S. Iohn by the Angels of the Churches, meaneth not al that ſhould weare on their heads, myters, and hold crozier ſtaues in their hands like dead idoles: but them that are faithfull meſſengers of the Lordes worde, and vtter and declare the ſame. Not the angels of Sathan, though they be transfigured into the angels of light: but the Angels of God and Chriſt. The Popiſh Church therefore hath neither ſtarres nor candleſtickes in which true religion ſhould ſhine, but eyther idoles of Biſhops, or wolues in ſtead of Shepheards.

Rhem. 9. 20. The Angels of the Churches.) *The whole Church of Chriſt hath S. Michael for her keeper and Protector, and therefore keepeth his holy day on: by by name, among all Angels. And as earthly kingdomes haue their ſpeciall Angels Protectors, as we ſee in the 10. Chapter of Daniel: ſo much more the particular Churches of Chriſtendome. See S. Hierom in 34. Ezech. But of thoſe Angels it is not here meant, as is manifeſt. And therefore Angels here muſt needes ſignifie the Prieſtes or Biſhops ſpecially of the Churches here, and in them, all the gouernours of the whole and of euery particular Church of Chriſtendome. They are called Angels, for that they are Gods meſſengers to vs, interpreters of his will, our keepers and directors in religion, our interceſſors, the cariers and offerers of our prayers to him, and mediators vnto him vnder Chriſt, and for theſe cauſes and for their great dignitie they are here and in * other places of Scripture called Angels.*

Angels Protectors.

Biſhops and Prieſtes are called Angels.

Malac. 2, 7.

Fulke. 9. The whole Church hath Chriſt himſelfe, which is the true Michael, to be her Protector, and not one, but many holy Angels to defend her vnder him. That earthly kingdomes haue their ſpeciall angels Protectors, it is not proued out of Daniel. For ỹ Princes of the Perſians and Græcians ſpoken of cap. 10. were no Angels, but earthly Princes. For Angels doe not reſiſt Chriſt and his Angels the defenders of the Church, as the Prince of Perſia did verſe 13. Although Hierom vpon that place of Daniel, doth affirme that he was an Angel, and vpon Ezechiel 34. that the Shepheards of Iſrael, according to myſticall vnderſtanding, were the Angels of euery Church, to whom Iohn doth write in the Apocalypſe, and whoſe Angels dayly ſee the face of God. But the text is ſo plaine againſt the Shepheards of Iſrael, that a man might meruaile what S. Hierom meant to drawe it to the Angelike ſpirites, againſt whom the holy Ghoſt ſeeteth foorth no prophecies: neither doe they neglect any charge that is committed to them.

Angels.

Wherefore among many other reaſons this is one inuincible, to proue that they are not heauenly ſpirites, to whom S. Iohn writeth: but miniſters of the Church, that ſome of the Angels are reprehended for their offences, and exhorted to repent and amend, which perteyneth not to the heauenly ſpirites. But where as you make the Biſhops and Prieſtes our interceſſors, the cariars and offerers of our prayers, and mediators vnto God vnder Chriſt, you gather more then the place will afforde. For they are called the Angels of the Churches, becauſe they be Gods meſſengers vnto the Churches, not interceſſors, cariers, or mediators vnder Chriſt. For that was Parmenians errour, who placed the Biſhop mediator of interceſſion betweene the people and God, condemned by S. Auguſtine, who would not allowe S. Iohn himſelfe to be mediatour betweene God and vs. cont. ep. Parm. lib. 2. cap. 8.

Chriſt our only mediator of interceſſion.

The miniſters of the Church therefore doe pray for the people, eyther of common charitie, as the people pray for them, or els as the mouth of the people to conceiue or vtter the publike prayers in the name of the people for order and comelineſſe to be obſerued in the Church. But any office of mediation, aduocation, or interceſſion, to preſent the prayers of the people vnto God vnder Chriſt, that they may be acceptable, they haue not by the holy ſcriptures which teache, that all our prayers are accepted by the onely mediation and aduocation of Chriſt: See Iohn 2. Sect. 5.

CHAP. II.

He is commanded to write diuers things to the Churches of Epheſus, Smyrna, Pergamus, and Thyatira: praiſing them that had not admitted the doctrine of Heretikes called Nicolaite, 22 and calling others by threates vnto penance: 26 and promiſing reward to him that manfully ouercommeth.

AND ‡ to the Angel of the Church of Epheſus write, Thus ſayth he which holdeth the ſeuen ſtarres in his right hand, which walketh in the middes of the ſeuen candleſtickes of gold,

2 I knowe ‖ thy workes and labour, and thy patience: and that thou canſt not beare euill men, and haſt tryed them which ſay them ſelues to be Apoſtles, and are not, and haſt found them liars:

3 And thou haſt patience, and haſt borne for my name, and haſt not fainted.

4 But I haue againſt thee a fewe things, becauſe ‡ thou haſt left thy firſt charitie.

5 Be mindfull therefore frō whence thou art

VNto the Angel of the Church of Epheſus write, Theſe things ſayeth he that holdeth the ſeuen ſtarres in his right hand, and that walketh in the middeſt of the ſeuen golden candleſticks:

3 I knowe thy workes, and thy labour, and patience, and howe thou canſt not forbeare them which are euill: and haſt examined them which ſay they are apoſtles, and are not, and haſt found them liars:

3 And haſt ſuffered, and haſt patience, and for my names ſake haſt laboured, and haſt not fainted.

4 Neuertheleſſe, I haue ſomewhat againſt thee, becauſe thou haſt left thy firſt loue.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art art fallen: and doe penance, and doe the firſt workes. But if not: I come to thee, and ‖ will moue thy candleſticke out of his place, vnleſſe thou doe penance.

6 But this thou haſt, ‖ becauſe thou hateſt the factes ‖ of ỹ Nicolaites, which I alſo hate.

7 He ỹ hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to the Churches, To him that ouercommeth, I will giue to eate of the tree of life, which is in the Paradiſe of my God.

8 And to the Angel of the Church of Apoc.1,17. Smyrna write, Thus ſayth *the firſt and the laſt, who was dead, and liueth, 9 I know thy tribulation and thy ‡ pouertie, but thou art riche: and thou art blaſphemed of them ỹ ſay them ſelues to be Iewes and are not, but are the Synagogue of Satan.

10 Feare none of theſe things which thou ſhalt ſuffer. Beholde the Deuil will ſend ſome of you into priſon that you may be tried: and you ſhall haue tribulation ten dayes. Be thou faithfull vntill death: and I will giue thee ‡ the crowne of life.

‡ The ſingular reward of martyrdome.

11 He that hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to the Churches, He that ſhall ouercome, ſhall not be hurt of the ‡ ſecond death.

12 And to the Angel of the Church of Pergamus write, Thus ſaith he that hath the ſharpe two edged ſword, 13 I knowe where thou dwelleſt, where the ſeate of Satan is: and thou holdeſt my name, and haſt not denied my faith. And in thoſe dayes Antipas my faithfull witneſſe, who was ſlaine among you, ‡ where Satan dwelleth.

‡ The ſpeciall reſidence of Satan is where the faithful are perſecuted for Chriſtes truth. where not to deny the Goſpel, ſaith for feare, is much here commended. Nu.24,14. 25,2.

14 But I haue againſt thee a fewe things: becauſe thou haſt there, them that holde the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac * to caſt a ſcandal before the children of Iſrael, to eate and commit fornication:

15 So haſt thou alſo them that holde the doctrine of the Nicolaites.

16 In like maner doe penance. If not: I will come to thee quickly, and will fight againſt them with the ſword of my mouth.

* ψῆφος. calculum. * Fulke. This tranſlation is falſe, vnlearned, and ridiculous. For the word in both tongues ſignifieth a ſtone properly, in which it was vſed to write the names of them that were elected to honor, or abſolued frō crime.

17 He that hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to ỹ Churches, To him that ouercommeth I will giue the hidden manna, and wil giue him a * white counter: and in the counter a newe name written, which no man knoweth, but he that receiueth it.

18 And to the Angel of the Church of Thyatira write, Thus ſayth ỹ Sonne of God, which hath eies as a flame of fire, & his feete like to latten.

fallen, and repent, and doe the firſt workes: or els I will come vnto thee ſhortly, and will remooue thy candleſticke out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou haſt, becauſe thou hateſt the deedes of the Nicolaitans, which deedes I alſo hate.

7 Let him that hath an eare, heare what the Spirite ſayth vnto the Churches: To him that ouercōmeth, will I giue to eate of the tree of life, which is in the middeſt of the Paradiſe of God.

8 And vnto the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, write, Theſe things ſaith he that is firſt and the laſt, which was dead, and is aliue:

9 I know thy workes, and tribulation, and pouertie, (but thou art rich:) and I know the blaſphemie of them which call themſelues Iewes, and are not, but are the ſynagogue of Satan.

10 Feare none of thoſe things which thou ſhalt ſuffer: beholde, the deuill ſhall caſt ſome of you into priſon to tempt you, and ye ſhall haue tribulation tenne dayes: be thou faithfull vnto the death, and I will giue thee a crowne of life.

11 Let him that hath an eare, heare what the Spirit ſaith vnto the Churches. He that ouercommeth ſhall not be hurt of the ſecond death.

12 And to the Angel of the Church in Pergamos, write, Theſe things ſaith he which hath the ſharpe ſword with two edges.

13 I knowe thy workes, and where thou dwelleſt, euen where Satans ſeate is, and that thou holdeſt faſt my name, and haſt not denied my faith, euen in thoſe dayes, when Antipas my faithfull martyr was ſlaine among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I haue a fewe things againſt thee, becauſe thou haſt there them that maintaine the doctrine of Balaam, which taught † Balac to put a ſtumbling blocke before the children of Iſraei, that they ſhould eate of meate ſacrificed vnto idoles, and commit fornication. Nun.24.14. † Some reade taught in Balac.

15 Euen ſo haſt thou them that maintaine the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.

16 Repent, or els I will come vnto thee ſhortly, and will fight againſt them with the ſword of my mouth.

17 Let him that hath an eare, heare what the Spirit ſaith vnto the Churches. To him that ouercommeth will I giue to eate Manna that is hid, and will giue him a white ſtone, and in the ſtone a newe name written, which no man knoweth, ſauing he that receiueth it.

18 And vnto the Angel of the Church of Thyatira, write, Theſe things ſaith the ſonne of God, who hath eyes like vnto a flame of fire, and his feete are like fine braſſe.

19 Iknowe

‡None of theſe are any thing worth without the other.

19 I knowe thy ‡ workes, and faith, and thy charitie, and miniſterie, and thy patience and thy laſt workes moe then the former.

20 But I haue againſt thee a fewe things: becauſe thou permitteſt ‖the woman * Iezabel, who calleth her ſelfe a propheteſſe, to teache, and to ſeduce my ſeruants, to fornicate, and to eate of things ſacrificed to idols.

3.Reg.18.

21 And I gaue her a time that ſhe might doe penance: and ‖ſhe will not repent from her fornication.

22 Behold I will caſt her into a bed: and ‖they that commit aduoutrie with her, ſhall be in very great tribulation, vnleſſe they doe penance from their workes:

23 And her children I wil kil vnto death, and all the Churches ſhal knowe *that I am he ŷ ſearcheth ŷ reines & hartes, & I wil giue to euery one of you ‡according to his works.

1.Reg.16. Pſ.7,10. Ier.11,10.

24 But I ſay to you the reſt which are at Thyatira, whoſoeuer haue not this doctrine, which haue not knowen the ‖ depth of Satan as they ſay, I will not caſt vpon you an other weight.

‖depthes.

25 Yet ŷ which you haue, hold til I come.

26 And he that ſhal ouercome and keepe my works vnto ŷ end: ‖I wil giue him power ouer the nations,

Pſ.2,9.

27 And *he ſhall rule them with a rod of yron, and as the veſſell of a potter ſhall they be broken,

‡This great priuiledge of Saincts riſeth of the power and preeminēce of Chriſt, which his father gaue him according to his humanitie, and therefore to denie it to Saincts, is to denie it to Chriſt himſelf.

28 ‡As I alſo haue receiued of my father: and I will giue him the morning ſtarre.

29 He that hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to the Churches.

19 I knowe thy workes, and thy charitie, ſeruice, and faith, and thy patience, and thy deedes, which are more at the laſt then at the firſt.

20 Notwithſtanding, I haue a fewe things againſt thee, becauſe thou ſuffereſt that woman Iezabel, which calleth her ſelf a propheteſſe, to teach, and to deceiue my ſeruants to make them commit fornicatiō, & to eate meate ſacrificed vnto idols.

21 And I gaue her ſpace to repent of her fornication, and ſhe repented not.

22 Behold, I will caſt her into a bed, and them that commit fornication with her into great aduerſitie, except they repent of their deedes.

*23 And I will kill her children with death, and all the Churches ſhall knowe that * I am he which ſearcheth the reynes and hearts: and I will giue vnto euery one of you according to his workes.* Iere.11.20. and 17.10.

24 Vnto you I ſay, and vnto other of them of Thyatira, as many as haue not this learning, and which haue not knowē the deepeneſſe of Satan, as they ſay, I will put vpon you none other burden:

25 But that which ye haue already, hold faſt till I come.

26 And whoſoeuer ouercommeth, and keepeth my workes vnto the ende, to him will I giue power ouer nations:

*27 * And he ſhall rule them with a rodde of iron: and as the veſſels of a potter ſhall they be broken to ſhiuers:* Pſal.2.9.

21 Euen as I receiued of my father, ſo will I giue him the morning ſtarre.

29 Let him that hath an eare, heare what the ſpirit ſaith to the Churches.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem.1. 1. To the Angel.) That which before he willed him to write to the Church, he now willeth to be written to the Angels or Biſhops of the ſame onely, where we ſee, it is all one, to the Church, and to the head or gouernour thereof.

Fulke.1. The whole prophecie was commanded to be ſent to the Churches, certeyne ſpeciall admonitions and inſtructions to the Angels of the Church, yet perteyning to the whole Church: but hereof it foloweth not that euery Church, and the head and gouernour thereof is all one.

Rhem.2. 4. Thou haſt left.) By this we ſee is plainely refuted that which ſome heretikes hold, that a man once in grace or charitie can neuer fall from it.

Fulke.2. Although the elect can neuer finally fall out of the grace and fauour of God, whereby he loued them in Chriſt, before the world was made: yet they may decay in particuler graces, as in zeale of fayth and feruencie of loue for a ſeaſon, and be renewed againe by repentance. The elect can not fall away finally.

Rhem.3. 9 Pouertie.) This Church repreſenteth the ſtate of them that are ſpoiled of their goods, emtriſoned, and manifoldly afflicted for the Catholike faith.

Fulke.3. The true Catholike Church when it is perſecuted, is often in tribulation & pouertie. But ŷ Papiſtes which are puniſhed for their obſtinacie, and contempt of godly lawes, are no more like the Church here puniſhed, then the Donatiſts, that for their like obſtinacie, were puniſhed by pecuniary mulctes in S. Auguſtines time. Againe, the Engliſh Papiſtes are for the moſt part of the richeſt and weakhieſt perſons in the countryes where they dwell: therefore nothing reſembling the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, whether it were Polycarpus, or whoſoeuer he were. Papiſt puniſhed iuſtly.

Rhem.4. 11. Second death.) The death of the body is the firſt death: the death of the ſoule, the ſecond, which martyrs are ſureſt to eſcape of all men.

Fulke.4. Not onely martyrs, but all other true Chriſtians, that by faith ouercome the world, are ſure to eſcape the ſecond death, which is damnation: for there is no damnation to them that are in Chriſt Ieſus Rom.8.1. All true Chriſtians ſure to obteyne ſaluation.

Rhem.5. 22. According to his workes.) Who ſeeth not here that good workes deſerue ſaluation, as ill workes damnation: and that it is not faith alone that God rewardeth, but that faith which worketh by charitie.

Fulke.5. Neither doe you ſee here, that good workes deſerue ſaluation: neither can you by any good and lawfull Merite.

argument make any other men to ſee it. That it is none other fayth that God rewardeth, but that fayth which worketh by charitie, we agree with you, and by that fayth we are iuſtified before God without workes, Rom. 3.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem.6. 1. Holdeth the ſeuen.) Much to be obſerued, that Chriſt hath ſuch care euer the Church and the Biſhops thereof, that he is ſaid here to beare them vp in his right hand, and to walke in the middes of them: no doubt to vphold and preſerue them and to guide them in all truth. Chriſtes care of his Church.

Fulke.6. Chriſt preſerueth and guideth the Church, and all the true Shepheards thereof in all trueth, ſo long as they will humbly obey his voyce, and be ruled by his word which is the trueth: from which, if they will negligently or wilfully decline, they cannot looke that Chriſt ſhall preſerue them in trueth. How ſ church may erre.

Rhem. 2. Thy workes, labour, patience &c.) Things required in a Biſhop. firſt, good workes, and great patience in tribulation. next, zeale and ſharpe diſcipline toward offenders is here commended in them. thirdly, wiſedome and diligence in triall of falſe Apoſtles and preachers comming in ſheepeſkinnes: where is ſignified the watchfull prouidence that ought to be in them, that Heretikes enter not into their flockes. Speciall vertues required in a Biſhop.

Rhem.7. 5. Will moue.) Note that the cauſe why God taketh the trueth from certaine countries, and remoueth their Biſhops or Churches into captiuitie or deſolation, is the ſinne of the Prelates and people. And that is the cauſe (no doubt) that Chriſt hath taken away our golden candleſticke, that is, our Church in England. God graunt vs to remember our fall, to doe penance and the former workes of charitie which our firſt Biſhops and Church were notable and renowned for. Sinne is the cauſe that God taketh ſ Cath. faith from countries.

Fulke.7. If burning charitie, and zeale of popery, coulde haue kept your popiſh Prelates in their ſeates of tyrannie, they were not behinde in the time of their laſt poſſeſſion of them. But God be prayſed that hath remoued thoſe cruell wolues, the waſters of his flocke, and hath ſet vp againe the golden candleſticke of his Church, in which doe ſhine many godly Biſhops and teachers, in heauenly doctrine and Chriſtian conuerſation.

Rhem. 6. Becauſe thou hateſt.) We ſee here that of all things, Chriſtian people (ſpecially Biſhops) ſhould haue great zeale againſt Heretikes and hate them, that is, their wicked doctrine and conditions, euen as God hateth them. for which onely Zeale, our Lord ſaith here that he beareth with ſome Churches and Prelates, and ſaueth them from periſhing. Zeale againſt Heretikes.

Rhem.8. 6. Of the Nicolaites.) Heretikes haue their callings of certaine perſons, as is noted at large Act. 11. 26. Theſe had their name of Nicolas, one of the 7. firſt Deacons that were choſen Act. 6. Who is thought to haue taught communitie of women or wiues, and that it was lawfull to eate of meate offered to idoles. Which later point is ſuch a ſhine, as if one ſhoulde hold it lawfull to receiue the bread or wine of the newe Communion, which is a kind of Idolothyta, that is, idolatrous meates. for though ſuch creatures be good by creation, yet they be made execrable by profane bleſſings of Heretikes or Idolaters. And concerning the name of Nicolaites giuen here by our Lorde himſelfe to thoſe Heretikes, it is a very paterne and marke vnto the faithfull for euer, what kind of men they ſhould be, that ſhould be called after the like ſort, Arians, Macedonians, Neſtorians, Lutherans, Zuinglians, &c. See S. Hierom cont. Lucifer. in fine. Nicolaites the firſt Heretikes ſo called, and paterne of Arians, Lutherans, & the like peculiar calling.

Fulke.8. The names of Lutherans and Zuinglians, are but malitious ſclanders, as of olde time Alexandrians, Athanaſians, Ieſuites, &c which were true Catholikes ſo nicknamed by Heretikes. The bread and wine which we bleſſe, according to the inſtitution of Chriſt, in the celebration of the Lordes Supper, are the communion of the body and blood of Chriſt: therefore he that calleth them idolatrous meates, except he repent in time, ſhall one day finde the reward of his blaſphemie. Hierom againſt the Luciferians, ſpeaketh againſt them that were iuſtly called after any other name then of Chriſt, becauſe their doctrine was of a later inuention then the doctrine of Chriſt: as the Marcionites, Valentinians, Montaniſtes and Papiſtes, and ſuch like. As for our religion, hath not Luther or Zuinglius for the auctors but Chriſt, as we are able to proue by the holy ſcriptures: ſo are not the Papiſtes able to proue their doctrine, therefore they denie the ſufficiencie of holy ſcriptures. Names of Heretikes.

Rhem. 9. lib.4, Antiq. c.6. 14. To caſt a ſcandal.) Ieſephus writeth that when Balaam coulde not curſe Gods people, nor otherwiſe annoy them, he taught Balac a way howe to ouerthrowe them: to witte, by preſenting vnto them their Heathen women very beautifull, and delicate diſhes of meate offered to Bel-phegor: that ſo being tempted they might fall to heathenish maners and diſpleaſe God. To which craftie counſell of Balaam the Apoſtle reſembleth Heretikes fraude, who by offering of libertie of meate, women, Church goodes, breache of vowes, and ſuch other licentious allurements, cauſe many moe to fall, then by their preaching. Balaam ouercõming Gods people by perſuaſion of lecherie and bellicheere, was a type of Heretikes.

2. Per. 2, 15. Iuda. v. 11.

Fulke.9. We offer no libertie of meates, other then the ſcripture offereth, which condemneth the prohibition of meates, to be the doctrine of deuils: we allowe no libertie of women, but in holy and lawfull matrimonie: the forbidding whereof ſ ſcripture maketh to be a note of diuliſh apoſtaſie. As for the libertie of Church goodes, we offer not to any man, but if you meane the conuerting of landes and goodes abuſed to maintayne popiſh idolatrie, to the maintenance of the crowne and the Realme, you may well remember they were your owne Prelates that committed Abbey landes in King Henries dayes vnto the Princes diſpoſition. And if you thinke it carnall libertie to poſſeſſe any ſuch Church goodes, you may doe well to perſwade a number of your fauorites to renounce the poſſeſſion of their Abbey landes, and other riches of the Babylonicall Church, and to reſtore them into the Princes handes. If you refuſe ſo to doe, it is you that graunt libertie of Church goodes more then we. For we doe not accompt the goodes and landes of Idolaters, abuſed to the maintenance of Idolatrie, to be the goodes conſecrated to the neceſſary and lawfull vſes of the Church. As for breache of vowes, we offer no libertie, but as the ancient fathers, Cyprian, Epiphanius, Hierom, & Auguſtine taught according to the ſcriptures we affirme ſ mariage euen of them that haue raſhly made a vowe of continencie, which they are not able to keepe, to be lawfull mariage, and to be better then the burning celibate, and abhominable life of the Popiſh Clergie. Epiph. Her. 61. Hier. ad Demet. Auguſt. de bono viduit cap. 10. Cyprian ep. 62. Forbidding of meates and mariage. Carnall libertie.

Rhem.10 20. The woman Iezabel.) He warneth Biſhops to be zealous and ſtout againſt falſe Prophets and Heretikes of what ſort ſoeuer, by alluding couertly to the example of holy Elias that in zeale killed 450. falſe prophets of Iezabel, and ſpared not Achab nor Iezabel them ſelues, but told them to their faces that they troubled Iſrael, that is, the faithfull people of God. And whether there were any ſuch great woman then, a furtherer and promouter of the Nicolaites, whom the Prophet ſhould heare meane, it is hard to ſay. Zeale againſt Heretikes. Achab and Iezabel. 3. Reg. 18.

Beda

Fulke. 10 Beda maketh no queſtion, but that there was a woman which contrary to Eccleſiaſticall order, was permitted, not onely to teache, but to teache falſe doctrine. And ſo the text is plaine, not onely that ſhee vſurped the name of a Prophetiſſe, but alſo that ſhe had time of repentance graunted vnto her. Which can not be applied to Achabs wife, who tooke not vpon her to be a prophetеſſe, neither had time of repentance graunted to her, ſo many hundreth yeeres after her death. Ambroſius Ansbertus ſaith, that according to ſome tranſlation, ſhe was the biſhop of Thyatiras owne wife whom he ſo tolerated. Neither is the Angel of Thiatyra commaunded to kill her, as Elias by Gods ſpecial and extraordinarie commandement ſlew the falſe prophets. But your late practiſes doe interprete what you would inſinuate, if you thought it conuenient to vtter it in plaine Engliſh. Treaſon and murther.

Rhem. 11 21. She wil not repent.) See free will here moſt plainly, and that God is not the proper cauſe of obduration or impenitence, but man himſelf onely. Our Lord giueth ſinners ſo long life, ſpecially to expect their amendment: but Iezabel (to whom the Apoſtle here alludeth) would neuer repent. Free wil. God is not author of euil.

Fulke 11. It is no freedom but miſerable captiuitie, to be obdurated in ſinne and wickednes. Notwithſtanding, whom ſoeuer God hardeneth, he enforceth not their will, but yet as a iuſt iudge, not as an euil auctour, he doeth properly harden them, which wilfully and obſtinately harden themſelues. That God giueth time of repentance, it maketh ſinners more inexcuſable, but it proueth not that they haue power to repent of their free will, without the grace of God. Free will.

Rhem. 12 22. They that commit aduoutrie with her.) Such as communicate with Heretikes, ſhal be damned (alas) with them. for not onely ſuch as were in their hartes, of Iezabels religion, or inwardly beleeued in Baal, but ſuch as externally for feare worſhipped him (which the Scriptures call bowing of their knees to Baal) are culpable, as now many bow their knees to the Communion, that bow not their hartes. They that cõmunicate with Heretikes, ſhal be damned with them.

3. Reg. 19. v. 18 Ro. 11.

Fulke 12. They that receiue the holy Communion as hypocrites, are guiltie of the body and bloud of our Lorde, and ſhall not eſcape vengeance vnleſſe they repent, although in outwarde ſhewe they ſeeme to communicate, not with heretikes, but with the Church of Chriſt.

Rhem. 13 26. I wil giue him power.) Obſerue that not onely Angels haue power and regiment ouer Countries vnder God, but now for the honour of Chriſts humane nature, and for his miniſterie in the world, the Saincts deceaſed alſo, being in heauen, haue gouernement ouer men and Prouinces, and therfore haue to do with our affaires in the world. Which is againſt the Heretikes of theſe daies, that to take away our praiers to Saincts, would ſpoile them of many ſoueraine dignities, wherin the Scriptures make them equal with Angels. Saincts alſo are Patrons, not only Angels.

Fulke 13. It can not be prooued that Angels haue power and regiment ouer ſeuerall Countreyes vnder God, but as they are appointed to ſerue God according to his pleaſure, without any ſuch certaine limitation of places or Countries. But much leſſe it can be proued out of the Scriptures, that the Saincts departed haue gouernement ouer men or prouinces, or any thing to doe with our affaires in this worlde. For the power that our Sauiour Chriſt promiſeth to giue to euery Chriſtian that ouercommeth, is the participation of his kingdome and heauenly inheritance ouer all the world which God giueth him, as it is in the 2. Pſalme: and not a ſpecial commiſſion to one Saincte ouer one Conntrie, and to an other ouer an other Countrie. As George for England, Denis for Fraunce, &c. but participation of his generall inheritance to euery one of his Saincts. That is, ſpiritually to ouercome the world by faith in this life, and after this life, when they are perfectly vnited to him at the time of the vniuerſall iudgement, he will actually put them in full poſſeſſion of his royal inheritance. The auctour of the Commentaries that goe vnder the name of S. Auguſtine doth thus expound this text Hem. 2. The Church in Chriſt hath this power, ſeeing with him God hath giuen vs all things, as the Apoſtle ſaith, He calleth the rodde of Iron for the rigour of iuſtice, and by the ſame rodde the good are corrected, and the wicked broken in pieces. So ſaith Beda vpon this text: The Church hath this power in Chriſt as the body in the head. In whom according to the Apoſtle, God hath giuen vs all things. Arethas vnderſtandeth it partly of the gouernement of the Church in this life, partly of the reward in the day of iudgement. To him which ſhall get a price by fighting and wreſtling, I will ſet a triumph of victorie giue power euer the nations, as our Lord ſaith in the Goſpels, to him which had rightly diſpenſed his pounds and talents, be thou ruler ouer tenne Cities, and to an other, ouer fiue Cities: for theſe things ſignifie a certaine gouernement and power giuen to the Saincts ouer them that are weaker, and them that haue neede to be directed: therefore it is written, The rodde of thy kingdome is a rod of direction, for that which is ſaid is wont to be ſignified by the rodde of direction, meaning, that it bringeth not ſuch correction as turneth, but ſuch as reformeth. But the Iron rodde no man ſaith to be giuen to any other ende, but to breake in pieces, by the puniſhment of thoſe which are clothed with diſobedience, and are like to earthen pots. As alſo the rodde of power, was not ſent out of Sion for any other ende, but to rule. And becauſe an Iron rod is promiſed to euery one that ouercommeth, and they were thoſe which by ready obedience were purchaſed to God, they alſo ſhalbe iudges of the vnbeleeuers, becauſe the Lord ſaith: that euen the Niniuites ſhalbe raiſed vp vnto iudgement or condemnation of the froward generation. Victorinus ſaith briefly according to this laſt ſentence of Arethas: It is as much to ſay, as hee ſhall make him a iudge among the reſt of the Saincts. Ambroſius Ansbertus who wrote about 700. yeeres agoe, interpreteth this reward firſt to be promiſed to all the elect: That power (ſaith he) which the onely begotten Sonne of God being made man in time receiued of his father, he promiſeth to giue to his elect, but in himſelfe by whom the whole body is ruled, and vnto whom the whole body of the Church is vnited. For he (as the Apoſtle ſaith) is the head of all the elect. If any member therefore ſhall be worthy to continue with the head, he is truely ſaid to haue that which the head himſelfe is proued to poſſeſſe by right of inheritance. Secondly more ſpecially he applieth it to the preachers that gouerne the nations, whom by preaching they cõuert with the word and diſcipline in this life, whom after ỹ end of their labours, they ſhal not gouerne, but reſt with them for euer. *Cõſtat, &c. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. He is commanded to write to the Churches of Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicia, recalling them that erre to penance by threatning, but praiſing the reſt, and promiſing reward to him that ouercommeth: 15 deteſting alſo the cold and indifferent Chriſtian. 20 He ſaith that God knocketh at the doore of mens hartes by offering his grace, for to enter in to him that will open vnto him by conſent of free wil.

Fulke 1. There is nothing in this Chapter to proue that man hath ſuch freedom of wil, that he can giue any conſent to Gods calling, but as of vnwilling, he is framed and turned by Gods grace to be willing. Free will.

AND to the Angel of ỳ Church of Sardis, write, Thus ſaith he that hath the ſeuen Spirites of God, and the ſeuen ſtarres, I know thy workes, that thou haſt the name that thou liueſt, and thou art dead.

2 Be vigilant, and confirme the reſt of the things which were to die. For I finde not thy workes ful before my God.

3 Haue in minde therfore in what maner thou haſt receiued and heard: and keepe, and doe penance. If therfore thou watch not, *I wil come to thee as a theefe, and thou ſhalt not know what houre I wil come to thee.

7 And to the Angel of the Church of Philadelphia write, Thus ſaith the Holy one and the True one, he that hath the *key of Dauid: he that openeth, and no man ſhutteth: ſhutteth, and no man openeth.

Eſa.22,22.

8 I know thy works. Behold I haue giuen before thee a doore opened which no man can ſhut: becauſe thou haſt a litle power, and haſt kept my word, and haſt not denied my name.

9 Behold I wil giue of the ſynagogue of Satan, which ſay they be Iewes, and are not, but doe lie. Behold I wil make them come and ‖ adore before thy feete. and they ſhall know that I haue loued thee.

10 Becauſe thou haſt kept the word of my patience, and I will keepe thee frō the houre of tentation, which ſhal come vpon ỳ whole world to tempt the inhabitants on the earth.

11 Behold I come quickly: hold ỳ which thou haſt, ‖ that no man take thy crowne.

2 Be awake, and ſtrengthen the things which remaine, that are readie to die: For I haue not found thy workes perfect before God.

3 Remember therefore howe thou haſt receiued and heard, and hold faſt, and repent. If thou ſhalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thiefe, and thou ſhalt not knowe what houre I will come vpon thee.* 1.Theſ.5.2. 2.pet.3.10.

5 He that ouercommeth ſhall be thus clothed in white aray, and I will not blot out his name out of the booke of life: and I will confeſſe his name before my Father, and before his Angels.* Apoc.20.12. philip.4.4.

6 Let him that hath an eare, heare what the ſpirit ſaith vnto the Churches.

7 And write vnto the angel of the Church of Philadelphia, Theſe things ſaith he that is holy and true, which hath the key of David, which openeth, and no man ſhutteth, and ſhuteth, and no man openeth.

8 I know thy workes: beholde, I haue ſet before thee an open doore, and no man can ſhut it: for thou haſt a litle ſtrength, and haſt kept my ſayings, and haſt not denied my Name.

9 Beholde, I will make them of the ſynagogue of Satan, which call themſelues Iewes, and are not, but doe lie: beholde, I will make them that they ſhall come and worſhip before thy feete, and ſhall know that I haue loued thee.

10 Becauſe thou haſt kept the wordes of my patience, therfore I will keepe thee from the houre of temptation, which wil come vpon all the world, to trie them that dwell vpon the earth.

11 Beholde, I come ſhortly, holde that faſt which thou haſt, that no man take away thy crowne.

13 He that hath an eare, let him heare what the Spirit ſaith to the Churches.

14 And to the Angel of the Church of Laodicia write, Thus ſaith [c] Amen, the faithful and true witneſſe, * which is the beginning of the creature of God.

15 I know thy workes, that thou art neither colde nor hote. I would thou were cold, or hote.

16 But becauſe thou art ‖luke warme, and neither cold nor hote, I wil begin to vomite thee out of my mouth.

17 Becauſe thou ſaieſt, That I am riche, and enriched, and lacke nothing: & knoweſt not that thou art a miſer, and miſerable, and poore, and blinde, and naked.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 2. 4. [c] Which haue not.) Such as haue not committed deadly ſinne after baptiſme.

Fulke 2. There is no man which liueth after Baptiſme, but he committeth ſinne worthy of death euery day: yet they are ſaide not to defile their garments which doe not yeelde vnto grieuous ſinnes, and continue in them. Arethas expounideth it of them which haue not defiled this garment of the fleſh with filthie actions. Rupertus likewiſe which haue kept their bodies vncorrupted. Richardus de S. Victore alſo of them that haue not committed heinous offences, or els haue waſhed their garments cleane by dayly repentance. So alſo doth Ambroſius Autbertus vnderſtand it. None free from ſinne.

Rhem. 3. 4. Are worthy.) Note that there is in man a worthineſſe of the loues of heauen, by holy life, and this is a common ſpeach in holy Scripture, that man is worthy of God, of heauen, of ſaluation.

Fulke. 3. They are worthy by the worthines of Chriſt, and not by the merite of their owne workes. Rich. de S. Victore ſaith in the perſon of Chriſt: I take them that are worthy to be my companions, the vnworthy I leaue. But they that are worthy ſhould by no meanes be worthy, except they receiued their worthines of me. Ambroſ. Anth. ſaith likewiſe in the perſon of Chriſt, of them that haue not ſinned grieuouſly after Baptiſme: Either becauſe they are cleane, or becauſe they are worthy by my acceptation. Merits.

Rhem. 4. 20. Knocke.) God firſt calleth vpon man and knocketh at the doore of his hart: that is to ſay, offereth his grace, and is ſtirred in man to giue conſent by free will holpen alſo by his grace.

Fulke 4. It lieth not in the freedome of mans wil, to giue conſent to Gods calling, before his captiue wil be enlarged by Free will.

by the grace of God. The grace of God therefore doeth not only helpe, but wholy conuert man according to the Scripture: *Conuert vs, ô Lord, and we ſhalbe conuerted, Pſ.*80. & 85. *Ierem.*31.18. & 19.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem. 5. 5. He that ſhal ouercome.) In al theſe ſpeaches to diuers Biſhops and their Churches, he continually encourageth them to conſtancie in faith and good life, by ſetting before their eies the reward of the next life. And yet the Caluinists would haue no man do good in reſpect of ſuch reward. Doing wel in reſpect of reward.

Fulke 5. A falſe ſlaunder: Caluine would haue men to be encouraged to doe good in hope of the reward, but not onely nor chiefly in reſpect of reward, but rather for the glorie of God, and of loue and duetie towards God. The ende of well doing.

Rhem. 6. 9. Adore before thy feete.) You ſee this word of adoration is in Scriptures vſed for worſhip of creatures alſo, and that to fall before the feete of holy men or Angels for duety and reuerence, is not idolatrie, except the proper honour due to God, be giuen vnto them. See the Annotations vpon the 19. & 22 Chapter concerning the Apoſtles proſtration before the Angel. And the Aduerſaries cauſen, ſaying that the adoration was of God onely: and that, before the feete of the partie, ſignifieth nothing els but, in his preſence, is falſe and againſt the phraſe of Scriptures: as 4. *Reg.*4. where the Sunamite adored Eliſeus, falling downe before his feete, and 4. *Reg.*2. the ſonnes of the Prophets adored him in the ſame ſort, and here this adoration can not be meant but of the Biſhop or Angel of Philadelphia, becauſe he promiſeth this honour as a reward, and as an effecte of his loue towardes him, ſaying, And they ſhal know that I haue loued thee. And that which he ſaith in the 22. Chapter, I fel downe to adore before the feete of the Angel: the very ſame he expreſſeth thus in the 19 Chapter, I fel before his feete to adore him: making it al one, to adore before his feete, and to adore him. Adoration of creatures, called Dulia.

Fulke. 6. The word which the Apoſtle vſeth, ſignifieth to doe reuerence by bowing the body. And this may be done to creatures, when ciuil reuerence is onely intended: as to Princes, Magiſtrates, and other men in any dignitie. And ſo haue Angels (appearing in the ſhape of men) bene reuerenced without offence by holy perſons, as three Angels by Abraham, before he knewe they were Angels, or that one of them was Chriſt, or repreſented the perſon of God. But religious reuerence is due only to God, and not to be giuen either to holy men or Angels. Therefore Peter forbiddeth Cornelius to worſhip him, who did not worſhip him as God, but as a diuine man with religious worſhip *Act.*10. So the Angel forbiddeth Iohn to worſhip him *Apoc.*19. who knew that the Angel was not God, and purpoſed not to worſhip him as God, but yet to giue him religious worſhip, which is due only to God. Therefore if the adoration be meant here of the biſhop of Philadelphia, (as it is not vnlike) it ſignifieth ſuch reuerence as is due to a godly biſhop, and as the Sunamite and the ſonnes of the Prophets did to Eliſeus, not any religious worſhip which is wholy due to God. Yet Arethas ſeemeth to take it otherwiſe: He ſaith they ſhal ryſe to the Church not after a common ſort, but with great feruor and contrition, for that he meaneth by adoring, and ſhall cauſe to be placed among them that are loweſt or leaſt in the Church. But though he meane they ſhall acknowledge him to be a true paſtour, and yeelde vnto him that honour which is due to them that gouerne wel, yet this place proueth not that any religious worſhip is to be giuen to any creature. Ambroſ. Anſbert. vnderſtandeth this adoration to pertcine to the whole Church, and ſheweth wherein it conſiſteth: Quid enim eſt, &c. What is it for the Iewes to adore before the feete of the Church, but by imitating to worſhip, and by worſhipping to imitate the examples of her action. Adoration with religious reuerence, doe onely to God.

Rhem. 7. 11. That no man take thy crowne.) That is, his crowne of euerlaſting life and glorie, if he perſeuere not to the end in faith and good workes: otherwiſe an other ſhal enter into his place, as Mathias did both to the dignitie of the Apoſtleſhip, and to the heauenly crowne due for the wel vſing and executing of the ſame function which Iudas might and ſhould haue had, if he had perſeuered to the end, and as the Gentiles came into the grace and place of the Iewes. Other difficulties concerning this kinde of ſpeache are reſolued in Schoolemen, and are not here to be ſtoode vpon. Perſeuerance in good and continuing to the end.

Fulke 7. Exhortations to perſeuerance, doe not take away the certaintie of Gods election, who hath choſen thoſe that continue to the ende. The heauenly crowne due to the well vſing of the Apoſtollike function, is due by the promiſe of God, not of the merite of mans worke or labour. Iudas perſeuered not to the ende, becauſe he was from the beginning a reprobate, and the childe of perdition, Iohn 17. Gods election certaine. Merite.

Rhem. 16. Lukewarme.) Zeale and feruour is commendable, ſpecially in Gods cauſe: and the Neuters that be neither hote nor cold, are to Chriſt and his Church burdenous and lothſome, as lukewarme water is to a weake ſtomacke, prouoking him to vomit, and therfore he threatneth to vtid vp ſuch Neuters out of his mouth. Neuters or indifferents in religion.

The 2 part. firſt, the booke with 7 ſeales: ſecondly, 7 Angels with trumpets.

THE 2. VISION. In which is repreſented vnto vs the glorie and maieſtie of God in heauen, and the inceſſant honour and ſeruice of al Angels and Saincts aſſiſting him. Which is reſembled in the daily honour done to him

AFter theſe thinges I looked, and behold a doore open in heauen, and the firſt voice which I heard, was as it were of a trompet ſpeaking with me, ſaying, Come vp hither, and I wil ſhew thee the thinges which muſt be done quickly after theſe.

AFter this I looked, and beholde, a doore was open in heauen: and the firſt voyce which I heard, was as it were of a trumpet, talking with mee, which ſaide, Come vp hither, and I will ſhewe thee thinges which muſt be fulfilled hereafter.

5 And out of the throne doe proceede lightnings, and thundrings, and voyces: and there were ſeuen lampes of fire burning before the throne, which are the ſeuen ſpirites of God.

6 And before the throne there was a ſea of glaſſe, like vnto Chryſtal: and in the middeſt of the throne, & round about the throne, were foure beaſts full of eyes before and behinde.

8 And the foure beaſts had eche of them ſixe wings about him, and they were full of eyes within, and they had no reſt day neither night, ſaying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God almightie, which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when thoſe beaſtes gaue glorie, and honour, & thanks to him that ſate on the throne, which liueth for euer and euer,

10 The foure and twentie Elders fell downe before him that ſate on the throne and worſhipped him that liueth for euer and euer, and caſt their crownes before the throne, ſaying,

4 And I wept much becauſe none was found worthie to open, and to read the booke neither to looke thereon.

5 And one of the Elders ſayth vnto mee, Weepe not: behold, that Lion that is of the tribe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hath obteined to open the booke, and to looſe the ſeuen ſeales thereof.

6 And I beheld, and loe, in the middes of the throne, and of the foure beaſtes, and in the middes of the Elders ſtoode a Lambe as though he had bene killed, hauing ſeuen hornes and ſeuen eyes, which are the ſeuen ſpirits of God, ſent into all the earth.

7 And hee came, and tooke the booke out of the right hand of him that ſate vpon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the booke, the foure beaſts and foure and twentie Elders fell downe before the Lambe, hauing euery one of them harps & golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of ſainctes:

9 And they ſung a new ſong, ſaying, Thou art worthy to take the booke, & to open the ſeales thereof: for thou waſt killed, and haſt redeemed vs to God by thy blood, out of all kinreds and tongues, and peoples, and nations:

*10 And haſt made vs vnto our God * kings* 1. Pet. 2. and prieſts, and wee ſhall reigne on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voyce of many angels about the throne, and about the beaſtes, and the Elders, and heard thouſandes, of thouſandes.

12 Saying with a loude voyce, Worthy is the Lambe that was killed to receiue power, and riches, and wiſedome, and ſtrength, and honour, and glory, and bleſsing.

13 And all the creatures which are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the ſea, and all that are in them, heard I ſaying, Rhem. 1. 1. Booke written.) Hee ſpeaketh not of the damned in Hel, of whome there could be no queſtion: but of the faithfull in Abrahams boſome, and in Purgatorie.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. V.

Fulke. 1. He ſpeaketh generally of all creatures, either in the world, or without, therefore you haue corruptly tranſlated it, no man, whereby it might be thought, that ſome angels could read it, though no man could. Neither can you proue your Limbo or purgatory out of this place, rather then the Gentiles their Elyſian fieldes. You ſay there coulde bee no queſtion of the damned in hell: And what queſtion I pray you is there made of them, that are vnder the earth? You might as well ſay, ſeeing none in heauen was able, it was but folly to adde, or in earth, ſeeing there could bee no queſtion that any in earth were able to do that, which none in heauen could perfourme. Againe, by your owne doctrine, Abraham before this time was remoued out of hell into heauen, with all the faithfull that were in his boſome: therefore they were not at the time of this viſion vnder the earth, vnleſſe perhaps in reſpect of their bodies. Therefore when neither the angels, nor the ſoules of the faithful in heauen could read the booke, what queſtion could there be of the ſoules in purgatorie? All men therefore ſee, vpon how vayne a ſurmiſe, you would gather purgatory or Limbus out of this text. Limbus or purgatory.

Rhem. 2. 9. Becauſe thou waſt ſlaine.) This maketh againſt the Caluiniſts who are not content to ſay that wee merite not, but that Chriſt merited not for him ſelfe. Calu. Philip. 2. v. 9.

Fulke. 2. This proueth not, that Chriſt did merite his glory which is due to him in reſpect of his diuinitie, but that by the glorious work of our redemption, he hath declared himſelf to be a perſon worthy of al honour & glory.

Rhem. 3. 13. To the lambe.) All the ſaide creatures are bound to giue honour, not onely to God, but to Chriſt as man, and our redeemer: and ſo they here doe.

Fulke. 3. All creatures, are bounde to giue honour to Chriſt god and man, for the inſeparable vnion of the two natures in one perſon. This note ſauoreth ſomewhat of Neſtorianiſme, belike as though the meaning were, that if honour be not dewe only to God, but to Chriſt as man, it is dewe alſo to other men. As Allen defendeth Chriſt to forgiue ſinnes, not only as God, but as man alſo, that he might proue that prieſts forgiue ſinnes as properly as Chriſt.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 4. 8. The prayers of Saincts.) Hereby it is plaine that the Saincts in heauen offer vp the praiers of faithfull and holy perſons in earth (called here ſaincts, and in Scripture often) vnto Chriſt. And among ſo many diuine & vnſearchable myſteries ſet downe without expoſition is pleaſed God yet, that the Apoſtle himſelfe ſhould open this one point vnto vs, that theſe odours be the lauds and praiers of the faithfull, aſcending and offered vp to God as incenſe, by the Saincts in heauen, that ſo the Proteſtants may haue no excuſe of their errour, That the Saincts haue no knowledge of our affaires or deſires. The Saincts in heauen offer our praiers to God.

Fulke. 4. This place proueth not that the ſaincts in heauen, doe offer vp the prayers of the Saincts on earth. For the foure and twentie Elders, doe repreſent the Church militant heare on earth, whoſe conuerſation is in heauen, as it is playne by the tenth verſe following. And ſo doe all the interpreters old and newe commonly expound it. Therefore you come to late with your gloſſe, to proue that ſaincts in heauen, offer vp the prayers of the faythfull on earth. For the text is, that all the faithfull do offer vp their prayers and thankeſgiuing for their redemption. Beda vpon the tenth verſe ſayth. Heare is is more playnely declared, that the beaſtes and the Elders are the Church, which is redeemed by the blood of Chriſt and gathered of the nations. Alſo he ſheweth in what heauen they are ſaying, they ſhall reigne vpon the earth. Haymo ſayth, All the elect are kings, becauſe they ſuffer not the tyrannye of vices to riſe vp in them: &c. while they doe this, they are Kings vpon the earth, becauſe they beate downe carnall and earthly deſires, and by the lawe of vertue, raigne as it were ouer the earth, that is ſubdued to them. Theſe two may ſuffice for an example of the reſt. Prayers of Saincts.

Rhem. 5. 10. A kingdome and prieſts.) To ſerue God and ſubdue vices and ſinnes, is to reigne or to be a king ſpiritually. Likewiſe to offer vnto him the ſacrifices of good workes, is to be a prieſt after a ſort: thoughe neither the one nor the other in proper ſpeache. See the Annotation before Chap. 1. v. 5. Spirituall kings and Prieſts.

Fulke. 5. The ſpeach is true, though it be of a ſpirituall kingdome and ſacrificing prieſthood: not of an earthly kingdome, nor of a carnall prieſthoode, ſuch as was the prieſthoode of Aaron, which figured the eternall ſacrificing prieſthoode of Chriſt, which he accompliſhed in one ſacrifice of eternall vertue.

Rhem. 6. 13 Euery creature.) He meaneth the creatures in heauen, as Angels and Saincts, the holy perſons in earth, and thoſe that were in Limbo, or be in purgatorie (for of the damned in hell he cannot ſpeake in this caſe:) laſtly, of the peoples in Ilands (here called the ſea) which the Prophets vſe often to name ſeuerally, when they foretell the ſpreading of Chriſts glorie through the world. as Eſa. c. 49. Heare ye Ilandes and you people a far of. &c. Limbus Patrum and Purgatorie.

Fulke. 6. That which the Apoſtle ſayth of euery creature you doe violently reſtrayne to angels and ſaincts, of whom he ſpake before. The foure and twentie Elders and the infinite thouſands of angels. And now followeth the glory of God and Chriſt, acknowledged generally by all creatures of the world. Therefore here is no place for Limbo or purgatorie. Of all creatures (ſayth Arethas) as well intellectuall as ſenſible, as well liuing, as hauing only their beeing by naturall meanes, God is glorified as the beginning and auctour of all things, and his onely begotten ſonne of the ſame ſubſtance, and his moſt holy and quickening ſpirite. Rupertus alſo after he had ſhewed that all creatures in generall and not angels and Saincts only prayſe God, becauſe you ſay the dammed in hell can not Limbus or purgatorie.

ſpeake in this caſe: ſayth thus of them. This power euen the creature that is vnder the earth, namely that which is incloſed in the priſon of hell, doth aſcribe vnto him, yet not with voluntarie confeſſion. But by conſtreyned confeſſion of obedience. For euen the malignant ſpirites whither they will or no, ſhall acknowledge the power of him that ſitteth vpon the throne, and of the Lambe. Ambroſius Anſbertus, alſo vnderſtandeth it of the bowing of all knees, euen in them that are in hell according to the Apoſtle Phil. 2. Haymo lykewiſe vnderſtandeth it of all creatures generally euen of the diuels in hell, which are ſubiect to the power of Chriſt, and muſt acknowledge his glory. Neither is there any auncient interpretor, that reſtrayneth this creature, to reaſonable and holy creatures only. And the text is manifeſt of all creatures in all partes of the world, and not of angels or men onely. Therefore Limbo and purgatorie, cannot be foyſted into this text.

CHAP. VI.

1 Foure ſeales of the ſeuen being opened, there followe diuerſe effects againſt the earth. 9 When the fifth ſeale was opened, the ſoules of martyrs deſire that the iudgement may be haſtened: 12 and at the opening of the ſixt, there are ſignes ſhewed of the iudgement to come.

AND I ſaw that the Lambe had opened one of the ſeuen ſeales, and I heard one of the foure beaſtes, ſaying, as it were the voice of thunder, Come, and ſee.

2 And I ſaw: And behold a white horſe, & he that ſate vpon him had a bowe, and there was a crowne giuen him, and he went forth conquering that he might conquere.

3 And whē he had opened ỹ ſecond ſeale, I heard the ſecond beaſt ſaying, Come, & ſee.

4 And there went forth an other horſe, redde: and he that ſate thereon, to him it was giuen that hee ſhoulde take peace from the earth, and that they ſhould kill one an other, and a great ſworde was giuen to him.

5 And whē he had opened the third ſeale, I heard the third beaſt, ſaying, Come, & ſee. And behold a blacke horſe, and hee that ſate vpon him, had a balance in his hand.

6 And I hearde as it were a voice in the middes of ỹ foure beaſts ſaying: Two pounds of wheat for a penie, & thriſe two pounds of barley for a penie, & wine & oile hurt ỹ not.

7 And when hee had opened the fourth ſeale, I heard a voice of the fourth beaſt, ſaying, Come and ſee.

8 And beholde a pale horſe: and he that ſate vpon him, his name was death, and hell folowed him. and power was giuen to him ouer the foure partes of the earth, to kil with ſword, with famine, and with death, & with beaſts of the earth.

9 And when hee had opened the fifth ſeale: I ſawe ‖ vnder the altar the ſoules of them that were ſlaine for the word of God, and for the teſtimonie which they had.

10 ‖ And they cryed with a loude voice, ſaying, How long Lord, hōly & true, iudgeſt thou not ‖ and reuengeſt thou not our bloud of them that dwell on the earth?

11 And white ſtoles were giuen, to euery one of them † one: and it was ſaid to them, that they ſhould reſt yet a litle time, ‖ til their fellow-ſeruants be complete, and their brethren, that are to be ſlaine euen as they.

† This one ſtole ſignifieth the glorie or bliſſe of the ſoule only. but at the day of iudgement they ſhall haue it doubled by adding the glorie of their body alſo.

12 And

AND I ſawe when the Lambe opened one of the ſeales, and I heard one of the foure beaſts ſay, as it were the noiſe of thunder, Come and ſee.

2 And I ſaw, & behold there was a white horſe, and he that ſate on him had a bowe, and a crowne was giuen vnto him, and hee went forth conquering, and for to ouercome.

3 And when he had opened the ſecond ſeale, I heard the ſecond beaſt ſay, Come and ſee.

4 And there went out an other horſe that was red: and power was giuen to him that ſate thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they ſhould kill one another: and there was giuen vnto him a great ſword.

5 And when he had opened the third ſeale, I heard the third beaſt ſay, Come and ſee. And I beheld, and loe, a blacke horſe: and hee that ſate on him, had a paire of ballances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voyce in the middes of the foure beaſtes ſay, A meaſure of wheate for a peny, and three meaſures of barley for a peny, and oyle and wine ſee thou hurt not.

7 And when he had opened the fourth ſeale, I heard the voyce of the fourth beaſt ſay, Come and ſee.

8 And I looked, and behold a pale horſe, and his name that ſate on him was death, and hell followeth with him: and power was giuen vnto him ouer the fourth part of the earth, to kill with ſworde, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beaſtes of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth ſeale, I ſaw vnder the altar the ſoules of them that were killed for the word of God, and for the teſtimonie which they had.

10 And they cryed with a loude voyce, ſaying, How long tarieſt thou Lord holy and true, to iudge and to auenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth.

11 And long white garments were giuen vnto euery one of them, and it was ſaide vnto them that they ſhoulde reſt yet for a litle ſeaſon, vntill their felowe ſeruantes, and their brethren that ſhould be killed as they were ſhould be fulfilled.

13 And the ſtarres from heauen fel vpon the earth, as the fig tree caſteth her greene figs when it is ſhaken of a great wind:

14 And heauen departed as a booke folded together: and euery hil, and ilands were moued out of their places.

15 And the kings of the earth, and princes, and tribunes, and the rich, & the ſtrong, and euery bond-man, and free-man * hid themſelues in the dennes and the rockes of mountaines.

16 And they ſay to the mountaines and the rockes: *Fall vpon vs, and hide vs from the face of him that ſitteth vpon the throne, and from the wrath of the Lambe:

12 And I beheld when he had opened the ſixth ſeale, and loe, there was a great earth-quake, and the ſunne was as blacke as ſackcloth made of heare, and the moone waxed all euen as blood.

13 And the ſtarres of heauen fell vnto the earth, euen as a fig tree caſteth her vntimely figs when ſhe is ſhaken of a mightie wind.

14 And heauen vaniſhed away as a ſcroule when it is rolled together, and all mountains and Iles were mooued out of their places.

15 And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chiefe captains, and the mightie men, and euery bondman, and euery free man, hid themſelues in the dennes, and in the rocks of the hils:

Vnder the altar (ſaith he) of God I ſaw the ſoules of the ſlaine. What is more reuerent or honorable, then to reſt vnder that altar on which ſacrifice is done to God, & in which our Lord is the Prieſt: as it is written, Thou art a Prieſt according to the order of Melchiſedec? Rightly do the ſoules of the iuſt reſt vnder the altar, becauſe vpon the altar our Lordes body is offered, neither without cauſe do the iuſt there cal for reuenge of their bloud, where alſo the bloud of Chriſt is ſhed for ſinners. and many other goodly wordes to that purpoſe.

Conſecration of altars with Sainctś reliks

This place alſo the wicked heretike Vigilantius (as S.Hierom writing againſt him witneſſeth c.2.) alaſed to proue, that the ſoules of Martyrs & other Sainctś were included in ſome certaine place, that they could not be preſent at their bodies & monuments (where Chriſtian people vſed in the primitiue Church to pray vnto them, as Catholike men do yet) nor be where they liſt, or where men pray vnto them. To which the holy doctor anſwereth as large, that they be whereſoeuer Chriſt is according to his humanitie: for vnder that altar they be. Part of his wordes be theſe, that you may ſee how this bleſſed father refuſed in that Heretike the Caluiniſts ſo long before they were borne. Doeſt thou (ſayeth he) preſcribe lawes to God? Doeſt thou fetter the Apoſtles, that they may be kept in priſon til the day of iudgemẽt, and be kept from their Lord, of whom it is written, They folow the Lambe whither ſoeuer he goeth. If the Lambe be in euery place, then they that be with the Lambe, muſt be euery where. And if the diuel and wicked ſpirites gadding abroad in the world with paſſing celeritie, be preſent euery where: ſhal holy Martyrs after the ſheading of their bloud, be kept cloſe vnder an altar, that they cannot ſturre out from thence? So anſwereth this learned doctor.

Sainctś be preſent at their tombes and reliks.

The Caluiniſts hereſie concerning Sainctś confuted by S. Hierom long agoe.

Apoc.14.

Which miſliketh our Caluiniſts ſo much, that they charge him of great errour, in that he ſayth, Chriſt according to his humanitie is euery where, as though he were an Vbiquetarie Proteſtant. Where, if they had any iudgement, they might perceiue that he meaneth not, that Chriſt or his Sainctś ſhould be perſonally preſent at once in euery place alike, as God is: but that their motion, ſpeed, and agilitie to be where they liſt, is incomparable, and that their power and operation is accordingly. which they may learne to be the holy Doctors meaning, by the wordes that folow of the Diuel and his miniſters: whom he affirmeth to be euery where no otherwiſe but by their exceding celeritie of being and working miſchiefe now in one place, now in an other, and that in a moment. For though they be ſpirites, yet are they not euery where at once according to their eſſence. And for our new Diuines it were a hard thing to determine, how long Satan (that told our Lord he had circuited the earth) was in his iourney, and in the particular conſideration and tentation of Iob: and how many men he aſſaulted in that his one circuit. No, no, ſuch curious companions know nothing, nor beleeue nothing, but that they ſee with corporal eyes, and teach nothing but the way to infidelitie.

They vnlearnedly accuſe S.Hierome as an Vbiquiſt.

How S.Hierome ſayth, Chriſt and his Sainctś are euery where. Iob 1.

Fulke.1. Your popiſh laying of the Martyrs bones (if they were the Martyrs bones) hath no correſpondence with the lying of their ſoules vnder Chriſt, the heauenly altar. For your laying of their bones, is to haue them in a rea-dines,for them that wil commit idolatrie vnto them,and offer a reward vnto you. As for your altars,on which you offer the ſacrifice of the maſſe,are ſo many blaſphemies againſt the onely ſpirituall altar Chriſt, and the onely earthly altar whereon his ſacrifice was offred,euen the croſſe of Chriſt. Where you ſay,that your Church hath a ſpeciall prouiſo, that no altar be erected or conſecrated without ſome part of Saincts bodies or reliques, and alleage for it the decree of the 2.Councell of Africa,*cap.*50.and 5.Carth. c.14. you abuſe the reader: for there is no ſuch prouiſo in that decree.But that ſuch ſuperſtitious altars as were ſet vp in euery corner of the countrey,by dreames or like ſuperſtitious conceipts, for memories of martyrs, ſhoulde bee remooued. And that no altar ſhould be erected as the memorie of a martyr, except there were ſome certaine tokens of ſuch memorie, as their bodies, or the place of their dwelling,&c. I will ſet downe the decree, that the Reader may ſee,how ſtronge ſuperſtition was at that time, toward the reuelation of Antichriſt, that the Fathers of the Church could not quietly repreſſe it.

It is decreede, that the altars, which are ſet vp euery where in the fieldes, or in the wayes, as memories of martyres, in which no bodies or reliques of martyres are prooued to be buried, be ouerthrowen by the Biſhops of thoſe places, if it may be. But if by meanes of tumults of the people, that can not be ſuffered to be done, yet let the people be admoniſhed,that they frequent not thoſe places, that they which be well aduiſed, be not there holden and bound with any ſuperſtition. And let no memorie of martyres be allowed and accepted, except, the body or ſome vndoubted reliques be there, or that ſome originall of their habitation, or poſſeſſion, or ſuffering be there, deliuered from a moſt faithfull beginning. As for theſe Altars, that are ſet vp in euery place by dreames, and vaine reuelations of any men, let them be by all meanes diſallowed. You ſee of what Altars the Decree ſpeaketh, namely, ſuch as were vaunted to bee the memories of Martyres, where either was none, or but counterfeit monuments of the Martyres, ſuch as bee moſt common in popery. S.Hierom againſt Vigilantius, defendeth the immoderate eſtimation of reliques, yet he vtterly denyeth adoration of them, or of the Martyrs themſelues,which you defend. S. Auguſtine alſo denyeth that the Prieſt ſtanding at the altar,ouer the body of any Martyr, doth offer ſacrifice to the Martyr, but to God only. And ſaith that al religious ſeruices vſed in the places of the Martyrs,are to the ornaments of their memories,not things conſecrated,or ſacrifices of the dead men,as of gods. As for Gregorie liuing ſo neere the reuelation of Antichriſt, it is no maruail,though he be more ſuperſtitious in reliques, yet he alloweth no ſuch worſhip of thē,as is in popery,but laying of them vp about the altars.That the Prophet alludeth to ſuch cuſtome of buriall of the Martyrs vnder the altar,it is a fond imagination when there were neither ſuch Churches, nor Altars in his time. That which you cite out of the auctour of the Serm. De ſanctis,is of their ſoules in heauen,and concerning the burial of their bodies, he ſayth afterward. *Therefore conueniently,and as it were for a certaine company or fellowſhip, the buriall of the Martyrs,is decreed to be there,where the Lordes death is dayly celebrated,as hee himſelfe ſayth. As often as you ſhal do theſe things,you ſhal ſhew my death vntil I come: namely,that they which died for his death,might reſt vnder the myſterie of his Sacrament.*But concerning the buriall of the Martyres bodies,it is certaine the Apoſtle ſpeaketh not, but of the bleſſed reſt of their ſoules. But this place you ſay, Vigilantius abuſed to prooue, that they coulde not bee preſent at their bodies, and monuments as S.Hierome witneſſeth. But S. Hierome in this caſe is a partiall witneſſe, inueighing againſt Vigilantius, which was as good a Catholike as hee, and allowed by godly Biſhops of his countrey.Although Hierome ſtroue againſt them,as he doth againſt Vigilantius.Who did iuſtly miſlike,the ſuperſtitious eſtimation of reliques,and did write a booke againſt it,which Hierom doth not confute with argumēts,ſo much,as with rayling,as Eraſmus confeſſeth.But to the matter, Vigilantius ſayd,(as S.Hierome confeſſeth.) That the ſoules of the Apoſtles and Martyrs,were ſtaled either in Abrahams boſome,or in a place of reſt,or vnder the altar of God,and coulde not bee preſent out of their graues,and where they liſt. Now let vs ſee what S.Hierome doeth anſwere.Firſt,Wilt thou preſcribe Lawes to God? No verely,but Gods Law preſcribeth a place of reſt vnto the ſoules of the departed,and not I, might Vigilantius anſwere. Secondly, Deeſt thou fetter the Apoſtles,&c. How vnworthie is this queſtion of S.Hieroms learning! as though the Apoſtles were fettered,when they be limited by God to a place of reſt, or coulde bee thought to bee kept in priſon, when they are ſaide to remaine in heauen. That which is ſaide of them that followe the Lambe is not neceſſary to bee vnderſtood, of the ſoules in heauen, but of them that immitate him on the earth: at leaſt it muſt bee vnderſtoode of all the elect, whereof many are in the Church vpon earth. Therefore it is no good concluſion, that the Saincts are euery where, becauſe the Lambe whom they follow is euery where. Beſide this abſurditie, that followeth of it,that if the ſoules of the Saincts bee preſent at their ſepulchres, becauſe they followe the Lambe, the Lambe alſo Chriſt in his humanitie, is preſent at the ſepulchres of the Martyres. Finally, the reaſon that is taken of the celeritie or agilitie of deuilles, is inſufficient to prooue, that the ſoules of martyres, paſſe to and fro in the worlde, as the deuilles doe. For the deuilles, not onelie by propertie of their nature, but alſo by Gods ſufferaunce, haue ſuch paſſage in the worlde, but the Saincts, by God are aſſigned to reſt, in their place of heauenly ioy, vntill the day of iudgement. Nowe whether Hierome did holde the errour of vbiquitie of Chriſts humanitie, it is to bee thought, that hee did not, vpon good aduiſement, though bee thus reaſon againſt Vigilantius. And yet the concluſion muſt bee ſuch, or elſe the argument hath no ſhewe of reaſon. For except the ſoules of Saincts, can bee in many places at one inſtant, howe can they bee preſent, at euery place where their reliques are, which in that time were diſperſed into many places? Therefore by ſhewe of this argument, Hierome woulde ſeeme to make them euerie where with Chriſt, that it might bee thought, they were not included in any place. But let vs ſee what a good Patrone Hierome hath of the Rhemiſts. Firſt you ſay, they bee vnlearned that accuſe S. Hierome of this errour. But it is knowen, that many in this time, and ſome of thoſe, that charge him with this errour, were as well learned as S. Hierome himſelfe: at leaſtwiſe not inferiour in learning, to any Engliſh Papiſt in Rhemes. But if they had any iudgement (ſay you) they might perceiue, that hee meaneth not, that Chriſt and his Saincts are perſonally preſent at once in euery place, but that their motion and agilitie to bee where they liſt, is incomparable, and their power accordingly. Wee may thinke in deede, that hee holdeth it not as a reſolute determination, that Chriſt or his Saincts are euery where, but yet his ſo-

phiſticall argument importeth no leſſe. For that which followeth of the celeritie of the diuels is an other argument, and not a declaration of his meaning in the former. But euen this ſhift of deſcant is inſufficient, to excuſe him of errour. For that you cannot otherwiſe iuſtifie his argument, except you will acknowledge that Chriſt is perſonally preſent in all thoſe places, whereſoeuer the ſoules of the martyrs are ſuppoſed to be preſent with their reliques. And ſo he muſt according to his humanitie, be perſonally preſent in his manhood, in places innumerable, not onely in the Sacrament, but alſo in euery place where the Saincts reliques are, which I ſuppoſe your good maſters of Sorbon, will not eaſily admit for a trueth. Yea the ſoules themſelues muſt often be in many places at one inſtant: for their celeritie and agilitie will not ſerue them to be at diuers places at one inſtant. Where you ſay the diuel by exceeding celeritie, may be in diuers places in a moment: if you meane by a moment, a very ſhort time I acknowledge it, but in an inſtant they cannot be in two places at once. Where you would haue our new diuines to determine How long Satan was in his iourney, when he ſayd, he had circuited the earth, &c. I ſuppoſe it is an harder queſtion, then any of your auncient diuines of Rhemes can determine. Yet we know, Satan needeth no long time for ſuch a iourney, when the Sunne which is a body, goeth a farre greater iourney in 24. houres. But that in an inſtant he cannot goe round about the earth, we know becauſe he is a creature, and it is proper to God to fill all places with his preſence, and to know all things at one inſtant: where as no creature can haue either motion in an inſtant, or vnderſtanding of many things together in an inſtant, but of one thing after an other. Therefore, euen the ſoules of the Saincts, if by agilitie or celeritie, they did paſſe into many places (as you hold they doe) and not reſt in heauen: yet could they not vnderſtand, all the petitions that are made to them in ſo many places at one inſtant, neither can any creature ſo vnderſtand, but God onely, the creator of all things. Where you ſay we beleeue nothing, but that we ſee with our corporall eyes, it is vtterly falſe, for we beleeue vnto ſaluation, whatſoeuer the Scripture teacheth, and otherwiſe we acknowledge many things to be true, which we know by reaſon, and not by ſenſe, as all reaſonable men doe.

Rhem. 2. 10 And they cried.) S. Hierome alſo againſt the ſaide Vigilantius reporteth, that hee vſed an argument againſt the prayers of Saincts out of this place, for that theſe Martyres cried for reuenge, and coulde not obtaine. But wee will reporte his wordes, that you may ſee howe like one heretike is to an other, theſe of our dayes to thoſe of olde. Thou ſaiſt in thy booke (ſaith S. Hierome c. 3.) that whiles wee be aliue, one of vs may pray for an other: but after wee be dead, no mans prayer ſhall be heard for an other: ſpecially ſeeing the Martyres asking reuenge of their blood, coulde not obtaine. So ſaide the heretike. Againſt which the holy doctour maketh a long reſutation, prouing that they pray much more after they bee in heauen, then they did heere in earth: and that they ſhall bee much ſooner heard of God, then when they were in the world.

That Saincts pray for vs, S. Hierome proueth againſt the Heretike Vigilantius.

But for the Heretikes argument framed out of theſe wordes of the Apocalyps thus, Theſe Martyres did not obtaine, ergo Saincts doe not pray for vs: it was ſo frinolous, and the antecedent ſo manifeſtly falſe, that hee vouchſafed not to ſtand about it. For it is plaine the Martyres here were heard, and that their petition ſhoulde be fulfilled in time appointed by God (whereunto they did and doe alwayes conforme themſelues:) for it was ſaide vnto them, That they ſhould reſt yet a litle time, till, &c. And that Martyres prayers be heard in this caſe, our Sauiour teſtifieth Luc 18. ſaying, And wil not God reuenge his elect that crie to him day and night? I ſay to you, he wil quickly reuenge them. And if God doe not heare the Saincts ſometime nor graunt their requeſtes, is it therefore conſequent that they doe not or may not pray? Then Chriſt himſelfe ſhoulde not haue prayed his father to remoue the bitter cup of death from him, becauſe that petition was not graunted.

Fulke. 2. Vigilantius perhaps maketh not this argument the onely ground of his opinion, (if his booke were extant) that the Saincts pray not for vs. But S. Hierome chuſeth for his aduauntage, that which hee ſawe was moſt eaſie to confute. Neither doeth S. Hierome proue, by any teſtimonie of the Scripture, that the Saincts pray for vs. Neyther hath hee any arguments more then one, which hath no neceſſarie concluſion, That the Saincts prayed for vs, while they liued, and were to bee carefull for themſelues: Ergo much more, after their victorie and rewarde in heauen. And this hee amplifieth by the examples of Moſes, Stephen, and Paule, which prayed for men while they liued, and were heard. But this concluſion doeth not followe. For while they liued, they had commaundement and promiſe for mutuall prayers. But wee knowe none out of the Scripture, that the ſoules departed, haue to pray for them that are liuing. And therefore wee will not take vpon vs, to determine, what they doe in that reſpect. But knowing by the Scriptures, Chriſt to bee our mediatour and aduocate with God the Father, before whome wee haue commaundement to come, and to pray to him, and promiſe to bee heard, wee ſatisfie our ſelues, with that which God hath reuealed vnto vs, not doubting but it is ſufficient for vs.

Prayer of Saincts.

Rhem. 10 Reuengeſt thou not.) They do not deſire reuenge vpon their enemies for hatred, but of charitie and zeale of Gods honour, praying that his enemies and the perſecutours of his Church and Saincts, that will not repent, may be confounded: and that our Lord would accelerate his generall iudgement, that ſo they might attain the perfect crowne of glory promiſed vnto them both in body and ſoule: which is to deſire the reſurrection of their bodies, which then ſhall triumph perfectly and fully ouer the perſecutours that ſo cruelly handled the bodies of the elect, which ſhal then appeare glorious to the enemies confuſion.

How Martyres crie for reuenge.

Rhem. 11 Till their fellow ſeruants be complete.) There is a certaine number that God hath ordained to die for the teſtimonie of truth & the Catholike faith, for conformitie of the members to the head CHRIST our chiefe Martyr, & til that number be accompliſhed, the general condemnation of the wicked perſecutor ſhal not come, nor the general reward of the elect.

CHAP. VII.

The earth being to be puniſhed, 3 they are commanded to ſaue them that are ſigned in their foreheads: 4 which are deſcribed & numbered both of the Iewes & Gentiles, bleſſing God. 13 Of them that were clothed in white ſtoles & long robes.

b The Epiſtle vpon All hallowes day.

AFter theſe things I ſawe foure Angels ſtanding vpon the foure corners of the earth,

AND after that, I ſawe foure Angels ſtanding on the foure corners of the earth, earth, holding the foure windes of the earth that they ſhould not blow vpō the land, nor vpon the ſea, nor on any tree.

2 And I ſawe an other Angel aſcending from the riſing of the ſunne, hauing the ſigne of the liuing God: and he cried with a lowd voyce to the foure Angels, to whom it was giuen to hurt the earth and the ſea,

3 Saying, Hurt not the earth and the ſea, nor the trees, till ‡ we ſigne the ſeruaunts of our God in their foreheads.

4 And I heard the number of them that were ſigned, an hundred fourtie foure thouſand were ſigned, ᶜ of euery tribe of the children of Iſrael.

ᶜ Of all the tribes put together, ſo many, 144000.

5 Of the tribe of Iuda, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Ruben, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Gad twelue thouſand ſigned.

6 Of the tribe of Aſer, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Nephthali, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Manaſſes, twelue thouſand ſigned.

7 Of the tribe of Simeon, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Leui, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Iſſachar, twelue thouſand ſigned.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Ioſeph, twelue thouſand ſigned. Of the tribe of Beniamin, twelue thouſand ſigned.

ᶜ The cleft of the Gentiles.

9 After theſe things I ſawe ᶜ a great multitude which no man could number, of al nations and tribes, and peoples, & tongs: ſtanding before the throne, & in the ſight of the Lambe, clothed in white robes, and ‡ palmes in their hands:

‡ Roughes of the palme tree be tokens of triumph and victorie.

10 And they cried with a lowde voyce, ſaying, Saluation to our God which ſitteth vpon the throne, and to the Lambe.

11 And all the Angels ſtoode in the circuite of the throne and of the ſeniors and of the foure beaſtes: and they fell in the ſight of the throne vpon their faces, and adored God, 12 Saying, Amen. Benediction, and glorie, and wiſdome, and thankſgiuing, honour and power, and ſtrength to our God for euer and euer. Amen.

The Epiſtle for many Martyrs.

13 And one of the ſeniors anſwered, and ſayde to me, Theſe that are clothed in the white robes, who be they? and whence came they?

14 And I ſayde to him, My Lord thou knoweſt. And he ſaid to me. Theſe are they which are come out of great tribulation, & haue earth, holding the foure winds of the earth, that the wind ſhould not blow on the earth, neither on the ſea, neither on any tree.

2 And I ſaw another angel aſcending from the riſing of the Sunne, hauing the ſeale of the liuing God: and he cried with a loude voyce to the foure Angels to whom power was giuen to hurt the earth and the ſea,

3 Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the ſea, neither the trees, till we ſhall haue ſealed the ſeruants of our God in their foreheads.

4 And I heard the number of them which were ſealed: and there were ſealed an hundred & fourtie and foure thouſand, of all the tribes of the children of Iſrael.

5 Of the tribe of Iuda were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Ruben were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Gad were ſealed twelue thouſand.

6 Of the tribe of Aſer were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Nephthali were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Manaſſes were ſealed twelue thouſand.

7 Of the tribe of Simeon were ſealed twelue thouſad. Of the tribe of Leui were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Iſachar were ſealed twelue thouſand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulō were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Ioſeph were ſealed twelue thouſand. Of the tribe of Beniamin were ſealed twelue thouſand.

9 After this I beheld, and loe, a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kinreds, and people, and tongues, ſtood before the throne, and before the Lambe, clothed with white garments, and palmes in their hands:

10 And cried with a loud voice, ſaying, Saluation be aſcribed to him that ſitteth vpon the throne of our God, and vnto the Lambe.

11 And all the angels ſtood in the compaſſe of the throne, and of the Elders, and of the foure beaſts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worſhipped God, 12 Saying, Amen: Bleſſing, and glory, and wiſedome, and thankes, and honour, and power, and might, be vnto our God for euermore, Amen.

13 And one of the Elders anſwered, ſaying vnto mee, What are theſe which are arayed in white garments? and whence came they?

14 And I ſaid vnto him, Lord, thou woteſt. And he ſaid to me, Theſe are they which came out of great tribulatiō, & haue waſhed their long

CHAP. VIII.

1 The ſeuenth ſeale being opened, there appeare Angels with trompets: 5 and when an other Angel powred out fire taken from the altar, vpon the earth, there folow diuers tempeſtes. 7 In like maner, whiles foure Angels of the ſeuen ſound their trompets, there fall ſundrie plagues.

THE 4 VISION.

AND when he had opened the ſeuenth ſeale, there was made ſilence in heauen, as it were halfe an houre.

2 And I ſaw ſeuen Angels ſtanding in the ſight of God: and there were giuen to them ſeuen trompets.

3 And an other Angel came, and ſtoode ‡before the altar, hauing a golden cenſar: and there were giuen to him many incenſes, that he ſhould giue of the praiers of al ſaincts vpon the altar of gold, which is before the throne of God.

4 And the ſmoke of the incenſes ᶜof the praiers of the ſainctes aſcended frō the hand of the Angel before God.

5 And the Angel tooke the cenſar, and filled it of the fire of the altar, and caſt it on the earth, and there were made thunders and voices & lightenings, & a great earthquake.

6 And the ſeuen Angels which had the ſeuen trompets, prepared them ſelues to ſound with the trompet.

7 And the firſt Angel ſounded with the trompet, and there was made haile and fire, mingled in bloud, & it was caſt on the earth, and the third part of the earth was burnt, and the third part of trees was burnt, & al greene graſſe was burnt.

AND when he had opened the ſeuenth ſeale, there was ſilence in heauen about the ſpace of halfe an houre.

2 And I ſaw the ſeuen angels which ſtoode before God, and to them were giuen ſeuen trumpets.

3 And another angel came and ſtoode before the altar, hauing a golden ſenſer, and many odours were giuen vnto him, that he ſhould offer with the prayers of all ſaincts vpon the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And the ſmoke of the odours which came of the praiers of ſaincts, aſcended vp before God, out of the angels hand.

5 And the angell tooke the ſenſer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and caſt it into the earth: & voices were made, and thunderings, & lightnings, and earthquake.

6 And the ſeuen angels which had the ſeuen trumpets, prepared themſelues to blow.

7 The firſt angel blew, and there was made haile and fire mingled with the blood, and they were caſt into the earth, and the thirde part of trees was burnt, and all greene graſſe was burnt.

8 And

And

8 And the ſecond Angel ſounded with the trompet: & as it were a great mountaine burning with fire, was caſt into the ſea, and the third part of the ſea was made bloud:

9 And the third part of thoſe creatures died, which had liues in the ſea, and the third part of the ſhippes periſhed.

10 And the third Angel ſounded with the trompet, and a great ſtarre fel from heauen, burning as it were a torche, and it fel on the third part of the flouds, and on the fountaines of waters.

11 And the name of the ſtarre is called wormewod. and the third part of the waters was made into wormewod: and many men died of the waters, becauſe they were made bitter.

12 And the fourth Angel ſounded with the trompet, and the third part of the ſunne was ſmitten, & the third part of the moone, and the third part of the ſtarres, ſo that the third part of them was darkened, and of the day there ſhined not the third part, & of the night in like maner.

13 And I looked and heard the voice of one egle flying through the middes of heauen, ſaying with a loud voice, Wo, wo, wo to the inhabiters on the earth: becauſe of the reſt of the voices of the three Angels which were to ſound with the trompet.

8 And the ſecond angel blew, and as it were a great mountaine burning with fire was caſt into the ſea, and the third part of the ſea turned to blood.

9 And the third part of the creatures which were in the ſea, and had life, died, and the third part of the ſhips were deſtroyed.

10 And the third angel blew, and there fell a great ſtarre from heauen, burning as it were a lampe, and it fell into the third part of the riuers, and into fountaines of waters:

11 And the name of the ſtarre is called wormewood, and the third part was turned to wormewood, and many men died of the waters, becauſe they were made bitter.

12 And the fourth angel blew, and the third part of the Sunne was ſmitten, and the third part of the Moone, and the third part of ſtarres, that the third part of them ſhould be darkened: and the day was ſmitten that the third part of it ſhould not ſhine, and likewiſe the night.

13 And I beheld, and heard an angell flying through the middes of heauen, ſaying with a loud voice, Wo, wo, wo to the inhabiters of the earth, becauſe of the voices to come of the trumpet of the three angels which were yet to blow.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. VIII.

Rhem. 1. 3. Before the altar.) The Prieſt ſtanding at the altar prayinꝫ and offering for the people in the time of the high myſteries, Chriſt him ſelf alſo being preſent vpon the altar, is a figure of this thing, and therevnto he alludeth.

Fulke. 1. He alludeth to the ſacrificing prieſthood of the olde teſtament, where incenſe was offered at the altar, which now is the ſweet ſauour of the death of Chriſt, wherein the prayers of the ſaincts are acceptable. But if the prieſt ſtanding at the popiſh altar be a figure of this viſion, what was Chriſt ſitting at the table with his diſciples, when he inſtituted the holy myſteries? whereof the maſſe is nothing but a prophanation. Howbeit, this heauenly altar is the altar of incenſe not of ſlaine ſacrifices, therefore no reſemblance of the popiſh altar. The popiſh altar.

Rhem. 2. 4. [a] Of the praiers of the ſaincts.) If this be S. Michael or any Angel, and not Chriſt him ſelf, as ſome take it, Angels offer vp the praiers of the faithful, as the 24 Elders did chap. 5. for this word, Saincts, is taken here for the holy perſons on earth, as often in the Scripture: though it be not againſt the Scriptures, that the inferior Saincte or Angel in heauen ſhould offer their praiers to God by their ſuperiors there. But hereby we conclude againſt the Proteſtants, that it derogateth not from Chriſt, that Angels or Saincts offer our praiers to God. as alſo it is plaine of Raphael, Tob. 12, 12.

Fulke. 2. The commentary in S. Auguſtine ſaith, this angel is our Lord Ieſus Chriſt himſelfe. So doth Beda & Ambroſius Ansbertus take it. But if it ſignifie the miniſtery of angels, in preſenting prayers of the church, which are acceptable to God by the abundance of the incenſe or ſweet ſauour of the merit of Chriſtes death: it followeth not that the ſame office is deputed to the ſoules of the faithfull, nor that the angels or ſaincts are to be prayed vnto. That of the 24 Elders chap. 5. we haue there ſhewed how it is vnderſtood of the church militant on earth. Where you ſay it is not againſt the ſcripture, that the inferior ſainct or angell in heauen ſhould offer their prayers to God by their ſuperiors, it is an idle fanſie: for ſo we may imagine infinite fables, and ſay they be not againſt the ſcripture. But ſeeing the virgine Marie, by your doctrine, is Ladie of the angels, why doth not ſhee ſtand at the altar, and doe that which is heere aſcribed to the angell? Yea, if this angell offer the prayers of all ſaincts in heauen, he offereth the virgine Maries prayers alſo, and ſo ſhould be ſuperiour to her. But howſoeuer that be, you ſay, you conclude againſt the Proteſtants: That it derogateth not from Chriſt, that angels or ſaincts offer our prayers. In deed any miniſtery appointed by God to angels or men, doth not derogate to Chriſt. But firſt we read no where in the ſcriptures, that the offering of our prayers is committed to the ſoules of them that are departed. Secondly, it is not without controuerſie, that the angels doe offer our prayers, ſeeing you cannot affirme that this angell doth not repreſent Chriſt. Thirdly, if it be granted, that this is the miniſterie of an angell, and not the mediation of Chriſt: yet it is manifeſt that the angell in this miniſtery commendeth not the prayers of all ſaincts by his merit, or by the dignitie of his owne perſon, but Prayer of ſaincts and to ſaincts.

by

by the much incenſe that was giuen vnto him to adde to the prayers of ſaincts, that they might be acceptable: and ſo it maketh nothing for popiſh inuocation of ſaincts or angels. For the text is, that much incenſe was giuen to him, that he might giue or adde to the prayers of all ſaincts: for the word δοσουν εις is the datiue caſe, without any prepoſition, and the prepoſition de is not in all copies of your vulgar Latine tranſlation. The ſumme is, that in the middeſt of the helliſh troubles raiſed by antichriſt and his miniſters, the elect haue their prayers heard for their preſeruation by the merits of Chriſt, which is ſhewed by the viſion of the angell. To whom much ſweet incenſe was giuen, that he might adde it to the prayers of the ſaincts, the ſmoke whereof aſcending with the prayers of the elect, cauſeth them to be heard and accepted of God. Other curious ſpeculations may breed many more friuolous queſtions then the text doth ſerue to aſſoile.

The fifth Angel ſounding the trompet, a ſtarre falleth. 3 The iſſuing forth of locuſtes from the ſmoke of the deepe pitte to vexe men, 7 and the deſcription of them, 13 The ſixt Angel ſounding, foure Angels are let loſe, 18 Which with a great troupe of horſemen do murder the third part of men.

c Immeasurable prey heretikes following their Maiſters after the opening & the ſmoke of the bottomleſſe pit.

3 And from the ſmoke of the pitte there iſſued forth c locuſtes into the earth. & power was giuen to them, as the ſcorpions of the earth haue power:

4 And it was commaunded them that they ſhould not hurt the graſſe of the earth not any greene thing, nor any tree: but onely men which haue not the ſigne of God in their foreheads.

5 And it was giuen vnto them that they ſhould not kil them: but that they ſhould be tormented fiue monethes: & their torments as the torments of a ſcorpion when he ſtriketh a man.

2 And he opened the bottomleſſe pit, and the ſmoke of the pit aroſe, as the ſmoke of a great furnace, and the Sunne and the aire were darkned, by the reaſon of the ſmoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the ſmoke Locuſtes vpon the earth, and vnto them was giuen power, as the Scorpions of the earth haue power.

4 And it was commanded them that they ſhould not hurt the graſſe of the earth, neither any greene thing, neither any tree: but onely thoſe men which haue not the ſeale of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was giuen that they ſhould not kill them, but that they ſhould be vexed fiue moneths, and their paine was as the paine that commeth of a Scorpion, when he ſhall haue ſtricken a man.

9 And they had habergions, as it were habergions of iron, & the ſound of their wings was as the ſound of charets when many horſes run to battaile.

10 And they had tailes like vnto Scorpions, and there were ſtings in their tailes: and their power was to hurt men fiue moneths.

11 And they had a king ouer them, which is the angel of the bottomleſſe pit, whoſe name in the Hebrue tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greeke tongue hath his name Apollyon. That is to ſay, A deſtroyer.

12 One woe is gone, and behold two woes come yet after theſe.

13 And the ſixt Angel ſounded with the trompet: and I heard one voice from the foure hornes of the golden altar, which is before the eies of God,

14 Saying to the ſixt Angel which had the trompet, Looſe the foure Angels which are bound in the great riuer Euphrates.

15 And the foure Angels were looſed, who were prepared for an houre, and a day and a moneth and a yere: that they might kil the third part of men.

16 And the number of the army of horſemen was twentie thouſand times ten thouſand. And I heard the number of them.

17 And ſo I ſaw the horſes in the viſion: and they that ſate vpon them, had habbergions of fire and of hyacinth and brimſtone. and the heades of the horſes were as it were the heads of lions: and from their mouth procedeth fire and ſmoke, and brimſtone.

18 And by theſe three plagues was ſlaine the third part of men, of the fire and of the ſmoke and of the brimſtone, which proceded from their mouth.

19 For the power of the horſes is in their mouth, and in their tailes. for, their tailes be like to ſerpents, hauing heads: and in theſe they hurt.

12 One woe is paſt, & behold, two woes come yet after this.

13 And the ſixth angel blew, and I heard a voice from the foure hornes of the golden altar, which is before God,

14 Saying to the ſixth angel which had the trumpet, Looſe the foure angels which are bound in the great riuer Euphrates.

15 And the foure angels were looſed, which were prepared for an houre, and a day, and a moneth, and a yeere, for to ſlay the third part of men.

16 And the number of the horſemen of the armies were twentie thouſand times ten thouſand: And I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I ſaw the horſes in the viſion, and them that ſate on them, hauing fierie habergions of a Iacinct colour, and brimſtone, and the heads of the horſes were as the heads of Lions, and out of their mouthes commeth forth fire, & ſmoke, and brimſtone.

18 And of theſe three was the third part of men killed, that is to ſay, of the fire, and of the ſmoke, and of the brimſtone, which proceeded out of the mouthes of them.

19 For their powers be in their mouthes, and in their tailes: for their tailes were like vnto Serpents, hauing heads, and with them they doe hurt.

*20 And the remnant of the men which were not killed by theſe plagues, repented not of the deeds of their hands, that they ſhould not worſhip deuils, * and idols of golde, and ſiluer, and braſſe,* Pſal.113.4. and ſtone, and of wood, which neither can ſee, and 134.15. neither heare, neither goe:

21 Alſo they repented not of their murders, and of their ſorceries, neither of their fornication, neither of their theftes.

Rhem. 1. 1. A ſtarre to haue fallen.) The fall of an Arch heretike, as Arius, Luther, Caluin, out of the Church of God, which haue the key of Hel to open and bring forth al the old condemned hereſies buried before in the depth.

Fulke. 1. Beda, Arethas, and Ambroſius Ansbertus vnderſtand this ſtarre to be the deuill. But if it be an Arch heretike, it is the pope, which is antichriſt, and therefore a deſtroyer, as Chriſt is a ſauior. Who hath the efficacy of error giuen to ſeduce the reprobate: who is fallen from heauenly doctrine to earthly traditions: who hath his garde of Locuſtes and lions, with all ſubtiltie and crueltie to mainteine his wickednes. To whom all things in this prophecie agree moſt aptlie: which by no meanes can be drawen to Luther and Caluin, which bring foorth no olde condemned hereſies, but teach the trueth againſt the hereſies both olde and lately inuented by antichriſt. And the looſing of the angels that were bound at the great riuer Euphrates, ſignifieth from whence the tyranny commeth, euen from whence the falſe doctrine floweth, namely from Babylon, which (by the conſent of all ancient writers) in this prophecy, ſignifieth the citie of Rome. The pope antichriſt.

Rhem. 2. 20. Haue done penance.) This phraſe being the like both in greeke and latin, ſignifieth ſuch ſorowful and penal repentance as cauſeth a man to forſake his former ſinnes and depart from them, & μεταμελεια in the Greeke. See the ſame phraſe c.2,21,22. & A&.8.v 22.

Fulke. 2. This phraſe ſignifieth no popiſh penall ſatisfaction, but true repentance with ſorow for their ſinnes paſt, which cauſeth men not only to depart from them, but to amend their liues.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XIIII.

Rhem. 5. 13 From hence forth now.) This being ſpecially ſpoken of Martyrs (as not only S. Auguſtine ſeemeth to take it, but the Caluiniſts themſelues, translating, in domino, for our Lords cauſe) the Proteſtants haue no reaſon to vſe the place againſt Purgatorie or praier for the departed, ſeeing the Catholike Church and all her children confeſſe that all Martirs are ſtraight after their death, in bliſſe, and neede no praiers. Whereof this is S. Auguſtines knowen ſentence. He doeth iniurie to the Martyr, that praieth for the Martyr. Ser. 17 de verb. Apoſt. c. 1. and againe to this purpoſe he writeth thus moſt excellently tract. 84 in Ioan. We keepe not a memorie of Martyrs at our Lords table, as we doe of other that reſt in peace, that is, for the intent to pray for them, but rather that they may pray for vs &c.

Beza. Praying for the dead, and vnto Sainctes, at the aulter.

But if wee take the wordes generally for al deceaſed in ſtate of grace, as it may be alſo, then wee ſay that euen ſuch, though they be in purgatorie and Gods chaſtiſement in the next life, and neede our praiers, yet (according to the foreſaid wordes of S. Auguſtine) doe reſt in peace. being diſcharged from the labours, afflictions, and perſecutions of this worlde, and (which is more) from the daily dangers of ſinne and damnation, and put into infallible ſecuritie of eternall ioy with vnſpeakeable comfort of conſcience, and ſuch in deede are more happie and bleſſed then any liuing, who yet are vſually in the Scriptures called bleſſed, euen in the middes of the tribulations of this life. Whereby wee ſee that theſe wordes, from hence forth they ſhall reſt from their labours, may truely agree to them alſo that are in Purgatorie, and ſo here is nothing proued againſt purgatorie. Laſtly, this aduerbe, á modo, in Latine, as in Greeke ἀπάρτι, doth not properly ſignifie from this preſent time forward, as though the Apoſtle had ſaid, that after their death and ſo forward they are happie: but it noteth and ioyneth the time paſt together with the time preſent, in this ſenſe, that ſuch as haue died ſince Chriſts Aſcenſion, when the firſt entring into heauen opened it for others, goe not to Limbus patrum, as they were wont before Chriſts time, but are in caſe to goe ſtraight to bliſſe, except the impediments be in themſelues. Therefore they are here called bleſſed, that die now in this ſtate of grace and of the new Teſtament, in compariſon of the old faithfull and good perſons.

The place abuſed againſt Purgatorie, anſwered.

á modo in Plutius in Lexico.

Fulke. 5. Though Beza doth tranſlate it ſo as it ſeemeth to pertaine only to martyrs, yet the phraſe doeth not neceſſarily import ſo much, for then he would haue ſayd rather, which are killed or ſlaine for the Lord. And ſeeing to liue in the Lord or in Chriſt Ieſus, is a phraſe of Scripture, ſignifying to liue godly and in the fayth of Chriſt, 2. Tim. 3. 12. ſo to die in the Lord, ſignifieth to die in the fayth of Chriſt, as 1. Theſſ. 4. 16. the dead in Chriſt, are called all that haue died in the fayth of Chriſt before his comming to iudgement. Therefore they that die in the Lord, are not they onely that die for the Lordes cauſe, but all that die in the faith of Chriſt, who are to be comforted againſt the troubles of this life, and the perſecution of Antichriſt, & not they only whom Antichriſt ſhall kill and murther, but euen they alſo that for the Lords cauſe, are killed all the day long, & accompted as ſheepe of the ſlaughter, which is the condition of all Gods children in this life. Seeing then this bleſſednes pertaineth to all that die in the fayth of Chriſt, there is no purgatorie paines for them after this life, nor any need of prayers. By that which S. Auguſtine ſaieth of the memory of Martyrs vſed in his time, if we compare it with the elder vſage, in which they offered ſacrifice for Patriarkes, Prophets, Martyrs, and all the elect departed: as appeareth by Cypr. Ep. 38. Epipha. her. 75. and the olde Liturgies: it is eaſie to gather, that the auncient memories and oblations for the dead, were neither maſſes nor prayers, but prayſes and thankes giuing, though afterward by litle and litle, the ſuperſtition of praying for the dead, and the opinion of purgatory began to be receiued. And yet purgatory was not confirmed in S. Auguſtines time, as it appeareth by his doubting thereof in ſome places. Ench. ad Laurent. c. 69. De fide & oper. c. 16. De octo Quæſt. Dulc. q. 1. and his vter denying of a third place: Hypognoſtic. lib. 5. De verb. Apoſt. ſer. 14. But ſeeing you confeſſe the place may be vnderſtood of all that die in the fauour of God: you ſay, that though they be in purgatory, they reſt in peace according to S. Auguſtines words. But thoſe wordes of S. Auguſtine doe confute your purgatory, where there is no more reſt then is in hell, if we beleeue your fables of the torments of purgatory, which tell vs that they differ onely, in that the one is temporall, the other eternall. They that prayed for the dead therefore in S. Auguſtines time, compted them to reſt in peace, yet to be delaied of their bleſſed felicitie for a ſeaſon: as the Greekes doe at this day which denie your purgatory, yet pray for the dead. But (ſay you) they reſt in peace, becauſe they be diſcharged of the trouble of this life, &c. A miſerable reſt, to be diſcharged of the common afflictions of this life (wherof they ſuffer leſt, whom you affirme to goe to purgatory) to be tormented with helliſh paynes after this life, and that for ſo many thouſand yeeres as the Popes pardons are able to releaſe them, and yet will not of his charitie giue them, but couetouſly ſelleth them. But it is more (you ſay) that they are diſcharged from daily danger of ſinne and damnation, and put to infallible ſecuritie of eternall ioy, with vnſpeakeable comfort of conſcience. Verily, the elect that are iuſtified by fayth, though they bee ſubiect to ſinne of infirmitie, yet are out of danger of damnation, euen while they are in this life. Rom. 8. 1. and of ſinning vnto death, 1. Iohn 5. 18. and as for the infallible certaintie of eternall ioy, with vnſpeakeable comfort of conſcience, they haue alſo in this life by the teſtimonie of Gods ſpirit, Rom. 8. 16. Therefore although their ſtate were ſuch in purgatory, as you ſay, yet it were worſe then the ſtate of this life, in which be all the good things that you can ſay of purgatory, and yet there is not that terrible flame and torment which you ſay is in purgatorie.

Purgatory. Prayers for the dead.

But

But ſeeing they be ſoules and not bodyes, that be in purgatorye: I meruaile how they can haue ſuch vnſpeakeable comfort of minde, wherein they ſuffer ſuch vntollerable torments, as you hold their paynes to be, or what paynes they can ſuffer in their ſoules, which enioy vnſpeakeable comfort of their conſciences. For the vnſpeakeable comfort of conſcience, will ouercome all other griefes of body or minde: and the diſcomfort of conſcience, is the greateſt torment that the ſoule can ſuffer. As for your fables of burning, and ſcalding, whipping, & racking, yea freezing of ſoules in the yce, and ſuch like, whereof your Legendes & promptuaries are full, you may tell to olde wiues, on winter nights by the fire ſide: but men indewed with knowledge and vnderſtanding, will not be perſwaded that the conſcience feeling vnſpeakeable comfort (as you ſay,) can be tormented with any ſuch things. Seeing therefore the holy ghoſt ſayth, that the dead in Chriſt doe reſt from their labours, it is certaine they feele no purgatory paynes, which are infinitely greater then any labours of this life, if they bee ſuch as you would make men beleeue they are. Laſtly (you ſay) the aduerbe doth not ſignifie properly from this time forward, but it noteth together the tyme paſt with the time preſent. Verily S. Iohn vſeth it to ſignifie from this time forward, not only in this place, but alſo in his goſpel Ioh.1.51. Where Chriſt ſaith to Nathaniel, from henceforth, you ſhal ſee heauen open &c. where he doth not note and ioyne the time paſt, with the time preſent, but ſpeaketh altogether of the time to come: ſo he meaneth, that from their death forwarde they are bleſſed, and reſt from their labours. But that the Apoſtle doth not meane they ſhoulde bee bleſſed, becauſe they go not into Limbus patrum, it is manifeſt by this reaſon, that all that went to Limbus patrum by your owne confeſſion were bleſſed, were in Abrahams boſome, and in happy reſt, and reſted from their labours, therefore they enioyed that happineſſe, which is heare pronounced of the dead in the Lorde. That you ende Limbus patrum at Chriſts aſcenſion, and hold that Chriſt by deſcending into hell deliuered the fathers from thence. I meruaile where you place them, for thoſe fourtie dayes, that were betweene his reſurrection and aſcenſion.

And if any of the eleſt died in that meane time, howe they were deliuered out of Limbus patrum, except you fayne that Chriſt deſcended to hell after his reſurrection. But you ſay further, that ſuch as haue dyed ſince Chriſtes aſcenſion, are in caſe to goe ſtreight to bliſſe, except the impediment be in themſelues. But the ſpirite acknowledgeth no impediment of bliſſe of them that die in the Lorde: but ſayth they are bleſſed, that are dead in the Lorde. Whereas if there had bene any other impediment, hee coulde not haue pronounced them abſolutely bleſſed: but ſhould haue added the exception of that impediment, which might keepe them from bleſſednes. Which ſeeing the ſpirit neither heare, nor any where in the ſcriptures hath declared, it is but a forged impediment, that taketh away the ioy and comfort which the ſpirit giueth to all them that die in the Lorde. This bleſſednes therefore is abſolute, and not in compariſon, nor with exception: and the reaſon of their bleſſednes is added, for that they reſt from their labours & troubles. And their works follow them vnto euerlaſting reward, according to gods promiſe, by whoſe grace they haue bene iuſtifyed by faith, exerciſed in good workes, and ended their courſe in the Lord.

CHAP. XV.

THE 4 PART Of the 7. laſt plagues & final damnation of the wicked

2 They that had nowe ouercome the beaſt and his image and the number of his name, do gloriſie God. 6 To ſeuen Angels hauing the ſeuen laſt plagues, are giuen ſeuen cuppes full of the wrath of God.

AND I ſaw an other ſigne in heauē great and marueilous: ſeuen Angels hauing the ſeuen laſt plagues. Becauſe in them the wrath of God is conſummate.

2 And I ſawe as it were [c] a ſea of glaſſe mingled with fire, and them that ouercame the beaſt and his image and the number of his name, ſtanding vpon the ſea of glaſſe, hauing the harpes of God:

4 Who ſhall not feare thee, O Lorde, and gloriſie thy name? for thou onely art holy: and all Gentiles ſhall come, and worſhippe before thee, for thy iudgements are made manifeſt.

5 And after that I looked, and beholde, the temple of the tabernacle of the teſtimonie was open in heauen.

CHAP. XVI.

Vpon the powring out of the ſeuen cuppes of Gods wrath, on the land, the ſea, the fountaines, the ſeat, of the beaſt, Euphrates and the aire: there ariſe ſundrie plagues in the world.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple, ſaying to the ſeuen Angels: Go, and poure out the ſeuen vials of the wrath of God vpon the earth.

2 And the firſt went and poured out his vial vpon the earth, and there was made a cruel and very ſore wounde vpon men that had the character of the beaſt: and vpon them that adored the image thereof.

3 And the ſecond Angel poured out his vial vpon the ſea, and there was made bloud as it were of one dead: and euery liuing ſoule died in the ſea.

4 And the third poured out his vial vpon the riuers and the fountaines of waters: and there was made bloud.

5 And I heard the Angel of the waters, ſaying: Thou art iuſt ô Lord which art, and which waſt, the holy one, becauſe thou haſt iudged theſe things:

6 ‡ Becauſe they haue ſhed the bloud of the Saincts and Prophets, & thou haſt giuen them bloude to drinke. for they are worthie.

7 And I heard an other, ſaying: Yea Lord God omnipotent, true and iuſt are thy iudgments.

8 And the fourth Angel poured out his vial vpon the ſunne, and it was giuen vnto him to afflict men with heate, and fire:

9 And men boiled with great heate, and ‡ blaſphemed the name of God hauing power ouer theſe plagues, neither did they penance to giue him glorie.

10 And the fift Angell poured out his vial vpon the ſeate of the beaſt: and his kingdome was made darke, and they together did eate their tongues for paine.

AND I heard a great voyce out of the Temple, ſaying to the ſeuen Angels, Goe your waies, powre out the vials of the wrath of God vpon the earth.

2 And the firſt Angel went and powred out his viall vpon the earth, and there fell a noyſome and a ſore botche vpon the men which had the marke of the beaſt, and vpon them which worſhipped his image.

3 And the ſeconde Angel ſhedde out his viall vpon the ſea, and it turned as it were into the blood of a dead man: and euery liuing thing died in the ſea.

4 And the third Angel ſhedde out his viall vpon the riuers & fountaines of waters, and they turned to blood.

5 And I heard the Angel of the waters ſay, Lord, which art, and waſt thou art righteous, and that holy one, becauſe thou haſt giuen ſuch iudgments:

6 For they haue ſhed out the blood of Saincts and Prophets, & therefore haſt thou giuen them blood to drinke: for they are worthie.

7 And I heard another out of the altar ſay, Euen ſo Lord God almighty, true and righteous are thy iudgements.

8 And the fourth Angel powred out his vial on the Sunne, and power was giuen vnto him to vexe men with feruent heate of fire.

9 And men boyled in great heate, and blaſphemed the Name of God, which hath power ouer theſe plagues, and they repented not, to giue him glory.

10 And the fifth Angel powred out his viall vpon the ſeate of the beaſt, and his kingdome waxed darke, and they gnewe their tongues for ſorowe,

11 And

11 And

11 And they blaſphemed the God of heauen becauſe of their paines and wounds, and [c] did not penance from their workes.

12 And the ſixt Angel poured out his vial vpon that great riuer Euphrátes: and dried vp the water thereof that a way might be prepared to the kings from the riſing of the ſunne.

13 And I ſaw from the mouth ‡ of the dragon, and from the mouth of the beaſt, and from the mouth of the falſe-prophet ‖ three vncleane ſpirites in maner of frogges.

14 For they are the ſpirites of Deuils working ſignes, and they goe forth to the kings of the whole earth to gather them into battel at the great day of the omnipotent God.

15 Behold * I come as a theefe: Bleſſed is he that watcheth, & keepeth his garments, that he * walke not naked, and they ſee his turpitude.

16 And he ſhal gather them into a place which in Hebrew is called [c] Armagedon.

17 And the ſeuenth Angel poured out his vial vpon the aire, and there came forth a loud voice out of the temple frō the throne, ſaying: It is done.

18 And there were made lighteninges, and voices, and thunders, and a great earthquake was made, ſuch an one as neuer hath been ſince men were vpon the earth, ſuch an earthquake, ſo great.

19 And ‡ the great citie was made into three partes: and the cities of the Gentiles fel. And Babylon the great came into memorie before God, * to giue her the cuppe of wine of the indignation of his wrath.

20 And euery Iland fled, and mountaines were not found.

21 And great haile like a talent came downe from heauen vpon men: & men blaſphemed God for the plague of the haile: becauſe it was made exceding great.

11 And blaſphemed the God of heauen, for their ſorowes, & for their ſores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the ſixt angel powred out his vial vpon the great riuer Euphrates, and the water thereof was dried vp, that the way of the kings of the Eaſt ſhould be prepared.

13 And I ſaw three vncleane ſpirits like frogges come out of the mouth of the Dragon, & out of the mouth of the beaſt, & out of the mouth of the falſe prophet.

14 For they are the ſpirites of Deuils, working miracles, to goe out vnto the kinges of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battell of that great day of God almighty.

*15 * Behold, I come as a theefe. Happie is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, leaſt he walke naked, and men ſee his filthineſſe.* Math.24.44. luc.12.39.

16 And he gathered them together into a place, called in the Hebrue tōgue, Armageddon.

17 And the ſeuenth Angell powred out his vial into the aire: and there came a great voice out of the temple of heauen, from the throne, ſaying, It is done.

18 And there followed voices, thundrings, and lightnings: and there was a great earthquake, ſuch as was not ſince men were vpon the earth, ſo mightie an earthquake, and ſo great.

19 And the great citie was diuided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to giue vnto her the cuppe of the wine of the fiercenes of his wrath. Ier.25.5.

CHAP. XVII.

The harlot Babylon clothed with diuers ornaments, 6 and drunken of the bloud of Martyrs, ſitteth vpon a beaſt that hath ſeuen heads and ten hornes: 7 all which things the Angel expoundeth.

AND there came one of the ſeuen Angels which had the ſeuē vials, & ſpake with me, ſaying, Come, I wil ſhew thee ‡the damnation of the great harlot, which ſitteth vpon [c] many waters,

[c] Theſe many waters are many peoples, v. 15.

2 With whom the kings of the earth haue fornicated, & they which inhabite the earth haue bene drunke of the wine of her whoredome.

3 And he tooke me away in ſpirite into the deſert. And I ſaw a woman ſitting vpon a ſcarlet coloured beaſt, full of names of blaſphemie, hauing ſeuen heades, and ten hornes.

4 And the woman was clothed round about with purple and ſcarlet, and gilted with gold and precious ſtone, and pearles, hauing a golden cuppe in her hand, full of the abomination and filthineſſe of her fornication.

5 And in her forehead a name written, ‖ Myſterie: ‖ Babylon the great, mother of the fornications and the abominations of the earth.

6 And I ſaw the woman ‖drunken of the bloud of the Saincts, and of the bloud of the martyrs of IESVS. And I maruelled when I had ſeene her, with great admiration.

7 And the Angel ſayd to me, Why doeſt thou maruel? I wil tell thee the myſterie of the woman, and of the beaſt that carieth her, which hath the ſeuen heads and the ten hornes.

8 The beaſt which thou ſaweſt, ‡ was, and is not, and ſhal come vp out of the bottomeles depth, and goe into deſtruction: and the inhabitantes on the earth (whoſe names are not written in the booke of life from the making of the world) ſhal maruel, ſeeing the beaſt that was, and is not.

9 And here is vnderſtanding, that hath wiſedome. The ſeuen heads: are ‖ſeuen hils, vpon which the woman ſitteth, and they are ſeuen kings.

10 Fiue are fallen, one is, and an other is not yet come: and when he ſhall come, he muſt tarie a ſhort time.

11 And the beaſt which was, and is not: ‖the ſame alſo is the eight, and is of the ſeuen, and goeth into deſtruction.

12 And the ten hornes which thou ſaweſt: are ‡ ten kings, which haue not yet receiued kingdom, but [d] ſhall receiue power as kings one houre after the beaſt, [d] doe.

13 Theſe haue one counſell and force: and

And there came one of the ſeuen Angels, which had the ſeuen vials, and talked with me, ſaying vnto me, Come, I will ſhew vnto thee the iudgement of the great whore, that ſitteth vpon many waters.

2 With whom haue committed fornication the kings of the earth, and the inhabiters of the earth are drunken with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he caried me away in the ſpirit into the wildernes: and I ſaw a woman ſit vpon a ſcarlet coloured beaſt, full of names of blaſphemie, hauing ſeuen heads, and ten hornes.

4 And the woman was arayed in purple & ſcarlet colour, and decked with gold, precious ſtone and pearles, hauing a cup of golde in her hand, full of abominations, and filthineſſe of her fornication.

5 And in her forehead was a name written, A myſterie, great Babylon, the mother of whoredome and abhominations of the earth.

6 And I ſawe the woman drunken with the blood of the Saincts, and with the blood of the martyrs of Ieſus: And when I ſawe her, I wondred with great marueile.

7 And the Angel ſayd vnto me, Wherefore maruelleſt thou? I will ſhew thee the myſterie of the woman, and of the beaſt that beareth her, which hath ſeuen heades and tenne hornes.

8 And the beaſt that thou ſaweſt, was, and is not, and ſhall aſcend out of the bottomleſſe pit, and goeth into perdition, and they that dwell on the earth ſhall wonder (whoſe names are not written in the booke of life from the beginning of the world) when they behold the beaſt that was, and is not, and yet is.

9 And here is a meaning that hath wiſedome. The ſeuen heads, are ſeuen mountaines, on which the woman ſitteth: They are alſo ſeuen Kings.

10 Fiue are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come: And when he commeth, he muſt continue a ſhort ſpace.

11 And the beaſt that was, and is not, is euen the eight, and is one of the ſeuen, and goeth into deſtruction.

12 And the ten hornes which thou ſaweſt, are ten kings, which haue receiued no kingdome as yet: but receiue power as kings at one houre with the beaſt.

13 Theſe haue one mind, and ſhal giue their

and their power they ſhal deliuer to ỹ beaſt.

14 Theſe ſhal fight with the Lambe, and the Lambe ſhall ouercome them, becauſe *he is Lord of lordes, and King of kings, and they that are with him, called, and elect, and faithful.

1.Tim.6, 15. Apo.19, 16.

15 And he ſaid to me, The waters which thou ſaweſt where the harlot ſitteth: are peoples, and nations, and tonges.

16 And the ten hornes which thou ſaweſt in the beaſt: theſe ſhall hate the harlot, and ſhall make her deſolate and naked, and ſhal eate her fleſh, and her they ſhall burne with fire.

17 For ‡God hath giuen into their harts, to doe that which pleaſeth him: that they giue their kingdō to the beaſt, til the words of God be conſummate.

‡Not forcing or moouing any to folow Antichriſt, but: by his iuſt iudgement, and for puniſhment of their ſinnes, permitting them to beleue and conſent to him.

15 And he ſaith vnto me, The waters which thou ſaweſt, where the whore ſitteth, are people and folke, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten hornes which thou ſaweſt vpon the beaſt, are they that ſhal hate the whore, and ſhall make her deſolate and naked, and ſhall eate her fleſh, and burne her with fire.

17 For God hath put in their hartes to fulfill his will, and to do with one conſent, for to giue their kingdome vnto the beaſt, vntill the wordes of God ſhall be fulfilled.

Rhem.1. 1 The damnation.) The final damnation of the whole company of the reprobate, called here the great whore.

Fulke.1. The finall damnation of the whole company of the reprobate is deſcribed, *cap.*20.14. &c. Therefore the great Whore in this chapter, ſignifieth the congregation of Antichriſt, the members whereof be all ſpirituall citizens of Rome: their whole fayth and religion, depending vpon the ſee of Rome, and their head vſurping all his tyranny, by pretenſe of right of that citie. A liuely image of which viſion God made manifeſt to the whole world, when a whore was made head of the Romiſh church, called Iohn the 7. and of ſome the 8. commonly Pope Ioane. Which ſo wringeth the Papiſtes at the heart, that they haue no way to ſhift it of, but by impudent denying of that which is ſo notorious, euen in their owne ſtories of their Popes liues.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XVII.

Rhem. 4. 5 Babylon.) In the end of S. Peters firſt Epiſtle, where the Apoſtle dateth it at Babylon, which the auncient writers (as we there noted) affirme to be meant of Rome: the Proteſtants will not in any wiſe haue it ſo, becauſe they would not be driuen to confeſſe that Peter euer was at Rome, but here for that they thinke it maketh for their opinion, that the Pope is Antichriſt, and Rome the ſeat and citie of Antichriſt, they will needs haue Rome to be this Babylon, this great whore, & this purple harlot. for ſuch fellowes, in the expoſition of holy Scripture, be led only by their preiudicate opinions and hereſies, to which they draw al things without al indifferencie and ſinceritie.

The Proteſtants here will needs haue Babylon to be Rome, but not in S. Peters epiſtle.

But S. Auguſtine, Areas, and other writers, moſt commonly expound it, neither of Babylon it ſelfe a citie of Chaldea or AEgypt, nor of Rome, or any one citie, which may be ſo called ſpiritually, as Hieruſalem before chap. 11. is named ſpirituall Sodome and AEgypt, but of the general ſocietie of the impious, and of thoſe that preferre the terrene kingdom and commoditie of the world, before God and eternal felicitie. The author of the Commentaries vpon the Apocalypſe ſet forth in S. Ambroſe name, writeth thus: This great whore ſometime ſignifieth Rome, ſpecially which at that time when the Apoſtle wrote this, did perſecute the Church of God. but otherwiſe it ſignifieth the whole citie of the diuel, that is, the vniuerſal corps of the reprobate. Tertullian alſo taketh it for Rome, thus. Babylon (ſayth he) in S. Iohn is a figure of the citie of Rome, being ſo great, ſo proud of the Empire, and the deſtroyer of the Saincts. Which is ‡Lively ſpoken of that citie when it was heathen, the head of the terrene dominion of the world, the perſecutor of the Apoſtles and their ſucceſſours, the ſeate of Nero, Domitian and the like, Chriſts ſpecial enemies, the ſinke of idolatrie, ſinne, and falſe worſhip of the Pagan gods. Then was it Babylon, when S. Iohn wrote this, and then was Nero and the reſt figures of Antichriſt, and that citie the reſemblance of the principall place (whereſoeuer it be) that Antichriſt ſhall reigne in about the latter end of the world.

By Babylon (according to al the fathers) is ſignified, partly the whole ſocietie of the wicked, partly the citie of Rome, only in reſpect of the terrene & heathenish ſtate of them that perſecuted the church Lyranus. Iudas.

Nowe to apply that to the Romane Church and Apoſtolike See, either nowe or then, which was ſpoken onely of the terrene ſtate of that citie, as it was the ſeate of the Emperour, and not of Peter, when it did ſites about thirtie Popes Chriſtes Vicares, one after an other, and endeauoured to deſtroy the whole Church: that is moſt blaſphemous and fooliſh.

The Church in Rome was one thing, and Babylon in Rome an other thing. Peter ſate in Rome, and Nero ſate in Rome, but Peter, as in the Church of Rome: Nero, as in the Babylon of Rome: Which diſtinction the Heretikes might haue learned by S. Peter him ſelfe ep. 1. chap. 5. writing thus, The Church ſalureth you, that is in Babylon, coelect. So that the Church and the very choſen Church was in Rome, when Rome was Babylon. whereby it is plaine that, whether Babylon or the great whoore doe here ſignifie Rome or no, yet it cannot ſignifie the Church of Rome, which is nowe, and euer was, differing from the terrene Empire of the ſame. And if, as in the beginning of the Church, Nero & the reſt of the perſecuting Emperours (which were figures of Antichriſt) did principally ſit in Rome, ſo alſo the great Antichriſt ſhall haue his ſeate there, as it may well bee (though others thinke that Hieruſalem rather ſhal be his principall citie:) yet euen then ſhall neither the Church of Rome, nor the Pope of Rome bee Antichriſt, but ſhalbe perſecuted by Antichriſt, and driuen out of Rome, if it bee poſſible. for, to Chriſtes Vicar and the Romane Church he will beare as much good will as the Proteſtants nowe do, and he ſhall haue more power to perſecute him and the Church, then they haue.

The Church of Rome is neuer called Babylon.

S. Hierom epiſt. 17. c. 7. to Marcella, to draw her out of the citie of Rome to the holy lande, warning her of the manifolde allurements to ſinne and ill life, that bee in ſo great and populous a citie alludeth at length to theſe words of the Apocalypſe, and maketh it to be Babylon, and the purple whoore. but ſtraighte way, leſt ſome naughtie perſon might thinke hee meant that of the Church of Rome, which he ſpake of the ſocietie of the wicked only, hee addeth: There is there Ro. 1. in deede the holy Church, there are the triumphant monument of the Apoſtles and Martyrs, there is the true confeſſion of Chriſt, there is the faith praiſed * of the Apoſtle, and Gentilitie troden vnder foote, the name of Chriſtian daily aduancing it ſelfe on high. Whereby you ſee that whatſoeuer may be ſpoken or interpreted of Rome, out of this worde Babylon, is is not meant of the Church of Rome, but of the terrene ſtate, in ſo much that the ſaide holy Doctor (li. 2. aduerſ Iouinian. c. 19.) ſignifieth that the holineſſe of the Church there, hath wiped away the blaſphemie written in the foreheade of her former iniquitie. But of the difference of the olde ſtate and dominion of the Heathen there, for which it is reſembled to Antichriſt. and the Trieſtly ſtate which now it hath, reade a notable place in S. Leo ſerm. 1. in natali Petri & Pauli.

Fulke 4. In the ende of S. Peters epiſtle, for a poore helpe to prooue that Peter was at Rome, you will needes haue Babylon to bee taken for Rome, whereunto in deede the conſent of auncient writers, mooued with the light of this chapter, agreeth. Yet can it neither neceſſarily nor probably bee gathered out of that epiſtle, ſeeing there appeareth no reaſon why he ſhould not call it Rome, being that citie whereof hee was biſhop, (if we beleeue the Papiſtes) and which ſhould bee the head of Chriſtian religion, and the Ieruſalem of Chriſtians, as the Papiſtes affirme. There appeareth, I ſay, no reaſon why hee ſhould refuſe to call it Rome: (eſpecially ſeeing there is no other teſtimonie in the Actes of the Apoſtles, of his comming thether) and why hee ſhould call it by the odious and infamous name of Babylon, which was the olde enimie of the Church, and the ſeate of Antichriſt, rather then Sainct Paule writing to the Romanes, or to Timothie of his perſecution at Rome. Except perhappes by the ſpirite of prophecie hee did foreſee how his ſucceſſours in that place ſhould abuſe his name, and the dignitie of that ſea, to ſet vp the kingdome of Antichriſt there: and for that cauſe would admoniſh the faithfull, that they ſhould take Rome not for the Ieruſalem of Chriſtians, but for Babylon the citie of Antichriſt, which in time to come, was to be reuealed in that place. But in this chapter where Rome is moſt plainly deſcribed vnder the name of Babylon: the papiſts by all meanes would auoid that expoſition, becauſe they ſee manifeſtly, that Babylon which is Rome, is here deſcribed to be the ſeat and citie of Antichriſt.

Babylon is Rome.

Theſe are the fellowes that in expoſition of the holy Scriptures, be led onely by their preiudicate opinions and hereſies, to which without any reaſon and ſinceritie, they drawe all things. And if you marke their notes from the beginning to the ende, you ſhall ſee, that in very fewe they haue any colour out of the words of the text, to conclude their notes, but for the moſt part they bring their preiudicate opinions to the text, and ſo drawe not their notes out of the Scripture. But drawe the Scriptures to their opinions, which can neuer bee concluded out of the Scripture. As for Peters being at Rome, wee affirme it cannot be prooued out of the Scriptures: yet for the conſent of auncient writers, wee yeeld vnto it, as to a matter of ſtory, but no article of our fayth. And if Peters beyng at Rome were as certayne out of the Scriptures, as Pauls comming thether, and beyng there: it could make nothing for the Antichriſtian auctoritie, which the Pope claymeth vnder colour of his being there. Who if he were there, was the chiefe Apoſtle of the circumciſion, and not of the Gentiles, as it is manifeſt by the holy Scripture, Galathians 2. And what prerogatiue ſo euer hee had, beyng an Apoſtle, it ceaſed with the death of his perſon, as the Apoſtleſhip of Paule, and of the reſt: although the fruite of their labours in preaching and writing, ſhall continue to the ende of the world.

But S. Auguſtine (you ſay) and Arethas expound not this place of Rome, but of the ſocietie of the vngodly. S. Auguſtine in deed ſaieth often, that Babylon repreſenteth the ſocietie of the vngodly, as Ieruſalem the Church of the faithful, but yet he acknowledgeth the olde citie of Babylon in Aſſyria, to haue bene the head citie of that ſocietie before Chriſt, and Rome to be the head citie of the ſame ſocietie ſince the comming of Chriſt: & this he doth commonly inſinuate in his bookes De ciuit. Dei, as I haue ſhewed before. Among which this one teſtimonie ſhall ſerue vs to repeate. We ought where need is to make report of the Aſſyrian kings, that is may appeare how Babylon which was the firſt Rome, commeth foorth in the world with this ſtraunger the citie of God. And the affayres which we muſt enter into this booke, for the compariſon of both the Cities, the earth'y and the heauenly, we muſt take out of the Greekes and Latines, where Rome it ſelfe is, which is the ſecond Babylon. You ſee therefore moſt euidently, that as olde Babylon of the Aſſyrians was the head of the ſocietie of the impious, againſt the church of the Iewes: ſo Rome of the Latines, is the head of the ſocietie of the vngodly, againſt the church church of the Chriſtians. For this cauſe he calleth Rome an other Babylon, the ſecond Babylon, the weſterne Babylon, the daughter of the elder Babylon.

Concerning Arethas, as he tooke his commentary out of the ancient Greeke writers, ſo he cannot diſſemble their iudgement, that by Babylon is ſignified olde Rome. But being a Grecian liuing farre from Italy, and out of the tyranny of the Romiſh antichriſt, and knowing more diſorder in Conſtantinople in his time then he did in Rome, he declareth that in his opinion, it ſignifieth rather Conſtantinople, which was called new Rome, then olde Rome in Italie. Yet becauſe all things could not agree to Conſtantinople, he inclineth to that opinion, that Babylon ſignifieth the world of wicked men. Neuertheleſſe he confeſſeth: That other writers hauing diſcuſſed this reuelation, haue interpreted it to be olde Rome, or an vniuerſall kingdome, which extendeth to the ſecond comming of our Lord. And in the end he leaueth it to the readers diſcretion to take it for olde Rome or new Rome, or the time of the life of antichriſt. Therefore neither S. Auguſtine nor Arethas denie it to be expounded of Rome, but rather confirme that moſt ancient expoſition, which alſo is cleere by the text it ſelfe, verſ. 9. & 18. As for later writers, that liued vnder the tyranny of the Romiſh antichriſt, were glad to wreſt it any whither, rather then to incurre the hatred of Rome, by diſciphring it, to be the citie of Antichriſt. Yet ſometime there haue not wanted they, that haue beene bolde to tell the Pope openly, that Rome is Babylon. For the church of Leodium being miſerably afflicted by pope Paſcall the ſecond, doth thus write againſt him: In times paſt I was wont to interpret, that Peter by Babylon would ſignifie Rome, becauſe Rome at that time was confuſed with idolatry and all filthineſſe. But now my ſorow doth interpret vnto me, that Peter calling the church gathered together in Babylon, foreſaw (by ſpirit of prophecy) the confuſion of diſſenſion, wherewith the church at this day is rent in peeces. As for the poore men of Lyons, whom they called by the name of Waldenſes, Leoniſtæ, and ſuch like opprobrious names, did plainly affirme, and conſtantly beleeue, that the church of Rome is this whore of Babylon, and the pope antichriſt, as Reinerius an inquiſitor witneſſeth of them, which liued more then three hundred yeeres agoe. And ſaith they were more pernicious to the Romiſh church then all other ſects, for three cauſes. The firſt, Becauſe it hath beene of longer continuance. For ſome ſay it hath indured ſince the time of Syluester. Other ſay it hath indured ſince the apoſtles time. The ſecond cauſe is, becauſe it is more generall. For there is almoſt no land, in which this ſect doth not creepe. The third cauſe, for that all other ſects doe bring in an horror with the heinouſneſſe of their blaſphemies againſt God. This ſect of the Leoniſts, hath a great ſhew of godlineſſe, becauſe they liue iuſtly before men, and beleeue all things well concerning God, and all the articles which are conteined in the Creed, they blaſpheme and hate onely the church of Rome. This is the teſtimony of a cruell enemy and perſecutor of them, by which you may ſee, that antichriſt after he was diſcloſed, was acknowledged by many true Chriſtians, to be that he is, although many alſo were deceiued by him (though none of the elect finally) to their deſtruction.

The auctor of the commentarie in S. Ambroſe name, and Tertullian, you confeſſe to vnderſtand this Babylon to be Rome, to whom afterward you adde S. Hierome: ſo might you haue done Primaſius, and Victorinus, elder then S. Hierome, and Ambroſius Ansbertus, who did write about 700 yeeres agoe. But you ſay Rome was Babylon when it was heathen, as in Tertullians time, and when S. Iohn wrote this. Very good, that which was Babylon in S. Iohns time, is the ſame that he propheeieth to be the chiefe citie and ſeat of antichriſt, as it is manifeſt to all that read the prophecie. But Rome was then Babylon, ergo Rome is the citie which he prophecieth that it ſhould be the ſeat of antichriſt. But in the dayes of Victorinus, Ambroſe, Auguſtine, Hierome, Primaſius, &c. Rome was not heathen, yet of them taken to be Babylon, therefore of them taken to be the citie where antichriſt (when he was reuealed) ſhould ſit, and not a reſemblance onely of it. But to apply that to the Romane church, and apoſtolike ſee, either now or then (you ſay) it is moſt blaſphemous and fooliſh. Indeed to apply it to the true Romane church or the right ſucceſſion in the apoſtolike ſee, which was in the dayes of S. Iohn, or in the time of the Chriſtian emperours, it were both folly and blaſphemie: but to applie it to the church of Rome, and counterfect ſucceſſion of popes, it is wiſdome and holineſſe. For S. Iohn propheeieth not onely of the crueltie of the terrene eſtate of that citie, but alſo of the falſe prophet and antichriſt, which ſhould vſurpe an eccleſiaſticall ſtate and dignitie in that citie. The church of Rome in deed, was one thing, and Babylon in Rome was another thing, while the church of God was at Rome, and was perſecuted by the heathen emperors. But when the emperour of Rome was Chriſtian, one of the heads of the beaſt was wounded to death, as c. 13. euen that ſixt head, which was the perſecutor in the time of S. Iohn. But this head was healed in Conſtantius the heretike emperor, Valens, and Iulian the apoſtata &c. and ſtill the ſeuenth head was to come. But great preparation was made for him, while the biſhop of Rome grew beyond the limits of a Chriſtian miniſterie, into forreine and hetheniſh dominion, as Socrates teſtifieth lib. 7. c. 11. in the time of the Chriſtian emperors. And when the myſterie of iniquitie wrought not ſo cloſely in that ſee, but the forgerie of the biſhops was diſcouered in the Africane councell, vnto which they obtruded a counterfect canon of the councell of Nice for their primacie. And while Leo biſhop of Rome will not obey the decree of the generall councell of Chalcedon, which gaue equall priuilege of dignitie to the biſhop of Conſtantinople, which was new Rome, with thoſe which the church of Rome before had claimed as peculiar to her alone. ſeſt. vltim. In the beſt and moſt Chriſtian times of Rome therfore, when the head of the heathen empire was wounded to death, it was counted of the ancient fathers to be Babylon heere ſpoken of, becauſe of the ſeuenth head, which is the kingdome of antichriſt, that was looked for, to come in place of the ſixth head, which was the terrene ſtate of heatheniſh, hereticall, and perſecuting emperors. Therefore not the true church in Rome, but Rome the perſecutor of the ſaincts, firſt in the heathen and hereticall emperors, afterward in the proud popes and the kings ſubiect to them, is Babylon the mother of all abhominations. And ſo great is the force, and ſo manifeſt is the light of truth, that you are compelled to confeſſe in the end, that antichriſt ſhall haue his ſeat in Rome, though vpon the eleuenth chapter you were reſolute of Ieruſalem. But that you would diſcharge the pope and the popiſh church, to whom all the prophecies doe ſo aptlie agree to be antichriſt and his citie, you labor in vaine. For the blaſphemous pride and hereſies of the pope and his church, with the moſt abhominable liues of both, will eaſily conuince that he is the ſeuenth head of the beaſt, which was to come, and we are not to looke for any other. That you adde out of Hierome, prooueth that he iudged not the church of Rome in his time to be the whore of Babylon, but yet you cannot auoid, but he iudged the citie of Rome to be the whore of Babylon ſpoken of in this prophecie, in which antichriſt ſhould haue his chiefe ſeat of tyranny. But aduerſ. Iouin. lib. 2. (you ſay) he ſignifieth that the holineſſe of the church of Rome had wiped away the name of blaſphemie, written in the forehead of her former iniquitie. In deed he ſaith to Rome, that ſhe had by confeſſion of Chriſt put away the name of blaſphemie, written in her forehead, which in his epiſtle to Algaſia quæſt. 11. he ſaith was Roma æterna, To Rome eternall. But that he meaneth this in reſpect of the true church onelie that was there in his time, and yet looketh for this prophecie of the kingdome of antichriſt, and the fall of Babylon to be fulfilled there. He ſaith to Rome in the ſame place: The curſe which our ſauiour hath threatened to thee in the Apocalypſe, thou mayeſt eſcape by repentance, hauing the example of the Niniuites. You ſee he doth acknowledge the damnation of the great whore of Babylon to be behinde, not yet accompliſhed in his time, when the dominion of the heathen was altogether ſubuerted. The ſermon of Leo extolleth the conuerſion of Rome from Gentilitie to Chriſtianitie, by the preaching of Peter and Paule, but this queſtion of antichriſt and his ſeat, he doth not once touch.

Rhem. 5. 5. Myſterie.) S. Paul calleth this ſecrete and cloſe working of abomination, the myſterie of iniquitie. 2. Theſſal. 2. and it is called a title after in this chapter verſ. 7. the Sacrament (or myſterie) of the woman, and it is alſo the marke of reprobation and damnation. Myſterie.

Fulke. 5. Beda ſaith: It is declared that this name is myſticall, becauſe it is diſcerned onely by wiſdome. As for the marke of reprobation is not openlie carried in the forehead, where this myſticall name is written, which S. Hierome interpreteth to be that inſcription Roma æterna, To Rome eternall. So the heathen writers called the citie commonlie Vrbs æterna, The eternall citie, ſuppoſing that the empire of Rome ſhould be eternall. Whom the papiſts ſucceeded when the ciuill empire was remooued from thence, ſetting vp the eccleſiaſticall tyrannie of antichriſt vnder the colour of Peters ſee, and the eternall rocke of the church, againſt which the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile. So blaſphemouſlie peruerting the moſt comfortable promiſe of Chriſt, touching the perpetuitie of his catholike church builded vpon the doctrine, faith, and confeſſion of Peter and the reſt of the Apoſtles, to the biſhops perſonall ſucceſſion of Peter in the pontificall ſee of Rome. Where neither the doctrine nor example of Peters life is to be found, nor any ſuch power was euer in Peters perſon. And that prerogatiue which he had, deſcended not by ſucceſſion to any other, more then Paules prerogatiue, or that which Iames, or that which Iohn enioyed in their Apoſtleſhip, did deſcend to any of the biſhops that afterward ſucceeded in thoſe churches which they planted or inſtructed. The name of blaſphemie. Peters prerogatiue deſcended not.

Rhem. 6. 6. Drunken of the bloud.) It is plaine that this woman ſignifieth the whole corps of al the perſecutors that haue and ſhal ſhede ſo much bloud of the iuſt: of the Prophets, Apoſtles, and other Martyrs from the beginning of the world to the end. The Proteſtants fooliſhly expound it of Rome, for that there they put Heretikes to death, & allow of their puniſhment in other countries: but their bloud is not called the bloud of ſainctes, no more then the bloud of theeues, manſlayers, and other malefactors: for the ſheding of which by order of iuſtice, no Commonwealth ſhal anſwer. This woman ſignifieth al perſecutors of ſainctes. Puting heretikes to death, is not to ſhede the bloud of ſainctes.

Fulke. 6. The great aboundance of bloud that Rome hath ſhedde, firſt vnder the heathen emperours, and then vnder the antichriſtian popes, more then euer Babylon of the Eaſt did powre out, is ſufficient to make her drunke with the bloud of the ſainctes. For which cruelrie ſhee deſerueth as well as Ieruſalem, that all the righteous bloud that hath beene ſhedde ſince the bloud of righteous Abell, ſhould be imputed to her, and required at her handes. They whom you call heretikes, for the moſt part, and that are in any great number put to death at Rome, and by the tyrannie of the Romiſh inquiſition: are the true Chriſtians and ſainctes heere ſpoken of, whoſe godlie way you call hereſie, as the perſecuting Iewes called it in S. Paule. Act. 24. 14. Therefore, though we allow the puniſhment of heretikes, both in our owne countrie and in others, yet we abhorre the cruelrie of antichriſt and his church, which condemneth true Chriſtians, and murthereth them vnder colour of heretikes, himſelfe and his falſe prophets being the greateſt and moſt blaſphemous heretikes that euer were. Rome drunke with the ſainctes bloud.

Rhem. 7. 9. Seuen hilles.) The Angel him ſelf here expounded theſe 7 hilles to be al one with the 7 heads and the 7 kings: and yet the Heretikes blinded excedingly with malice againſt the Church of Rome, are ſo madde to take them for the ſeuen hilles literally, vpon which in old time Rome did ſtand: that ſo they might make the vnlearned beleeue, that Rome is the ſeate of Antichriſt. But if they had any conſideration, they might marke that the Prophets viſions here are moſt of them by ſeuens, whether he talke of heads, hornes, candleſtickes, Churches, kings, hilles, or other thinges: and that he alluded not to the hilles, becauſe they were iuſt ſeuen, but that Seuen is a myſtical number, as ſometime Ten is ſignifying vniuerſally al of that ſort whereof he ſpeaketh, as, that the ſeuen heads, hilles, or kingdoms (which are here al one) ſhould be al the kingdoms of the world that perſecute the Chriſtians: being heads and mountaines for their height in dignitie aboue others. And ſome take it, that there were ſeuen ſpecial Empires, kingdoms, or States, that were or ſhal be the greateſt perſecutors of Gods people, as of Aegypt, Chanaan, Babylon, the Perſians, and Greekes, which be fiue, firſtly of the Romane Empire which once perſecuted moſt of al other, and which (as the Apoſtle here ſaith) yet is, or ſtandeth, but the ſeuenth, then when S. Iohn wrote this, was not come, neither is yet come in our daies: which is Antichriſts ſtate, which ſhal not come ſo long as the Empire of Rome ſtandeth, as S. Paul did Proſhecie. 2. Theſſal. 2. The Proteſtants madnes in expounding the 7 hilles, of Rome: the Angel him ſelf expounding it otherwiſe.

Fulke 7. The Angell doth not expound thoſe ſeuen hilles to be all one with the ſeuen heads, & the ſeuen kings: but ſheweth moſt plainelie, that the ſeuen heads of the beaſt doe ſignifie ſeuen hilles, vpon which the woman ſitteth, that is, the citie is builded. For the woman verſ. 28. is interpreted to be a citie. Alſo theſe ſeuen heads doe ſignifie ſeuen kings. Therefore hilles are taken litterally for hilles in one ſignification, as kings are in the other. For both theſe words, hilles and kinges, are the interpretation of this word, heads. And it had beene very ſuperfluous to haue added, that they are hilles, & vpon which the woman ſitteth, when he ſhould meane nothing thereby, but they are kings, vpon which the citie doth not ſit, but rather kings vpon the citie. For euerie interpretation muſt be more plaine and cleere then that which is interpreted. Therfore it ſhould be a monſtrous Rome is deſcribed plainly.

monſtrous interpretation, to ſay the ſeuen heads doe ſignifie ſeuen hilles, when he meaneth no hilles but kings: for it is more plaine to vnderſtand that heads are kings, then that hilles are kings. This is therfore a brutiſh wrangling againſt ſo cleere light of truth, ſeeing you haue alſo confeſſed before, that it may well be that antichriſt ſhall haue his ſeat at Rome. ſect. 4. And if we be blinded with malice againſt the church of Rome, and ſo madde to take them for ſeuen hilles litterallie, what were ſo many of the ancient fathers, as affirmed Rome to be the ſee of antichriſt, by the cleere deſcription of her in this chapter? Eſpecially Victorinus and S. Hierome. The ſeuen heads (ſaith Victorinus) are ſeuen hilles, vpon which the woman, that is, the citie of Rome, doth ſit. The other ſaith Ep. 17. I ſuppoſe this place is holier then the Tarpeian rocke, which hauing beene ſo often ſtricken with thunder and lightnings from heauen, ſheweth that it diſpleaſeth the Lord. Read the Apocalypſe of Iohn, and conſider what is there ſaid of the woman clothed in purple, and the blaſphemy written in her forehead, the ſeuen hilles, the many waters, and the departure from Babylon. Were theſe ancient fathers alſo vnlearned? that thus vnderſtood and taught the citie of Rome to be the ſeat of antichriſt, & the ſeuen hilles to be taken litterally for thoſe famous hilles by which Rome hath beene notoriouſly diſcerned from other cities, euen when it hath not beene named: as Virgil in his Georgikes, ſaying: Septemque vna ſibi muro circumdedit arces. She being but one, hath compaſſed ſeuen hilles within her wall, is vnderſtood of all men, to be the citie of Rome, although the Poet doth not there expreſſe her name. But in olde time, you ſay, Rome did ſtand vpon thoſe hilles, wherby you would inſinuate, that Rome doth not now ſtand vpon them, but for feare of another ſequel &c.

D. Sanders not fearing that conſequence (for what ſhould he feare, that was not afraid to raiſe warre againſt his ſouereigne in her owne realme of Ireland) counteth it a childiſh argument, by the ſeuen hilles to prooue the ſee of antichriſt to be at Rome: becauſe the citie is now gone from the hilles, and ſtandeth in the plaine of Campus Martius, and the pope ſitteth on the other ſide of the riuer vpon the hill Vaticane hard by S. Peters church, by whom he holdeth his chaire, not at all deriuing his power from the ſeuen hilles, &c. But if the pope ſit now in another Rome then Peter the Apoſtle ſate, how will Sanders perſuade vs that he ſitteth in the chaire of Peter? For that Rome where Peter ſate, was builded vpon the ſeuen hilles, and not gone downe into the plaine of Campus Martius, nor ouer the riuer. Therefore, if the pope doe not at all deriue his power from the ſeuen hilles, he deriueth it not at all from Peters ſeat, for that was in the citie builded vpon ſeuen hilles. Beſide this, it is plaine, that although many of the people of late time haue remoued their habitations from the hilles into the plaine, and the pope his pallace of pleaſure vnto the other ſide of the riuer: yet hath he not remooued his ſeat from them: for on them be ſtill to this day, his churches, monaſteries, and courts. For on the mount Cælius is the monaſterie of S. Gregorie the firſt, biſhop of Rome, builded by himſelfe, where his fathers houſe ſtood: the church of S. Iohn and Paule, where was a ſtately pallace, inhabited by diuers popes in times paſt. There is the hoſpitall of S. Sauior, the church of S. Marie in Dominica. The church of S. Stephan the round. The church of the foure crowned, with a notable pallace belonging to it. The monaſterie of Eraſmus. The great cathedrall church or minſter of Laterane, which is ſaid to keepe the heads of the Apoſtles Peter and Paule, where are the goodlieſt buildings of the world. And that pallace (ſaith Blondus) as it is the principall ſeat of the popes of Rome, ſo of moſt of them it was in times paſt inhabited, euen vntill the dayes of pope Nicholas the ſecond, which was almoſt 1100 yeeres after Chriſt.

On the ſame hill did Eugenius the fourth build a moſt ſumptuous monaſterie, and repaired the olde pallace, as the principall ſeat of his popedome. There is alſo an houſe of Charterhouſe monks, with the church of S. Croſſe in Ieruſalem. Beſide this, there is not one of the hilles at this day, in which the popes religion is not practiſed in churches and abbeies. The mount of Auentine hath three monaſteries, of Sabine, Boniface, and Alexius. The mount Exquilinus, hath the famous minſter of S. Maria maior, the churches of Antonie, Praxidis, Virus, Euſebius, the forty martyrs, Clemens, Peter ad vincula, and Martin in montibus. Beſide the olde ruines of S. Cyriacus church, which is yet a title of a cardinalſhip. The mount Viminalis hath the churches of S. Laurence in Paliſperna & Potentiana. The mount Tarpeius or Capitoline hath a houſe of friers called Ara Cœli, and a bricke houſe builded by Boniface the ninth, for keeping courts. The mount Palatine hath the churches of S. Nicholas and S. Andrew. To the mount Quirinalis belongeth S. Maria De populo &c. But if we had any conſideration, we might marke (you ſay) that the Prophets viſions are moſt by ſeuens, and that he alluded not to the hilles, becauſe they were iuſt ſeuen. We know ſeuen to be a myſticall number of perfection as tenne, ſignifying Vniuerſality, of the thing ſpoken of: but when the Prophet himſelfe expounded the number of heads, of ſeuen hilles, and knowing that the ſaid great citie ſate vpon ſeuen hilles, we muſt vnderſtand that he calleth them ſeuen hilles becauſe they were iuſt ſeuen: as the ſeuen candleſtickes, and the ſeuen ſtarres doe ſignifie the ſeuen churches, and the ſeuen biſhops of them to whom he writeth, becauſe they were iuſt ſeuen, as they be rehearſed by name. c. 1. 11. and c. 2. & 3.

Likewiſe the ſeuen kings or kingdomes, which is another interpretation of the ſeuen heads, are called ſeuen becauſe they are iuſt ſeuen in number, as it is manifeſt by the accompt that the Angell maketh of them: ſaying fiue are fallen, one is, and the ſeuenth is not yet come. And although ſome take it for ſeuen ſpeciall kingdomes that perſecuted Gods people, yet it is manifeſt by the whole diſcourſe of the chapter, that the Apoſtle meaneth of ſeuen heads, or principall rulers of the Romane empire, as Kings, Conſuls, Decem viri, Tribuni militum, Dictators, Emperors, Popes: whereof fiue were fallen before S. Iohns time, the emperour then was, the pope was yet to come: which is the tyranny of antichriſt, long ſince diſcouered, and is now not a little conſumed with the ſpirit of the Lordes mouth, which is his holie word, preached in theſe dayes, and ſhall be vtterlie aboliſhed by the comming of our ſauiour Chriſt to iudgement, as S. Paule did prophecie. 2. Theſſ. 2.

Rhem. 8. 11. The ſame is the eight.) The beaſt it ſelf being the congregation of al theſe wicked perſecutors, though it conſiſt of the foreſaid ſeuen, yet for that the malice of al is complete in it, may be called the eight. Or, Antichriſt him ſelf, though he be one of the ſeuen, yet for his extraordinarie wickednes ſhal be counted the odde perſecutor, or the accompliſhment of al other and therfore is named the eight. Some take this beaſt called the eight, to be the Diuel. What is the eight beaſt.

The

Fulke. 8. The kingdome of antichriſt being one of the ſeuen, that is a Romane tyranny, yet for that it is after another ſort then the other ſix, perſecuting the true church vnder the colour of the head of the catholike church, is alſo called the eight kingdome.

Rhem. 9. 18. The great citie.) If it be meant of any one citie, and not of the vniuerſal ſocietie of the reprobate (which is the citie of the Diuel, as the Church and the vniuerſal fellowſhip of the faithfull is called the citie of God) it is moſt like to be old Rome, as ſome of the Greekes expound it, from the time of the firſt Emperours, til Conſtantines daies, who made an end of the perſecution. for by the authoritie of the old Romane Empire, Chriſt was put to death firſt, and afterward the two cheefe Apoſtles, and the Popes their ſucceſſors, and infinite Catholike men throughout the world, by leſſer kings which then were ſubiect to Rome. All which Antichriſtian perſecutions ceaſed, when Conſtantine reigned, and yelded vp the citie to the Pope, who holdeth not the kingdom or Empire ouer the world, as the Heathen did, but the fatherhod & ſpiritual rule of the Church. Howbeit the more probable ſenſe is the other, of the citie of the Diuel, as the author of the homilie vpon the Apocalypſe in S. Auguſtine declareth. The double interpretation of Babylon.

Fulke. 9. Without all peraduenture the great citie which in S. Iohns time had the dominion ouer the kinges of the earth, was none other but the citie of Rome, and ſo it is expounded, not onely of ſome Greekes, but of the moſt of the Latine writers, as Irenæus, Tertullian, Ambroſe, Victorinus, Hierome, Auguſtine, Primaſius, as hath beene ſhewed before. Proſper alſo a Latine writer De prom. & pred. c. 7. ſaith: Who cannot vnderſtand what citie he ſaith doth carry a cuppe full of the abhominations of vncleannes, and fornication of the whole earth? when it is called eternall which is temporall, verily it is a name of blaſphemie: when mortall men, though kinges, therein are called Diui, that is, Gods, and their ſupplicants ſay vnto them: To your diuine power, to your altars, to your eternitie, &c. This the learned know to be the citie of Rome, which was called The eternall citie, and wherein the emperours were called gods, and the people flattered them with altars and blaſphemous titles of diuine power and eternitie: as they doe now their popes with the like blaſphemous termes of the moſt holie, and your holineſſe. Who haue alſo as blaſphemous tokens of diuinitie, as any of the heathen emperours had: in their triple crowne, their riding on mens ſhoulders, their attendance of kings and emperours, their thrones in the churches higher then the altars, and ſuch like blaſphemous pompes of heathenish and Antichriſtian pride. Ambroſius Ansbertus alſo a Latine writer 700 yeeres ſince, in his commentarie vpon chap. 14. verſ. 8. calleth Rome the ſecond Babylon, and vpon this chapter v. 3. he writeth thus: The Angel admoniſhed vs to know, that by the ſeuen heads of wiſedome following, the ſeuen heads are ſeuen hils, and ſeuen kings, that he might ſhew that vnto the ſimilitude of thoſe kings, he had brought Rome, which ſitting aloft vpon ſeuen hils, ſometimes gouerned the monarchy of the whole world: that in the name of that citie he had figured the power of the whole earthly kingdome. Rome plainely deſcribed.

Seeing therfore the conſent of moſt ancient writers, and your owne confeſſion added to the cleereneſſe of the text, acknowledgeth that the citie heere ſpoken of, is the citie of Rome: you cannot auoid but the ſame citie is the ſeat of antichriſt the ſeuenth head, as well as it was of the heathenish perſecutours that were the ſixth head. And although thoſe heathenish perſecutions did ceaſe while Conſtantine reigned, in whom the ſixth head was wounded to death, yet were they renued in his ſonne Conſtantius the Arrian, and his nephew Iulian the apoſtata, who raiſed perſecution afreſh againſt the church of God, though not ſo cruell as before. Where you ſay, that Conſtatine yeelded the citie of Rome to the pope, in your meaning it is falſe, for he and his ſucceſſors for many yeeres after, held the dominion of that citie. But in trueth, by remouing the ſeat of the empire partly to Conſtantinople, he yeelded place for the myſtery of iniquitie, to worke more eaſily, toward the open manifeſtation of antichriſt. But the pope (you ſay) holdeth not the kingdome or empire ouer the world as the heathen did, but the fatherhood and ſpirituall rule of the church. That the pope hath held the empire ouer the kinges of the earth, and practiſed as great pride and tyranny euen againſt them that beare the name of the Romane emperors, and againſt other kings of the earth: the ſtories are full of examples. And that he ſtill claimeth the ſame empire and kingdome, his blaſphemous bull giuen out againſt the QVEENE of England, with other his antichriſtian practiſes againſt her crowne and dignitie, doe manifeſtly declare. It is not therfore a fatherhood and a ſpirituall rule, which he claimeth moſt blaſphemouſly ouer all the church: but vnder colour and pretenſe thereof, a temporall kingdome, and an earthly empire ouer the kings of the earth. And as his predeceſſours the heathen emperours, vnder title of their earthly empire, vſurped the auctoritie ouer all religion, and were called Pontifices maximi, that is, the cheefe gouernours of religion: So the popes vnder the title of the cheefe gouernement of religion, vſurpe all ſouereintie of earthly dignitie and temporall dominion. And ſeeing you confeſſe that by the auctoritie of the Romane empire Chriſt was put to death, it is eaſie to conclude, that not Ieruſalem, but Rome which is ſpiritually called Sodoma and Egypt, is that great citie ſpoken of chap. 11. which as it crucified our Lord, ſo alſo it killeth his prophets and ſaincts. Therefore without controuerſie Babylon is Rome, the head and chiefe of all perſecutours of the church of Chriſt, as olde Babylon was of his people the Iewes, as S. Auguſtine himſelfe plainelie teacheth. And ſo may the auctour of thoſe homilies in S. Auguſtine be vnderſtood: that one citie is principall in perſecution of the church, though the church hath many enemies beſide that citie, and them that holde of it.

CHAP. XVIII.

The fall of Babylon, her iudgement, plagues and reuenges: for the which, 9 the kings, 16 and marchants of the earth that ſometime did cleaue vnto her, ſhal mourne bitterly: 20 but heauen, and the Apoſtles and Prophets ſhal reioyce.

AND after theſe things I ſaw an other Angel comming downe from heauen, hauing great power: and the earth was illuminated of his glorie.

AND after that, I ſaw another engell come from heauen, hauing great power, and the earth was lightened with his glorie.

Apoc 14,8.

2 And he cried out in force, ſaying, *Fallen fallen is Babylon the great: and it is become the habitation of Deuils, and c the cuſtodie of euery vncleane ſpirit, and the cuſtodie of euery vncleane and hateful bird:

4 And I heard an other voice from heauen, ſaying, Goe out from her my people: that you be not partakers of her ſinnes, and receiue not of her plagues.

5 Becauſe her ſinnes are come euen to heauen, and God hath remembred her iniquities.

2 And he cried mightily with a ſtrong voice, ſaying, Great Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of deuils, and the holde of all foule ſpirites, and a cage of all vncleane and hatefull birdes:* Eſai.21.19: Iere.51.8.

3 For all nations haue drunken of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth haue committed fornication with her, and the marchants of the earth are waxed rich of the abundance of her pleaſures.

4 And I heard another voice from heauen, ſaying, Come away from her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her ſinnes, and that ye receiue not of her plagues.

5 For her ſinnes are gone vp to heauen, and God hath remembred her wickedneſſe.

6 Reward her euen as ſhe rewarded you, and giue her double according to her workes, and powre in double to her in the ſame cup which ſhe filled vnto you.

7 And as much as ſhe glorified her ſelfe, and liued wantõly, ſo much powre ye in for her of puniſhment and ſorowe: for ſhe ſaid in her hart, I ſit being a Queene, and am no widowe, and ſhall ſee no ſorow.* Eſai.47.8.

8 Therefore ſhall her plagues come in one day, death, and ſorow, and hunger, and ſhe ſhall be vtterly burnt with fire, for ſtrong is the Lorde which iudgeth her.

9 And they ſhall bewaile her, and the kings of the earth ſhall lament for her, which haue committed fornication with her, and haue liued wantonly with her, when they ſhall ſee the ſmoke of her burning:

*10 Standing a farre off for feare of her puniſhment, ſaying, Alas, alas, the great citie Babylon, that mightie citie, for at one houre is thy iudgement come. Iere.51.

11 And the marchants of the earth doe weepe and waile ouer her, for no man buyeth their ware any more.

12 The ware of gold and ſiluer, and pretious ſtones, and of pearle, and raynes, and purple, and ſilke, and ſcarlet, and all Thyne wood, and al maner veſſels of yuorie, and all maner veſſels of moſt precious wood, and of braſſe, and yron, and marble, 13 And cinamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincenſe, and wine, and oile, and fine floure, and wheate, and beaſtes, and ſheepe, and horſes, and charets, and bodies, and ſoules of men.

14 And the apples that thy ſoule luſted after, are departed from thee, and al things which were daintie, and had in price, are departed from thee, and thou ſhalt finde them no more at all.

15 The marchantes of theſe thinges which are made riche, ſhal ſtand farre from her for feare of her tormentes, weeping and mourning,

16 And ſaying, Wo, wo, that great citie, which was clothed with ſilke, and purple, and ſcarlet, and was gilted with gold, and pretious ſtone, and pearles:

17 Becauſe in one houre are ſo great riches made deſolate: and euery gouernour, and euery one that ſaileth into the lake, and the ſhipmen, and they that worke in the ſea, ſtoode a farre of,

18 And cried ſeeing the place of her burning, ſaying, What other is like to this great citie?

19 And they threwe duſt vpon their heades, and cried weeping and mourning, ſaying: Wo, wo, that great citie, in the which al were made riche that had ſhippes in the ſea, of her prices: becauſe in one houre ſhe is deſolate.

c The Angels and al Saincts ſhal reioyce & lande God to ſee the wicked confounded, and Gods iuſtice executed vpon their oppreſſors and perſecutors. & this is that which the Martyrs praied for, chap. 6. Ier. 51, 63.

20 cReioyce ouer her, heauen, and ye holy Apoſtles and Prophetes: becauſe God hath iudged your iudgement of her.

21 And one ſtrong Angel tooke vp as it were a great milſtone, and threw it into the ſea, ſaying, * With this violence ſhal ‡ Babylon that great citie be throwen, & ſhal now be found no more.

22 And the voice of harpers, and of Muſicians, and of them that ſing on ſhalme and trompet, ſhal no more be heard in thee, and euery artificer of euery art ſhal be found no more in thee, and the noiſe of the mil ſhal no more be heard in thee,

23 And the light of the lampe ſhal no more ſhine in thee, & the voice of the bridegrome and the bride ſhal no more be heard in thee: becauſe thy marchants were the princes of the earth, becauſe al nations haue erred in thine inchauntments.

24 And in her is found the bloud of the Prophets and Saincts, and of al that were ſlaine in the earth.

15 The marchants of theſe thinges which were waxed rich, ſhall ſtand a farre off from her, for feare of the puniſhment of her, weeping and wailing,

*16 And ſaying, * Alas, alas, that great citie that was clothed in raines, and purple, and ſcarlet, and decked with gold and pretious ſtones, and pearles:* Iere. 51.

18 And cried, when they ſaw the ſmoke of her burning, ſaying, What citie is like vnto this great citie?

*19 And they caſt duſt on their heades, and cried, weeping and wailing, and ſaying, * Alas, alas, that great citie, wherein were made rich all that had ſhippes in the ſea, by reaſon of her coſtlineſſe, for at one houre is ſhe made deſolate.* Iere. 51.

20 Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apoſtles and Prophets, for God hath giuen your iudgement on her.

21 And a mightie Angel tooke vp a ſtone, like a great milſtone, and caſt it into the ſea, ſaying, With ſuch violence ſhall that great citie Babylon be caſt, and ſhall be found no more at all.

22 And the voice of harpers, and Muſitions, and of Pipers and Trumpetters, ſhal be heard no more at all in thee: and no crafteſman, of whatſoeuer craft he be, ſhall be found any more in thee: and the ſound of a mill ſhall be heard no more at all in thee:

23 And the light of a candle ſhall ſhine no more at all in thee, and the voice of the bridegrome, and of the bride, ſhal be heard no more at all in thee: for thy marchants were the great men of the earth, and with thine inchantment were deceiued all nations.

24 And in her was found the bloud of the Prophets, and of the Saincts, and of all that were ſlaine vpon the earth.

Fulke 1. The Angell ſheweth, that whereas Babylon boaſted that ſhe was eternall, ſhe ſhall be vtterly deſtroied, and neuer riſe againe. Therefore here is nothing to proue, that he meaneth not any one citie, but rather that he meaneth the citie and kingdome of Rome, the ſee of Antichriſt, of whoſe vtter deſtruction, the Angell ſpecially prophecieth. For the deſtruction of the vniuerſall companie of the reprobate, in the day of iudgement, is deſcribed afterward, Cap. 20, 21, and ſo to the end of the chapter. And Ieremie cap. 52. doth nothing els but hiſtorically deſcribe the captiuitie of Babylon, by Nabuchadnezer and his power, and the aduancing of Iehoiacim by Euilmerodach king of Babylon, as euery man will confeſſe, that readeth the chapter. Rome is Babylon.

The Church Catholike doth often and ſpecially vſe this ſacred word, to ioyne with the Church triumphant, conſiſting of Angels and Saincts, who here are ſaid to Laude and praiſe God with great reioycing, by this word Alleluia, *and by often repetition of the ſame: as the Catholike Church alſo vſeth, namely in Eaſter time euen til Whis-ſonnide. for the ioy of Chriſts reſurrection, which (as S. The truth is, by the vſe of the Scriptures it hath more in it then, Prayſe ye the Lord, ſignifying with laude, glorifying, and prayſing of God, a great reioycing withall, mirth, and exultation of hart in the fingers thereof, and that is the cauſe why the holy Church ſayth, Laus tibi Domine, Prayſe be to thee ô Lord, in Lent and times of penance and mourning, but not Alleluia. *which as (S. Auguſtine alſo declareth) is a terme of ſignification and myſterie, ioyned with that time, and then vſed ſpecially in the Church of God, when ſhe repreſenteth to vs in her Seruice, the ioyes and beatitude of the next life: which is done ſpecially at Eaſter, by the ioyfull celebrating of Chriſtes glorious Reſurrection and Aſcenſion, after the penall time of Lent which repreſenteth the miſerie of this life. It ſignifieth more then (as the Proteſtãts tranſlate it) Prayſe ye the Lord.

False tranſlation.

Moreouer the ſaid holy Doctor (li. 2. de doct. Amen and Alleluia ſhould not be tranſlated into vulgar tõgues.

All nations in the Primitiue Church ſang Amen and Alleluia.

This word is a ſacred, Chriſtian, myſticall, and angelicall ſong. and yet in the newe ſeruice booke it is turned into, Prayſe ye the Lord, and Alleluia is quite gone, becauſe they liſt neither to agree with the Church of God, nor with the vſe of holy Scriptures, no nor with their owne tranſlations, but no maruell, that they cannot ſing the ſong of our Lord and of Angels in a ſtrange countrie, that is, out of the Catholike Church, in the captiuitie of ſchiſme and hereſie. Laſtly, we might aſke them whether it be all one to ſay Mat. 21. Hoſanna, and, ſaue vs we beſeech thee? whereas Hoſanna is with all a word of exceeding congratulation and ioy which they expreſſed toward our Sauiour. euen ſo Alleluia hath an other maner of ſenſe and ſignification in it, then can be expreſſed by, Prayſe ye the Lord.

The Proteſtãts profane this word by tranſlating it, and diminiſh the ſignification thereof. Pſal. 136.

Fulke. 2. For the Latine text, it is not to be regarded, nor the Greeke of the olde Teſtament, howe it pleaſed the interpeters to leaue theſe wordes vntranſlated. But in the Greeke of the newe Teſtament, which is endighted by the holy Ghoſt, it is materiall to conſider, that theſe wordes (as commonly vnderſtoode, and eaſie to be vnderſtood of all Chriſtians) are many times kept in their naturall ſounde, and not tranſlated into Greeke. Partly becauſe they were as well vnderſtood of them that profeſſed the religion, eyther of the Iewes or Chriſtians, as the Greeke wordes them ſelues: partly to expreſſe in relation of things done, more liuely the zeale of them that eyther affirmed any thing, or prayſed God in theſe termes. But where you ſay, they be not tranſlated, vnleſſe it be once or twiſe in the Pſalmes, it is falſe: For Amen is vſed but in the ende of foure Pſalmes, which are according to your accompt Pſal. 40. 71. 88. 105. And in euery one of theſe places it is tranſlated in the Greeke γένοιτο, γένοιτο, in the Latine Fiat, Fiat, which is in Engliſh So be it, So be it, where in the Hebrue it is Amen, Amen: except in the laſt, where Amen is but once in the Hebrue. So is Alleluiah twiſe at the leaſt tranſlated in the Greeke and Latine Pſal. 134. 3. and 146. 1. αἰνεῖτε τὸν κύριον, in Latine, Laudate Dominum, which is in Engliſh, Prayſe ye the Lord. And we alſo retayne thoſe termes in many places of the newe Teſtament, where they cannot conueniently be tranſlated, becauſe they are ſo left in the originall. Why wee tranſlate Amen ſome times Verely, in the place by you quoted, I haue declared ynough to ſtay your mercy-ling. But in our ſeruice bookes (you ſay) we tranſlate Alleluiah into Prayſe ye the Lorde, as though it hath not as good a grace in the acte of ſerning God, as in the text of the Scripture. Surely wee are perſwaded, that Prayſe ye the Lorde, which euery man vnderſtandeth, hath a better grace and more agreeable to the doctrine of S. Paul 1. Cor. 14. in the acte of the publike ſeruice of God, then Alleluiah not vnderſtood but of the learned, although it be in the text of the Scripture. As we thinke of all other Hebrue wordes, which are to be tranſlated into the vulgar tongue, that the Church may take edifying by them. We may rather meruaile what moued the Greeke and Latine Tranſlatours, to leaue it ſo often in the Pſalmes vntranſlated, and yet ſome times to tranſlate it. And if Alleluiah in the act of ſeruing of God, haue ſuch a grace aboue, Prayſe ye the Lord, it hath the ſame aboue Laudate Dominum, which you your ſelues vſe in your dayly ſeruice. But it is a great matter that you vſe this holy word Alleluiah, to ioyne with the Church triumphant, betweene Eaſter and Whitſuntide: By which reaſon you are diſioyned from the Church triumphant, from Septuageſima to Eaſter, in which time you may not vſe it as Durande ſayth. But what a vaine reaſon this is, that you ioyne with ỹ Church triumphant by vſing this terme, we may conſider a litle. Firſt Arethas, Beda, and other interpreters, vnderſtand the prayſe giuen to God to be of the Church militant in this world, and not of the Church triumphant. Which Church militant is ſaide to be in Heauen, becauſe the conuerſation of the faithfull liuing on earth, is notwithſtanding in Heauen. Secondly admitte it ſhould be meant of the Church triumphant, ſeeing the Angels and holy ſoules vſe no ſound of wordes in prayſing of God, why ſhould you thinke you ioyne with them in the ſound of Alleluiah, rather then in the ſound of Laudate Dominum, or Prayſe ye the Lord? Thirdly if the Angels and bleſſed ſpirits did vſe the ſounde of the Hebrue worde, yet they vſe that ſpeache which they all vnderſtand. But moſt times your Prieſtes, yea and Biſhops, are ignorant of the vnderſtanding of that word, as appeareth by Durande, which hath ſo many fonde interpretations of it, as would moue laughter to any man that hath but ſmall ſight in the Hebrue tongue. Howe much more therefore are your people ignorant thereof? Wherefore vſing that terme which you vnderſtand not, you ioyne not with the Church triumphant, which vnderſtandeth the tongue of the Angels, and prayſeth not God without vnderſtanding: But Sainct Auguſtine ad Ian. maketh a greater matter of it then we doe.

Vaine cauiling confuted.

Verely he ſheweth that it was vſed in his time, being as commonly vnderſtoode, as the reſt of the publike ſeruice, but other neceſſarie matter he maketh not of it, neither thinketh the ſounde to be holier in Hebrue, then in Latine. If Vigilantius thought Alleluiah might neuer be ſung but at Eaſter, he helde a ſuperſtitious opinion: but the matter is not of ſuch weight to make an hereſie of it. Mere like it is, that Vigilantius miſliked the innouation attempted to be brought in by Hierom, who as ſome write, brought the common vſe of Alleluiah from Ieruſalem. But the trueth is (you ſay) that by the vſe of the holy Scriptures, it hath more in it then Prayſe ye the Lorde: which if it be true, your vulgar Latine tranſlation hath erred as much as the Proteſtants, in tranſlating it Laudate Dominum: for that hath no more in it, then, Prayſe ye the Lorde. And where as this terme hath but two wordes in it, the Verbe and the Noune. Your vulgar Tranſlatour doeth commonly (and for ought I knowe) alwayes tranſlate the Hebrue Verbe, by the Latine Verbe, Laudo, Laudate, Laudet, Laudent, Laudat &c. In all which he hath ſhamefully erred, if our tranſlation of Alleluiah be not right to ſay, Prayſe ye the Lord. As for the ioy wherewith the prayſe of God ought to be ſet foorth in his Church, muſt be taught by Preachers, but cannot be expreſſed by Tranſlatours. If you would replie, becauſe it cannot be expreſſed, therefore the worde muſt not bee tranſlated, it is eaſie to retoyne vpon you, that then the ſame Verbe muſt be left vntranſlated, ſo often as it is vſed in the Scripture, which were too great an abſurditie. Wherefore this is nothing els but a malicious, fooliſh, and vnlearned quarrell, againſt the vſage of our Church, in prayſing the Lorde in that ſounde of wordes, which the people vnderſtandeth. As for your ſuperſtitious and childiſh difference betweene Alleluiah and Laus tibi Domine: the one for Lent, the other for Eaſter, I leaue to your ſelues, as meete for your hypocriticall ſeruice, which is in ſounde of lippes and outwarde ſhewe, not in ſpirite and trueth.

The newe found ſermons of S. Auguſtine de diuerſis, are matter meete for ſuch a queſtion. In Pſalm.148. he maketh no ſuch fond difference, betweene Laus tibi Domine, and Alleluiah, but ſheweth, that the Church before Eaſter, ſpending the time in faſting and prayer, did celebrate the ſtate of this life, but in prayſing God at Eaſter, did ſignifie the life to come, which yet was not in poſſeſſion: For it is Alleluiah, which we ſing (ſayth he) which is interpreted as you knowe, Laudate Dominum, Prayſe ye the Lord. Here you ſee all the people vnderſtood Alleluiah, as well as Laudate Dominum, and as well as our people vnderſtand, Prayſe ye the Lord. But it is a queſtion to be asked, why we leaue it out altogether, no leſſe then 9. times in the Bible 1577. in the 6. laſt Pſalmes. To anſwere you (for my part) I knowe no ſuch tranſlation, that leaueth it out as you ſay: for that Bible which I haue, printed 1577. hath Prayſe ye the Lord, tenne times in the fiue laſt Pſalmes: for ſo many times Halleluiah is in the Hebrue. But in Pſal.145. it is not in the Hebrue, and therefore not in the Engliſh: except peraduenture in ſome bookes of Pſalmes, printed for the ſpeciall vſe of reading and ſinging in the Church, it is omitted by the Printer, as all other titles and inſcriptions of the Pſalmes, which are not vſually read or ſung in the Church ſeruice. Which if it be ſo great a matter, we muſt aske the Papiſtes, why they haue left out Alleluiah altogether in their Portuis ſecundum vſum Eccleſiæ Sarum, in euery pſalme where it is both in the Hebrue, and in their owne vulgar Latine tranſlation, not onely in thoſe ſixe laſt Pſalmes, but alſo in twelue other Pſalmes, namely, pſalm 104. 105. 106. likewiſe pſal. 110. 111. 112. 113. 114. 115. 116. finally pſal. 134. and 135. But S. Auguſtine (you ſay) affirmeth, that Amen and Alleluiah be not tranſlated into any other language for the more holy authoritie of the wordes ſo remaining. In deede he ſayth, that the knowledge of the Hebrue and Greeke tongues is needefull for men of the Latine ſpeache, to vnderſtand ſuch wordes which are often found vntranſlated, as Amen, Alleluiah, Racha, Hoſanna. Of which he ſaith, the antiquitie of ỹ two former is kept for a more holy auctoritie, meaning that they doe ſet forth more liuely, ỹ godly affection of them ỹ vſed them in the ſcriptures: as if men in Engliſh will tell a ſtory of a French man or German, when it commeth to his ſpeach, they wil expreſſe a worde or two of his countrie language, to make the narration ſeeme more liuely. But he doeth not affirme, that they be not tranſlated into any language, for then he ſhould ſpeake vntruely, as I haue proued in the beginning, ſeeing they were in his time tranſlated into Greeke and Latine, and he him ſelfe in Pſalme 148. tranſlateth Alleluiah, Laudate Dominum. Neither doth he meane, that there is more holineſſe in ỹ ſound of Hebrue ſyllables, then of the Latine. But as the Hebrue tongue is called the holy tongue, becauſe the holy Scriptures of the old Teſtament were firſt written in it, which yet may be and haue bene in all good times of the Church, tranſlated into any other languages. In the 2. place Epi. 178. anſwering the like quarels of the Arian Paſcentius (which cauilled that the Greeke worde Homouſion was not founde in the Scripture) S. Auguſtine proueth, that the ſence and meaning thereof is found in the ſcriptures, and this terme he vſeth, becauſe it was agreed vpon in the Councell of Nice, where Greeke Biſhops were the chiefe, that confuted the hereſie of Arius. Nowe ſeeing the Church had receiued this Greeke terme, he thought it meete to be vſed, and not to be altered, ſo long as it were vnderſtood and knowen to haue the ſenſe in the Scriptures. As for example, when the Church of all Nations had receiued to ſing Amen and Alleluia in the Hebrue tongue, it was not lawfull for the Latine man, or the Barbarous man, to tranſlate them into their owne language: he meaneth in the publike ſeruice, ſeeing the people vnderſtoode them, and the cuſtome of the Church is not without cauſe to be broken. But that they might not be tranſlated into other ſpeaches, or pronounced in other languages, if the people vnderſtood them not, it is farre from S. Auguſtines meaning.

S. Hierom Epiſt. 137. rendring a reaſon why theſe wordes and ſuch other, were reteyned in the Scriptures, ſayth: That the Septuaginta, or the Apoſtles prouided, that ſeeing the firſt Church was gathered together of the Iewes, they would innouate nothing that might offend the beleeuers, but deliuered as they had receiued from children: but afterward when the Goſpel was enlarged into all Nations, things once receiued, coulde not be changed. Although Origen ſay, that becauſe of the proprietie of euery Language, that they could not ſo well be expreſſed in other tongues as in their owne, it is much better to leaue them vntranſlated, then by tranſlating to diminiſh the force of them.

But notwithſtanding this opinion of Origen, he doth tranſlate both Amen as the 70. doe Fiat, or as Aquila did, Faithfully, and Alleluia, Laudate Dominum, Prayſe ye the Lorde. But Gregorie will beare you witneſſe, that our Nation, with their Chriſtianitie, receiued the Hebrue worde Alleluia. And what of that, ſo long as they vnderſtood it? That the plough men in Paleſtine ſang Alleluiah, Sainct Hierom reporteth, which they vnderſtood, becauſe it is all one in the Hebrue and Syrian language, which was their vulgar tongue: and therefore they might well vnderſtand it in ỹ Monaſterie, which was cómonly vnderſtood in al ỹ world abroad. But it is a ſacred, Chriſtian, myſticall, and angelicall ſong, and yet in the newe ſeruice it is turned into, Prayſe ye the Lord. Why ſyrs? is not Prayſe ye the Lord a ſacred, Chriſtian, myſticall, and Angelicall ſong? doeth nothing pleaſe you but that which the people vnderſtand not? That which the Angels ſung in the Syrian tongue to the Shepheards at the Natiuitie of Chriſt, was a ſacred, Chriſtian, myſticall and Angelicall ſong: yet you ſing it in your maſſe, neither in the Syrian tongue in which they pronounced it, nor in the Greeke tongue, in which S. Luke did write it, but in Latine, and yet not in the Latine of your authenticall tranſlation, nor in deede truely tranſlated: for you ſing in Excelſis, and not in Altiſſimis, and yet I thinke it were but a ſmall matter to picke a quarrell againſt you.

Therefore Alleluiah is not quite gone, as you ſay falſely, when we haue the full ſenſe and meaning of it in our language, much better then you haue of that Angels ſong, which you call Gloria in Excelſis. We ſing therefore the Lordes ſonges (his name be prayſed for euer) in our owne Countrie, and in our owne language, and in the vnitie of the Church of God, out of the filthie ſinke of Babylonicall ſuperſtition.

But laſt of all you thinke you may aske vs whether it be all one to ſay Math.21. Hoſanna, and ſaue vs we beſeeche thee. And we thinke we may anſwere you, that it is not all one: for Hoſanna ſignifieth, Saue we beſeeche thee, not ſaue vs. The people therefore prayed for the proſperitie and increaſe of the kingdome of Chriſt, as the Prophet taught them long before. And the Apoſtle to expreſſe their godly zeale, vſeth the very worde which they vttered. That it was a worde of exceeding congratulation and ioy, it is not in the ſignification of the Verbe, but in that ſpeciall vſe of it, and ſo in the word Alleluia. It is one thing to tranſlate, an other thing to giue the ſenſe, according to the circumſtance of the text tranſlated.

Therefore Alleluia is as truely tranſlated, and may as well be expreſſed in Engliſh by, Prayſe ye the Lord: as it is in Latine by, Laudate Dominum: witneſſe Sainct Auguſtine, Sainct Hierom, and your owne vulgar Latine Interpretour, who profane and diminiſh the ſignification thereof, by Laudate Dominum, as much as we doe, by Prayſe ye the Lord. I doubt not but your owne friendes will be aſhamed in their hearts, to ſee you thus wrangle without any iuſt cauſe about ſo vaine a quarrell.

Rhem.3. 8. Iuſtifications of Sainctes.) Here the Heretikes in their tranſlations could not alter the word iuſtificati-ons into ordinances, or conſtitutions, as they did falſely in the firſt of Sainct Luke, whereof ſee the Annotation there verſe 6. but they are forced to ſay in Latine, iuſtificationes, as Beza: and in Engliſh, righteouſneſſe, (for iuſtifications they will not ſay in any caſe for feare of inconuenience.) *yea and they can not denie but theſe iuſtifications be the good workes of Sainctes. but where * they make this gloſe, that they be ſo called, becauſe they are the fruites or effect of faith and of the iuſtice which wee haue by onely fayth, it is moſt euidently falſe and againſt the very text, and nature of the worde. for there is no cauſe why any thing ſhould be called a mans iuſtification, but for that it maketh him iuſt. ſo that*, iuſtifications, be the vertues of fayth, hope, charitie, and good deedes, iuſtifying or making a man iuſt, and not effectes of iuſtification. neither fayth onely, but they all together bee the very ornaments and inwarde garmentes, beautie, and iuſtice of the ſoule, as here it is euident.

Beza. Iuſtifications are good workes, not as the effectes of fayth iuſtifying: but becauſe them ſelues alſo with faith iuſtifie a man.

Fulke.3. For our tranſlation of this worde δικαιώματα Luke the 1. the Reader may be reſolued in that place. Wee tranſlate a worde that hath diuerſe ſignifications, diuerſely, as the vnderſtanding of euery place requireth: ſo here we tranſlate it iuſtifications, righteouſneſſe, or iuſt deedes, as the auctor of the Homilies in S. Auguſtine tranſlateth them. Iuſta facta, or any thing that hath the ſame ſenſe. And we feare no inconuenience to tranſlate it iuſtifications in Engliſh: for our iuſtification before God by faith onely, will neuer be ouerthrowen by that terme, though we denie not, but theſe iuſtifications be the good workes of Sainctes. But where we ſay they be ſo called, becauſe they are the fruites of faith, and of the iuſtice which we haue by faith onely, (you ſay) it is moſt euidently falſe, and againſt the very text and the nature of the worde. Concerning the text it is this. To her was graunted, that ſhe ſhould be clothed with fine linen or ſilke, cleane and ſhining: for the fine linen or ſilke are the iuſtifications of Sainctes.

Iuſtification by faith onely

This text compared with Apocalypſe 7.14. ſheweth whence the beautie of this garment commeth, verely, not of the iuſtice of men, but of the blood of the lambe, and the merite of his ſacrifice. Therefore the text hath no euidence for you. But the nature of the word affordeth you a ſtrong argument: for there is no cauſe (you ſay) why any thing ſhould be called a mans iuſtification, but for that it maketh him iuſt. Here you reaſon childiſhly of the etymologie of the Latine word iuſtifico, which ſignifieth in deede properly to make iuſt, but in ſcripture is often vſed to accompt iuſt, to declare iuſt, to acquitte in iudgement, as infinite wordes are vſed vnto other ſignifications, then can be taken out of their preciſe etymologie, or deriuation.

Therefore you muſt reaſon (if you wil gaine any thing) of the nature of the Greeke word δικαιώματα, except you will allowe iuſtifications to be taken in as many ſignifications as δικαιώματα be. If you will doe ſo, as reaſon will enforce you, there is cauſe why a thing may be called a mans iuſtification, which doth not make him iuſt, but declare him to be iuſt. In the Pſalmes oftentimes your vulgar Latine tranſlation vſeth this worde Iuſtificationes tuas, for Gods iuſtifications, and Luke 1. Iuſtificationibus Domini, in the iuſtifications of the Lorde. Might you not as well ſay? there is no cauſe why any thing ſhould be called the Lordes iuſtification, but for that it maketh him iuſt.

If there be cauſe why any thing may be called the Lords iuſtification, which doeth not make him iuſt, there is alſo cauſe, why a thing may be called a mans iuſtification, which doeth not make him iuſt, but declare him to be iuſt: and ſo are good workes the iuſtifications of Sainctes, becauſe they declare them to be iuſt, not becauſe they make them iuſt before God, as we haue proued more at large Iac.2. Wiſdome is iuſtified of her owne children, and yet ſhee is not made iuſt by them. The Publicanes and ſinners iuſtified God, yet they made not God iuſt. Ieruſalem hath iuſtified her ſiſter Sodoma, yet ſhe hath not made her iuſt, wicked iudges ſometimes doe iuſtifie the vngodly men, yet they make them not iuſt. The Phariſees iuſtified themſelues, yet they made not themſelues iuſt. The Lawyers call that a mans iuſtification, which maketh neither the man nor his cauſe iuſt, but declareth them to be iuſt. Againe, the word is not iuſtification, but iuſtifications in the plurali number, whereupon you may as well conclude, that euery good worke is a mans iuſtification by making him iuſt, and ſo you haue not two iuſtifications making a man iuſt, according to your newe diſtinction, but infinite iuſtifications. But in truth all theſe iuſtificauons are the effect of one iuſtification, which is by fayth onely in the merites of Chriſt, and are the ornament and outwarde garment, declaring the inward iuſtice of the ſoule. For Garments are all without the thing clothed with them, and are not called inward, in reſpect of the thing clothed, but in reſpect of more outwarde garmentes. Therefore this pure ſhining garment is the light of good workes, proceeding from inward fayth, and ſhining outwardly, to the glory of their heauenly father.

Rhem. 4. 10. And I fel) The Proteſtants abuſe this place, and the example of the Angels forbidding Iohn to adore him being but his fellow ſeruant, and appointing him to adore God, againſt all honour, reuerence, and adoration of Angels, Sainctes, or other ſanctified creatures, teaching that no religious worſhip ought to be done vnto them. But in truth is maketh for no ſuch purpoſe, but only warneth vs that Diuine honour and the adoration due to God alone, may not be giuen to any Angel or other creature. S. Auguſt. de vera relig. cap. vltimo. And when the Aduerſaries replie that ſo great an Apoſtle, as Iohn was, could not be ignorant of that point, nor would haue giuen diuine honour vnto an Angel (for ſo he had been an Idolater) and therfore that he was not reprehended for that, but for doing any religious reuerence or other honour whatſoeuer to his fellow ſeruant: we anſwer that by the like reaſon, S. Iohn being ſo great an Apoſtle, if this later kinde of reuerence had been vnlawful and to be reprehended, as the Proteſtants hold it is no leſſe then the other, could not haue been ignorant thereof, nor would haue done it.

S. Iohns adoring of the Angel, explicated againſt the Proteſtants abuſing the ſame. The Proteſtants are refelled by their owne reaſon.

*Therfore they might much better haue learned of S. Auguſtine (q. 61. in Geneſ.) how this facte of S. Iohn was corrected by the Angel, and wherein the errour was. In effect it is thus, That the Angel being ſo glorious and ful of maieſtie, preſenting Chriſts perſon, and in his name vſing diuers wordes proper to God, as, I am the firſt and the laſt, and aliue and was dead, and ſuch like, might well be taken of S. Iohn, by errour of his perſon, to be Chriſt himſelf, and that the Apoſtle preſuming him to be ſo indeede, adored him with Diuine honour: which the Angel correcting, told him he was not God, but one of his fellowes, and therfore that he ſhould not ſo adore him, but God. Thus then we ſee, Iohn was neither ſo ignorant, ſo thinke that any vndue honour might be giuen to any creature: nor ſo ill, ſo commit idolatrie by doing vndue worſhip to any Angel in heauen: and therfore was he culpable at al in his facte, but only erred materially (as the Scholemen call it) that is, by miſtaking one for an other, thinking that which was an Angel, to haue been our Lord: becauſe he knewe that our Lord him ſelf is alſo * called an Angel, and hath often appeared in the viſions of the faithful.*

S. Iohn erred only in the perſon, miſtaking the Angel to be Chriſt himſelf, and ſo adoring him as God. Apoc. 1.

Eſa. 9. in Greec Malac. 3.

And the like is to be thought of the Angel appearing in the 22 of the Apocalypſe, whether it were the ſame or an other, for that alſo did ſo appeare, that Iohn could not tel whether it were Chriſt him ſelf or no, til the Angel told him. Once this is certaine, that Iohn did not formally (as they ſay) commit idolatrie, nor ſinne at al herein, knowing al dueties of a Chriſtian man, no leſſe then an Angel of heauen, being alſo in as great honour with God, yea and in more then many Angels. Which perhaps may be the cauſe (and conſequently an other explication of this place) that the Angel knowing his great graces and merites before God, would not accept any worſhip or ſubmiſſion at his handes, though Iohn againe of like humilitie did it, as alſo immediatly afterward chap. 22. which belike he would not haue done, if he had been preciſely aduiſed by the Angel but a moment before, of errour and vndutifulnes in the facte. Howſoeuer that be, this is euident, that this the Angels refuſing of adoration, taketh not away the due reuerence and reſpect we ought to haue to Angels or other ſanctified perſons and creatures. and ſo theſe wordes, See thou doe it not, ſignifie rather an earneſt refuſal, then any ſignification of crime to be committed thereby.

S. Iohn ſinned not in this adoration. An other explication of this place.

Fulke. 4. This place is not abuſed by Proteſtants, but proueth inuincibly againſt Papiſtes, that all religious worſhip and ſeruice, belongeth to God, and may not be yeelded to any creature. But you ſay, it maketh for no ſuch purpoſe, but onely warneth vs, that diuine honour, and the adoration due to God alone, may not be giuen to any creature: yet the text is plaine, that all religious worſhip and ſeruice, is due to God alone, and to no creature. For the Angel ſayth not, worſhip God onely with this kind of ſeruice, but worſhip God: ſignifying that this ſeruice was due onely to God. And this is that which S. Auguſtine ſayth: De vera religione cap. vlt. mo. Quare honoremus eos &c. We honour the Angels with loue, not with ſeruice, neither doe we build temples to them: For they will not be ſo honoured of vs, becauſe they knowe that we our ſelues, when we are good, are the temples of the higheſt God. Therefore it is rightly written, that a man was forbidden by the Angel, that he ſhould not worſhip him, but one God onely, vnder whom he was a felow ſeruant with him. But they which inuite vs, that we ſhould ſerue them, and worſhip them as Gods, are like to proud men, which if they might, would likewiſe be worſhipped: but to ſuffer theſe men it is leſſe perilous, but to worſhip the Angel it is more dangerous. Afterward he concludeth in theſe wordes. Let religion therefore binde vs to our God omnipotent, becauſe betweene our mind by which we vnderſtand him to be the father and the truth, that is, the inward light by which we vnderſtand him, there is no creature interpoſed.

All religious worſhip belongeth onely to God.

By which ſentences it is manifeſt that he meaneth, that all religious worſhip and ſeruice, is due onely to God, and that who ſo euer Angel or man, requireth or receiueth any religious worſhip or ſeruice, he vſurpeth that which is due onely to God. Where it is to be noted, that he ouerthroweth your diſtinction of Latria and Dulia, ſeeing he denieth religious Dulia or ſeruice, to be due vnto Angels, who are to be honoured with loue, not with ſeruice. But where we replie, that S. Iohn ſo great an Apoſtle could not be ignorant, that no Angel is to bee worſhipped as God, and therefore intended not to worſhip the Angell as God. You anſwere by the like reaſon, if this later kinde of reuerens had beene vnlawfull, he could not haue beene ignorant thereof, nor would haue done it. Here againe we reply, it is manifeſt by his owne confeſſion, that he was twiſe deceiued in this point, not of ignorance, but of forgetfulneſſe in this extaſie of minde, while hee behelde the glorie of the Angell that ſhewed him theſe things. But the other errour of worſhipping the creature as the Creator was to groſſe errour, to enter into any ſo religious and wiſe an heart as the Apoſtle had.

we might haue learned (you ſay) of S. Auguſtine, how this facte of S. Iohn was corrected by the Angel. S. Auguſtine in deede anſwering the queſtion, howe the ciuil adoration yeelded by Abraham to the people of the land, might ſtand with that ſaying of Chriſt: (Thou ſhalt adore the Lord thy God, & him only ſhalt thou ſerue,) ſheweth, that ciuile adoration is not there forbidden, but religious adoration and ſeruice, which is proper to God. Neither let it moue (ſaith he) that in an other place in a certaine Scripture, the Angel forbiddeth a man to adore him: for the Angel ſeemed or appeared to be ſuch an one as he might be adored in ſtead of God: and therefore the worſhipper was to be corrected. Whereby he meaneth no more, but that the glorious apparition of the Angel deceiued Iohn, to thinke that he might be adored with religious worſhip, which pertaineth onely to God: whereas Angels are to be honoured (as he ſaid before) with loue, not with religious ſeruice. But you ſay, the Angel was ſo full of maieſtie repreſenting Chriſtes perſon, and in his name vſing diuers wordes proper to God, As I am the firſt and the laſt, and aliue and was dead, that he might well be taken by S. Iohn, by error of his perſon to be Chriſt himſelfe. But this could not be for diuers cauſes. For this was not the ſame perſon that appeared in the firſt Chapter, like to the Sonne of man: which was Chriſt himſelfe, and no Angel that preſented his perſon. As Chriſt himſelfe appeared in his owne perſon to S. Paul Acts.9. And at other times, ſo did he there vnto Iohn.

Secondly S. Iohn confeſſeth, that this Angel which ſhewed him theſe things, was one of the ſeuen Angels that had the ſeuen vials Cap. 17.1. Therefore he could not be deceiued in his perſon, to thinke hee was Chriſt. Thirdly, he willed him immediatly before, to write, Bleſſed are they that are called to the Supper of the Lambe, which S. Iohn was not ignorant to be Chriſt, according to the viſion which he reporteth *Cap.*5. Therefore it is manifeſt, that Iohn knew this Angel not to be Chriſt, and therefore erred not in his perſon to thinke he was Chriſt, and intending to worſhip him as Chriſt, but to worſhip him as an heauenly Angel, that had ſhewed him theſe things, and opened theſe great myſteries vnto him. Therefore in vaine you goe about to excuſe his fault with your thankleſſe diſtinction, which he doth plainly confeſſe, to the glory of God, & the edifying of the Church in the true and ſincere worſhip of God. Where you ſay, he was not culpable at all in his facte, and ſinned not in this adoration, you wil belike remoue the crime from Iohn to the Angel: who forbade him the fact, wherein he ſinned not, nor was culpable at all. And it is a very groſſe error of your Scholemen to holde, that if a man worſhipa deuil in the ſhape of an Angel, he ſinneth not, nor committeth idolatrie formally, but onely erreth materially. As though ſinne of ignorance and errour were no ſinne, becauſe it is not ſo great, as ſinne againſt knowledge: and as though men were not bound to learne to knowe God, that they worſhip none in ſteade of God, nor with the worſhip that is due onely to God. The man of God that beleeued the olde Prophet which lyed vnto him, ſinned grieuouſly, as appeared by his puniſhment, becauſe he tranſgreſſed the word of the Lord, and did not examine his prophecie, by that which he was aſſured to be the word of God. 1.*Reg.*13. So if Iohn had worſhipped the Angel as Chriſt, he was culpable, becauſe he did not firſt conſider whether he were Chriſt in deede. But in trueth he did ſo appeare to be one of the 7. Angels, that Iohn coulde not be ignorant that hee was not Chriſt. But where you defende him by his knowledge of all dueties of a Chriſtian man, you labour in vaine to excuſe him, ſeeing not onely in this place, but alſo after this admonition, he committed the ſame offence, as he confeſſeth *Cap.*22. of humane frailtie and forgetfulnes, though not of generall ignorance of Chriſtian duetie. Vpon which place Ambroſius Ambertus writeth thus: It is greatly to be marueiled why Iohn contrary to the prohibition of the Angel, would haue worſhipped him the ſecond time. For before in like maner he had forbidden him to adore him, and taught that God onely is to be adored. What meaneth it therefore, that contrary to his commaundement, who verely as a meſſenger of truth, had told him before, that this honour of reuerence was of duetie to be offered not to a creature, but to the Creator, he would now honour him againe? Vnleſſe perhaps, he ioyned this and the former viſion together, and repeateth the ſame things which he did before: or els being ſtriken with great aſtoniſhment of the viſions, he confeſſeth that he had forgotten that which the Angel commaunded him before, and ſo would haue adored him againe.

That you affirme, Iohn to haue beene in as great honour with God, yea & in more then many Angels: You ſhew your boldneſſe, to pronounce ſo confidently of that which no mortal creature knoweth. The worde of God telleth vs of the dignitie of the children of God after the reſurrection, to be equall with Angels, but in this frailtie of life whereto they are ſubiect, they muſt needes be inferiour to Angels, ſeeing Chriſt himſelfe in whome was no frailtie of ſinne, was made inferiour to the Angels, by the ſuffering of his death, *Hebr.*2.9. Your ſecond explication is yet more abſurd, that the Angel and S. Iohn ſhould ſtreine courteſie (as men doe) in yeelding and refuſing reuerence one of another. But the words of the Angel doe plainly confute this fond gloſſe. For rendring a reaſon, why he will not be adored by Iohn, he ſaith, that he himſelfe is his fellow ſeruant, He ſaith not, that Iohn is in graces and merites before God as good as he. But he is a ſeruant as well as hee, bound to worſhip God their common Lord, as much as he is: not to receiue worſhip of his fellow ſeruants. Secondly he ſaith, that he is fellow ſeruant not only of Iohn, but of the reſt of his brethren that haue the teſtimonie of Ieſus. And *Cap.*22. and of them alſo that keepe the wordes of this booke, that is of all true Chriſtians. Therefore he ſtreineth not courteſie in reſpect of Iohns great graces and merits: for he will not receiue this worſhip of any Chriſtian, by the ſame reaſon that he refuſeth it of Iohn. Therefore as the wordes are manifeſt, Iohn is precisely admoniſhed of the Angel, of errour and vnductifulneſſe in the fact, yet ſoone after of forgetfulneſſe falleth into the ſame errour and vnductifulneſſe againe. But howſoeuer that be (you ſay) this is euident, that this the Angels refuſing of adoration, taketh not away the due reuerence & reſpect we ought to haue to Angels, or other ſanctified perſons and creatures. This ſhould be eaſily graunted, if you could ſtay here. For we would not by any meanes take away the due reuerence and reſpect we ought to haue to holy perſons and things, whatſoeuer be ſanctified by God. But it is euident that this the Angels refuſing of adoration, taketh away all religious adoration or ſeruice of Angels or other creatures whatſoeuer, which is due onely to God. But where you ſay theſe words, See thou doe it not, ſignifie rather an earneſt refuſall, then any ſignification of crime committed thereby, It is very abſurd. For theſe wordes be not onely of refuſall, but of prohibition, (as euery childe knoweth,) and S. Auguſtine in the places before mentioned doth teſtifie. Seeing therefore they prohibite that which was not to be done (as S. Auguſtine alſo confeſſeth) the doing of that which the Angel forbiddeth, muſt needes be a crime, whoſoeuer committeth it, and the greater after ſo earneſt a prohibition.

And

Rhem. 5. And marueil it is that the Proteſtants making themſelues ſo ſure of the true ſenſe of euery doubtfull place by conference of other Scriptures, ſo we not here the conference and comparing of Scriptures that themſelues ſo much or onely require. We would giue them occaſion and admonition ſo to doe, thus. He that doubteth of this place, findeth out three things of queſtion, which muſt be tried by other Scriptures. The firſt, whether there ought to be or may be any religious reuerence or honour done to any creatures, taking the word religion or religious worſhip not for that ſpecial honour which is properly and onely due to God, as S. Auguſtine ſometimes vſeth it, but for reuerence due to any thing that is holy by ſanctification or application to the ſeruice of God. The ſecond thing is, whether by vſe of Scriptures, that honour be called adoration in Latin, or by a word השתחוה in other languages, Hebrue, Greeke, or Engliſh. Laſtly, whether we may by the Scriptures fall downe proſtrate before the things, or at the feete of the perſon that we ſo adore. For of ciuil duetie done to our Superiors by capping, kneeling, or other courteſie, I thinke the Proteſtants will not ſtand with vs: though in deede, their arguments make as much againſt the one as the other.

משתחוה.

The Proteſtãts by conference of Scriptures might finde religious adoration of creatures.

Aug. de vera relig. c. 55.

Three points herein examined and proued by Scriptures.

But for religious worſhip of creatures (which we ſpeake of) let them ſee in the Scriptures both old and new: firſt, whether the Temple, the tabernacle, the Arke, the propitiatorie, the Cherubins, the altar, the bread of propoſition, the Sabboth, and all their holies, were not reuerenced by all ſignes of deuotion and religion: whether the Sacraments of Chriſt, the Prieſts of our Lord, the Prophets of God, the Goſpel, Scriptures, the name of IESVS, ſuch like (which be by vſe, ſignification, or ſanctification made holy) are not now to be reuerenced: and they ſhal finde all theſe things to haue been reuerenced of all the faithfull, without any diſhonour of God, and much to his honour. Secondly, that this reuerence is named adoration in the Scriptures, theſe ſpeaches do proue Pſ. 98. Adore ye his footeſtoole, becauſe it is holy. and Hebr. 11. He adored the toppe of his rod. Thirdly, that the Scriptures alſo warrant vs (as the nature of the word adoration giueth in al three tongues) to bowe downe our bodies, to fall flat on the ground at the preſence of ſuch thinges, and at the feete of holy perſons, ſpecially Angels, as Iohn doth here, theſe examples proue. Abraham adored the Angels that appeared to him, Moyſes alſo the Angel that ſhewed himſelfe out of the buſh, who were creatures, though they repreſented Gods perſon, as this Angel here did, that ſpake to S. Iohn. Balaam adored the Angel that ſtoode before him with a ſword drawen. Num. 22. Ioſue adored falling flat downe before the feete of the Angel, calling him his Lord, knowing by the Angels owne teſtimonie, that is was but an Angel. Who refuſed it not, but required yet more reuerence, commaunding him to plucke of his ſhoes, becauſe the ground was holy, no doubt ſo made by the preſence onely of the Angel.

Pſ. 5. 137. Dan. 6. 3. Reg. 8. Iſa. 7. Pſ. 98. 131.

1 Religious worſhip of creatures.

2 The ſame is called adoration.

3 Falling proſtrat before the perſons or things adored. Gen. 18. Exod. 3. Ioſue 5. Adoring of Angels.

*Yea not onely to Angels, but euen to great Prophets this deuotion was done, as to Daniel by Nabuchodonoſor, who fell flat vpon his face before him, and did other great offices of religion, which the Prophet refuſed not, becauſe they were done to God rather then to him, as S. Hierom deſendeth the ſame againſt Porphyrie, who charged Daniel with intolerable pride therein, and the ſaid holy doctor alleageth the fact of Alexander the great, that did the like to * Ioiadas the high prieſt of the Iewes. Howſoeuer that be (for of the ſacrifice there mentioned there may be ſome doubt, which the Church doth alwaies immediately to God, and not to the creature) the fact of the prophets (4 Reg. 2) to Eliſeus in plaine: where they perceiuing that the double grace and ſpirit of Elias was giuen to him, fell flat downe at his feete and adored. So did * the Sunamite, to omit that Achior adored Iudith, falling at her feete, as a woman bleſſed of God, and infinite other places.*

Adoration of Prophets and holy perſons. Dan. 2.

* or. Iaddus.

4. Reg. 4. Iudith. 13.

Al which thinges, by comparing the Scriptures, our Aduerſaries ſhould haue found to be lawfully done to men, and Angels, and ſouereine holy creatures. Whereby they might conuince themſelues, and perceiue, that that thing could not be forbidden S. Iohn to doe to the Angel, which they pretend: though the Angel for cauſes might refuſe euen that which S. Iohn did lawfully vnto him, as S. Peter did refuſe the honour giuen him by Cornelius, according to S. Chryſoſtoms opinion. ho. 23. in c. 10. Act.) yea euen in the third chapter of this booke (if our Aduerſaries would looke no further) they might ſee where this Angel of Philadelphia doth promiſe that the Iewes ſhould fall downe before the feete of the Angel of Philadelphia and adore. See the Annot. there.

Fulke 5. Concerning the expounding of doubtfull places of Scripture, by conference of other cleare places wherein you deride vs: S. Auguſtine ſaith, Nothing almoſt is fetched out of thoſe obſcuerities, which is not found elſe where, to be vttered moſt plainely. De doct. Chriſt. l. 2. c. 6. Nowe this text is ſo cleare and euident of it ſelfe, as it is one of thoſe places, which may ſerue to expounde the obſcuritie or difficultie of other textes, where any doubt may ariſe concerning religious adoration and ſeruice, which is due onely to God. But ſeeing you will be blinde in the cleare light of the Sunne at midde-day, and make doubt of this place where none at all needeth, but to cloake your ſhameſull idolatrie, yeelding religious worſhip and ſeruice to creatures: Let vs conſider your three doubtes or queſtions. Firſt whether there ought to be or may be any religious reuerence or honour done to any creature. But here (becauſe you haue S. Auguſtine flat againſt the graund queſtion,) you diſtinguiſh of this word Religion, and religions by petition of principle, or begging the matter in controuerſie, that there is one kinde of religious worſhip proper to God, and an other to creatures, where as the queſtion is, whether all Religion and religious worſhip and ſeruice be due only to God. But becauſe I will not ſtriue with you about a terme, if we might agree about the matter: So that you will graunt with S. Auguſtine in the place by you quoted, That we may haue no Religion or religious worſhip and ſeruice of the workes of men, that is of Images, for the worke men themſelues that make ſuch things, are better then their workes, whom yet we ought not to worſhip. That we ought to haue no Religion or religions, worſhip and ſeruice of dead men: For if they liued godly, they are not ſo taken that they ſeeke ſuch: but they will haue him to be worſhipped of vs, by whoſe illumination they reioyce, that we are fellowe ſeruants of their dignitie or worthines. Therefore they are to be honoured for imitation ſake, they are not to be adored for Religion.

Vnderſtanding of the Scriptures by conference.

God onely to be worſhipped with religious ſeruice.

Finally, that we ought to haue no religion of Angels, whome we honour with loue, not with ſeruice: I ſay, ſo that you will graunt all this with S. Auguſtine, I will not holde you ſo hard at the ſtaues ende for this terme Religion, but anſwer your queſtion. That there is a religious reuerence due to ſuch things, as are holy by ſanctification, and application to the ſeruice of God, in reſpect that they are by God ſanctified and applied to his ſeruice. But this due reuerence and eſtimation of ſuch things, is no religious adoration, worſhip or ſeruice of thoſe things, or due to thoſe things. Therefore the Temple, the Tabernacle, the Arke, the Propitiatorie, the Cherubins, the Altar, the bread of propoſition, the Sabboth, and all their holies, were eſteemed and reuerenced as holy things, but not adored, worſhipped or ſerued, by religious kneeling to them, bowing to them, or praying to them. Likewiſe the Sacraments of Chriſt, are to be reuerently eſteemed and honoured, as the ſeales of Gods promiſes: but not to be adored, worſhipped, ſerued, kneeled to, or prayed vnto.

For

For to omit the Lordes Supper becauſe it is in controuerſie, what true Catholike euer ſaid that Baptiſme, or the water thereof is to be adored, worſhipped, ſerued, by bowing or kneeling to it, or by praying to it? The like I ſay of the Goſpel, Scriptures, or the name of Ieſus, to which no religious adoration, worſhip, or ſeruice is due, although they are to be honoured and religiouſly eſteemed for God and Chriſtes ſake, whoſe Word and Name they are. And although men may kneele while the Scripture is read, or bowe while Ieſus or Chriſt is named, yet to the Bookes or the ſound of the name, no adoration is to be giuen, but onely to God. As for Gods Prieſts and Prophets, are to be honoured with ciuill reuerence for religions ſake, with charitie as S. Auguſtine ſaith of Angels, not with religious ſeruice, with dueties of the ſecond table, not with any duetie of the firſt table.

Your ſecond queſtion is, Whether that honour be called adoration in Latine, or by a word equiualent in other Languages. Whereto I anſwer, That in the Scripture that religious reuerence & due eſtimation of holy things, is neuer called adoration, worſhip or ſeruice of thoſe thinges, nor by any word equiualent. For the Prophet Pſal. 98. ſaith not, Adore his footeſtoole, but Adore ye at, or before his footſtoole: becauſe he is holy. For that 5. verſe is plainly expounded in the laſt verſe of the Pſalme, euen in your vulgar tranſlation. But in the Hebrue text it is plaine as I haue ſaid before. Likewiſe Hebr. 11. the text is not, That Iacob adored the top of his rod, but that he adored vpon the ende of his ſtaffe, that is leaning vpon his ſtaffe, as it proued in the anſwere to your notes vpon that text. Your laſt queſtion is, whether we may by the Scriptures fall downe proſtrate before thoſe things, or at the feete of the perſons that we ſo adore. To this queſtion I anſwer firſt, that with religious adoration we may not adore any thing or perſon, but God onely. But we may fall downe proſtrate, or kneele in adoring of God, before thoſe holy things and perſons. Where you ſay that our arguments make as much againſt ciuill duetie, as religious, it is vtterly falſe. For we diſtinguiſh dueties of adoration, according as God himſelfe hath diſtinguiſhed them, by the two tables of his Lawe. And in the firſt table of religion, we finde but one duetie of adoration, which is prohibited to be giuen to any creature, and commaunded to be giuen onely to God. But that the Scriptures doe warrant vs, to bow downe our bodies at the preſence, or at the feete of holy perſons, ſpecially Angels, you haue examples to proue. I might anſwere you, that examples are no warrant againſt a lawe, except they be allowed by the lawe, or the law maker. Although ſome auncient writers thinke, that before Chriſt came in the fleſh, Angels might be adored, but not ſince. But to examine your examples, Firſt you ſay, Abraham adored the Angels that appeared to him. Gen. 18. Whereto I anſwere, he adored them with ciuil adoration, as honourable and reuerent perſonages, becauſe they came in the ſhape of men, ſuppoſing them to be men, as his preparation for them declareth: Yet one of them was Chriſt, whome he might haue worſhipped with diuine honour. Secondly, you ſay: Moyſes adored the Angel that ſhewed himſelfe out of the buſh, which was a creature, although he repreſented Gods perſon, Exod. 3. as the Angel that ſpake here to S. Iohn. Concerning the Angel that ſpake to S. Iohn, I haue anſwered before. But touching Moyſes, your owne vulgar Latine text is plaine, that it was the Lord himſelfe, and the Hebrue text calling him the Angel of the Lord, meaneth plainely Chriſt and no creature. So doeth S. Paul call him expreſly, 1. Corin. 10 9. And Exod. 13. 32, he is called the Lord which ledde his people out of Egypt, that ſometime is called the Angel, becauſe he is the Angel of the Couenant, as Malachie calleth him, Malach. 3. 1.

Thirdly, Balaam adored the Angel that ſtode before him with a ſworde drawen. Numb. 22. I might anſwere peraduenture, that Balaams example, is meete for Balaamites to followe. But in deede the Hebrue text ſaith not, that he adored the Angel, but that he inclined his head, and bowed himſelfe vpon his face: adoring God, when he ſawe his Angel readie to take vengeance of him. But Ieſus adored falling flat downe before the feete of the Angell, calling him his Lorde, knowing by the Angels owne teſtimonie, that it was but an Angel. I anſwere, he knewe by the Lordes teſtimonie that it was Chriſt himſelfe, the Prince of the armies of the Lorde, that appeared to him in the ſimilitude of a man. And within three verſes after he is called Iehoua, the Lord himſelfe. Wherefore neither this nor any other examples you can bring, prooueth that it is lawfull to adore, worſhip, or ſerue Angels.

Yet you proceede and ſay, that not onely to Angels, but alſo to great Prophets, this deuotion was done: as to Daniel by Nabuchodonoſor.

I anſwere, that no religious adoration was euer lawfully giuen to any Prophet, but ciuill adoration of loue, not of religious ſeruice, (though in reſpect of God, whoſe ſeruantes they were,) as all ciuill honour giuen to earthly Kings and other perſonnes in auctoritie, is in reſpect of God, whoſe Miniſters they are, yet is no religious adoration, worſhip or ſeruice. And therefore it was ſhamefull idolatrie that Nabuchadnezar woulde haue offered ſacrifice to Daniel, who (without doubt) did withſtande him, though it be not expreſſed. Yet it is eaſily to be gathered, not onely by the pietie of Daniel, that would neuer admit ſuch a ſacriledge, but alſo by the 47. verſe of that Chapter, where the Kings anſwere to Daniel is rehearſed, acknowledging that the God of the Iewes, is the onely God, to whome onely all religious ſeruice and worſhip is due. Therefore you doe ſhamefully ſlaunder the holy Prophete, in ſaying that hee did not refuſe that adoration and outwarde offices of Religion, yea and S. Hierome that he doeth defende the ſame. And laſt of all, though Porphyrie was a wicked blaſphemer: yet it is ſhame to belye the deuill. For neither did Porphyrie charge Daniel with intollerable pride, but ſaide it was incredible, that ſuch a proude King woulde adore his captiue.

Therefore theſe be the wordes of S. Hierom vpon Daniel 2. 46. At this place Porphyrie doeth cauill, that the moſt proude King neuer would haue adored a captiue. As though the Lycaonians alſo would not haue offered ſacrifices to Paul and Barnabas, becauſe of the greatneſſe of their miracles. Therefore the errour of the Gentiles, which thinke all that is aboue themſelues to be Gods, ought not to be imputed to the Scripture, which doeth report all things ſimply as they were done. But alſo we may ſay this, that the King himſelfe did declare the cauſes of adoring and offering of hoſtes, incenſe, and ſacrifice, ſaying vnto Daniel: Verely your God, is the God of Gods, &c. Therefore hee doeth not ſo much adore Daniel, as God which reueyled the myſteries in Daniel. As wee reade that Alexander the great, King of the Macedonians did, in the high Prieſt Ieroiada. But if this interpretation be miſliked, we muſt ſay, that Nabuchodonozar being confounded at the greatneſſe and aſtoniſhment of the wonders, knewe not what hee ſhould doe: as hee that vnderſtoode who was the true God, and Lorde of Kinges, and adored his ſeruante and burned incenſe to him.

You

You ſee plainely that S. Hierom doeth not defend this religious ſeruice to haue beene lawfully offered to Daniel, but yeeldeth reaſons that might moue the proude King to worſhip Daniel, as the Lycaonians would haue honoured Paul and Barnabas, or thinking to worſhip God in him, as Alexander did in giuing reuerence to Iaddus the high Prieſt. Finally the falling downe before Eliæus by the children of Prophets, and by the Sunamite, was ciuill and not religious adoration, ſo I ſay of Achior adoring Iudith. Therefore by comparing the Scriptures, we doe not finde that Religious adoration, worſhip, or ſeruice, may be done to any creature, howe holy ſoeuer, but onely to God and Chriſt: which S. Iohn was manifeſtly forbidden to doe to any other. But you ſay The Angel for cauſes, might refuſe that which S. Iohn did lawfully doe vnto him. But the Angel might not forbid that which was lawfull to be done, except you will ſet him to ſchole, and teach him ſuch diuinitie as he neuer learned in heauen. For he doeth here ſtreightly forbid him: ſaying, See thou doe it not, And addeth a reaſon why neither he ought to receiue ſuch adoration, nor Iohn to offer it: becauſe he is fellow ſeruant with him, and all true Chriſtians, to whome no ſuch adoration is due: But onely to God. Which if it had not bene his expreſſe meaning, he ſhould haue induced Iohn into an errour, and cauſed him to thinke that God onely is to be adored, which is an error by your doctrine, if Saincts, Angels, Images, reliques, &c, may be adored with religious adoration. And if there were cauſes, knowen to you, why the Angel might refuſe that which Iohn did lawfully vnto him, why doeth he not rather expreſſe thoſe cauſes, then theſe which you holde to be no cauſes. If you know not thoſe cauſes, why doe you dreame of that you know not, and denie thoſe to be cauſes which the Angel doeth expreſſe? Namely, becauſe he is a ſeruant, not the Lord, a creature, not God to whome onely all Religious ſeruice is to be giuen.

But you coniecture there were cauſes why the Angel might refuſe, that Iohn might lawfully giue to him, as Peter did refuſe the honour giuen him by Cornelius according to S. Chryſoſtomes opinion. But you do without ſhame ſlander S. Chryſoſtome: for there is no word to proue that Cornelius did lawfully offer to adore Peter, nor that Peter might lawfully take ſuch kinde of adoration, as I haue ſhewed, Acts 10. Sect. 7. For adoring of the Angel of Philadelphia, ſee the place Chap. 3. Sect. 6. Where Chriſt himſelf & not this Angel, foreſheweth that adoration.

To conclude, Are thas ſaith, Worſhip not me (ſaith the Angel) as foreſhewing things to come: for this vtterance of prophecie is not mine, &c. By which you ſee that he meaneth, that Iohn worſhipped him as an Angel, which had foreſhewed theſe things, not as God, nor ſuppoſing that he was Chriſt. Ambroſius Ambertus ſaith in the perſon of the Angel: Take heede that thou goe not about to yeelde vnto a creature, the honour which is proper to God onely: but rather conſider and giue thankes, becauſe he whom thou goeſt about to adore, is in nothing thy ſuperior, is in nothing now founde more excellent then thou: becauſe we are fellow ſeruants of one Lord, and fellow citizens of one citie, although according to the diſpenſation of the myſterie, he ſeemeth now to be preferred before thee. And herof certeinly thankes are to be giuen to the redeemer of vs all, becauſe that nature, which before did worſhip Angels, and was not forbidden: now by his comming, is both forbidden to adore them, and alſo is iudged in nothing inferior to them. And leſt we ſhould thinke that this dignitie is proper only to Iohn, when the Angel had ſaid vnto him: See thou doe it not, I am thy fellow ſeruant, immediatly he added and ſaide: and of thy brethren, hauing the teſtimonie of Ieſus.

CHAP. XX.

An Angel caſteth the dragon (or diuel) bound, into the depth for a thouſand yeres, in which the ſoules of Martyrs in the firſt reſurrection ſhal reigne with Chriſt. 7 After which yeres, Satan being let looſe, ſhal raiſe Gog and Magog, an innumerable armie, againſt the beloued citie: 9 but a fire from heauen ſhal deſtroy them. 12 Then bookes are opened, and he that ſitteth vpon the throne, iudgeth al the dead according to their workes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XX.

Rhem. 1. 2. Bound him.) Chriſt by his Paſſion hath abridged the power of the Deuil for a thouſande yeeres, that is, the whole time of the newe Teſtament, vntil Antichriſts time, when he ſhalbe looſed againe, that is, he permitted to deceiue the worlde, but for a ſhort time only, to wit three yeeres and a halfe, Fulke. 1. If a thouſand yeeres ſignifie no certeine nomber of yeers, but the whole time of the new teſtament, neither doe the 42 moneths of Antichriſtes raigne, ſignifie a certaine nomber of three yeeres and an halfe, but rather the whole time of his raigne, which is but ſhort in compariſon to the æternall raigne of Chriſt. The time of Antichriſts raygne.

Rhem. 2. 4. I ſawe ſeates.) S. Auguſtine (li. 20. de Ciuit. Dei. c. 9.) taketh this to be ſpoken, not of the laſt iudgement, but of the Sees or Conſiſtories of Biſhops & Prelates, and of the Prelates them ſelues by whom the Church is now gouerned. As the iudgement here giuen, can be taken no otherwiſe better, then of that which was ſaid by our Sauiour Mat. 18. Whatſoeuer you binde in earth, ſhall be bound in heauen. and therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, What haue I to doe to iudge of them that are without? Biſhops conſiſtories & iudiciall power. 1. Cor. 5.

Fulke. 2. S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh not of Popiſh Sees and Conſiſtories, in which the Prelates of the Antichriſtian church take there eaſe in the one, and ſerue their couetouſneſſe or exerciſe their cruelkie in the other: but he ſayth, they are to be vnderſtoode of ſedes præpoſitorum, the Seates of the ouerſeers or gouernours of the Church, and of the gouernours themſelues, which execute iudgement by preaching the worde of God, and exerciſing chriſtian diſcipline.

Rhem.3. 4. And the ſoules.) He meaneth (ſaith S. Auguſtine in the place alleaged) the ſoules of Martyrs, that they ſhall in the meane time, during theſe thouſand yeeres, which is the time of the Church militant, be in heauen without their bodies, and reigne with Chriſt. for, the ſoules (ſaith he) of the godly departed, are not ſeparated from the Church, which is euen nowe the kingdome of Chriſt. for els there ſhoulde be kept no memorie of them at the altar of God in the communicating of the body of Chriſt: neither ſhould it auaile to haſten to Baptiſme in the perils of death, for feare of ending our life without it: nor to haſten to be reconciled, if wee fortune for penance or of il conſcience to bee ſeparated from the ſame body. And why are all theſe things done, but for that the faithful departed alſo be members of the Church? And though for an example the Martyrs be onely named here, yet it is meant of others alſo that die in the ſtate of grace.

During a thouſand yeres (that is the time of this militant church) ſaincts reigne with Chriſt in ſoule only.

Fulke.3. Ergo the reſt of the ſoules frye not in purgatorye, while the martyrs raigne in heauen with Chriſt. For although (ſayth S. Auguſtine) they are not yet with there bodyes, yet their ſoules do euen nowe reigne with him, while theſe thouſand yeres doe runne, wherefore it is readde elſe where in the ſame booke. Bleſſed are the dead, which die in the Lorde, from hence forth nowe, euen ſo ſayth the ſpirit, that they may reſt from their labours: for their workes followe them. So the church reigneth, now, firſt with Chriſt in the liuing and in the dead. For therfore as the apoſtle ſaith Chriſt dyed that he might haue dominion ouer the quicke and the dead. But he maketh mention of martyrs ſoules only, for that they as chiefe doe raigne being dead, which haue fought for the truth to the death: But of a part we vnderſtand the whole, euen the reſt that are dead which pertaine to the Church, which is the kingdome of God.

Purgatory.!

Rhem. 5. The reſt liued not.) The reſt which are not of the happie number aforeſaide, but liued and died in ſinne, reigne not with Chriſt in their ſoules during this time of the new Teſtament, but are dead in ſoule ſpiritually, and in body naturally, till the day of iudgement. S. Auguſt. Ibidem.

The reſt are dead and damned in ſoule, during the ſame time.

Rhem.4. 5. This is the firſt reſurrection.) As there be two regenerations, one by faith, which is now in Baptiſme: and another according to the fleſh, when as the latter day the body ſhalbe made immortall and incorruptible: ſo there are two reſurrections, the one nowe of the ſoules to ſaluation when they die in grace, which is called the firſt, the other of the bodies at the latter day S. Auguſt. li. 20 de Ciuit. c. 6.

The firſt reſurrection, of the ſoule only.

Fulke.4. Regeneration in the elect, is ſealed to them by baptiſme. But ſeeing baptiſme may be giuen out of the church, which ſhall afterward be effectuall in the church, when they that were baptiſed by heretikes, come to the catholike church, it is manifeſt that regeneration is not made in baptiſme ex opere operato of the worke worke. For they may haue the right ſeale of regeneration, which yet haue not the right faith & ſpirit of God, whereby they ſhould be regenerated.

Opus operatum The worke wrought.

Rhem.5. 6. They ſhal be Prieſts.) It is not ſpoken (ſaith S. Auguſtine li. 20 de Ciuit. c. 10) of Biſhops & Prieſts only, which are properly now in the Church called Prieſts: but as we call al Chriſtians, for the myſtical Chriſme or ointment, ſo al, Prieſts, becauſe they are the members of one Prieſt, of whom the Apoſtle Peter ſaith, A holy people, a kingly Prieſthod. Which words be notable for their learning that thinke there be none properly called Prieſts now in the new Teſtament, no otherwiſe then al Chriſtian men and women, and a confuſion to them that therfore haue turned the name Prieſts into Miniſters.

Prieſts ſome properly ſo called, ſome vnproperly. 1. Pet. 2.

Fulke.5. Becauſe the common people in S. Auguſtines time, did commonly & ſpecially call them in Latine Sacerdotes, which were biſhops & elders, as the ſcripture nameth them: he giueth warning that the word Sacerdotes in this place, doth not ſignific thoſe ſpeciall officers of the church, but all true Chriſtians, which are all Sacerdotes, that is, Sacrificers, becauſe they are members of that one high Sacrificer, Chriſt. But you thinke his words notable, becauſe he ſaith, that biſhops & elders are now properly called Sacerdotes, where he meaneth not, that this terme is properly apperteining to them, but that they were now, that is in his time, ſo called peculiarly, wheras the name is generall to all Chriſtians. For he meaneth not that biſhops and elders be called Sacerdotes, that is, ſacrificers properly, and all other Chriſtians vnproperly: but the aduerbe properly is oppoſite to generall, and ſignifieth no more then ſpecially or peculiarly. Therfore this place is rather a reprouing then allowing of them that call the miniſters of the Church properly or peculiarly by the name of Sacerdotes, which is common to all Chriſtians, men and women. Neither is it any confuſion to them which refuſe not the name of prieſt, when it ſignifieth no more then the Greeke word importeth, which the Holy ghoſt vſeth, & from whence it is deriued: but only when by peruerſe vſage of our Engliſh ſpeech, it is taken to ſignifie a ſacrifieer, which indeed it doth not ſignifie. As for the name Miniſters, being vſed in ſcripture, no man ought to refuſe, but rather the name of Sacerdotes, which the ſcripture of the New teſtament, neuer vſeth for a biſhop, elder, or prieſt of the New teſtament.

The name of prieſts.

Rhem.6. 7 Satan ſhal be looſed.) In the whole 8. chapter of the ſayd 20. booke de ciuitate Dei, in S. Auguſtine, is a notable commentarie of theſe wordes. Where firſt he declareth, that neither this binding nor looſing of Satan is in reſpect of ſeducing or not ſeducing the Church of God: prouing that whether he be bound or looſe, he can neuer ſeduce the ſame. The ſame (ſaith he) ſhal be the ſtate of the Church at that time when the Diuel is to be looſed, euen as ſince it was inſtituted. the ſame hath it bene and ſhalbe at al time in her children that ſucceed each other by birth and death. And a litle after. This I thought was therefore to be mentioned, leſt any man ſhould thinke, that during the litle time wherein the Diuel ſhal be looſed, the Church ſhal not be vpon the earth, he either not finding it here when he ſhal be let looſe, or conſuming it when he ſhal by al meanes perſecute the ſame. Secondly he declareth, that the Diuel to be bound, is nothing els but not to be permitted by God to exerciſe al his force or fraud in tentations: as to be looſed, is to be ſuffered by God for a ſmal time, that is, for three yeres and a halfe, to practiſe and proue al his power & artes of tentations againſt the church and her children, and yet not to preuaile againſt them. Thirdly, this Doctor ſheweth by what great mercy our Lord hath tied Satan and abridged his power during the whole millenarie or thouſand yeres, which is al the time of the new Teſtament vntil then: and with what wiſedom he permitteth him to breake looſe that litle time of three yeres and ſix moneths, toward the latter day, which ſhal be the reigne of Antichriſt. Laſtly, he ſheweth what kind of men ſhal be moſt ſubiect to the Diuels ſeduction, (euen ſuch as now by tentation of Heretikes goe out of the Church) and who ſhal auoid it.

The binding and looſing of Satan explicated by S. Auguſtine.

The ſhort reigne of Antichriſt.

By all which we may confute diuers falſe expoſitions of olde and late Heretikes. firſt, the auncient ſect of the Millenaries, that grounded vpon theſe thouſand yeres meaned by the Prophet, this hereſie, that there ſhould be ſo many yeres after the reſurrection of our bodies, in which we ſhould reigne with Chriſt in this world, in our bodies, in all delites and and pleaſures corporal, of meates, drinkes, and ſuch like, which they called the firſt reſurrection. of which hereſie Cerinthus was the author. Epiph. hær. 77 in fine. Hiero. Comment. in c. 19 Mat. Auguſt. hær. 8 ad Quodvultdeum. Euſebius alſo (li. 3 hiſtoriæ c. 33) ſheweth that ſome principal men were in part (though after a more honeſt maner concerning thoſe corporal delicacies) of the ſame opinion, by miſconſtruction of theſe wordes of S. Iohn. Whereby we learne and al the world may perceiue, the holy Scriptures to be hard, when ſo great clerkes did erre, and that there is no ſecuritie but in that ſenſe which the Church alloweth of. The Scriptures hard.

The late Heretikes alſo by the ſaid S. Auguſtines words are fully refuted, affirming not only that the Church may be ſeduced in that great perſecution of the Diuels looſing, but that it hath been ſeduced euen a great peece of this time when the Diuel is bound: holding that the very true Church may erre or fall from truth to errour and idolatrie, yea (which is more blaſphemie) that the cheefe gouernour of the Church is Antichriſt him ſelf, and the very Church vnder him, the whoore of Babylon: and that this Antichriſt, (which the Scriptures in ſo many places, and here plainely by S. Auguſtines expoſition, teſtifie, ſhal reigne but a ſmall time, & that toward the laſt iudgement,) hath been reuealed long ſithence, to be the Pope himſelf, Chriſts owne Vicar, and that he hath perſecuted the Saincts of their ſect for theſe thouſand yeres at the leaſt. Which is no more but to make the Diuel to be looſe, and Antichriſt to reigne the whole thouſand yeres. or the moſt part thereof, that is, almoſt the whole time of the Churches ſtate in the new Teſtament (which is againſt this and other Scriptures euidently, appointing that, to be the time of the Diuels binding:) Yea it is to make Antichriſt and the Diuel weaker toward the day of iudgement then before, and the truth better to be knowen, and the faith more common, the neerer we come to the ſame iudgement: which is expreſly Mat 24. Lu. 18, 8. againſt the Goſpel and this prophecie of S. Iohn. By S. Auguſtines foreſayd explication, is euidently deduced againſt the Proteſtants that the church cannot erre, and that the Pope can not poſſibly be Antichriſt. An inuincible demonſtration

We ſee that the ſectes of Luther, Caluin, and other, be more ſpred through the world then they were euer before, and conſequently the Pope & his religion leſſened, & his power of puniſhing (or, as they call it) perſecuting the ſaid Sectaries, through the multitude of his aduerſaries, diminiſhed. How then is the Pope Antichriſt, whoſe force ſhal be greater at the later end of the world, then before? or how can it be otherwiſe, but theſe Sect-Maiſters ſhould be Antichriſts neere precurſors, that make Chriſts cheefe Miniſters and the Churches cheefe gouernours, that haue been theſe thouſand yeres and more, to be Antichriſts: and themſelues and their ſectes to be true, that come ſo neere the time of the Diuels looſing and ſeduction and of the perſonal reigne of Antichriſt?

Fulke. 6. S. Auguſtine ſayth, which you do fraudulently omit, to haue a ſimple collour of his authoritie againſt vs, If this be to the diuel, to be bound & ſhut vp, not to be able to ſeduce the church, then ſhal this be his looſing, that he may be able. God forbid. For the Church ſhal neuer be ſeduced by him, being predeſtinated & elected, before the conſtitution of the world of which it is ſaid. The Lord knoweth who are his. And yet the Church ſhalbe heare euen in that time in which the diuel is to be looſed. ſince the time it was inſtituted, it hath bene heare & ſhalbe at al times in her children or members which by birth ſucceed the that die By this it is manifeſt, that S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh not of the viſible eſtate of the church, in which are many hypocrites, but of the congregation of the elect, that ſhall neuer faile, while the world ſtandeth. Now let vs ſee, what you gather out of him. Firſt, againſt the olde heretikes the Chiliaſtes, In which error certaine great clearkes were intangled: where vpon you inferre, that the ſcriptures are hard, and that there is no ſecuritie, but in that ſenſe which the Church holdeth. Concerning the hardnes of the ſcripture, it is a ſory concluſion: becauſe one prophecie of things to come is hard, therefore the whole ſcriptures generally are hard. But although we graunt vnto you that many things are hard in the ſcripture, yet it will not follow, that all things are hard there in. S. Auguſtine doth plainely teach you. De doct. chriſt. lib. 2. c. 6. That the holy ghoſt hath ſo magnifically tempered the ſcriptures, that by plaine and eaſie places he might prouide againſt famine, and by hard places he might wipe away loathſomnes, that commonly ariſeth of plenty and abundance eaſilie gotten. And whence the ſecuritie of vnderſtanding thoſe difficulties is to be obteined, he theweth, when he ſaith, that nothing almoſt is with any great ſtudie gained out of thoſe obſcurities, which is not found elſwhere to be vttered in the ſcriptures moſt plainely. Meaning that all things neceſſary to ſaluation, are moſt plainely deliuered in the holy ſcriptures, though there be ſome things, perteining either to the times that are paſt, or to the time to come, which are not neceſſary for vs to know, that are difficult or hard to be vnderſtood. There is therfore vndoubted ſecurity, in the plain text of the ſcripture, though they that boaſt themſelues to be the church, do hold the contrary. Therfore the ſenſe which the church holdeth, muſt be grounded vpon the ſcriptures, if it bee true, if it be not grounded vpon the ſcripture, there is no ſecuritie in holding it. The difficultie of the Scriptures. Interpretation of the church.

And ſeeing the church is oftentimes as vncertaine as the queſtion to be decided by the auctoritie thereof, what ſecuritie can there be in the ſenſe, which the church holdeth, before it be certaine, which is the church? And if there be ſo eaſie a rule for ſecuritie of truth in the ſenſe, which the church holdeth, it is meruaile that it was vnknowen to Papias, Irenæus, & ſo many of the ancient fathers of the primitiue church, which erred in this point: Of the kingdom of Chriſt to continue on the earth for a thouſand yeeres: which S. Auguſtine iudgeth to comprehend all the time of the church vpon earth, ſince the death of Chriſt to the end. Although it may well be taken for 1000. yeres after Chriſt, during which time, the deuil had no ſuch power to obſcure the grace of Chriſtes redemption, as he hath obteined ſince by the Popes doctrine of merites, ſatiſfaction and iuſtification by workes. And as in Pope Ioane was a liuely image of the whoore of Babylon, ſo of the looſing of Sathan in pope Syluester 2. Who being a coniurer & ſorcerer, by the deuils meanes was made Pope, as it is famous, euē in the popiſh ſtories, a nomber alſo of whoſe Necromanticall ſcholers, as (Benno the cardinal, who liued not long after him, affirmeth) by ỹ deuils meanes, obteined the ſeat of Antichriſt. But to returne to your obſeruations: you ſay, The late heretikes are by the ſaid words fully refuted, not only affirming that the church may be ſeduced, but alſo holding that the very true church may erre, and fall from truth to error and idolatrie. What licentiouſnes of lying and ſlandering is this, that you vſurpe ſo commonly? which of vs euer ſaid? that any one of Gods elect might fall from Chriſt to idolatrie finally? much leſſe the whole church of the elect and predeſtinate, of which S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh. But this we ſay with S. Auguſtine, that They which being ouercome, doe follow the deuil, perteined not to the predeſtinated nomber of the ſonnes of God. And that, It is to be confeſſed, that when iniquitie abounded, the charitie of many waxeth cold: and that through the vnaccuſtomed and moſt grieuous perſecutions and deceipts of the deuil, when he is looſed, they which are not written in the booke of life, are many that ſhould yeeld. We ſay not there- In pope Syluester a liuely image of the looſing of Satan.

fore, that the whole church or any true member thereof ſhould be ſeduced vnto deſtruction, but that many of the viſible church, whoſe names are not written in the booke of life, haue bene ſeduced by Antichriſts perſecutions & deceits, ſpecially after Sathan was let looſe. We ſay alſo that the Pope which is the diuels vicar, and not Chriſtes, is Antichriſt, which hath no lawfull gouernement of the Church, but vſurpeth tyranny againſt the true church of the elect. And that he with his clergie which ſeduce the worlde, with his blaſphemous doctrine are the whore of Babylon, and not the Church of Chriſt. We ſay further, that the kingdome of Antichriſt, is but a ſhort time, in compariſon of the æternall kingdome of Chriſt, yet hath it continued many hundred yeeres, though not alwayes in like pryde and tyrannie. But that he hath perſecuted the ſaincts, for a thouſand yeeres at the leaſt, we ſay not. For after hee was firſt reuealed in Pope Boniface the third, he did fortifie the errors of purgatorie and inuocation of ſaincts, the vſe of images, and ſuch like, which were ſowed in the Church before him and added many other errors vnto them. Seducing, firſt by hypocriſie and counterfeiting of faſting and continencie, forbidding meates and mariage. Hauing a ſhew of Chriſtian ſimplicitie, expreſſed in the viſion of the beaſt with two hornes like the lambe, yet ſpeaking like the dragon, and procuring the full inſtauration of the decayed Romaine Empire, (which is the beaſt with ſeuen heads and ten hornes,) in the See of Rome. Which once obteined, he wallowed in all filthie pleaſures of the fleſh, like an harlot, poyſoning, and alluring the Kings of the earth to commit fornication with him, and hauing bewitched the earthly princes, to be come obedient vnto him, then at length Sathan was looſed. And the true church, which deteſting thoſe abhominations, and not able any longer to abide the corruptions in doctrine and maners of his wicked retinue, departed out of Babylon, was moſt cruelly perſecuted, in thoſe whome they called Abrigenſes, Waldenſes, pauperes de Lugduno, Picardi &c. and that more cruelly, then euer the heathen Emperours perſecuted the Chriſtians before Conſtantinus time. For in thoſe heathiniſh perſecutions for the moſt part, the Chriſtians were accuſed and condemned in ſome forme of Law, but in theſe cruelties, bloodie warres were held, and cruel battailes fought againſt them to deſtroy them vtterly, if it had bene poſſible.

After which moſt cruell warres, when they were often driuen into mountaines and deſert places of the Alpes, Appeninne, Hercinia ſilua and other corners of the world, or elſe diſperſed and kept cloſe in all regions of Europe, the bloodie inquiſition was ſet vp againſt them, which alſo hath conſumed many thouſandes of them. Yet was it neuer able ſo to ouercome them, but that not only diſperſed members, but euen whole Churches of them continued in the deſert corners, vntil it pleaſed God in this laſt time, to haue his goſpel openly preached, and his worde to make warre againſt Antichriſt, and to haue the victorie as in the chap. 19. ver. 11. to the end of the chapiter. Which prophecie is now in fulfilling, and ſhalbe accompliſhed, let Antichriſt and all that take his part, rage neuer ſo much againſt it. We doe not therefore aſſigne, the whole thouſand yeres, or the moſt part to Antichriſts raigne. For we hold that the chiefe tyrannie of Antichriſt (though he ſhewed himſelfe in clayme and vſurpation in part, and deceiued many before,) beganne at the ende of the thouſande yeeres, when Sathan was let looſe, after which time, the Popes crueltie was greateſt, when his hereſie by the Scholemen and the new ſects of fryers were moſt ſtoutly defended.

But that Antichriſt and the diuel ſhalbe weaker toward the day of iudgement, then they were before, and the trueth better be knowne, and the fayth more common among many, after Antichriſt is begun to be conſumed with the breath of our Lordes mouth, which is his holy worde: it agreeth not only with the prophecie of S. Paul, but it is moſt clerely deſcribed in the chapter 19. verſe 11. to the end. Yea through the whole chapter: which is a prophecie of the ioy of the Church, after the condemnation of Antichriſt and the whore of Babylon is knowne therein: and of the preparation of the church, which is the Bryde to the day of her mariage: of the victorie of the woorde of God againſt Antichriſt: of the vayne attemptes of Antichriſt, and the kings of the earth to reſiſt the word of God and the kingdome of Chriſt. Againſt which there is nothing contrary in the goſpell or in this prophecie of S. Iohn. For though fayth ſhalbe harde to be founde at the comming of our ſauiour Chriſt, and in few, in compariſon of the multitude of the vnbeleeuers, both open enemies and counterfeet Chriſtians yet fayth ſhall be found in the elect, whome hee ſhall finde at his comming, as it is manifeſt 1. Theſſ. 4. 17. though they be not ſo many in nomber as haue bene in other ages, that were before Antichriſt, nor ſo fewe, as were during the time of his greateſt tyrannie and perſecution. And ſeeing you ſee and confeſſe, that the Pope and his religion is leſſened, and his power of crueltie dimininiſhed, I woulde (if it be poſſible) that you might alſo ſee that the Pope is Antichriſt, who is nowe conſumed by the breath of the mouth of Chriſt, which is his holy worde: and with the two edged ſworde that proceedeth out of the mouth of him, that ſitteth on the white horſe, whoſe name is the worde of God, and is rightly called King of Kings and Lorde of Lords. Againſt whome it is folly to ſtriue, for all his enemies muſt be made his footeſtoole. And by him Antichriſt is leſſened, and his crueltie diminiſhed, ſo that his force ſhall not be greater but dayly leſſer, vntill hee be vtterly deſtroyed & throwen into hell fire with the diuell and his angels according to this prophecie. For it is not the impudent clayme that hee maketh to bee Chriſtes chiefe miniſter, and head of his Chrurch, being the king of pryde and the enemie of Chriſts church, that can any longer hide his wickednеſſe, which is layed ſo open by the preaching of the goſpel, that all the elect of God may eaſilie ſee it: though ſuch as the God of this world hath blinded, will not open their eyes, but obſtinately refuſe the light that is offred to their owne deſtruction.

Rhem. 7. 8. The campe of the Saincts.) S. Auguſtine in the ſaid 20 booke de Ciuit. Dei cap. 11. It is not ſaith he, to be taken that the perſecutors ſhal gather to any place, as though the campe of the ſaincts or the beloued citie ſhould be but in one place, which in deede are no other thing but the Church of Chriſt ſpred through the whole world. And therefore whereſoeuer the Church ſhal then be (which ſhalbe in al Nations euen then, for ſo much is inſinuated by this latitude of the earth here ſpecified) there ſhall the tents of ſaincts be, and the beloued citie of God, and there ſhall ſhee be beſieged by all her enemies, which ſhall be in euery countrie where ſhee is, in moſt cruel and forcible ſort. So writeth this profound holy Doctor Wherby wee ſee, that, as nowe the particular Churches of England, Scotland, Flanders, and ſuch like, be perſecuted by their enemies in thoſe countries, ſo in the time of Antichriſt the

The campe of Saincts is the Catho. Church through the world. As now Heretikes in particular countries, ſo Antichriſt ſhall perſecute the Churches of all nations, the churches of all nations, as of Italie, Spaine, France, and all other which now be quiet, ſhall be aſſaulted as now the foreſayd are, and much more, for that the generall perſecution of the whole, ſhal be greater then the particular perſecution of any churches in the world.

Fulke. 7. That which you falſly ſay to be perſecution in the church of England, Scotland, Flanders, &c. Is in trueth the leſſening and diminiſhing of Antichriſt and his religion, which daily proceedeth euen in Italy, Spaine, France, and whereſoeuer he maketh moſt cruel warres againſt the word of God. And that which you ſay ſhall be, that the Church of all nations is to be aſſaulted moſt grieuouſly, hath already bene performed by Antichriſt the Pope. Although the battel here ſpoké of is a more general conſent of all the enemies of the church, inward and outward, ſecret and open, to make aſſault againſt it, though not in one place nor time, nor after one maner. But the vniuerſall hatred of all the reprobate, is figured vnder the names of Gog and Magog, in which the Papiſts and Mahometiſts are the chiefe, though enemies one to the other. Yet agreeing as the Pharizes and Sadduces in hatred of Chriſt, ſo theſe in perſecuting his Church. By this viſion therfore, the church is comforted, that as ſhe is inſtructed in the former viſions, that neither the heathen perſecutors without the Church, nor Antichriſt ſitting in the middeſt of the temple of God, ſhould preuaile to deſtroy her, no more ſhould all the enemies of the Church, conſiſting of hypocrites and infidels, which ſhould be the greateſt nomber toward the end of the world, though they ioyned in one againſt her, be able to ouerthrow her, but in fighting agaynſt her, they ſhould gaine their owne vndoubted deſtruction.

Rhem. 9 There came downe a fire.) It is not meant of the fire of Hel (ſaith S. Auguſtine lib. c. 12.) into which the wicked ſhall be caſt after the reſurrection of their bodies, but of an extraordinarie helpe that God will ſend from heauen, to giue ſuccourſe to the Saincts of the Church that then ſhal fight againſt the wicked: or the very feruent & burning zeale of religion and Gods honor, which God wil kindle in the hartes of the faithful, to be conſtant againſt al the forces of that great perſecutor. What is meant by fire from heauen.

Rhem. 8. 12 An other booke.) This is the booke of Gods knowledge or predeſtination, wherin that which before was hid to the world, ſhall be opened, and wherein the true record of euery mans workes ſhal be conteined, and they haue their iudgement diuerſly according to their workes, and not according to faith onely, or lacke of faith onely. for all infidels (as Turkes, obſtinate Iewes, and Heretikes) ſhal neuer come to that examination, being otherwiſe condemned. The booke of euery mans works, opened in the day of iudgement.

Fulke. 8. Men ſhalbe iudged according to their works which are the fruits of faith or infidelity. But in the booke of life is not conteined the record of euery mans works, but the names of the elect only: for which record there are other books opened before. Where you ſay infidels are otherwiſe condemned then for lacke of faith only, it is true, and yet if they had that faith only, by which God iuſtifieth the vngodly, they ſhould not be infidels, but faithfull and fruitfull in good works, and not condemned, but glorified with the reſt of the elect.

THE 7 AND LAST VISION

9 And there came one of the ſeuen Angels that had the vials ful of the ſeuen laſt plagues, and ſpake with me, ſaying: Come, and I wil ſhew thee the bride,the wife of the Lambe.

10 And he tooke me vp in ſpirit vnto a mountaine great and high: and he ſhewed me the holy city Hieruſalem deſcending out of heauen from God, ‡ See S. Hierom ep. 17. touching this deſcription of the heauenly Hieruſalem, which is the Church triumphāt, teaching that theſe things muſt be taken ſpiritually, not carnally.

9 And there came vnto me one of the ſeuen Angels, which had the ſeuen vials full of the ſeuen laſt plagues, and talked with me, ſaying, Come hither,I will ſhew thee the bride,the lambes wife.

10 And he caried me away in the ſpirit to a great and high mountaine,and he ſhewed me the great citie holy Hieruſalem, deſcending out of heauen from God,

11 Hauing the glory of God: and her ſhining was like vnto a ſtone moſt precious, euen like a Iaſper,cleere as Chriſtall:

12 And had a wall great and high, and had twelue gates,and at the gates twelue Angels,& names writtē, which are the names of the twelue tribes of Iſrael.

13 On the Eaſt ſide three gates, and on the North ſide three gates, and towards the South three gates,and from the Weſt three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelue foundations, and in them the twelue names of the lambs twelue Apoſtles.

15 And he that talked with me,had a golden reed to meaſure the citie withall, and the gates thereof,and the wall thereof.

21 The grace of our Lord IESVS Chriſt be with you al. Amen.

21 The grace of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt bee with you all, Amen.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XXII.

Rhem.1. 2. The tree of life.) Chriſt is our tree of life: in the Church, by the B. Sacrament: and in heauen, by his viſible preſence and influence of life euerlaſting both to our bodies and ſoules: of whom Salomon ſaith, The tree of life to al that apprehende him. Prou.5.

Fulke.1. Chriſt is our tree of life, not only by the Sacrament of his ſupper (for then they only ſhould be partakers of life in him which are partakers of the Sacrament) but by faith, and participation of his ſpirit, which laſt is common to all his elect, euen infants, which through infirmitie of their age, haue not faith actually.

Rhem. 2. 8 To adore before.) You ſee it is al one to adore before the feete of the angel, and to adore the Angel: though, to adore him, be is not expreſſed as in the 19 chap. See the annotation there v.10.

Fulke. 2. We ſee both are naught, when they are beſide the word of God, as to adore an idole, and to adore before an idole, yet are they not all one. For ſome outwardly boweth before an idole, that in his heart deteſteth it. But to adore before the arke, propitiatory, altar &c. which God by his word alloweth, is not to adore the arke, propitiatorie, altar, &c. But God in thoſe places, or in preſence of thoſe things. Adoration.

Rhem.3. 11 * Let him be iuſtified yet.) Man by Gods grace and doing good workes, doth increaſe his iuſtice.

Fulke. 3. Man doing good workes by Gods grace, doth increaſe that iuſtice which is a fruite of iuſtification by faith. But that iuſtice by which he is iuſt in the ſight of God, he increaſeth not by good workes: for it is perfect in Chriſt, in whom we are iuſt through faith. Iuſtification.

Rhem.4. 12 According to his workes.) Heauen is the reward, hire, and repaiments for good workes, in al the Scriptures yet the aduerſaries wil not ſee it.

Fulke.4. Heauen is the reward freely giuen to our good works by the grace of God, not of the merite of workes, nor as an hire to him that worketh, Rom.4.4. But as an inheritance to the children of God, Math.25.34. Rom.8. 17. And it is ſaid to be due, & rendred or repayed, not becauſe it is merited or deſerued by vs, but by Chriſt, and promiſed to vs. And this is the doctrine of all the Scriptures howſoeuer the enemies of Gods grace labour to obſcure it. Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXII.

Rhem. 11 He that hurteth.) It is not an exhortation, but a commination or threatning, that how far ſoeuer the wicked increaſe in naughtines, God hath prouided anſwerable puniſhment for them.

Rhem. 5. 18 If any man ſhal adde.) The author of the commentaries vpon this booke, bearing the name of S. Ambroſe, ſaith thus of this point. He maketh not this proteſtation againſt the expoſitours of his prophecie, but againſt Heretikes. for the expoſitour doth adde or diminiſh nothing, but openeth the obſcuritie of the narration, or ſheweth the moral or ſpiritual ſenſe. He curſeth therefore Heretikes that vſed to adde ſomewhat of their owne that was falſe, and to take away other things that were contrary to their hereſies. So ſaieth this auncient writer. And this was the propertie of them in al ages, and ſo is it of ours now, as we haue noted through the whole Bible, and as we haue in ſundry places ſet forth to the ſights of al indifferent readers in the new Teſtament. that al the world may ſee that the Apoſtles curſe is fallen vpon them, and may beware of them. The curſe againſt adding or diminiſhing is againſt Heretikes, not Catholike expoſitours.

Fulke.5. You ſhall neuer be able to prooue that we haue added any thing that is falſe, or taken away any thing which is true in the whole Bible. What you haue done euen in this tranſlation, and in your annotations, I leaue to the iudgement of the indifferent Readers that will peruſe this anſwer, as alſo the defence of our tranſlations againſt the ſlanderous booke of Gregorie Martine.

Rhem.6. 20 Come Lord Ieſus.) And now O Lord Chriſt, moſt iuſt and mercifull, we thy poore creatures that are ſo afflicted for confeſſion and defenſe of the holy, Catholike, and Apoſtolike truth, contained in this thy ſacred booke, and in the infallible doctrine of thy deere ſpouſe our mother the Church, we crie alſo vnto thy Maieſtie with tendernesſe of our hartes vnſpeakable, COME LORD IESVS QVICKLY, and iudge betwixt vs and our Aduerſaries, and in the meane time giue patience, comfort and conſtancie to al that ſuffer for thy name, and truſt in thee. O Lord God our onely helper and protector, tarie not long. AMEN. A briefe petition vnto IESVS Chriſt, to come quickly, as S. Iohn here ſpeaketh, and to iudge the cauſe of Catholikes and Proteſtants.

Fulke.6. The wordes of your prayer be good and godly, but that they proceed not from a faithfull heart, not onely your wilfull and obſtinate mainteining of errours, againſt the moſt cleare light of the truth, with your intollerable licentiouſneſſe of lying and ſlandering the Saincts of God, doe ſufficiently declare: but alſo your horrible practiſes of treaſon and murther, of our moſt gracious Soueraigne Lady, your naturall liege Queene, by your emiſſaries, Campion, Parſons, and other like trumpets of ſedition, and other miniſters of your wickednesſe, Throckmerton, Someruill, Parry, Sauage, Babington, &c. and the Spaniſh inuaſion by you procured and intended againſt your countrey, doth openly crie out againſt you, that you are men voyd of all feare of God, faith, good conſcience & religion, ſo that euery true Chriſtian man may ſay of you with the Prophet, Pſal.36. The wickednesſe of the vngodly hath ſayd in my heart, there is no feare of God before his eyes, &c. Therefore though you can ſpeake good words in hypocriſie, yet your heart knoweth, and your cauterized conſcience can not but beare witneſſe that you dare not abide the triall of Gods iudgement, howſoeuer (as all wicked offenders doe commonly) you doe preſumptuouſly appeale vnto it: I will ſay no more, but with the whole Church of GOD conclude: COME LORD IESVS. Amen.

God be prayſed.
